HANDBOUND AT THE

49

I

1955

A

TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

OF IRELAND.

N. B. This Volume, being complete in itself, is sold separately: But it is also intended to form a Third Volume to The Dictionary of England, recently published by the same Author, in two Volumes, Quarto.

A

TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

OF

IRELAND;

EXHIBITING

The Names of the several Cities, Towns, Parishes, and Villages, with the Barony, County, and Province, to which they respectively belong.—The Valuation and Present State of the Ecclesiastical Benefices.—The Distance and Bearing of every Place from the nearest Post-Office, and of the Post-Offices from the Metropolis.—Fairs.—Members of Parliament, and Corporations.—Charter Schools.—And Assizes.—To which is added, Miscellaneous Information respecting Monastic Foundations, and other matters of Local History. Collected from the most Authentic Documents, and arranged in Alphabetical Order.

BEING A CONTINUATION OF THE TOPOGRAPHY OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

By NICHOLAS CARLISLE,

FELLOW AND SECRETARY OF THE SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES OF LONDON.

49028
30/10/00

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR WILLIAM MILLER, ALBEMARLE STREET,

BY WILLIAM SAVAGE, BEDFORD BURY.

1810.

DA
979
C38

TO

ANTHONY CARLISLE, F. R. S.,

PROFESSOR OF ANATOMY IN THE ROYAL ACADEMY, AND SURGEON TO THE WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL,

THIS

TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

OF

IRELAND

IS DEDICATED, AS A TRIBUTE DUE TO EXTENSIVE KNOWLEDGE AND ACTIVE GOODNESS, BY HIS MOST AFFECTIONATE BROTHER,

AND FRIEND,

NICHOLAS CARLISLE.

APARTMENTS OF THE SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES, SOMERSET PLACE,
12th OF MAY, 1810.

PREFACE.

The present Work is executed upon the same Plan, as the Author's two former Volumes of The Topography of England. The favourable reception of which, by the Public, has excited his sincere gratitude. Whilst his experience in Research has greatly diminished the difficulty of his Undertaking.

The Kingdom of Great Britain having beeen recently united with Ireland a perfect uniformity with the preceding Volumes is not to be expected, particularly in that kind of information which incidentally arises from Returns ordained by Law, or directed by Government, or either House of Parliament. Of this kind are the Poor Returns of 1803, arising from the legal Provision for the Maintenance of the Poor : a Policy singular and peculiar to England, and not likely to be imitated elsewhere, as the most able opinions are not agreed whether the benefit is commensurate with the great expense and infinite trouble occasioned by the Poor's Rate ; which, however, has made the Boundaries of Parishes, and their relative value, better known in England than, perhaps, in any other Country.

Neither has any authentic Inquiry into the Population of Ireland hitherto been instituted, though a Bill to that effect was introduced into The House of Commons in February 1806 ; but which was silently abandoned by its Author.

In England also the Liber Regis, compiled chiefly from the Valor of King Henry the Eighth, furnished a mass of Ecclesiastical Information of which the Author fully availed himself. Mr. Seward, in the Appendix to his Topographia Hibernica No. VI, has given a Table of the First Fruits of the Ecclesiastical Benefices in Ireland, as taxed in the King's Books, which he states, to have been accurately copied from the Original Record in the Chief Remembrancer's Office, and was printed in a Tract, intituled, "Valor Beneficiorum Ecclesiasticorum in Hibernia," which has been used upon the present occasion.

In addition to this Valor, which appears to have been compiled between the 29° of Henry VIII (1538), and the 5° of Charles I (1630), authentic Ecclesiastical Information of great weight and value has recently been obtained by Government, so that the state of the Church of Ireland is better known, and consequently better illustrated than that of England in the former Volumes of this Work.

In the month of June 1805, The House of Commons ordered certain Returns to be made from the several Dioceses of Ireland, and these Returns were ordered to be printed in February 1806. They are signed by the Registers of the several Dioceses, and contain the names and number of parishes comprised in each UNION of PARISHES; the period of time when such parishes were united, and the Authority under which such Union was effected; the number of acres of Glebe which appertain to each parish; whether any Glebe House for the Residence of the Incumbent is erected thereon; and the distance at which United Parishes lie from each other, when such parishes are not contiguous; and whether any and what number of Churches, in which Divine Service is performed, are now severally thereon, or were at the time when such Parishes were united.

But the spirit of Inquiry, so successfully begun, did not rest here. In a dispatch from Earl SPENCER, dated Whitehall, the 18th of June 1806, to His Grace the Lord Lieutenant (then Duke of BEDFORD), we find His Lordship stating, that "Among all the important subjects which are involved in the Government of that "part of the United Kingdom over which Your Grace is appointed by His "Majesty to preside, there is none on which His Majesty's paternal care for the "welfare of His Subjects leads Him to look with more anxiety than the Present "State of the Established Church of Ireland, and the obvious necessity of "adopting, without delay, any proper measure for its Support, and for remedying "those Evils under which it at present unfortunately labours."

"In having recourse to Your Grace on this occasion", continues the Noble "Earl, "I have the greatest satisfaction in knowing that your Habits, Opinions, "and Disposition, are such as to inspire the fullest confidence of your cordial "concurrence in promoting these important Objects; and I flatter myself that "the mode of proceeding which, upon the most mature Consideration, it has "been thought advisable to pursue, will ensure to us the zealous Co-operation "of the very respectable Prelates who are now placed at the Head of the "Church of Ireland, at the same time that it affords the most unobjectionable "as well as effectual means of procuring the Information required.

"With these Views I have His Majesty's Commands to direct Your Grace to "write to The Lord Primate, and the three other Archbishops of Ireland, desir-"ing that they will, with as little delay as possible, procure in their respective "Provinces, and transmit to Your Grace, for His Majesty's Information, the most "accurate Accounts that can be furnished of the actual Situation of the Established "Church of Ireland, more especially on the following important Points:

"The present State of Residence of the Clergy in each Diocese respectively, "and the means which exist of enforcing it: the Obstacles which may be in the "way of it, by the want of Churches, of Glebe Houses, or otherwise; and the "best mode of applying such Funds as now are applicable, or may hereafter be "granted by Parliament for these Purposes:

"The number of Livings, in each Diocese, of a Value too small to afford to Re" sident Incumbents the means of comfortable subsistence:

"The Allowance now given to Curates in cases of allowed Non-residence of the " Incumbent, and the number of Curates who may be resident or non-resident " upon their Cures:

"The State of the Unions of parishes; the number and extent of each Union;
" the authority by which they were made; and the propriety of their being re" spectively continued or dissolved.—The Regulations which it may be proper to " establish by Law or otherwise on this subject, both to prevent any Union being " henceforth improperly made, and to preserve the Churches and Glebe Houses " from dilapidation, where there are more than one in the united parishes;—and,
" generally, all such other matters of information as may suggest themselves to " Your Grace, or as may occur to the Archbishops themselves, as likely to be use" ful towards enabling His Majesty to give effect to His benevolent and paternal " intentions for the protection and support of the Established Church of that " part of the United Kingdom."

In consequence of these instructions, the Lord Lieutenant addressed a Circular Letter, dated the 16th of July 1806, to the several Archbishops of Armagh, Dublin, Cashel, and Tuam, communicating to them the foregoing dispatch, and expressing his fullest reliance on their earnest assistance and zealous co-operation in forwarding the King's intentions; And, at the same time, subjoining a List of Queries [a] to be submitted to the several Bishops within each Province.

a As these Queries are so excellent, and exemplary, the author has been induced to subjoin them in the following note.

"QUERIES

To be addressed by the several ARCHBISHOPS of IRELAND, to the BISHOPS in their respective Provinces.

I.

1. What is the number, and what are the denominations of the Benefices in the Diocese of ————?

2. How many parishes are comprehended in each Benefice? and what are the denominations?

3. Are the parishes contiguous to, or how far distant from each other?

4. What is the estimated extent of such as are contiguous?

5. When were the parishes united into one Benefice respectively, and by what authority?

6. Should such Unions be continued or dissolved? or would any other distribution of the parishes, comprehended within any Union, be expedient?

7. Has the Incumbent cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice?

II.

1. How many Churches are in each Benefice? what is the present condition of them? and in which of the parishes do they stand?

2. State the names of the Incumbents of all the Benefices?

3. Where does each Incumbent reside?

Upon the Answers to these Questions, which were ordered to be printed by The House of Commons on the 29th of July 1807, and which contain many valuable remarks, THIS TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF IRELAND rests its principal claim to the attention of the Public. The enlightened Earl who first moved the inquiry, and the Reverend Prelates who so attentively promoted his intentions, have merited the warmest gratitude of their Country. It has long been the misfortune of Ireland to be little known: But from henceforth, let no one complain of the want of intelligence concerning The Established Church. The approbation of an humble individual may be of no moment, but the Author hesitates not to avow this to be, in his limited capacity, one of the most satisfactory and valuable Reports which has ever been laid before THE UNITED PARLIAMENT.

Of the publications which have preceded the present Work, in illustrating the Topography of Ireland, the first in order is, "THE POST-CHAISE COMPANION: OR, TRAVELLER'S DIRECTORY THROUGH IRELAND. Dublin 1786. 8vo." This Book was printed by Mr. Wilson, and usually goes under his name. At page 5, of the Introduction, this description of the roads of Ireland is stated to be upon a

4. What cause is there for the non-residence of such as do not reside?

5. By whom are the duties discharged?

6. Is there any Glebe House within the Benefice?

7. In what parish is the Glebe House situated?

8. What Glebe Lands belong to the Benefice?

9. Are they contiguous to, or, how far removed from each other?

10. How near are they to the Church; or, in cases where there is no church in repair, how near are they to the site of the old church?

III.

What Livings are in the different Dioceses of a value too small to afford to Resident Incumbents the means of comfort; and by what mode may the condition of each be most improved?

IV.

What is the allowance now given to Curates in case of permitted non-residence of the Incumbent; and the number of Curates, resident or non-resident, upon their Cures?

V.

1. What is the best mode of remedying the evil in each particular case of non-residence?

2. What are the powers which now exist, of enforcing residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the legislature to provide for that purpose?

VI.

What is the best mode of applying such funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or reparing of Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes or otherwise?

VII.

What regulations appear to be proper to be established by law or otherwise, to prevent Unions, Perpetual or Episcopal, from being henceforth improperly made; and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidation when there are more than one in the united parishes?

VIII.

What can be suggested in addition to the foregoing Queries, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church of Ireland?

plan similar to Mr. Patterson's useful Book of the English Roads; with this very material advantage, that descriptions of Towns are given, together with accounts of the most remarkable Buildings, Antiquities, modern Improvements, natural Productions, and many other particulars worthy the Traveller's attention. The actual Surveys by Messrs. Taylor and Skinner are also said to have been used, and many other well authenticated documents. Sir Richard Colte Hoare in his expressive language says, this "is the best Iter I ever saw." And it is worthy of remark, that the late Mr. Gough has incorporated almost the whole of this book in his edition of Camden's Britannia, 1789.

In the year 1789, was published "THE HIBERNIAN GAZETTEER; BEING A DESCRIPTION OF THE SEVERAL PROVINCES, COUNTIES, CITIES, POST AND FAIR TOWNS, ALPHABETICALLY ARRANGED; WITH A CONCISE HISTORICAL AND GEOGRAPHICAL ACCOUNT OF IRELAND. THE WHOLE COLLECTED FROM THE BEST AUTHORITIES AND MOST ACCURATE OBSERVATIONS. BY WILLIAM WENMAN SEWARD, ESQ. Dublin. 1789. 12mo." The Author in his Preface says, "the nature of the present Undertaking at once evinces its utility. It was intended to give a concise view of the State of this Kingdom, and its Antiquities, in a manner both pleasing and instructive." After a well turned compliment to the merit of the writings of the late Charles Smith, M. D., Mr. Seward concludes his Preface with an extract from some important queries, which Dr. Smith recommends to the curious, to enable them to make proper inquiries into the Natural and Civil State of their respective Neighbourhoods. In this publication, Mr. Seward has thrown into an Alphabetical form the Descriptions, contained in Wilson's Post-Chaise Companion, prefixing an Historical Introduction. The design being laudable, it appears to have met with suitable encouragement.

And, in the year 1797, we find the same Gentleman publishing under an improved form, "TOPOGRAPHIA HIBERNICA; or, THE TOPOGRAPHY OF IRELAND, ANCIENT, AND MODERN. GIVING A COMPLETE VIEW OF THE CIVIL AND ECCLESIASTICAL STATE OF THAT KINGDOM. Dublin, 1797, 4to." In this edition, Mr. Seward has availed himself of the labours of The Rev. Mr. Archdall, and more especially of The Rev. Dr. Beaufort, who, in 1792, published his "MEMOIR OF A MAP OF IRELAND;" which, under this modest title, contains a succinct account of the Civil and Ecclesiastical State of Ireland, and an Index of all the Places which appear on his Map.

The careful Research exemplified in the Construction and Explanation of this truly Original Map are generally known. But, it would be unpardonable in the Author, who has compared Dr. Beaufort with the more recent Ecclesiastical Authorities, not publicly to bear testimony of his Accuracy of Investigation, in collecting materials for a Book, which is an Ornament to Ireland.

In the present Work, the subjects are arranged in the same order as in the Topography of England; with such unavoidable omissions, as have been explained in the beginning of this Preface.

The Orthography of the names of parishes has been determined by a careful comparison of the Diocesan Returns, Dr. Beaufort's Memoir, and other Topographical Books.

As the Reader may require an explanation of that part of the Work which relates to the PROVINCES, it is proper to mention, that Ireland is divided, with respect to its Civil or Political distinctions into the Four Provinces of ULSTER, LEINSTER, CONNAUGHT, and MUNSTER; which are subdived into Thirty-two Counties, in the following manner.—

The Province of ULSTER comprises the nine Northern Counties, being those of Antrim, Armagh, Cavan, Donegal, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry, Monaghan, and Tyrone. Together with the great body of Water, LOUGH NEAGH, which, according to Dr. Beaufort, covers 58,200 acres.

The Province of LEINSTER comprises the twelve Eastern Counties, being Carlow, Dublin, Kildare, Kilkenny, King's County, Longford, Louth, Meath, Queen's County, West Meath, Wexford, and Wicklow.

The Province of CONNAUGHT comprises the five Western Counties, being Galway, Leitrim, Mayo, Roscommon, and Sligo.

The Province of MUNSTER comprises the six Southern Counties, being Clare, Cork, Kerry, Limerick, Tipperary, and Waterford.

With respect to its Church Establishment, Ireland is divided into the four Provinces of ARMAGH, DUBLIN, CASHEL, and TUAM. An Archbishop presides over each. These Provinces are subdivided into Thirty-two Dioceses, which are united or consolidated under eighteen Bishops, in the following order.—

The Archbishop of ARMAGH, who is LORD PRIMATE, and METROPOLITAN OF ALL IRELAND, presides over the eight Suffragan Bishops of Ardagh, Clogher, Derry, Down and Connor, Dromore, Kilmore, Meath, [b] and Raphoe, in the Northern Province.

The Archbishop of DUBLIN, who is LORD PRIMATE OF IRELAND, presides over the three Suffragan Bishops of Kildare, Leighlin and Ferns, and Ossory, in the Eastern Province.

The Archbishop of CASHEL, who is LORD PRIMATE OF MUNSTER, presides over the five Suffragan Bishops of Cloyne, Cork and Ross, Killaloe and Kilfenora, Limerick and Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Waterford and Lismore, in the Southern Province.

The Archbishop of TUAM, who is LORD PRIMATE OF CONNAUGHT, presides over the three Suffragan Bishops of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, Elphin, and Killala and Achonry in the Western Province.

[b] The Bishop of Meath has precedence of all Bishops, and next to him The Bishop of Kildare. The other Bishops take place according to the date of their Consecration.

The number of Deanries in this Kingdom is Thirty-three, and of Archdeaconries Thirty-four. But the Archdeacons, according to Dr. Beaufort, have not a Visitatorial jurisdiction; the Government of the Church of Ireland, which is in most things conformable to that of England, differing with respect to Visitations: For in Ireland, the Bishops hold a Visitation annually, and the Archbishop visits his Suffragans every third year.

When the PROVINCE, therefore, is mentioned, in Succession to the COUNTY, it is to be understood with reference to the Civil Jurisdiction. And, on the other hand, when the PROVINCE is noticed, in its order with the DIOCESE, it applies to the Established Church.

The Distances and Bearings of the several parishes are given from their nearest Post-Office towns, which are all set from the City of Dublin. The distances from thence are according to the Post-Office account. In all cases, where distance is expressed, the scale of Irish miles has been used, in conformity with the Road Books. And, in all the Cross roads (as observed in the Preface to the former Volumes), the direct distance has been measured on the Map from the nearest Post-Office town to the place in question, and to that distance, one seventh part more has been added; except in mountainous or marshy counties, when a greater proportion has occasionally been allowed. For the information of strangers, it may also be proper to remark, that eleven Irish Miles are equal to fourteen English Miles.

A considerable alteration having taken place in the state of the Representation of Ireland on the Union in 1801, the following Extract, with the hope of its being found useful, is copied from "AN ACT TO REGULATE THE MODE BY WHICH THE "LORDS SPIRITUAL AND TEMPORAL, AND THE COMMONS, TO SERVE IN THE PAR-"LIAMENT OF THE UNITED KINGDOM ON THE PART OF IRELAND, SHALL BE "SUMMONED AND RETURNED TO THE SAID PARLIAMENT.—WHEREAS it is "agreed by the Fourth Article of Union, That Four Lords Spiritual of Ireland, by "Rotation of Sessions, and Twenty-eight Lords Temporal of Ireland, elected for "Life by the Peers of Ireland, shall be the Number to sit and vote on the Part of "Ireland in the House of Lords of the Parliament of the United Kingdom; and "One Hundred Commoners (Two for each County of Ireland, Two for the City "of Dublin, Two for the City of Cork, One for The College of The Holy Trinity "of Dublin, and One for each of the Thirty-one most considerable Cities, Towns "and Boroughs) be the number to sit and vote on the Part of Ireland in the "House of Commons of the Parliament of the United Kingdom; be it enacted "by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the Advice and Consent "of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament "assembled, and by Authority of the same, That the said Four Lords Spiritual "shall be taken from among the Lords Spiritual of Ireland in the manner follow-"ing: that is to say, that one of the four Archbishops of Ireland, and three of " the eighteen Bishops of Ireland, shall sit in the House of Lords of the United " Parliament in each Session thereof, the said right of sitting being regulated as " between the said Archbishops respectively by a Rotation among the Arch- " iepiscopal Sees from Session to Session, and in like manner that of the " Bishops by a like Rotation among the Episcopal Sees: That the Primate " of All Ireland for the time being shall sit in the first Session of the Parliament " of the United Kingdom, the Archbishop of Dublin for the time being in the " second, the Archbishop of Cashel for the time being in the third, the Arch- " bishop of Tuam for the time being in the fourth, and so by Rotation of Sessions " for ever, such Rotation to proceed regularly and without interruption from " Session to Session, notwithstanding any Dissolution or Expiration of Parliament: " That three Suffragan Bishops shall in like manner sit according to Rotation of " their Sees, from Session to Session, in the following order; the Lord Bishop of " Meath, the Lord Bishop of Kildare, the Lord Bishop of Derry, in the First " Session of the Parliament of the United Kingdom: the Lord Bishop of Raphoe, " the Lord Bishop of Limerick, Ardfert, and Aghadoe, the Lord Bishop of Dro- " more, in the Second Session of the United Kingdom; the Lord Bishop of " Elphin, the Lord Bishop of Down and Connor, the Lord Bishop of Waterford " and Lismore, in the Third Session of the Parliament of the United Kingdom; " the Lord Bishop of Leighlin and Ferns, the Lord Bishop of Cloyne, the Lord " Bishop of Cork and Ross, in the Fourth Session of the Parliament of the United " Kingdom; the Lord Bishop of Killaloe and Kilfenora, the Lord Bishop of " Kilmore, the Lord Bishop of Clogher, in the Fifth Session of the Parliament of " the United Kingdom; the Lord Bishop of Ossory, the Lord Bishop of Killala " and Achonry, the Lord Bishop of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, in the Sixth " Session of the Parliament of the United Kingdom; the said Rotation to be " nevertheless subject to such variation therefrom from time to time as is herein- " after provided: That the said twenty-eight Lords Temporal shall be chosen by " all the Temporal Peers of Ireland in the manner herein-after provided; that " each of the said Lords Temporal so chosen shall be entitled to sit in the House " of Lords of the Parliament of the United Kingdom during his life; and in case " of his death, or forfeiture of any of the said Lords Temporal, the Temporal " Peers of Ireland shall, in the manner herein-after provided, choose another " Peer out of their own number to supply the place so vacant. And be it enacted, " That of the One Hundred Commoners to sit on the part of Ireland in the United " Parliament, Sixty-four shall be chosen for the Counties, and Thirty-six for the " following Cities and Boroughs, videlicet: For each County of Ireland two; for " the City of Dublin two; for the City of Cork two; for the College of The Holy " Trinity of Dublin one; for the City of Waterford one; for the City of Limerick " one; for the Borough of Belfast one; for the County and Town of Drogheda " one; for the County and Town of Carrickfergus one; for the Borough of

" Newry one; for the City of Kilkenny one; for the City of Londonderry one; " for the Town of Galway one; for the Borough of Clonmell one; for the " Town of Wexford one; for the Town of Youghall one; for the Town of " Bandon-Bridge one; for the Borough of Armagh one; for the Borough of " Dundalk one; for the Town of Kinsale one; for the Borough of Lisburne one; " for the Borough of Sligo one; for the Borough of Catherlough one; for the " Borough of Ennis one; for the Borough of Dungarvan one; for the Borough " of Downpatrick one; for the Borough of Colraine one; for the Town of Mal- " low one; for the Borough of Athlone one; for the Town of New Ross one; " for the Borough of Tralee one; for the City of Cashel one; for the Borough " of Dungannon one; for the Borough of Portarlington one; for the Borough of " Enniskillen one. And be it enacted, That in case of the summoning of a new " Parliament, or if the seat of any of the said Commoners shall become vacant " by death or otherwise, then the said Counties, Cities, or Boroughs, or any of " them, as the case may be, shall proceed to a new election; and that all the " other Towns, Cities, Corporations, or Boroughs, other than the aforesaid, shall " cease to elect Representatives to serve in Parliament; and no Meeting shall at " any time hereafter be summoned, called, convened, or held, for the purpose of " electing any person or persons to serve or act, or be considered, as Representa- " tive or Representatives of any other Place, Town, City, Corporation, or Borough, " other than the aforesaid, or as Representative or Representatives of the Free- " men, Freeholders, Householders, or Inhabitants thereof, either in the Parlia- " ment of the United Kingdom or elsewhere (unless it shall hereafter be other- " wise provided by the Parliament of the United Kingdom); and every person " summoning, calling, or holding any such Meeting or Assembly, or taking " any part in any such election or pretended election, shall, being thereof duly " convicted, incur and suffer the pains and penalties ordained and provided by " the Statute of Provision and Præmunire, made in the Sixteenth year of the reign " of Richard the Second."

The Information respecting the Free Schools of Royal Foundation, the Schools of Private Foundation, and the Protestant Charter Schools, is given from the Reports, presented to The House of Commons, by the Commissioners of the Board of Education in Ireland; and which were ordered to be printed, on the 14th of April 1809.

Other Miscellaneous Information, derived from the various books which have necessarily been consulted, if considerable, is faithfully distinguished by a Quotation, that all due credit may accrue to its proper Author.

A List of the most important Topographical Books, which have been consulted, is subjoined at the end of the Preface. Together with an Abstract of the Ecclesiastical Establishment, in 1807. And a Glossary, or Explanation of some of those Irish words which most frequently occur, in composition with the names of places.

The Author's public Acknowledgments are due to The Right Reverend William Bennet, D. D., Lord Bishop of Cloyne, for his Liberality and Condescension in revising part of the Manuscript of this Work,—

To Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq., who gave ample access to the Title Deeds and Plans of his extensive estates, and a free perusal of his private Journal composed during his Residence in Ireland,—

And to Joseph Thomas Finegan, Esq., of Bath, whose superior knowledge of the Irish Language enabled him to correct the present Glossary, and which he kindly performed.

ABBREVIATIONS.

Co. for County.
P. . . . Prebend.
R. . . . Rectory.
V. . . . Vicarage.

A LIST OF THE MOST IMPORTANT TOPOGRAPHICAL AND HISTORICAL BOOKS, WHICH HAVE BEEN CONSULTED.

A Bill, intituled, "An Act for the Union of Great Britain and Ireland." Ordered to be printed, 24th of June, 1800.

Alemand's Histoire Monastique d'Irlande. Paris. 1690. 12mo.

A Narrative of what passed at Killala, in 1798. Fifth Edit. Bath. 1809. 8vo.

Archdall's Monasticon Hibernicum. Dublin. 1786. 4to.

Barton's Natural History of Lough Neagh. Dublin. 1751. 4to.

Beaufort's Memoir of a Map of Ireland. London. 1792. 4to.

Boate's Ireland's Naturall History. London. 1652. 12mo.

Campbell's Philosophical Survey of the South of Ireland. Dublin. 1778. 8vo.

Cox's History of Ireland. 2 vols. London. 1689. Folio.

Cox's Letter to Thomas Prior, Esq., shewing, from experience, a sure method to establish the Linen Manufacture, and the beneficial effects it will immediately produce. Dublin. 1749. 8vo.

Davis's Discovery of the State of Ireland. London. 1613. 4to.

Ferrar's History of Limerick. Limerick. 1787. 8vo.

——————— Dublin. 8vo.

Giraldus's Topographia Hiberniæ, in Camden's Anglica, &c. Francf. 1603. Folio.

——————— with Scholies to the same, by John Hooker, in Holinshed. vol 2. London. 1587. Folio.

Gough's Camden's Britannia. 3 vols. London. 1789. Folio.

Grose's Antiquities of Ireland. 2 vols. London. 1791. 4to.

Hamilton's Letters concerning the Northern Coast of the County of Antrim. London. 1786. 8vo.

Harris's History and Antiquities of the City of Dublin. London. 1766. 8vo.

——————— Hibernica. 2 Parts. Dublin. 1770. 8vo.

Hiberniæ Delineatio quoàd hactenus licuit perfectissima, studio Gulielmi Petty, Eq^{ti}. aurati. 1683. Folio.

Hoare's Journal of a Tour in Ireland, A. D. 1806. London, 1807. 8vo.

Holmes's Sketches of some of the Southern Counties of Ireland. London. 1801. 8vo.

Howlett's Essay on the Population of Ireland. 1786.

KEATING's General History of Ireland. Translated from the Irish Language by Dermod O'Connor. London. 1723. Folio.

LAWRENCE's Interest of Ireland in its Trade and Wealth stated. In two Parts. Dublin. 1682. 12mo.

LEDWICH's Antiquities of Ireland. Second Edition. Dublin. 1803. 4to.

——— Statistical account of the Parish of Aghaboe. Dublin. 1796. 8vo.

LELAND's History of Ireland, 3 vols. London. 1773. 4to.

MALCOLM's Tracts of the Antiquities of Great Britain and Ireland. London. 1744. 8vo.

MISSON's Travels through England, Scotland, and Ireland. London. 1719. 8vo.

MOLINEUX's Natural History of Ireland. In three Parts. Dublin. 1755. 4to.

MOLLYNEUX's Case of Ireland being bound by Acts of Parliament in England, stated. Dublin. 1773. 8vo.

MONASTICON Hibernicum. London. 1722. 8vo.

NEWENHAM's View of the Natural, Political, and Commercial Circumstances of Ireland. London. 1809. 4to.

O'FLAHERTY's Ogygia, or, a Chronological Account of Irish events, edited by Hely. 2 vols. Dublin. 1793. 8vo.

O'HALLORAN's Introduction to the Study of the History and Antiquities of Ireland. London. 1772. 4to.

——— General History of Ireland, from the earliest accounts to the close of the Twelfth century. 2 vols. London. 1778. 4to.

PAPERS relating to the Established Church in Ireland. Ordered to be printed, on the 29th of July 1807. Folio.

PETTY's Political Survey of Ireland. 2d Edit. London. 1719. 8vo.

REPORTS, presented to The House of Commons, from the Commissioners of the Board of Education in Ireland. Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be printed, the 14th of April 1809. Folio.

RETURNS presented to the House of Commons, in pursuance of their Orders of the 5th of June 1805, from the several Dioceses in Ireland. Ordered to be printed 12th and 25th of February 1806. Folio.

RUTTY's Natural History of the County of Dublin. 2 vols. Dublin. 1772. 8vo.

SEWARD's Hibernian Gazetteer. Dublin. 1789. 12mo.

——— Topographia Hibernica. Dublin. 1797. 4to.

SMITH's Ancient and Present State of the County and City of Cork. 2 vols. Dublin. 1750. 8vo.

——— Ancient and Present State of the County of Kerry. Dublin. 8vo.

——— Ancient and Present State of the County and City of Waterford. 2d Edit. Dublin. 1774. 8vo.

STANIHURST's Description of Ireland, in Holinshed. vol. 2. p. 82. London. 1587. Folio.

TAYLOR and SKINNER's Maps of the Roads of Ireland, surveyed in 1777, and corrected down to 1783. 2d. Edit. London. 1783. 8vo.

THE ANCIENT and PRESENT STATE of the County of Down. Dublin. 1744. 8vo.

VALLANCEY's Collectanea de Rebus Hibernicis. Dublin. 8vo.

——————— Essay on the Primitive Inhabitants of Great Britain and Ireland. Dublin. 1807. 8vo.

WALKER's Account of the Siege of London-Derry. London. 1689. 4to.

WALSHE's Prospect of the State of Ireland. London. 1682. 12mo.

WARE's Cænobia Cisterciensia Hiberniæ. Dublin. 1626. 4to.

——— de Hibernia et Antiquitatibus ejus, disquisitiones. Edit. secund. London. 1658.

——— History and Antiquities of Ireland, edited by Harris. Dublin. 1764. Folio.

WELD's Illustrations of the Scenery of Killarney, and the surrounding Country. London. 1807. 4to.

WILSON's Post-Chaise Companion. Dublin. 1786. 8vo.

WRIGHT's Louthiana. London. 1748. 4to.

YOUNG's Tour in Ireland. London. 1780. 4to.

An ABSTRACT of the ECCLESIASTICAL ESTABLISHMENT of IRELAND,

In the Year 1807.

DIOCESES.	Benefices.	Unions.	Churches.	Benefices without Churches.	Glebe Houses.	Benefices without Glebe Houses.	Benefices with Glebes.	Benefices without Glebes.	Incumbents actually Resident on their respective Benefices.	Incumbents who have no Houses in their Parishes, but who live sufficiently near to discharge the Duties.	Incumbents who reside on other Livings.	Incumbents who are absent with Permission.	Incumbents who are absent without Permission.	Livings Vacant.	Sine Cures.	Impropriations.
Ardagh	49	2	53	3	37	12	46	3	41	..	3	4	..	1	..	..
Armagh	24	8	26	5	10	14	22	2	10	..	12	1	..	1	..	..
Clogher	74	11	73	5	57	17	68	6	54	4	6	4	6	..	..	..
Derry	43	2	51	4	29	14	40	3	27	..	8	7	..	1	..	..
Down	26	7	31	4	11	15	18	8	19	..	6	..	..	1	..	..
Connor	38	20	44	1	11	27	22	16	24	4	6	..	4	..	..	..
Dromore	32	6	35	..	9	23	31	1	9	9	7	4	2	..	..	..
Kilmore	23	1	24	..	13	10	16	7	13	7	..	3	..	..	..	..
Meath	92	40	90	12	37	55	75	17	45	10	19	13	2	2	1	13
Raphoe	26	1	32	..	15	12	21	5	20	..	4	1	..	1	..	..
Province of Armagh.	427	98	459	34	229	199	359	68	262	34	71	37	14	7	1	13
Dublin and Glandelagh	87	26	81	10	39	57	54	35	63	15	6	1	1	1	..	..
Kildare	43	14	26	17	13	30	24	19	16	6	15	5	..	..	1	..
Leighlin	44	21	41	6	9	35	22	22	17	8	16	1	..	1	1	..
Ferns	43	30	40	3	22	21	32	11	23	8	6	..	1	4	1	..
Ossory	62	22	41	21	20	42	45	17	23	7	28	3	..	..	1	..
Province of Dublin.	279	113	249	57	103	185	177	104	142	44	71	10	2	6	4	..
Cashel	31	20	24	8	18	13	8	23	15	2	8	..	2	3	1	..
Emly	22	12	14	8	9	13	7	15	9	4	6	1	..	..	2	..
Cloyne	74	31	52	18	15	49	52	22	23	16	28	4	..	..	2	1
Cork	44	19	43	9	12	32	35	11	25	6	11	1	..	1	..	20
Ross	22	6	13	9	5	17	17	5	10	1	5	..	..	1	5	11
Killaloe	42	36	37	8	7	35	26	16	18	2	8	7	2	..	5	..
Kilfenora	6	6	3	3	1	5	4	2	1	..	2	2	1	..	..	..
Limerick	47	17	30	22	15	32	35	12	22	3	19	..	1	2	..	..
Ardfert and Aghadoe	43	22	19	28	8	35	28	15	11	4	12	10	1	..	..	5
Waterford	12	10	8	6	6	6	10	2	6	2	3	..	..	..	..	1
Lismore	43	24	22	21	7	36	29	14	11	9	13	1	1	1	7	..
Province of Cashel.	386	203	265	140	103	273	249	137	151	49	115	26	8	8	22	38
Clonfert and Kilmacduagh	14	14	14	..	1	13	14	..	6	3	2	1	2	..	..	..
Elphin	33	17	26	7	8	25	4	29	8	8	10	3	..	..	4	..
Killala	11	7	12	..	7	4	11	..	9	1	1	..	..	..	..	..
Achonry	9	6	10	..	..	9	7	2	2	..	1	6	..	..	..	..
Tuam	22	18	22	..	5	17	11	11	9	1	8	4	..	..	..	..
Province of Tuam.	89	62	84	7	21	68	47	42	34	13	22	14	2	..	4	..
TOTAL	1181	476	1057	238	456	725	830	351	589	140	279	87	26	21	31	51

GLOSSARY;

OR,

EXPLANATION OF SOME OF THOSE IRISH WORDS WHICH MOST FREQUENTLY OCCUR, IN COMPOSITION WITH THE NAMES OF PLACES.

AB, ABB, a Lord, an Abbot.

ABHAN, ABHUN, a River. Pronounced Oh-unh, but the correct pronunciation is O-vunh, or Ā-vunh, hence the Avon.

ABUIDH, ready, expert, ripe.

ACHADH, a Field, i.e., a Field of Contention or Battle. To designate the substantive, "Field," the Irish write "Machaire"; and a green Cornfield, "Gort."

ACHAR, AICHEAR, revengeful, cruel, ireful, morose. This word is used by Mr. Edward Lhuyd to express the adjective "sharp." But "Geār," is sharp: and when applied to the taste, the Irish write "Geār," of any thing naturally acid; and "Searbh," to express any thing sour: thus, Lemon juice is "Geār."—Vinegar, "Searbh."

ACHILL, "Fiolar," an Eagle. A'chill, Ascending, or an Ascent to the Wood or Forest.

ACRADH, an Acre.

AG, at.

AGH, a Field, spreading from the Base of a Hill.

AILL, probably a Corruption of "Gall," as applied to Englishmen, or any Foreigner; for example "Sean-Ghall, or, Ghaill," the old English; correctly, it would be "Senbhriotaiñioch."

AILL, a Rock, a steep Summit, the Precipice beneath.

ĀIRSE, a Vaûlt.

AIRSIDH, an Arch.

AN, of.

ANA, inexhaustible.

ANAGH, danger.

ANUNN, ANONN, over.—"Anoñ."

AOSDA, ancient, old.

AR, upon.

ARD, Altitude, an high Place, or rising Ground.

ARM, AIRM, a Weapon, Arms.

ARMHACH, Slaughter in Battle.

ART, a Tent, a Tabernacle.

ATH, a Ford.

ATTIN, Furze, or Gorse.
AWIN, a River.

BAD, a Boat.
BAIL, BAILE, BAL, BALL, a Place of assembling a Tribe, a Home, a Town.
BALLA, BALLADH, a Wall, Bulwarks.
BALLACH, BEALACH, a High way.
BALLIN, BALLY, a Hamlet, or Inclosed place or Habitation.
BAN, desolate; because, Hors du page, interdicted.
BĀN, white.
BĀNH, a Farm-yard: vide "Bothan."
BAR, BARR, the Summit, or Uppermost Point of the Altitute of an Object.
BARN, a Judge of a Duel or Battle.
BEAG, BEG, little.
BEAL, BĒUL, a Mouth.
BEALLTUINE, May:—Lā Bealltuinè, May-day.
BEN, a Woman.
BUN, the Base of any Thing.
BŌ, a Cow.
BOCHD, BOCHT, poor.
BOG, soft, tender.
BOGHA, a Bow.
BOIDHE, BUIDHE, yellow.
BOLG, the Belly.
BOLLŌG, a Shell; also a Skull, the Top of the head. This is according to O'Brien; and Lhuyd: but agreeable to the analogy of the language, it signifies a Swelling, or Tumour.
BOLŌG, a Heifer.
BON, BUN, a Base, Bottom, Foundation, or Root that has no visible Fibres; or where it is cut off, from them.
BORR, BURR, a Bunch, a Hump.
BORRAGHACH, strong, warlike, valiant; also swollen with Pride, or Vanity.
BOTH, BOTHOG, a Cattle Shed, a Hut, a Cottage, a Tent or Booth.
BOTHAN, a Barton, called in Ireland, "a Bawn."
BRAN, black, a Raven, also, poor.—"Bran-dubh," a Black Raven, to distinguish them from the grey-hooded Rooks.
BREAC, BREACH, as a Trout, spotted, of divers colours.

CAHIR, CAR, a City.
CALLA, a Veil, a Hood, or Covering for the Head.
CAM, crooked.
CANACH, a Pond, or a Pool of stagnant Water.
CARN, a Monumental Heap of Stones, indiscriminately thrown up.
CARRACH, a stony Field.
CARRAGH, a great Monumental Stone pitched on end.
CARRAN, a common Plant, or Weed.
CARRICK, a Rock, or Quarry.

CARRIG, an unhewn Stone, to mark a Boundary.
CAS, to twist.
CATHAOIR, a Chair.
CEANN, the Head.
CEILE, a Companion, one upon a visit.
CINE, a Head, or Chief of a Tribe:—From Cinn, The Head.
CING, strong in Power or Influence.
CIP, a File of armed Men.
CLANN, Children, i. e., Descendants in a direct Line of a Tribe or Family.
CLARA, CLARACH, plained, made smooth or even.
CLOCH, a Stone.
CLOIDHE, CLADH, an Intrenchment.
CLŪAIN, a Plain, or any beautiful Extent of Meadow.
CNOCK, a Hill, in the Centre of a Plain.
COILL, a Wood, a Grove.
COIR, solitary, because excommunicated for Crimes.
COLL, a Hazle-tree.
COLM, a Dove or Pigeon.
CON, Perception.
CORCA, affected, proudly pre-eminent.
CRANN, a Tree.
CREACH, a Booty, a Prey.
CREAGACH, a rocky Road, also a loose stony Cliff, or slaty Crag.
CROAGH, an artificial sharp-pointed Hill, or Mound resembling a Rick.
CROIS, a Cross.
CŪIL, CŪL, a Closet, a Couch, the inclosed back part; as when a Door is opened wide, the intermediate Space between the Wall and the Door, is the Cūl.
CŪINE, a Corner.
CULTAR, a Plough-share.
CURRACH, CURRAGH, a Bog, a Fen, a Plain.

DAIR, an Oak tree.
DEAGH, good, fair, kind.
DEARG, Redness.
DEAS, DIAS, handsome, the right, southern.
DEISCEART, the due South.
DERRY, a corruption of Durtheach, a Place of Pilgrimage.
DĪREME, pathless, as a Desert.
DOIRE, a Grove.
DOMHNACH, a Church, a Residence, or Castle of a Baron.
DON, DOWN, DUN, a Height or Fastness, a Fortress, a Hill.
DRISEOG, a Bramble.
DROM, DRUIM, a high narrow Ridge of Hills, the Back.
DUBH, black.
DUBLADH, a Scabbard.
DUCHAIS, local Inheritance:—See, FINEACHUS.

Duinē, a Man.
Dunādh, an House, an Habitation.

Eaglais, Eglish, a Church.
Eithre, Err, Erry, the Tail, an End, Conclusion.
Ennis, Inis, an Island.

Fad, Feadh, long, extent.
Faigin, Faughan, a Sheath.
Fal, a Fold, or Inclosure for Cattle.
Fān, upon.
Fear, Fir, a Man, Males.
Fearn, Fearnōg, an Alder-tree.
Feighe, the Top of a House or Mountain.
Feil, holy.
Feir, Feur, Grass, Hay.
Fiach, a Raven.
Fiadh, a Deer.
Fineachus, national Inheritance. As for example, the Child of a British Subject, born on the sea, inherits the Privileges of an Englishman.—Duchais, is local Inheritance.
Fion, few, little, less.
Fionn, pellucid, pale.
Fun, Land, or Ground.

Gad, a twisted Withe.
Gal, Kindred.
Gall, a Native of France.
Gar, short.
Gara, Garach, near, useful.
Garbh, rugged, coarse.
Gartha, Gārrtha, a Shout or great Cry, a Bawling, to scare, or affright Geal, white.
Geall, a Pledge.
Geār, v. Achar.
Gēar, Gēur, Gūr, sharp, eager, acid.
Gein, an Offspring, Kindred.
Ghorm, blue.
Gilla, Giolla, a Servant, dexterously obedient.
Giolcach, a Reed.
Glan, clear, clean.
Glas, green.
Gleann, a Valley.
Gort, a green Cornfield.
Gūal, a Coal.
Guidhain, Guidbhāin, an Englishman.
Gurna, a Cave, or Den.

INIS, an Island.
IOGHA, the Yew-Tree.

KELL, a Story, a Prophecy.
KEN, CEANN, the Head.
KILL, CILLE, a Church, or Cemetery.
KIN, CINE, a Family.
KIP, CIP, a File of armed Men.
KNOCK, CNOCK, a Hill, in the Centre of a Plain.

LĀ, a Day.
LACHD, a Family, reared up from the Milk of the Parent.
LACHNA, yellow, Die made with an Aquatic Plant.
LAG, weak, faint, feeble.
LAIGHIN, LAIGHION, the Province of Leinster; so called from the Spears used by the English.
LAMH, a Hand.
LAN, a Church.
LĀN, full.
LĀR, the middle.
LEACH, a flat Stone.
LEAGH, to throw down.
LEIRG, a Plain.
LIN, LINN, a Pool, or Pond, a Lake.
LIOS, LIS, a Fortified House, a Hamlet, the Residence of a Tribe, Family, or a Detachment of Men.
LOCH, LOUGH, a Lake, a Pool.
LOINN, Joy, Gladness.
LONN, strong.
LUIBHE, an Herb.
LUS, a Leek.

MAC, a Son; in the ancient designation of Kindred, the second degree of Consanguinity; Lineal descent was described by the prefix O', for example, O'Neil, the name of the Chief of a Tribe; Mac Neil, the name given to the Collateral Branches.
MACHAIRE, a Field.
MAGH, a Plain, or great Extent of even, level Country.
MAHM, a clenched Hand, or Fist
MAIN, the Hand.
MAM, a Mother:—MO MHAM, my Mother; hence, probably, "Mamma."
MIL, Honey.—DRUS MHEALA, Honey-dew.
MODH, MOGH, a Manner, or Fashion.
MOIL, a Heap cast up.
MOINSE, a Peat-pit, a Turbary.
MŌN, MOIN, little Piles of Peat, drying in a Field.
MONADH, a mountainous Bog.
MŌR, great, huge.
MOY, a corruption of MAGH.

Muc, a Swine.
Muir, the Sea.
Mull, a Multitude.
Mūr, a walled Defence.

Na, in.
Nĕid, a Wound in Battle.
Noch, Nogh, which.
Nois, Nos, a Custom, or Manner.
Nosŭighthe, naked.
Nuadh, new.

Ōg, whole, entire, young.
Ogh, the Segment of a Circle.
Omagh, removed from Solitude, a Place of Mirth.
Onn, or, Oir, Furze.

Pāil chloch, a Pavement.
Poc, Pocan, a He-goat.

Rā'c, a King.
Rac, a Pouch.
Raigh, an Arm; a corruption of "Braich." "Raighe," a Ray.
Railge, Reileag, a Church-yard.
Rasā'n, an Under-wood, a place full of Shrubs.
Rath, an Ancient Intrenchment, or Barrow, the Residence of a Chief.
Reidh, ready, open.
Rēigh, a Plain.
Reim, a Way.
Ross, the Site of a House, Town, or Harbour, peculiarly agreeable by the Prospect from thence.
Ruadh, redish, of a foxy Hue, or Tinge.
Rūta, an Herd, a Drove, a Rout, in full Motion.

Saimhe, Pleasure.
Sāsamh, Delight, Solace.
Sean, Seandha, old.
Searb, Searr, Theft, condemned Felons.
Searbh, v. Achar.
Shan, v. Sean.
Siol, Seed, a Tribe, a Clan.
Sliabh, Sliebh, a Mountain.
Stragh, v. Āirse.

Tal, Tall, over, beyond, on the other Side.
Tar, beyond, over against.
Teagh, Tach, a House.

TEAMPALL, a Temple, a Church.
TEINIADH, fiery.
TEINNE, Force, Power.
TEOLL, a Thief.
TEORA, a Limit.
TĪR, TIRE, Land, Country.
TOBAR, TUBBER, a Well, formed by a Spring of Water.
TOCHAR, TOCHUR, a Cause-way; correctly, "Pāil chloch," a Pavement.
TOM, TUM, a Tuft of Bushes.
TOR, a Bush.
TOR, correctly TŪR, a Tower.
TRĀIGH, a Strand, the Sea-shore.
TUIL, a Flood.
TULA, a Hillock.
TULLA, a flat Green.
TU'S, a Beginning, a Foundation, a Proceeding.

UILE, UILLE, OILLE, all, greater, Omnipotent.
UMAD, about thee, near.
UR, Heath.
U'R, fresh.
URCHUR, a Throw, a Cast, a Shot from the Shoulder.
URLĀR, the Floor.

TORONTO ATHENÆUM INSTITUTED 1845

A

TOPOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

OF

IRELAND.

ABACCY, vide ARDQUIN

ABBERT, v. ATHENRY.

ABBEY-DEIRG, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster.—" A Priory for Regular Canons was founded here, under the Invocation of St. Peter, in the reign of King John, by Gormgall O'Quin. It was granted at the Suppression to Nicholas Aylmor, termor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 439.

ABBEY-FEALE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant, in 1806: the duties being performed by The Rev. John Parker, who is resident in an adjacent parish, at a Salary of £1..2..9 per annum. Abbey Feale is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 14½ m. S. W. from Rathkeale. It is situate upon the River Feale. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of June, and 18th of October. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—" An Abbey for Cistertians was erected here, A. D. 1188, which was afterwards made a Cell to the Abbey of Monasternenagh in this county."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 414.

ABBEY-GORMAGAN, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltormer. Abbey-Gormagan is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8¼ m. W. by N. from Eyrecourt. See, Kiltormer.—" Monaster O'Gormogan, alias de Via Nova, was founded for Regular Canons of St. Augustin, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, by O'Gormogan. On the 1st of July, 34° Henry VIII, this Abbey was granted to Ulick, the first Earl of Clanricarde."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 266.

ABBEY, ISLE, v. AGHAMORE, ISLAND.

ABBEY-KILBRAYEY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey is of ancient erection, but nothing is known of it. It is near Dunmain, and is the seat of Mr. Cliff.

ABBEY-LARAGH, or LERHA, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, fifty years and upwards, to the V. of Russagh: a new Church: a Glebe House; and two Glebes, containing 16 acres, 8 miles distant from each other: The Rev. Alexander Montgomery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Abbey-Laragh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. N. W. from Castle-Pollard. It is situate upon Lough Coonoh. The parishes in the Union of Abbey-Laragh are contiguous.—" A Monastery was founded here by St. Patrick, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary; the Saint appointed St. Guasacht to be the first Abbot, his Feast is commemorated on the 24th of January."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 442.

ABBEY LEIX, alias CLONKYNE, in the Barony of Cullinagh, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, and the Vicarage at £10: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, about to be granted, of 5 acres, a mile and a quarter from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Arthur Vesey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in Person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Mr. Robinson, at a Salary of £50. per annum. The Income of this Benefice does not exceed £100. per annum. Abbey Leix is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 48 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Nore. Thomas Vesey was created Viscount de Vesci of Abbey Leix, in 1776.—" An Abbey was founded here to the honour of the Virgin Mary, A. D. 1183, by Corcheger O'More; but other writers place the foundation in an earlier age. The founder filled this house with Cistertian Monks, from the Abbey of Baltinglass, and was himself interred here. A trace or ruin of this Abbey can not now be found."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 586.

ABBEY MAHON, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an Impropriation, in The Earl of Shannon. It is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. S. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon a Bay, on St. George's Channel.—" The Monks of the Cistertian Order founded an Abbey here at their own expense: The Lord Barry endowed it with eighteen Plough-lands, which constitute the Parish of Abbey Mahon: but the building was never finished, for the suppression of Monasteries taking place, those lands were seized by the Crown. The walls of the church are yet standing. This House has been mistaken for that of de Sancto Mauro, alias de Fonte vivo.'—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 55.

ABBEY ODORNEY, v. O'DORNEY.

ABBEY-SHROWLE, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House; a Glebe: The Rev. James Hutchinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Union at Killashee, in this Diocese. Abbey-Shrowle is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is $1\frac{1}{2}$ m. S. E. from Cole-Hill. The Fair is holden on the first Wednesday after Trinity Sunday. It is situate near the River Inny. —" O'Ferrall founded an Abbey here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for Monks of the Cistertian Order, but we cannot say at what period."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 436.

ABBEY SLUNAGH, v. SLUNAGH.

ABBEY STROWRY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Vicarage endowed: a Church, in bad repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Robinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Parish. Abbey Strowry is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is $\frac{1}{2}$ m. W. from Skibbereen. The Rectory is Impropriate, in —— Townsend, Esq. It is situate upon the River Ilen. According to Mr. Archdall, a Religious House is said to have been here, but nothing is known of it.

ABINGTON, in the Barony of Owneybeg, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united by Act of Council, in 1776, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Tough: a Church, in good repair, at Abington: a Glebe House, and 20 acres of Glebe Land: The Rev. William Galwey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Abington is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is $4\frac{3}{4}$ m. S. S. E. from Castle Connel. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of May, and 31st of August. The Parishes in the Union of Abington are contiguous; that of Abington containing 5718 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, Tough could not support an Incumbent in comfort; nor should the Union be dissolved at present, as a Glebe House has lately been built, the expense of which is charged at the rate of two years' Income of the Union.—" An Abbey was founded here, A. D. 1205, for Cistertian Monks, with which it was furnished from the Abbey of Savigniac in France, by Theobald Fitz-Walter, Lord of Carrick, and chief Butler of Ireland, who richly endowed it, and was interred here in the year 1206."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 411.

ACHAD DAGAIN, in the Barony of Decies —— Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster.—"St. Dagain of this Abbey, who died on the 13th of September 639, was a strenuous supporter of the ancient rule for the celebration of Easter."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p 684.

ACHAD FINGLASS, or ACHAD ARGLASS, v. AGHA.

ACHADHABHLA, anciently CROSAILECH, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey was founded by St. Finian of Clonard. It is now unknown.

ACHADHCAOIL, in the Barony of Lecale, County of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is situate near Dundrum Bay.—" St. Killen, who was Abbot of this church, lived in the Fifth century; and St. Senan was also Abbot of it about the year 560."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 106.

ACHADHDUBTHUIGH, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" In Magh-li, a small territory, near the River Bann; St. Goar, or Guar, the Son of Colman, who was surnamed The Big, to distinguish him from another St. Goar, the Son of Lasrenn, and named The Little, was Abbot of this ancient Monastery in the Seventh century, and is still the Patron Saint of it. The Festival is holden on the 22d of January. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 1.

ACHADHNACILL, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" A Church in Dalrieda (which comprehended the N. N. W. and part of the South of the County of Antrim). It was formerly known by the name of Achadhcinn, or Achadhkind, and was built by St. Patrick, who appointed one of his Disciples, St. Cathub, the Son of Fergus, Abbot. He died April 6th, in the year 554. We are told, in Mac Geoghagan's Annals, that, at his death, this Saint was 150 years old. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast Hibern. p. 1.

ACHARROW, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 8¾ m. N. N. W. from Sligo. A village.

ACHILBEG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is high, coarse land; situate in Clew Bay.

ACHILL, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burishhoole. Achill is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Burishhoole.

ACHILL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is high, coarse land; stretching out into the Atlantic Ocean. The name signifies Eagle Island, from the great resort of Eagles thither.

ACHONRY, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R., united to the R. of Cloonoghill: The Cathedral Church, in good repair; no Glebe House; 20 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the cathedral: The Rev. James Hastings, A. M., Dean, Rector, and Vicar, in 1806: The duties are discharged by The Rev. Frederick Crawford, A. B., his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum, and the use of the Glebe, rent free. Achonry is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from Ballymote. The parishes of Achonry, and Cloonoghill, are contiguous: their estimated extent being ten miles in length, and seven in breadth. The Bishoprick of Achonry (valued in the King's Books at £10. Sterling) is united to the Bishoprick of Killala. The Chapter of Achonry is composed of a Dean, Precentor, Archdeacon, and three Prebendaries. See, Killala.—" The Dynast of the Territory of Luigny granted Achadhconaire, called also Achadh-chaoin, to St. Finian of Clonard, where he erected an Abbey, and appointed his Disciple St. Nathy, commonly called Cruimther Nathy, or Nathy the Priest, to be the first Abbot, whose Feast is celebrated on the 9th of August."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 624.

ACTON, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMACH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 20 English acres contiguous, and half a mile distant from the church: The Rev. Henry Ashe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Acton is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is $2\frac{3}{4}$ m. S. S. E. from Tanderagee. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, and 11th of December. It is situate on the Newry Canal.

ADAIR, v. ADARE.

ADAMSTOWN, otherwise MURNEVAN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., united, from time immemorial, to the R. of Newbawn, and constituting the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £14..9..0 Irish Money: a Church, newly erected, in the parish of Adamstown: two Glebes; one, of $8\frac{1}{2}$ acres, in the Parish of Adamstown, on which a Glebe House has lately been erected; the other, of $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres, in the same parish, and at the distance of two miles: The Rev. Edward Barton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Adamstown is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is $7\frac{1}{2}$ m. N. E. from New Ross. The parishes in the Union of Adamstown are contiguous; their extent, in the County Books, being 9000 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, there are only eight Protestant Families in this extensive District.

ADARE, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Croom. Adare is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. W. from Limerick. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, and 14th of October. It is situate upon the navigable River Maig, over which there is a good Bridge. Here was a strong Castle, belonging to the Earl of Desmond. This Parish contains 4800 acres of Land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Croom.—"An House was founded here on the South side of the Town, for Friars of the Order of the Holy Trinity, for the Redemption of Christian Captives in the reign of King Edward the First, by John Earl of Kildare. One Writer alone gives this foundation to the Family of Clangibbon. Some large and very perfect Ruins of this Friary still remain. The Steeple resembles a castle, and is supported by a plain Arch, with four diagonal Ogives meeting in the centre, and stairs leading to the battlements. The Nave and Choir are small and plain, without any thing remarkable; in the rear are several other ruins: the entrance into the Friary was by a low gate on the West side, which is still standing.—An Augustinian Friary was founded on the South side of the river by John Earl of Kildare, son to Earl Thomas, who died in the year 1315. A great part of this Friary still remains in good preservation: the Steeple, similar to that of the Trinitarians, is supported on an Arch: the Choir is large, with Stalls, &c., and the Nave answerable thereto, with a lateral Aisle on the South side: to the North of the steeple are some beautiful Cloisters with Gothic windows, within which, on three sides of the square, are Corridores, and on most of these windows, are escutcheons with the English and Saltire crosses, generally ranged alternately: the workmanship is simply elegant, the principal parts being of hewn lime-stone, which appears so fresh, as to give it, on the whole, a modern, yet venerable appearance. Adjoining the cloisters are several apartments, which seem to be much more ancient than the other parts of the building. This description of these Friaries was taken in the Month of May, 1781.—A Gray Friary was founded in the East part of the town, in the year 1465, by Thomas Earl of Kildare and Joan his wife, daughter of James Earl of Desmond. No traces of this Friary can now be found, save a lofty square Steeple."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 414. et seq.

ADDERGOOL, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crossmolina. Addergool is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. N. W. b. W. from Foxford. See, Crossmolina.

ADDERGOOLE, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tuam. Addergoole is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. W. b. N. from Dunmore. See, Tuam.

ADNITH, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13*s*..4*d*. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Adnith is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. b. E. from Templemore. This is a parcel of Rathelty. See, Thurles, and Rathelty.

ADRAGOAL, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 10 m. W. S. W. from Bantry. A village, situate on Bantry Bay.

AFFANE, or ATHMEANE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clashmore. Affane is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. b. E. from Lismore. It is situate upon the River Phinisk, near its junction with the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 13th of August, and 22d of November. A bloody Conflict was fought here, on the 1st of February, 1564, between the Earls of Ormond and Desmond, in which the latter Nobleman had three hundred men killed. It has been famous for its Cherries, which were first planted here by Sir Walter Raleigh who brought them from the Canary Islands. Affane was formerly called Arthmeane, or Aghmean, from Agh, a Ford, the River Blackwater being fordable hereabouts. In the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Affane and Aglish are recommended to be perpetually united, and Glebe Land purchased, and a Glebe House built: and though it is apprehended, that this Union would be of much too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, yet it might be very advantageously increased by the purchase of Glebe Lands. See, Clashmore.

AFFILYN, v. BOYLE.

AGHA, or ACHAD FINGLASS, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleckny. Agha is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is situate on the East of the River Barrow. See, Dunleckny.—" There was an Abbey founded here, of which St. Fintan was Abbot. He died on the 17th of February, long before the end of the Sixth century. This Abbey had been of some note in A. D. 864, for in that year it was pillaged by the Danes."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 35.

AGHABOE, properly ACHADBHO (in Irish, The Field of a Cow), in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £20. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £10: a Church, in tolerable good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes, of 182 acres, about two miles distant from each other, and about one mile distant from the Church: The Hon and Rev. Joseph Bourke, the Rector: The Rev. John Morris, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice, and resides in Wales by permission of the late Bishop, for the benefit of his health: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Jackson, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aghaboe is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Burros in Ossory. The Fairs are holden on the 1st and 2d of August, and 22d and 23d of October. This parish is 8 miles in length, and 3 miles in breadth. See, St. Patrick's, in the city of Kilkenny.—" St. Canice, a Disciple of the great St. Finian, was born in the Northern parts of Ireland, in the year 515, he was the son of Laidie, an eminent Poet, and his mother's name was Mella. To this Saint the Abbey of Aghaboe owes its foundation, of which he was the first Abbot, and continued to preside here till 598, when he died, in his 84th year. The Festival of St. Canice is celebrated on the 11th of October. On the 10th of April, in the 43d of Queen Elizabeth, this Monastery, with its Appurtenances, and the Advowson of the Rectory of St. Kennie of Aghaboe, was granted to Florence Fitzpatrick, at the annual rent of £5..18..0. We shall here give a description of the Abbey as it now appears:—the West and South Windows are handsome Gothic work; the Church is 100 feet in length and 24 in width, has three Windows to the South, one at the East, and one at the West. In the centre to the South is a small Oratory, called Phelan's Chapel, and divided from the Church by an Arch, resting on a Pillar of solid Masonry; between the East Windows of this Chapel is a Pedestal, intended for a Statue, and under it a stone, hollowed and shaped like an inverted Cone, with eight grooves, supposed to be for holy water: A door on the North side leads you into a quadrangle of sixty feet: the Cells for the Friars, usually ten in number, lay to the East, and opposite thereto was the Kitchen, with apartments for servants; the Cellars were large, and over them the Abbot's apartment, measuring 46 feet by 17, at the end of which was a bed-chamber seventeen feet square: whether this large room was not the Refectory we can not determine, as the last Vicar of the Parish demolished much of the building and made use of the materials to inclose a demesne: originally there was a fire-place at the South end, and a stone staircase made a communication with the church and cellars. The lands annexed to the Abbey, such as those of Aghaboe, with the Cross and Friar's land, were of a considerable extent, and of the best quality."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 588.

AGHABOG, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. Alexander Hurst, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aghabog is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is $5\frac{1}{4}$ m. N. b. E. from Cootehill. This parish was separated from the Corps of the Chancellorship of the Cathedral, and erected into a distinct Parish by Act of Council, in 1767.

AGHABOLLOGUE, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of COKK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Sterling, and holden, by Faculty, with the Prebend of Subulter: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 acres, near the church: the duties are discharged by The Rev. James Kingston, the Resident Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aghabollogue is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is $4\frac{3}{4}$ m. N. E. from Macromp.—See, Lackeen, and Subulter.—" Near the old Church, is a celebrated Well, dedicated to St. Olan. In the Church-yard, is a Stone, called St. Olan's Cap, by which the common people also swear, on all solemn occasions: And they pretend, that if this stone was carried off, it would return of itself to its old place. At Magourney, a particle of this parish, is a new Parish Church, and decent Glebe House."—Smith's Cork, vol. I. p. 177.

AGHACAINID, v. MULLIN'S, ST.

AGHACREW, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbisop of Cashel's Mensal. Aghacrew is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. W. from Thurles. This parish contains 225 acres of land. See, Toem.

AGHACROSS, v. AHACROSS.

AGHADA, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and united, from time immemorial, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Corkbeg, Inch, Rostillan, and Titeskin; the Union having been holden in Commendam with the See of Cloyne, for almost an hundred years: a Church, in repair, at Aghada: no Glebe House, the See House being within a few hundred yards of the parish of Aghada: a Glebe, near the church, of 20 acres; at Corkbeg, of 21 acres; at Inch, of 10 acres; and at Titeskin, of 63 acres; these glebes are near the sites of the old churches, and scattered about the Union, at the distance of two and three miles from each other: The Right Rev. William Bennett, D. D., Lord Bishop of Cloyne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in his See House, contiguous to the Union: the duties are performed by his Lordship's Curate, The Rev. James Hingston, jun. at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aghada is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Cloyne. It is situate upon the Eastern side of Cork Harbour. The parishes in the Union of Aghada are all contiguous; their extent being six miles East and West, by 5 miles North and South.

AGHADE, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, Episcopally united, since the year 1710, to the R. of Gilbertstown, the V. of Ballon, and the Impropriate Cure of Ardristan: a Church, in repair, in the Parish of Aghade: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry St. George, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is Resident, and discharges the duties in Person. Aghade is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 ¾ m. S. from Tullow. It is situate on the River Slaney. The parishes in the Union of Aghade are all contiguous; their contents being 2847 acres.

AGHADERG, or AGHADERRICK, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on 20 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Joseph Mac Cormick, the Incumbent in (1806), who has cure of souls, is Resident, and discharges the duties. Aghaderg is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Loughbrickland, on the North West.

AGHADOE, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster; an entire Rectory, constituting the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Aghadoe, which is valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling; the Archdeacon also holds the Vicarages of Killarney, and Killcummin: These vicarages have been holden together as far back as any Record of the Diocese reaches: the Archdeaconry was united to them, in 1798, by Authority of the Diocesan: no Church, in Aghadoe; a Church, in Killarney, newly rebuilt, and now finishing: a Glebe House, in Killarney: a Glebe, in Killarney, near the church: a Glebe, in Killcummin, of 45 a. 3. r. 21 p.: and, in Aghadoe, of 10 a. 3 r. 2 p.: The Archdeacon has also a Glebe, lately recovered by him, in the Parish of Killgarvan: The Rev.

Edward Herbert, A. M., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, but is at present absent, on account of ill health: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aghadoe is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. W. from Killarney. According to Dr. Beaufort, the Bishoprick of Limerick was united, in 1663, to those of Ardfert and Aghadoe, which had long been so incorporated, as to form but one Diocese. In the Chapter of Ardfert, the Archdeacon of Aghadoe has a Stall: This dignity and the ruined Walls of a Church at Aghadoe, with a Round tower, are all the memorials of the Bishoprick which now remain. The Parishes in the Union of Aghadoe are all contiguous.—" Aodh son of Conor, son of Auliff Mor O'Donoghue, King of Eoganacht Lochalein, died in the year 1231, and was buried in his old Abbey at Aghadoe; of which we can learn no other particulars."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 299.

AGHADOWN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 4th of November 1780, to the Vicarages of Clare, and Kilcoe: a Church, in Aghadown, in good repair: a Glebe House: a Glebe, in Aghadown, of 45 a. 2 r. 6 p.; and another, in Clare Island, of 25 a. 3 r. 26 p.: The Rev. Joseph Wright, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is Resident in the Glebe House, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate. Aghadown is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Skibbereen. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, and 2d of October. The Parishes in the Union of Aghadown are contiguous: the estimated extent of those of Aghadown, and Kilcoe, being 5 miles from North to South, and 5 miles from East to West. It is situate on Baltimore Harbour. One Rectory of Aghadown is Impropriate in the Representatives of Lord Castlehaven; and one Rectory belongs to the Archdeacon of Ross.

AGHADOWY, or AGHERDOWY, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling; a Church, lately repaired, and now in perfect order: a Glebe House; 318 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. J. Sandys, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aghadowy is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. S. b. W. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the River Aghadowy.

AGHAGALLON, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and anciently united to the Vicarages of Aghalee, and Magheramesk. Aghagallon is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Moira. This parish contains 2710 acres of land. See, Aghalee.

AGHAGOWER, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., holden with the Archdeaconry of Tuam, and valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughaval. Aghagower is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 10 m. N. W. from Ballinrobe. See, Aughaval.—" St. Patrick founded here the Monastery of Achad-fobhair, and placed St. Senach over it. It is now a parish church. A Round tower is still to be seen here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 492.

AGHALEE, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. N. b. W. from Moira.

AGHALEE, or SOLDIERS TOWN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., anciently united to the Vicarages of Aghagallon and Magheramesk: a Church, in good repair, at Aghalee, which is in the centre of the Union: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Phillip Fletcher, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Aghalee is in the Diocese of Connor and Pr vince of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Moira. This parish contains 1848 acres of land. The Income of Aghalee is less than £100. per annum.

AGHALOW, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, and consolidated with the R. of Carinteel: a Church, in Aghalow, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 529 a. 3 r. 21 p. Irish; of which, 486 a. 3 r. 21 p. are in Carinteel, distant about four miles from the Church; 35 a. 2 r. 0 p. are in the parish of Benburbe, six miles from the church; and 8 acres are in Caledon (now transferred to that Cure), seven miles from the church: Those in Aghalow are distant about 10 miles from those in Benburbe, and about six miles from those in Caledon: The Rev. William Sturrock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Aghalow is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. N. W. from Tynan. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

AGHALURCHER, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..4 sterling: two Churches; one, in good condition; the other, under repair: no Glebe House; two Glebes; one, of 320 acres, 220 of which are arable, and 100 moor and bog, about half a mile distant from the church, and situate in an adjoining parish: the remainder, about five miles distant: The Rev. Robert Russell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and dis charges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Aghalurcher is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. N. E. from Lisnaskea.

AGHAMACART, or AGHMACART, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Cahir, and Killeen: a Church, in good repair, in the Parish of Aghamacart: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: there are 29¾ acres of Glebe Land, in fourteen different places: some spots being half a mile asunder, some near the church, and some farther from it: The Rev. Oliver Flood, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident in the Parish of Killeen, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Aghamacart is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Durrow. The parishes in the Union of Aghamacart are contiguous, there being no sign or trace of bounds between them; the contents of the whole are 4842 acres.—"An Abbey was said to have been founded here about the year 550, and we find that O'Dempsey founded a Priory on the ancient site, and under the Invocation of St. Tighernach, for Canons Regular. Several ruins of this building yet remain, but of which there is nothing remarkable, save a gate at the entrance with a well-turned arch of good workmanship, and stone sockets for the gate to turn in. Through the attention and care of Dr. Pococke, whilst he presided in the See of Ossory, part of these ruins were repaired for Divine Service,—which is now the Parish Church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 591.

AGHAMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the Parish of Killcrohane. It is a small Island, called Abbey Isle, near the mouth of the river Kenmare, and adjoining the extreme end of the Parish of Killcrohane.——"This small Abbey was founded in the 7th century, by the Monks of the Abbey of St. Finbar, near Cork, for Canons Regular, following the Rule of St. Augustine. The walls, which yet remain of this ancient Abbey, are so beaten by the sea, that in a very short time they will probably be demolished. At low-water this Isle joins the main-land."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 299.

AGHANCON, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, building; and a Glebe, of 15 acres, convenient to the church: The Rev. James Everard, A. B. the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is Resident. Aghancon is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. from Roscrea.

AGHARNEY, v. AHARNEY.

AGHAROIS, v. KILLMANTIN.

AGHAVALLIN, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Galy, Killaheny, and Liseltin; the Vicarages of Killnaghtin, and Murhir; and the Vicarages of Disert, Finuge, Knockanure, and Listowell: these parishes were thus divided into four Benefices in 1615; from that year to 1669, there is no record: in 1669, they were all holden by one Incumbent, and have been so holden ever since, but only, it is considered, by Episcopal Union: a Church, in Aghavallin, in indifferent repair: a Church, in Liseltin, in indifferent repair; a Church, in Killnaghtin, in good repair; and a Church, in Listowell, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Killnaghtin, of 3 r. 7 p., two miles from the church: no other Glebe now belonging to the Vicar in any of those Parishes, but there are Glebes in some of them belonging to the Lay-Impropriator of the Rectories, some of which were formerly possessed by the Vicar: The Rev. Anthony Stoughton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, but is principally resident at Bath, on account of an infirm state of health and delicacy of constitution; the duties are discharged by four Resident Curates, viz., at Aghavallin, at a salary of £70. per annum; at Liseltin, at £75.; at Killnaghtin, at £75.; and at Listowell, at £50.: Total £270. These parishes are so far contiguous, that they lie together without the intervention of other parishes; they contain 74 square miles. Aghavallin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. W. S. W. from Tarbert. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The Curate of this parish receives £15. per annum, for performing the duties of Killconly. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

AGHAVEAGH, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, rebuilding: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, half a mile distant from the church: The Rev. James Webster, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aghaveagh is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. from Lisnaskea.

AGHAVILLYR, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4. Irish money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Aghavillyr is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Knocktopher. Here are the remains of one of the ancient Round towers. See, Knocktopher.

AGHAVOE, v. AGHABOE.

AGHAVOWER, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltullagh. Aghavower is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. N. from Ballyhaunis. See, Kiltullagh.—"St. Patrick erected the Monastery of Achadh-mor for his disciple St. Loarn. It is now a Parish Church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 493.

AGHENISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.

AGHER, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..17..8. Irish Money: a Church, in the most perfect repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 7 acres, close to the church: The Rev. J. Kavel Walsh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives, by permission, on a Cure which he serves in the Diocese of Dublin: the duties are discharged by a Curate. This Living is worth only £40. per annum, to which the sum of £20. is allowed by the Board of First Fruits. Agher is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. S. W. from Summerhill.

AGHERDOWY, v AGHADOWY.

AGHERN, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, has been united, for time immemorial, by Act of Council, to the R. of Ballynoe: The Rev. Christopher Robinson, the Rector (in 1806), who has not cure of souls, and this being a perfect sine-cure, belonging to the Crown, he resides in Dublin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, has been Episcopally united, for many years, to the R. of Britway: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0 a. 2 r. 12 p. Aghern is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. E. from Rathcormuck. It is situate upon the river Bride. The parishes of Aghern, and Ballynoe, are contiguous; their extent being 5 miles from North to South, by 3 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Parish of Aghern is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Britway.

AGHERTON, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter to the R. of Ardclenis, by James I, in 1609, as the Corps of the Treasurership of Connor, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church at Agherton, not in good order; but money is raised to repair it: a Glebe House is now building (in 1806), on a Glebe of 20 acres, near the church: The Rev. David Dunkin, the Incumbent, who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by an adjoining Curate for occasionals in Ardclenis, at a salary of £14. per annum. Agherton is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. W. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the Sea Coast. This Parish is mountainous, and contains 2000 acres of land. It is 30 miles distant from Ardclenis.

AGHIART, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moylough. Aghiart is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Moylough.

AGHINAGH, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling, and holden, by Faculty, with the Prebend of Ballyhooly: a Church, lately built: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 24 acres: The Rev. William Berkeley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who performs his own duty at Ballyhooly: the duties here being discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Basil Orpen, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Aghinagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S.S.E. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Lee. The extent of this Parish is 7 miles North and South, by 4 miles East and West; and it is distant from Ballyhooly 25 miles, in a South West direction. See, Ballyhooly.

AGHLISHCLOGHANE, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Killaloe, which is valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8. sterling; and with which are holden, Episcopally united on the 11th of May 1785, the Rectory of Aghlishcloghane, and the Rectories and Vicarages of Bonohan, Dorrha, and Lorrha: a Church, in good repair, in the Parish of Lorrha: no Glebe House: seven Glebes; one, of 8a. 1r. 34p., and another, of 5a. 0r. 33p., in the parish of Aghlishcloghane, being more than a mile distant from each other, and the former convenient to the site of the old church: another, of 1 a. 1 r. 9 p., in the parish of Lorrha, near the site of the old church: the fourth, of 1a. 0r. 20p., and the fifth, of 4a. 0r. 15p., both in the parish of Bonohan, the first of them being near the site of the old church, and the other a quarter of a mile distant from it; the sixth, of 0a. 3r. 24p., and the seventh, of 3a., both of them being in the parish of Dorrha, at a short distance from each other, and convenient to the site of the old church: The Rev. Samuel Synge, A. M., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin, but now under orders to reside: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Peacock, A. B., at a Salary of £50. per annum. Aghlishcloghane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Birr. The parishes in the Union of Aghlishcloghane are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 5 miles, and from East to West 6 miles.

AGHMACART, v. AGHAMACART.

AGHNAMEADLE, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Toomevara. Aghnameadle is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. from Moneygall. See, Toomevara.

AGHNAMOLT, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Aghnamolt is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. W. from Gowran. It is situate near the River Nore. See, Kells.

AGHNAMULLEN, in the Barony of Cremourne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the Church: The Rev. Henry Roper, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aghnamullen is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. from Ballybay.

AGHNISH, v. TULLY-AGHNISH.

AGHOLD, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4. Irish Money: and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1714, to the Vicarages of Cricrim, Liscoleman, and Mullinacuff; a Church, in repair, at Coolkennoe, in the parish of Aghold: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 17 acres, in the Parish of Aghold, about a mile and an half from the church:

The Rev. James Mac Ghee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in Person. Aghold is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. E. S. E. from Tullow. The Parishes in the Union of Aghold are all contiguous; their contents being 10,254 acres.

AGHOUR, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money; and Episcopally united to the Rectories and Vicarages of Cloghmantagh, and Kilrush, the Rectories of Clashacrow, and Rathbeagh, and the Vicarages of Ballylaskin, Ballynemara, Clontubrid, Coolcashin, Sheffin, and Tubridbretani: a Church, in the Prebend of Aghour: a Glebe House, in the Parish of Clashacrow, in excellent order: four Glebes; one, of 1 acre, on the Prebend; another, of 12 acres, at Cloghmantagh; the third, of 25 acres, at Rathbeagh; and the fourth, of 3 acres, at Tubridbretani: none of these Glebes are contiguous to each other; they are distant from the existing church, and from each other, from two to three miles: The Rev. James Meara, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Union, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, none of these parishes separately are sufficient to the comfortable support of a clergyman. Aghour is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Freshford, on the South East. The Parishes in the Union of Aghour are contiguous to each other; the average extent of each being about a mile in length, and half a mile in breadth.

AGHRIM, v. AUGHRIM.

AGHRIM, in the Barony of Clonmacow, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8. sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the Vicarages of Killalaghton, Killgerrill, and Killimore Daly: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and 20 a. 1 r. 4 p. of Glebe: The Rev. Richard B. Vincent, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aghrim is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. S. W. from Ballinasloe. The parishes in the Union of Aghrim are contiguous.—" At Aghrim O'Many, or Eachraim, was a Priory of Canons Regular of St. Augustin, under the Invocation of St. Catherine; some say it was founded in the 13th Century by Theobald, the first Butler of Ireland; but we cannot find any authenticated account of this Abbey. On its suppression it was granted, together with certain other Monasteries, to Richard Earl of Clanricarde, and his Heirs, in capite, at a yearly rent."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 270.

AGHRIM, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. S. W. b. S. from Rathdrum. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of June, 22d of November, and the 4th Tuesday in December. It is situate upon the River Ovoca.

AGHULTIE, v. BALLYHOOLY.

AGLISH, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V. (one Rectory being Impropriate in Mr. E. Cross, and another belonging to Kilbrogan), being one of the parishes which constitute the Unions of Iniskenny, and Kilbrogan. Aglish is partly in the Diocese of Cloyne, and partly in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. W. b. S. from Cork. It is situate on both sides of the River Lee. See, Iniskenny, and Kilbrogan.

AGLISH, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, near the old church, of 14 a. 3 r. 1 p.: The Rev. Walter Stewart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides, by permission, in Kenmare: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Killarney, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Aglish is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Milltown. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

AGLISH, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a R., united by Act of Parliament, in 1711, to the Rectories of Breaghwee, Drumrany, Islandine, Killdacamoge, and Turlogh: one Church, in Castlebar, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, in Killdacamoge: The Rev. Charles Warburton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Castlebar, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Ashe, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aglish is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Castlebar, on the East. The Parishes in the Union of Aglish are contiguous; their estimated extent being 12 miles in Length, and 10 in Breadth.

AGLISH, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clashmore. Aglish is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. E. from Tallow. It is situate near the River Blackwater. Here are the remains of an ancient square building, called by the Irish, Clough, which incloses half an acre of ground: And which, tradition says, was built by King John, as an half-way stage between Cork and Waterford. See, Clashmore, and Affane.

AGLISHCORMUCK, v. LISCORMUCK.

AGLISHDRINAGH, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhay. Aglishdrinagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. W. b. S. from Charleville. See, Ballyhay.

AGLISHVENAN, v. BALLYMACART.

AGLISMARTIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 2½ acres: The Rev. Arthur Conolly, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice. Aglismartin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin.

AHACROSS, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clenore. Ahacross is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. W. b. N. from Mitchelstown. See, Clenore.

AHAMPLISH, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, not in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. Charles West, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in a glebe house, lately built by him, and discharges the duties in person. Ahamplish is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. N. W. from Sligo. It is situate upon the sea coast. This parish extends about eleven square miles. The annual Income from Tythes is about £60.; in addition to which an augmentation of £40. per annum is given from Primate Boulter's Donation.

AHANAGH, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1*s*..8*d*. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Ahanagh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. W. from Boyle. It is situate on Lough Arrow. See, Taunagh.

AHARAGH, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of Longford, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killglass. Aharagh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. E. b. S. from Cole-Hill. See, Killglass.

AHARNEY, or AGHARNEY, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Attanagh. Aharney is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Durrow. It is situate near the River Nore. See, Attanagh.

AHASKERAGH, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a R.: a Church, not in good repair: 24 acres of Glebe, whereon a Glebe House was erected, in 1803: The Rev. Peter Brown, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ahaskeragh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 75 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, Wednesday after Trinity, 25th of August, and 24th of November. This parish is supposed to contain about 13 square miles. See, Killion.—" St. Cuan, of Ath-ascrath, died A. D. 788. It is now a parish church." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 270.

AHERLOE, v. DUNTRILEAGUE.

AHOGILL, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster:

a R., united by Act of Council, many years since, to the chapelry of Portglenone: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the present Incumbent has promised to build one; a Glebe, of 138½ acres, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. Henry Leslie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ahogill is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. b. S. from Ballymena. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of June, 26th of August, and 5th of December.

AILECHMOR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, Domnal, a Disciple of St. Patrick, was Bishop of this Monastery; which is all we can learn respecting it.

AIRDNE COEMHAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near the town of Wexford. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Coeman, who died in the year 639, was Abbot here.

AIRECAL DACHIAROC, v. ERRIGAL KEROGH.

AKERAS, v. KILLMANTIN.

ALDERFORD, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. Here Carolan, the celebrated Irish Bard, died in the month of March, 1738, in the 68th year of his age, while on a visit at the house of Mrs. Mac Dermot. He was interred in the parish church of Killronan, in the Diocese of Ardagh; but 'not a stone tells where he lies.'—Dublin Chronicle, vol. I. no. 29. Thursday, 5th of July, 1787.

ALDERG, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Alderg is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Leixlip. See, Leixlip.

ALLEN, ISLE of, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. N. b. E. from Kildare. A Village. It gives title of Viscount to the noble Family of Allen.

ALL FARANNAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.—"A Monastery of this name was situated in some part of Connaught, and was given by Tipraid, Prince of Hy-Fiachria, to St. Columb, who placed St. Farannan over it. We know nothing farther of this Abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 270.

ALL SAINTS, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure, with a Church: Vacant, in 1806. It is 6 m. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. All Saints is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh.

ALMORITIA, or BALLYMORAN, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and Episcopally united to the R. of Piercetown, on the 21st of July 1791; and which Union it would be expedient to make permanent: a Church, in good repair, in Almoritia: a Glebe House, on a Glebe, of 28 acres, close to the church; and 12 acres, of Glebe, in Piercetown, close to the ruins of the old church, being distant from each other about two miles: The Rev. James Irwin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives at the school of Raphoe, of which he is master: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, together with house, offices, and garden. Almoritia is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. N. E. from Ballymore. The parishes in the Union of Almoritia are contiguous: that of Almoritia containing 1700 acres of Land.

AMBROSETOWN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..4..0. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Duncormuck. Ambrosetown is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10½ m. S. W. from Wexford. See, Duncormuck.

ANAGH, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the Parish of Robeen. According to Dr. Beaufort, here was a Cell or Chapel of Franciscan, or Augustinian Friars.

ANAGHCLOAN, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 125 acres: The Hon. and Rev. Pierce Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties occasionally, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Anaghcloan is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. E. b. S. from Bannbridge. It is situate on the River Bann.

ANAGHGELIFFE, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and united by Act of Council to the V. of Cavan. Anaghgeliffe is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. N. E. from Cavan. See, Cavan.

ANAGH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Bullan Bay.

ANAHILT, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on 27 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. John Dieubourdieu the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Anahilt is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Hillsborough.

ANAMORE, in the Barony of Mohill, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 11 m. N.N.W. from Longford. It is situate on the River Shannon.

ANDREW'S, ST., in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Act of Parliament of an old date, to the Vicarages of Ballyhalbert, Ballywalter, and Innishargy; and constituting the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £26..6..4 sterling: a Church, in good order, standing nearly in the centre of the Union: a Glebe House, in the Village of Kircubbin, half a mile from the glebe, which contains 30 acres, and is two miles and an half distant from the church: The Rev. William Boyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. St. Andrew's is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 7 m. N. b. E. from Portaferry. It is situate upon Strangford Lough. The parishes in the Union of St. Andrew's are contiguous.—"Black Abbey was founded for Benedictine Monks by the celebrated Sir John de Courcey, who made it a Cell to the Abbey of St. Mary at Lonley in Normandy, and, in the Foundation Charter, he calls it, The Abbey of St. Andrew de Stokes. At the suppression of Religious houses, this Priory and its possessions were seized upon by the O'Neils, on whose rebellion the Abbey, &c., became vested in the Crown, and King James I, granted the same to James Viscount Clandeboys, who assigned them to the Lord Ardes; but, in 1639, they were awarded to the See of Armagh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 110.

ANNACHUAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.

ANNACOTTY, in the County of the City of Limerick, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. S. W. b. S. from Newport. A village.

ANNADUFF, or ANNAGHDUFFE, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, very extensive and contiguous: The Rev. Thomas Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Annaduff is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. E. from Carrick on the Shannon. It is situate on the River Shannon.—"An Abbey was erected here, A. D. 766: which is now a Parish Church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 407.

ANNAGH, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. S. W. from Charleville. A village, in which the Linen manufacture has been established by the Earl of Egmont. The castle is demolished. See, Burton.

ANNAGH, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united to the R. of Clogherbrien, and the V. of Ballinahaglish: a Church, in Ballinahaglish, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 21 a. 0 r. 4 p., close to the church: The Rev. Maynard Denny, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and discharges the duties in Person. These parishes, which are contiguous, have been holden together as far back as any Records of the Diocese reach: Tralee was also formerly holden with them, and was first separated, about the year 1750

It appears, as if Ballinahaglish had been separated from the rest, for a short time, about the year 1669, but they were very soon afterwards re-united. Annagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. W. S. W. from Tralee. It is situate upon Tralee Bay. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. This parish extends into the Barony of Trughanacmy.

ANNAGH, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltullagh. Annagh is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Ballyhaunis, on the West. See, Kiltullagh.

ANNAGHDOWN, or ENAGH DUNE, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killoscobe. Annaghdown is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 7½ m. N. from Galway. It is holden with the Deanery, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling. See, Killoscobe.—" An Abbey was founded here in a remote age; for so early as the 7th century, we find that St. Meldan was Abbot or Bishop of Lough-Orbsen, called also Lough Corrib. His feast is observed on the 7th of February.—St. Brendan of Clonfert built a Nunnery here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for his Sister Briga. The steeple of this Nunnery was erected in the year 1238. On the suppression, it was granted to Richard Earl of Clanricarde.—St. Mary's Abbey, called also The Abbey of St. Mary de Portu Patrum, was founded for White Canons of the order of Premonstre.—The Franciscan Friary was considerable, being the head of a Custody to which were subordinate the Monasteries of Connaught and Ulster.—There was also a Religious House, called The College of St. Brendan, in this town, in which four Priests or Vicars were supported."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 283.

ANNALONG, in the Barony of Mourne, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5m. N. E. from Kilkeel. It is situate upon a river and small harbour of the same name, on the Irish Sea.

ANNATRIM, anciently EADCRUIN, or ENACHTRUIM, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Offerelane. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Moynrath. It is situate upon the River Nore.—" St. Mochoemoc, alias Pulcherius, founded an Abbey here, about the year 550, which he resigned to Coemhan, brother of St. Coemgin of Glendaloch. This is now a parish church, in the Diocese of Ossory."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 591.

ANTRIM, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1773, to the R. of Temple Patrick: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. George Macartney, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Antrim is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 84 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 14th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. It is situate on the Six Mile Water, over which it hath a Bridge, and at the North end of Lough Neagh. This parish contains 7695 acres of land.—" Durtract, a Disciple of St. Patrick, founded an Abbey at Aondrium, or Entrumia."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 2.

ANY, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..1..6. sterling, and united by Act of Council, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Ballinloghy, Ballynamona, Ballynard, Hospital, Kilfrush, and Long: a Church, in good repair, in Any: a Glebe House, under repair: a Glebe, of 4 a. 3 r. 4 p., at Any; and another, of 5 a. 3 r. 30 p., at Long: The Rev. John Preston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Any is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. E. from Bruff. Here are two Castles, which belonged to the Earl of Desmond. This Parish contains 4086 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the whole of the Union of Any furnishes a very moderate Income, and in the opinion of the Diocesan should not, therefore, be dissolved. The Vicarial Tythes only are received by the Incumbent.—" A Friary for Eremites, following the rule of St. Augustine, was founded here in the reign of King Henry II. by John, the son of Robert, and sundry others. The ruins of this building are still visible."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 417.

ARANBEG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Aranbeg is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Ballynakill.

ARANMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Aranmore is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Ballynakill, and Arran, Isles. It is situate at the entrance of Galway Bay, and is one of the South Arran Isles.

ARBENSIS, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, the Festival of St. Cuann, who lived in the Eighth century, is holden on the 10th of July. It is now unknown.

ARBOE, or ARDBOE, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4. sterling: an old Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 212 Scotch acres, lying together, close to the church: The Rev. Francis Hall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Arboe is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. E. from Stewart's Town. It is situate upon Lough Neagh.—" A noble and celebrated Monastery was founded here by St. Colman, the son of Aid, and surnamed Mucaidhe; his reliques were long preserved in this Abbey, and his festival is kept on the 21st of February. There still remain here the walls of an old church, with a Cross, in good preservation, about fifteen feet in height, on which are several Inscriptions."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 678.

ARCHERSTOWN, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. Lublin places a Friary of Augustinian Eremites here, on the banks of the river Nore, which Mr. Archdall says must be an error.

ARDAGH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 acres: The Rev. Brinsley Nixon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but resides chiefly on his other Living in the Diocese of Meath: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. John Mac Beth, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Ardagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. N. W. from Youghall.

ARDAGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the Parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Limerick. Ardagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. from Rathkeale. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 14th of August, and 21st of November. See, St. Michael's, Limerick.

ARDAGH, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: three Glebes, about two miles distant from each other, containing 435 acres: The Hon. and Rev. Richard Bourke, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice, at Temple Michael, in this Diocese; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ardagh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. W. S. W. from Edgworthstown. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, and 26th of August. The See of Ardagh, which is valued in the King's Books at £11. sterling, was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the middle of the Fifth century. In 1658, it was united to the Bishoprick of Kilmore, and continued so, till Dr. Hort was promoted from those Sees to the Archbishoprick of Tuam in 1741, when they were again separated, and Ardagh was annexed to the Archbishoprick; which Union has continued ever since, though the Diocese of Elphin intervenes between them. It extends into six counties, and yet is a very small Diocese; the greatest length from North to South being 42 miles, and the breadth, which is in some places but four, never exceeding 14 miles. In this Diocese there are a Dean, and Archdeacon, but no Chapter, nor Episcopal Residence; neither can the Church of Ardagh be called a Cathedral. The Patronage of one parish belongs to the Crown; the Bishop presents to thirty; and a Lay Patron to six.—" St. Patrick founded an Abbey in this town before the year 454, over which he placed St. Mell, the son of his sister Darerca, both as Abbot and Bishop. Some writers make this Saint the Founder, but in that particular they must err, as Archbishop Usher informs us, that he acquired an humble livelihood by the labour of his own hands, and died on the 6th of February, A. D. 488. He was buried in his own church, and was said to have wrote a treatise on the virtues and miracles of St. Patrick.—We know not when the Franciscan Friary here was founded, but are told, that it was reformed by the Friars of the Strict Observance in the year 1521."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 437.

ARDAGH, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Attymass, Ballinahaglish, Killbelfad, Killgarvey, and Killmore-Moy: There are two Churches; the one, situate in the parish of Killmore-Moy, in good repair; the other, in the parish of Ardagh; according to the Ecclesiastical Report, to build this last mentioned church, the sum of £500. was granted by the Board of First Fruits, twelve or thirteen years ago; it has never been completed, nor any account furnished how the money has been expended: a Glebe House, in the parish of Killmore-Moy, and 11 acres of Glebe contiguous: there are also about 20 acres of Glebe in this Union, situate three miles from the church of Killmore-Moy: The Rev. John King, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ardagh is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¼ m. W. S. W. from Ballina. The parishes in the Union of Ardagh are contiguous to each other; their estimated extent being 11 miles in length, and 9 miles in breadth.

ARDAGH, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, lately built: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Woods, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ardagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. E. from Nobber.

ARDAMINE, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donaghmore: a Church, in repair. Ardamine is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. S. E. from Gorey. It is situate near the Irish Sea. See, Donaghmore.

ARDBRACCAN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, on the 20th of December, 1771, to the Rectories of Churchtown, Liscarten, (V. of) Martry, and Rateyne; and, on the 23d of December 1780, to the Rectory of Clon Mac Duff: a Church, in Ardbraccan, in complete repair: a Glebe House, with every necessary office, on a Glebe, of 37 acres, within a quarter of a mile of the church: The Rev. Dean Richard Moore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Ardbraccan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. from Navan. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Boys. The Right Rev. Thomas Lewis O'Beirne, D. D., Lord Bishop (in 1806) is resident in the Palace. The parishes in the Union of Ardbraccan are contiguous; that of Ardbraccan containing 2864 acres of land.—" This was one of the ancient Bishopricks which now form the Diocese of Meath. In the year 1641, it was a place of considerable strength. The late Bishop (in 1786), The Hon. Henry Maxwell, D. D., erected a magnificent Palace here.—" A. D. 650, died the Abbot St. Braccan, from whom this place is named; his feast is holden on the 16th of July. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 510.

ARDCANDRISH, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Ardcandrish is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. W. b. N. from Wexford. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Wexford.

ARDCANNY, in the Barony of Kenry, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; the Vicarage being also valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 31 a. 3 r. 20 p., close to the church: The Rev. Thomas Burgh, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in Person. Ardcanny is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. W. b. S. from Limerick. It is situate upon the River Shannon.

ARDCARNE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0. sterling: a Church: a Glebe, lately granted by the present Bishop of Elphin, whereon a Glebe House has (in 1805) been erected by The Rev. John H. Gouldsbury, A. M., the Incumbent; who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ardcarne is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. E. S. E. from Boyle. This parish is about nine square miles in extent.—" We know not to whom the foundation of the Abbey of Regular Canons here should be given, but are told that Beaidh, bishop of Ardcarna, died in 523.—Here also we find a Benedictine Nunnery, which was a Cell to the Abbey of Kilcreunata, in the County of Galway."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 598.

ARDCATH, v. ARDEATH.

ARDCAVAN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. Ardcavan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Wexford. It is situate upon Wexford Haven; over which there is a Ferry here. See, Ardcolme.

ARDCHARN, in the Barony of ——, Co of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall there was an Abbey of this name, of which St. Beoaid was Bishop, who died 8th of March, A. D. 523.

ARDCLENIS, or ARDELINIS, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter to the R. of Agherton, by James I, in 1609, as the Corps of the Treasurership of Connor: no Glebe, or Glebe House: a Curate for occasionals, at a Salary of £14. per annum. Ardclenis is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. b. W. from Glenarm. This parish is mountainous, and contains 2000 acres of land. It is 30 miles distant from Agherton. It is situate upon Cashendal or Red Bay, in the North Channel. See, Agherton.

ARDCOLME, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..3..7 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 14th of December 1764, to the Rectories of Artramont, and St. Margaret's, and the Vicarages of Ardcavan, Ballyvalloo, Kilpatrick, St. Nicholas, Skreen, and Tickillen: a Church, in repair, at Castle Bridge, in the parish of Ardcolme: a Glebe House, newly erected by the present Incumbent: five Glebes; one, of 32 a. 0 r. 20 p., at Ardcolme: the second, of 19 a. 3 r. 35 p., at Ballyvalloo; the third, of 1 a. 2 r. 6 p., at Kilpatrick; the fourth, of 19 acres, at Skreen; and the fifth, of 3 acres, at Tickillen: the four latter glebes being contiguous nearly to the sites of their respective churches: The Rev. Frederick Draffen, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Ardcolme is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Wexford. It is situate to the Northward of Wexford Haven. The parishes in the Union of Ardcolme are all contiguous; their contents being 9513 acres.

ARDCRONY, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Modreeny. Ardcrony is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. S. from Burresokeane. See, Modreeny.

ARDCULLOM, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carrick upon Suir; The Church is in ruins. Ardcullom is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. W. N. W. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate near the River Suir. See, Carrick upon Suir.

ARDEA or BALLYCOWLAN, in the Barony of Portnehinch, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coolbanagher. The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £10..3..0½ sterling. Ardea is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. See, Coolbanagher.

Rochestown, and the Vicarages of Mullogh, Neddans, and Newcastle: a new Church, building, in the parish of Ardfinan: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 a. 1 r. 16 p., at Ardfinan, about one mile from the church; another, of 16 a. 0 r. 35 p., at Rochestown, about half a quarter of a mile from the church at Ardfinan; and a third, of 11 a. 0 r. 30 p., at Neddans, about one mile from the church at Ardfinan: there is also a Glebe in the parish of Newcastle, the bounds of which cannot be ascertained, nor is it in the possession of the Incumbent: these glebes are not contiguous: The Rev. Archibald Douglas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Clonmell, and discharges the duties in person. Ardfinan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. W. S. W. from Clonmell. It is divided by the River Suir, into two parts. The Castle, which is now in ruins, was erected by King John, when he was Earl of Moreton, and Lord of Ireland, in 1184. The parishes in the Union of Ardfinan are contiguous; that of Ardfinan containing 922 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Union of Ardfinan, as it now stands, ought to be made perpetual; and a Glebe House ought to be built on the nearest glebe to the church.—"St. Finian, the Leper, who flourished after the middle of the Sixth century, founded an Abbey of Regular Canons here, which existed in 903, for about that time Cormac Mac Cuillenan, the celebrated Archbishop and Monarch of Munster, bequeathed to it one ounce of gold and one of silver, with his horse and arms.—A Monastery for Conventual Franciscans was founded here; but we have no farther account of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 639.

ARDGLASS, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Ballyphilip; being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Down: no Church: The occasional duties are discharged by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Dunsford, at a Salary of £15. per annum. Ardglass is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. S. from Downpatrick. This parish contains 600 acres of land. It gives title of Viscount to the Family of Barrington. It is situate on the Irish Sea. See, Ballyphilip.

ARDIA, v. MAGILLAGAN.

ARDICNISE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster.—"There was a Friary of Franciscans here; but the time of its foundation is not known."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 106.

ARDKEEN, v. ARDQUIN.

ARDLADHRANN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Religious House was endowed by Dyma, the Son of Fintan, and was given by him to St. Maidoc.

ARDMACNASCA, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.—"On Lough Laoigh (now Lough Neagh). Laisrean, the son of Neasca and Abbot of Hy, was Founder and Abbot of this Abbey. He died the 25th of October, about the year 650, and is Patron of the Place."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 2.

ARDMORE, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, being the Corps of the Precentorship of Lismore, which is valued in the King's Books £10. sterling; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 21st of January 1791, to the Vicarages of Ballymacart, and Rinagonagh; and these again Episcopally united to the Rectory, in the year 1797: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Ardmore: a Glebe House, in the parish of Ardmore: a Glebe, of 90 acres, belonging to the Precentor, at Ardmore, very near the church; and another, of 18 acres, at Lismore: these two glebes are about fifteen miles distant: a Glebe, of 8 acres, belonging to the Vicar, at Ardmore, very near the church: another, of 8 acres, near the site of the old church of Ballymacart, but of which the present Vicar never was in possession; and a third, of 1½ acre, very distant from all the other glebes, adjacent to the site of the old church of Rinagonagh: The Rev. Ponsonby May Carew, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Ardmore is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. b. W. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. The parishes in the Union of Ardmore are contiguous; the extent of each is very great; but they are in great part mountainous, uncultivated, and uninhabited. In the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory of Ardmore is recommended to be perpetually united to the Vicarage, and to the Vicarage of Ballymacart.—"St. Declan, a native of this country, was Bishop and Abbot of Ardmore; his Festival is holden on the 24th of July: And St. Ultan, the successor of St. Declan, was alive after the year 550. The remains of two ancient churches are still to be seen here: one, on a Cliff near the Sea, quite in ruins, which seems to have been the first erection: the other, stands about a mile North-west of the former, and is very ancient; an handsome Gothic arch, which separates the body of this church from the chancel, yet remains, and the pillars supporting it are more massive than those of the Tuscan order, which denotes the antiquity of the building; the chancel is roofed, and at present is used for Divine Service. On the West end of this church are some figures in alto relievo, in free-stone, venerable for their antiquity, viz., Adam and Eve, with the tree and serpent, the judgment of Solomon, &c. Here also is a fine Round tower, upwards of 100 feet in height and 45 in circumference, and in the church-yard is a small low building, called The Dormitory of St. Declan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 684.

ARDMOY, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1797, to the V. of Loughgule: a Church, in tolerable repair: a good Glebe House, on a Glebe of 23 acres, near the church: The Rev. Richard Russell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ardmoy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 8m. N. E. from Ballymoney. This parish contains 5060 acres of land, and is contiguous to the parish of Loughgule. It is situate on the River Bush. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of January, 25th of February, 29th of March, 25th of May, 12th of November, and 25th of December. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. It is one of the parishes, which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor. See, Billy, and Ocymild.

ARDMULCHAN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £21..15..6. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Painstown. Ardmulchan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Navan. It is situate on the River Boyne. This parish contains 1964 acres of land. See, Painstown.—"By an Inquisition taken in the 10th of King James, it was found, that in the parish church of St. Mary was a perpetual Chantry of one Priest, who was constantly to celebrate Service therein. The Chantry was a Body corporate, &c."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 512.

ARDNACRANNA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Friary of Carmelites. But we know nothing further of it.

ARDNAGEEHY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R.: a new Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. William Lewis Beaufort, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides near the Cathedral, in Cork, being Preacher Residentiary there; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Ardnageehy is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Rathcormuck.

ARDNARY, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the River Moy, opposite to Ballina. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of June, 10th of October, and 13th of December.—"A Monastery for Eremites, following the Rule of St. Augustin, was built here in the year 1427."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 625.

ARDNURCHER, or HORSE-LEAP, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the annexed Chapelries of Kilcomreagh, Killbride Tangan alias Clara, Kilmanaghan, and Rahue: two Churches, in thorough repair; one in Ardnurcher, the other in Clara: no Glebe House, but one now building: a Glebe, of 55 acres, in Ardnurcher, one mile from the church: three Glebes interspersed, in Kilcomreagh, but convenient to each other, and not far from the old chapel, containing in all, 103 acres: three Glebes, in Kilmanaghan, containing 52 acres, about one mile asunder from each other, and one of them about a mile from Clara Church: The Rev. H. Usher, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in this Diocese: the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates, at a Salary of £100. per annum to that of Ardnurcher, and of £50. per annum to that of Clara. Ardnurcher is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. N. W. from Killbeggan. This parish contains 5701 acres of land. The parishes in the Union of Ardnurcher are contiguous, except Rahue, which is about half a mile distant from the boundary of Ardnurcher. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it would be expedient to disunite this very extensive vicarage. Kilmanaghan and Clara, with the Chapelry of Rahue, might form a distinct parish, with an income of about £300. per annum, and 52 acres of glebe to build on, within a mile of Clara church.

ARDPATRICK, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0. sterling. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Kilmallock. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 26th of April, 22d of September, and 17th of November.

ARDPATRICK, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, it is situate to the East of Louth, where a church was founded by St. Patrick: but we know no other particulars respecting it.

ARDQUIN, or ABACCY, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Inch, and the V. of Witter; a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Ardquin is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 1740 acres of land. It is 2 m. N. from Portaferry. The name is a corruption of Ard Cuan, i. e. A Height over the Lake Strangford, formerly called Lough Cuam. See; Inch.—"King Henry the Fourth, on the 1st of May, 1411, made a grant to Thomas Chenele of the Alien Priory of Eynes, in the Ardes: and to hold the same, so long as it should remain in the King's hands, it having been seized on account of the War between England and France. This Priory might probably have stood at Abaccy, a Bishop's Lease, and late the Seat of Charles Echlin, Esq."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 120.

ARDRA, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a Chapel of Ease. It is 8 m. N. from Killybeggs. It is situate upon the River Awin-Ea, at the bottom of Lochrusmore Bay.

ARDRAHAN, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling, and Episcopally united, about 70 years since, to the R. and V. of Beagh: one Church, lately built: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of about 13 acres, dispersed in seven Lots in different parts of the parish of Ardrahan: The Rev. John Upton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in England, being past 70 years of age, and infirm: The duties are discharged by a Licensed Curate, at a Salary of £75. but to be increased to £90. per annum, when he shall become constantly resident in the parish. Ardrahan is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4¼ m. N. b. E. from Gort. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 12th of September, and 12th of November. It is situate upon the River Gurtnamackin. The parishes in the Union of Ardrahan are not contiguous: being about 10 miles distant, with the intervention of the Rectory of Kiltartan. See, Beagh.

ARDREE, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Parish, constituting part of the Union of Nicholastown. Ardree is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is ¾ m. S. b. E. from Athy. It is situate upon the River Barrow. See, Nicholastown.

ARDRISTAN, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghade. Ardristan is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Tullow. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Aghade.

ARDSALLAGH, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Navan. Ardsallagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. from Navan. It is situate on the River Boyne. It gives title to the Family of Ludlow, created Viscount Preston of Ardsallagh. Here is a beautiful seat of the Earl of Ludlow. This parish contains 948 acres of land. See, Navan. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery was founded here; but of which nothing further is known.

ARDSALLIS, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. Here is one of the principal Horse Fairs in Ireland.

ARDSEINLIS, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—"St. Patrick built a Nunnery here for St. Lalloca, who was sister to St. Mel."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 626.

ARDSKEAGH, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, though locally situate in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhay. Ardskeagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. S. b. E. from Charleville. See, Ballyhay.

ARDSTRAW, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 3. m. N. W. from Newtown Stewart. A village, situate upon a branch of the River Morne.

ARDSTRAW, or ARDSTRAGH, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling: a Church, in perfect order, the tower built, and spire building: a Glebe House; 710 acres of Glebe; of which, 250 acres are one mile from the church, 320 acres two miles, and 140 acres five miles: The Rev. Gerald Fitzgerald, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate. Ardstraw is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Newtown Stewart, on the North West. It is situate on the River Moyle.—" Before the year 1240 this ancient Bishoprick was united to Clogher, but since that time it has made a part of the Diocese of Derry."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 678.

ARDVERNEY, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. S. E. from Kesh.

ARIODHMUILT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—" We find an ancient Monastery of this name near Lough Earn, of which St. Ternoc was Abbot. But it is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 258.

ARKILL, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

ARKLOW, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the V. of Enorely, and the Curacies of Kilbride, Killahurler, Kilmain, and Temple-Michael: a Church, old; but a new one is building, and is very nearly finished: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one rood, in the town of Arklow: The Rev. Henry Lambert Bayley, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. William Eaton, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Arklow is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 36 m. S. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 9th of August, 25th of September, and 15th of November. It is situate upon the River Ovoca, near the Irish Sea. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Girls. It gives title of Baron to the Family of Butler. The parishes in the Union of Arklow are all contiguous; their extent being 7 miles from North to South, and 3 miles from East to West. It has six Post-days in the week.—" Theobald Fitz Walter, fourth Butler of Ireland, founded a Monastery here for Dominican Friars, under the Invocation of the Holy Ghost; he died on the 26th of September, A. D. 1285, in his Castle of Arklow, and was interred in this Friary, where a Tomb, with his Statue thereon, was erected over him. Large ruins of this noble structure still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 759.

ARMAGH, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £25. sterling: The Right Hon. and Most Rev. William Stewart, D. D., Lord Primate, and Metropolitan of ALL Ireland, in 1810; The Cathedral: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 297 a. 3 r. 6½ p. contignous, and near the church: The Hon. and Rev. Viscount Lifford, LL. D., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Armagh is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 62 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 10th of July, 12th of August, Tuesday before the 10th of October, and the 20th of November. This City (now called the Town) sends one Member to Parliament: Patronage, in the Lord Primate. The Assizes for the County are holden here. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, and Register. It is situate near the River Callen. It has six Post-days in the week. According to Dr. Beaufort, the city of Armagh, which was very much decayed, was renovated, and is become a pretty town, of good size, and well inhabitated, through the attention and munificence of Richard Robinson, D. D., Baron Rokeby, late Lord Primate: who built there a handsome Archiepiscopal Palace, and a noble House for the School, which is one of the Royal Foundations (of Charles the First), and is extremely well endowed. To these His Grace added a Public Library for the promotion of science. He also erected a complete Observatory, with a liberal establishment for the support of an Astronomer; and secured the permanency of his endowments, by several Acts of Parliament, obtained for that purpose. This See, which is valued in the King's Books at £183..17..1½ sterling, was founded by St. Patrick about the middle of the Fifth century, and was made an Archbishoprick, in the year 1152. It extends into five counties, being 59 miles from North to South and varying in breadth from 10 to 25 miles. The Chapter consists of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, Archdeacon, and four Prebendaries, with eight Vicars Choral. The city of Armagh is 35 miles distant from the extremity of the Diocese. According to the Report of the Commissioners of the Board of Education, the lands, with which the School of Armagh is endowed, contain, as appears by the last Survey, made in the year 1771, 1530 acres English measure, including Roads, Lakes, Rivers, and also about 100 acres of Bog. The Lands are situate in the county of Armagh, between the towns of Newry and Armagh. It appears, that these lands produced, in the year 1804, the gross annual rent of £1144..10..5½. The present Master, The Rev. Thomas Carpendale, A. M., was appointed by Primate Robinson, in the year 1786, to be Master, upon the resignation of Dr. Gruebere, for a valuable consideration. Mr. Carpendale is stated to have paid, during the whole time that he has been Master, the closest and most laudable attention to the duties of the School; and no School in this country maintains a higher reputation than that of Armagh.—"St. Patrick, the great Apostle of this Kingdom, founded an Abbey here, A. D. 445, or in 457, for Regular Canons of the Order of St. Augustin, and dedicated it to the Apostles St. Peter and St. Paul; it continued, for many ages, one of the most celebrated Ecclesiastical Foundations in the world.—This Abbey, and all the possessions thereunto belonging, were granted, in May 1612, to Sir Toby Caulfield, Knight, at the Rent of £5. Irish.—The Culdei, or Colidei, were secular Priests, and served in the Choir of the Cathedral of Armagh: their President was called, The Prior of the College of the Culdei, and was a Precentor to the said church: Upon a vacancy, a Prior was elected by the whole College of the Culdei, but he received his confirmation from the Archbishop.—Temple Brigid is said to have been founded in this Town by St. Patrick.—Temple Fartagh, or The Church of the Miracles, was founded without the town by the same Saint, for St. Lupita, his eldest sister, who was buried here: And, in the beginning of the last century, her Body was found buried deeply under the rubbish of her ancient Nunnery, in a standing posture; two crosses were also discovered closely guarding the body before and behind. On the 9th of January, 1618, King James granted the Monasteries of Temple Fartagh, and Temple Brigid, to Francis Annesley, Esq.—Porter in his Annals tells us, that there was a Dominican Friary at Armagh; which is more than probable, otherwise the Primate Scanlain, who was of that Order, would not have made his Foundation for the Friars Minor.—The Friars of the Order of St. Francis were brought into this Town, A. D. 1261, and Patrick Scanlain, who was then Primate, built a House for them two years after: Though Wadding, the Franciscan, as quoted by Allemande, assures us, that it was founded, in the year 1291, by O'Donnel. The Franciscans of the strict observance began to reform this Friary in 1518, but it was not then perfected. In 1580, Walter Mac Cuard was Guardian, and, in 1583, Solomon Mac Conny was Guardian, in whose time the reformation was completed."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 14. et seq.

ARMOY, v. ARDMOY.

ARRAGELL, v. ERRIGALL.

ARRAN, ISLES, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. Three Islands in the Atlantic Ocean, opposite to the Bay of Galway; the principal of them was called, Arran Naomh, that is, Arran of the Saints, a number of churches having been erected in this island, in which the bodies of many Saints repose. Ængus, king of Cashel, at the request of St. Albeus, granted this island to St. Enna, or Endeus, who built ten churches on it; and about the year 490, he was Abbot of Killenda, the principal of those churches, and to which all the rest were subject. The feast of St. Endeus, who died in the beginning of the Sixth century, is observed on the 21st of March.—The Middle, or Second Island, on which are only two churches; one is called, Teampull-ceannan-nach, each of them was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and both were subordinate to the church of Killenda.—Ardoilen, the third of the Isles of Arran, was anciently called Aracoemhain, and took its name from St. Coemann, the Patron of it. Three churches were erected here, that of Kil-choemhain, where St. Columb is honoured, another dedicated to St. Paul, and the third, called Kil-gradh-an-domhain, in which St. Gobnata is honoured on the 11th of February.

Kil-choemhain was a Monastery of note, and was founded by St. Fechin. The Abbot St. Gormgal, justly celebrated for his piety, died A. D. 1017, on the 5th of August, on which day his feast is holden; from whence we must conclude, that this abbey existed several ages.—A Franciscan Friary was founded on one of these islands in the year 1485."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 271.

ARRAN MORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

ARTAGH, or TIBOHINE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. John H. Goulds-bury, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice, in this Diocese: The duties are discharged by The Rev. John French, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Artagh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1½ m. N. N. W. from French Park. This parish is about twenty square miles in extent. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Baithen was Bishop here in the year 640: where was, in former times, a celebrated school.

ARTRAMONT, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ard-colme. Artramont is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. from Wexford. See, Ardcolme.

ARTREA, or ARDTRAGH, in the Barony of Dungannon Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. 13..4 sterling: two Churches; one, at Artrea, the other, at Lisnamarron, both in good order: no Glebe House; 130 Irish acres of Glebe; 100 of which are in the parish of Donaghmore, 19 in Dysertlyn, and 11 in Artrea, not contiguous; the two former being 10 miles asunder, the two latter about five: those lying in Donaghmore are ten miles from the church, those in Dysertlyn are five, and those in Artrea are close to it: The Rev. Robert Mac Ghee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Artrea is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. from Stewart's Town. It is situate on the River Ballinderry.

ARVAGH, in the Barony of Tullaghonoho, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. S. S. W. from Killeshandra. A village.

ASHFIELD, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; but the Curate has presented a memorial to build one: a Glebe, of 20 acres: The Rev. Benjamin Adams, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Ashfield is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh.

ASHRO, v. ASTRATH.

ASKEATON, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster; a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, having been always holden with the entire Rectory of Lismakeery, but are considered as only Episcopally united: a Church, in good repair, in Askeaton: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 2 r. 23 p., in Askeaton, near the church; and another of 13 a. 2 r. 16 p., in Lismakeery, near the old church there: The Rev. Gustavus Wybrants, the Incumbent in (1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish of Askeaton, and performs the duties in person. Askeaton is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 14 m. W. S. W. from Limerick. It is situate upon the River Shannon, on the influx of the River Deel. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of July, and 9th of October. The Castle was built by the Earl of Desmond. It was formerly a large walled town, but is now a small depopulated village. A Monastery was founded here, adjoining to the castle, in the year 1490, for Conventual Franciscans, by James the seventh Earl of Desmond. This Monastery, according to Mr. Archdall, was of such consequence, that a Provincial Chapter of the order was holden there in the year 1564.

ASSEY, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, in 1798, to the Rectories of Balsoon, Clonarney, and Killagh: no Church: no Glebe House: 13 acres of Glebe, in Killagh, lying in four parcels near the ruins of the old church; and two acres also in Assey, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. Mark Wainwright, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, being the Inspector and Chaplain to the Gaol of Trim, where he resides: The duties are discharged by the neighbouring Clergymen. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it appears, that another distribution of these parishes would be expedient: they are of small income, and there are other parishes also of small incomes contiguous to them, with which they might be perpetually united, if the Patrons would give their consent. Assey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. from Navan. It is situate upon the River Boyne. This parish contains 690 acres of land. The parishes of Assey, and Balsoon, are contiguous; those of Clonarney, and Killagh, are at the distance of 12 miles from them, and these again are separated by the intervening parishes of Dysertale, and Castletown Delvin.

ASTRATH, anciently ASHRO, EASROE, and EASRUADH, and also THE ABBEY DE SAMARIO, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. Is situate on the River Erne, near the Town of Ballyshannon. —"An Abbey was founded here for Monks of the Cistertian Order by Roderick O'Cananan, Prince of Tyrconnell. He was slain in battle by O'Flachertach, who succeeded him: some writers make O'Flachertach the founder. This abbey was a daughter of that of Boyle."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 93.

ATHADDY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster.—"About the year 1151, an Abbey was founded here, for Nuns of the Order of St Augustine, by Dermot, the son of Murchard, King of Leinster. He appointed it to be a Cell to the Nunnery of St. Mary de Hoggis in the city of Dublin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 35.

ATHASSEL, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, and united, at a period prior to any known record, to the Rectories entire of Ballygriffin, Dangandargan, and Relickmurry: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but one about to be built: a Glebe, lately obtained, of 20 acres: The Rev. Patrick Hare, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjoining parish of Cashel, and performs the duties. Athassel is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. W. from Cashel. It is situate upon the River Suir. The parishes in the union of Athassel are contiguous, and contain together about 7000 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this union is not too extensive for the accommodation of the Parishioners, and the convenient performance of Parochial duty.—"Here William Fitz Adelm de Burgo founded a Priory, under the Invocation of St. Edmund the King and Martyr, for Canons Regular of the order of St. Augustin. The Prior sat as a Baron in Parliament. The ruins of this abbey show it to have been equal, if not superior, to any monastic edifice in this kingdom. The choir measures 44 feet in length and 26½ in breadth; on the North and South sides are small aisles, which we rather suppose were designed for some other purpose, as their communication with the main building is by doors parallel to the choir, &c.; on the South side is a long range, with one entire low arch, 24 feet broad and 37 long: it then diminishes to 10 feet in width, and stretches out 24 feet longer; on the West end thereof, and on the South side of the nave, are part of the windows and outer walls of the cloisters, forming a square of 63 feet; on the South side is another long range of building, with the lower part divided by arches. The nave appears to have been of the same breadth with the choir, and supported by lateral aisles; it measures by the exterior walls 117 feet in length and 58 in breadth; in the South-west corner is a small chapel, with an arched roof sustained by diagonal and central ogives. The steeple was a lofty square building, of which the South side only remains. About forty yards West of the nave, is an entrance through a small gate, wherein had been a portcullis; the passage to this is by a small ancient bridge, over a low, marshy piece of ground; the view from hence, through the nave and steeple, terminating at the high altar, must have been highly picturesque. To describe minutely each part of this extensive ruin would be insufferably tedious; we shall, therefore, only add, that the whole work was uniform, regular, and finished in a fine limestone."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 640.

ATHBOY, in the Barony of Lune, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £23..14..2½ Irish Money, and united, by Act of Council, on the 26th of April, 1678, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Girly, Kildalkey, Moyagher, and Rathmore: a Church, in Athboy, in complete repair; four detached Glebes; one, of 4a. 0r. 9p., within less than a quarter of a mile of the church, whereon there is a small Glebe House, which is fitting up for the residence of the Curate; another Glebe, of 6a. 1r. 12p., adjoining the church; a third, of 2a. 0r. 25p., one mile from it; and in Girly, is a fourth Glebe, of 1a. 2r. 0p., two miles from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Ham. Cuffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, together with the house, and glebe attached thereto. Athboy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 29 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 6th of August, and 7th of November. The parishes in the Union of Athboy are contiguous; that of Athboy containing 5881 acres. It has six Post-days in the week. —"On the 17th of October, 1317, a license was granted to William de Loundres, permitting him to make a grant to the Friars of the Blessed Virgin of Mount Carmel, in Athboy, that Lot of ground in the said town whereon this Monastery was erected."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 513.

ATHDALARAGH, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught.—"A Ford on the River Boyle, and adjoining which, as we suppose, stood the Abbey of Regular Canons; whereof Comgallan was Bishop in the time of St. Patrick. The abbey existed in the year 1201."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 599.

ATHENASSEY, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmallock. Athenassey is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N.E. from Kilmallock. See, Kilmallock.

ATHENRY, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a consolidated R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £17..2..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Chapelry of Abbert, and Duy Mac Loughney: a Church, in Athenry, in good repair; and a Church or Chapel of Ease, in Monivea, being in the parish of Athenry, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land; but one small House or Cabbin, in the town of Athenry: The Hon. and Rev. Joseph Bourke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and having a Faculty, resides in his Deanery House in Kilkenny, in the Diocese of Ossory: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Coffy, his Resident Curate of Athenry, at a Salary of £60. per annum: and The Rev. David Gregg, his Resident Curate of Abbert and Duy Mac Loughney, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Athenry is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 97 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. It is an ancient corporation, and is governed by a Portrieve. It gives title of Baron to the Family of Bermingham, Premier Baron of Ireland. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of May, 2d of July, and 28th of October. It has three Post-days in the week. The extent of the parish of Athenry is about 10 miles in length, and about 9 miles in breadth.—"Meyler de Bermingham, the second Baron of Athenry, gave to the Dominican Friars 160 Marcs to assist in building this house, and granted the land whereon to erect it; he also presented to them (on the completion of the building, as we suppose) an hogshead of wine. De Bermingham was induced to begin this work by letters from St. Dominick, and a noble Monastery was erected here, under the Invocation of St. Peter and St. Paul, in the year 1241. The ruins which remain of this friary, prove it to have been a sumptuous building; part of it was taken down to erect in its room the present Barracks, and the Cloisters probably stood where the Barrack-yard is now; the whole was well built of a blue coloured stone; the tower, for half its height, is larger below than above. The great East window is bold and of good workmanship: there were here numbers of Mausoleums, but the soldiers have erased them all, and with their fragments the church is nearly covered.—A Franciscan Friary was founded here in the year 1464, under the Invocation of St. Michael, by Thomas Earl of Kildare; his wife, Margaret Gibbon, erected the first Chapel; the second was built by an Earl of Desmond, and the third by O'Tully."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 272. et seq.

ATHERDEE, v. ARDEE.

ATHLACCA, or ATHLETRICHE, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromin. Athlacca is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Bruff. It is situate on the River Maig. See, Dromin.

ATHLAGGIN, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 8½ m. N. N. E. from Galway. A village.

ATHLEAGUE, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8. sterling, and Episcopally united, for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, to the vicarages of Fuerty, and Kilbegnet: a Church, in Athleague, and also one in Fuerty, both in good repair: no Glebe House; 20 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Thomas Crawford, A.M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and dicharges the duties, assisted by The Rev. William Massey, his Curate; these two churches are within two miles of each other, and the duty is alternate. Athleague is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. from Roscommon. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of July, and 24th of September. The parishes in the Union of Athleague are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about 23 square miles. It is situate upon the River Suck. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey here.

ATHLETRICHE, v. ATHLACCA.

ATHLONE, partly in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught; and partly in the Barony of Brawny, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Borough town, containing

In that part, which is in the county of Roscommon, a Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..2..0 sterling: a Church, dedicated to St. Peter: a Glebe, of six acres, granted by the Incorporated Society, and on which is a Glebe House, built, together with the church, in the year 1804: The Rev. Annesley Strean, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. This parish is estimated to extend about 8 square miles.

In that part which is in the County of West Meath, a Vicarage: a Church, in complete repair: a Glebe House, building, on a Glebe of eight acres, close to the church: The Rev. James Wideman Sterling, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person.

Athlone is partly in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam; and partly in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 59 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the first Monday after twelve days after Old Christmas day, 21st of March, Wednesday before Ascension day, and the first Monday in September. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; Patronage, in the Families of Handcock, and St. George. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Vice-Sovereign, two Bailiffs, a Recorder, Deputy, and Town Clerk. It gives title of Earl to the Family of Ginkle, as a reward for the noble services performed by the General, in the year 1691. The Right Hon. Viscount Dillon is Constable and Governor of the Garrison; and John Dillon is Deputy, in 1810. The town is divided into two parts by the River Shannon, which are united by a strong, high-raised and well built Bridge. Here is a Charter School, for 40 Boys. Near this is a celebrated chalybeate Spring.—"Here we find an Abbey, which was founded for Cistertian Monks under the Invocation of St. Peter. Other writers give the Dedication to St. Benedict, and say it was founded for Monks of his order. In a table of the Procurations of the Church of Elphin, this is called the Monastery de Innocentia. In that part, called The English Town, situate on the East of the Shannon, a Monastery was founded for Conventual Franciscans by Cathal, or Charles Croibh Dearg O'Connor, Prince of Connaught, who not living to finish the building, it was completed by Sir Henry Dillon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 600, 705.

ATHLUMNEY, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..2..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Navan. Athlumney is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. S. b. E. from Navan. It is situate on the River Boyne. This parish contains 1329 acres of land. See, Navan.

ATHMOY, in the Barony of——, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught.

—"Clarus Macmoylin O'Moillchonry, Archdeacon of Elphin, built this church to the Honour of the Holy Trinity, for Præmonstre or White Canons, which he brought from Loughkee. He died in the year 1251. At the suppression, its possessions were granted to Robert Harrison, who assigned the same to William Crofton."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 626.

ATHNECARNE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery for Dominican Friars was founded here in the Fourteenth century, by Robert Dillon of Drumrany.

ATHNET, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is $1\frac{1}{4}$ m. S. from Croom. It is situate upon the River Maig.

ATHNOWEN, or ST. OWEN'S, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: one Rectory and Vicarage, being Episcopally united to the Prebend of Kilnaglory: one Rectory Impropriate, in the King: the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 14 a. 3 r. 37 p., about one hundred yards from the church. Athnowen is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is $6\frac{1}{2}$ m. W. S. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Bride. Here is a remarkable Cave. See, Kilnaglory.

ATHY, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a Corporate Town, in which are the following Parishes, viz.,

St. John, a Chapel. } each perpetually united to the St. Michael, an Impropriate Parish. } Vicarage of Nicholastown.

Athy is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 32 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 25th of April, 9th of June, 25th of July, 10th of October, and 11th of December. It was incorporated by King James the First, in 1615; and is governed by a Sovereign, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk. It is alternately with Naas, the Assizes Town for the County of Kildare: Part of the ancient Castle being now used as a Prison. It is situate upon the navigable River Barrow, by which it is divided into two parts. Here is a Free School. See, Nicholastown.—"Richard de St. Michael, Lord of Rheban, founded a Priory here in the reign of King John, under the Invocation of St. John, or rather of St. Thomas, for Crouched Friars: the Priory was situated beyond the bridge.—A Dominican Friary was founded here on the East side of the bridge by the Families of Boiseles and Hogans, in the year 1253."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 308, 309.

ATTANAGH, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, being united to the rectories of Aharney, and Attier; and of which, The Rev. Thomas Franklin, is Rector (in 1806), having neither Glebe House, nor Glebe: the Vicarage, is united to the vicarage of Aharney (by Act of Council,) to the Vicarage of Attier, and Episcopally to the Rectory and Vicarage of Kilmenan: a Church, in the parish of Attanagh: a Glebe House, in perfect repair; and a Glebe, of 42 a. 2 r. 25 p., all within one fence, and adjacent to the church-yard, in the parish of Attanagh: The Rev. Francis Law, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice, and is resident. Attanagh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. E. from Durrow. It is situate near the River Nore. The parishes in the Union of Attanagh are all contiguous.

ATTIER, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Attanagh. Attier is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Attanagh.

ATTYMASS, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardagh. Attymass is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. N. from Foxford. It is situate on the River Moy. See, Ardagh.

AUGHANLOO, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in ruins; and the walls are too bad to repair: a Glebe House; 25 acres of Glebe, near to the church: The Rev. G. V. Sampson, the Resident Incumbent (in 1806). Aughanloo is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Newtown Limavady. It is situate on Lough Foyle.

AUGHANUNSHON, or AGHANINSHON, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of above 40 acres: The Rev. George Homan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Aughanunshon is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. E. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. The rectory and vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish.

AUGHAVAL, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., united by Act of Council to the vicarages of Aghagower, Kilgavower, Kilmaclasser, and Morisk: one Church, at Aughaval, in good repair; and one church, at Louisburgh, in the parish of Kilgavower, being a perpetual cure, in good repair: a Glebe House, at Louisburgh, in good repair, with 21 acres of Glebe Land; and also a small Glebe, in Kilmaclasser: The Rev. Thomas Grace, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties of the Union, except at Louisburgh, where the duties are discharged by The Rev. John Vernon, his Curate, who resides in the glebe house there, with a salary of £60. per annum, and the 21 acres of Glebe. Aughaval is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Westport. It is situate at the Eastern extremity of Newport or Clew Bay. The parishes in the Union of Aughaval are contiguous; their extent being about 20 miles.

AUGHER, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Clogher, and 75¼ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 12th of May, 14th of August, and 12th of November. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

AUGHNACLOY, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 71 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of January, 14th of May, 5th of July, 10th of October, and the second Thursday in November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

AUGHNISHE, v. TULLY-AGHNISH.

AUGHRIM, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10*s*..0*d*. sterling, and Episcopally united for every successive Incumbent, time immemorial, to the R. of Cloonaff, and the V. of Killumod: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. John Barton, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Castlereagh: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Michael Griffin, his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Aughrim is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. S. b. E. from Carrick on the Shannon. The parishes in the Union of Aughrim are contiguous; and are estimated to extend about twelve square miles.

B.

BADONEY, LOWER, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant, in 1806: The duties being discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Lower Badoney is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. N. N. E. from Omagh. It is situate upon the River Moyle.—"St. Patrick founded the church of Both-dhomnaigh (which still retains its ancient name) in the valley of Gelann-aicle. And St. Atgenius, cook to the Saint, was a Presbyter here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 82.

BADONEY, UPPER, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10.: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House; 170 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. William Magee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Upper Badoney is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 13 m. N. N. E. from Omagh. It is situate upon the River Moyle.

BAGNEL'S-TOWN, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. S. from Leighlin-Bridge. Here is a beautiful Bridge over the River Barrow.

BAILEMEGRABHARTAICH, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"This church, or Monastery, in the Diocese of Derry, was founded by St. Columb. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 95.

BAILEMEGRABHARTAICH, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"This Monastery was founded by St. Columb, in the Diocese of Raphoe; Here the celebrated relique of St. Columb, called Cathach, was said to have been preserved. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 95.

BAILIEBOROUGH, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster; in the Parish of Moybolgue. It is 43 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of February, 17th of May, 15th of June, 17th of August, 14th of October, and 17th of November. Here is a chalybeate Spring. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALBRIGGEN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 15½ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of April, and 29th of September. It is a small Port, upon the Irish Sea, and owes its origin to the care and attention of the late Baron Hamilton. It is principally supported by its Fishery. The Pier was built under the inspection of the Baron, from large Parliamentary grants; within which Ships of 200 tons burden can lay their broad sides, and unload on the Quay. Such vessels bring coals and culm from Wales, and other places.

BALDONGAN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Christopher Robinson, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Henry Johnson, who resides in the adjoining parish, at a Salary of £50. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Parish contains only 450 acres of land, and the annual value to the Incumbent is only £54. Baldongan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 14 m. N. N. E. from Dublin. The Castle, which is the property of the Lords of Howth, is in ruins. According to Mr. Archdall, the Knights Templars had an house here, dedicated to the Virgin Mary.

BALDOYLE, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Curacy of Howth. Baldoyle is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. N. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea, and is well accommodated for the purpose of Bathing. See, Howth.

BALDWIN'S-TOWN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 9½ m. S. W. b. S. from Wexford.

BALEEK, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. W. from Newry. A village.

BALFEIGHAN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Raddonstown. Balfeighan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. N. from Kilcock. This parish contains 925 acres of land. See, Raddonstown.

BALLA, or BALLAGH, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V. and Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Minola, and Rosslee: a Church, in Balla, repairing: a Glebe House, totally out of repair, and in ruins; 17 acres of Glebe land, in Balla: The Rev. John Davis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, having a Faculty, and resides on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Dromore: The duties are discharged by The Rev. Marcus Donnelly, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Balla is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 12½ m. W. N. W. from Ballyhaunis. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of June, 24th of September, and 7th of November.—"St. Mochuo, who was more generally called Cronan, built the Abbey of Balla, in the Territory of Kera (the Barony of Carragh), and was the first Abbot thereof: He died on the 30th of March, A. D. 637, at the age of 75 years, and his commemoration is holden on the 1st of January. Here we find another Round tower."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 493.

BALLAGHADIREEN, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 89 m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th and 26th of March, 1st of May, 25th of June, 1st of August, 8th of September, 1st of November, and 22d of December. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALLAGHMOON, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Dermot. Ballaghmoon is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. b. S. from Castle Dermot. See, Castle Dermot.

BALLAGHTOBIN, v. BALLYTOBIN.

BALLAGHY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 3¾ m. N. E. from Magherafelt. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 12th of November.

BALLAGHY, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 25 m. N. W. from Strokestown.

BALLANE, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Ballane is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacdaugh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. N. from Loughrea. See, Kilcolgan.

BALLEE, v. BALLY.

BALLEGUARCY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught.—"In the year 1518, Cornelius O'Brien founded a beautiful Monastery here for Conventual Franciscans."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 407.

BALLENTULLY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Monastery here.

BALLIADAMS, or KILMACEDY, in the Barony of Balliadams, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., united, from time immemorial, to the R. of Ballintobber: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Balliadams: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant (in 1806), the title being contested: the duties are performed by a Curate, The Rev. Mr. Waller, who resides on the bounds of the Union, but five miles from the church, which is built in the extremity of the Union, at a salary of £75. per annum. Balliadams is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Athy. The parishes in the Union of Balliadams are contiguous; their contents being 3902 acres.

BALLIBOY, in the Barony of Balliboy, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Balliboy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 56 m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It has a weekly market on Saturday; and a Market also on the first day of every Month from May to November inclusive. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 21st of August, and 6th of December. It is contiguous to the Silver River. This Parish contains 4496 acres of land. See, Fircall.

BALLICOWEN, in the Barony of Ballicowen, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Raghan. It is 3¼ m. W. from Tullamore. A village. The Fair is holden on the 31st of July.

BALLIFORAN, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 3¼ m. S. E. from Ballinamore. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of February, first Thursday, O.S., in April, 21st of May, 6th of July, 19th of September, 21st of October, and the third Thursday in December. It is situate on the River Suck.

BALLIHAURA, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the Parish of Imphrick. It is 5¼ m. S. from Charleville.

BALLIMOE, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 89 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Suck. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALLINA, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 120 m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 5th of June, and 12th of August. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Moy.—"On the East side of this village are the remains of an Abbey, with a Gothic door-case in fine preservation, consisting of about twelve Members. No other account of this House has yet transpired."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 494.

BALLINA, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is connected by a bridge of 19 arches, over the River Shannon, with Killaloe.

BALLINABOY, partly in the Barony of Muskerry, and partly in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, Impropriate in the Right Hon. The Earl of Shannon: a Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: a Curate performs Divine Service every Sunday, alternately at Ballinaboy, and Tracton. Ballinaboy is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. S. b. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Awinboy.

BALLINACARRIG, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1804, to the Rectory of Ballycrogue, and the Prebend of Tullowmagrimah: a Church, in repair, at Staplestown, in the parish of Ballinacarrig: a Glebe House, now building, on a Glebe of 3 acres, within a mile of the church, in the parish of Ballinacarrig: The Rev. William Waller, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Curacy of Bally-Adams: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. O'Callaghan, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballinacarrig is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. S. E. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Burren. The parishes in the Union of Ballinacarrig are contiguous; their contents being 3135 acres.

BALLINACARIGY, v. BALNACARRIG.

BALLINACLASH, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Rathdrum. It is situate upon the River Ovoca. Here are considerable Iron-works.

BALLINACOR, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¾ m. W. from Rathdrum. It is situate upon the River Ovoca. A village.

BALLINACOURTNEY, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, Galway. Ballinacourtney is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. S. S. E. from Galway. It is situate upon Galway Bay. See, Galway.

BALLINACOURTY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united, about the year 1750, to the entire Rectory of Stradbally, and the Vicarages of Killaghin, Killflynn, Killshinane, Killtoomy, and Minard: a Church, in Ballinacourty, in good repair: and a Church, in Killflynn, also in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Ballinacourty, of 4 acres, a mile and an half from the church; and a Glebe, of above 20 acres, at Stradbally, close to the church; which is said to belong to the Rector, but has not been possessed by him, or his predecessors, for many years: The Lay-Impropriator has several glebes in the parishes: The Rev. Edwin Thomas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and performs the duties from Tralee, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £45.: and to the Incumbent of Killgobban, who performs the duties of Stradbally, the sum of £2. is paid annually. A Glebe is now immediately to be purchased by the Board of First Fruits, when the Incumbent is to build a Glebe House, and reside. Ballinacourty is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 14 m. W. S. W. from Tralee. The parishes of Ballinacourty, Minard, and Stradbally, are contiguous; as are also those of Killaghin, Killflynn, Killshinane, and Killtoomy. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately are too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLINACREAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 1½ m. W. b. S. from Cloghnakilty. A village.

BALLINADEE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period prior to any known Record, and by competent authority at the time of the Union, to the Rectories of Kilgoban, Macloneigh (vicarage endowed), and Rathdowtan, and constituting the Corps of the Treasurership of Cork, which is valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a Church, at Ballinadee: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 5 a. 2 r. 12 p., in Ballinadee: Verney Lovett, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides partly in Ballinadee, and partly at Lismore, where he has a Prebend: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. Joseph Jervois, at a Salary of £75., and the Glebe House. Ballinadee is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. E. from Bandonbridge. It is situate on the River Bandon. The parishes of Ballinadee, and Kilgoban, are contiguous; their estimated extent being 5 miles from East to West, and 2 miles from North to South. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLINAFAD, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Boyle.

BALLINAGAR, in the Barony of Geshil, King's County, and Province of Leinster. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Philipstown.

BALLINAHAGLISH, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Annagh. Ballinahaglish is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. from Tralee. It is situate upon Tralee Bay. See, Annagh.

BALLINAHAGLISH, or BELLANAGLYS, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardagh. Ballinahaglish is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Ballina. It is situate on the River Moy. See, Ardagh.

BALLINAHASSIG, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster, It is 6 m. S. from Cork. It is situate on the River Awinboy.

BALLINAHINCH, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught. A village, in the parish of Moyrus, which gives name to the Barony. Here is a charming Lake which spreads itself for some miles; and on the river, which runs from it into Roundstone Bay, there is a great Salmon fishery. The Northern parts of this Barony, and of the Barony of Ross, are called Joyce's Country, and are inhabited chiefly by a Clan of that name.—" A Monastery for Carmelites, or White Friars, was founded here by O'Flaherty, in the year 1356; which is the only account we can find of this Friary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 276.

BALLINAKILL, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oran. Ballinakill is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. W. b. N. from Roscommon. See, Oran.

BALLINAKILL, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lickmolassy. Ballinakill is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¾ m. W. S. W. from Portumna. See, Lickmolassy.

BALLINAKILL, in the Barony of Coolestown, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £16..13..6 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonsast. Ballinakill is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Edenderry. This parish contains 2000 acres of land. See, Clonsast.

BALLINAKILL, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Ballinakill is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Dromahaire. See, Taunagh.

BALLINAKILLY, in the Barony of Killihan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moylough. Ballinakilly is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. W. b. S. from Ballinamore. See, Moylough.

BALLINALACK, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 7 m. N. N. W. from Mullingar. A village.

BALLINADRUMNA, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

BALLINAMONA, v. MOURNE.

BALLINAMORE, in the Barony of Killihan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 85 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALLINASKELIGS, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dromod. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean—" Here was an Abbey for Regular Canons of the Order of St. Augustine, and under the Invocation of St. Michael, which had been removed hither from the Island, called The Great Skelig, but at what time is uncertain; from the large traces of the ruins, which the sea is continually demolishing, this ancient abbey appears to have been a very noble and extensive edifice. Here is an holy well, consecrated to St. Michael, which is annualy visited on the 29th of September."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 301.

BALLINASLOE, in the Barony of Clonmacow, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the Parish of Creagh. It is 72 m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, 4th of July, and from the 5th to the 9th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Suck. See, Creagh.

BALLINCHALLA, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmainmore. Ballinchalla is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. from Ballinrobe. It is situate on Lough Mask. See, Kilmainmore.

BALLINDERRY, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a good Church: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. John Connor, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident, by permission: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballinderry is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. from Moira.

BALLINDERRY, or BALLYDERRY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin,

Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6. 8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a new Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 329 a. 1 r. 10 p. Irish, lying together, about one mile and a half from the church: The Rev. David Shuter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballinderry is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. E. from Moneymore. It is situate at the entrance of the River Ballinderry, on Lough Neagh.

BALLINDERRY, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. N. W. from Rathdrum. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of April, 21st of August, 29th of October, the first Monday in November, and the 2d of December.

BALLINDINE, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Clare. A village.

BALLINDOWN, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the union of Ballynakill. Ballindown is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is situate upon the sea coast, 45 m. W. b. N. from Galway. See, Ballynakill.

BALLINDOWN, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 7½ m. N. N. W. from Boyle. It is situate upon Lough Arrow. —" The Family of Mac Donogh, Lords of Corran and Tirerril, founded a Monastery here in 1427 to the honour of the Virgin Mary, for Nuns of the Order of St. Dominick.—Many parts of this building are yet extant, but none are objects worthy of remark."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 626.

BALLINDRAIT, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Strabane. It is situate upon the River Dale. A village.

BALLINESAGART, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster.—" A. D. 1489, a Monastery was founded here by Con. O'Neal, for Franciscans of the third Order."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 678.

BALLINGADDY, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmallock. Ballingaddy is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. E. b. S. from Kilmallock. See, Kilmallock.

BALLINGARRY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united, about the year 1740, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Castle Robert, and the Vicarages of Daragh, Dunmoylan, and Killfinnan: two churches, one at Ballingarry, and the other at Killfinnan, both in good repair: no Glebe House, but one has been ordered to be built at Killfinnan: a Glebe, of 2 a. 3 r. 6 p., at Ballingarry; and another, of 4 a. 1 r. 13 p., at Killfinnan, near the church: The Rev. John Graves, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and performs the duties of Ballingarry in person: the duties of Killfinnan and Daragh are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum: the occasional duties of Castle Robert and Dunmoylan are performed by the Curate of the contiguous parish of Shanagolden, at a Salary of £3. per annum. Ballingarry is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Rathkeale. The parishes of Castle Robert, and Dunmoylan, are contiguous, and are distant about 5 miles from Ballingarry: The parishes of Killfinnan, and Daragh, are contiguous, and are distant from Ballingarry about 17 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLINGARRY, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenellick. Ballingarry is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. E. b S. from Kilmallock. This Parish contains 2187 acres of land. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, Whit-Monday, 4th of July, and 5th of December. See, Killenellick.

BALLINGARRY, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 31st of March 1772, to the V. of Uskeane: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Ballingarry: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one acre, in the parish of Ballingarry, convenient to the church: The Rev. John Smith, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Ballingarry is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. E. b. N. from Burresokeane. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, 23d of July, 11th of November, and 11th of December. The parishes in the Union of Ballingarry are contiguous: their estimated extent from North to South being two miles, and from East to West six miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.

BALLINGARRY, or GARE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lismalin: a Church, lately erected, at the expense of the parish, and through the exertions of the present Incumbent (in 1806), The Rev. James G. Fitzgerald, the duties of which are performed by his Curate. Ballingarry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Callan. This parish contains 7489 acres of land. See, Lismalin.

BALLINLEY, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate near the Rivulet of Ballinley, where are the ruins of an Abbey, and of which nothing is known.

BALLINLOGHY, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Ballinloghy is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is $5\frac{1}{4}$ m. E. S. E. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 1095 acres of land. See, Any.

BALLINLONDRY, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenellick. Ballinlondry is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is $9\frac{1}{4}$ m. E. S. E. from Kilmallock. This parish contains 1444 acres of land. See, Killenellick.

BALLINODE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2 m. E. from Sligo. A village.

BALLINROBE, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1802, to the Rectories of Crossboyne, Killcolman, Kilvine, and Mayo: a Church, in Ballinrobe, and one also, in Crossboyne, in good repair: no Glebe House; 9 acres of Glebe, in the parish of Ballinrobe, 4 acres in Crossboyne, and 24 acres in Mayo: The Rev. William Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission: the duties are discharged in Ballinrobe, by The Rev. William Crevy, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum; and in Crossboyne, by The Rev. Henry Mansergh, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Ballinrobe is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 112 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, and 5th of December. Here is a Charter School. The Assizes are occasionally holden here. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the Banks of Lough a Shee. Of the local situation of the parishes of this Union with respect to each other, Ballinrobe is about 10 miles distant from Kilvine; the extent of the parish of Ballinrobe is about 5 miles, and that of Kilvine about three. Crossboyne and Killcolman are contiguous: their extent is about 8 miles; and Mayo is distant from Crossboyne about seven miles.—"Here was a Monastery of Augustinian Friars; and in the Register of the Dominican Friary of Athenry, the Monastery de Roba is mentioned in the year 1337, but when or by whom founded is not recorded. Some remains of this building, says Bishop Pococke, may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 494.

BALLINSIN, v. TEMPLETOUHY.

BALLINTEMPLE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lisgoold. Ballintemple is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Lisgoold.

BALLINTEMPLE, in the Barony of Kilnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, in 1795, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilpatrick, Oughterleague, and Rathlynan: a Church, in good repair, in Ballintemple: a Glebe House, and 20 acres of Glebe Land·

The Rev. Arthur Lord, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Ballintemple is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. from Tipperary. The parishes in the Union of Ballintemple are contiguous; that of Ballintemple containg 2106 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is not too extensive, nor in any respect inconvenient; it should not, therefore, be dissolved; the separated parts would not afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLINTEMPLE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Spotswood, B. A., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice of Ballyscullin in the Diocese of Derry: The duties are performed by the Curate of Castle Mac Adam, which is contiguous to this parish. Ballintemple is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Arklow. It is situate on the River Ovoca. The annual value of this Benefice is only £31.

BALLINTOBAR, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and united by Act of Parliament, of the 9th of Queen Anne, to the vicarages of Baslick, and Kilteevan: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. William Sandford, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but on account of very bad health, resides sometimes at Bath, and occasionally at Castlereagh, in this Union: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Young, his Resident Curate, at a salary of £75, per annum. Ballintobar is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. S. E. from Castlereagh. The Fair is holden on the 25th of August. This was formerly the residence of the Princes of Connaught. The parishes in the Union of Ballintobar are contiguous: and their estimated extent is about 22 square miles.

BALLINTOBBER, or FONSTOWN, in the Barony of Balliadams, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Balliadams: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £10..2..0 sterling, and the Vicarage at £5..1..0. Ballintobber is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. W. S. W. from Athy. See, Balliadams.

BALLINTOBER, or, THE TOWN OF THE WELL, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. N. W. from Ballinrobe. —"A. D. 1216, Cathol O'Conogher, King of Connaught, founded an Abbey here for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustin, and dedicated it to the Holy Trinity. On the 10th of December, 1605, a lease of this Abbey, in reversion, for fifty years, was granted to Sir John King, Knt."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 495.

BALLINTOGHER, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught. It is 3¾ m. S. W. from Dromahaire. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of June, 30th of July, 17th of October, and 10th of December.

BALLINTOY, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a very old Church, in bad repair: The Parishioners, who are mostly Protestants, and hold small farms, are laying on in Vestry a Cess, in order to build a new church, if in their power: an excellent Glebe House, built by the present Incumbent, on a Glebe, of 40 acres, half a mile from the church: the Glebe pays a yearly rent of £25..5..0: The Rev. Robert Trail, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballintoy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Ballycastle. It is situate upon the sea coast, and has a tolerable good Bay. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of June, 4th of September, and 14th of October. Here is a fine vein of coal.

BALLINTRA, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. N. E. from Ballyshannon. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, 25th of March, 20th of May, 31st of July, 2d of October, and 30th of November.

BALLINTRA, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. b. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. A village.

BALLINURE, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., holden by Faculty with the R. of Baltinglass; a Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Carter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the contiguous parish of Baltinglass, and discharges the duties in person. Ballinure is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. N. b. W. from Baltinglass.

BALLINVARRY, v. BALLYVARY.

BALLINVOHER, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, constituting with one-fifth part of the parish of Ardfert, and the R. of Inshey, the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ardfert, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: This Union was at a period prior to any existing Record: probably, at the first Institution of the Dignity, and by such authority as was then competent: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Ardfert, of 15 acres; and also one, in Ballinvoher, of 7 a. 3 r. 14 p.; there is likewise one claimed, but not possessed by the Archdeacon, of 5 a. 3 r. 2 p.: The Rev. Edward Day, LL. D., Vicar General of the Diocese, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Ballinvoher, and jointly with the other Dignitaries in Ardfert: did reside for many years in the Diocese on another Benefice formerly holden by him, and does now, by permission, (being an old man) reside in Dublin, spending, however, some months every year, in the Diocese, and attending to the duties of his Office: the duties are performed by the Curate of Ballinacourty, at a salary of £20. per annum. It is distant from Ardfert about 18 miles.

Ballinvoher is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. E. b. S. from Dingle. It is situate upon Dingle Bay.

BALLIQUILLANE, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tullowmoy. The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1..6 .8 Irish Money. Balliquillane is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Stradbally. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory of Balliquillane is mentioned in the Titles of the Union of Stradbally, but no such distinct parish can be found. See, Tullowmoy, and Stradbally.

BALLISAKERY, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united, and now about to be united by Act of Council, to the R. of Rathrea: a Church, in the parish of Ballisakery, in bad repair; a new church is now building, in the same parish, on a different site, at the expense of the Union: no Glebe House: there are 9 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church of Ballisakery, and steps are now taking to procure money from the Board of First Fruits to erect a Glebe House thereon: The Rev. Robert Nixon, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballisakery is in the Diocese of Killala, and province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Killala. It is situate on Killala Bay. The parishes in the Union of Ballisakery are contiguous; their estimated extent being eight miles in length, and six miles in breadth.

BALLIVONY, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Stradbally. It is 6 m. N. E. from Dungarvan.—" Here are some remains of a large building, 150 feet in length, and 90 in breadth, thought to have been an house belonging to the Knights Hospitallers. There are still the remains of several large out-offices, and the ground-plan much resembles that of a Monastic Edifice."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern, p. 685.

BALLON, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghade. Ballon is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. b. W. from Tullow. See, Aghade.

BALLY, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Down, and is valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Bally is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Downpatrick. This parish contains 3679 acres of land. See, Downpatrick.

BALLYAGHRAN, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. from Coleraine. A village.

BALLYANE, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Ballyane is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. N. E. from New Ross. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Ross, New.

BALLYBACON, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, constituting with the Rectory of Killmolash, and the entire Rectory of Killrush, the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Lismore, which is valued in the King's Books at £6., and probably united at the time of the establishment of the cathedral of Lismore: no Church: an Archdeaconry House, at Lismore: three Glebes: one, of 10 acres, at Killrush, adjacent to the site of the old church; another, of 11 acres, at Ballybacon, within a few perches of the site of the old church; and the third, of 30 acres, at Lismore, very near the cathedral: all these glebes are very distant from each other: The Rev. Thomas Smyth, the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls in the parish of Killrush, and resides in the Diocese of Dublin, where he has another Benefice: the duties of Killrush are discharged by the Vicar of Dungarvan, whose Benefice joins it, at a Salary of £16. per annum: the Vicarage, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tubrid. Ballybacon is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Clogheen. It is situate near the River Suir. This parish contains 2996 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Bishop, not approving of the Union which constitutes the Corps of the Archdeaconry, observes, "but it cannot be altered unless by changing the Corps altogether, which I should hope to be practicable. I would recommend this to be done, by taking from it the Rectory of Killmolash, and the entire Rectory of Killrush, and adding to it the Vicarage of Ballybacon. This would be a natural Union."

BALLYBARRACK, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¼ m. S. S. W. from Dundalk.

BALLYBAY, or BALLYBEA, in the Barony of Cremourne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: a new-built Glebe House; and 25 acres of Glebe: The Rev. John Creery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and attending a cure in the Diocese of Armagh, the duties here are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Ballybay is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 55 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, Thursday before Easter, 5th of July, and 2d of October. It has six Post-days in the week. This parish was separated from Tullycorbet and Aghnamullen, and erected into a distinct parish by Act of Council, in 1796.

BALLYBEA, v. BALLYBAY.

BALLYBEG, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory wholly Impropriate. It is 4 m. W. b. S. from Doneraile. It is situate near the River Awbeg.—" Philip de Barry founded a Priory here for Regular Canons following the Rule of St. Augustin, and dedicated it to St. Thomas, the favourite Saint of that age. He endowed it in the year 1229, in remembrance of which, his equestrian statue in brass was erected in the church. David, his grandson, enlarged the revenues belonging to the Priory in the year 1235, and was made a Knight, but was killed in the year 1262. Of this Abbey there yet remain the East window and the steeple, which is a strong building, and by the holes in the vaulted roof it appears, that they had a chime of bells. The traces of the foundation, with an high tower a considerable way to the South-west, prove it to have been a truly magnificent structure."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 56.

BALLYBEG, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 3¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Thurles. A village.

BALLYBOFEY, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is ½ m. S. W. from Stranorlane. It is situate upon the River Fin.

BALLYBOGGAN, or DE LAUDE DEI, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with Castle Jordan. Ballyboggan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Clonard. It is situate upon the River Boyne. The Fair is holden on the 25th of September.—" A Priory was founded here for Canons of the Order of St. Augustin, in the 12th century, by Jordan Comin, under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 514.

BALLYBOGHILL, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmethon. Ballyboghill is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 10½ m. N. from Dublin. See, Clonmethon.

BALLYBOUGHT, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, though locally situate in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymore Eustace. Ballybought is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. W. b. S. from Blessington. See, Ballymore Eustace.

BALLYBOURKE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Westport. It is situate on the River Aile.

BALLYBRASSELL, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Ballybrassell is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. E. b. S. from New Ross. See, Ross, New.

BALLYBRENAN, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Ballybrenan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. b. E. from Wexford. It is situate upon Wexford Haven. See, Wexford.

BALLY-BRITTAS, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is adjacent to Emo. At that part of the village, called Old Bally-Brittas, is a Presbyterian Meeting-house; And in a field contiguous to it, stand the remains of a large Mansion or Castle, which belonged to the O'Dempseys, Lords of Clanmalliere, and which was destroyed by Oliver Cromwell.

BALLYBROOD, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Emly. Ballybrood is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. from Six Mile Bridge. The Fairs are holden, Custom free, on the 12th of June, and 13th of October. This parish contains 846 acres of land. See, Isert Laurence.

BALLYBURLEY, alias PRIMULT, in the Barony of Coolestown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £44..5..0 sterling, being with the Rectory entire of Coolcor, one Benefice, by prescription: a Church, in perfect repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. William George Wakely, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Samuel Lucas, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Ballyburley is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Edenderry. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is in immediate contact with Ballymacwilliam, where there is a Glebe. The church of Ballyburley would, in point of situation, serve for both, and it would be an easy matter here to adjust the interest of the Crown, and of Mr. Wakely, Patron of Ballyburley.

BALLYBURR, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Canice. Ballyburr is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, St. Canice.

BALLYBURRIS, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Clonagoose. It is 8¼ m. S. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate on the River Barrow.

BALLYCAHANE, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2..1..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 acres, close to the site of the old church: The Rev. John Parker, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Limerick, and is attendant on the cathedral: the duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Killpeacon, at a Salary of £3. per annum. Ballycahane is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Croom. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. The Rev. John Parker is an old man, who for many years resided on a small Benefice, with which he parted on being collated to Ballycahane.

BALLYCAHILL, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a parcel of the Vicarage of Loughmoe. See, Loughmoe, and Thurles.

BALLYCALLAN, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Callan. Ballycallan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. W. S. W. from Kilkenny. See, Callan.

BALLYCANNOW, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leskinfere: a Church, in repair: an old House, which answered for a Glebe House, but now out of repair: a Glebe, of 4 a. 2 r. 6 p., contiguous to the church: The duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Colley, Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballycannow is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. from Gorey. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of April, 25th of July, 21st of September, 2d of October, and 30th of November. It is situate near the River Awin Banna. See, Leskinfere.

BALLYCARANEY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lisgoold. Ballycaraney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. b. E. from Rathcormuck. See, Lisgoold.

BALLYCARNEY, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. W. b. S. from Ferns. It is situate on the River Slaney. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of March, and 26th of May.

BALLYCASHEEN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; a R. This parish is distant from the site of the old church at Kilburne about half a mile. See, Waterford, Kilbarrymeaden, and Kilburne.

BALLYCASTLE, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a Chapel, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: the income is only £60. per annum; £20. of which is paid by the First Fruits, and £40. by the Boyd Family: The Rev. Charles Steward, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. It is 113 m. N. from Dublin. It is a small sea-port, with six Post-days in the week; and is noted for its adjacent collieries. Near it is a chalybeate Spring. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of July, 28th of August, 5th of November, and 1st of December. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Girls, founded in the year 1737, by Hugh Boyd, Esq. But it does not appear to be well situated. By a discovery made in 1770, it appears that the coal mines here were worked at a very remote period.—" To the East of this Castle is an ancient Building, called The Abbey, of which we cannot find any account. In a Chapel in this Abbey is the following Inscription, In Dei deiparæque virginis honorem, illustrissimus ac nobilissimus dominus Randolphus Mac Donnell comes de Antrim, hoc sacellum fieri curavit. an. Dom. 1612."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 2.

BALLYCLARE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 99 m. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the Six Mile Water.

BALLYCLERAHAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Cashel. Ballyclerahan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Fethard. The Fair is holden on the 30th of September. This parish contains 617 acres of land. The duties are performed by The Rev. John Aldwell, the Resident and officiating Minister of the adjoining parish of New Chapel, at an annual Salary of £3. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Cashel.

BALLYCLOG, or BALLYNCLOGG, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a very old Church, now repairing: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 72 Scotch acres, lying together, close to the church: The Rev. Francis L. Gore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballyclog is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Stewart's Town.

BALLYCLOGHY, v. MONEMOINTER.

BALLYCLOUGH, or LAVAN, partly in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, and partly in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Drumdowney: a Church, in repair, at Ballyclough: no Glebe House: a small Glebe, of half an acre: The Rev. John Macormick, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Ballyclough is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Mallow. These parishes are at the distance of five miles from each other; but were united on account of the smallness of the Income in each. The Castle was built by a Family of the Barrys, which went by the name of Mac-Robison. The chalybeate Spaw is now overflown by an adjacent Brook.

BALLYCLUG, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1774, to the Impropriate Cure of Ballymena: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Income being but £20. per annum:

The Rev. Richard Babington, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from the adjoining Cure, where he resides. Ballyclug is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. from Ballymena. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; that of Ballyclug containing 4395 acres of land. It is situate upon the River Maine. It is one of the parishes, which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor. See, Billy.

BALLYCOMMON, in the Barony of Philipstown, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire: a Church, not in good repair, but will be speedily: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3½ acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. William Chamberlayne, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Ballycommon is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. W. from Philipstown. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Incumbent would gladly build a Glebe House here, but there is not sufficient Income; and as it is distant from a Market, a large glebe would be necessary. The Incumbent is enabled to reside by having a small farm, and cottage, in this parish.

BALLYCONNEL, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Tomregan. It is 68 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 13th of February, 17th of March, 16th of May, 24th of June, 29th of July, 26th of September, and 25th of October. It is a village, situate on the River Woodford. It has six Post-days in the week.

BALLYCONNICK, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taghmon. Ballyconnick is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. from Taghmon. See, Taghmon.

BALLYCONRY-DERICO, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killfeighny. Ballyconry-derico is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. See, Killfeighny.

BALLYCOOLANE, or CLOGHRANHIDART, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, annexed to the Vicarage of Finglass. Ballycoolane is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Finglass.

BALLYCOR, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carncastle. Ballycor is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. The united parishes of Ballycor, and Raskee, contain 5000 acres of land. It is 1 m. N. b. E. from Ballyclare. See, Carncastle.

BALLYCORMACK, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. from Wexford.

BALLYCORRY, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. N. E. from Carrickfergus. A village.

BALLYCOTTON, ISLAND, off the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is inhabited by fishermen.

BALLYCOWLAN, v. ARDEA.

BALLYCROGUE, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacarrig. Ballycrogue is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. E. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Burren. See, Ballinacarrig.

BALLYCULTER, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballyculter is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. S. W. from Strangford. This parish contains 3050 acres of land. It is situate on Strangford Bay. See, Downpatrick.

BALLYCUMBER, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. S. W. from Clara. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of May, and 1st of December.

BALLYCUSLANE, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Island. Ballycuslane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. N. N. W. from Millstreet. See, Castle Island.

BALLYDAIGH, v. BALTEAGH.

BALLYDELAUGHY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Glanmore. Ballydelaughy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Mitchelstown. See, Glanmore.

BALLYDELOHER, v. KILROAN.

BALLYDONNEL, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Cahirduggan. It is 4 m. S.W. from Doneraile. A village.

BALLY-DONNELL, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Mac Adam. Bally-Donnell is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Rathdrum. See, Castle Mac Adam.

BALLYDRENANE ULTRA, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. See, Ardfinan.

BALLYDUFFE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: no Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas Orpen Stewart, the Curate (in 1806), who performs the duties, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballyduffe is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. N. E. b. N. from Dingle. This Impropriation belongs to the Earl of Cork.

BALLYELLIN, in the Barony of St. Mullin's, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lorum. Ballyellin is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. N. E. from Graig. See, Lorum.

BALLYESTON, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. N. from Ballyclare. A village.

BALLYFEARD, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..5..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Cliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Diocese of Ferns, where he holds a Benefice: the duties are performed by a Curate. Ballyfeard is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Kinsale.

BALLYFERMOTT, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Chapel Izod. Ballyfermott is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Castle is in ruins. See, Chapel Izod.

BALLYFERNON, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. E. from Boyle. A village.

BALLYFIN, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Maryborough. Here is the magnificent Seat of The Honourable Wellesley Pole.

BALLYFOYLE, or POLIPLICKE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate: the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. E. N. E. from Kinsale. It is situate upon St. George's Channel.

BALLYGARTH, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £8..3..10½ Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Burdett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice, in this Diocese: the duties are discharged by a neighbouring Clergyman, at a Salary of £10. per annum. The value of this Living is only £70. per annum. Ballygarth is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Balbriggan. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the only remedy against non-residence in this parish would be, to unite it perpetually with some of the neighbouring Impropriate Parishes.

BALLYGAWLY, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. N. W. from Aughnacloy. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of June, 2d of September, and 2d of November. A village, which gives name to a range of mountains in the neighbourhood.

BALLYGIBBON, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Toomevara. Ballygibbon is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. W. from Moneygall. See, Toomevara.

BALLYGOURNEY, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. S. E. from Cloyne. It is situate upon St. George's Channel.

BALLYGRAFFNY, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: According to the Ecclesiastical Report, its situation is now not known; but it is believed to be part of the parish of Graystown. See, Templeneiry.

BALLYGRANNY, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2 m. S. E. from Coloony. A village.

BALLYGREGAN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Particle, constituting in part the Union of Coole. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Coole.

BALLYGRIFFIN, or VILLAGRIFFIN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athassel. Ballygriffin is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. W. N. W. from Cashel. It is situate upon the River Suir. See, Athassel.

BALLYGUNNER, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drumcannon. Ballygunner is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Passage, East. This parish contains 1755 acres of land. The Fair is holden on the 19th of September. See, Drumcannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectories of Kill St. Laurence, and Killure, and the Vicarages of Ballygunner, and Ballynakill, ought to be perpetually united: And a Church, and Glebe House, ought to be built at Ballygunner.

BALLYGURRUM, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KIL-

KENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rosbercon. Ballygurrum is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. W. S. W. from New Ross. See, Rosbercon.

BALLYHACK, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of St. James. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Feathard. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday after Trinity Sunday, 25th of March, 25th of July, 24th of August, and 29th of September. It is situate on Waterford Harbour. See, Killesk.—"Here we find a Commandery which belonged to the grand Priory of Kilmainham, and was subordinate to that of Kilcloghan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 732.

BALLYHALBERT, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Act of Parliament of an old date, to the Vicarages of St. Andrew's, Ballywalter, and Innishargy. Ballyhalbert is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. S. b. E. from Donaghadee. This parish contains 3166 acres of land. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, St. Andrew's.

BALLYHANE, or BALLYHEAN, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burriscarra. Ballyhane is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. S. b. W. from Castlebar. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of July, and 20th of August See, Burriscarra.

BALLYHAUNIS, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 93¾ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June, 2d of July, 22d of September, and 29th of October. It has three Post-days in the week.—"A Monastery was founded here for Augustinian Friars by the family of Nangle, who dedicated it to the Virgin Mary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 494.

BALLYHAY, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, though locally situate in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Corps thereof consisting of the V. of Ballyhay; and Episcopally united to the Rectories entire of Ardskeagh, Aglishdrinagh, and Ballyneran, the Vicarage of Rathgogan, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Shandrum: the Union of Rathgogan has been made in time beyond memory; the Prebend, which is a small Non-cure, is holden with it, to make the former more respectable: one Church, at Charleville, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, at Ballyhay, of one acre; another, at Shandrum, of three acres; and a third, at Ardskeagh, of four acres: none of these Glebes are contiguous to each other, but all near the site of the old churches, at two and five miles distance: The Rev. Henry Sandiford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is mostly resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. William Dunn, at a Salary of £75. per annum. It is apprehended, that this union might well be broken into two, on the next vacancy; of which, Charleville with one of these parishes might make one part, and the remainder constitute another part. Ballyhay is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. E. from Charleville. All these parishes are contiguous; their extent being 12 miles from North to South, and 9 miles from East to West.

BALLYHAYS, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. E. from Cavan. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of March, 18th of May, 13th of July, 30th of August, 6th of November, and 13th of December.

BALLYHEIGH, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Stephen Dunlevie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice of Kenmare, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by the Curate of Killury, at a Salary of £16. per annum. Ballyheigh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 14 m. W. S. W. from Listowell. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean.

BALLYHOOLY, or AGHULTIE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, many years ago, to the V. of Killathy; and with which is holden, by Faculty, the R. and V. of Aghinagh: a Church, in repair, at Ballyhooly: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 acres: The Rev. William Berkeley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Ballyhooly is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. W. b. N. fron Fermoy. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. The Fair is holden on the 26th of August. The parishes of Ballyhooly, and Killathy, are contiguous; their extent being from North to South 6 miles, and from East to West 5 miles. See, Aghinagh.

BALLYHOWARD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick. Ballyhoward is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.

BALLYHOWEL, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Manor Hamilton. A village.

BALLYHUSKARD, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Enniscorthy. Ballyhuskard is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. E. from Enniscorthy. See, Enniscorthy.

BALLYINGLY, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Ballyingly is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. W. b. S. from Taghmon. See, Horetown.

BALLY JAMES DUFF, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. N. W. from Virginia. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of May, 17th of July, 26th of October, and 24th of December.

BALLYKEANE v. KILLEIGHY.

BALLYKELLY, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. S. W. from Newtown Limavady. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Boys, founded by The Earl of Tyrone, in 1752: The farm consists of 29 Irish acres and a considerable quantity of bog, which is holden under the Incorporated Society, who derive under the Family of the Beresfords, tenants to the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers. According to the Report from the Commissioners of the Board of Education, Ballykelly Charter School appears to be very well situated for a large establishment; the house might be easily added to, and £1000. would give full accommodation to 150 Boys. The Country is plentiful, the Linen trade flourishing, a wealthy Yeomanry, and many resident Clergymen very near it, the church is close to it, and the situation of the school is healthy.

BALLYKEOGUE, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killurin. Ballykeogue is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Killurin.

BALLYKERIN, in the Barony of Brawny, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. N. E. from Athlone. A village, situate upon Lough Ree.

BALLYKILLY, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. A village, situate in Bear Island, in Bantry Bay.

BALLYKINE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 6½ m. N. W. from Arklow.—" An Abbey was founded here by a brother of St. Keivin, (probably St. Dagan); and the seat of Mr. Whaley, called Whaley Abbey, has been erected on the ancient site."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 760.

BALLYLAGHAN, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 10 m. S. from Foxford. It is situate upon the River Guishden.

BALLYLAMEEN, in the Barony of Upper Third, though locally situate in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Stradbally. Ballylameen is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. from Kilmacthomas. It is situate near the River Mahon. This parish is about two miles and an half in extent from North to South, and about a mile and an half from East to West. See, Stradbally, and Rossmere.

BALLYLANY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

BALLYLASKIN, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Ballylaskin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

BALLYLENNAN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Ballylennan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7½ m. S. W. from Taghmon. Ballylennan and Killawagen are mentioned in the King's Books as a Prebend, and are valued at £10. Irish Money. There is also a Rectory, which is valued at £1. See, Horetown.

BALLYLINCH, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. —" There was an Hospital here, but neither history nor tradition inform us who was the person that founded it, nor what were the endowments bestowed upon it. It underwent the fate of dissolution, though chargeable with no crime but that of being endowed. Even in the present age, when religious prejudices are no more, the plundering of so inoffensive a charity would be universally murmured at; a lease of it, for the term of 21 years, was granted by King James to Sir Edward Moore, ancestor to the Earl of Drogheda, at the yearly rent of three-pence: A reversion of the same, together with the Hospitals of Dromlomman and Mounterconaght, with other lands, was granted to him for 60 years, from the 23d of April, 1605."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 39.

BALLYLINCH, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the union of Burnchurch. Ballylinch is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Burnchurch.

BALLYLINNY, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a.V., anciently united to the R. of Ballymartin, and the V. of Carmony. Ballylinny is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. b. W. from Ballyclare. It is situate upon the Six Mile Water. This parish contains 3560 acres of land. See, Carmony.

BALLYLONGFORD, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is 3½ m. W. S. W. from Tarbert. A village, situate on the River Shannon.

BALLYLOUGHLOE, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, time out of mind, on every vacancy, to the vicarages of Drumrany, and Killeleagh; the last time, in 1804: on the 24th of January 1804, Ballyloughloe and Drumrany were united by Act of Council, with a view that Killeleagh might, in future, be holden as a distinct Benefice, and have a house built on its Glebe: a Church, in Ballyloughloe, in very good repair: no Glebe House, but one nearly built: two Glebes in Ballyloughloe union; that in Ballyloughloe contains 31 acres, on which the house is now building, within a few perches of the church: that in Drumrany contains 30 acres, nearly four miles from the church, and former glebe: The Rev. Thomas English, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Ballyloughloe is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Moate. The parishes in the Union of Ballyloughloe are contiguous: that of Ballyloughloe containing 6000 acres of land.

BALLYMACADANE, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Cork.—"Cormac Mac Carthy, the son of Teige, surnamed Laidir, about the year 1450, founded an Abbey here for Nuns following the rule of St. Augustine; though others say it was founded for Friars. Part of the walls of the building still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 57.

BALLYMACALENNY, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Granard: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Ballymacalenny is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. b. W. from Granard. See, Granard.

BALLYMACART, alias AGLISHVENAN, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a V., being part of the Union of Ardmore. Ballymacart is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon St. George's Channel, from which a Cape projects, called Mine Head. Ballymacart, according to Dr. Smith, is a particle of Ardmore. See, Ardmore.

BALLY MAC DUN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmethon. Bally Mac Dun is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 13 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. See, Clonmethon.—"Here was a Cell, in which an Anachoress dwelt, who claimed a certain rent charge from the Prioress of Grace Dieu in this county. The ruins of an ancient church appear here; where, in the year 1542, was the seat of Robert Preston, Esq."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 131.

BALLY MAC ELLIGOTT, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united to the R. of Nohoval Kerry: a Church, at Bally Mac Elligott, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 1 r. 2 p., close to the church; and, of 9 a. 1 r. 8 p., in Nohoval Kerry: The Rev. Thomas Graves, A. M., Dean of Connor, the Incumbent (in 1806,) who has cure of souls in both parishes, and resides on his Deanery of Connor: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate at a salary of £75. per annum. The parishes in the Union of Bally Mac Elligott are contiguous. Bally Mac Elligott is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¾ m. S. E. from Tralee. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLYMACHUGH, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Granard: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a salary of £60. per annum. Ballymachugh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. E. N. E. from Granard. See, Granard.

BALLYMACKEY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage constituting part of the Corps of the Chancellorship of Killaloe; and the Rectory being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Toomevara. Ballymackey is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. from Nenagh. See, Toomevara.

BALLY MAC KIL, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Celbridge. Bally Mac Kil is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Celbridge.

BALLYMACORMACK, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Michael. Ballymacormack is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. from Longford. See, Temple Michael.

BALLY MAC SWINEY, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" A Monastery was founded here by Mac Swiney, for Friars of the order of St. Francis. A few remains of this building are yet extant."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 95.

BALLYMACWARD, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, with the Vicarages of Fohenagh, Killconnel, and Killane, partly Episcopally united, and partly by Act of Council, at a distant period; and to which was united, by Act of Council, the Vicarage of Clonkeen: one Church, in good repair, at Ballymacward; and the walls almost entire, but no roof, of a beautiful church at Killconnel, in which no service has been performed for half a century: the ruinous shell of a House, at Killconnel, built about 30 years since, but being on a small particle of the Union not under the Act of Council, and never finished and estalished as the law requires, it has never been possessed as a glebe house: a Glebe, of 29 acres, at Killconnel, and of 5½ acres at Killane, four miles each from the church: The Rev. James Langrishe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, having a Benefice in another Diocese: the duties are performed by a Curate licensed, and resident, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballymacward is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m.

S. W. from Castle-Blakeney. The parishes in the Union of Ballymacward are contiguous.

BALLYMACWILLIAM, in the Barony of Warrens Town, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £21..9..6 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timahoe. Ballymacwilliam is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. W. from Edenderry. See, Timahoe.

BALLY MAC WILLIAM-ROE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster.—"This Commandery was built by the Knights Templars about the year 1300. It stands on a fine situation, and was of a great extent."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 35.

BALLYMAGANNY, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1 m. S. b. W. from Oldcastle. A village.

BALLYMAGARVEY, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9..9..6 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kentstown. Ballymagarvey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. from Slane. See, Kentstown.

BALLYMAGAURAN, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. E. from Ballynamore. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, 12th of August, and 23d of November.

BALLYMAGLASSON, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster; a R.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Tucker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls. Ballymaglasson is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Dunshaglin. See, Rathbeggan.

BALLYMAGORRY, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 1¾ m. N. from Strabane. A village.

BALLYMAHON, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Shrule. It is 53 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 11th of August, 21st of November, and the Thursday before Ash Wednesday. It is situate upon the River Inny. It has six Post-days in the week.

BALLYMAKENNY, within the County of the Town of DROGHEDA, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 18 a. 3 r. 21 p., close to the church: The Rev. John Graves, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident. and discharges the duties. Ballymakenny is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. from Drogheda.

BALLYMANNY, partly in the Barony of Great Connel, and partly in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killishy. Ballymanny is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. E. from Kildare. This parish contains upwards of 300 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of April, 21st of August, and 2d of November. See, Killishy, and Great Connel.

BALLYMARTIN, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling, and anciently united to the Vicarages of Ballylinny, and Carmony. Ballymartin is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 1410 acres of land. See, Carmony.

BALLYMARTLE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire; a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 3 r. 1 p., contiguous to the church: The Rev. Richard Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Ballymartle is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Kinsale.

BALLYMARTYR, v. CASTLE MARTYR.

BALLYMASCANLAN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 acres, lying together, and two miles distant from the church: The Rev. Denis Magrath, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballymascanlan is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. E. from Dundalk. It is situate upon Dundalk Bay. Near this is a stone of an enormous size, incumbent upon three others, called The Giant's Load.

BALLYMENA, or BALLYMANIA, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1774, to the V. of Ballyclug: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 5 acres, near a mile from the church of Ballymena: the Income, exclusive of the Glebe, is but £48. per annum; being paid thus, by Lord Mount Cashel £20., and the First Fruits £28.; Total £48.: The Rev. Richard Babington, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballymena is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 93½ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of July, and 21st of October. This parish, which is contiguous to the parish of Ballyclug, contains 7005 acres of land. It is situate upon the River Maine. It has six Post-days in the week.

BALLYMITTY, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taghmon. Ballymitty is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. b. W. from Taghmon. See, Taghmon.

BALLYMODAN, in the Barony of Kinalmeaky, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 a. 1 r. 3 p.: The Rev. Charles Hewitt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballymodan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is ¼ m. S. from Bandonbridge. It is situate on the River Bandon. The Rectory is Impropriate, in The Duke of Devonshire.

BALLYMONEY, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, 1609, to the R. of Tulloghgor, and which, with the V. of Dunluce, constitute the Precentorship of Connor, which is valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling: a Church, in good repair: an old Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 acres, near the church: The Rev. Richard Symms, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the county of Wicklow; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballymoney is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 108 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 10th of July, and 10th of October. This parish contains 10,977 acres of land. It has six Post-days in the week.

BALLYMONEY, or COROSSENHARE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 43 a. 0 r. 11 p., adjoining the church: The Rev. Robert Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Ballymoney is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¾ m. S. W. b. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Bandon.

BALLYMORAN, v. ALMORITIA.

BALLYMORE, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 520 English acres: The Rev. Thomas Carter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Ballymore is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

BALLYMORE, or LOUGHSENDY, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., being St. Owen's of Loughsendy, annexed to the See of Meath, and valued in the King's Books at £16. Irish Money, to which belong the Chapelries of Bonowen, Forgney, and St. Thomas of Loughsendy: a Church, now putting into complete repair: a Glebe House, now building, on a Glebe, of 30 acres, lately granted out of the See lands: The Rev. Edward Donovan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballymore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 50 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Market is on Saturday. It has six Post-days in the Week.—"An abbey was founded here, A. D. 700, or probably before that time. We know no more of this ancient abbey, but are told, that in 1218, the family of Lacie, erected a Monastery here, in honour of the Virgin Mary, for Gilbertines, which order consisted of Canons of the Præmonstre Order, and Nuns following the rule of St. Benedict: they lived under the same roof, but in separate apartments."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 706.

BALLYMORE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilscoran. Ballymore is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. W. from Broadway. See, Kilscoran.

BALLYMOREEN, or VILLAMUNEEN, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Ballymoreen is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Thurles. This parish contains 1644 acres of land. See, Thurles.

BALLYMORE EUSTACE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, though locally situate in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Ballybought, and Yagoe, and the Curacy of Cotlandstown: the church was destroyed by the rebels, in 1798: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Gerald Fitzgerald, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin, where he serves a cure: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Gordon, A. B., at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballymore Eustace is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Blessington. It is pleasantly situate on the banks of the River Liffey, over which there is a handsome Bridge here. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of August, and 29th of October. Here are the ruins of a fine old Castle, formerly a place of great strength, built by Eustace, the head of an ancient family in this county, from whom the Town takes its name. The parishes in the Union of Ballymore Eustace are all contiguous; their extent, from North to South, being 3 miles, and, from East to West, 4 miles. Near this is the grand Waterfall, called Poll a-phuca, or, The Dæmon's Hole.

BALLYMOTE, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 96½ m. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the last Monday in January, 11th of May, first Monday, O. S., in June, 3d of September, first Monday, O. S., in November, and second Monday, O. S., in December. Here is an extensive linen manufacture.—"In this Town the sept of Mac Donogh built a small Monastery, for Franciscan Friars of the Third Order. At the suppression it was granted to Sir Henry Broncard, who assigned it to Sir William Taafe, Knight. This building still remains at the end of the town, and does not seem at any time to have been of a larger extent than at present. The workmanship in general is good, and the East window is remarkably curious."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 627.

BALLYMOYER, in the Barony of Fews, Co of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster; a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 38 English acres, lying together, and near the church: The Rev. Joseph Fergusson, the Resident Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballymoyer is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 13½ m. N. b. W. from Dundalk.

BALLYNACARGY, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 6 m. S. W. from Cootehill.

BALLYNACLOGH, otherwise DOLLARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Emly. Ballynaclogh is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. N. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 788 acres of land. See, Dromkeen.

BALLYNACOUR, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. S. from Castletown Delvin.

BALLYNAHINCH, in the Barony of Kinelearty, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 75¾ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 12th of February, 5th of April, 10th of July, and 2d of October. Near this is a chalybeate Spring.

BALLYNAKILL, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Aranbeg, Aranmore, Ballindown, Ennis Boffin, Ennisker, Ennismain, Killanin, Moyrus, and Umma: a Church, now building, in Ballynakill: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Christopher Russell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballynakill is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 42 m. N. W. from Galway. It is situate upon a Harbour, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean. The extent of the four parishes of Ballindown, Ballynakill, Moyrus, and Umma, in this Union, is about forty miles; the rest is detached, being Islands.

BALLYNAKILL, in the Barony of Cullinagh, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Dysart Galen. It is 48½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday after Whit-Monday, 12th of August, and 16th of November. Here are the ruins of a Castle; which was destroyed by Oliver Cromwell, in 1642, when it bravely resisted his forces.

BALLYNAKILL, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 Irish Money; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drumcannon: The church is in ruins. Ballynakill is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. E. from Waterford. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish contains 1497 acres of land. The appropriate Rectory of Ballynakill, being the common Estate of the Dean and Chapter of Waterford, is valued in the King's Books at £2..4..8 Irish Money. See, Drumcannon, and Ballygunner.

BALLYNAMALLARD, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 5¼ m. N. b. E. from Enniskillen.

BALLYNAMONA, or MOORTOWN, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Ballynamona is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. E. from Bruff. This parish contains 750 acres of land. See, Any.

BALLYNAMORE, in the Barony of Carigallen, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 71 m. N. W. from Dublin. A village.

BALLYNAMULT, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: in the parish of Seskinan. It is 9½ m. S. b. W. from Clonmell. It is situate upon the River Phinisk, which takes its rise here.

BALLYNANAGHT, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. S. b. W. from Cavan.

BALLYNARD, or CAHIRFOSSORGE, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Ballynard is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. E. b. S. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 740 acres of land. See, Any.

BALLYNASCREEN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling; a Church, in repair: a Glebe House: two Glebes, one of 95 acres, one mile N. E. from the church; and the other, of 448 acres, one mile S. W. from the church: The Rev. Gardner Young, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Ballynascreen is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. from Tubbermore. It is situate upon the River Moyowla.

BALLYNASLANEY, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Edermine. Ballynaslaney is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. S. b. E. from Enniscorthy. See, Edermine.

BALLYNASMALL, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—"A Friary for Carmelites or White Friars was founded here, in the 13th century, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, by —— Prendergast. This abbey, which was granted to Sir John King, Knight, was a very extensive building, and part of its ruins may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 494.

BALLYNEALE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Dysertmore. It is 4 m. S. b. E. from Inistioge. A village, situate upon the navigable River Nore.

BALLYNEBRAHER, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—" A Friary was founded here for Conventual Franciscans in the 13th century, by the family of Clangibbon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 418.

BALLYNECLOUGH, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Killaloe: a Church, building, in this parish: The Rev. Henry Bayly, A. B., Curate of Kilkeary, Dromineer, and Ballyneclough, in 1806. Ballyneclough is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Nenagh. See, Kilkeary.

BALLYNEETY, v. BALLYNETTY.

BALLYNEFAGH, or BALLINAFEAGH, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloncurry. Ballynefagh is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. W. b. S. from Kilcock. See, Cloncurry.

BALLYNEGALL, within the Liberties of Kilmallock, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—" This was a town of some note, and was built by the English: at present it is only a poor village. The family of Roche founded a Monastery here for Dominican Friars, in the 14th century: and Queen Elizabeth, in her 39th year, granted the same (which in the patent is expressly called a Carmelite Friary) with half a Carucate of land belonging thereto, to the University of Dublin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 418.

BALLYNEMARA, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Ballynemara is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

BALLYNEMOGH, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Parcel of Tipperary. See, Tipperary.

BALLYNERAN, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhay. Ballyneran is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Ballyhay.

BALLYNESAGGARD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster.—" A Friary of the third order of St. Francis was erected here by the family of O'Ferrall, of which we can learn no other particulars."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 438.

BALLYNETTY, or BALLYNEETY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 5¼ m. S. S. E. from Limerick. A village.

BALLYNIWILLIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an house for Dominican Friars here.

BALLYNOCKAN, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel, with the R. of Wells. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. See, Wells.

BALLYNOE, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory has been united, for time immemorial, by Act of Council, to the R. of Aghern: the Vicarage has also been united, for time immemorial, by Act of Council, to the V. of Knockmourn. Ballynoe is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. from Tallow. See, Aghern, and Knockmourn. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. There are large ruins of an ancient building here, which are said to have been a Religious House.

BALLYNTEMPLE, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Kilmore, and is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, repairing: a Glebe, scattered through different parishes. Ballyntemple is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¾ m. S. b. W. from Cavan. This parish is four miles in length, and two and an half in breadth, and contains about 3000 acres of land. See, Kilmore.

BALLYNURE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilroot. Ballynure is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Ballyclare. This parish contains 5330 acres of land. It is situate on the Six Mile Water. See, Kilroot.

BALLYNURE, in the Barony of Coolestown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 8 m. N. E. from Portarlington. It is situate near the River Little Barrow.

BALLYNURE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Cashel: the duties of Ballynure, and Graystown, are performed by The Rev. John Seymour, Curate of the adjoining parish (in 1806), at an annual Salary of £5. Ballynure is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. from Killenaule. The parishes of Ballynure, and Graystown, are contiguous, and contain 2100 acres of land.

BALLYOVIE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burriscarra. Ballyovie is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. N. N. W. from Ballinrobe. It is situate on Lough Mask. See, Burriscarra.

BALLYOWNAN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fair is holden on the 5th of May.

BALLYPATRICK, v. RATHPATRICK.

BALLY-PATRICK, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 5½ m. E. N. E. from Clonmell. A village.

BALLYPHILIP, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Ardglass; which with Ballytrustan, Ardquin, and Slane, constitute the Chancellorship of Down, which is valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in the town of Portaferry, parish of Ballyphilip, in good repair: a Glebe, of 15 acres, one mile from the church: the Glebe House is not habitable: The Rev. Richard Ratcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in another part of the Kingdom: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballyphilip is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Portaferry, on the North. This parish contains 3000 acres of land. It is situate on Strangford Lough. The parishes of Ballyphilip, and Ardglass, are five miles distant from each other.

BALLYPOREEN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Shanrahan. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Clogheen. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 21st of August, and 17th of December.

BALLYRAGGET, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 50 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Nore. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of February, 20th of April, 22d of June, 4th of September, 20th of October, and 10th of December. Here is the fine Seat of Robert Butler, Esq., with very handsome and extensive Demesnes. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALLYRASHAN, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Ballymoney.

BALLYROAN, in the Barony of Cullinagh, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £10..2..0 sterling, and the Vicarage at £2..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Chamberlayne Walker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Ossory: The duties are dicharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Richard Blake, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Ballyroan is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. from Ballynakill. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of May, first Wednesday, O. S., in July, and the second Wednesday, O. S., in November. Here is a School, which was founded by Alderman John Preston, in 1686.

BALLYSADERE, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V. and Prebend: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: 20 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Robert Shaw, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who is non-resident, with permission, having no Glebe House: the duties are discharged by The Rev. William Duke, A. B., his Curate. Ballysadere is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Coloony, on the South East.

BALLYSADERE, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Coloony. A village, situate on Ardnaglas Harbour. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of August, 12th of November, and 15th of December.—"St. Fechin, the Founder of Fore Abbey, in West Meath, erected a Monastery here, which was endowed with a noble and beautiful estate, called Tearmann Fechin. The ruins of this Abbey still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 627.

BALLYSAX, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £7..7..0: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. William Few, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Henry Annesley, at a Salary of £25. per annum. Ballysax is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Kilcullen-Bridge.

BALLYSCADANE, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Rectories entire of Drombane, and Glanbane; being the Corps of the Deanery of Emly, which is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 110 a. 3 r. 20 p., in Emly; another, of 4 a. 2 r. 36 p., in Ballyscadane; and the third, of 7 acres, in Galbally: The Rev. Richard Moore, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Ballyscadane, Drombane, and Glanbane, but not in Emly, and is resident on the Benefice of Ardbraccan, in the Diocese of Meath, which he holds by Faculty. Ballyscadane is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. W. from Tipperary.

BALLYSCULLEN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House; 63 acres of Glebe, one part of which is a quarter of a mile from the church, and the other part three miles and an half: The Rev. Thomas Spotswood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ballyscullen is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Magherafelt.

BALLYSCULLOGE, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloncurry. Ballysculloge is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from Kilcock. See, Cloncurry.

BALLYSEEDY, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Francis Spring Eagar, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Aghevallan, where he is Curate: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Bally Mac Elligott, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Ballyseedy is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. S. E. from Tralee. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BALLYSHANNON, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Kilbarron. It is 101 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of April, Tuesday before the 11th of June, 18th of September, and Tuesday after the 11th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a Bridge of fourteen arches over the River Erne. It is situate at the extremity of a good Harbour, to which it gives name.

BALLYSHEEHAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at *£*2..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant, in 1806. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Ballysheehan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. from Cashel. This parish contains 4188 acres of land.

BALLYSHELAN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Coolstuff. See, Coolstuff.

BALLYSOBART, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. This Grange, which is free from Tythe, is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

BALLYSONAN, or BALLYSONNON, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Rectory, the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at *£*20..4..0 Irish Money; and united by Act of Council, in 1795, to the Rectory entire of Kilrush: a Church, in Ballysonan, in perfect repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Joseph Wilson, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Ballysonan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Kilcullen-Bridge. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, a Glebe House, and Glebe, would be a very great acquisition in this Perpetual Union, which was a very proper one.

BALLYSPELLAN, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Fartagh. It is 6¾ m. S. W. from Durrow. Here is a famous chalybeate Spa.

BALLYSPILLANE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templenecarigy. Ballyspillane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 8½ m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. See, Templenecarigy.

BALLYSUMAGHON, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Ballysumaghon is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Dromahaire. See, Taunagh.

BALLYTANKARD, v. TANKARDSTOWN.

BALLYTARSNY, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one acre, adjoining the site of the old church: The Rev. Robert Robinson, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is non-resident, by want of a Glebe House: the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Ballytarsny is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. E. from Carrick upon Suir.

BALLYTOBIN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Ballytobin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Callan. See, Kells.

BALLYTORE, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 29 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It is a beautiful village, situate upon the River Griss, and is principally inhabited by the people, called Quakers. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of March, 15th of August, and 30th of November.

BALLYTRUSTAN, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. See, Ballyphilip.

BALLYVALDEN, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..18..0 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Impropriate Cures of Kilmuckridge, and Millenagh: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Kilmuckridge: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 29 acres, in the parish of Millenagh, given by Mrs. Hatton to the Incumbent, together with £6. per annum: here is also a Glebe belonging to Mr. Ralph Hawtry: Vacant, in 1806: has cure of souls: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Jennett Browne, (who is to be appointed for the Union), and who does not reside in the District, but lives about three miles from Kilmuckridge. Ballyvalden is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin.

It is 12½ m. S. b. E. from Gorey. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. The Vicarage of Ballyvalden is in the gift of the Bishop. The parishes in the Union of Ballyvalden are contiguous : the extreme of each parish being three miles distant from the church. The whole Union does not produce £100. per annum.

BALLYVALLOO, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster : a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..8..1½ Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. Ballyvalloo is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Ardcolme.

BALLYVARY, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 119 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of May, 17th of August, and 14th of November. It has six Post-days in the week.

BALLYVOURNEY, or, THE TOWN OF THE BELOVED, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster : a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling : no Church : no Glebe House, or Glebe : The Rev. Basil Orpen, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and resides near the parish. Ballyvourney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. W. b. N. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Sullane. A portion of Tythes in this parish belong to the Chancellorship of Cloyne.— " St. Abban, who lived to a very great age, and died A. D. 650, built a Nunnery at Burneach, in Muscragiamitin, and presented it to St. Gobnata, who was descended from Conor the Great, Monarch of Ireland : Her Patron day is February the 14th : The church, which is dedicated to her, is 104 feet in length and 24 feet in breadth, and the steeple seems nodding to its fall."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 57.

BALLYWALTER, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Act of Parliament of an old date, to the Vicarages of St. Andrew's, Ballyhalbert, and Innishargy. Ballywalter is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. b. E. from Donaghadee. This parish contains 2433 acres of land. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. Here is a good slate quarry. See, St. Andrew's.

BALLYWILLIAM, v. ROCHESTOWN.

BALLYWIRE, v. BALLYMOYER.

BALLYWULLIN, v. MILLTOWN.

BALNACARRIG, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 46 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

BALRAHAN, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster : a V., valued in the King's Books at £8..4..4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Doneda. Balrahan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. from Maynooth. This parish contains 420 acres of land. See, Doneda.

BALRODDAN, v. RADDONSTOWN.

BALROTHERY, v. BALRUDDERY.

BALRUDDERY, or BALROTHERY, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £11..19..10 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 19 acres, joining the church, and the other, of 10 a. 3 r. 34 p., three quarters of a mile from the church: Vacant, in 1806: has cure of souls: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Hand, at a Salary of £50. per annum, but which will be raised on the appointment of a new Incumbent. Balruddery is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. S. b. W. from Balbriggen. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, and 12th of August for the sale of Cattle, and Pedlar's goods. It is situate near the Irish Sea.

BALSCADDAN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4..12..4 Irish Money: the Church is in ruins: no Glebe House yet built: a Glebe, of about 4 acres, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. William Blundell, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is about to reside: the duties are discharged by The Rev. John Echlin, the Vicar of the adjoining parish of Hollywood, at a Salary of £5..5..0 per annum. Balscaddan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. W. from Balbriggen. It is situate near the Irish Sea. The value of the Tythes of this parish, as stated by the Incumbent, is about £40 per annum; and the Glebe being set for £6..5..1½; make the whole value of the Benefice but £46..5..1½.

BALSOON, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Assey. Balsoon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. E. N. E. from Trim. This parish contains 668 acres of land. See, Assey.

BALTEAGH, or BALLYDAIGH, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: no Church: a Glebe House: 98 acres of Glebe, near the site of the old church: The Rev. James Garraway, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Balteagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Newtown Limavady.

BALTIMORE, anciently DUNASHAD, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the Parish of Tullagh. It is 168 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon an excellent Harbour, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. The name is said to be a corruption of Beal-timore, or, The great Habitation of Beal, it having been a Sanctuary for the Druids. It was taken and plundered, on the 20th of June 1631, by the Algerines; and is now a poor, decayed Fishing-town, the officers belonging to the port, residing at Skibbereen.

BALTINGLASS, in the Barony of Talbotstown. Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Carter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Baltinglass is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 29 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of February, 17th of March, 12th of May, 1st of July, 12th of September, and 8th of December. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Deputy, Recorder, and Town Clerk. It gives title of Baron to the Noble Family of Stratford, now Earl of Aldborough. Here are extensive manufactures of Linen, Woollen, and Diaper. It is situate on the River Slaney. It has six Post-days in the week. This is said to have been the grand Beal-tinne of the Southern States of Leinster; and there are still remaining in its neighbourhood, a number of Druidic Altars. A Parliament was formerly holden here, as slso the Assizes. Here is a venerable Castle.—"Diarmit Mac Murchad O'Cavanagh, King of Leinster, founded an Abbey here, about the year 1148 or 1151, for Cistertian Monks, where he was interred. The Abbot sat as a Baron in Parliament."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 761.

BANADA, or BENNADA, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 11 m. N. E. from Foxford. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of January, Whit-Monday, and 7th of August. It is situate on the River Moy.—"Here we find a Friary of Eremites, following the Rule of St. Augustin, which was dedicated to Corpus Christi, and founded A. D. 1423, through the industry of a brother of the Order, called Charles. The fine ruins of this building still remain, with a steeple of hewn mountain stone."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 628.

BANAGHER, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Reynagh. It is 66½ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 15th of September and three following days, 28th of October, and 8th of November. It has six Post-days in the week: And is a pretty large town, tolerably built, having two Bridges over the River Shannon, and a Barrack, for two companies of Foot. According to the Report from the Commissioners of the Board of Education, it appears, that King Charles the First, by a Charter bearing date the 16th of September, in the fourth year of his reign, granted to the Sovereign, Burgesses, and Free Commons of the Borough of Banagher, and their successors for ever, certain lands in the King's County, particularly described in the Charter, and containing in the whole 200 acres of arable land and pasture, and 85 acres of wood and moor, to the only use and behoof of such Schoolmaster as the Lord Deputy or other Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland should from time to time appoint to reside and teach in the said town of Banagher; and for want of such Schoolmaster there to be appointed as aforesaid, then to the use of the Sovereign, and Burgesses, and their successors for ever, towards the maintenance of a Free School in the said town of Banagher, and of such Schoolmaster as they or the greatest number of them shall appoint, until another Schoolmaster shall be appointed by the Lord Deputy. The lands belonging to this School are situate in the Barony of Eglisse, between four and eight miles from the town of Banagher; they were let in the year 1799, by The Hon. and Rev. Richard Ponsonby, the late Master, at the yearly rent of £165..13..0. There is not, nor has there been at any time, that can be discovered, any School-house belonging to the endowment, nor does it appear that any School has been kept at Banagher for several years. The present master, The Rev. Thomas Morris, A. M., (appointed by Patent during pleasure, on the 18th of Semptember 1806), caused a survey of the lands to be made in June 1806, by which it appears, that the School lands at present consist of only 208 a. 0 r. 32 p.; so that nearly 77 acres of the original Grant are now lost to this endowment by the encroachments of the neighbouring landholders, and by the negligence of former masters.

BANAGHER, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House; 400 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. George Blacker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is beneficed in the Diocese of Dromore, and does duty in that Diocese: the duty here is discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Banagher is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. The Vicarage of Dungiven is holden with this Benefice. It is 3 m. W. b. S. from Dungiven. The estimated extent of this parish is five miles by three.

BANDONBRIDGE, in the Barony of Kinalmeaky, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilbrogan. It is 137½ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 29th of October, and 8th of November. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; Patron, The Earl of Shannon. It gives title of Viscount to a branch of the family of Boyle; and of Baron to the family of Bernard. It is situate on the River Bandon, and was built in 1610, according to Mr. Wilson, by Richard Boyle, the first Earl of Cork, with walls and fortifications, two Churches (now the parish churches of Ballymodan, and Kilbrogan), and two Market-houses. The Irish demolished the Walls, in 1689; for which, by a standing Bye-law of the Corporation, no Papist can dwell in the town. Near this is a chalybeate Spring. It has six Post-days in the week.

BANGOR, or, THE WHITE CHOIR, anciently THE VALE OF ANGELS, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure: a Church, in good repair: a good Glebe House, on a Glebe of 12 acres, near the church; the Income, a Salary from Lord Bangor, is only £60. per annum: The Rev. Stephen Dickson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Bangor is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 90 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It gives title of Viscount and Baron to the family of Ward. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, 1st of May, and 22d of November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the South side of Belfast Lough.—"St. Comgall was born in Ulster of noble Parentage, and was educated under St. Fintan, in Clonenagh. About this time (555) he founded here a celebrated Abbey; where, in this year, Cormac, King of South Leinster, took on him the Cowl; and died A. D. 567.—In a Parliament holden this year (1380), it was enacted, that no mere Irishman should be suffered to make his profession here.—The Abbot enjoyed a Town-land in the Isle of Man, called Clenanoy, on condition that he should attend on the King of that Island at certain times. The Abbey of Bangor was so gone to ruin, in the year 1469, through the neglect of the Abbot, that Pope Paul the Second commanded that the Friars of the third order of St. Francis should immediately take possession of it, which was accordingly done, says Wadding, by Father Nicholas of that order. A small part of the ruins of this abbey still remain: the windows were of the ancient narrow Gothic kind, &c., and the traces of the foundation show that the building was of a great extent."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 106. et seq.

BANNBRIDGE, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 60½ m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, 15th of March, 9th of June, 26th of August, and 16th of November, and two following days after each fair. It is situate on the River Bann.

BANN-FOOT-FERRY, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 5¼ m. N. b. W. from Portadown.

BANNOW, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..8..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkevan. Bannow is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. W. from Wexford, and 87 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. See, Kilkevan.

BANSHAW, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V. It is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Tipperary.

BANTRY, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilmocomogue. It is 164¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of June, 21st of August, 15th of October, and 1st of December. It is situate at the bottom of a very extensive Bay, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean, and which is said to be capable of containing all the shipping in Europe. It was formerly, according to Mr. Wilson, called Ballygobbin, as also The Old Town, to distinguish it from another Settlement more to the North, called The New Town, where Ireton, in the time of Oliver Cromwell, had a Fortification erected, with four regular Bastions, which caused the Inhabitants to build near it: but, when this Fort went to decay, they returned, by degrees, to The Old Town, called Bantry, from its being the chief settlement of the Half Barony. This place is memorable for the landing, attempted to have been made there by the French, under the command of General Hoche, in December, 1796; And gives title of Baron to Richard White, now Viscount Bantry, for his truly loyal and important services upon that occasion. From Bantry there is a Ferry-boat, which passes to Bear Haven, being much safer and shorter for travellers, than going by land, round the Bay.—"Dermot O'Sullivan Beare built a beautiful small Monastery on the Sea-shore near this town, for Conventual Franciscan Friars, and died in the year 1466. It is now wholly demolished."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 57.

BARNACH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Black Sod Bay.

BARNAHELY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: an Impropriation, belonging to Mr. Joshua Cooper. Barnahely is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. E. from Cork. It is situate upon Cork Harbour.

BARNANELY, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilfithmone. Barnanely is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. W. b. N. from Templemore. This parish contains 1125 acres. See, Kilfithmone.

BARNTICK, in the Barony of Islands, Co, of Clare, and Province of Munster. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Ennis.

BARONSTOWN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, to the Rectories of Kene, and Philipstown Nugent, and the Curacy of Roach: a new Church, in Baronstown: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 17 a. 0 r. 32 p., lying together, and about three quarters of a mile from the church: The Rev. Sir Thomas Forster, Bart., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Baronstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Dundalk. This parish contains 1194 acres, and is contiguous to the other parishes in the Union. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes were properly united.

BARRAGH, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1799, to the R. of Newtown Barry: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Newtown Barry: a Glebe House, newly erected, on a Glebe of 13½ acres, in the parish of Newtown Barry: The Rev. James Morgan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Barragh is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. b. N. from Clonegal. It is situate near the River Slaney. The parishes in the Union of Barragh, are contiguous; their contents being 6955 acres.

BARRETT'S GRANGE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, Barrett's Grange is in Coolmundry. See, Killenaule.

BARRY, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. W. S. W. from Cole-Hill.

BARTRACH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Killala Bay.

BASLICK, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballintobar. Baslick is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. S. W. from French Park. See, Ballintobar. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Sacell was Bishop of Baisleac-mor in the time of St. Patrick: and which Abbey is now a parish church.

BAUN-RICHEN, v. BAWN.

BAWN, or BLACKNOW, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Grange, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burnchurch. Bawn is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Ascension-day, and 29th of October. See, Burnchurch.—"Not far from Fertagh is a ruin, called Baun-richen, which is said to have been part of the ancient Monastery of Fertagh, and probably was the farm-house belonging to it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 351.

BAWNBOY, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 8¾ m. N. W. from Killeshandra. A village.

BEAGH, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—"There was a Monastery here of the Third Order of Franciscan Friars. The Abbey of Beagh, and the Townland of Abbey Beaghan, are mentioned in the Records."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 43.

BEAGH, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2..5..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the R. and V. of Ardrahan. Beagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¼ m. S. b. E. from Gort. See, Ardrahan.—According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it does not appear "that any dissolution of Unions, or other distribution of parishes in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, would be expedient; except perhaps in the single instance of Beagh, which is at too great a distance from Ardrahan, to which it is united, for the Parishioners to attend the Church there, or even for the Incumbent residing in the parish of Ardrahan to discharge the occasional duties at Beagh. These two parishes are moreover divided by the intervention of the parish of Kiltartan, a particle of the Union of Kilmacduagh; and the parishioners of Beagh attend Divine Service at Gort, where the Church of Kilmacduagh stands, and are rated in Parochial Cesses by the Churchwardens of Gort, as of that parish. I think a portion of Kiltartan, adjacent to Ardrahan, should be exchanged for Beagh; or a Perpetual Curacy established at Beagh."—" A Monastery of the Third Order of Franciscans was founded here some time after the year 1441."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 277.

BEALAN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Tully. See, Great Connel.

BEALANENY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Friary of Conventual Franciscans; of which very little is known.

BEAMORE, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Colpe. It is 2 m. S. from Drogheda.—" Tradition informs us, that there was a Preceptory here which belonged to the Priory of Kilmainham, and there are still to be seen some small remains of an ancient building."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 516.

BEAR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 12½ m. S. W. from Bantry. It is situate in Bantry Bay. This Island is about 6 miles in length, and is very coarse, mountainous, and rugged.

BEAUBEC, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. —" In the Reign of King John, Walter de Lacie, Lord of Meath, did grant to the church of St. Mary and St. Laurence of Beaubec, all his land situate in the Townland of Killokerran (now called, The Manor of Beaubec), together with the liberty of keeping a boat free of toll, &c."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 516.

BEAULIEU, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fiddown. Beaulieu is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Carrick upon Suir. See, Fiddown.

BEAULIEU, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..2..1 sterling: no Church, but one now building: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Jerom Alley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from Drogheda. Beaulieu is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. E. b. N. from Drogheda. It is situate upon the Irish Sea.

BECTIVE, or, DE BEATITUDINE, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate in L. Bolton, Esq.: no Church: no Glebe: no Salary; the Sum of £4. per annum was formerly allowed, but it is now withdrawn. Bective is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. b. E. from Trim. It is situate upon the River Boyne. It gives title of Earl to the noble family of Taylor. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of May, and 1st of November.—" Murchard O'Melaghlin, King of Meath, founded an Abbey here for Cistertian Monks, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, in the year 1146 or 1152. The Abbot sat as a Baron in Parliament. There are large ruins remaining of this building, and the cloisters with a tower are almost entire."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 516.

BEEHAN, v. RATHMORE.

BEETRA, or BEEHAN, v. RATHMORE.

BEGERY, or LITTLE IRELAND, off the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. An Island to the North of Wexford Harbour.—" St. Ibar, or Ivor, built a celebrated Monastery here, where he founded a School over which he presided so early as the year 420. He died on the 23d of April, A. D. 500, and was interred here, where his reliques are still honoured."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 733.

BEGGARS-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 7¼ m. W. b. S. from Kinnegad. A village.

BEGGAR'S INN, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Fartagh. It is 6¼ m. S. W. from Durrow. See, Fartagh.

BEKAN, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltullagh. Bekan is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. W. b. N. from Ballyhaunis. See, Kiltullagh.

BELAN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Belan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Ballytore. The Castle was demolished by Cromwell. See, Timolin.

BELCARRA, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 8½ m. N. N. W. from Hollymount. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of February, 4th of June, and 10th of November.

BELCLARE, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tuam. Belclare is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. S. S. W. from Tuam. See, Tuam.

BELCOE, in the Barony of Clonawly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 9 m. W. S. W. from Enniskillen. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, 5th of June, 5th of August, 6th of October, and 26th of November. Here is the celebrated Well, called Davugh Phadric.

BELFAST, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster:

a V.: a Church, in excellent order: a good Glebe House in Belfast, and a Glebe, of 20 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. William Bristow, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Belfast is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 80 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of August, and 8th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. This Town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, The Marquess of Donegal. It is situate at the entrance of the River Lagon, on Belfast Lough. It gives title of Earl to the family of Chichester. According to Dr. Beaufort, by an accurate enumeration made in 1791, Belfast contained 3107 houses, and 18,320 souls. It is with regard to size the fifth, and with respect to commerce the fourth, if not the third town in the Kingdom. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, and Town Clerk: The garrison is under the command of the Town Major.

BELLAGHAN, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"There was a Franciscan Friary here, but we cannot find any particular account of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 95.

BELLEEK, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House: 490 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. James Cochran, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Belleek is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 8½ m. N. W. from Church Hill. This parish was separated from Templecarne, by Act of Council, in 1792. It extends into the county of Donegal.

BELLISLE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is situate in Lough Erne.

BELNAHATTY, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. S. b. W. from Omagh. A village, situate on the River Cameron.

BELTURBET, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling: a Church, in good repair; no Glebe House: about 400 acres of Glebe; 10 of which are close to the church; 140 about two miles distant, and contiguous to each other; and the rest, near three miles distant: The Rev. Henry Maxwell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Belturbet is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 61 m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Ash-Wednesday, Whit-Tuesday, 12th of June, 21st of July, 4th of September, and first Thursday, O. S., in November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Erne. The present Rector is in treaty for a house in the Town of Belturbet, to convert into a Glebe House.

BENBURBE, or BINBURG, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 5¾ m. N. N. W. from Armagh. It is situate on the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on Wednesday before Ash Wednesday, the last Wednesday in February, Thursday before Easter, last Wednesday in March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, and November, and the 22d and last Wednesday in December. See, Aghalow.

BENNADA, v. BANADA.

BENNET'S-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. S. W. from Gowran. It is situate upon the River Nore.

BEWLEY, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killmolash. It is 2 m. S. E. from Lismore. —"Here are the remains of a Monastic Edifice, said to have belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 685.

BEWLY, v. BEAULIEU.

BIG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. E. b. N. from Bangor. It is one of the Copland Islands. It is situate at the South entrance of Belfast Lough.

BILE, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—"St. Fechin built an Abbey here, which in a short time became, and is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 628.

BILL, v. OUGHTERLEAGUE.

BILLY, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor: an old Church, in bad repair; but a considerable sum is raised to-rebuild it: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 20 acres, near the church, on which the Incumbent intends to build a House: The Rev. Thomas Babington, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Billy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. N.E. b. E. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the River Bush. The parishes, which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor, and which is valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling, are Ardmoy, Ballyclug, Billy, Donegor, and Kilbride: The Rev. Anthony Trail, A. M., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who resides in the Diocese, but has no Glebe, or Glebe House.

BIRD, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Dunmannus Bay.

BIRD, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is situate in the Irish Sea.

BIRR, or PARSONS-TOWN, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and the Vicarage at £3.: and Episcopally united, on the 16th of May 1785, to the Rectory of Kilcoleman, and the Vicarage of Lockeen:

a Church, in good repair, in the town of Birr: a Glebe House, in Birr: a Glebe, of 19 acres, in the parish of Birr, adjoining the church-yard; and, of 10 acres, in the parish of Lockeen, about three miles distant from the former, and near the site of the old church: Edward Synge, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. William Grattan. Birr is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 63¾ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of February, 7th of May, 25th of August, and 10th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The Castle here was erected by the family of Parsons. It is situate upon the Little Brosna River. The parishes in the Union of Birr are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 5 miles, and from East to West 6 miles.—"St. Brendan Luaigneus, son of Neim, or Nemaind, and a favourite poet, founded the abbey of Biorra."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 377.

BISHOP'S-COURT, in the Barony of Gualtier, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilcaragh. Here are the remains of an Edifice, probably built as a country retreat for the Bishops of Waterford.

BISHOP'S ISLE, off the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean.

BLACK ABBEY, v. ST. ANDREW'S.

BLACK LION, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. A village.

BLACKNOW, v. BAWN.

BLACKRATH, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £7. Irish Money: no Church: a Glebe, of 10 acres, a quarter of a mile from the ruins of the old church: The Rev. George Stone, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice. Blackrath is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Kilkenny.

BLACKRATH GRANGE, v. BURNCHURCH.

BLACK ROCK, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. E. from Dublin. It is a large and handsome village, agreeably situate on the South side of Dublin Bay: and is much resorted to for the purpose of Sea-bathing, and the purity of the air.

BLACK ROCK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in St. George's Channel.

BLACKSTONES, in the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Knockane. It is a small village, situate near the River Carra, and surrounded with rocky Hills, and high Mountains. Here were formerly extensive Iron-works, which were carried on by Sir William Petty.

BLACKWATER-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 7¾ m. W. b. N. from Kilcock. It is situate upon the River Blackwater.

BLACKWATER-TOWN, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. S. b. W. from Moy. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

BLANCHVELLSTOWN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ossory. Blanchvellstown is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Kilfane.

BLARNEY, in the Barony of Muskerry, though locally situate in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Garrycloyne. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Blarney. The fairs are holden on Easter-Monday and Tuesday, 8th and 9th of June, 18th of September, and 11th of November. Here was a Castle, which was esteemed one of the strongest in this Province.

BLASQUETS, or, FERRETER'S ISLANDS, off the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. These islands are said to be twelve in number, but four of them are only rocks. They formerly belonged to the Earl of Desmond, who gave them to the family of Ferreter, from whence they obtained the name of Ferreter's Islands. There is a small bird, which is said to be peculiar to those Islands, called by the Irish Gourdet: it is somewhat larger than a sparrow, the feathers of the back are dark, and those of the belly are white; the bill is straight, short and thick, and it is web-footed: they are almost one lump of fat; when roasted they are of a most delicious taste, and are reckoned to exceed the Ortolon; for which reason they are here called, The Irish Ortolon.

BLESSINGTON, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Burgage. It is 14 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 5th of July, and 12th of November. It is pleasantly situate on a rising ground near the River Liffey; and was first erected by Primate Boyle. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Burgage.

BODENSTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..1..5. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 8 acres, near the walls of the old church: The Rev. Henry Boyde, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are performed by The Rev. James Slator, resident at Naas, without Salary, the benefice being very poor. Bodenstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 7½ m. W. S. W. from Rathcoole. It is situate upon the banks of the River Liffey. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. The parish contains between 1500 and 1700 acres; and it is recommended to be united to the Benefice of Sherlockstown, because they are contiguous. The income might be augmented by the Board of First Fruits.

BOGHMOYEN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—" Here was a Friary of the third order of St. Francis, but we cannot say by whom it was founded."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 497.

BOHEA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is situate in Lough Erne.

BOHILLANE, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: no Church: no Glebe House; three detached Glebes, scattered in the parish, near the old church, and containg 13 acres: The Rev. Jeremiah Harte, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but there being no place of worship, he resides at Killeagh, 7 miles distant, where he is Curate. Bohillane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. b. N. from Cloyne.

BOHOE, or, BOHOGE, in the Barony of Clonawly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House, but the Rector is preparing to build one; 142 acres of Glebe, adjoining the church: The Rev. William Ovens, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a salary of £60. per annum. Bohoe is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. W. from Enniskillen.

BOHOGE, v. BOHOE.

BOILEAN CLAIR, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—" In the Diocese of Tuam: A Monastery was founded here for Franciscan Friars in the year 1291. Wadding informs us, that this house was very rich, and that it had considerable possessions."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 277.

BOITHBOLCAIN, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" A Church near Connor, founded by St. Bolcain, a Disciple of St. Patrick."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 3.

BOITH-MEDHBHA, v. BOVEVAGH.

BOLENRUSH, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is an old town, situate near the Mountain of Sliebh Buy.

BOLGAN, v. DRUMLANE.

BOLHEN DESART, formerly DISERT NAIRBRE, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dysart.—" St. Maidoc of Ferns built an Abbey here, of which we can learn no account."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 685.

BOLTON, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Bolton is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

BOLTON INN, formerly CHEEK POINT, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster. It is 1½ m. N. from Passage, East. A village, situate upon Waterford Harbour; and where is a large and commodious Inn, for the conveniency of passengers, coming or going in the Waterford Pacquets to and from Milford, in Wales; the Pacquets constantly lying opposite to the Inn. This is the Estate of Mr. Bolton, who has established a large Cotton Manufactory here, together with an Hosiery.

BOLY, or, GALVOLY, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Cashel. Boly is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. S. E. from Thurles. This parish contains 661 acres. See, Burrosleigh.

BONAMARGY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. —"A small Monastery was built here in the Fifteenth century, for Franciscan Friars of the third order. This monastery is said to have been founded by Mac Donnell, whose family settled in this County in the Fifteenth century, and were afterwards ennobled. This monastery and its possessions were granted to the founder's family; and the Abbey became the Burial Place of the Mac Donnell's." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 3.

BONBRUSNA, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. N. N. W. from Mullingar. It is situate upon Lough Hoyle.

BONOHAN, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghlishcloghane. Bonohan is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Birr. It is situate near the Little Brosna River. See, Aghlishcloghane.

BONOWEN, in the Barony of Kilkenny West, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry to the R. of St. Owen's of Loughsendy alias Ballymore. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. b. E. from Athlone. It is situate upon Lough Ree. See, Ballymore.

BOOTER'S-TOWN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. S. E. from Dublin. It is a pleasant village, situate on the Bay of Dublin.

BORDWELL, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, and united, by reason of their poverty, to the vicarages of Kilbride, and Kilcoan: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Alexander, the Rector and Vicar

(in 1806), who has cure of souls, in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident at New Ross, of which he serves the occasional duties: the duties here are discharged by the Curate of the adjoining parish. Bordwell is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Rathdowny. The parishes of Kilcoan, and Kilbride, are contiguous; that of Bordwell lies at a considerable distance; the extent of those, that are contiguous, is about a mile and an half broad, and two miles and an half long.

BORRES, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, and the Vicarage at £2. Irish Money; and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1721, to the R. and V. of Kilcolemanbane, and the V. of Straboe: a Church, in repair, at Maryborough: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one acre, in the parish of Kilcolemanbane, near two miles from the church: The Rev. Henry Maxwell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is occasionally resident, as he holds a Benefice, by Faculty, in Dromore: he is 75 years of age: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Richard Sandys, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Borres is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Maryborough, on the North West. The parishes in the Union of Borres are contiguous; their contents being 6903 acres of land.

BOTHCHONAIS, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"This was formerly a great and celebrated Abbey, of which St. Coemgal, brother to St. Cele Christus, who died A. D. 721, and a different person from the Saint of Bangor, was Abbot.—There are still preserved in the hands of the Religious in this neighbourhood, many books which formerly belonged to the abbey, written by the hand of St. Mælisa, who was educated here, and died 16th of January, A. D. 1086."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 95.

BOTHON, or, BUTTEVANT, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bregogue. Bothon is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. W. from Doneraile. It is situate on the River Awbeg. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, and 14th of October. It was anciently a Corporation, being once governed by a Mayor and Aldermen, but, by the wars gone to decay: It is said also, to have suffered greatly by the Plague. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Barrymore. Here is a Free School, founded by Frances Lady Lanesborough, sixth daughter to Richard Earl of Dorset: the Master of which has £20. per annum, with an House and Garden. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Bregogue.—"David Oge Barry, Lord Buttevant, founded a Monastery here, A. D. 1290, for Conventual Franciscans, and dedicated it to St. Thomas the Martyr. But this Foundation must have been earlier than the time here set down; for we find that William Barry, in the year 1273, granted the whole church of Cathirdufgan to the Prior of Buttevant. Some are of opinion, that this house owed its origin to one of the family of Prendergast, but the Monument of the Barrys being in the centre of the choir, confirms to them the honour of this foundation. The walls of the Choir and Nave, with several other buildings, including the Steeple, which is an high square tower, erected on a fine Gothic arch, are yet entire; to the South is the Chapel of the Virgin Mary; which, with the Monastery, forms a picturesque ruin. On the North side of the monastery stands a ruined Tower, called Cullin, said to have been erected by one of the Earls of Desmond, who retired thither. There were some fine Paintings in fresco on the walls of this monastery, and a few of their remains are still visible. This house was repaired by the Roman Catholicks, in the year 1604. Near the monastery stands another ruin, which is said to have been a Nunnery, under the Invocation of St. Owen or St. John the Baptist; but we can find no account whatsoever either of its Foundation or Order."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 58.

BOURCHIN, or, BOURNEY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and united by Act of Council to the R. and V. of Burresnafarney: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Bourchin: no Glebe House: four Glebes; one, of 1 a. 2 r. 30 p., another of 3 a. 2 r. 5 p., a third of 0 a. 1 r. 30 p., and the fourth of 0 a. 1 r. 13 p., all in the parish of Bourchin, the first of them being convenient to the church, and the others about half a mile distant, in different directions: The Rev. Kennedy Kennedy, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Bourchin is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. The parishes in the Union of Bourchin are contiguous; their estimated extent being from North to South 3 miles, and from East to West 4 miles.

BOURNEY, v. BOURCHIN.

BOVEVAGH, or, BOITH-MEDHBHA, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in ruin: a Glebe House; 68 acres of Glebe, one mile from the ruin of the church: The Rev. John Hervey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Bovevagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. b. W. from Dungiven.—" A Monastery of this name was founded by St. Columb, in Kiennacta (or Kenoght). St. Aidan, nephew to St. Patrick, by Sinecha, his sister, was Abbot of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 83.

BOWFINAN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Friary here, which did belong to the Conventual Franciscans.

BOW, ISLAND, off the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is situate in Lough Erne.

BOYANNAGH, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkerrin. Boyannagh is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¾ m. E. N. E. from Dunmore. See, Kilkerrin.

BOYLE, or, AFFILYN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Boyle is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 85 m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of May, 25th of July, and 1st of October. It is situate on the River Buelle or Boyle, over which there are two stone Bridges. It is a Corporation, regularly governed by a Burgo-Master, and Recorder, according to the spirit of a Charter granted by King James the First. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Taunagh.—" Here we find a celebrated Abbey of Cistertian Monks. The remains of this ancient erection are sufficient to shew its pristine magnificence. The ruins lie at the back of the town, and are inclosed in the demesne of the Earl of Kingston. The chancel and a small Chapel on either side are roofed; the great arches which supported the tower were 45 or 46 feet in height, but the ground is now so raised as to cover all the bases of the columns; one half of the arches are supported by round pillars, built of cut stone, of various sizes, and the rest are a group of small columns, or moldings; all the spaces between those pillars are now filled up, so as to make a solid wall, and which, as we suppose, was done in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when the abbey was converted into a place of defence. Some of the capitals are plain, others are ornamented with carvings, and the East window was grand and lofty. There are no remains to be seen of the Cloister, that part being long since converted into a Barrack. The stump of a Round tower near the abbey is still to be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 601.

BOYSTOWN, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burgage. Boystown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. b. W. from Blessington. See, Burgage.

BOYTHISTOWN, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Parcel of the Rectory entire of Burrosleigh. See, Burrosleigh.

BRABAN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcommon. Braban is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Kilcommon.

BRAY, partly in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and partly in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Connaught, and Kilternan; and Rathmichael, one of the Prebends of St. Patrick's Cathedral, annexed: a Church, in Bray, in good order: a Glebe, of 6 acres, belonging to the vicarage of Bray, half a mile from the church: a Glebe House, and 18 acres of Glebe belonging to the Prebend of Rathmichael, two miles and an half distant from the church, and about three miles distant from the other Glebe: The Rev. James Wilson Ormsley, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Bray is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 11 m. S. S. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 20th of September. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate upon St. George's Channel, and is a well frequented Sea-bathing place. The parishes in the Union of Bray are all contiguous; their extent being about 5 miles from East to West, and about three miles from North to South. The greatest part of the fee simple of the town is vested in the Earl of Meath. It is divided between the Counties of Wicklow, and Dublin, by a river abounding with Trout.

BREAGHWEE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aglish. Breaghwee is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Castlebar. See, Aglish.

BREATAIN, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"St. Loarne, who had been a Disciple of St. Patrick, and died about the year 540, was Bishop or Abbot of Inreathan in Lethcathuil, or the Barony of Lecale. It is now called Breatain, and is only a Castle and seat of a Nobleman near the Town of Down; it was so at least, about the year 1630."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 111.

BREDA, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united time immemorial to the R. of Knock. Breda is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. See, Knock.

BREFNY, v. KILMORE.

BREGOGUE, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, to the V. of Kilbrowney, and the Perpetual Curacies of Bothon, and Cahirduggan: a Church, in repair, at Bothon: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Bregogue is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. W. N. W. from Doneraile. The parishes in the Union of Bregogue are contiguous; their extent being 5 miles North and South, by 4 miles East and West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, none of these parishes separately can maintain a Resident Minister.

BRIAN'S-FORD, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. S. from Castle Wellan. Near this is Tullamor, a seat of Lord Clanbrassil. The Fairs are holden on Ascension Day, and 3d of June.

BRICKENDOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Hore Abbey. Brickendown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. This parish contains 636 acres of land. See, Hore Abbey.

BRIDECHURCH, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carogh. Bridechurch is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. W. b. N. from Naas. This parish contains 1105 acres of land. See, Carogh.

BRIDE-PATRICK, v. RATHMORE.

BRIDGETOWN, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Killaloe. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of June, and 3d of November.

BRIDGETOWN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coole. Bridgetown is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. S. from Castletown Roche. See, Coole.—"Alexander, the son of Hugh, founded a Priory here, in the reign of King John, which he endowed and dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and supplied it with Regular Canons from the Priory of Newtown, in the County of Meath, and the Abbey of St. Thomas in Dublin. Opposite the High Altar is a ruined tomb of the Founder: The priory was pleasantly situated at the very confluence of the rivers Awbeg and Blackwater, which glide through a deep rocky glen opposite to the ruins."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 57.

BRIDGETOWN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 7 m. S. S. W. from Wexford.

BRIGHT, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Bright is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Downpatrick. This parish contains 2980 acres of land. See, Downpatrick.

BRIGOWN, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and R. and V., holden, by Faculty, with the R. of Kilnamartery: the Prebend is valued in the King's Books at £8., and the R. and V. at £16. sterling: a Church, lately built, at Mitchelstown: a Glebe, at Mitchelstown, of 9 acres, a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. William Disney, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, is resident in his Glebe House, which has lately been built, and discharges the duty, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Charles Fennel. The distance between the parishes of Brigown, and Kilnamartery, is nearly 50 miles. Brigown is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Mitchelstown, on the West. It is situate upon the River Funcheon. The Fair is holden on the 6th of December. See, Brinny.—" St. Abban founded Brighgobban, which was once a considerable place, and called a city. There yet remain at Brigown the walls of a church, built of large blocks of a very fine free stone brought with much labour from the mountains, and the ruins of a Round tower, which we are informed fell about the year 1720. This church is supposed by some to have been erected by St. Finchu; his staff was kept here as an holy relique, and the adjacent country people used to swear upon it: His Festival is observed here on the 25th of November."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 58.

BRINNY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, in 1806, to the entire Rectory of Knockavilly: a Church, in Brinny, in good repair; no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 9 acres, about a furlong from the church: Robert Austen, D.D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Prebend of Brigown, in the Diocese of Cloyne, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by a Curate, resident in the centre of the Union, at a Salary at present of £75., but to be increased to £95. Brinny is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. from Bandonbridge. The parishes in the Union of Brinny are contiguous; their estimated extent being four miles by three.

BRIOLA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by John Fitz Jeffry; which is all we can learn respecting it.

BRITTAS, in the Barony of Tinehinch, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Kilmanman. See, Oregan.

BRITWAY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., Episcopally united, for many years, to the V. of Aghern: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Edward Spread, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near his parish, and discharges the duties in person. Britway is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. The parishes in the Union of Britway are contiguous; their extent being 7 miles from North to South, by 4 miles from East to West. See, Aghern. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is insufficient to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BROADFORD, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster. It is 7¾ m. W. from Killaloe. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, and 21st of November.

BROADWAY, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of St. Iberius. It is 57 m. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday after Trinity Sunday, and 18th of October. It is situate near to Lough Ta. It has three Post-days in the week.

BROCKAGH, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. S. E. from Stewart's Town. A village, situate on Lough Neagh.

BROOK'S-BOROUGH, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 3¾ m. N. E. from Lisnaskea. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 31st of July, 3d of November, and 11th of December.

BROSNA, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 1 r. 2 p., close to the site of the old church: The Rev. Joseph Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; but is permitted to reside at Rathkeale, in the Diocese of Limerick, because he there serves an important Cure, to the many duties of which he assiduously attends, and would have little duty at Brosna, which lies in the mountains: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Listowell, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Brosna is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. b. E. from Listowell. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

BROSNA, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. E. from Shinrone.

BROUGHSHANE, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Skerry. It is 95 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of June, and 3d of September. It is situate on the River Braid.

BROWNSTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in Sir Marcus Somerville, being one of the parishes which constitute the R. of Kentstown: no Church: no House, or Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Brownstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Slane. See, Kentstown.

BRUFF, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1754, and at each collation since, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Killbreedy Minor; a Church, in good repair, in Bruff: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 11 acres, in the parish of Killbreedy: The Rev. Andrew Mac Cullogh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, is resident in Bruff, and performs the duties of the Union in person. Bruff is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 106 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the day before Ascension, 23d of July, 18th of October, and 28th of November. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes are four miles distant from each other; but it was judged expedient to unite them, in order to create an adequate support for the Minister of Bruff, which is a very poor vicarage, with considerable duty to perform, and requiring constant residence.

BRUHENNY, or, CHURCHTOWN, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres: The Rev. Matthew Purcell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Bruhenny is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. S. W. from Charleville.

BRUIS, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £6..1..0 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lattin. Bruis is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. b. S. from Tipperary. See, Lattin.

BRUREE, anciently BRUGHRIGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in two divisions, of 15 a. 0 r. 24 p., about two furlongs from the site of the old church: The Rev. Thomas Shepherd, A. M., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is permitted to reside in Limerick, where he serves an important Curacy: the duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Athlacca, at a Salary of £3. per annum. Bruree is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Kilmallock. It is situate upon the River Maig, over which there is a good Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, 25th of June, 14th of September, and 25th of November. It is remarkable for the Sessions holden here every half year by the Irish Bards, which, according to Mr. O'Halloran, were continued down to the year 1746. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.

BUCHOLLA, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..2..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Strade. Bucholla is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. S. b. E. from Foxford. See, Strade.

BULL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean.

BULLOCK, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monkstown. Bullock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¾ m. S. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Dublin Bay. See, Monkstown.

BUMLIN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Kiltrustan, and Lissonuffy: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. Maurice Mahon, Senior, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Bumlin is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Strokestown, on the North West. The parishes in the Union of Bumlin are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about eighteen square miles.

BUNCLOADY, v. NEWTOWN BARRY.

BUNCRANA, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 123 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, and 27th of July. It has three Post-days in the week; and is situate upon Lough Swilly.

BUNDORAN, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Ballyshannon. A village, situate upon the Sea Coast.

BUNDUFF, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 18 m. N. b. E. from Sligo. It is situate upon the Sea Coast.

BUNOWEN, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate upon the Sea Coast, in the parish of Ballindown.

BUNRATTY, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1..8..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Bunratty is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Six Mile Bridge. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The Castle here was the ancient seat of the Earls of Thomond. See, Kilseily, and Traddery.

BUOLICK, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcooly. Buolick is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. from Freshford. This parish contains 3299 acres of land. See, Kilcooly.

BURGAGE, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the V. of Boystown: a Church, in good order, at Blessington: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Hill Benson, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice of Rathmore: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Walsh, at a Salary of £65. per annum. Burgage is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Blessington, on the North East. It is situate on the River Liffey. The parishes in the Union of Burgage are contiguous; their extent being 4 miles from North to South, and 7 miles from East to West.

BURGAKERE, or, BURGOFLORE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"Here was a Monastery in the possession of the Carmelites, or White Friars, and which the Regular Canons of St. Augustin laid claim to as belonging only to them."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 277.

BURGESSBEG, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..6..0 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castletown. Burgessbeg is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. W. b. S. from Nenagh. See, Castletown.

BURGOFLORE, v. BURGAKERE.

BURISHHOOLE, or, BURRISHOWL, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Achill, and Kilmina: a Church, at Burishhoole, in good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes, in Burishhoole, containing 35 a. 2 r. 35 p.; and two Glebes, in Kilmina, containing 16 a. 0 r. 31 p.: these glebes are several miles distant from each other: The Rev. John Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission and faculty: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Henry Paisley, his Resident Curate (at Burishhoole), at a Salary of £75. per annum. Burishhoole is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Newport Pratt. It is situate on Clew Bay. The parishes in the Union of Burishhoole are all contiguous; their extent being about 26 miles in length, and 3 miles in breadth.—"It appears from a Bull of Pope Innocent VIII, dated the 9th of February, 1486, that Richard de Bourke, Lord Mac William Oughter, and head of the family of Turlogh, founded a Monastery here under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for Dominican Friars, which was granted to Nicholas Weston, who assigned to Theobald Viscount Costillogalen. On a more near approach, this house seems to have been rather a mean erection, but it makes some figure at a distant view. A great Patron is holden here on the the 4th of August, being St. Dominick's day."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 498.

BURKSTOWN, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 9½ m. S. W. from Taghmon. A village.

BURNCHURCH, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., immemorially united by Act of Council to the Vicarage of Dunsert, the Rectory of Kilfera, the Vicarage of West or Abbey Jerpoint, and the Vicarages of Ballylinch, Dunbelle, the Grange of Kilrea, Bawn or Blacknow, Wool or Moll Grange, Blackrath Grange, Cloran, Garran, Mocktown, and Rathbin: no church, but one now building, in the parish of Burnchurch: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of about 11 acres, near the church: The Rev. Richard Butler, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident in the city of Kilkenny, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union would be better to be disunited: but until then, there will be perpetual Curates appointed. Burnchurch is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Kilkenny. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of July, and 18th of October. The parishes in the Union of Burnchurch are interspersed through the county of Kilkenny; and contain 13,107 acres. The names of some of the parishes exist only in the Incumbent's titles, and the Bishop's Visitation Books, as their situation is not known. The several parishes ought rather to be denominated Town Lands, as many of them are extremely small.

BURRESNAFARNEY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bourchin. Burresnafarney is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. W. from Templemore. See, Bourchin.

BURRESOKEANE, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 11 a. 3 r. 25 p., convenient to the church: The Rev. John Torrens, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Portglinone, in the county of Antrim, where he has another Benefice: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. James Martin, A. B., at a Salary of £75. per annum. Burresokeane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 81¾ m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of April, June, and September, and 15th of December. It has three Post-days in the week.

BURRISCARRA, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Ballyhane, and Ballyovie: no Church at present in the Union, but one is to be built in the parish of Ballyhane: no Glebe Land: The Rev. William Crery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, with permission, on account of his serving the Cure of Ballinrobe, in this Diocese: the duties are discharged by The Rev. James Hopkins, his Resident Curate. Burriscarra is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¾ m. N. N. W. from Hollymount. It is situate on Lough Mask. The parishes of Burriscarra and Ballyovie are contiguous, their extent being eight miles in length, and four or five miles in breadth: the parish of Ballyhane is distant about two miles from them, to the North-west.—"The Carmelites or White Friars had an house here, which Pope John XXIII, gave to the Augustin Eremites in the year 1412. At the general suppression, this friary was possessed of a quarter of land, with the tythes thereof, valued at £0..13..4 annually."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 497.

BURR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 10 m. S. b. E. from Donaghadee.

BURROS, v. BORRES.

BURROS ILEAGH, in the Barony of Ileagh, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Glankeen. It is 78½ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of June, 6th of August, and 27th of November. It has three Post-days in the week.

BURROS in OSSORY, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Aghaboe. It is 53 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the third Tuesday, O. S., in May, and the first Tuesday, O. S., in October. In former ages it was a place of great strength; the River Nore overflowing it to the North, and bogs surrounding it on every other side. Being the great Pass to Munster, and The King's County, the Fitz-Patricks, Lords of the soil, early built a Castle here.

BURROSLEIGH, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period to which no known Record reaches, to the Vicarages of Boly, and Drom, the Chapelry of Leighmakewoged, and the Parcel of Boythistown, and constituting the Corps of the Treasurership of Cashel, which is valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair, at Burrosleigh: a Glebe House, at Burrosleigh: a Glebe, of 30 acres, at Burrosleigh; and another, of 25 a. 0 r. 12 p., at Drom: The Rev. Thomas Grady, the Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate: the duties of Drom are performed by The Rev. Robert Forsayth, Rector of the adjoining parish of Kilfithmone, at an annual Salary of £5. Burrosleigh is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Thurles. The parishes of Burrosleigh, Boly, and Leighmakewoged, are contiguous, and are about 7 miles distant from Drom. The parish of Burrosleigh contains 3508 acres.

BURRY, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Burry is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Kells. This parish contains 1640 acres of land. See, Kells.

BURT, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster; a Chapel, in perfect order: it is in the division of Templemore. It is 6 m. N. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Swilly.

BURTON, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Bruhenny. It gives title of Baron to its owner, The Right Honourable The Earl of Egmont. The Manor of Burton is very large; all the land within it, as well as the Royalties, belong to the same Nobleman. Several smaller Districts depend upon it, which were incorporated into a kind of honour, by King Charles the First, in favour of Sir Philip Perceval, one of the most eminent subjects of his time, with the privileges of Court Baron, Court Leet, Free Warren, and all other Pre-eminences and Royalties under the Manor of Burton, and which likewise comprehended the Castle and Manor of Annagh. This Patent also grants Fairs and Markets to the town of Burton. The noble Mansion was burned down, in the year 1690.

BUSH MILLS, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 20 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 24th of June, 21st of October, and 12th of December. It is situate on the River Bush. It has three Post-days in the week.

BUTLER'S-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Cavan.

BUTTEVANT, v. BOTHON.

C

CABLE ISLAND, off the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.

CADAMSTOWN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

CAHIR, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the Rectories and Vicarages of Glanbehy, and Killenane: a Church, in Cahir, in bad repair: orders have been issued for its immediate repair, but the inhabitants having ever refused to pay church rates, it may be very difficult to carry these orders into effect: a Glebe House, in Cahir: a Glebe, in Cahir, of 4 a. 0 r. 39 p., and also one, near the church, of 36 a. 1 r. 36 p.: in Glanbehy, close to the church, of 3 a. 0 r. 21 p., which, the old people say, should be 14 acres; and in Killenane, close to the church, of 61 a. 2 r. 33 p.: The Rev. Barry Denny, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. The parishes in the Union of Cahir are contiguous: they have but lately been separated from the Union of Dromod. Cahir is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 25 m. W. from Kenmare. It is situate upon Valentia Harbour, on the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CAHIR, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghamacart. Cahir is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Aghamacart.

CAHIR, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, Episcopally united, on the 26th of October 1803, to the Vicarage of Grange, St. John Baptist, when the present Incumbent took possession; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Cahir: a Glebe House, building, in Cahir: three Glebes, in the parish of Cahir; the first, of 9 acres, being about a mile and a quarter from the church; the second, of 2 acres, being about a mile from the first, and about a quarter of a mile from the church; and the third, of 35 perches, being only a few yards from the church: The Rev. John Wallace, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Cahir is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 85½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 26th and 27th of May, 20th of July, 18th and 19th of September, and 7th of December. It is situate on the River Suir; and upon an Island therein is the Castle, erected by Connor, King of Thomond, before the year 1142. It gives title of Baron to a branch of the noble family of Butler. The parishes in the Union of Cahir are not contiguous; and are at least five miles distant from each other. The parish of Cahir contains 6838 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of Cahir might very well stand alone.—"In the reign of King John, Geoffry de Camvill founded a Priory here, to the honour of the Blessed Virgin, for Canons Regular of the Order of St. Augustin. Some ruins of this building are still to be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 644.

CAHIRAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromdaleague. Cahiragh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon the River Ilen. See, Dromdaleague.

CAHIRCONLISH, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £8..0..9 sterling, and united by Act of Council, in 1791, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Carrickparson, and the Vicarage of Luddenbeg: a Church, in good repair, at Cahirconlish: a Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 11a. 3r. 12p., at Cahirconlish: another, of 13 a. 1 r. 38 p., at Luddenbeg; and the third, of 4 a. 3 r. 34 p., at Carrickparson: The Rev. Richard Cox, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Cahirconlish is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. E. from Limerick. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of May, 20th of August, 17th of October, and 5th of December. The parishes in the Union of Cahirconlish are contiguous; that of Cahirconlish containing 4334 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is not extensive, and produces a very scanty income; it should not be dissolved.

CAHIRCORNEY, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1795, to the Vicarage of Kilkellane: a Church, in good repair, at Cahircorney: a Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 42 a. 3 r. 25 p., at Templebredin; another, of 4 a. 3 r. 25 p., at Gurtanaglish; and the third, of 8 a. 0 r. 4 p., at Cahircorney: The Rev. Thomas Ryan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Limerick with the consent of the Diocesan, being, from age and infirmities, incapable of performing the duties of his parish: the duties are discharged by The Rev. John Bennet, his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cahircorney is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. E. from Six Mile Bridge. The parishes in the Union of Cahircorney are contiguous; that of Cahircorney containing 663 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes are of so little value, that they receive augmentation from the Trustees of Primate Boulter's Fund, to make the Income £60. per annum.

CAHIRDUGGAN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bregogue. Cahirduggan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. W. from Doneraile. See, Bregogue.

CAHIRELLY, or, CAHIRELLY, WEST, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 a. 1 r. 25 p.: The Rev. J. C. Seymour, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin: the duties are performed by The Rev. Richard Cox, Vicar of the adjoining parish of Cahirconlish. Cahirelly is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. N. E. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 905 acres of land. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 26th of August, and 6th of November. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CAHIRFOSSORGE, v. BALLYNARD.

CAHIR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Morisk, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught.

CAHIRLAG, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, united, on the 3d of March, 1785, by Act of Council, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Little Island, and Rathconey: a Church, in the Union, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 7 a. 3 r. 3 p., at Cahirlag; and, at Rathconey, of 14 a. 2 r. 31 p.; being distant from the new church a mile and an half, but from the site of the old church less than a quarter of a mile: The Rev. John Chetwood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cahirlag is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. b. N. from Cork. All the parishes in the Union of Cahirlag are contiguous; their estimated extent from East to West being three miles, and from North to South a mile and an half. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is insufficient to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CAHIRNARRY, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick. Cahirnarry is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Limerick. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.

CAHIRULTAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Corps consisting of the Vicarage thereof, being valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and united by Act of Parliament, 8° Anne, under the name of the parish of Castle Martyr, to the R. and V. of Ballymartyr, and the V. of Mogealy: a Church, in repair, at Castle Martyr, a Glebe House, about to be begun immediately: a Glebe, at Ballymartyr, of 3 acres; at Mogealy, of 19 acres; and, at Cahirultan, of 3 roods: the glebe, at Mogealy, lies very convenient to the church; the others are at some distance: The Rev. George Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Cahirultan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Castle Martyr. The parishes in the Union of Cahirultan are contiguous; their extent being from East to West two miles, and from North to South five miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Cahirultan is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CAHIRVALLY, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Limerick. Cahirvally is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¾ m. S. b. E. from Limerick. See, St. Patrick's.

CAILLE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Monastery here.

CAILLE-AVINDE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Monastery here, which was founded by St. Fintan, a Disciple of St. Columb.

CAILLEFOCHLADA, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an Abbey here, which has been long buried in oblivion.

CALDRYWOLAGH, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Friary of the third order of Franciscans; but we are not informed of the Founder.

CALEDON, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House: 8 acres of Glebe: The Rev. John Campbell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Caledon is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. N. W. from Tynan. It is situate on the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, and 21st of August. It gives title of Baron to the Family of Alexander. See, Aghalow.

CALLABEG, or, KILNESEAR, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilbragh. Callabeg is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Templemore. This parish contains 1734 acres. See, Kilbragh.

CALLAGHAN'S MILLS, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 9½ m. W. N. W. from Killaloe. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of May, 27th of June, and 14th of November.

CALLAN, or, CALLEN, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £40. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £13..6..8; and immemorially united by Act of Council to the Rectories and Vicarages of Ballycallan, Coolaghmore, Killaloe, Tullomain, and Tulloroan; two Churches, in good repair; one of them being in the parish of Callan, and the other in Ballycallan: no Glebe House: a few scattered acres of Glebe land, two miles distant from the church: The Rev. George Stevenson, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates, at a Salary of £75. per annum to each. Callan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 65½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of July, and 21st of August. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Fielding, and of Baron to the family of Agar. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, and Deputy. This place seems to be in the same ruined state, in which Oliver Cromwell left it, though it was formerly a town of some note, and has the remains of three Castles. It is agreeably situate on a stream, called The King's River. The parishes in the Union of Callan are contiguous; and are about 10 miles in extent from one extremity to the other. The Hon. and Rev. Ham. Cuffe is Chaplain (in 1806), of the two Chapelries or Cantuaries of The Holy Trinity, and St. Catherine, in the church of Callan.—"A Friary for Augustinian Eremites was founded here, as some writers affirm, by Hugh de Mapilton, who was Bishop of Ossory from 1251 to the year 1256; but the real founder was James, father to Peter Earl of Ormond: James died on the 16th of April 1487, and was interred here. The Tower and Walls of this friary still remain; and it is probable, that the bones of the founder were laid in the wall, under two Gothic arches which yet stand near the East window.—The Nave of the church of Callan, with its fine lateral aisles, still remains in good preservation; the choir is now the parish church; and the cemetery of the founder's family, overgrown with moss and ivy, adjoins the choir."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 348.

CALLATHAMERY, v. TEMPLEICHALLY.

CALLIAGHTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate to the Eastward of the parish of Kilsharvan.—" Here was a Cell which was a dependant on the Nunnery of St. Brigid of Odder; of this cell there are now no remains; it was supposed to stand near the Well of Shallon, dedicated to St. Columb, and the resort of great numbers on the Festival of that Saint."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 519.

CALLONESTOWN, v. CALRAGHSTOWN.

CALLOW-HILL, or, CALLY-HILL, in the Barony of Knockniny, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Belturbet. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 2d of August, and 11th of December. It is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh.

CALLY-HILL, v. CALLOW-HILL.

CALRAGHSTOWN, or, CALLONESTOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..0..2 Irish Money. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 12 m. S. W. from Dublin.

CALRY, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. John's, Sligo. Calry is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. See, Sligo, and Innismore, Island.

CALTRAGH, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 1¾ m. E. b. N. from Castle-Blakeney. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, first Monday after the 12th of July, 21st of September, and 14th of December.

CALVERSTOWN, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 1 m. N. E. from Ballintore. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 21st of September.

CALVES, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. These are three Islands, situate in Roaring Water Bay.

CAMKELL, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is a parcel of Mogorban. See, Toem.

CAMLAGHT, v. CAMLOGH.

CAMLIN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and anciently united to the Vicarages of Glenavy, and Tullyrusk. Camlin is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. from Glenavy. See, Glenavy.

CAMLOGH, or, CAMLAGHT, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in tolerable order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 40 English acres, lying together, and two miles from the church: The Rev. Joseph Henry, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Camlogh is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. from Newry.

CAMMA, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltoom. Camma is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. W. N. W. from Athlone. See, Kiltoom.

CAMOLIN, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Tomb. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Bann. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of June, 9th of August, and 9th of November. Here is the handsome Seat of Viscount Valentia; and near it is Sliebh Buy, a high, fertile, and beautiful Mountain. See, Tomb.

CAMROS, in the Barony of ——, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. —"St. Abban, who died about the year 640, built an Abbey here, of which St. Mosacre was Abbot, A. D. 650."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 733.

CAMUS juxta BANN, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., with the Chapel of Macosquy, valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, under repair: a Glebe House; two Glebes, containing 212 acres, one of them being near the church, and the other three miles from it: The Rev. Harrun Balfour, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Camus is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Coleraine. —"The Abbot St. Congell, or Comgall, flourished about the year 580, and St. Colman, or Mocholmoc, another Abbot of this once celebrated monastery, died 30th March, A. D. 699. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 83.

CAMUS juxta MORNE, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: a Church, lately repaired, and now in perfect order: no Glebe House; 350 acres of Glebe, three miles from the church: The Rev. Stewart Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1800), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Camus is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Strabane, on the North. It is situate on the River Morne.

CANABOY, v. CONNAWAY.

CANICE, ST., or, IRISH-TOWN, within the County of the City of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, from time immemorial, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Ballyburr, and St. Martin's: the Cathedral, in good repair: a Glebe, of about 40 acres: the Vicars Choral are the Impropriators, who have cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice, are resident in the Union, and discharge the duties. St. Canice is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Kilkenny, on the North North West. It is situate on the River Nore. The Fair is holden on the 22d of October. It is governed by a Portrieve, and enjoys particular privileges by Charter. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. The Right Rev. John Kearney, D. D., Lord Bishop of Ossory, in 1806. The See of Ossory, which is valued in the King's Books at one hundred Marks, and which was originally established at Saigair, and afterwards at Aghavoe, according to Dr. Beaufort, was founded very early in the fifth century. It includes almost the whole of the County of Kilkenny, a good part of the Queen's County, and some of the King's County, extending 36 miles in length, from North to South, and 23 miles in breadth. The Chapter is formed by the Dean (see, St. Patrick's, in the City of Kilkenny), Precentor, Chancellor, (see, Inchihologhan), Treasurer, and Archdeacon (see, Kilfane), with seven Prebendaries. The Cathedral is a large handsome Pile, dedicated to St. Canice, whence the Borough of Irish-Town, wherein it stands, derives its name. The Bishop has a good house, close to the Cathedral, which is situate about 30 miles from the farthest part of the Diocese. The Precentorship is valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, and the Treasurership at £11. See, Kilkenny.—"A Monastery, for Dominican Friars, was founded here in the year 1225, to the honour of the Holy Trinity, by William Mareschal, Junior, Earl of Pembroke. There did formerly belong to this monastery an house for their Probationers, situated on a high bank over the River Nore, and two miles North of Kilkenny. It is now called Drumdelig, or, Thornback, and is a burial-place of note. The noble ruins of this Friary may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 371.

CANON BROOK, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is contiguous to Lucan. The land being holden under the Minor Canons of St. Patrick, and a pretty stream gliding among rocks through it, give rise to the name of Canon Brook. The great improvements in planting here by James Gandon, Esq., deserve the best commendations, and are exemplary to the Nobility and Gentry of Ireland.

CAPE CLEAR, v. CLARE, ISLAND.

CAPPAGH, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick. Cappagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.

CAPPAGH, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House: one Glebe, on which the house stands, of 370 acres, one mile from the church; another, of 220 acres, two miles from the church; and a third, of 340 acres, four miles from the church: Robert Burrowes, D. D., (Principal of the endowed School of Enniskillen), the Incumbent (in 1806), who often visits his parish, and spends his Vacations in it: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cappagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. from Omagh. It is situate on the River Shrule.

CAPPAGH, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of White Church. It is 3½ m. W. from Dungarvan.—" Here are the remains of an ancient building, said to have belonged to the Knights Hospitallers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 685.

CAPPOGE, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Kilcock. A village.

CAPPOGE, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleer. Cappoge is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. N. b. W. from Dunleer. This parish contains 568 acres of land. See, Dunleer.

CAPPOQUIN, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Lismore. It is 97 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Blackwater, over which there is a Bridge here. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 31th of May, 5th of July, 20th of September, and 14th of October. The Castle here was built by the family of Fitzgerald, but at what time is uncertain. It has six Post-days in the week.

CARBERY, or, CASTLE CARBERY, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is Impropriate, and is valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 Irish Money: the Vicarage, with its appurtenances: a Church, in thorough repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 a. 1 r. 0 p., in three lots; the first, of three roods, is two miles and an half from the church; the second, of two roods, is three miles distant; and the third, of one acre, is six miles distant: The Rev. Charles Palmer, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within the parish, and performs the duties in person. Carbery is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. E. b. N. from Edenderry, and 25¾ m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of May, and 2d of October. It is situate on the verge of The Bog of Allen. The Barony of Carbury gives title of Baron to the Noble family of Pomeroy, now Viscount Harberton; And at Newbury near this, is the fine seat of Viscount Harberton. Here is a Charter School, which was endowed by the late Mrs. Elizabeth Colley and her Sister, Mrs Pomeroy, co-heiresses of Castle Carbery, with two acres of land in perpetuity: They also granted 20 acres adjoining, at a moderate rate for three lives, and gave £20. per annum, as a rent charge for ever, towards the support of the school. Mrs. Elizabeth and Mrs. Judith Colley, Aunts to the said ladies, built the school at their own expense; And the sum of £100. was bequeathed to it by the late Thomas Dallyel, Esq. At the distance of a quarter of a mile, are the ruins of a large Castle, built about the year 1180; It is situate on a high peninsulated hill, rocky and steep on three sides, and from which there is a very extensive prospect: It was formerly the residence of the Cowley Family. The Barony of Carbury is assessed for seventeen Plough-lands.

CARBERY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is a Rock, situate in Dunmannus Bay.

CARDANGAN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lattin. Cardangan is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. S. S. E. from Tipperary. See, Lattin.

CARDIFTOWN in the Barony of Naas, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Naas.

CARDY ROCK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. N. from Balbriggan.

CARIGALLEN, in the Barony of Carigallen, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, old, and in bad repair; but money is raising to build one on a larger scale: no Glebe House; but a grant has been obtained from the Board of First Fruits in aid of a glebe house; 590 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Charles Cobbe Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Carigallen is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. E. b. N. from Mohill. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of May, 9th of August, 8th of October, and the last Friday in December.

CARIGILIKY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Myross.—"Here are the foundations of some extensive ruins, with a large cemetery: this probably was the site of the Abbey of Maure, or, The clear spring, which was founded A. D. 1172, by Dermot Mac Cormac Mac Carthy, King of Desmond, who supplied it with Cistertian Monks from the Abbey of Baltinglass. Some writers place this foundation three years earlier."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 60.

CARIGUE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster. It is situate at the entrance of the Shannon.

CARINTEEL, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, and consolidated with the R. and V. of Aghalow. It is adjacent to Aughnacloy, on the North West. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of May, 26th of August, 19th of September, and 26th of November. It is situate on the River Blackwater. See, Aghalow.

CARLANSTOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Kells. Here is a Seat of The Marquess of Buckingham.

CARLINGFORD, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..13..8 sterling: a Church, in bad order: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2½ Irish acres, lying together, distant about one mile from the church: The Rev. Francis Gervis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Carlingford is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 52 m. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 10th of October. It is situate upon an extensive Bay, to which it gives name; and is remarkable for a fine flavoured species of oyster. It gives title of Viscount to the Family of Carpenter, now Earl of Tyrconnel. It has three Post-days in the week.—"Richard de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, founded a Monastery here in the year 1305, under the invocation of St. Malachy, for Friars Preachers, or Dominicans. From the large remains of this building, which are still to be seen, it appears to have been a magnificent erection."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 452.

CARLOW, or, CATHERLOUGH, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1665, to the R. of Killeskin: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Carlow: no Glebe House: three Glebes, in the parish of Carlow, one of 1 a. 1 r. 24 p., another of 0 a. 1 r. 17 p., and the third of 1 a. 3 r. 8 p.; the two latter being in the town of Carlow, at the distance of a mile from the first: The Rev. Dr. Falkener, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Carlow is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 39 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 22d of June, 26th of August, and 8th of November. This town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, William Burton, Esq. It has six Post-days in the week. The Assizes are holden here. The River Barrow is navigable from hence to Ross, and also to Athy, where it forms a junction with the Grand Canal. It was incorporated by King James the First; and is governed by a Sovereign, and two Serjeants. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Dawson. The parishes in the Union of Carlow are contiguous; their contents being 4619 acres.

CARMONY, anciently COOLE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and anciently united to the V. of Ballylinny, and the R. of Ballymartin: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 50 acres: The Rev. Richard Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice (by a dispensation) in the South of Ireland: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Carmony is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. from Belfast. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; that of Carmony containing 5270 acres of land. It is situate near to Belfast Lough.

CARNAGH, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..4..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Carnagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. E. b. S. from New Ross. See, Ross, New.

CARNALLOCK, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. N. b. W. from Glenarm. A village, situate upon the Sea Coast.

CARNALWAY, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £4..14..1 Irish Money: a Church, in excellent repair: a Glebe House, built by the present Incumbent; and a Glebe, of 10 acres, about a quarter of a mile from the site of the old church: The Rev. Gabriel Stokes, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Carnalway is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. E. b. N. from Kilcullen-Bridge. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Rectory is advised to be made a Perpetual Union with Cotlandstown; the Bishoprick being in some other sort compensated. The parishes are in immediate contact.

CARNCASTLE, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Ballycor, Derry Keighan, Kilwaghter, Raskee, and St. Cunning, and constituting the Prebend of Carncastle, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in bad condition: no Glebe House, in the Union; a Glebe, of 20 acres, near the church of Derry Keighan: The Rev. Stephen Dickson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on the Impropriate Cure of Bangor: the duties are discharged by three Resident Curates, at a Salary of £60. per annum to each. Carncastle is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Larne. These denominations are all contiguous, except that of Derry Keighan, which is distant from them 25 miles. This parish contains 4000 acres of land. It is situate upon the Sea Coast.

CARNE, v. CARRUNE.

CARNE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 132 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

CARNE, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 Irish Money, being the Corps of the Precentorship of the Cathedral Church of St. Bridget, Kildare: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 a. 0 r. 6 p.: The Rev. William Maunsell, the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, having a Dispensation. Carne is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. b. S. from Kildare. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CARNE, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on Black Sod Bay.

CARNE, or, CARNSORE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £11..9..0 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: an excellent Glebe House, lately erected by the Incumbent, on a Glebe of 9 acres, near the church: The Rev. Richard Bevan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Carne is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Broadway.—" St. Domangart of Ossory, whose Festival is holden on the 4th of March, built a Monastery at the foot of the very high mountain which overhangs the sea, that immediately flows between Ireland and England. It was formerly called Salanga, afterward Slieve Domangaird, and in the time of Ptolomey the Geographer, it had acquired the name of Hieron, or, The Sacred Promontory. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 733.

CARNEW, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Charles Cope, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within the parish, and discharges the duties in person. Carnew is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 47 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the second Thursday, O. S., in February, 1st of April, 15th of May, 1st of July, and first Thursday, O. S., in August. It has three Post-days in the week.

CARNGRANY, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. This Grange, which is free from Tythe, is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

CARNMAVE, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. This Grange, which is free from Tythe, is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

CARNSORE, v. CARNE.

CAROGH, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being holden with the Vicarage of Naas, by Act of Parliament, without Cure: the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £10..0..10 Irish Money, and Episcopally united to the Rectory of Bridechurch, and the Vicarage of Downings: a Church, in Carogh, about to be repaired: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Simon Digby, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident in Carogh, and performs the duties in person. Carogh is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Naas. The parishes in the Union of Carogh are contiguous; that of Carogh containing 2370 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of Downings, and the parish of Killybegs, should be united, and augmented by the Board of First Fruits. There are many persons very desirous of this arrangement, who would probably contribute largely to build a church. It would be extremely desirable, that Carogh should be endowed with all its great Tythes, or otherwise compensated for the loss of Downings.

CARRAGH, LOUGH, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 4½ m. N. from Ballinrobe. In this Lake the Salmo Fario, or, Gillaroo Trout, is very abundant; and of which a very interesting account is given by Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq. V. P. L. S., in Sowerby's Brit. Miscel. vol. ii. p. 1.

CARRICK, v. CARRIGG.

CARRICK, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

CARRICK, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..11..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathdrummin. Carrick is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. S. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 414 acres of land. See, Rathdrummin.

CARRICK, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..2..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moleskar. Carrick is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. S. b. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 1212 acres of land. See, Moleskar.

CARRICKAQUICY, v. CARRIGOGONILL.

CARRICK-A-REDE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. According to Mr. Hamilton, it is also called Carrick-a-ram-head, i. e. The Rock in the Road, and is connected to the Continent or main-land by a bridge of ropes 60 feet in length, over a frightful chasm 84 feet in depth.

CARRICK-BEG, formerly, CARRICK MAC GRIFFIN, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dysart. It is part of the suburbs of Carrick upon Suir. Here is an excellent stone-bridge over the River Suir, which affords a communication between the two Counties of Waterford, and Tipperary.—"A Monastery was founded here for Conventual Franciscans in the year 1336, by James Earl of Ormond, and the first Friar was admitted therein on Saturday, being the festival of St. Peter and St. Paul; at which time Stephen de Barry was appointed Minister, friar William Naisse keeper, and friar John Clynne, of the Franciscan friary of Kilkenny, was appointed the first warden. The steeple of this monastery, dedicated to St. Michael, still remains, and is a very curious building, about 60 feet in height, rising from a single stone, like an inverted Pyramid, which point begins several feet from the ground towards the middle of the side-wall of the church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 685.

CARRICK BRENNAN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monkstown. Carrick Brennan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Monkstown.

CARRICKDOWNAN, v. CARRIGDOWNANE.

CARRICKFERGUS, within the County of the same, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Inver, Island Magee, Moblusk, and Raloo, and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Connor, which is valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, near the church: The Rev. Thomas Graves, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, and three Curates of the adjoining parishes. Carrickfergus is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 88 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. This town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, The Marquess of Donegal. The Magistrates are a Mayor, two Sheriffs, a Recorder, and Town Clerk. It is situate on Belfast Lough. The parishes in the Union of Carrickfergus are all nearly contiguous; that of Carrickfergus containing 9565 acres of land. The Assizes are holden here both for the County of Antrim at large, and for the district of the town. It was once the first Sea-port in the North of Ireland, and defended by a strong Castle. But the port is now little frequented, and the Castle is no longer garrisoned, though it still possesses a Military Governor.—" The foundation of a Monastery here, for Franciscan Friars, is fixed in the year 1232, but it is a matter of doubt who was the Founder: Some say, the famous Hugh de Lacie, Earl of Ulster: according to others, O'Neal; we are inclined to the former. This monastery was in such high repute, that a general Chapter of the Order was holden in it, in the year 1510. At the suppression of Religious houses, this monastery and its possessions were granted to Sir Edmund Fitzgerald, who assigned the same to Sir Arthur Chichester, ancestor to the Earl of Donegal. This nobleman, who was several times Lord Deputy of Ireland, erected a noble Castle on the site of this monastery, about the year 1610."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 3.

CARRICKMACROSS, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Magheross. It is 44 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of May, 10th of July, 27th of September, 9th of November, and 10th of December. It has six Post-days in the week.

CARRICKMAQUIGLY, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 12½ m. N. N. E. from Londonderry. A village, situate upon Lough Foyle.

CARRICK on the SHANNON, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a Chapelry: a Church, in good order: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a salary of £60. per annum. Carrick on the Shannon is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 77 m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 11th of August, and 21st of November. The Assizes are holden here. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Killtoghard.

CARRICKPARSON, or, WILLESTOWN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirconlish. Carrickparson is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. E. from Limerick. This parish contains 602 acres of land. See, Cahirconlish.

CARRICK upon SUIR, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 15th of October 1803, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the entire Rectory of Killmurry, and the Vicarages of Ardcullom, and Killsheelan; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Carrick upon Suir: no Glebe House, a Glebe, of 0 a. 3 r. 3 p., with five thatched cabins thereon, at Carrick upon Suir, close to the church; another, of 8 a. 1 r. 20 p., at Killmurry, close to the site of the old church there: and a third, of 7 a. 0 r. 12 p., at Killsheelan: The Rev. Standish Grady, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Carrick upon Suir is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 75 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Tuesday, 15th of August, and first Thursday, O. S., in October. It is joined to the county of Waterford by a Bridge over the navigable River Suir. The Woollen manufacture is carried on here very extensively, both of Broad cloths and Ratteens. It gives title of Earl to a branch of the family of Butler, to whom the Castle belongs. It was formerly a walled town, and part of the wall still remains. The parishes in the Union of Carrick upon Suir are contiguous; their extent being very great. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Killmurry, and the Vicarages of Carrick upon Suir, and Ardcullom, ought to be perpetually united; and a Glebe House ought to be built in the parish of Carrick upon Suir.—"William de Cantell and Dionisia his wife, the daughter of Thomas son of Anthony, founded a Priory on the banks of the Suire, in honour of St. John the Evangelist, for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustin. Thomas Duff, or Black Thomas, Earl of Ormond, erected a Castle on the site of the Priory.—Here was also a Nunnery, which was founded for Poor Clares, but we know nothing further of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 645.

CARRIGALINE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: a Church, and a Chapel of Ease, both in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6 a, 3 r. 9 p.: The Rev. Horatio Townsend, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Courtmasherry, near the Prebend of The Island, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by two Curates, one of them, at a Salary of £50., and the other at £75. Carrigaline is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. E. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Awinboy. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, Whit-Monday, 12th of August, and 8th of November.

CARRIGANS, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon the River Foyle.

CARRIGART, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 14 m. N. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Mulroy Bay. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, and 31st of October.

CARRIGDOWNANE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 10 acres: The Rev. Tristram Land, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Rathcormuck, of which he is Curate. Carrigdownane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon.

CARRIGG, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Carrigg is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. W. from Wexford. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Wexford.

CARRIGIN, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkilvery. Carrigin is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Headford. It is situate on Lough Carrib. See, Kilkilvery.

CARRIGLEAMLEARY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Raghan, and is valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling: The duties are discharged by The Rev. Charles Hallis (in 1810), who resides in the next parish. Carrigleamleary is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Mallow. It is situate near to the River Blackwater. See, Raghan.

CARRIGOGONILL, or, CARRICKAQUICY, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is situate on the River Shannon, 6 m. W. from Limerick.—"There was an House for Knights Templars in this village, which, in the year 1530, was the seat of Donogh O'Brien, lord of Poble O'Brien. In 1691 it was a place of great strength."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 419.

CARRIGROHAN BEG, partly in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and partly within the county of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Joshua Berkeley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides near the parish. Carrigrohan Beg is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Lee. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CARRIGROHANE, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., united, at a period long prior to any known record, to the Rectories of Corbally (one Rectory belongs to the Vicars Choral), Currikippane, and Kenneigh (the vicarage being endowed), and constituting the Precentorship of the Cathedral of Cork: a Church, at Carrigrohane: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 16 a. 3 r. 0 p., near the church; and another, in Currikippane, of 5 a. 1 r. 8 p., near the ruins of a church; these glebes are about half a mile asunder: The Rev. Henry Sandiford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides partly in the City of Cork, and within three miles of the church, and partly in the parish of Rathgoggin, in the Diocese of Cloyne, which he holds by Faculty: the duties of Carrigrohane, and Currikippane, are performed by the Incumbent, and his Curate, who is resident in Currikippane, at a Salary of £75. per annum: the duties of Kenneigh are performed by the Vicar, or his Resident Curate: and those of Corbally, by a Curate resident near it. Carrigrohane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. b. S. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Lee. The parishes in the Union of Carrigrohane are not contiguous, except in the instance of Carrigrohane, and Currikippane, which join each other: their estimated extent from North to South being 4 miles, and from East to West one mile. The other parishes are 10 miles distant from Carrigrohane. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

CARRIGTOHILL, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united by Act of Council, from the most distant time, to the particle of Kilcurfin: a Church, at Carrigtohill, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 acres, near the old church, at Kilcurfin: The Rev. Henry Johnson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his living, in the Diocese of Limerick: the duties being discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Robert Bury, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Carrigtohill is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. S. b. E. from Rathcormuck. It is situate on the North side of Cork Harbour. The parishes in the Union of Carrigtohill are contiguous; their extent being 5 miles from East to West, and three miles from North to South. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of March, 12th of May, 26th of August, 19th of September, and 8th of November.

CARROWKILL, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 6½ m. N. N. E. from Ennis. A village.

CARRUNE, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Kilmacrehy; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Kilfenora. Carrune is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. N. E. from Innistymon. See, Noughaval, and Kilmacrehy.

CARYSFORT, or, MACREDDIN, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Rathdrum. It is 4½ m. S.W. from Rathdrum. It gives title of Baron to the family of Proby. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, and the 12th of November. It is governed by a Sovereign, and Burgesses. Here is a Free School, which was founded and endowed by King Charles the First; who, in the fourth year of his reign, by a Charter dated the 21st of August, granted to the Sovereign and Burgesses of the town of Carysfort 200 acres of arable land, and 97 acres of Bog and Mountain, to the only use of such Schoolmaster as the deputy or other chief governor or governors of Ireland shall appoint to reside and teach in the said town of Carysfort. The present Master is, The Rev. Sir Thomas Forster, Bart., who was appointed on the 18th of March 1806, by patent. These lands are situate near the town of Carysfort, in the parish of Rathdrum, and county of Wicklow. And according to a survey made in the month of May, 1807, by order of the Commissioners of the Board of Education, it appears, that the lands contain 82 acres under meadow and tillage, and 200 acres of coarse pasture and mountain; making together 336 acres, being 39 more than is mentioned in the Grant. There has never been any School House or residence for the Master attached to this endowment; there is an old School room, which about 50 Boys attend in summer, but not above a dozen in winter.

CASHEL, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 6 m. S. from Sligo.—" St. Bronan, or Bronius, a disciple of St. Patrick, was Bishop of Culiorra, or Cashelirra, and died on the 8th of January, A. D. 511. St. Biteus, the son of Assicus, another disciple of the Saint's, was also Bishop here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 629.

CASHEL, anciently CAR SIOL, i.e. The Habitation on the Rock, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: The Right Hon. and Most Reverend Charles Brodrick, D. D., Archbishop of Cashel, and Lord Primate of Munster, in 1806: a Rectory entire, united, at a period long prior to any existing Record, to the Rectory entire of Ballyclerahan, and the Vicarage of Coleman; being the Corps of the Deanery of Cashel, which is valued in the King's Books at £12. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair, in Cashel, dedicated to St. John: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 100 acres, at Dean's Grove, near Cashel; and another, of 11 acres, at Ballyclerahan: The Rev. Joseph Palmer, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in England: the duties of St. John's are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Frederick Neligan, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cashel is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 77 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of March, the last Friday in July, 7th of August, 9th of September, and 3d of November. This City sends one Member to Parliament. It is governed by a Mayor, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk. This city is well inhabited for its size, but has no trade. Here is a Charter-School, for 80 Boys. The See of Cashel, according to Dr. Beaufort, was either founded or restored at the beginning of the Tenth century; it was made an Archbishoprick, in 1152, and is valued in the King's Books at £66..13..4 Irish Money. Emly, which was founded in the Fifth century, is said to have been at first an Archbishoprick also. They were united, in 1568. The Archbishoprick is almost confined to the county of Tipperary, branching a very little way into the counties of Kilkenny, and Limerick, and is 28 miles in length, and 23 miles in breadth. The united Sees are very compact, extending 32 miles in one direction, and 30 miles in the other. The Chapter of Cashel consists of a Dean, Precentor (see, Templeneiry), Chancellor (see, Clogher), Treasurer (see, Burrosleigh), and Archdeacon (see, Geale), with four Prebendaries. The Cathedral of Cashel, which serves also for a parish church, is a large and handsome edifice, completed by the late Archbishop: the ancient and spacious church, which, still venerable in ruins, stands upon the Rock of Cashel, having fallen to decay in the time of his Predecessor. The palace is a plain, large house, in the city of Cashel, to which a Publick Library is annexed. There is no part of these United Sees more distant than 25 miles from Cashel.—" An Hospital for sick and infirm poor, with fourteen beds and three Chaplains, was founded here to the honour of St. Nicholas, by Sir David le Latimer, Seneschal to Marian, who was Archbishop of Cashel from the year 1224 to 1238: the said Archbishop granted to this hospital two flaggons of Ale out of every brewing made for sale within the limits of thirty messuages in this town, and David, a succeeding Prelate, did, by force and violence, unite this hospital to the Cistertian Abbey, about the year 1272.—A Dominican Friary was founded adjoining the town, (but not within the Liberties of the Corporation) and dedicated to St. Dominick, in the year 1243, by the Archbishop David Mac Kelly, who was himself a Dominican, and supplied it with brethren from the Friary of Cork. General Chapters of the Order were holden here in 1289 and 1307. This monastery, as lately evinced, was the noblest and most beautiful building belonging to the Dominican Order in Ireland.—Hacket's Abbey was founded for Conventual Franciscans in the reign of King Henry the Third by William Hacket. In the night of the 14th of February 1757, the lofty and beautiful steeple of this friary fell to the ground. This erection was situate at the rere of Friar-street, and is now so much gone to ruin, that it is scarce possible to trace the divisions of the building: What remains measures East and West about 150 feet in length, and 25 in breadth: on the South side, opposite the centre of this range, is a small chapel with niches for candles, the same as those at Hore Abbey, and an handsome window: Here are several old tomb-stones, on which are crosses, but no inscriptions. In the year 1781, the great East window, and many other parts of the abbey, were pulled down to employ the materials in private buildings."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 646. et seq.

CASHELL, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathline: no Church. Cashell is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. from Lanesborough. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Rathline.

CASTLANE, v. WHITECHURCH.

CASTLEBAR, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Aglish. It is 114½ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 9th of July, 16th of September, and 18th of November. Here is a Charter School, for 50 girls. The Assizes are holden here. It has six Post-days in the week. It gives title of Baron to the family of Bingham. The Author records with peculiar satisfaction, from the sensible and judicious observations of his friend, Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq., "that Castlebar is one of the neatest towns in Ireland. The houses are well built, and good looking, and no town in the Kingdom is more rapidly increasing. Lord Lucan interests himself extremely about the welfare of this place, which belongs to him, together with the surrounding country; and what is so truly praise-worthy, has the high character of being one of the best of Landlords. His Lordship is now building (in 1790) a very large Linen Hall, with various conveniences for those who are concerned in that trade: over which is an handsome Assembly Room. Close to this building is an Hotel, which is conducted in a style of civility and comfort, that is exemplary. His Lordship has a good house here, surrounded with much large timber, chiefly elm, which grows well in this soil."—See, Aglish.

CASTLE BELLINGHAM, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Gernonstown. It is 34½ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter Tuesday, and 10th of October. It is situate upon Dundalk Bay. It has six Post-days in the week.

CASTLE-BLAKENEY, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Killesolan. It is 80¼ m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 17th of March, Whit-Tuesday, 26th of July, and 2d of October. It has six Post-days in the week.

CASTLE BLAYNEY, in the Barony of Cremourne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 53¾ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 13th of May, 16th of August, 8th of November, and 6th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is the handsome seat of Lord Blaney.

CASTLE BOURKE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the banks of Lough Carragh, 9 m. S. from Castlebar. In this Lake, the Salmo Fario, or Gillaroo Trout, is very abundant; and of which a very interesting description (accompanied with an engraving) is given by Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq., V. P. L. S., in Sowerby's Brit. Miscel. vol. ii. p. 1. Of the great Baronial Estates, attached to this Castle, it may not be improper briefly to mention, that Sir Theobald Bourke, the FOURTH Viscount of Mayo, being left a Minor, preferred a petition, upon his father's death and forfeiture, to the Commissioners of Government for a maintenance: Who declared, on the 15th of April, 1653, that if he would repair to Dublin, and make application to them, they would take care that he should be decently educated, and maintained. He repaired to Dublin accordingly, and was placed under the tuition of Mr. John Stephens, then Master of the Free School. Some time after which, he was sent for to England by his mother's relations, with whom he lived till the Restoration of the King. On the 14th of May, 1661, he took his seat in the House of Peers, and on the 18th of July, delivering a petition to be restored to his estate, it was ordered by the House, that he should be recommended to the Agents in England, particularly to supplicate his Majesty on his behalf, to be comprised in his declaration: Wherefore, on the Act of Explanation, he was decreed to his estate, by the Commissioners for putting that Act in execution, on the 11th of April 1666, and on the 30th of August following, had a grant of the benefit of that decree, consisting of 50,000 acres of land, and five Manors in the County of Mayo. He died on the 5th of June 1676, in St. Patrick's, Dublin, and leaving no issue, was succeeded by his brother, Miles, the FIFTH Viscount, who, for some time after his marriage, having no prospect of issue, was prevailed upon to sell part of his estate, for the discharge of some debts which he had contracted. He died at Castle Bourke, in March 1681, and left an only child, Theobald, the SIXTH Viscount of Mayo; who was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir Theobald Bourke, the SEVENTH Viscount, and he dying without issue, the honour devolved on his only brother, John, the EIGHTH Viscount, who took his seat in the House of Peers on the 10th of November 1743: His Lordship died, on the 12th of January 1767, in Pall Mall, London, since when the title has lain dormant. These large estates have partly passed by marriage, and partly by sale. This Castle is entire, and in good repair: which, together with the adjacent territory, lineally descended to Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq., were, in 1790, granted by that Gentleman to his agent, Mr. Bourke, on a lease for three lives and sixty one years; and by whom the Castle is now inhabited.

CASTLEBRACK, in the Barony of Tinehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oregan. Castlebrack is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. W. N. W. from Portarlington. The Fair is holden on the 12th of August. See, Oregan.

CASTLE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Ardcolme. It is 3½ m. N. from Wexford. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of April, and 26th of December. It is situate on the North side of Wexford Haven. See, Ardcolme.

CASTLE BUY, or, ST. JOHNSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Milltown: The Church is in ruins. Castle Buy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. from Portaferry. It is situate near the Lough of Strangford. This parish contains 4960 acres of land. See, Milltown, and Ramoran.— "Hugh de Lacie, in the 12th Century, founded here the Commandery of St. John the Baptist. This building is now a great heap of ruins, and the family of Echlin possess several Townlands in freehold, and also a Manor Court, which did belong to this Commandery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 111.

CASTLE CAULFIELD, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. W. from Dungannon. A village. The Castle is demolished. The Fairs are holden on Shrove-Tuesday, Whit-Monday, 14th of August, and 30th of November.

CASTLECOM, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¾ m. W. from Nobber. A village.

CASTLE COMER, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 12 acres, adjoining the church: The Rev. James Irwin, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident at Raphoe, in the County of Donegal, where he is Diocesan Schoolmaster: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a salary of £90. per annum. Castle Comer is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 45¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of May, and 12th of August. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Wandesford. It is celebrated for its Coal Pits (the property of John Butler, Esq.), which produce the kind of coal, commonly called Kilkenny Coal, and which burns without emitting smoke.

CASTLE CONNEL, or, STRADBALLY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 24th of August 1803, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Kilnegarruff: a new Church, in the parish of Castle Connel: no Glebe House: two Glebes: one, of 1 a. 0 r. 9 p., and the other, of 1 a. 0 r. 5 p., both in the parish of Kilnegarruff, being distant from each other about half a mile, and about the same distance from the site of the old church: The Rev. Josiah Crampton, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Castle Connel is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 89 m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. Here is a celebrated Chalybeate Spa, of the same nature with the waters of the German Spa. It is pleasantly situate on the River Shannon. The Castle was blown up, in 1690, by order of the Prince of Hesse. The parishes in the Union of Castle Connel are contiguous: their estimated extent from North to South being 2½ miles, and from East to West 4 miles. It has six Post-days in the week.

CASTLECONNOR, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being Espicopally united, and now about to be united by Act of Council, to the V. of Killglass: a Church, in the parish of Killglass, in good repair: no Glebe House: there are two Glebes, in the parish of Castleconnor; one of which consists of ten, and the other of twenty-three acres, at the distance of three miles from the church; and steps are now taking to procure money from the Board of First Fruits to erect a Glebe House thereon: The Rev. James Burrowes, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Castleconnor is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Ballina. It is situate on the River Moy. The parishes of Castleconnor, and Killglass, are contiguous; their estimated extent being seven miles in length, and four miles in breadth.

CASTLE-CONWAY, v. KILLORGLIN.

CASTLE COR, or, CASTLE CORITH, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 2 m. N. from Loghort.—"It appears from a plea roll, of the 30°. Edward I, that there was an Abbey at Castle Corith; but we have no other account of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 60.

CASTLE CORITH, v. CASTLE COR.

CASTLECORR, or, KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, on the 29th of November 1800, to the R. and V. of Oldcastle, as having been so united, time out of mind: But, on every vacancy, from local changes, they ought, on the next vacancy to be disunited, and have a house built on the glebe of Oldcastle: a Church, in complete repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 29 acres: The Rev. Thomas Frederick Knipe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties of Oldcastle; and his Curate, those of Kilbride. Castlecorr is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. W. N. W. from Oldcastle. The parishes in the Union of Castlecorr are contiguous: that of Castlecorr containing 4350 acres.

CASTLE DERG, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a Pepetual Cure. It is 7½ m. W. from Newtown Stewart. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 16th of February, 26th of May, 1st of July, 3d of August, 20th of October, and 3d of December. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

CASTLE DERMOT, otherwise TRISTLE DERMOT, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £12. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Ballaghmoon, and Graney, the Vicarage of Monmohemock with the Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed, the Vicarage of Grangerosnolvin otherwise Grange-Monachorum, and the Vicarage of Kilkea: a Church, at Castle Dermot, in good order: no Glebe House: two Glebes in the parish of Ballaghmoon, one of them containing 1 a. 2 r. 14 p., and the other 6 a. 0 r. 30 p., about forty perches distant from each other, and 2¾ miles from the church: a Glebe, in the parish of Monmohemock, of 18 a. 1 r. 16 p., about one mile distant from the Glebes in Ballaghmoon, and 3 miles from the church; a Glebe, at Kilkea, of 4 a. 1 r. 0 p., four miles from the other glebes, and 2 miles from the church; and a Glebe, adjoining the church, of one rood and thirty six perches; there is also a burying-ground, in Ballaghmoon, with a small Glebe, containing together 1 rood and 18 perches: The Hon. and Rev. John Pomeroy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Drought, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Castle Dermot is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 34 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 24th of February, 7th of April, 25th of May, 4th of August, and 19th of December. It was formerly a large fortified town, and the residence of the kings who bore the name of Dermot. Here is one of the ancient Round towers, now used as a Belfry: And also a Charter School, for 40 Boys, which was the first established in the kingdom. The Castle is in ruins. The parishes in the Union of Castle Dermot are contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 6 miles, and, from North to South, about 4 miles.—" An Abbey of Regular Canons was founded here about the year 500, by St. Diermit, whose Feast is celebrated on the 21st of June.—In the reign of King John, a Priory for Crouched Friars was founded here by Walter de Riddlesford, Lord of the town: It was situated without the town-walls, and adjoining the road which leads to Dublin. The tradition of the place, however, gives the erection of this building, to the Knights Templars. The Castle of this Hospital is still remaining.—A Monastery for Conventual Franciscans was founded here in the year 1302, by Thomas Lord Offaley, to which we are told the family of de la Hoyde were great benefactors. On the 26th of August 1499, a Parliament was holden here, when an Act passed inflicting certain penalties on such of the Nobless as did not make use of saddles when they rode."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 310.

CASTLE-DILLON, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is situate upon the River Liffey. Here is the magnificent mansion of The Right Honourable Sir Capel Molyneux, Bart.

CASTLE DURROW, v. DURROW.

CASTLE ELLIS, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, on the 27th of April 1798, to the Impropriate Cures of Killely, Killesk, and Kilmalog: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Castle Ellis: a Glebe House, building: four Glebes; one, of 15¾ acres, at Castle Ellis, contiguous to the church; another, of 19 a. 1 r. 20 p., at Killely, within a mile and an half from the church; a third, of 20 a. 0 r. 30 p., at Killesk, two miles from the church; and the fourth, of 17 a. 0 r. 15 p., at Kilmalog, about three miles from the church: The Rev. James Symes, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident; the duties are discharged by himself. Castle Ellis is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Enniscorthy. The parishes in the Union of Castle Ellis are all contiguous; their contents being 11,000 acres. The present income is about £250. per annum.

CASTLE FIN, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 107 m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, Whit-Monday, first Monday before 10th of October, 22d of November, and Monday after Christmas. It has three Post-days in the week.

CASTLEHAVEN, or, GLANBARAHANE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and holden with the Prebend of Curraghgranemore: a Church, in good repair, dedicated to St. Barahane: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 a. 1 r. 23 p.: The Rev. David Freeman, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Castlehaven is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon a Harbour, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. It gives title of Earl to the family of Touchet, Lord Audley, ancient Barons of England.

CASTLEHIDE, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. A village.

CASTLE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Roaring Water Bay, and contains 119 acres of land.

CASTLE, ISLAND, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united to the entire Rectories of Ballycuslane, Disert, and Killentierna: a Church, in Castle Island, now under repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build one: a Glebe, in Castle Island, close to the church, of 10 a. 3 r. 36 p.: in Disert, of 4 a. 2 r. 20 p.: in Kilbanavone, in the parish of Castle Island, of 9 a. 2 r. 23 p.: in Dromulton, of 3a. 0r. 20p.: and, in Killentierna, of 3 a. 0 r. 5 p.: The Rev. William Crosbie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Castle Island is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. E. b. E. from Tralee. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of August, and October. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Gage. Here is a Charter School. The parishes in the Union of Castle Island are contiguous: they contain 73 Ploughlands, and about 37,000 acres, of which a great part is mountain.

CASTLE JORDAN, or, GUNGEDAH, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with Ballyboggan: a Church, very old, and in bad repair; no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Digby, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. The Salary of this Curacy is £60. per annum, viz, from the Impropriator £30., and from the First Fruits £30. more. Castle Jordan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. S. S. W. from Kinnegad. It is situate upon the Yellow River. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to the Resident Incumbent.

CASTLEKEIRN, or, TRISTLEKERIN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in The Marquess of Headfort: no Church: no Glebe: no Salary allowed by the Impropriator for a Curate. Castlekeirn is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Kells. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

CASTLE KIRK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.

CASTLEKNOCK, in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Vicarage: the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £20..6..4 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Connor, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 Irish Money, was united by Act of Council, in 1773, to the Curacies of Clonsillagh, and Mullahidart: two Churches, both in good repair, one of them being at Castleknock, and the other at Clonsillagh: a Glebe House, and 17 acres of Glebe near the church of Castleknock, and 2 acres at the distance of two miles from it: John Connor, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. George Connor, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Castleknock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. W. from Dublin. Here are the ruins of a Castle, formerly a place of great strength, built by the Tyrrels, in the reign of Henry the Second. The parishes in this Union are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 5 miles, and, from North to South, 3 miles.—" Richard Tirrel founded an Abbey here, for Regular Canons following the Rule of St. Augustin, in honour of St. Brigid. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 131.

CASTLELOST, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in thorough repair: a Glebe House, now building, on a newly acquired Glebe of 22 acres, about a mile and an half from the church: The Rev. Samuel Lucas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Castlelost is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. W. S. W. from Kinnegad. See, Kilbride Pilate.

CASTLE LYONS, or, CASTLE O'LEHAN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..12..0 sterling: a Church, in repair; no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 acres, near the church: The Rev. Gustavus Wybrants, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Living in the Diocese of Limerick: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. John Edgar, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Castle Lyons is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. E. b. N. from Rathcormuck. The Fairs are holden on the first of January, Easter Tuesday, Whit-Monday, 28th of August, 29th of September, and 16th of October. It is situate near to the River Bride.—" John de Barry founded this Monastery in the year 1307, but good authority has given this house to the Black or Dominican Friars, and says, that it was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. A considerable part of this building still remains, particularly the Choir, Nave, and Steeple of the Church. The possessions belonging to this monastery came into the hands of the first Earl of Cork, who bequeathed the rent and profits arising therefrom to his daughter, the Countess of Barrymore, to buy her gloves and pins. —De Barry founded a Monastery here for Carmelites or White Friars."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 61.

CASTLE MAC ADAM, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., with Drumkey, and united by Act of Council, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Bally-Donnell, and Kilmacoe: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Castle Mac Adam: a Glebe, of 30 acres, in Kilmacoe, on which there is a Glebe House, about three miles distant from the church: The Rev. Sir Thomas Forster, Bart., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in the Diocese of Armagh: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Alexander Mac Gomery, at a Salary of £50. per annum, with the use of the glebe house and garden, rent free, and a turf bog, and all fees arising from burials, marriages, churchings, &c., amounting to from £10. to £20. per annum. Castle Mac Adam is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ S. from Rathdrum. It is situate upon the River Ovoca. The parishes in the Union of Castle Mac Adam are all contiguous; their extent being 5 miles from East to West, and 4 miles from North to South.

CASTLEMAGNER, partly in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, and partly in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of only two roods: The Rev. Sackville Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. J. Murphy, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Castlemagner is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. N. W. from Mallow. The Castle and Lands now belong to the family of Hartstonge.

CASTLEMAIN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killtallagh. It is 1¼ m. N. b. E. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Mang, which empties itself into a harbour, called Castlemain Harbour; being to the North-east, and in continuation, of Dingle Bay. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of September, and 21st of November. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Child. It is under the Military Government of two Constables.

CASTLE MARTYR, formerly, BALLYMARTYR, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirultan. Castle Martyr is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 123½ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of May, and 2d of October. It was incorporated in the year 1663. Here is a Charter School, for forty Boys. It gives title of Baron to a branch of the noble family of Boyle. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Cahirultan.

CASTLEMORE, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of Carlow, and rovince of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. W. b. N. from Tullow.

CASTLEMORE, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Killcoleman, and Killmovee: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Castlemore: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 26 a. 3 r. 20 p., at the distance of three miles from the church: The Rev. Charles Seymour, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Castlemore is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 18 m. N. W. b. W. from Strokestown. The parishes in the Union of Castlemore are contiguous; their estimated extent being 13 miles in length, and five in breadth.

CASTLE PLUNKET, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. It is 4½ m. E. b. S. from Castlereagh. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday, O. S., in May, 13th of August, and 11th of October.

CASTLE POLLARD, or, RATHGARTH, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..2..4 Irish, and united by Act of Council, on the 29th of January 1676, to the Curacies of Favoran, Fore St. Feighan and St. Mary, and Kilpatrick, and the Vicarages of Faughley, Lickbla, and Mayne: a Church, in complete repair, in Castle Pollard, and one nearly built, in Mayne: a Glebe House, on one acre of Glebe, in the town of Castle Pollard, near the church; 19 acres more, about a quarter of a mile distant: in Faughley, a Glebe of 4 acres, about two miles from the glebe and church of Castle Pollard; and 3 acres in the parish of Mayne, at the same distance: The Rev. Chaworth Browne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Castle Pollard is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 42 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 1st and 2d of August, 10th of October, and 10th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it appears, that Mayne has been lately erected into a Perpetual Curacy; and it would be expedient that, in the parishes of Favoran, Fore St. Feighan, Fore St. Mary, and Kilpatrick, all the Tythes of which are appropriate to the Vicars Choral of St. Patrick, two Perpetual Curacies should be erected. The Vicar by the Act of Union has £10. per annum, for doing the duties of them. The parishes in the Union of Castle Pollard are contiguous; that of Castle Pollard containing 2061 acres. It is in the Deanery of Fowre.

CASTLERAGHAN, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2..1..4 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, too small for the residence of the Rector: 350 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Henry Maxwell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who does not reside in the parish, but in his own house, by permission; it being sufficiently near for him, with the assistance of a Resident Curate (at a Salary of £60. per annum), to discharge the duties. Castleraghan is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. N. W. from Oldcastle.

CASTLEREAGH, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Kilteevan. It is 85 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, 21st of June, 23d of August, and 7th of November. It has three Post-days in the week.

CASTLE RICHARD, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money: a Church, in complete repair: a Glebe House, with all necessary offices, on a Glebe of 4 acres, near the church: and a second Glebe, of 6 acres, at two miles distance: The Rev. William Peacocke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls is resident, and discharges the duties. Castle Richard is in the Diocese of Meath and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. E. from Clonard. It is situate upon the River Blackwater CASTLE ROBERT, or, ROBERTSTOWN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling; having always been holden with the Vicarage of Dunmoylan, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballingarry. Castle Robert is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. The parishes of Castle Robert, and Dunmoylan, are contiguous, and contain 2500 acres of land. See, Ballingarry.

CASTLE SHANE, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Monaghan. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, 21st of July, 12th of August, and 15th of December.

CASTLETERRA, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and 195 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. John Brougham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Castleterra is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Cavan.

CASTLETOWN, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killaconenagh. It is 183 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, Easter-Tuesday, 12th of May, and 4th of September. It is situate on Bear Haven; and has six Post-days in the week.

CASTLETOWN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal. Castletown is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¼ m. N. N. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 836 acres of land. See, Toem.

CASTLETOWN, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Killebane. It is 5¼ m. S. S. W. from Athy. A village.

CASTLETOWN, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. S. b. W. from Moynrath. It is situate upon the River Nore. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of June, and 18th of October.

CASTLETOWN, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, on the 20th of February 1781, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Burgessbeg, and Youghal: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Castletown: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres, in the parish of Castletown, a mile distant from the church; another, of 1 acre, in the parish of Youghal, convenient to the site of the old church; a third, of 3 acres, and a fourth, of 3 roods, in the parish of Burgessbeg, both near the site of the old church: John Parker, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident near Killaloe, with the consent of the Diocesan, he being Vicar General of the Diocese of Killaloe: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Standish Grady Parker, A. B., at a Salary of £75. per annum. Castletown is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. N. W. b. W. from Nenagh. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The parishes in the Union of Castletown are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 5 miles, and from East to West 4 miles.

CASTLETOWN DELVIN, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £14..18..8 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes, one of 14 acres, two miles from the church, and one of half an acre, close to the church: The Rev. Thomas Stephens, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. This Benefice being of small value, a Union with some of the small parishes in its vicinity is recommended, to make it practicable to build a sufficient residence. Castletown Delvin is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 35½ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of August, and 1st of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is the fine Seat of The Earl of Westmeath.

CASTLETOWN ELY, in the Barony of Clonlisk, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkerrine. Castletown Ely is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is ½ m. S. E. from Moneygall. See, Dunkerrine.

CASTLETOWN KILPATRICK, v. KILPATRICK.

CASTLETOWN KINDELANE, or, VASTINA, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a new Church, nearly finished: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 15 acres, has been granted by Lord Sunderlin, on which a house is speedily to be erected: The Rev. James Clulow, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Down: the occasional duties are discharged by a neighbouring Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Castletown Kindelane is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. from Killbeggan.

CASTLETOWN MAC ENEIRY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster. This was formerly the Seat of Mac Eneiry. And here, according to Mr. Archdall, we find the ruins of a very large Monastery, and some other public buildings, which sufficiently evince the piety, dignity, and splendour of that ancient family. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of February, 17th of April, 3d of November, and 1st of December.

CASTLETOWN ROCHE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coole. Castletown Roche is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 114 m. S. W. from Dublin.

The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, 28th of July, 29th of September, and 12th of December. It is situate upon the River Awbeg. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Coole.

CASTLE TOWNSEND, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Castlehaven. It is 4½ m. E. from Skibbereen. A village, situate on Castlehaven Harbour.

CASTLE WELLAN, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 65 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It is situate on a small Lake, to which it gives name. The Fairs are holden on the first of February, May, June, September, 13th of November, and Tuesday before Christmas. It has six Post-days in the week. It is the head of a Manor. The family of Annesley, (now Earl of Annesley), was created Baron Annesley of Castle Wellan on the 20th of September, 1758.

CASTRACHORE, or, DE CASTRO CHORY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templenecarigy. Castrachore is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. See, Templenecarigy.

CASTROPETER, or, MONASTERORIS, in the Barony of Coolestown, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage endowed; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £20..16..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1801, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Croghan; a Church, in excellent repair, in Castropeter: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Ralph Dillon, the Rector (in 1806), having cure of souls only in the parish of Croghan, and is non-resident: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilreny. Castropeter is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Edenderry, on the South. The parish of Castropeter contains 4000 acres of land, and is about two miles distant from that of Croghan. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the consolidation of the Rectory and Vicarage of Castropeter, alias Monasteroris, being the town and parish of Edenderry, would be a desirable object. See, Kilreny, and Kilclonfert.—"Sir John de Bermingham, Earl of Louth, founded, in the year 1325, a Monastery for Conventual Franciscans at Totmoy or Thetmoy, in Offaley. It was called, from his own name in the Irish tongue, Monasterfeoris, or, The Monastery of Mac Feoris. This was once a place of strength, having held out a considerable time in the year 1521, against the Earl of Surrey, then Lord Lieutenant, but he afterwards took and kept possession of it. At the general suppression, it was granted to Nicholas Herbert."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 403.

CASTRUM VENTRY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of The Island. Castrum Ventry is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. from Cloghnakilty. The Rectory of Castrum Ventry is Impropriate in the representatives of Francis Townsend, Esq. See, The Island.

CATHERINE, ST., v. RATHMORE.

CATHERINE'S, ST., in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. St. Catherine's is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is ½ m. N. E. from Leixlip. It is situate near the River Liffey. See, Leixlip. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Priory of Canons for the Congregation of St. Victor.

CATHERLOUGH, v. CARLOW.

CATHRIGIA, a Territory in the Reuts, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

CATHUIR MAC CONCHAIGH, in the Barony of Decies —— Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster.—" A Town, of which we know nothing further, than, St. Mochelloc is honoured there."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 686.

CAVAN, alias URNEY, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and united, it is supposed, by Act of Council, to the V. of Anaghgeliffe, as these two parishes have been holden by the same Incumbents, since 1665; but no trace appears in the Records of the Council Office: a Church, in Cavan, extremely old, and in bad repair; £600. has been already raised towards building a new one, and annual assessments are regularly made for the same purpose: a Glebe House, in the town of Cavan, built by the late Incumbent, but, since his death, the Vicar's right to it has been disputed, and a Law-suit is now depending: above 549 acres of Glebe belong to this Union: The Rev. Richard Wynne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Elphin; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cavan is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 54 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Market is on Tuesday. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, 14th of May, 14th of August, 25th of September, and 12th of November. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, two Portrieves, and a Recorder. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes of Cavan, and Anaghgeliffe, are seven miles and a quarter in length, and five miles and three quarters in breadth, and contain 20,000 acres of land. Here is a Free School, which was founded and endowed by King Charles the First. According to the Report from the Commissioners of the Board of Education, it appears, by a Survey made in the year 1805, during the administration and by direction of Earl Hardwicke, that the lands granted for the endowment of the School of Cavan consist of 570 a. 2 r. 17 p. Irish Plantation measure, situate in the County of Cavan near the town, and part of them within three quarters of a mile of it: these lands were let by Dr. Cottingham, the late Master, at the annual rent of £536..8..0; and the present value of the lands is about £900. per annum. There never has been any School-house belonging to the Endowment, nor is any part of the School Lands well adapted to such a purpose. —"The Monastery of the Virgin Mary here was founded in the year 1300, by Giolla Jiosa Ruadh (i. e. The Servant of Christ) O'Reilly, dynast of Breffiny, for Friars of the Order of St. Dominick. But the same sept of the O'Reillys, about the year 1393, expelled the Dominicans, and gave the house to the Conventual Franciscans.—Owen O'Neile, the famous General of the Irish Army, dying by poison, as some suppose, at Cloughoughter in this county, on the 16th of November, 1649, was buried in this abbey; of which there are not now the least remains." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 40.

CAVAN, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Strabane. Mr. Mason erected a temporary Observatory here, by appointment of the Royal Society, in the year 1769, to observe the Transit of Venus.

CEANNINDIS, or, KEANNINDSE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—It is the name of a Hill.—"St. Comgall, who was Abbot of Gleanussen, in the King's County, founded a church here. He died before the year 569."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 43.

CELBRIDGE, or, KILDROGHT, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..12..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarage of Straffan, and the Curacies of Bally Mac Kil, Donacomper, and Killadown: the old church is in ruins, but subscriptions are now collecting to build a new church; in the meantime, Divine Service is regularly performed in a convenient apartment, in the Mansion-house of St. Woolstan's, in this Benefice: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 19 acres, adjoining the old church of Celbridge, and another Glebe, of 29 acres, adjoining the old church of Straffan, within three miles of the former: The Rev. Patrick Sands, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Anthony Hastings, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Celbridge is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Leixlip. It is situate on the banks of the River Liffey, over which there is a fine stone Bridge. The parishes in the Union of Celbridge are all contiguous; their extent, from North to South, being 4 miles, and, from East to West, 5 miles.

CHAPEL, or, THE CHAPEL OF ST. CLEMENT, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £3..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killigney. Chapel is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Killigney.

CHAPEL CARRON, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killurin. Chapel Carron is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. W. from Wexford. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Killurin.

CHAPEL IN THE WOODS, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Magherafelt. It is situate upon Lough Neagh. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

CHAPEL IZOD, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., united, at a time not known, to the Curacies of Ballyfermott, and Palmerstown: a Church, at Chapel Izod, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Hugh O'Neil, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the centre of the Union, and discharges the duties in person. Chapel Izod is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. from Dublin. It is pleasantly situate on the banks of the River Liffey, and adjoining the Phœnix Park. Here is a Barrack for the Royal Irish Artillery. It is remarkable for supplying the Metropolis with the finest Strawberries. It is said to take its name from la Beale Isoud, the daughter of Anguish, King of Ireland. The parishes in the Union of Chapel Izod are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being about 2 miles, and, from North to South, 1½ mile.

CHAPEL MARTIN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry, one half thereof constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock. Chapel Martin is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Kilmallock.

CHAPEL-MIDWAY, in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. b. W. from Dublin.

CHAPEL MINIT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry, constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock. Chapel Minit is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Kilmallock.

CHAPEL-WARD, in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. N. b. W. from Dublin.

CHARLEMONT, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 68½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 16th of August, and 12th of November. It gives title of Earl to the noble family of Caulfield. It is governed by a Portrieve; and is reckoned a Garrison, with a Military Governor on the Establishment. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

CHARLESTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the vicarages of Mapastown, Philipstown, and Talanstown: a Church, in Charlestown, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas English, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Charlestown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. b. W. from Ardee. The parishes in the Union of Charlestown are contiguous; those of Charlestown, and Mapastown, contain 2102 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes are properly united, and are of moderate value.

CHARLEVILLE, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Rathgogan. It is 112¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of October, and 14th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Girls. The Corporation was erected at the expense and encouragement of Roger, the first Earl of Orrery, Lord President of Munster, who here kept his Presidential Court.

CHEEK POINT, v. BOLTON INN.

CHURCH-HILL, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 6½ m. N. W. from Letterkenny. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 15th of August, and 7th of November.

CHURCH HILL, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 88¼ m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 30th of August, and 30th of November. It has six Post-days in the Week.

CHURCH ISLAND, v. INNISMORE, ISLAND.

CHURCHLAND, or, CHURCHLAND FARRANT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fair is holden on the 2d of May.

CHURCHTOWN, v. BRUHENNY.

CHURCHTOWN, v. REBAN.

CHURCH TOWN, v. TAWNEY.

CHURCHTOWN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardbraccan. Churchtown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Navan. This parish contains 671 acres of land. See, Ardbraccan.

CHURCHTOWN, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dysart. Here was formerly a Castle, which was possessed by the Everards. See, Dysart.

CHURCHTOWN, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no House: a Glebe, of 14 acres, contiguous to the old church: The Rev. Roger Forde, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission: the occasional duties are discharged by a neighbouring Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Churchtown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¾ m. W. b. S. from Mullingar. The Fair is holden on the 29th of August. In order to remedy the evil of non-residence in this, and the parish of Dysart, it is recommended to unite them by Act of Council, and to build a Church, and House, in Churchtown.

CLADY, or, CUMBER CLADY, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. W. b. N. from Dungiven. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of May, and 17th of November. It is situate upon the River Failghan.

CLADY, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Strabane. It is situate upon the River Foyle. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, 16th of May, 1st of August, and 16th of November.

CLAGGAN, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on Bullan Bay.

CLAINE, v. CLANE.

CLANE, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V.; valued in the King's Books at £10..4..0 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, to the vicarages of Clonshamboe, Killybegs, and Mainham: a Church, in decent repair, at Clane: a Glebe House, at Clane, with 13½ acres of Glebe, besides 2 acres at a place called Firmount, within two miles of the church of Clane; another Glebe at Millocent, of which the site is not ascertained, and two small pieces of ground near Clane church; in the parish of Mainham, there are about 9 acres in two different lots, about a mile and a quarter from the church: and in the parish of Clonshamboe, there are 3½ acres; there is no Glebe in the parish of Killybegs: The Rev. Matthew West, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Clane is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 8½ m. S. W. from Leixlip. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of April, 25th of July, and 15th of October. It is situate on the River Liffey. The parish of Clane is distant from Killybegs near two miles and an half, and from Mainham a quarter of a mile; the parishes of Clonshamboe, and Mainham, are contiguous. The parish of Clane contains 2380 acres of land.—" St. Ailbe founded an Abbey of Canons Regular here, and made St. Senchell, the Elder, Abbot of it: who afterwards removed to Killachad Dromfoda, where he died on the 26th of March, A. D. 548.—A Franciscan Friary was erected here some time before the year 1266: some writers give the foundation to Gerald Fitz-Maurice, Lord Offaley, but this account is not confirmed. The effigies of the Founder (who he was, is not certainly known) remained, about the beginning of the last century, on a marble monument which was placed in the midst of the choir, in this friary. The seal of this convent was in being in the beginning of the last century, on which was the following inscription: Sigill. coiatis frum minor. de Clane. Hortus Angelorum."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 312.

CLANEBOIS, v. DALARADIA.

CLANMORE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from New Ross. A village.

CLARA, or, KILLBRIDE TANGAN, in the Barony of Killcoursey, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardnurcher. Clara is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 49 m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, 12th of May, 25th of July, and 1st of November. It has six Post-days in the week. This parish contains 2664 acres of land. See, Ardnurcher.

CLARA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate at the entrance of Newport or Clew Bay.—"It still belongs to the ancient Family of O'Mallie, and contains about 2400 acres, worth on an average £200. per annum. A Cell for Carmelites, or White Friars, was founded here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, in the year 1224, which was afterwards annexed to the Abbey of Knockmoy, in the County of Galway."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 498.

CLARAH, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united to the V. of St. John, in the reign of Henry the Eighth, according to the most authentic information: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 15½ acres, in the parish of Clarah, removed from each other, some 10 perches, and some more, and are contiguous to the site of the old church; and a Glebe, of about a quarter of an acre, in the parish of St. John, contiguous to the site of the old church: The Rev. Edward Pidgeon, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the city of Kilkenny, and discharges the duties in person. Clarah is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. E. b. N. from Kilkenny. The parishes in the Union of Clarah are contiguous to each other; that of Clarah being a mile and three quarters in length, and the same in breadth.

CLARAN BRIDGE, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 13 m. W. b. N. from Loughrea. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday, O. S., in February, first Thursday after the 12th of May, and the first Thursday, O. S., in August, and November.

CLARE, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Tanderagee. It is situate upon the River Cusher. The Fair is holden on the 12th of May. Here is Clare Castle.

CLARE, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dromcliffe. It is 2. m. S. from Ennis. It is situate upon the navigable River Fergus. This was once the capital of the county. A great battle was fought here, in 1278, between Donell, son of Teige Caoluiske O'Brien, and Mahon O'Brien, wherein the latter was defeated with great slaughter. On an island, in the River Fergus, is the castle, which is used as a Barrack for two companies of foot. An excellent Bridge has lately been built over the Fergus.—" An Abbey was founded near to this town, under the Invocation of St. Peter and St. Paul, for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustine, by Donald O'Brien the Great, King of Limerick. He appointed Donatus Abbot, and richly endowed the abbey. This charter was dated at Limerick in 1195."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 43.

CLARE, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, Galway. Clare is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. N. E. from Galway. It is situate upon the River Clare. Here is a weekly Market for Cattle, on the four Thursdays next preceding Christmas. See, Galway.—" About the year 1290, John de Cogan built a Monastery at Clare Yndowl for Franciscan Friars; he erected it in a very elegant style, and at a great expense. The high tower, in the middle of the church, erected on arches, is a curious piece of architecture; and the chapel is now the Romish Mass-house."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 277.

CLARE, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 103¼ m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 24th of May, 22d of June, 17th of August, 27th of September, and 23d of November. It has three Post-days in the week.

CLARE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the union of Aghadown. Clare Island is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 15 m. S. b. W. from Skibbereen. The Rectory is Impropriate. See, Aghadown. This Island contains 12 Plough-lands; the Southern Promontory, which is deemed the most Southern land in Ireland, is called Cape Clear.—" On the North West point stands a castle built on a rock in the sea, and called Dunanore; to the East of which is the cove of Tra Kieran, or, St. Kieran's Strand, where we find a pillar of stone, with a cross rudely cut towards the top, supposed to have been the work of that Saint: this stone is holden in great veneration by an incredible number of pilgrims who assemble round it every fifth of March, on which day his Festival is celebrated: a Church in ruins under the Invocation of St. Kieran adjoins this pillar."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 59.

CLASHACROW, or, DE GLAISHCROE, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Clashacrow is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. S. S. E. from Freshford. It is situate near the River Nore. See, Aghour.

CLASHMORE, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Rectory being the Corps, which is valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: to which the Vicarage of Clashmore, and the Vicarages of Affane, and Aglish, were Episcopally united, on the 22d of November 1780, when the present Incumbent took possession of them: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Affane: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0 a. 2 r. 20 p., at Aglish, adjoining the site of the old church there; and about three miles distant from Affane church: The Rev. William Jessop, the Prebendary and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Lismore, being, as is supposed, above eighty years of age, and not having left his house for two years: the duties are performed by a Curate, resident in Affane, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Clashmore is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Dungarvan. It is situate near the River Blackwater. The parishes in the Union of Clashmore are contiguous; and are of great extent. In the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Killmolash, and the entire Rectory of Clashmore, are recommended to be perpetually united: though this may appear extensive, yet it contains very much uncultivated and uninhabited Mountain; and, if glebe land was purchased at Clashmore, and a church, and glebe house, built there, it is conceived that this would be a good arrangement.—"Glaismhor was a celebrated abbey in the Decies near the River Blackwater, and was founded by Cuanchear at the command of St. Mochoemoc of Lethmore, who had raised Cuanchear from the dead. That Saint died on the 13th of March, A. D. 655. This abbey existed to the time of the general suppression, when its possessions were granted to Sir Walter Raleigh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 687.

CLAUDECOLCATH, v. CLONDEHORKA.

CLEENISH, in the Barony of Clonawley, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: three Churches; one of which only is in good condition; the others are repairing: a Glebe House; about 700 acres of Glebe, near four miles from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Percy Jocelyn, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and does duty on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Armagh; the duties here are discharged by three Resident Curates, whose Salaries arise from respective portions of Tythe. Cleenish is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. S. W. from Enniskillen.—"St. Synell, son of Manacus, or, Maynacur, was Abbot of Cluain Inis, (an Island, so called, in Lough Erne,) about the middle of the 6th century. His Feast is holden on the 11th of October. St. Fintan dwelt with this Saint upwards of eighteen years. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 258.

CLENORE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united, from the earliest times, to the entire Rectories of Ahacross, and Temple Mologgy, and the Vicarage of Rogeri Calvi, with a portion of the Tythes of the Rectory of Ballyvourney; and constituting the Corps of the Chancellorship of Cloyne, which is valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a small Glebe, at Cloyne, of 2 roods, and a Glebe, of 6 acres, at Clenore, not far from the site of the old church: The Rev. John Ryder, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Castle Lyons, about 8 miles from part of the Union, there being no residence for a clergyman in the Union itself: the duties are performed by the Ministers of the neighbouring parishes. The parishes in this Union are scattered about the Diocese, at five, seven, or ten miles from each other. Clenore is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. from Doneraile. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, none of these Benefices taken separately would maintain an Incumbent, except Clenore.

CLOCHIN CANTUALAIG, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"An House for Franciscan Friars was founded here about the beginning of the 15th Century, by O'Madden."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 278.

CLODY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 1¾ m. W. from Portglenone. A village, situate upon the River Clody, near to the River Bann.

CLOGGAGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a little Abbey here, of which nothing is known.

CLOGH, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 81 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of August, 8th of November, and 9th of December. It is situate near to the Ravel Water.

CLOGHAN, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 4¼ m. N. E. from Banagher. It is a Fair Town.

CLOGHANE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killgobban. Cloghane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 13 m. W. b. S. from Tralee. It is situate upon St. Brandon's Bay, on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killgobban.

CLOGHANLEA, or, DUNGLO, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 37¾ m. W. N. W. from Strabane. An arm of the sea extends to it in a part of the district, called The Rosses.

CLOGHEEN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Shanrahan. It is 92 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Tuesday, 1st of August, 28th of October, and 12th of December.

CLOGHER, v. KILCLOGHER.

CLOGHER, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, and united, at a period to which no known record reaches, to the vicarages of Dovea, Inchyanly, and Moycarkey; being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Cashel, which is valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 8 acres, at Inchyanly, in the possession of a private person, but the boundaries are not well ascertained: another, of 11 a. 2 r. 14 p., at Moycarkey; and a very small Glebe, at Cashel, at the distance of at least six miles from the two former: The Rev. W. E. Agar, the Chancellor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and has the Living of Athy, in the Diocese of Dublin, where he is supposed to reside, according to the terms of the Faculty granted by the Primate: the duties of Clogher are performed by the Rev. Robert C. Armstrong, the Vicar of the adjoining parish, at an annual salary of £5. Clogher is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. W. from Thurles. This parish contains 3904 acres of land.

CLOGHER, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 sterling, and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Clogher, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: two Churches, in good condition: a Glebe House: 450 acres of Glebe, about half a mile distant from the church: The Rev. Richard Bagwell, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates. Clogher is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 77 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, and 26th of July. It has three Post-days in the week. It is called Regia by Ptolomey. The Right Rev. John Porter, D.D., Lord Bishop, in 1806. The See of Clogher (valued in the King's Books at £350. sterling) was founded by St. Patrick, according to Dr. Beaufort, about the middle of the fifth century. It stretches 60 miles from North West to South East, by a breadth of 20 miles; and comprises some portion of five several counties. The Chapter of Clogher consists of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor (see, Drummully), Archdeacon (see, Clontibert), and five Prebendaries. The Cathedral of this Diocese, which is at the same time the parish church, is a plain, handsome, modern structure. The palace is large, with a remarkable fine Park, and Demesne. They are both in the City, or rather Village of Clogher, which is about 33 miles distant from the farthest part of the Diocese. It is situate on the River Launy. It is supposed to take its name from a stone covered with gold, which, in the times of paganism, was said to pronounce oracles.—"Here we find an Abbey of Regular Canons, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary. St. Patrick is said to have presided over the church of Clogher, and having appointed St. Kertenn to be his successor, he resigned this government and went to Armagh, where the saint founded his celebrated Abbey.—On the 24th of July, 1610, whilst George Montgomery was Bishop of Clogher, King James annexed this abbey and its revenues, to that See."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 679.

CLOGHERBRIEN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Annagh. Clogherbrien is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. W. N. W. from Tralee. See, Annagh.

CLOGHERMORE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught.—"This was a burial-place of note, and is said to have belonged to a nunnery, but of what order we are not informed."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 629.

CLOGHERNEY, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 946 English acres not contiguous, there being 200 in the Glebe of Clogherney, about two miles from the church; 650 acres in Mullhaghenny, six or seven miles distant; 87 in the demesne, close to the church; and 9 of bog, about one mile from the church: The Rev. James Lowry, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clogherney is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Omagh.

CLOGH JORDAN, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster. It is 70 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

CLOGHMANTAGH, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., with Kilrush, valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Cloghmantagh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. W. b. N. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

CLOGH MILLS, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. A village.

CLOGHNAKILTY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilgarruff. It is 146½ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of April, 10th of October, and 12th of November. It is a Corporate Town; and is situate upon a dangerous and inconvenient Bay, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. It has six Post-days in the week.

CLOGHNALLIS, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Rathcoole.

CLOGHPRIOR, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Finnoe. Cloghprior is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Burresokeane. See, Finnoe.

CLOGHRAN, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £10..0..7 Irish Money:

a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 4 a. 0 r. 17 p., convenient to the church: The Rev. William Lyster, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Cloghran is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Swords.

CLOGHRANHIDART, v. BALLYCOOLANE.

CLOGHROE, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is a village.

CLONABRENY, v. RUSSAGH.

CLONAGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster.—" In the Townland of Clonagh is a piece of ground containing an acre, which is surrounded by a ditch. At the time of the general suppression we are told, that there was here a religious house or chapel dedicated to St. Fynan, with two tenements adjoining. This was a burial-place of note; and in war-time the circumjacent inhabitants were exempt from all the accustomary burdens of the country. In the centre of the circle was a stone cross and two yew-trees, from one of which hung a bell. This house was in being in the year 1396, and 20th of the reign of King Richard the Second, for about that time the Priests belonging thereto procured for themselves and their successors certain lands in perpetuity, without obtaining the King's consent, and contrary to the statute of mortmain. John Lye of Rathbride, gentleman, being seized of divers lands in the said townland, levelled the tenements, bounds and limits of the said religious house, threw down and destroyed the cross and trees, and erected a tower or small castle, with other buildings."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 313.

CLONAGHEEN, in the Barony of Maryborough, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonenagh; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money. Clonagheen is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Moynrath. See, Clonenagh.

CLONAGOOSE, or, CLONEGFORD, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lorum. Clonagoose is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Lorum.

CLONAGOWN, in the Barony of Coolestown, King's County, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¾ m. W. N. W. from Portarlington. A village.

CLONALLEN, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., with the Chancellorship of Dromore, valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, rebuilding, on 190 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. John Davis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is occasionally resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Clonallen is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. W. from Rostrevor. It is situate on the Bay of Carlingford.

CLONALVEY, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..16..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Duleek. Clonalvey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. S. from Drogheda. This parish contains 1661 acres of land. See, Duleek.

CLONAMEXY, v. CLONEAMERY.

CLONARD, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £12..18..5 Irish Money, united by Act of Council, in 1782, to the Curacy of Killyon: a Church, in Clonard, old, and in very bad repair: a Glebe House, on 40 acres of Glebe in Clonard, about a quarter of a mile from the church: The Hon. and Rev. George T. Bourke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Clonard is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 26 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Boyne. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; that of Clonard containing 5077 acres of land. It has six Post-days in the week. This town, which has long fallen to decay, was in the earlier ages a Bishop's See.—"St. Keran, the son of the carpenter, who was born A.D. 506, gave Clonard, with every appendage thereof, to St. Finian, some short time before his death, which happened about the year 549, on which, St. Finian, who was of a noble family, a philosopher, and an eminent divine, founded this abbey, (which he dedicated to St. Peter) and had therein a school, celebrated for producing many men eminent in the learned world, and of exemplary piety. This Saint died of the plague, the 12th of December 548, on which day his feast is commemorated. The entrance into this abbey, on the West side, was through a small building, with a lodge over it, which led into a small court; to the right of this court stands the kitchen and cellar, and over them the dormitory, ranging with the river, and over-looking the garden which sloped from thence to the water's edge; opposite the entrance was another small apartment, and adjoining it the refectory, which was carried for some length beyond the square, and joined the choir, a large and elegant building, most part of which still remains, and the windows are finished in a light Gothic style. On the South side of the altar, fixed in the wall, is a small double arch, in the old Saxon manner, and divided by a pillar through which iron bars were fixed; this is supposed to have been the Founder's tomb. There are many remains of walls adjoining the other parts of the abbey, but in so ruinous a state, that little information can be gleaned from them. At a little distance from the East window, in the burial ground, stands a small Chapel, in which is a table monument, ornamented with the effigies of a man and a woman, in a praying posture, and dressed in the ruff of Queen Elizabeth's time; the sides are adorned with many coats of arms; that of the family of Dillon is most conspicuous.—The nunnery, for Regular Canonesses, was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and was endowed before the arrival of the English by O'Melaghlin, king of Meath. This nunnery was afterwards reduced to so great penury, that it became a cell to the nunnery of St. Brigid of Odra, commonly called Odder."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 519. et seq.

CLONARD BRIDGE, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on the River Boyne. A village.

CLONARNEY, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Assey. Clonarney is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. N. b. W. from Castletown Delvin. This parish contains 1063 acres of land. See, Assey.

CLONAUL, in the Barony of ———, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster.—"Clonaul was originally founded for Knights Templars, on whose downfall it became a Commandery, and was given to the Knights Hospitallers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 652.

CLONBEG, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..1..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. William Massy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Clonbeg is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. b. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 2801 acres of land.

CLONBERN, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkerrin. Clonbern is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 10½ m. W. N. W. from Ballimore. See, Kilkerrin.

CLONBRONEY, or, CLONEBRONE, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and four Glebes, containing 38 acres; 10 acres of which are contiguous to the house, the remainder distant from each other two miles: The Rev. John Booker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clonbroney is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. W. from Granard."—"We are told that St. Patrick founded a Nunnery at Cluainbronach, near Granard, and placed there the two Emerias, sisters of St. Guasact, Abbot of Lerha. This abbey was destroyed by fire on the 2d of August 778."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 438.

CLONBULLOGE, or, PUREFOY'S-PLACE, in the Barony of Coolestown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Clonsast. It is 5¼ m. S. b. W. from Edenderry. The Fair is holden on the 10th of July.

CLONBULLOGE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tipperary. Clonbulloge is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Tipperary. This parish contains 1264 acres of land. See, Tipperary.

CLONCAGH, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, old and decaying: no Glebe House; 275 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. Edward Chichester, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Cloncagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 18½ m. N. b. E. from Londonderry.

CLONCAGH, or, CLUAIN CLAIDHEACH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling; the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; and the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Corcomohide. Cloncagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. from Rathkeale. See, Kilmallock, and Corcomohide. According to Mr. Archdall, a Religious House was built here by St. Maidoc of Ferns, who died A. D. 624. It is now the parish church.

CLONCALE, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Moffet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Cloncale is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh.

CLONCALL, v. FORGNEY.

CLONCAST, v. CLONSAST.

CLONCHA, v. CLONCAGH.

CLONCHORKE, or, CLONCHURCH, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Geashill. Clonchorke is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. b. S. from Portarlington. See, Geashill, and Portarlington.

CLONCLARE, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., united, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Clonlogher, and Killasnet, but no trace in the Registry, when, or by what authority: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: 450 acres of Glebe, contiguous to each other, and seven miles distant from the church: The Rev. Cornelius Cullen, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Clonclare is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. E. from Manor Hamilton. This Union is 14 miles in length, and 9 miles in breadth, and contains 13,268 acres, exclusive of mountain and bog.

CLONCORAGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. b. W. from Kilmallock.

CLONCRAFT, v. CLOONAFF.

CLONCREMA, or, CLONECREAGH, in the Barony of ——— , Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Limerick. Cloncrema is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Michael's, Limerick.

CLONCURRY, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being the Corps of the Deanery of the Cathedral Church of St. Bridget, Kildare, which is valued in the King's Books at £8..10..1 Irish Money: The Rev. Dixie Blundell, D. D., is Dean of the Cathedral, and Rector of Cloncurry (in 1806), with cure of souls, and is resident in the parish of St. Mary, in Dublin, of which he is Rector, having a dispensation: the very few duties of the parish are performed, without Salary, by The Rev. John Williamson; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, is united, but by what authority not known, to the vicarages of Ballynefagh, Ballysculloge, and Kilcock: a Church, at Kilcock, in good repair: there was a church also in Cloncurry a few years ago, but it is now in ruins: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 26 acres, scattered in different parts of the Union: The Rev. John Walsh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in an adjoining parish, and on account of bad health, the duties are performed by his Licensed Curate, The Rev. William Cox, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Cloncurry is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. W. N. W. from Kilcock. It gives title of Baron to the family of Lawless. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it were much to be wished that this Union of parishes might be differently arranged. The parish of Kilcock has contiguity with Cloncurry, which on its furthest extremity is contiguous to Ballysculloge or Hortland, which in like manner touches Ballynefagh, the last of which parishes is at least 10 miles from Kilcock. See, Timahoe, Kildare, and Feighcullen.—" A Carmelite Friary, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, was founded here A. D. 1347, by John Roche, who obtained a licence for so doing from King Edward the Third."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 314.

CLONDAGAD, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and Vicarage: the Prebend, to which belongs, as the Corps thereof, part of the Rectory of Clondagad, is valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling; and with which is holden the Vicarage of Clondagad, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 2 r. 22 p., adjoining the site of the old church: The Rev. Richard Kennedy, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, by permission, at Ettagh, the cure of which he serves: the occasional duties are performed by the nearest officiating clergyman. Clondagad is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¼ m. S. S. W. from Ennis. It is situate near the River Shannon.

CLONDALKIN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Prebend of Kilmactalway annexed thereto: a Church, in good repair, at Clondalkin: a Glebe House, now building; and a Glebe, of 17 a. 1 r. 0 p, adjoining the church: The Rev. John Grant, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a stall in the Cathedral; he discharges the duties in person, and will reside, when the Glebe House is finished. Clondalkin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. W. from Dublin. Here are some remains of an old Castle. It is situate near the Grand Canal. According to Mr. Archdall, here was an Abbey of which St. Cronan was the first Abbot, whose Feast is holden on the 6th of August. Adjoining to the church is a fine Round tower.

CLONDEHORKA, or, CLAUDECOLCATH, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..13..0 sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House; a considerable Glebe, at a distance from the church: The Rev. Thomas Green, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is beneficed in the Province of Munster, where it is supposed he does duty; the duties here being discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Clondehorka is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 2 m. S. E. from Dunfanaghy. It is situate on the Bay of Sheep Haven.

CLONDERMOT, within the County of the City of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in repair: 600 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church, and 150 acres, one mile from the church, and three miles from Derry; The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate. It is one of the three parishes which constitute the Deanery of Derry. Clondermot is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. E. S. E. from Londonderry. It is situate upon the River Failghan. See, Templemore.

CLONDEVADOGUE, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of above 40 acres: The Rev. Henry Maturin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Clondevadogue is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 15½ m. N. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Mulroy Bay. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish.

CLONDRA, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is $2\frac{1}{2}$ m. N. W. from Longford. It is situate upon the River Shannon.

CLONDROHID, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..5..0 sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe, of 78 acres; of which, half belongs to the Oeconomy of Cloyne, and is now about to be divided for the purpose of building a Glebe House thereon, close to the church: The Rev. Robert Kirchoffer, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. John Orpen. Clondrohid is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is $1\frac{3}{4}$ m. N. W. from Macromp. The extent of this parish is 8 miles North and South, by 6 miles East and West. Mr. J. Kirchoffer is now building (in 1810) a handsome Glebe House, adjoining the church.

CLONDTURK, v. DRUMCONDRA.

CLONDUFF, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 acres, near the church: The Rev. Charles Leslie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident most part of the year, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Clonduff is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is $2\frac{3}{4}$ m. S. from Rathfriland.

CLONDULANE, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one acre: The Rev. Samuel Monsell, the Incumbent, (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Fermoy. Clondulane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is $2\frac{1}{4}$ m. E. b. S. from Fermoy.

CLONE, v. CLOON.

CLONE, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of Longford, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. E. from Longford; and is situate on the river Camlin. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here, A. D. 663, but of which there are no authentic accounts.

CLONE, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1778, to the R. of Kilbride, and the V. of Ferns (which were united by Act of Council, on the 14th of December 1776): The church is in ruins. Clone is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. The parishes in the Union of Clone are all contiguous; their contents being 12,000 acres. See, Ferns.

CLONEA, anciently CLONETHE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling; being one of the parishes which contitute the Union of Stradbally; The Church is in ruins. Clonea is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. b. N. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. This parish is about two miles in extent from North to South, and about a mile and an half from East to West. See, Stradbally.

CLONEAMERY, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inistioge. Cloneamery is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is ¾ m. S. E. from Inistioge. It is situate near the navigable River Nore. See, Inistioge.

CLONEBRONE, v. CLONBRONEY.

CLONEE, in the Barony of Dunboyne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 7 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. A village.

CLONEEN, v. CLONYNE.

CLONEGAD, v. CLONDAGAD.

CLONEGAL, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Moyacomb. It is 47½ m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Wednesday in February, March, Ascension-day, the first Wednesday in May for Frize, and on the 31st of July, 12th and 22d of November, and the first Wednesday, and the 11th of December for Cattle. It has three Post-days in the week. It extends into the barony of Forth, and county of Carlow. See, Moyacomb.

CLONEGAN, or, CLONEGAM, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, on the 7th of February 1801, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the entire Rectory of Newtown Lenan; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Clonegan: no Glebe House, but there is a House, left by The Marquess of Waterford for that purpose, near the parish of Clonegan: a Glebe, at Newtown Lenan, the bounds of which are not ascertained, it being surrounded by the estate of John Butler, Esq.: The Rev. Thomas Stanley Monk, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Clonegan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. S. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate near the River Suir. These parishes are not contiguous; and are near eight miles distant from each other; Newtown Lenan being in the county of Tipperary. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectories of Clonegan, and Fenoagh, ought to be perpetually united to the vicarage of Gilcagh; and Glebe land should, if possible, be purchased in the Parish of Clonegan, near the church, and a Glebe House built thereon. The Crown is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Clonegan. The Bishop is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Fenoagh: and the Corporation of Waterford are the Patrons of the Vicarage of Gilcagh.

CLONEGFORD, v. CLONAGOOSE.

CLONEGOWAN, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Portarlington. The Fair is holden on the 22d of July.

CLONELTY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Corcomohide. Clonelty is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. from Rathkeale. See, Kilmallock, and Corcomohide.

CLONEMORE, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" St. Mochoemoc, alias Pulcherius, founded the Monastery of Cluainmhar in Ely. He afterwards built the Abbey of Liethmore, in this county. We meet with a St. Cumin of Cluainmhar, but know nothing farther of this monastery." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 379.

CLONENAGH, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £25. sterling, and the Vicarage at £3..6..8 Irish Money; and united Episcopally, in 1661, to the R and V. of Clonagheen, and continued so united ever since the last Union, which is dated in 1788; two Churches, in repair, in the parish of Clonenagh; one of them being at Moynrath, and the other at Clonenagh, one mile and an half from Moynrath: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Scott, Dean of Lismore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at the Deanery in Lismore, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are discharged by his Curates, The Rev. Mr. Rogers and The Rev. Mr. Griffith, each of whom are resident in Moynrath, at a Salary of £75. per annum to each. Clonenagh is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. E. b. E. from Moynrath. The parishes in the Union of Clonenagh are contiguous; their contents being 13,800 acres of land.—" Here we find a Monastery, which owes its origin to St. Fintan, and was in former times rather considerable. It is now a parish church." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 591.

CLONES, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: two Churches, in good condition: a Glebe House, in indifferent order; about 700 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Hon. and Rev. Richard Henry Roper, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, but being infirm, the duties are discharged by two Curates. Clones is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 61½ m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of April, the last Thursday in May, June, and July, 2d of September, and the first Thursday in October, November, and December. It has three Post-days in the week. The Corps of the Archdeaconry of Clogher (valued in the King's Books at £35. sterling), consists of a small Glebe of ten acres near Clogher, and the Union of the two parishes of Clones and Clontibret, distant from each other about nine miles, and united and appropriated in the year 1613. The present Archdeacon is in possession only of the Rectorial Tythes of Ciontibret, and the glebe near Clogher. See, Clontibret.—" An Abbey dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul was founded here for Regular Canons of the order of St. Augustin, by St. Tigernach, who was of the Blood Royal. He removed the Episcopal seat from Clogher to this place. In his old age he lost his sight, and dying of the plague, on the 4th of April, A. D. 548, was interred here.—The Manor of this abbey is, at this day, called the Manor of St. Tierney, which, at the suppression, was granted, with the abbey, to Sir Henry Duke, Knight, one of whose daughters afterwards married Sir Francis Ruishe. It is now the property of The Rt. Hon. Thomas Lord Dacre.—There is still remaining here one of the ancient Round towers, and the foundation of the church, with the walls of a curious little chapel adjoining. At the upper end of the town is one of those Raths, vulgarly called Danish Forts, of a considerable size and flat on the top, and near to its basis another, which is rather broader at the bottom and top, but not near so high. The Corbeship in this town was in the nature of a Collegiate Church, and during the rebellion, in the time of Queen Elizabeth, Mac Mahon procured from the Pope a grant of this Corbeship for his eldest son, who was then a boy."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 582. et seq.

CLONEY, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Deanery of Kilfenora: the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltoraght. Cloney is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. E. b. S. from Innistymon. See, Kilfenora, and Kiltoraght.

CLONFAD, in the Barony of Farbill, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Mullingar.—" St. Ethchen, the son of Manius Ecceas, was Bishop of Cluainbile, or, Cluainfodabaitan-abha. He died A. D. 577, and his Festival is holden on the 11th of February. It is now a chapel."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 708.

CLONFADFORAN, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..0..2½ Irish Money, and Episcopally united, on the 6th of January 1790, to the V. of Kilbride Veston: a Church, in complete repair, in Clonfadforan: a Glebe House, now building, on a newly acquired Glebe of 20 acres in Clonfadforan, about half a mile from the church: The Rev. H. Usher, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clonfadforan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. E. from Killbeggan. The parishes of Clonfadforan, and Kilbride Veston, are separated by a small portion of another parish, not half a mile in breadth. The parish of Clonfadforan contains 2025 acres of land.

CLONFEAKLE, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 550 English acres; 400 of which are contiguous, and one mile from the church; the remainder being three miles from the former, and the same distance from the church; The Rev. William Richardson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clonfeakle is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. N. W. from Armagh. It is situate on the River Blackwater.—"St. Lugud, or, Lugaid, the son of Tailchan, was Abbot of Cluain-Fiacul, that is, The Church of the Tooth, so named from a Tooth of St. Patrick, which was said to have been preserved here. St. Lugud was a very aged man in the year 580. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 33.

CLONFERT, otherwise TRINITY CHRIST CHURCH, NEWMARKET, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, to the Chapel of Kanturk, under the name of the parish of Newmarket: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Clonfert, of 9 acres, on which the Vicar is about to build: The Rev. Andrew Mac Clintoch, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties occasionally, assisted by his Resident Curates, The Rev. Robert Bullen and The Rev. George Mayberry, at a Salary of £50. per annum to each. Clonfert is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Newmarket, on the North East. It is situate upon the River Dalua.

CLONFERT, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the Vicarages of Fahy, Killimorbologe, Kilmacunna, Kilmolinoge, Meelick, and Tyrenaskeragh: one Church, both Cathedral and Parochial, at Clonfert, upon the repair of which £500. have been within three years expended; but it is still defective, and requiring a larger sum than the parish can bear, for some years, to perfect it: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 40 acres, lately granted from the Bishop's Domain, within half a mile of the church; the Incumbent is desirous to build, but possesses not the means (as he reports) upon an Episcopal Union; The Rev. John Hackett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Clonfert is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. N. N. E. from Eyrecourt. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 12th of August, and 22d of November. The parishes in the Union of Clonfert are contiguous; and contain, according to the Down Survey, 17,147 acres, but in reality many more. It is situate near the River Shannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, "many new arrangements of parishes, highly advantageous and conducive to the establishment of the Protestant Church, might obviously be made in the Diocese of Clonfert, were the Government to extend to it the same policy under which it has been pleased at different periods to regulate, I believe, every other Diocese in Ireland: namely, to enable the Bishop, by granting him a compensation, to restore the Quarta Pars (or, certain portions of Tythe due out of different parishes), or rather grant them (all Tythes being originally the property of the Diocesan) to the officiating Parochial Incumbents. Of such a measure, the first result would be to release the Diocesan from the necessity of employing a Tythe Proctor; or, as it happens in some cases, where the Incumbent wishes to become tenant to the Quarta Pars, from trafficking with one of his clergy for a property not unimportant to either. In the hands of the Incumbent, these portions would individually increase much in value: their dispartition would lay a reasonable foundation for the dissolution of several of the present Unions: new churches and additional Incumbents might follow; a competency would be established for general residence, and a single Manse House would no longer remain the opprobrium of the union of two not inconsiderable Sees. In the instance of three Benefices, viz., Clonfert, Donanaghta, and Kiltormer, I have the best authority to assert that these three Benefices would afford equal, if not superior incomes to six Clergymen: and three additional churches might be built in situations not remote from any church, if the respective native tythes of each parish were relinquished by the Diocesan, and conferred upon the Incumbent. In respect to the parish of Clonfert, upon any dissolution of the Union, I conceive it might be adviseable to constitute it part of the Corps of the Deanery of Clonfert, which Dignitary is at present without cure of souls, in order to induce the Dean to reside at Clonfert: where, from the solitude of the situation, and uncivilization of the lower orders of people, such an association to the residence of the Ordinary might prove very beneficial to the cause of religion and morality." How sensible, and judicious! The Right Rev. Christopher Butson, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806. The Bishoprick of Clonfert (valued in the King's Books at £24. sterling) was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, near the close of the Sixth century; and the See of Kilmacduagh, in the beginning of the Seventh. They were united in 1602. Clonfert lies chiefly in the county of Galway; a small part only of Roscommon belongs to it, with a single parish, on the East of the Shannon, in the King's County. The greatest length of this Diocese is 29 miles, and the greatest breadth 25 miles. Kilmacduagh is wholly in Galway, and measures 18 by 12 miles. The extent of the Union is about 37 by 25 miles. The Members of the Chapter of Clonfert are a Dean, an Archdeacon, a Sacrist, and 8 Prebendaries. The Cathedral and parish church of Clonfert are the same: near them stands the Bishop's Palace; there not being one at Clonfert, which is distant 21 miles from the farthest part of the Diocese, and 34 from the western extremity of the Union.—" St. Brendan, the son of Findloga, studied under St. Finian in the Academy of Clonard, and A. D. 553 or 562, he founded an Abbey here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary. St.

Brendan was the founder of many other abbies, and is said to have presided over 3000 Monks, each of whom did industriously earn a sufficiency for his support; this Saint instituted a particular form or rule for the observance of his successors, who, in the course of time, followed that of St. Augustin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 278.

CLONFERT KERPAN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here in the year 503; but nothing more is known of it.

CLONFERT MULLOE, v. KYLE.

CLONFINGLASS, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killardry. Clonfinglass is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. This parish is nearly, if not absolutely, contiguous to the parish of Killardry, and contains 219 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Killardry.

CLONFINLOGH, v. CLOONFINLOGH.

CLONFINLOGH, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry: It is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Tipperary.

CLONGEEN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Clongeen is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. W. from Taghmon. See, Horetown.

CLONGESH, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is preparing to build; a Glebe, of 40 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Edward Berwick, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in Dublin; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Clongesh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. N. W. from Longford.

CLONGILL, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: a Church, very small, but kept in complete repair by the Incumbent; the parish being too small to afford an adequate cess for the purpose: no Glebe House: four scattered Glebes in the parish; one, of 11¼ acres, about a quarter of a mile from the church: a second, of 1 a. 1 r. 4 p., at the same distance; a third, of 1 a. 2 r. 26 p., close to the church; and the fourth, of 1 a. 0 r. 18 p., also near the church: the Incumbent is under injunction to build, and is preparing his Memorial and plan for that purpose: The Rev. Mungo Henry Noble, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Clongill is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¾ m. N. N. W. from Navan.

CLONIE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory contituting part of the Union of Ogashin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Quin. Clonie is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. b. N. from Ennis. See, Ogashin, and Quin.

CLONIN, v. CLONYNE.

CLONKEEN, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymacward. Clonkeen is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. N. E. from Athenry. It is situate on the River Moyne. See, Ballymacward.—"About the year 1435, Thomas O'Kelly, bishop of Clonfert, and afterwards Archbishop of Tuam, converted the parish church of Clonkeen, or Clonkeen-kernill, into a Monastery for Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis, at the instance of David and John Mull-kerrill, professors of the said Order. This house was under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 281.

CLONKEEN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal: the duties are performed by The Rev. William Galwey (in 1806), at a Salary of £3. per annum. Clonkeen is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Castle Connel. This parish contains 1060 acres of land. See, Toem.

CLONKEEN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..7..2 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on 12 acres of Glebe, close to the church: The Rev. George Lambart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Clonkeen is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Ardee.

CLONKINNY, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. S. from Roscrea. A village.

CLONKYNE, v. ABBEY LEIX.

CLONLARKAGH, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a parcel of the Rectory entire of Ballingarry. It is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. See, Killenellick.

CLONLEA, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Clonlea is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. from Six Mile Bridge. See, Omullud, and Kilseily.

CLONLEAD, v. CLONTEAD.

CLONLEIGH, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in perfect order: no Glebe House; two Glebes containing 427 acres, one of them being two miles from the church, and the other five: The Rev. Averal Daniel, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Clonleigh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¼ m. W. from Strabane. It is situate upon the River Foyle.—" St. Columb built the church of Cluain-laodh, where St. Lugad, one of his disciples, is honoured. St. Carnech was Abbot and Bishop here about the year 530, and was succeeded by Cassan, whose successor was Massan. Clonleigh, we apprehend, was anciently called Cruachanligean, or Druimligean, but we cannot determine which. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 96.

CLONLEIGH, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St Mary's, New Ross. Clonleigh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Ross, New.

CLONLOGHAN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Clonloghan is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. b. S. from Six Mile Bridge. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Kilseily, and Traddery.

CLONLOGHER, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., united, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Clonclare, and Killasnet. Clonlogher is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Manor Hamilton, on the North. See, Clonclare.

CLON MAC DUFF, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardbraccan. Clon Mac Duff is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. from Trim. This parish contains 995 acres of land. See, Ardbraccan.

CLONMACKNOIS, or, CLUAINMACNOIS, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, with every necessary office, on a Glebe of 50 acres, two miles and an half from the church: The Rev. John Fitzgerald, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Clonmacknois is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. S. from Athlone. It is situate on the East bank of the River Shannon. The Fair is holden on the 20th of September. It is occasionally called Seven Churches. In the old Diocese of Clonmacknois, united to Meath in the year 1568, there is a Dean. (The Rev. Thomas V. Dawson, A. M., in 1806), but no other Dignitary or Prebendary. —"This monastery, which belonged to the Regular Canons of St. Augustin, was peculiarly and universally esteemed, it was uncommonly extensive, and amazingly enriched by various Kings and Princes. Its landed property was so great, and the number of cells and monasteries subjected to it so numerous, that almost half of Ireland was said to be within the bounds of Clonmacnoise. And what was a strong inducement, and contributed much towards enriching this house, it was believed, that all persons who were interred in the holy ground belonging to it, had insured to themselves a sure and immediate ascent to Heaven; many princes (it is supposed for this reason) chose this for the place of their sepulture; it was the Jona of Ireland. Yet notwithstanding the reputed sanctity of this monastery, and the high estimation in which it was holden by all ranks of people, it appears, that the abbey and town were frequently plundered, burnt and destroyed by despoilers of every kind, from the unpolished Irish desperado, to the empurpled King. The abbey also suffered by the hands of the barbarous Ostmen, and not only by them, but (with concern do we add) by the English then settled in the kingdom, whose errand hither, we would wish to think, was to conciliate the affections of the people, to unite them in bonds of friendship, and teach them to live like fellow citizens and subjects; instead of this, we are compelled to say, they too often joined in the sacrilegious outrages of other wicked men, and repeatedly disturbed and despoiled the peaceful seminary of Clonmacnoise; sparing neither book, vestment, or any other appendage of the sacred altar, which belonged to these truly inoffensive men. The situation of Clonmacnoise is delightful. It stands about ten miles from Athlone, on the banks of the Shannon, and is raised above the river on ground composed of many small elevations, on which are a few of the buildings which did belong to this ancient house. Several other ruins appertaining to it may also be seen in the little vallies between the hills. The whole is bounded to the East and North with very large bogs. Here are two Round towers, elegantly built of hewn stone; the larger, which is called O'Rourk's, and wants the roof, is 62 feet in height, and 56 in circumference, and the walls are three feet eight inches in thickness. The other Tower, called Mac Carthy's, is seven feet in diameter within, and the walls are three in thickness, and 56 in height, including the conical shaped roof. The next considerable building we find here, is the Cathedral, which was the ancient abbey (founded, in the year 548, by St. Kieran) the doors of it are richly carved. There are several old monuments in this church, on which are inscriptions, said to be partly in Hebrew and partly in Irish. At length this abbey, which was formerly endowed with very large possessions, suffered a gradual decline, and in the course of time was reduced and despoiled of all its property. The cemetery contained about two Irish acres, on which ten other churches were afterwards built by the Kings and petty Princes of the circumjacent country, who, though at perpetual war whilst living, were content to rest peaceably beside each other. The several founders named these churches as follows: Temple Righ, or Melaghlin's Church, built by O'Melaghlin, King of Meath, and to this day it is the burial-place of that family; Temple O'Connor, built by O'Connor Dun; Temple Kelly; Temple Finian, or Mac Carthy, built by Mac Carthy-more of Munster; Temple Hurpan, or Mac Laffy's Church; Temple Kieran; Temple Gauney; Temple Doulin, which is now the parish church; and Temple Mac Dermot; this last was much larger than any of the others, and before the West door stands a large old cross of one entire stone, much defaced by time, on which was some rude carving, and an inscription in antique and unknown characters: the North doors are very low, but guarded with small pillars of fine marble, curiously hewn. Another of these churches hath within it an arch of greenish marble, flat wrought, and beautifully executed, the joints of which are so close, that the whole appears to be of one entire stone. Besides the cross before mentioned, there are three others in the church-yard. Here we also find Temple Easpic, or The Bishop's Chapel, and on the West of the cemetery lie some ruins of the Episcopal Palace, which may still be seen. The 9th of September is annually observed as the patron day, when great numbers from the most distant parts of Ireland, assemble here in pilgrimage. A Religious House for nuns appears to have been founded here early."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 379. et seq.

CLONMAGORMACUM, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcooly. Clonmagormacum is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. N. N. W. from Roscommon. See, Kilcooly.

CLONMANY, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House; 306 acres of Glebe, about one mile from the church: The Rev. Abraham Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has a Benefice in the Diocese of Raphoe, and resides in that Diocese: the duty is discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Clonmany is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 18½ m. N. b. W. from Londonderry. It is situate near the sea.—"St. Columb built the Abbey of Cluainmaine, which was formerly a very rich monastery, but is now a parish church, in the Diocese of Derry."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 96.

CLONMEENE, v. CLOONMEEN.

CLONMELL, in Great Island, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, at some unknown time, to the R. and V. of Temple Robin; and holden, by Faculty, with the Union of Lisgoold: a Church, in repair: a good Glebe House, at Clonmell, with 10 acres of Glebe; and 8 acres, in Temple Robin, near the old church: Francis Atterbury, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Thomas Stanestreet, at a Salary of £50. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it appears, that Temple Robin might be separated from Clonmell, and each would provide maintenance for an Incumbent; but the Union being by Act of Council, it is not in the Bishop's power to dissolve it by his own authority. Clonmell is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Cove, on the West. The parishes of Clonmell, and Temple Robin, are contiguous; their extent being 5 miles from North to South, and 2 miles from East to West. See, Lisgoold.

CLONMELL, partly in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and partly in the Baronies of Glanehiry, and Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and Episcopally united, in May 1801, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the Vicarages of Kilcash, Kilgrant, Killaloan, and Templethiry: a Church, in repair, in Clonmell: a new Glebe House, in Clonmell: three Glebes; one, of 2 a. 1 r. 2 p., in Clonmell, close to the church: another, of 3 a. 1 r. 30 p., in Kilgrant, close to the site of the old church there; and the third, of 9 acres, in Templethiry, about a quarter of a mile from the site of the old church: these glebes are not contiguous: The Rev. Thomas May, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Clonmell is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 85 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of May, and 5th of November. It has six Post-days in the week: and is the Shire Town, and where the Assizes are holden. This Town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, Lord Mountcashel. It is governed by a Mayor, Sheriff, Recorder, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk. The Right Hon. John Scott, Chief Justice of His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in Ireland, was created Earl of Clonmell, in 1793. It is situate on the navigable River Suir, over which there is a bridge of 20 arches, divided into two parts by a small Island in the River, on which houses are built: the tide flows a little way above the town. Here is a Charter-School, for 60 boys. It gave birth (on the 24th of November 1713) to The Rev. Laurence Sterne, the celebrated author of Tristram Shandy. This town is very ancient, having been erected before the invasion of the Danes; it was formerly defended by a strong wall. Oliver Cromwell met with greater resistance here, than in any other part of the kingdom: he demolished the Castles and Fortifications, of which now only the ruins remain.

The parishes in this Union are contiguous; their extent being very great. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Clonmell, and the Vicarage of Kilgrant, ought to be perpetually united. Kilgrant would be of too small value to stand alone. John Bagwell, Esq., is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Clonmell; and the Crown is the Patron of the Vicarage of Kilgrant.—" A Dominican Friary was founded here, A. D. 1269, and dedicated to St. Dominick. We can not trace the founder of this monastery: But the Franciscan Friary owed its origin, in 1269, to Otho de Grandison, although some writers erroneously give it to the inhabitants of the town; and others, with as little certainty, make the family of Fitzgerald the founders. The church of the friary was truly magnificent, and esteemed one of the finest in Ireland; in this church was a miraculous image of St. Francis. It is now the meeting-house of a Dissenting Congregation."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 652.

CLONMELLON, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 4¾ m. W. N. W. from Athboy. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of January, 2d of May, 25th of July, and 29th of September.

CLONMESS, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster.

CLONMETHON, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £28..6..8 Irish Money; and perpetually united, in 1722, to the Curacies of Ballyboghill, Bally Mac Dun, Greenock, Palmerstown, and Westpalstown: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Clonmethon: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 19 a. 2 r. 0 p., belonging to Bally Mac Dun, about 4 miles from the church, and £600 have lately been granted by the Board of First Fruits to build a Glebe House: The Rev. Storer Charles Littlehales, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, and is excused from residence at present, on account of ill health: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Galb. Fenton, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Clonmethon is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 12 m. N. from Dublin. The parishes in the Union of Clonmethon are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 5 miles, and, from North to South, 6 miles.

CLONMINES, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Owen Duffe. Clonmines is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. W. b. S. from Taghmon. It is governed by a Portrieve, and is situate near to the Sea coast. See, Owen Duffe.—" The family of Cavenagh founded a monastery here for Eremites following the Rule of St. Augustine. In 1385 it was enlarged and beautified by Nicholas the Clerk, the son of Nicholas: And the Friars of the Order of St. Dominick afterwards obtained possession of it.

The ruins of this very extensive building, situate just over the river, may yet be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 734.

CLONMORE, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Leighlin, which is valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money: no Church, but one to be built immediately: no Glebe House, but one to be built immediately: a Glebe, of 10 acres, contiguous to the site of the old church: The Rev. John Elgee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice of Wexford, which he holds by Faculty: the occasional duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Dooley, at a Salary of £10. Clonmore is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. b. W. from Hacketstown.

CLONMORE, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: two Glebes; one, of 3 acres, adjoining the site of the old church; and the other, of 8 acres, about two miles distant: The Rev. M. Mac Causland, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is non-resident, by want of a Glebe House: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £40. per annum. Clonmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. E. b. S. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Suir.

CLONMORE, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £22..13..4 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 17½ acres, about one mile from the church, and all lying together: The Rev. William Bisset, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Clonmore is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. b. N. from Dunleer. It is situate near to the Irish Sea.

CLONMORE, otherwise KILLOVINOGE, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templemore. Clonmore is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. E. from Templemore. This parish contains 2100 acres. See, Templemore.

CLONMORE, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Enniscorthy. Clonmore is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Enniscorthy. The Rectory of Clonmore belongs to the Bishop of Ferns. See, Enniscorthy. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Maidoc founded a celebrated Abbey here, and appointed St. Dichulla to be the first Abbot. It is now a parish church.

CLONMULSK, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Read, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Clonmulsk is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. from Carlow. It is situate near the River Barrow.

CLONMULT, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., holden, by Faculty, by the Rector of Kilmahon: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 7 a. 0 r. 3 p. Clonmult is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Tallow. See, Kilmahon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. It has only occasional duty.

CLONOE, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a very old Church, in tolerable order: no Glebe House, nor any Glebe in the parish: but there are 150 Irish acres belonging to it, in the parish of Dysertcreagh, 10 miles distant from the church: The Rev. Nathaniel Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clonoe is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. b. E. from Stewart's Town.

CLONOGHILL, v. CLOONOGHILL.

CLONOKINNY, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster. It is 5½ m. S. from Roscrea. A village.

CLONOULTY, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. Robert Carew Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Clonoulty is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. b. S. from Thurles. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of July, and 12th of November. This parish contains 6103 acres of land.

CLONPET, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..11..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lattin. Clonpet is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. from Tipperary. See, Lattin.

CLONPRIEST, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 32 acres, convenient to the church: The Rev. John Lyster, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Thomas Wakeham, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Clonpriest is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Youghall. It is situate upon the Sea Coast.

CLONRAHAN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, O'Connor Roe built a Monastery here for Franciscans of the Third Order, in the reign of King Henry the Seventh: but we know nothing of its history.

CLONRANE, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 7 m. S. W. from Mullingar. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Cronan was the founder of an Abbey here, about the year 630.

CLONRUSH, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught; a R. and V.: the Rectory belonging to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in Kilalloe; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes, which constitute the Union of Inniscalthra. Clonrush is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. S. b. W. from Portumna. It is situate upon Lough Deirgeart. See, Inniscalthra, and Killaloe.

CLONSAST, or, CLONCAST, in the Barony of Coolestown, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, in 1796, to the Vicarage of Ballinakill; a Church, in Clonsast, in excellent repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Grant, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, is non-resident, having a dispensation, and being Rector and Prebend of Clondalkin, in the Diocese of Dublin: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Oliver Nelson, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Clonsast is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. N. E. b. E. from Portarlington. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, many attempts have been made to procure a Glebe to build on for the Rector of this parish, but unfortunately, hitherto, without effect. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; that of Clonsast containing upwards of 6000 acres of land.

CLONSHAMBOE, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..19..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clane. Clonshamboe is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. S. W. from Kilcock. This parish contains 1334 acres of land. See, Clane.

CLONSHANVILL, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. East from the River Gara.—"Here an Abbey was founded by St. Patrick, of which St. Connedus, one of his disciples, was Bishop. We can learn no further account of this ancient monastery, save that Mac Dermot Roe afterwards rebuilt or new founded the same about the year 1385. It was dedicated to the Holy Cross, and presented to the Dominican Friars; and was granted, when suppressed, to Lord Dillon. This is now a very small village; the walls of the friary and church may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 607.

CLONSHIER, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Limerick. Clonshier is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. from Rathkeale. See, Rathkeale.

CLONSILLAGH, in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castleknock. Clonsillagh is in theDioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. W. from Dublin. See, Castleknock.

CLONTARF, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Usher, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish, and discharges the duties in person. Clontarf is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. E. N. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Dublin Bay, and is much resorted to for the purpose of sea-bathing. Here is the Royal Charter School, which was opened in the year 1749, for the reception of 120 Boys. The Castle, which is well preserved and elegantly improved, is the residence of the Vernon family; And the view therefrom is rich, extensive, and extremely picturesque. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery was founded here, A. D. 550. And a Commandery for Knights Templars was founded here in the reign of King Henry the Second.

CLONTEAD, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Kinsale.

CLONTHUSKERT, v. CLONTUSKERT

CLONTHUSKERT, v. CLOONTUSKERT.

CLONTIBRET, in the Barony of Cremourne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, about half a mile distant from the church: The Rev. John Wright, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Clontibret is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. b. W. from Castle Blayney. On the first establishment of the Protestant Religion in this part of the Kingdom, George Montgomery (after a vacancy of 35 years), being appointed Bishop of Clogher, united and appropriated the parishes of Clontibret and Clones to the Archdeaconry of Clogher, on the 1st of March, 1613. At present the Archdeacon is only in possession of the Rectory of Clontibret: Mr. Wright receives the Vicarial Tythes thereof; and Mr. Roper, the Rectorial and Vicarial Tythes of Clones. In this Union, which the Corps appropriate to the Archdeaconry, the parishes are distant from each other about nine miles. See, Clones.

CLONTUBRID, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Clontubrid is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. W. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

CLONTURK, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. The Church is at Drumcondra.

CLONTUSKERT, or, CLONTHUSKERT, in the Barony of Clonmacow,

Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the R. of Donanaghta. Clontuskert is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Eyrecourt. See, Donanaghta.—"Boadan, or Broadan, founded this Monastery for Augustine Canons, and was himself the first Abbot: he died about the year 809."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 282.

CLONYMEAGHAN, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—" Pope Innocent VIII, by a Bull dated 16th of December, 1488, granted a license, permitting Eugene Mac Donogh to found a Monastery here for Dominican Friars. But we find, in the registry of these friars, now in Sligo, that Bernard Mac Donogh, the son of Dermot of Ballynedan, called the Prior, and a reader of divinity in the friary there, founded the Monastery of Clunimilian, which afterwards became a Cell to that of Sligo.—The church was dedicated to St. Dominick, and some ruins are still to be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 629.

CLONYNE, or, CLONEEN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fethard. Clonyne is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. from Fethard. This parish contains 3074 acres of land. See, Fethard.

CLOON, or, CLONE, in the Barony of Mohill, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the R. and V. of Fenagh: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in good order; and five Glebes in this parish, containing 323 acres, distant from each other about two miles: The Rev. D. C. Ryder, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, on account of age and infirmities: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Cloon is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N.E. from Mohill. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of February, 5th of April, 26th of May, 13th of June, 10th of July, 26th of August, 29th of September, 2d of November, and 20th of December. It is situate near the River Cloon.—" St. Fraech, or Froech, about the year 570, founded an Abbey at Cluain-conmacne, in the Territory of Muntereoluis and County of Leitrim, which was formerly in great repute. The founder is also the Patron of this House, which originally was called Cluain-cholluing. It is now known by the Name of Clone, and is a parish church in the Diocese of Ardagh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 407.

CLOONAFF, or, CLOONCRAFF, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughrim. Cloonaff is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Strokestown. See, Aughrim. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Patrick founded the Monastery here. It is now a parish church.

CLOONAGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Limerick. Cloonagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. W. from Rathkeale. See, Rathkeale.

CLOONCRAFF, v. CLOONAFF.

CLOONFADA, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here A. D. 800, or, as is more probable, earlier: but of which we can learn nothing further.

CLOONFINLOGH, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Cloontuskert, with sometimes the addition of other parishes: no Glebe: The Rev. James Little, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but resides in a Benefice which he has in the Diocese of Killala, as there is no church in this Union, and only very few Protestants, who are convenient to Strokestown: the occasional duties are discharged by The Rev. Maurice Mahon, who resides in Strokestown. Cloonfinlogh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. S. b. W. from Strokestown. The parishes in the Union of Cloonfinlogh are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about 9 square miles.

CLOONMAINAN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery was founded here in the year 800, which is now wholly unknown.

CLOONMEEN, or, CLONMEENE, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united, for many years, to the V. of Roskeen: a Church, in repair, at Clonmeen: no Glebe House: The Rev. Edward Synge Townshend, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, is generally resident, but being infirm, the duties are discharged by his Son, The Rev. Philip Townshend, who resides at Kilcorney. Clonmeen is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. W. b. S. from Mallow. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. The parishes in the Union of Clonmeen are contiguous: their extent being 10 miles North and South, and 7 miles East and West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, neither of these parishes separately is able to maintain a Clergyman. The Castle was ruined in the wars of 1641.—"A Monastery for Friars following the Rule of St. Augustin, was founded here by O'Callaghan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 61.

CLOONOGHILL, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..8..0 sterling, and united to the R. of Achonry. Cloonoghill is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. W. S. W. from Ballymote. See, Achonry.

CLOONTUSKERT, or, CLONTHUSKERT, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloonfinlogh. Cloontuskert is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Lanesborough. See, Cloonfinlogh. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey of Regular Canons was founded here in the earlier ages by St. Faithlec: which was in existence at the general suppression of monasteries.

CLOONYVORNOGE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"It is called in the Records a Chapel, or Cell, of the Third Order of St. Francis, and was built some time after the year 1441."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 282.

CLORAN, v. BURNCHURCH.

CLOUGH, v. LESKINFERE.

CLOUGH, in the Barony of Kinelearty, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 69 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

CLOUGH, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. S. W. from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the River Bove.

CLOUGH, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Gorey. A village.

CLOVER-HILL, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Roscommon.

CLOYDAGH, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from the year 1771, to the present date, to the Rectory of Slatey, the Impropriate Cure of Painestown, and the Prebend of Shrule: a new Church, building, in the parish of Cloydagh: no Glebe House: two Glebes, one of them, of 0 a. 1 r. 30 p., belonging to the Prebend of Shrule, near the cathedral; the other, of 2 a. 2 r. 30 p., at Slatey; being at the distance of seven miles from each other: The Rev. Bartholomew Thomas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Cloydagh is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Barrow. The parishes in the Union of Cloydagh are not all contiguous: those of Shrule, and Slatey, adjoin; Cloydagh is two miles and an half distant; and Painestown is separated from Shrule and Slatey, by the River Barrow. The whole value is not £200. per annum.

CLOYNE, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V.: The Cathedral Church of St. Colman. Cloyne is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 125½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Right Rev. William Bennet, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806. The Bishoprick of Cloyne, valued in the King's Books at £10..10..0 sterling, was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the Sixth century. It was united to Cork for upwards of two hundred years: But it has now continued separate above a century. It lies entirely within the County of Cork, extending East and West nearly 50 miles in length, by a breadth of 23 miles. The Chapter is very full, being composed of a Dean (see, Farahy), Chancellor (see, Clenore), Treasurer (see, Templenecarigy), Archdeacon (see, Gortroe) and 14 Prebendaries. The Wardenship of the church of Youghall, which is Collegiate, is perpetually united to the Bishoprick. And the Union of Aghada, which is in the Patronage of the Bishop, and adjoins the town of Cloyne, has been allowed by the Crown to be holden in Commendam with the See for almost a century. The Cathedral is a respectable old building, accompanied by a fine Round tower; and is also the parish church. The Bishop's Palace is a plain convenient house, with good gardens and demesne: but forty miles from the Western bounds of the Diocese, being situated only two miles North from Cork Harbour, and about the same distance West from the sea. According to Mr. Archdall, p. 62, an Abbey was founded here in the year 707, which was plundered by the people of Ossory in 978, and again, in 1089, by Dermot O'Brien; Here was also a small Castle, said to have been erected by the Fitzgeralds, but no remains are now to be seen of either. To the North West of the town, is a reputed Holy Well, dedicated to St. Colman, who was the ancient Patron of Imokilly: It is visited, by the Irish, on the 24th of November, being the Patron day of that Saint.

CLUAIN, or, KILCLUAIN, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.—"Was an Abbey built by St. Olcan, in the early ages of Christianity. It is now, according to Colgan, a parish church, near Connor." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 4.

CLUAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Sedna governed a Church here; but it is now unknown.

CLUAINBOIREAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, Cairecha Cergain, was the Virgin Saint of this abbey, which had its situation on the banks of the Shannon: she died on the 5th of February, A. D. 577.

CLUAINBRAOIN, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, near the town of Louth: but it is now unknown.

CLUAINCHAOIN, in the Barony of Maryborough, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster. Here was an ancient Monastery, not far distant from Clonenagh: but of which very little is known.

CLUAIN CHREDUIL, or, KILITA, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster.—"We are told that an Abbey (high in repute), was founded here by St. Ita, alias Mida, a descendant of the blood royal of Munster, who died 15th of January, 569. She is said to have wrought many miracles, and her Festival is still solemnized."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 419.

CLUAIN CLAIDHEACH, v. CLONCAGH.

CLUAINCONBRUIN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster.—It was situate near the River Suir, in the Western part of the Golden Vale.—"St. Abban founded an Abbey here, which is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 653.

CLUAINDAIMH, in the Barony of Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"There was an Abbey here in the early ages, of which St. Mochoemoc, or Mochommoc, was Abbot."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 112.

CLUAIN-DUBHAIN, or, DRUIM-DUBHAIN, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster.—"St. Patrick founded a considerable Nunnery here, over which he placed St. Cectumbria, the first Irishwoman that received the veil from his hands. She was interred in her own Church, as was St. Cinnia or Kinnia, who lived here about the year 482. Many other virgins, and seven Reverend and holy Bishops were also interred here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 681.

CLUAINEMUIN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey here, but of which very little is known.

CLUAINENACH, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. from Londonderry.—"An Abbey was founded here by St. Columb, who made St. Columb Crag, his disciple, Abbot of it. It is now a chapel."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 96.

CLUAINFINGLASS, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Abban, A. D. 650: which is now unknown.

CLUAINFOIS, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"An Abbey of this name was founded by St. Jarlath, Bishop of Tuam, in which, there was a celebrated school about the year 540. Cluainfois is now a chapel not far from the town of Tuam, and, according to Allemande, is at present called, The High Temple."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 282.

CLUAINIMURCHIR, in the Barony of ——, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—"St. Brecan, said to have been Abbot of Rosstuirc in the time of St. Abban, was also Abbot here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 593.

CLUAINMACNOIS, v. CLONMACKNOIS.

CLUAIN MHAOSCNA, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Foilan was Abbot here. It is now unknown.

CLUAINMORFERNARDA, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Columkill founded an Abbey here; which is now unknown.

CLUAINNAMANACH, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an ancient monastery here; of which St. Dabhonna was Bishop.

CLUAIN REILGEACH, in the Barony of ——, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Ernin was Abbot here in the time of St. Columb, and is honoured on the 5th of August. It is now unknown.

CNODAIN, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is situate to the Northward of the River Erne, near Astrath.—"St. Conan, or Connan, was Abbot here about the end of the 6th century."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 96.

COAGH, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 3¾ m. S. b. E. from Moneymore. A village, situate upon the River Ballinderry.

COAL ISLAND, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. from Stewart's Town. Here are extensive Coal Works, with a Canal passing by them from Lough Neagh.

COCKMAN, v. COLEMAN.

COGLANSTOWN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..0..2 Irish Money, and constituting part of the Preceptory of Tully. Coglanstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. This parish contains 980 acres of land, by estimation. See, Tully.

COLE-HILL, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 51 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

COLEMAN, or, COCKMAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Cashel. Coleman is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. W. from Fethard. This parish contains 1550 acres of land. See, Cashel.

COLERAINE, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £26. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in the town of Coleraine, and a Glebe, of 45 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. Edward Harvey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Coleraine is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 114 m. N. from Dublin. This town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, The Marquess of Waterford. It gives title of Baron to the family of Hanger. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 5th of July. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Bann, within five miles of the sea, and is noted for its Salmon Fishery, and Linen Manufacture: but the Port is indifferent, by reason of ~~the rapidity of the river~~. It is governed by a Mayor, and Coroner.—"St. Carbreus, or Corpreus, a disciple of St. Finian of Clonard, was the first Bishop of Coleraine, and flourished about the year 540. His Festival is celebrated the 11th of November; he was succeeded by St. Eonall, who was Bishop in the time of St. Columb, the celebrated founder of the Abbey of Derry, A. D. 546.—Thomas Mac Uchtry and the Galls of Ulster built a castle here in 1213, for which purpose they raised all the pavements, and destroyed every part of the abbey (of Canons Regular), the church alone excepted.—The Dominican Friary, which was also called, The Monastery of the Bann, was founded, A. D. 1244, by the O'Cahanes, or rather, as a good authority asserts, by the Mac Evelins, and was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Sir Robert Savage, of Ulster, Knt., an excellent soldier, died in 1360, and was buried here:—A few of the ruins of the building remain near the town, on the West side of the River."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 83.

COLERAKE, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Colerake is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

COLLIGAN, anciently GLOGE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £2..16..0: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Averill, the Vicar (in 1805), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the parish of Mothil, of which he is Curate, at the distance of six or eight miles: the duties are performed by the Curate of the neighbouring parish. This Benefice is not worth £30. per annum. Colligan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. N. W. from Dungarvan. See, White Church.

COLLIN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Collin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

COLLIN'S-TOWN, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Castletown Delvin. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of May, and 30th of October.

COLLON, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, in 1709, to the R. and V. of Dromyn; and, in 1769, united by Act of Council, to the V. of Mosstown: a Church, in good order, in Collon: a Glebe House, in Collon; a Glebe, of 22 acres, not contiguous; 10 acres being within half a mile of the church, 9 acres in five different parcels in the parish of Dromyn, and 3 acres in three different parcels, in Mosstown; the last 12 acres being about three miles distant from the church: The Rev. D. A. Beaufort, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Collon is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 29½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of June, and 24th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Collon are contiguous, and contain above 8000 acres of land; but these Livings produce only a moderate Income, and, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, ought not to be dissolved.

COLLUMKILL, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thomastown. Collumkill is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Thomastown. See, Thomastown.

COLMOLYN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltale. Colmolyn is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. W. b. S. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 2901 acres of land. See, Kiltale.

COLOONY, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Ballysadere. It is 99 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of May, 5th of September, 21st of November, and 16th of December. It gives title of Baron to the family of Coote, now Earl Bellamont. It is situate on the River Coolany. It has six Post-days in the week.

COLPE, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, in 1793, to the Rectories of Kilsharvan, and Mornanstown: a Church, now building, on the ruins of the old church, at Colpe: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres, in the parish of Kilsharvan, near three miles from the new church, now erecting: The Rev. George Lever, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, with permission, on account of his infirmities; the duties are discharged by a neighbouring Clergyman, without emolument. The Income of this Union is but £40. per annum. Colpe is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Drogheda. The parishes in the Union of Colpe are contiguous; that of Colpe containing 2959 acres.—"A. D. 1182, Hugh de Lacie founded an Abbey here for Canons Regular, following the rule of St. Augustin, and made it dependant on the Abbey of Lanthony in Monmouthshire. The walls of a church in ruins are still to be seen here, the arches of which are both in the Saxon and Gothic style, and the East window appears much older than the other parts of the building, and made, as we suppose, a part of the abbey; on the North side is a small chapel, and to the South are two other chapels, one of which is at present the burial-place of the family of Bellew."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 527.

COLTRAIN, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 5¾ m. N. N. E. from Lisnaskea. A village.

COLUMBKILL, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. from Granard.

COMBER, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure: a Church, in good repair: a good Glebe House, in the village of Comber; and a Glebe, of 11 acres, near the church: the Income is only £74. per annum: The Rev. George Birch, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Comber is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 89 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday O. S., in January, 5th of April, 28th of June, and 19th of October. It is situate on a branch of Strangford Lough.—"St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, of which we have no further account. But Brien Catha Dun, from whom the O'Neils of Clandeboys descended, built one to the honour of the Virgin Mary, and supplied it with Monks, of the Cistertian Order, from the Abbey of Alba Landa, in Caermarthenshire. The founder fell by the sword of Sir John de Courcey, about the year 1201. John O'Mullegan was the last Abbot, and he voluntarily resigned in the year 1543."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 112.

COMER, v. CASTLE COMER.

COMMONSTOWN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Commonstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

COMRAIRE, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Colman was Abbot here. It is now unknown.

CONEVAL, v. CONWALL.

CONFOY, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Confoy is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Leixlip. The Castle is in ruins. It is situate near the River Ryewater. See, Leixlip.

CONG, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling: a Church, in bad repair: no Glebe House: The Rev. Robert Warren, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being Vicar of Tuam, has a Faculty, and resides in Tuam. Cong is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. S. S. W. from Ballinrobe. This was once the chief City of the Province, and for some time the residence of the Kings of Connaught. It is beautifully situate near Lough Corrib.— —"St. Fechan erected a magnificent Monastery here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, and died A. D. 664. The author of this Saint's life calls it expressly his own Monastery; yet do some writers affirm, that it was founded in the year 624, by Donald, son of Æd, nephew to Amirach, King of Ireland, and that St. Fechan was for some time Abbot of it. On the 10th of December, 1605, a lease in reversion of this abbey, for fifty years, was granted to Sir John King, Knight, ancestor to the Earl of Kingston. The ruins of several churches may still be seen here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 498.

CONING, in the Barony of ——, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. —"St. Declan built an Abbey here, in the Sixth century. It is buried in obscurity."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 653.

CONNAUGHT, or, OLD CONNAUGHT, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bray. Connaught is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. W. b. N. from Bray. See, Bray.

CONNAWAY, or, CANABOY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; a R. (and V. endowed, which is valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling), being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilaspugmullane: no Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. James Bentley Gordon, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Diocese of Ferns, where he holds a Benefice: the occasional duties are performed by a Curate, resident in an adjoining parish, at a Salary of £10. Connaway is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. E. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Lee. See, Kilaspugmullane.

CONNEL, GREAT, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., or Perpetual Curacy, Episcopally united to the Perpetual Curacy of Ladytown, and the Rectory of Sherlockstown: a Church, in Great Connel, which will shortly be in complete repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Anthony Jones, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and discharges the duties in person. Great Connel is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5. m. S. W. from Naas. This parish contains 950 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent: and it is recommended, that the Rectory of Sherlockstown should be separated from it. A Glebe, and Glebe House, are much wanting. Upon the loss of Sherlockstown, it might have the addition of Ballymanny and Bealan, a township wherein, as part of Tully, the Bishop has some tythes: but it would still be necessary to resort to the Board of First Fruits for an augmentation to Great Connel, and Ladytown. It is situate on the banks of the Rivey Liffey.—"A Priory was founded here, in 1202, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary and St. David, by Meyler Fitz-Henry, whose Father was natural son to King Henry I, he came into this kingdom with the first adventurers, young and in high esteem for his personal bravery and warlike exploits. He filled this house with Regular Canons from the Monastery of Lanthony in Monmouthshire, and dying in the year 1220, was interred in the Chapter House of this priory. The Prior of this house was a Lord of Parliament, to which he was seldom summoned. The priory is now so much gone to decay, that scarcely any description can be given of its ruins ; one part supposed to be the nave and choir, but between which, no distinct separation can be made, measures about two hundred feet in length, by twenty-five. Two Gothic windows have alone resisted the ravages of time ; there are some pillars with curious capitals, and a few remains of Stalls. On an adjoining hill is a small square house, wi th p diment fronts, seemingly a turret belonging to the Priory."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 317.

CONNEL, OLD, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster : a Rectory entire, Episcopally united to the Rectory of Morristown Biller: no Church : no Glebe House, or Glebe Land : The Rev. Charles Eustace, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Old Connel is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Naas. The parishes in this Union are contiguous, and contain 3500 acres, of which 1500 acres are tythe free. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it were desirable that a Glebe, and a Glebe House, should be procured here, and a new church built.

CONNO, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 4¾ m. N. W. from Tallow. It is situate on the River Bride.

CONNOR, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Killyglen, and Solar; and constituting the Prebend of Connor, which is valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling: The old Cathedral; which being destroyed in the rebellion of 1641, a common roof, thatched with straw, was put on the end thereof, and is now used as the parish church : no Glebe House : a Glebe, of 40 acres : The Rev. Charles Douglas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves a Cure in another part of the Diocese : the duties are discharged by a Curate, the Income of the Union scarcely paying his Salary. Connor is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 96¾ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of August, and 28th of October. It is situate on the River Glenwhirry. Killyglen, and Solar, are very small Denominations, and are distant from Connor about eleven miles. The three parishes in the Union of Connor contain 9913 acres of land. The Bishopricks of Down, and Connor, according to Dr. Beaufort, were both founded in the Fifth century, and united in the year 1454. The See of Connor extends 45 miles in length, and 24 miles in breadth. It lies chiefly in the County of Antrim, but includes also a part of Down, and Londonderry. The Chapter consists of a Dean (see, Carrickfergus), a Precentor (see, Ballymoney), a Chancellor (see, Ramoran), an Archdeacon (see, Billy), and four Prebendaries. The Bishoprick of Connor is valued in the King's Books at £25. sterling. There is no Episcopal Palace in the Diocese.

CONRY, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. E. from Ballymore. It is in the Parish of Ardnurcher. According to Mr. Archdall, Fearfio was Abbot here; who died, A. D. 758.

CONVOY, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Raphoe. It is situate upon the River Dale.

CONWALL, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; 900 acres of Glebe, inconveniently situated for the residence of the Clergyman, being far removed from Letterkenny, where the church stands: The Rev. John Ellison, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. It is adjacent to Letterkenny, on the North East. It is situate on the River Swilly. Conwall is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish.—"Fiachry was Abbot of Congbail in the Territory of Gleann-suilige, in Tyrconnel, and of Clonard in the County of Meath; he died on the 8th of February, between the years 587 and 652; and Sitrick O'Trutle, Archdeacon of Congbail, died in 1204."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 96.

COOKSTOWN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, with the V. of Creekstown. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 12 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. See, Creekstown.

COOKSTOWN, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 82 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the second Saturday in February, 28th of March, second Saturday in May, first Tuesday O. S., in June, second Saturday in August, 4th of September, 10th of October, second Saturday in November, and the last Saturday in December. It has six Post-days in the week.

COOLAGH, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. Coolagh is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. from Killenaule. This parish contains 1317 acres of land. See, Killenaule.

COOLAGHMORE, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Callan. Coolaghmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Callan. See, Callan.

COOLBANAGHER, or, COOLBENGER, in the Barony of Portnehinch,

Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; a R., Episcopally united, on the 25th of February 1804, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the R. of Ardea: a new Church, in Coolbanagher: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 26 acres and 22 perches, near the church: and there is a Church-yard of about one fourth of an acre, at the ruins of a church in the parish of Ardea: The Rev. Robert Vicars, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Colbanagher is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Emo. The parishes in this Union are contiguous: Coolbanagher containing, according to the county and parish books, 3237 acres; and Ardea, 3470; But the Incumbent is of opinion, that there are about 2000 acres more in the whole.

COOLBENGER, v. COOLBANAGHER.

COOLBOY, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¼ m. S. from Tinehaly. The Fairs are holden on the last Wednesday in January, first Wednesday O. S., in March, the last Wednesday in April, the first Wednesday O. S., in June, the last Wednesday in July, September, October, and the Wednesday in Ember week.

COOLCASHIN, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster; a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Coolcashin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

COOLCOR, in the Barony of Coolestown, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, being with Ballyburley one Benefice, by prescription. Coolcor is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. See, Ballyburley.

COOLCRAHEEN, or, COOLCRAGHIN, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Odogh. Coolcraheen is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. W. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Nore. See, Odogh.

COOLE, v. CARMONY.

COOLE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Corps whereof is the parish of Coole, being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, many years ago, (under the name of the parish of Castletown Roche,) to the Rectories and Vicarages of Bridgetown, Castletown Roche, Kilcummer, Monanimy, Wallstown, and the particle of Ballygregan: a Church, in repair, at Castletown Roche; no Glebe House: a Glebe, at Wallstown, of 10 acres, not convenient to the church, and two miles from it: Robert Austen, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and resides in his parish. Coole is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. The parishes in the Union of Coole are all contiguous; their extent being 12 miles from North to South, by 4 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it appears, that none of these parishes singly would support a Clergyman; but that this Union might well be divided on a future occasion.

COOLGRENY, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. S. S. W. from Arklow. A village.

COOLINEY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling, and holden with the Union of Kilbrin, and Liscarrol: The Union was made by Act of Council, in 1787; and the Prebend, which is a small Non-Cure, allowed to be holden with it, at the same time, by Bishop Woodward: a Church, in repair, at Kilbrin: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Hingston, Junr., the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and resides at Aghada, where he is Curate to the Lord Bishop. The parishes composing the perpetual Union of Cooliney are contiguous; their extent being 10 miles North and South, by 8 miles East and West. Cooliney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Tallow. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Cooliney is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

COOLKENNOE, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Aghold. It is 4½ m. E. S. E. from Tullow. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, May, August, and November.

COOLKERRY, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. E. from Rathdowny.

COOLMUNDRY, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. A denomination of Fethard. See, Fethard.

COOLNAKENNY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 11 m. S. W. from Rathkeale. A village.

COOLOCK, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..1..8 Irish Money: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 17 a. 2 r. 25 p., near the church: The Rev. Peter Carleton, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Coolock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. E. from Dublin.

COOLSTUFF, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend of Coolstuff in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £10..5..0 Irish Money: the V. is valued in the King's Books at £2..11..0 Irish Money: no Church: a good Glebe House, built by the present Incumbent, which is certified for, on 4½ acres of Glebe, at Furlongstown, contiguous to the ruins of the church; and also a Glebe, of 1 a. 0 r. 20 p., according to the Down Survey, at Ballyshelan, a mile and an half from the former, but which has not been in possession of the Prebendary, within the memory of man: The Rev. William Hinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is engaged in a laborious Cure at Enniscorthy: the occasional duties are discharged by The Rev. Robert Hawkshaw, Rector of Taghmon, the neighbouring parish, at a Salary of £5..13..9. This parish, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, has very few Protestant families. Coolstuff is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. E. b. N. from Taghmon. It contains 2444 acres.

COOTEHILL, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Drumgoon. It is 52¾ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of March, 9th of June, 12th of September, and 6th of December. It has six Post-days in the week.

COPLAND, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. They are situate at the South entrance of Belfast Lough. According to Mr. Seward, they were so named from a family of the Coplands, who settled there in the time of John de Courcey, in the Twelfth century, of whom are some remains in the adjacent Tract, called Bally Copland, on the Continent. They are distinguished by the names of the Big, Cross, and Mew Island; in the second of which is a Light-House. The Big Island is inhabited by about half a dozen families, who are all Dissenters.

CORBALLY, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., belonging to the Vicars Choral of the Cathedral of Cork, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carrigrohane. Corbally is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. W. from Cork. See, Carrigrohane.

CORBALLY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. W. b. S. from Tipperary. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a chapel appendant to Monaincha,—which, see.

CORBALLY, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killure. Corbally is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. S. E. from Waterford. It is situate upon the Sea Coast. The Prebend of Corbally is valued in the King's Books at £0..18..0 Irish Money. See, Killure, and Killea.

CORCLONE, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, ever since the year 1771, to the R. of Killeany: a Church, newly erected in the parish of Corclone, but not quite finished: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 acres, in the parish of Corclone: The Rev. Joshua Anderson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within the parish of Corclone, and discharges the duties in person. Corclone is the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Stradbally. The parishes in the Union of Corclone are two miles distant from each other: That of Corclone containing 2043 acres of land.

CORCOMOHIDE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: the Rectory constitutes part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock: the Vicarage was Episcopally united, about the year 1740, to the Vicarages of Cloncagh, and Clonelty: a Church, in good repair, in Corcomohide: no Glebe House: no Glebe possessed by the Vicar; there are Rectorial Glebes, of which one is said to belong to the Vicar, but there is no proof that he ever possessed it: The Rev. Henry Dundass, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice, in the Diocese of Meath: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Corcomohide is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. from Rathkeale. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these Benefices, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilmallock.

CORCOMROE, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster; a R. It is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. N. W. from Gort. It is situate near to Galway Bay.—" A. D. 1194, Donald, King of Limerick, founded a sumptuous Monastery here for Cistertian Monks, and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary; others say, that Donagh Carbrac, his son, was the founder, in the year 1200. This abbey was also called, The Abbey of the Fruitful Rock, and was a daughter of that of Suire: It was afterwards made subject to the celebrated Abbey of Furnes, in Lancashire; The Cell of Kilsonna, alias Kilshanny, was sometime after annexed to this House. The founder died the same year."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 44.

CORK, within the County of the City of CORK, and Province of Munster: a City, in which are the following parishes, viz.,

ST. FINBARRY'S, The Cathedral and parish Church, in good repair; united to the Curacy of Marmullane, at a period long prior to any known record; and, probably, at the first Institution of the Chapter, and by whatever authority was then competent. The Dean and Chapter of St. Finbarry's, the Incumbents. The Dean (The Rev. John Leslie, A. M.) resides in the Deanery House in the parish, and near the church. The duties are performed by the Dean, Prebendaries, Vicars Choral, and a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £80. per annum. The parishes of St. Finbarry, and Marmullane, are not contiguous; being four miles asunder. See, Marmullane.

ST. ANNE, Shandon, a R.: a Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Warham Leader, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

St. Mary's, Shandon, a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..10..0. sterling, and united, at a period prior to any known record, to the R. of St. Catherine's near Shandon: a Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: Vacant (in 1806), by the Resignation of the late Incumbent, who had cure of souls: the duties are performed by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. These two parishes are contiguous in the City and Suburbs of Cork, and are of very small extent. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

St. Nicholas, a R., united by the Bishop, on the 3d of August 1752, pursuant to the Act of the 25th of George II, to the Rectories of St. Bridget, St. Dominick, St. John of Jerusalem, St. Mary de Narde, and St. Stephen's; and constituting the Corps of the Chancellorship, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in the parish of St. Nicholas: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Fortescue, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the city of Cork, (within the suburbs of which the whole of this Union is situate,) and performs the Parochial Duties. All these parishes are contiguous; their estimated extent from East to West being half a mile, and from North to South the tenth part of a mile. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

St. Paul's, a R., and with which is holden, by Faculty, the R. and V. of Inchegeelagh: a Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: George Sealey, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the City of Cork, where the parish of St. Paul is situate. See, Inchegeelagh.

St. Peter's, a R., united, at a period prior to any known record, and by competent authority at the time of the Union, to the entire Rectories of Dunbulloge, Dunisky, Kilmonogue, and Nohoval; and constituting the Archdeaconry, which is valued in the King's Books at £7..1..8 sterling: a Church, in the parish of St. Peter: a Glebe House, at St. Finbarry's: and a Garden, or piece of ground, in the City of Cork: The Rev. William Thompson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the City of Cork, wherein the Church of St. Peter is situate, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate in St. Peter's, and who also performs the occasional duties in Dunbulloge, at a Salary of £75. The parishes in this Union are in no instance contiguous. See, Dunbulloge, Dunisky, Kilmonogue, and Nohoval. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

THE HOLY TRINITY, otherwise CHRIST CHURCH, a Prebend, and Vicarage endowed: the Prebend is valued in the King's Books at £1..16..8 sterling: The Income of the Prebendary arises from lands; he has no Glebe House; Edward Day, D. D., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is resident in the Diocese of Ardfert, of which he is Archdeacon. The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a small plot of Glebe Land in an adjoining parish, in the City of Cork: The Rev. James Meara, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Resident Curates, at an annual Salary of £50. to each.

Cork is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 124¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the day after Trinity Sunday, and on the 1st of October. It has six Post-days in the Week. This City sends two Members to Parliament. The Magistrates are a Mayor, two Sheriffs, a Recorder, Deputy Recorder, Town Clerk, Common's Speaker, Sword Bearer, Gentleman Serjeant at Mace, and two City Chaplains. The Military Officers are a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and Town Major. It is situate on the River Lee, and is esteemed the second city in Ireland. But now having a Royal Dock-yard near it, and other Military Arsenals; to which being added the conveniences of its local situation, and the wealth and enterprize of its Inhabitants, its future progress is rendered incalculable. The Assizes are holden here. The Harbour of Cork is so formed, according to Dr. Beaufort, as to contain an immense number of Ships, in complete security. And the banks of it, being adorned with Villas and Plantations, present a most agreeable and chearful Landscape. Vessels of one hundred and twenty tons go up to the City Quays, but the large ships lie at Passage, West, a few miles lower down. The mouth of the harbour is protected by Carlisle Fort, the date of whose construction is pointed out by the name. This City is the great Mart of the South of Ireland. The principal articles of its export trade are Beef and Butter, together with a great quantity of Corn, and some Linen. By those who are sensible of the happiness of friendship the author will be forgiven, for here recording the bravery of a Native of this City,—WILLIAM PARKER, Esquire, late Commander of the Honourable East India Company's ship BRIDGEWATER,—now resident at Camberwell, in the County of Surrey; and whose ancestors have been uniformly as highly respected for their virtues, as for the important offices which they repeatedly filled in Cork. On the 8th of March 1779, Captain Parker being on his return from Bencoolen, fell in with the American Frigate CAMPDEN of 28 guns, and 300 men. The BRIDGEWATER had 26 guns, and only 84 men, many of whom were sickly. The action commenced at 8 o'Clock in the morning, and lasted three hours; when the frigate sheered off with the loss of her captain and 19 seamen killed, and 25 wounded: there was also an American Schooner in company with the frigate, but being to leeward, and it blowing fresh, she could not get into action. For such a masterly defence of his ship, and against such a very unequal force, it was "RESOLVED, at a Court of Directors held on Thursday the 10th of June 1779, that in consideration of the gallant defence made by the Officers and Seamen of the ship Bridgewater, against an American Ship of War of superior force, which after an engagement of some hours was obliged to sheer off, a gratuity of Two thousand pounds, be paid to the said Officers and Seamen, in such proportion as shall be settled by the Committee of shipping. That Captain Parker do receive the Thanks of this Court for his gallant conduct, and that he be presented with a piece of plate of One hundred guineas value, with the Company's Arms engraved thereon." And from which this Inscription is taken. There is a peculiar satisfaction in bearing due testimony to merit!—The Hon. and Right Rev. Thomas St. Laurence, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1807. The foundation of the Bishoprick of Cork is placed in the Seventh century: That of Ross is unknown; they were united by Queen Elizabeth, in 1586: They are both contained in the county of Cork, and are partly intermixed. The Diocese of Cork is 58 miles long from Eas to West, and about 13 miles broad. The length of the principal part of Ross is 25 miles from East to West, and the breadth 6 miles: the detached part of it, in the mountains of Bear and Bantry, is about the same length, but not more than four miles broad. The whole Union is about 65 miles by 17. The Chapters of these Dioceses consist each of a Dean, a Precentor, a Chancellor, a Treasurer, and an Archdeacon; there are besides 12 Prebendaries, in Cork, and 5, in Ross. The Cathedral of St. Finbarry is a plain modern church. Near it stands the Bishop's Palace, a large new house, built but a few years, by the late Bishop, Dr. Mann. It is 50 miles from the city of Cork, to the remotest parts of Ross.—" St. Barr, Barroc, or Finbar, but by his parents named Lochan, was of the race of the Ibriunratha; he flourished about the year 600, and built an Abbey, which, after time, was called The Abbey of St. Barr, or Finbar; this foundation is by some placed, A. D. 606. This abbey was founded near Lough-eirc, which is generally supposed to be that particular hollow in which a great part of the city of Cork stands. St. Barr died at Cloyne, but was interred in his own church, where his bones were afterwards deposited in a silver Shrine: his Festival is holden on the 25th of September. In 1134, this abbey was refounded, for Regular Canons following the rule of St. Augustine, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, by Cormac, King of Munster, or, as some write, King of Desmond. The Monks of this abbey erected the first Salmon Wiers on the River Lee, near the city of Cork. The remains of this building were totally demolished about the year 1745.—Dermot Mac Carthy Reagh founded a Monastery, A. D. 1214, for Conventual Franciscans, and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary. This building, which stood on the North side of the city, is now entirely demolished.—The Dominican Friary, called The Abbey of St. Mary of the Island, was founded in the year 1229. This house, which stood in an Island, called Cross-Green, on the south side of the town, is now entirely demolished.—A Monastery was founded, on the South side of the city, in the reign of King Edward the First for Friars following the Rule of St. Augustine. Of this building, the steeple, which is 64 feet high, and the walls of the church, still remain; the East window, the only one in the choir, was truly magnificent, and measured 30 feet in height and 15 in breadth; the whole erection was converted into a sugar-house, and is now called, The Red Abbey.—Dr. Bourke is the only author, who mentions the house for White Friars.—The Nunnery of St. John the Baptist, of which there are now no remains, was situated near the present market-house, and the site was accidentally discovered in digging up some old tombs.—There was a Preceptory of the Knights Templars in this town, for we find that William le Chaplain was Master of Cork about the 1292.—The Priory of St. Stephen was founded in the South suburbs of this city for the support of Lepers, and Edward Henry was keeper of it, A. D. 1295. This priory, when suppressed, was granted to the city of Cork, and about the year 1674, an hospital for poor children, now called, The Blue Coat Hospital, was erected on the ancient site."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 62. et seq.

CORKBEG, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghada. Corkbeg is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. from Cloyne. It is situate upon the Eastern side of Cork Harbour. See, Aghada.

COROCK, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Upper Badoney.—"A Monastery was erected here, in the 15th century, for Franciscan Friars of the third Order: and an Inquisition, taken A. D. 1603, finds, that the monastery, cell, or house of Franciscans of Caorock, was possessed of three parts, and more, of a quarter of land adjoining the same, annual value 1s..8d. At the suppression it was granted to Sir Henry Piers, who assigned it to Sir Arthur Chichester. These ruins display a singular neatness, and an elegant style of Architecture."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 681.

CORROFIN, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster. It is 6¼ m. N. W. b. N. from Ennis. The Fairs are holden on the day before Ascension Day, and 22d of November.

CORROGE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lattin. Corroge is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. S. E. from Tipperary. See, Lattin.

COTLANDSTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymore Eustace. Cotlandstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. E. b. N. from Kilcullen-Bridge. See, Ballymore Eustace, and Carnalway.

COURT, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—"In this village, O'Hara built a small Monastery for Franciscan Friars of the third order.—The steeple, and several fine ruins of this building, yet remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 630.

COURTSTRAND, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. N. W. b. N. from Sligo. A village.

COVE, or, THE COVE OF CORK, in Great Island, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Clonmell. It is 132 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is a very flourishing village, being situate under a high, steep hill, opposite to which the largest vessels, trading to Cork, generally anchor; and from which city it is about 9 miles distant, in a South East direction. It has six Post-days in the week. A Chapel of Ease is about to be erected here.

COVE, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is a well-built village, near to Kinsale, on the East.

CRAGWELL BRIDGE, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 6½ m. W. N. W. from Loughrea.

CRANFIELD, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being Episcopally united, time immemorial, with the V. of Duneau. Cranfield is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. W. from Antrim. It is situate upon Lough Neagh.

CRANNA, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Hollymount.

CRAOBHGRELLAIN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, a Religious House was founded here, some time before the year 563, by St. Finian of Clonard.

CRAWFORD'S BOURN, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. W. from Bangor. It is situate on Belfast Lough.

CREAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling; no Church: a Glebe House, newly built: a Glebe, of 16 acres: Vacant (in 1806) by the death of the last Incumbent: the duties are performed by a Curate, resident in the adjoining parish of Tullagh; with which Creagh was lately united. Creagh is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. b. W. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon Baltimore Harbour.

CREAGH, in the Barony of Moycarne, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1739, to the vicarages of Kilcluney, and Taghmaconnel: one Church, in Ballinasloe, in good repair, as to the body of it, but the steeple is not finished: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 a. 2 r. 11 p., one mile from the church, and another, of 3 a. 3 r. 35 p., six miles from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Charles Trench, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and occasionally discharges the duties (having another Benefice in the Diocese of Waterford), assisted by a Curate at a Salary of £50. per annum. Creagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Ballinasloe, on the North East. It is situate on the River Shuck. The parishes in the Union of Creagh are contiguous.

CRECORAGH, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 3 r. 32 p., near the site of the old church: The Rev. Joseph Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, by permission, in Rathkeale, where he serves a very important Curacy: the duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Killpeacon, at a Salary of £3. per annum. Crecoragh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. W. from Limerick. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the duties of Crecoragh are very few, and the Income is inadequate to the comfortable support of a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilmallock.

CREEKSTOWN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Chapelry of Cookstown, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ratoath. Creekstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 13 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. This parish contains 1418 acres of land. See, Ratoath.

CREEVE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Elphin. Creeve is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. The Chantorship of Elphin has a portion of Tythes in this parish. See, Killuken.

CREEVLEA, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the River Boonid, which falls into Lough Gille.—"An House was founded here for Franciscans of the strict observance, A. D. 1508, by Margaret nyBrien, daughter of Lord O'Brien, and wife to Eugene Lord O'Roirk: she died in 1512, and was interred here. This building was never completed.—The walls of this abbey are still entire, and the altar is nearly so: there are several curious figures inserted in the walls, and over some graves of the Murroghs, the Cornins a very ancient family, the O'Roirks; the great O'Roirk lies at full length on a Tomb over the Burial-ground of his family. This building is of the same extent with the abbey of Sligo; but is thought to be rather inferior in the execution."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 407.

CREGAN, v. TIMOLEAGUE.

CREGGANE, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 400 English acres contiguous, and near to the church: The Hon. and Rev. Percy Jocelyn, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Creggane is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 7½ m. N. W. from Dundalk. Here is a Charter School, which was opened in 1737, for 40 Boys.

CREGGS, in the Barony of Killihan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 5½ m. N. b. E. from Ballinamore. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, June, August, and 19th of December. It is situate on the River Suck.

CREHELP, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donard. Crehelp is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. S. W. from Blessington. The extent of this parish is one mile from North to South, and from East to West one mile. See, Donard.

CREMORGAN, in the Barony of Cullinagh, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. W. b. S. from Stradbally.

CREVAGH, or, CRUAGH, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tallagh. Crevagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. from Dublin. See, Tallagh.

CREVAGHBANE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"Here was a Friary of Carmelites, which, if we mistake not, owes its erection to an Earl of Clanricarde, in the 14th century."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 283.

CREVE, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is situate upon Mulroy Bay.

CREWMALLY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, its situation is now unknown. See, Nantinan.

CRICRIM, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghold. Cricrim is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. E. N. E. from Tullow. See, Aghold.

CROAGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a small Glebe, near the church, containing only 47 perches: The Rev. Edward Jefferies, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident very near the parish, and performs the duties in person. Croagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. E. from Rathkeale. This was formerly a corporation town. And the church, which is very large, is said to have been, in former times, Collegiate.

CROAGH PATRICK, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 4 m. S. W. from Westport. It is adjacent to Newport or Clew Bay. According to tradition, St. Patrick, from the summit of this mountain, drove all the venomous creatures in the kingdom into the sea. It obtained its present name, from St. Patrick's fasting here during Lent, in imitation of Jesus Christ. This mountain may be seen at the distance of 60 miles, and has the form of a sugar loaf. It is a place of pilgrimage, and is much frequented by those of the Roman Catholic persuasion. By the inquisitive and judicious researches of Aylmer Bourke Lambert, Esq., who traversed this mountain, it appears that "The Irica daboecia, and other curious plants and mosses, grow luxuriantly here. It is esteemed the highest mountain in Ireland, and rises 2666 feet above the level of the sea. On its side are several heaps of loose stones, and especially one over the grave of a mother and four children, who came from a great distance to perform, and there all perished from the severity of the weather. Upon its summit, which is a flat of about a quarter of an acre of an oval form, is an open kind of place, built with loose stones, which is called, The Chapel of St. Patrick; and near it, is a hut, covered with turf, and surrounded with stone seats in the interior, for refreshment of the weary pilgrims. There are also several little piles of loose stones, which are used as altars. The view from hence, for grandeur and variety, surpasses description!"

CROEBHEACH, or, CRAOIBECH, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate near the river Brosnach. According to Mr. Archdall, this abbey was founded by St. Patrick.

CROGHAN, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £12.; and Episcopally united, in 1801, to the Prebend and Rectory of Castropeter: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are performed by The Rev. William Chamberlaine, at a Salary of £2..10..0 per annum. Croghan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m N. from Philipstown. This parish contains 1200 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Castropeter.

CROGHAN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 4 m. N. b. W. from Elphin. The Fairs are holden on Wednesday after Trinity Sunday, and 28th of October. This was a Royal Residence, and the ancient capital of the Province of Connaught.

CROGHANE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and Vicarage, the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cashel: the duties are performed by The Rev. Robert Carew Armstrong, Curate of the adjoining parish (in 1806), at an annual Salary of £6. It is 2¼ m. E. from Killenaule. This parish contains 2993 acres of land. Croghane is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. See, Geale.

CROMOGUE, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Clonagheen. It is 3½ m. S. E. b. S. from Moynrath.

CROMPSTOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money, being, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, parcel of Pepperstown, and constituting part of the Union of Fethard. Crompstown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. E. b. N. from Fethard. See, Fethard, and Pepperstown.

CROOKE, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, last Episcopally united, in the month of February 1789, to the entire Rectories of Faithbeg, Kilcop, and Kill, St. Nicholas, and the Vicarages of Killea, and Rathmoylan: a Church, at Passage, East, in the parish of Kill, St. Nicholas, in indifferent repair; but regular service is performed therein, and it is about to undergo a thorough repair: no Glebe House: five Glebes; one, of 22 acres, in the parish of Kill, St. Nicholas, and another, of 3 acres, at Crooke, for which the Rector pays The Marquess of Waterford £10. per annum; a third, of 2 a. 2 r. 10 p., in the parish of Killea; and the fourth, and fifth, at Rathmoylan, one of them being 2 a. 0 r. 17 p., and the other, 1 a. 2 r. 0 p.: these glebe lands are all contiguous to the sites of their respective old churches, except that of Kill, St. Nicholas, which is about a mile and an half from the church: The Rev. John Roberts, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish of Crooke, within less than a quarter of a mile of the church, and performs the duties in person. Crooke is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Passage, East, on the South East side. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. The parishes of Crooke and Kilcop (which are generally supposed to be but one parish), Faithbeg, and Kill, St. Nicholas, are contiguous; and are divided from the parishes of Killea, and Rathmoylan (which join each other) about a quarter of a mile, by the intervention of a part of the parish of Kilmacomb. The parish of Crooke contains about 1600 acres of land. Here is a ruined Castle, which belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem; and which was erected, in the Thirteenth century, by the Baron of Curraghmore. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectories of Crooke, Kilcop, Kill St. Nicholas, and Faithbeg, ought to be perpetually united; and if there was a Glebe House built on this benefice, it would be well arranged.

CROOK HAVEN TOWN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilmoe. It is 19 m. S. W. from Skibbereen.

CROOM, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, as far back as any record of the Diocese reaches, to the V. of Adare: a Church, in good repair, in Croom; and a Church also at Adare, in very bad repair; but a new church is about to be built there: no Glebe House: the Glebe of Croom laid near the church, and contained about 6 acres; it has not been possessed by any Incumbent for at least 60 years past, but by the Patron of the parish, by whom it has been leased: The present Patron has promised to give a Glebe in lieu of it.—Adare should have four small Glebes; two, near the church, containing half an acre, and two, containing a quarter of an acre, two miles from the church: the Vicar does not possess any of them: The Rev. Richard Croker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, is resident in Croom, and performs the duties in person, assisted by a Curate: the duties of Adare are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Croom is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 105 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Parishes in the Union of Croom are contiguous; that of Croom containing 6000 acres of land. It is situate upon the River Maig; And has three Post-days in the week.

CROSAILECH, v. ACHADHABHLA.

CROSS, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. S. E. from Londonderry. A village.

CROSSAKEEL, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Kilskyre. It is 7 m. N. W. from Athboy. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, 16th of August, and 15th of December.

CROSSBOYNE, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinrobe. Crossboyne is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Clare, on the South. See, Ballinrobe.

CROSSDONY, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. S. W. from Cavan. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, 27th of May, 26th of August, and 17th of November.

CROSSERLOGH, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. N. W. from Oldcastle.

CROSS FERRY, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Ballymoney. It crosses the River Bann.

CROSS HAVEN, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. A village, situate on a branch of the West side of the Harbour of Cork.

CROSS, in the Mullet (a Peninsula), in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—" Here we find the Monastery or Religious House of The Cross, or The Holy Cross, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, it belonged to the Abbey of Ballintober. The ruins of this Friary may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 501.

CROSS, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 6¾ m. E. N. E. from Bangor. Here is a Light-house. It is one of the Copland Islands, and is situate at the South entrance of Belfast Lough. It contains about 30 acres of land.

CROSSMAGLIN, or, CROSS MEGLAN, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. N. W. from Dundalk. A village.

CROSSMOLINA, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and united by Act of Council, on the 10th of July 1804, to the Vicarages of Addergool, Killfyan, and Magaunagh; there is one Church in this Union, standing in the parish of Crossmolina, in good repair, but too small: and a larger Church is about to be built, at the expense of the Union: no Glebe House; there are two Glebes in the parish of Crossmolina; one, consisting of 5¼ acres, is contiguous to the church; the other, contains 22 acres, and is distant about two miles: the present Incumbent has taken steps to exchange the latter glebe for a piece of ground near the church, and better situated for building upon: The Rev. Edwin Stock, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Crossmolina is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 135 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, 12th of September, and 17th of December. It is situate on the River Deel. The parishes in the Union of Crossmolina are contiguous; their estimated extent being 16 miles in length, and 9 miles in breadth. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an abbey near here, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin.

CROSS PATRICK, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend and Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcommon. Cross Patrick is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is placed by Dr. Beaufort in the Barony of Gorey, at the distance of 7½ m. W. b. S. from Arklow. See, Kilcommon.

CRUAGH, v. CREVAGH.

CRUA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

CRUANACARRA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

CRUANAKILY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

CRUISETOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..4..10 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Syddan. Cruisetown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. W. from Nobber. This parish contains 720 acres of land. See, Syddan.

CRUIT, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

CRUMLIN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 78 m. N. from Dublin. It is situate upon Crumlin Water. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of July, and 20th of November. It has six Post-days in the week.

CRUMLIN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 1 a. 0 r. 24 p., contiguous to the church: The Rev. Roger Forde, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Crumlin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Dublin. This was one of the four ancient manors in this county (the other three, being Esker, Newcastle, and Tassagard), which were annexed to the Crown, and named The King's Land.

CRUSHEEN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 6 m. N. N. E. from Ennis.

CULDAFF, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, old and decaying: a Glebe House; 67 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. William Chichester, the Incumbent (in 1806), who, on account of old age, ill health, and the exposed situation of the glebe house, resides in the neighbouring parish: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Culdaff is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 20 m. N. b. E. from Londonderry. It is situate near the sea.

CULFAGHTRIN, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1793, to the V. of Ramoran, and valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in tolerable repair: no Glebe House in the Union. Culfaghtrin is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. E. from Ballycastle. This parish contains 16,480 acres of land. It is situate upon the sea coast. See, Ramoran.

CULLEN, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drishane. Cullen is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. from Millstreet. See, Drishane. A considerable tract of the county of Kerry, called The East Fractions, is in the centre of this parish. Near the church are some ruins, which are said to have been an ancient nunnery.

CULLEN, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Bready: no Church: a Glebe, of 17 a. 3 r. 19 p., near the ruins of the church: There being few Protestant Inhabitants in this parish, the occasional duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish, at a Salary of Six Guineas. Cullen is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Kinsale. See, Temple Bready.

CULLEN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, from time immemorial, to the Rectories entire of Solloghodbeg, and Solloghodmore, the Rectory and Vicarage of Shronell, and the Vicarage of Toughcluggin: a Church, in good repair, at Cullen: no Glebe House: four Glebes; one, of 3 a. 0 r. 25 p., at Solloghodmore, in two parts; another, of 9 a. 1 r. 5 p., at Toughcluggin; a third, of 5 a. 0 r. 33 p., at Shronell; and the fourth, of 20 acres, at Solloghodbeg: The Rev. Thomas Lloyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident during the summer, and, on account of a very infirm state of health, is permitted to reside in Limerick during the winter: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. William M. Fitzgerald, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Cullen is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. W. from Tipperary. The parishes in the Union of Cullen are contiguous, and with the Vicarage of Ulloe, contain in the whole 10,751 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union should not be continued as at present constituted. The Rectory and Vicarage of Shronell should certainly be separated, and, perhaps, some other of the parishes.

CULLENWAYNE, in the Barony of Clonlisk, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templeharry. Cullenwayne is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. N. from Moneygall. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of August, and 11th of November. See, Templeharry.

CULLIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Clew Bay.

CULLINSTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. S. b. E. from Slane.

CULLOVILLE, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 8½ m. W. N. W. from Dundalk. It is situate on the River Fane.

CULLYBACKY, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. W. from Ballymena. It is situate upon the River Maine.

CULMORE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. N. E. b. N. from Londonderry. Here is a Fort, situate at the bottom of Lough Foyle, of which the Military Governor of Londonderry is the Commander.

CUMBER, v. COMBER.

CUMBER, or, CONNUBARR, LOWER, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House; 106 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Francis Brownlow, the Incumbent (in 1806), who being lately collated, is preparing to reside. The duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Lower Cumber is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8½ m. W. b. S. from Dungiven.

CUMBER, or, CONNUBARR, UPPER, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, under repair: a Glebe House; 1138 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Robert Gouldsbury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Upper Cumber is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. W. from Dungiven.

CUNNING, ST., in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Carncastle. St. Cunning is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Larne. It is situate upon the sea coast. See, Carncastle.

CUNY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.

CURRAGHGRANEMORE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, with the R. and V. of Castlehaven: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Curraghgranemore is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. See, Castlehaven.

CURRAHA, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 13½ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. A village.

CURRAN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. N. N. W. from Magherafelt. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of June, and 22d of November.

CURRAN-ROE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 6¾ m. N. W. from Gort. The River Gurtnamackin here takes a subterraneous course.

CURRENS, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killtallagh. Currens is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. E. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Mang. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 21st of August, and 29th of October. See, Killtallagh.

CURRIKIPPANE, within the County of the City of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carrigrohane. Currikippane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Lee. See, Carrigrohane.

CURRIN, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, building: no Glebe. Currin is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. See, Drumkrin.

CURRYGLASS, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 1¾ m. W. from Tallow. A village.

D.

DALARADIA, a District, which comprehended the South and South-east parts of the County of Antrim, since called Clanebois, and all the County of Down, extending from Newry to the Mountain Mis, in the Barony of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.

DALKEY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monkstown. Dalkey is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7¼ m. S. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Monkstown.

DALKEY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. This Island contains about 18 acres of fertile land, and is divided from the Main by a channel, called The Sound of Dalkey; and in which ships of the greatest burden may lie with perfect security from the North-east winds. It produces some medicinal plants. Here are the ruins of a church. Tradition says, that when the city of Dublin was anciently visited by the plague, the citizens retired to this island, in order to escape that dreadful disease.

DALRIEDA, a District, which comprehended the North-north-west, and part of the South of the County of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

DALY'S-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of GAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Oldcastle.

DANESTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., augmented with a R., and valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kentstown. Danestown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. S. b. W. from Slane. See, Kentstown.

DANGANDARGAN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athassel. Dangandargan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Cashel. See, Athassel.

DARAGH, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., holden with the Vicarage of Killfinnan; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballingarry. Daragh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Killfinnan, and Ballingarry.

DARILAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

DARINIS, v. MOLANA.

DARINIS, ISLAND, off the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near the Town of Wexford. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Nemhan was Abbot of a monastery here, and probably was the founder of it.

DAVIDSTOWN, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory constituting part of the Preceptory of Tully; the Vicarage being endowed: no Church; the Parishioners resort to the church at Kilcullen, which is convenient: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Kildare Burrowes, A. B., the Sequestrator (in 1806). This Benefice is only worth about £20. per annum. Davidstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. S. W. from Kilcullen-Bridge. This parish contains 2245 acres of land, by estimation. See, Tully.

DAWSON'S BRIDGE, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure; a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 40 acres, near the church: The Rev. C. Edwards, the Resident Incumbent, in 1806. Dawson's Bridge is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. E. from Magherafelt. It is situate upon the River Moyowla.

DAWSON'S COURT, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is adjacent to Emo. This is the magnificent Mansion of the Earl of Portarlington.

DEEL CASTLE, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 134 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

DEIRG, v. ABBEY-DEIRG.

DELGANY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £24. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, time not known, to the Vicarages of Kilcoole, and Kil Mac Enogue; together with the Chapels of Carrick, Doran otherwise Hartain, Glangrewal, Glassmullen, Kilbride, Killossory, and Kil Mac Bur, which Chapels are said to be Town-Lands in Delgany, Kilcoole, and Kil Mac Enogue: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Delgany: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 2 a. 3 r. 6 p., contiguous to the church: The Rev. Thomas Trench, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Hosea Guinness, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Delgany is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. from Bray. The parishes in the Union of Delgany are all contiguous; their extent being about 5 miles from East to West, and about 4 miles from North to South.

DELVIN, v. CASTLETOWN DELVIN.

DEMEKERNERY, v. DERNAHENSY.

DEMELLOGE, v. RED CITY.

DENN, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; 151 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Albert Nesbitt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Denn is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. S. b. E. from Cavan.

DERANE, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 2 m. N. E. from Roscommon. According to Mr. Archdall, a body of Canons Regular having resigned the Priory of Roscommon, seated themselves at this place; which was granted to them by O'Conor.

DERG, v. DAWSON'S BRIDGE.

DERG, LOUGH, or, THE RED LAKE, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 20 m. N. N. W. from Enniskillen. It is in the parish of Templecarne.—"In this Lough there are several Islands, the largest is called The Island of St. Dabeoc, some call it St. Fintan's Island, and others the Island of Saints. In this Island was a Priory of Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustin, which was dedicated to the Saints Peter and Paul, and founded, as some say, by the great Apostle of Ireland, but others give the foundation to St. Dabeoc, who was also called Mobeoc and Beonan ; he was brother to St. Canoc, who flourished about the year 492. St. Dabeoc is Patron of this church, where three Festivals are holden to his honour yearly, on the 1st of January, 24th of July, and 16th of December. St. Dabeoc is said to have been buried in this abbey, which he made subject to the great Abbey of Armagh. It had a new Chapel, with convenient houses for the Monks, the remains of which may yet be seen. One of the Saint Patricks was Prior here about the year 850.—Notwithstanding the reputed holiness of this celebrated monastery, it was plundered and reduced to ashes by Bratachas O'Boyle and Mac Mahon. A. D. 1207. John was Prior, in 1353.—St. Patrick's Purgatory, as it is called, was first fixed in this Island, but it being near to the shore, and a bridge from the main-land giving the people a free and easy access into it, the cave was closed up, and another was opened in a lesser Island, about half a mile from the shore. Some people have given the invention of this purgatory to the great St. Patrick, but others, with more probability, ascribe it to Patrick who was Prior here about the year 850. This purgatory continued a long time in high repute both at home and abroad. We find, in our records, several safe conducts granted by the Kings of England to foreigners desirous to visit it, and particularly in the year 1358, to Maletesta Ungarus, Knt. ; another bearing the same date, to Nicholas de Beccario, a Nobleman of Ferraria ; and, in 1397, one to Raymond, Viscount de Perilleux and Knight of Rhodes, with a train of 20 Men and 30 Horses. But this purgatory must have fallen afterwards into disrepute, for we find, that by the authority of the Pope, Alexander VI (he having considered the same in the light of imposition), it was demolished on St. Patrick's Day, in the the year 1497, by the Father Guardian of the Franciscans of Donegal, and some other persons of the Deanery of Loughern, who were deputed for this purpose by the Bishop. A Canon of the priory of St. Dabeoc usually resided on the Island, for the service of the church and pilgrims.—The extent of this island is scarcely three quarters of an Irish acre ; the Cave of the purgatory is built of free-stone, and covered with broad flags and green turf laid over them ; in length, within the walls, it measures sixteen feet and an half, and in breadth, about two feet and an inch ; when the door is shut, no light can be discovered, save what enters at a small window in the corner. In 1630, the government of Ireland thought fit to have it finally suppressed, and it was accordingly dug up, to the no small distress and loss of the Roman Catholic Clergy."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 102. It is said to have been called formerly Fin Lough, or, The White Lake.

DERHASSIN, or, DERRALOSSORY, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Curacy of Glandelagh : a Church, at Derhassin, in good order : a Glebe House, and 60 acres of Glebe at Glandelagh, within one mile of the church:

The Rev. Edward Meylor, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Derhassin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. N. from Rathdrum. The Union of Derhassin is very extensive, but the most part is uninhabitable mountains.

DERIG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.

DERILLAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.

DERNAHENSY, or, DEMEKERNERY, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Dernahensy is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Knocktopher. See, Knocktopher.

DEROUGH, in the Barony of ——, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—"There was a Corbeship here, which was in the nature of a collegiate church, and Archbishop Usher tells us, that a corbeship was subject to the visitation of the Bishop, and sometimes also was sequestered by him, in like manner as other ecclesiastical places were. This corbeship, with its possessions, was vested in the Crown on the general suppression of Religious Houses."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 258.

DERRALOSSORY, otherwise DERHASSIN, v. DERHASSIN.

DERRY, v. LONDONDERRY.

DERRYAGHY, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House; the Income is only £97..10..0 per annum. The Rev. Philip Johnston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Derryaghy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Lisburn.

DERRYBRIAN, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 12½ m. W. from Portumna.

DERRYBRUSK, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling: no Church; it has been in ruins time immemorial: no Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, near the ruins of the church: The Rev. John Brinkley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being Professor of Astronomy in Trinity College, Dublin, resides at the Observatory there; the duties are discharged by a Curate, resident in an adjoining parish. Derrybrusk is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

DERRYGALVIN, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killmurry. Derry-galvin is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Limerick. See, Killmurry.

DERRYGRATH, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, constituting the Corps of the Chancellorship of Lismore, which is valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe, or cure of souls: The Rev. John Cleland, the Chancellor (in 1806), who does not reside, this being a perfect Sine Cure: his Preaching turns in the cathedral of Lismore are performed by a substitute: the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Glebe, of 16 a. 2 r. 24 p., close to the site of the old church: The Rev. Thomas Crawford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in Lismore, where he is a Vicar Choral, and performs the duties of all the Vicars Choral: the duties of this Benefice are discharged gratis by the Curate of a neighbouring parish, who resides in Clonmell. This Benefice is not worth £160. per annum. Derrygrath is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. b. S. from Cahir. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage of Derrygrath ought to be perpetually united; and, if a church and glebe house, were built upon this Union, it would be a good arrangement.

DERRY KEIGHAN, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carncastle; a Church, in tolerable repair; the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Derry Keighan is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Ballymoney. This parish contains 7041 acres of land; and is 25 miles distant from the other denominations. It is situate upon the River Bush. See, Carncastle.

DERRYLORAN, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 48 Irish acres of Glebe, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. John Caulfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Derryloran is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. W. from Cookstown.

DERRYNIFLYN, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; a parcel of the Rectory and Vicarage of Graystown. Derryniflyn is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. N. W. from Killenaule. See, Templeneiry.

DERRYNOOSE, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 245 a. 1 r. 2 p., English, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. Alexander Staples, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Derrynoose is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Tynan.

DERRYVILLANE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Glanmore. Derryvillane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon. See, Glanmore.

DERRYVULLEN, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: two Churches, in good condition: a Glebe House; about 600 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. George Miller, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates. Derryvullen is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. S. E. from Enniskillen.

DERVAGH, v. DURROW.

DERVER, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..19..9 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromiskin. Derver is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Castle Bellingham. This parish contains 1111 acres of land. See, Dromiskin.

DERVOCK, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. N. E. from Ballymoney. It is situate upon the River Bush. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, 23d of February, 12th of August, and 29th of October, Custom Free.

DESERT, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Gortroe. Desert is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. See, Gortroe. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DESERT, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of The Island: no Church. Desert is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. E. b. S. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon Cloghnakilty Bay. The Rectory of Desert belongs to the Dean and Chapter of Ross. See, The Island, and Ross.

DESERTMARTIN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, old, but in repair: a Glebe House; 305 acres of Glebe, 80 of which are near the church, the remainder six miles from it: The Rev. Charles Colthurst, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Desertmartin is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. E. from Tubbermore. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of February, 8th of May, 7th of June, 28th of July, 1st of October, 8th of November, and 27th of December.

DESERTMORE, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1794, to the R. and V. of Kilcully: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 60 acres: The Rev. John William Bennet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Glebe House at Middleton, in the Diocese of Cloyne, which he holds by Faculty: the occasional duties of Desertmore are performed by a Curate, resident in the adjoining parish; those of Kilcully are performed by a Curate, resident in Cork, at a Salary of £10. Desertmore is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Bride. These parishes are nine miles asunder. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DESERTOGHILL, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in very bad order; and monition is issued against the Churchwardens: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 301 acres, two miles from the church: The Rev. A. Mac Causland, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Desertoghill is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Kilrea.—"St. Columb founded the Abbey of Desert, which was generally called Disert Hy Thuachuill, in Oireacht Hy Chathan. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 91.

DESERT SERGES, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 73 a. 1 r. 20 p.: The Rev. Mountifort Longfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the Glebe House. Desert Serges is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. W. b. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate on the River Bandon.

DEVENISH, ISLAND, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: two Churches; one, in good condition; the other, a mean thatched building, ill situated: no Glebe House; about 400 acres of Glebe, part near the church: John Caulfield, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Armagh; the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates; one, at a Salary of £75., and the other, at £50. per annum. Devenish is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. N. W. from Enniskillen. It is situate in Lough Erne.—"St. Laserian, called also Molaisse, built a celebrated Monastery, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, in Daimh-inis, i. e., The Ox's Island. St. Laserian died on the 12th of September, A. D. 563; and was succeeded by St. Natalis, son of Ængusius, King of Conought. He was also Abbot of Inbernaile, in the county of Donegal, and of Kilnaille in Breffinia.—This abbey was a large and curious building, and the workmanship remarkably good: to the East of it stands a beautiful Round tower, 76 feet high, and 41 in circumference: the walls, which are three feet thick, are built of hewn stone, each stone about a foot square, within and without, and with scarcely any cement or mortar: the roof is in the form of a cone, and of the same materials, and finished with one large stone, shaped like a bell: with four windows (and the form of a man's face over each) near the top, and opposite to the cardinal points: the door is nine feet from the ground; the inside of the building is nearly as smooth as the barrel of a gun, and on the outside, at the base, a circle of stone projects five inches. The church, which is the most easterly building, was large and beautiful, with a noble carved window over the High Altar: next to this window, to the right, about ten feet from the ground, is the following Inscription, the letters and points of which are raised;

Matheus O'Dubagan hoc opus fecit Bartholomeo
O'Flannagan priori de Daminis. A. D. 1449.

Round this Inscription is a frame, somewhat raised, with another inscription on it, which is now illegible.—Next to the tower is a vaulted building of hewn stone, which ends in a point, and is called St. Molaise's House; near to this is his bed, in the shape of a stone coffin, in which he used to pray. The neighbouring inhabitants say, that pains in the back are relieved by lying in this bed.—There appears to have been many ancient inscriptions here, but they are all erased and destroyed by time.—In the interpolations of the Ulster Annals, at the year 1130, we read, that the monastery of Daminis was founded that year. The author must mean either the repairing of the ancient monastery of St. Laserian, or the founding of the Priory of the Colidei, or Secular Priests here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 259. et seq.

DIAMOR, v. DYMOR.

DINGENDONOVAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Stanestreet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; but having no church, resides at Cove, where he is Curate. Dingendonovan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. from Tallow.

DINGLE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: the Church has been in ruins above 20 years, but will shortly, it is hoped, be re-built: no Glebe House: no register of Glebe: The Rev. John Goodman, the Curate (in 1806), is resident, and discharges the duties, at a Salary of £30. per annum: but the Curate's Salary was formerly one third of the tythes, which would now produce about £100. per annum. Dingle is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 166 m. S. W. b. W.

from Dublin. It was incorporated by Queen Elizabeth, in 1585; and is governed by a Sovereign. It is situate on a safe Bay, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean; and is a town of some commerce. It has three Post-days in the week. This Impropriation belongs to Lord Ventry. According to Mr. Archdall, here was an ancient monastery, which was a Cell to the Abbey of Killagh, near Castlemain.

DINISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean.

DIRPATRICK, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. (a Lay Impropriation), being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltale. Dirpatrick is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. from Summerhill. There is no income from Dirpatrick. This parish contains 1099 acres of land. See, Kiltale.

DISERT, in the Barony of Antrim, Co of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling: The Church is in ruins. Disert is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. from Antrim.

DISERT, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Disert is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. W. b. W. from Listowell. See, Aghavallin.

DISERT, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Island. Disert is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. E. from Tralee. See, Castle Island.

DISERT, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Massey, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the Diocese of Cashel, where he serves a Curacy; and is not required to reside at Disert, because of the poverty of the parish, which is also small in extent: the duties are performed with perfect conveniency by the Rector of Croom, at a Salary of £2. per annum. Disert is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. W. b. N. from Croom.

DISERT, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tessaragh. Disert is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 10 m. W. b. N. from Athlone. See, Tessaragh.

DISERT CHEANDUBHOIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this was a Cell built by St. Abban, but is now unknown.

DISERT FULARTHAICH, in the Barony of ———, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" An Oratory was built here by St. Fularthaich, the son of Brec; he was made Bishop of Clonard, and died on the 29th of March, A. D. 774. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 594.

DISERT FULERTACH, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.—" Fulertach, the son of Brec, and Bishop of Clonard, who died in the year 774, built an Oratory in Hy Falgia (the Barony of Ophaly), which was called after him Disert Fulertach."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 315.

DISERTLYN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 170 a. 1 r. 0 p., Irish, lying together, close to the church: The Rev. Thomas Martin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, but being infirm, the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, with permission, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Disertlyn is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Moneymore, on the North.

DISERT NAIRBRE, v. BOLHEN DESART.

DISERT ODRAIN, in the Barony of ———, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" St. Odrain, who lived in the time of St. Patrick, and said by the Martyrologists to have been Charioteer to the Saint, was martyred here about the middle of the Fifth century. This place is probably the same with Tir-oenaich, where that Saint's Festival is celebrated."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 594.

DISERT-TOLA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Tola founded an Abbey here; but this place is now unknown.

DOAGH, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Ballyclare. This Grange is free from tythe. It is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

DOGGSTOWN, or, KILLENWY, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knockgraffon. Doggstown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Cashel. This parish contains 704 acres of land. See, Knockgraffon.

DOIREMACAIDMECAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Lasra erected this Abbey; but nothing more is known of it.

DOIREMELLE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the Banks of Lough Melve.—" A Nunnery was founded here by St. Tigernach for his mother St. Mella, who died before the year 787. He also erected for himself the Monastery of Killacidh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 408.

DOLLA, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Burros Ileagh.

DOLLARDSTOWN, v. BALLYNACLOGH.

DOLLARD'S-TOWN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. Here is Leinster Lodge, a Seat of His Grace The Duke of Leinster.

DOMHNACH-MOR, in the Barony of Knockniny, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—" In Magh-ene (a small territory to the North of the River Erne, having the Lough to the East, and the Ocean to the West; in which territory are the ruins of several churches :), St. Nennidhuis, or Nennius, was Abbot and Bishop of Domhnach-mor. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 261.

DOMNACHBRUIN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick, in the territory of Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 4.

DOMNACHCOINRE, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick, in Cathrigia, or, Machaire dna Morna, (a territory in Dalriedia). Colgan thinks it probable, that this was the church, now called Kildomnach. The two Saints Conann are Patrons of it. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHCOMBUIR, or, COMMOR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick. It seems to be a parish Church, in the Diocese of Connor, now called Magh-Combuir. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHDOLA, or, DOMNACHMOR, v. DONAGHMORE.

DOMNACHFOTHAIRBE, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was founded by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACH-GLINNE TOCHUIR, v. DONAGH.

DOMNACHLIBEIR, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHMAGHIN, in the Barony of Mourne, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Patrick founded this Church, in Mugdorna (the Barony of Mourne), and placed St. Victor over it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 113.

DOMNACHMOELAIN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHMOR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" In Magh-Damhorna, in Dalrieda. St. Patrick built a Church here. It is, as Father Colgan observes, either the chapel, called Kildomnach, or the parish church, called Rathmor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHMOR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Fulartus was bishop of this monastery in the Fifth century.

DOMNACHMORE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster."—The Festival of St. Erc of Domnachmore, in Maghlughat (a territory in this county), is celebrated on the 27th of October. This place is totally unknown." Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 40.

DOMNACHMORE, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey here, founded by St. Patrick.

DOMNACHRIASCAIGH, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was built by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 5.

DOMNACHRIGHDUIN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was founded by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

DOMNACHSAINRE, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" Was founded by St. Patrick, in Hy-tuirtre (a small territory on the Eastern bank of Lough Neagh). It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

DOMNACHSARIGE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Monastery here.

DONABATE, v. DONAGHBATE.

DONABROOK, or, DONNYBROOK, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Dublin: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Wogan, the Resident Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £60. per annum, and the small dues of every description, amounting to £25. per annum. Donabrook is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. b. E. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 26th of August, for Horses and Pedlars' wares. See, St. Peter's, Dublin, and Ringsend.

DONACOMPER, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Celbridge. Donacomper is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. W. b. S. from Leixlip. It is situate near the River Liffey. See, Celbridge.

DONADEA, v. DONEDA.

DONAGH, or, DOMNACH-GLINNE TOCHUIR, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, old, but in repair: a Glebe House; 162 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. Pitt Kennedy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Donagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 17 m. N. from Londonderry. It is situate near the Bay of Strabragy.—"St. Patrick founded this church, and made Mac Carthen, brother to the Saint of Clogher, Bishop of it. This is now a parish church in Inishowen, and remarkable for the great resort of Pilgrims on St. Patrick's day. There is still preserved here the Saint's penitential Bed, and many other ancient monuments of that kind; fit objects for the devotion of the pilgrims. The church is near to Eas-mac-eirc, a remarkable Cataract, which falls from a very high mountain, called Sliabh Snechta, or, The Mountain of Snow, into the Bay, called Traighe-brege."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 97.

DONAGH, in the Barony of Trough, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. John Leslie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Donagh is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. from Tynan.

DONAGHADEE, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in tolerable repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 14 acres, half a mile from the church: The Rev. Francis Hutcheson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Donaghadee is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 94 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of June, 4th of July, 16th of August, 10th of October, and the second Wednesday in December. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate 10 leagues South West from Port-Patrick, in Scotland, between which Ports, regular Packets are established for the conveyance of Mails and Passengers.

DONAGHBATE, in the Barony of Bulruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7..6..8 Irish Money, and Epis-copally united, from time immemorial, to the Curacy of Portrahon: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Donaghbate: a Glebe, of 2 a. 3 r. 7 p., adjoining the Church-yard, and on which a Glebe House is now building, by a Grant of £320. out of the late Loan granted by Parliament: The Rev. Abraham Stewart, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at the Hibernian School for Soldiers' Children, of which he is master: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Robert Maw, at a Salary of £60. per annum, together with the use of the glebe house and offices when finished, and the glebe land. Donaghbate is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. E. from Swords. It is situate near the Irish Sea. The parishes in the Union of Donaghbate are contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 2 miles, and from North to South, 1½ mile.

DONAGHEADY, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House; 1800 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. Andrew Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Donagheady is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 7 m. N. E. from Strabane.

DONAGHEAVY, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Fintona, on the North East.

DONAGHHENRY, v. DONOGHENRY.

DONAGHLONEY, v. DONOUGHCLONEY.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage: The R. and V. are each valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Alexander Kennedy, the Incumbent (in 1806) who has cure of souls, and resides in the City of Cork, in the parish of The Holy Trinity, of which he is Curate: the duties of this parish (which is exceedingly small) are discharged by the Curate of the adjoining parish, free of Salary. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. S. E. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon St. George's Channel.

DONAGHMORE, partly in the Barony of Muskerry, and partly in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 20 acres: The Rev. Thomas Kenny, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Fenn Godwin, who resides in the glebe house, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Donaghmore is partly in the Diocese of Cloyne, and partly in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 13 m. N. W. from Cork. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 21st of November. It gives title of Baron to the family of Hutchinson. The extent of this parish is 9 miles North and South, by 8 miles East and West.—" St. Fingene, a disciple of St. Finbarr, was Abbot of Domnach mor mitine, which, in after ages, became a parish church, and is now called Donaghmore."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 69.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20 sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House; 750 acres of Glebe near the church: The Rev. Michael Spence, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Castle Fin. It is situate upon the River Fin."—" Bescna, a Disciple of St. Patrick, and also his Brewer, was a Presbyter of this House. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 91.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on 36 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Brabazon Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. N. E. from Newry.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ratoath. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 10 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. This parish contains 1851 acres of land. See, Ratoath. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, over which he placed St. Justin.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £9..9..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Navan. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Navan. This parish contains 2170 acres of land. See, Navan.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, constituting with the Rectory of Kiltigan the corps of the Prebend of Donaghmore and Kiltigan, is valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: the Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, was united by Act of Council, on the 20th of March 1805, (at the same time with the Rectories of each), to the vicarage of Kiltigan: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 13 a. 3 r. 12 p., at Donaghmore, close to the site of the old church: The Rev. Richard Carey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Clonmell, where he is the public schoolmaster, and discharges the duties in person. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. b. W. from Fethard.—" St. Farannan was Abbot of Domnachmor. It is now a parish church." Archdall's Monast, Hibern. p. 654.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House: and a Glebe of 428 English acres, lying together, 17 acres of which are bog, and one mile from the church: The Rev. George Evans, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being old and infirm, the duties are discharged, with permission, by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. from Dungannon.—" St. Patrick founded the Abbey of Domnachmor, in Imchlair, now called Machclair, a plain near Dungannon, in which he placed St. Columb, who is honoured here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 682.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. N. N. W. from Dungannon. A village.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Decies——Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster.— " This Abbey is now unknown; but we are informed, that St. Erc, a disciple of St. Senan, was Bishop thereof."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 687.

DONAGHMORE, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate cure, Episcopally united, in 1759, to the Impropriate cures of Ardamine, Killancooly, and Killenagh: two Churches, in repair; one, at Donaghmore, and the other, at Ardamine: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Ulysses Jacob, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is non-resident, from want of accommodation. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the sum of Forty-six pounds only is allowed by the Impropriator for these four parishes, in which there are two churches, about three miles distant from each other: And, of course, the duty is very imperfectly discharged. Donaghmore is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. E. b. S. from Gorey. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. The parishes in the union of Donaghmore are contiguous.

DONAGHMOYNE, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, a quarter of a mile distant from the church: The Rev. William Stopford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Donaghmoyne is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. N. E. from Carrickmacross.

DONAGHNAGHTA, v. DONANAGHTA.

DONAGHPATRICK, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkilvery. Donaghpatrick is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. E. b. N. from Headford. See, Kilkilvery.

DONAGHY, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Dungannon. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of July, and 26th of August.

DONAGORE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, with Templenoe, being one of the parishes which constitute the union of Tipperary. Donagore is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. See, Templenoe, and Tipperary.

DONAMON, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oran. Donamon is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. W. b. S. from Roscommon. It is situate upon the River Suck. See, Oran.

DONAMONA, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, belonging to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in Killaloe. Donamona is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. See, Killaloe.

DONANAGHTA, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., Episcopally united, about the year 1760, to the R. and V. of Clontuskert: there are the ruins of a Parish Church in Eyrecourt, in the parish of Donanaghta, which has been roofless beyond the memory of man: Divine Service is performed in a church, built by the Eyre family, seemingly for private use: it is too small to accommodate the parishioners, is much out of repair, and un-entitled to Parochial cess: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 3 acres, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. Thomas Hackett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts, is resident, and discharges the duty in person. Donanaghta is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Eyrecourt, on the East. The parishes of Donanaghta, and Clontuskert, are separate about 12 miles; the former containing about 1100 acres, and the latter 5000 acres of land. See, Clonfert.

DONANY, v. DONENY.

DONARD, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Curacy of Crehelp, and the Chapel of Dumbay: a Church, in good order, at Donard: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Connolly, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Donard is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. N. N. E. from Baltinglass. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, and 12th of August. The extent of this parish is two miles from East to West, and from North to South two miles.—" St. Silvester, who came into Ireland with St. Palladius, about the year 430, and presided over the church of Domnacharda in the East of Leinster, was there interred and honoured; but his reliques were translated to the Monastery of St. Baithen. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 764.

DONBOY, v. DUMBAY.

DONEDA, or, DONADEA, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage: the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £1..3..0; and Episcopally united to the Vicarage of Balrahan: a Church, in Doneda, in a tottering state, but neat and clean: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. John Forsaythe, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, and is non-resident, being from ill health incapable of performing the duties; which are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. George Woodward, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Doneda is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. W. from Maynooth. Here is the family vault of the ancient family of Aylmer. This parish contains 740 acres of land. The parishes of Doneda, and Balrahan, are about 3 miles distant from each other.

DONEGAL, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Abraham Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who resides in the adjoining parish, has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Donegal is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 111 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th and 29th of May, 9th of July, 4th of September, 28th of October, and 28th of November. It is situate upon the River Eask, at the extremity of an extensive Bay, to which it gives name. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is a fine old castle.—"A Monastery for Franciscan Friars of the strict observance was founded here, in the year 1474, by Odo Roe, son of Nial Garbh O'Donnell, prince of Tyrconnell; and by his wife Fionguala, (Penelope) daughter of Connor na srona O'Brien, prince of Thomond. Odo, the founder, died July the 28th, 1505.—There was in this house a well chosen Library.—At a small distance from the town, the remains of this monastery may yet be seen. The cloister consists of small arches, supported by couplets of pillars on a basement; in one part are two narrow passages, one over the other, about four feet wide, ten long, and seven high; they seem to have been places for depositing valuable effects in times of danger; the upper one is covered with stones laid along on the beams of stone that cross it, and the lower one with stones laid across on the walls; each of them are exactly after the Egyptian manner of building; and in a building over it are plain marks of a regular Roman pediment, although some other building had been erected against it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 97.

DONEGOR, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1775, to the V. of Kilbride: no Church, but one is about to be re-built in Donegor: no Glebe, or Glebe House: the income of both the Benefices is but £60. per annum: The Rev. Bernard Lyndon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Donegor is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. E. N. E. from Antrim. This parish, which is contiguous to the parish of Kilbride, contains 3863 acres of land. It is one of the parishes, which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor. See, Billy.

DONEIRY, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..17..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the R. and V. of Tynagh. Doneiry is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. W. N. W. from Portumna. See, Tynagh.

DONENY, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £4..7..8. Irish Money, constitutes part of the Preceptory of Tully; and the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackagh. Doneny is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. b. S. from Kildare. This parish contains 1220 acres of land, by estimation. See, Lackagh, and Tully.

DONERAILE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Roan: a Church, in repair, at Doneraile: no Glebe House, or Glebe; the Curacy is only £13..6..8, paid by the Impropriator: the duties are discharged by The Rev. John B. Creagh, curate to The Rev. William Dwyer (in 1806), at a Salary of £50. Doneraile is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 113 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of August, and 12th of November. It is situate on the River Awbeg, over which there is a good Bridge here. It gives title of Viscount to the family of St. Ledger. Near this town are several quarries of variegated marble. It has six Post-days in the week.

DONHILL, or, DON ISLE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £7..6..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, on the 30th of June 1774, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the Vicarages of Gilcagh, and Newcastle: no Church: a Glebe, of 6 a. 0 r. 5 p., and a thatched cabin, at Newcastle, near the site of the old Church: The Rev. John Roberts, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in the Diocese of Waterford: the Duties are performed by the Curate of the neighbouring parish of Mothil, at a Salary of £4. per annum. Donhill is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Kilmacthomas. The parishes in the Union of Donhill are nearly contiguous, there being but one small parish between them. See, Monks Land.

DONKEEHAN, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on Broad Haven, on the Western Ocean.

DONMANOGUE, v. MONMOHEMOCK.

DONNYBROOK, v. DONABROOK.

DONNYGARNEY, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1 m. E. from Colpe.—"Here are some ruins of a religious erection, which, according to oral information, was once a Nunnery; at the suppression, it was granted to the family of Draycot, the sole heiress of which respectable house afterwards married a Mr. Talbot."——Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 529.

DONOGHENRY, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe, in the parish; but there are 180 Scotch acres belonging to it, in the parish of Arboe, four miles distant from the church, and also 80 acres in Dysertcreagh, about the same distance from the church, and about eight miles distant from each other: The Rev. Samuel Blacker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Donoghenry is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Stewart's Town, on the North.

DONOGHMORE, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Lewis, A.M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Limerick, where he serves an important Curacy, and performs the duties of Donoghmore in person. Donoghmore is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Limerick. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DONOGH PATRICK, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7..16..0 Irish Money, and united, by Act of Council, on the 29th of December, 1801, to the R. of Kilberry: a Church, newly built, in the parish of Donogh Patrick, and in complete repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6a. 1 r. 37 p., in Kilberry, round the ruins of the old church, and upwards of two miles from the new church at Donogh Patrick: near this church is a glebe of about the sixth part of an acre; and, as a promise has been made of an additional glebe contiguous to it, it is proposed to build the Glebe House thereon: The Rev. George O'Connor, the Incumbent (in 1806); the duties are discharged by his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Donogh Patrick is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Navan. The parishes in the Union of Donogh Patrick are contiguous; that of Donogh Patrick containing 1943 acres of land.—"This ancient town, now reduced and depopulated, was pleasantly situated on the River Blackwater. Our Tutelary Saint founded an Abbey here, to which Conal Mac Neill, brother to King Leogair, was a great Benefactor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 529.

DONOHILL, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Cashel. Donohill is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. N. from Tipperary. This parish contains 3539 acres of land. See, Templeneiry.

DONOMAGAN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Donomagan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Knocktopher.

DONORE, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being a Lay Impropriation; no Church: no Glebe, or House: no Curate's Salary allowed. Donore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. W. S. W. from Drogheda. It is situate on the River Boyne. The Fair is holden on the 29th of June.

DONOUGH, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 6 m. W. b. N. from Clones.

DONOUGHCLONEY, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., holden with the Archdeaconry of Dromore, and valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Stewart Blacker, the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and constantly resides in an adjoining parish, of which the Rectorial Tythes are attached to his Archdeaconry; he occasionally discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Donoughcloney is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Lurgan. The site of the parish church was changed, in 1681, to Waringstown.

DONOUGHMORE, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Odogh. Donoughmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Ballynakill. It is situate upon the River Nore. See, Odogh.

DONOUGHMORE, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and about 193 acres of contiguous Glebe Land, within a quarter of a mile of the church: The Rev. Thomas de Lacy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and resides at the Archdeaconry of Meath: the duties are discharged by a Curate, who resides about a mile and a half from the church, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Donoughmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. N. b. W. from Rathdowny. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 12th and 13th of June, 31st of August, and 12th of December. This parish is about a mile and an half in length, and three quarters of a mile in breadth.

DONOUGHMORE, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Prebend of Donoughmore in Omaile, in two portions, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, annexed, each portion being valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 21½ acres of Glebe, about three quarters of a mile from the church: Edward Ryan, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, and is resident during part of each year: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Joseph Tennison, at a Salary of £100. per annum, together with the glebe house, and glebe. Donoughmore is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. E. b. N. from Baltinglass. It is situate near the River Slaney.

DONURLING, v. DUNURLIN.

DONYMANAGH, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 6 m. N. E. b. E. from Strabane. A village.

DOOLOCK'S, ST., in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Theophilus Blakely, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. St. Doolock's is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. N. E. from Dublin. The church is remarkable for its style of architecture. It has been long noted for a Well, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, adjoining to which is a small place, called St. Catherine's Pond. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an ancient abbey here.

DOON, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. Richard Chadwick, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Doon is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. N. N. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 4500 acres of land.

DOONAS, v. KILTENANLEA.

DORRHA, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and constituting part of the Union of Aghlishcloghane. Dorrha is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. W. S. W. from Banagher. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Aghlishcloghane.

DOUBFEITH, v. DOVEA.

DOUGLAS, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Cork. A village, situate on the western branch of Cork Harbour; and where is a manufacture of Sail-cloth.

DOUGLAS, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Newtown Stewart. It is situate upon the River Morne.

DOVEA, or, DOUBFEITH, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Cashel. Dovea is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. S. W. from Templemore. See, Clogher, and Inchyanly.

DOWDSTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Skryne. Dowdstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. S. b. E. from Navan. It is situate upon the River Boyne. This parish contains 642 acres of land. See, Skryne.

DOWN, v. DOWNPATRICK.

DOWN, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. N. from Enniscorthy. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here for Regular Canons, before the arrival of the English in this Kingdom. It was granted, with its possessions, on the 24th of March, 1637, to Lord Baltimore.

DOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. from Newtown Mount Kennedy.

DOWNINGS, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage: the Rectory being holden with the Vicarage of Kilcock: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £9. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carogh. Downings is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 8½ m. S. W. b. S. from Kilcock. This parish contains 1102 acres of land. See, Kilcock, and Carogh.

DOWNMAHON, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fermoy. Downmahon is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Fermoy.

DOWNONY, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Downony is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Taghmon. See, Horetown.

DOWNPATRICK, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Bally, Ballyculter, Bright, Saul, and Tyrela; constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Down, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: The Cathedral; which was lately begun to be re-built by subscription, and is not yet completed; and the subscriptions being expended, the finishing of this building will necessarily be retarded, till an adequate fund be procured: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one acre, near Downpatrick: The Hon. and Rev. William Annesley, LL. D., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the parish of Bright, near the centre of the Union: these parishes are all contiguous to each other, and have each a good Church, wherein Divine Service is performed by the Dean, and his Curates (with a Salary to each of £75. per annum); except the small parish of Tyrela, wherein there has not been a church, for time immemorial: but the parishes of Bright, and Rathmullin, are near and convenient to the few parishioners of the Established Church, who reside in it. Downpatrick is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 74 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 22d of June, and 29th of October. This town sends one Member to Parliament; the Election being by Potwallopers. It has six Post-days in the week. This parish contains 6251 acres of land. It is situate on the South West branch of Strangford Lough. The Right Rev. Nathaniel Alexander, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1809. The Bishopricks of Down, and Connor, according to Dr. Beaufort, were both founded in the Fifth century, and united in the year 1454. The greatest length of Down is 41 miles from North East to South West, and the greatest breadth 22 miles. The extent of the United Sees, from the North of Antrim to the Southernmost point of Down, is seventy miles. The Chapter of the See of Down (regulated by Patent of James I.) consists of a Dean, Precentor (see, Loughin Island), Chancellor (see, Ballyphilip), Archdeacon (see, Hillsborough), and two Prebendaries. The same exemption is claimed, by the Needham family, for their Lordship of Mourne in this Diocese, as for that of Newry in Dromore; but the claim has always been resisted by the Bishops of Down. The Bishoprick of Down is valued in the King's Books at £25. sterling. There is no Episcopal Palace in this Diocese.—" St. Patrick founded the Abbey of Canons Regular here, and was interred therein, A. D. 493; although some writers give that honour to the Abbey of Glastonbury, in Somersetshire. A. D. 1185, the bodies of St. Patrick, St. Columb, and St. Brigid, were discovered in this abbey, with the following Epitaph written over them,

" Hi tres in Duno tumulo tumulantur in uno, Brigida, Patricius, atque Columba pius."

The Prior of this house sat as a Baron in Parliament. The priory stands near the town, on the ascent of a hill, and is yet venerable, though in ruins: the roof was supported by five handsome arches, which composed a centre aisle of twenty-six feet in breadth, two lateral ones of thirteen feet each, and the whole structure is one hundred feet long. The heads of the pillars and arches, the tops of the windows, and many niches in the walls, were adorned with variety of Sculptures, some parts of which yet remain. At the East end is a very lofty and magnificent window, and over it are three handsome niches, in which niches the pedestals, whereon stood the Saints Patrick, Columb, and Brigid, still remain. Adjoining the East end of the church are two square columns, in one of which was a winding staircase, leading to the roof. At the West end is a very high pillar, (lately taken down, in order to enlarge the West end of the Cathedral, and under the foundations of which, the vestiges of a more ancient Church were discovered): Several cells have been discovered behind the abbey, one of which was floored with a Mosaic Work, but in a coarse and inelegant manner.—The Priory of Regular Canons was called, The Priory of the Irish, and was founded in honour of St. Thomas, in the year 1138, by Malachy O'Morgair, Bishop of Down, who died A. D. 1148.—The Priory of St. John the Baptist in this town, called, The Priory of the English, was founded by Sir John de Courcey, in the 12th century, for Crossbearers, following the Rule of St. Augustine.—The Abbey of Cistertian Monks was founded in the 12th century by ——— Bagnal, but we have not learned any account of it.—An Abbey of Cistertian Nuns is said to have been in this town. —The Franciscan Friary, which was founded about the year 1240, by Hugh de Lacie, Earl of Ulster, is said, by other writers, to owe its foundation to Africa, daughter of Godred, King of Man, and wife to Sir John de Courcey; it passed to the Friars of the Strict Observance, in the time of Thomas Mac Cominde, warden, and Patrick Keavinyn, minister provincialis; and a Provincial Chapter of the Order was holden here in the year 1313.—The Hospital of Lepers was dedicated to St. Nicholas, and, with the Hospital of St. Peter, at Kilclief, was, on the 20th of April, 1413, granted in custodium to John Young, John Molyn, and Walter Celey, with all their lands, tenements, and appurtenances, being then in the King's hands for certain causes; to hold the same as long as they should continue in His Majesty's possession."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 113. et seq.

DOWRIE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ogashin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Quin. Dowrie is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. E. from Ennis. See, Ogashin, and Quin.

DOWTH, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..2..6 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Duleek. Dowth is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Slane. It is situate upon the River Boyne. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Netterville; and here is His Lordship's handsome Seat, which commands an extensive view of a beautiful and well cultivated country. Near this are many Druidical remains. This parish contains 800 acres of land. See, Duleek.

DRAKESTOWN, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10..10..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council (the date of which cannot be ascertained; but in the Act of Parliament, of the 9° Queen Anne, power was given to remove the site of the church, from Drakestown, which is stated in the Act to have been made the parish church, by the original Act of Union, to Kilpatrick), to the Vicarages of Kilpatrick, and Knough: a Church, in Kilpatrick, in decent repair: a Glebe House, in Kilpatrick, with every necessary Office: in Drakestown, two portions of Glebe, making together 5a. 0r. 14p., about one mile from the church: in Knough, 3a. 2r. 30p., about the same distance from the church; and, in Kilpatrick, 36a. 0r. 23p.: The Rev. Samuel Close, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in Armagh: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, with the house, garden, and offices. Drakestown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. S. b. W. from Nobber. The parishes in the Union of Drakestown are contiguous; that of Drakestown containing 1380 acres.

DRANGAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. Drangan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Fethard. This parish contains 2751 acres of land. See, Killenaule.

DREHIDTARSNY, or, DROGHETARSNEY, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Prebend of St. Munchin. Drehidtarsny is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Croom. See, St. Munchin's, Limerick.

DRINAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fanlobbus. Drinagh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 14 m. S. W. from Bandonbridge. The Rectory of Drinagh, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, belongs to the Vicars Choral of the Cathedral of Cork. See, Fanlobbus.

DRINAGH, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford.

Drinagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. b. E. from Wexford. It is situate on Wexford Haven. See, Wexford.

DRISHANE, partly in the Barony of Muskerry, and partly in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Cullen, Drumtariffe, Killmeen, and Nohoval Daly: a Church, in Drishane, in good repair: a Glebe House, in Drishane, and a Glebe, of 18a. 3r. 10p., a mile and an half from the church: The Rev. William Maunsell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate. Drishane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Millstreet, on the North East. The parishes in the Union of Drishane are contiguous, and embrace a very mountainous region. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DROGHEDA, within the County of the Town of Drogheda, (locally situate, partly in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of Louth, and partly in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of Meath,) and Province of Leinster: in which are the following Parishes, viz.,

St. Peter's, a V.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, in the church yard, with a few perches of Glebe in the garden: The Rev. Ward. Ball, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh: and is situate on the North side of the River Boyne, in the county of Louth.

St. Mary's, a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money: a new Church, building, and nearly finished: no Glebe, or House: The Rev. Charles Crawford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh: and is situate on the South side of the River Boyne, in the county of Meath.

It is 23½ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 22d of June, 26th of August, and 29th of October. This town sends one Member to Parliament; who is elected by Freemen and Freeholders. It is governed by a Mayor, Recorder, two Sheriffs, a Town Clerk, Mayor of the Staple, two Justices of the Peace, two Coroners, and a Law Agent. It gives title of Marquess, Earl, and Viscount, to the family of Moore. It is situate on the River Boyne, five miles West of the Irish Sea, and has a good Harbour. It has six Post-days in the week. It is encompassed with an high wall, and four gates.—" We are told that a Priory for Canons Regular, following the rule of St. Augustin, was founded here, but are totally in the dark as to the period of its erection.—St. Mary's Hospital, situate without the West gate of the city, was founded by Ursus de Swemele: At the suppression of monasteries, this house and its possessions were granted to the Mayor of Drogheda.—St. Laurence's Priory, situate near the gate of that name, and said to owe its foundation to the Mayor and Citizens of Drogheda, was likewise, on the suppression, granted to them.—A Dominican Friary was founded, under the invocation of St. Mary Magdalene, in the North part of the town, by Lucas de Netterville, Archbishop of Armagh; who began the erection, A. D. 1224. —A Gray Friary is said to have been founded in the year 1240, near the North side of the river Boyne; but Friar Wadding places its foundation thirty years later. —An Augustinian Friary was founded here in the reign of King Edward the First: at the suppression, it was granted to the Mayor, and Citizens, of Drogheda.— Mention is also made of the houses of St. James, and St. Bennet here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 452. et seq.——"In this city, on the Meath side of the river, we find the Priory and Hospital of St. John, of the Order of Crossbearers; to which Walter de Lacie (if not the founder), was at least a principal benefactor, in the reign of King John. This priory, or hospital, belonged to the grand Priory of Kilmainham, near Dublin.—The Carmelite Friary is also situated on the Meath side of the river, and was founded by the inhabitants of Drogheda, for Carmelites or White Friars, to the honour of the Blessed Virgin. Part of this friary was afterwards repaired for the service of the parish."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 530.

DROM, or, DROMSPERANE, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Cashel. Drom is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Templemore. This parish is supposed to contain about 1000 acres. See, Burrosleigh.

DROMACCOO, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Dromaccoo is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8¾ m. N.N.W. from Gort. It is situate upon Galway Bay. See, Kilcolgan.

DROMAGH, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 6¼ m. N. E. from Millstreet. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, August, and November. Here is an extensive vein of fine Coal. The Castle here was built by the O'Keifs, and was their chief Seat.

DROMAHAIRE, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught. It is 98 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, first Tuesday O. S., in June, 21st of July, and 31st of October. It has six Post-days in the week.

DROMANAGH, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 2¾ m. S. S. W. from Newmarket. Here are extensive Coal-pits.

DROMARAGH, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a V. and P.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Francis Burrowes, the Incumbent (in 1806), and is not resident, by permission; has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from Dromore, where he keeps the Diocesan School. Dromaragh is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. E. from Dromore. It is situate on the River Lagan. Here is a good Slate Quarry. See, Shankhill.

DROMARD, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; and 11 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. John Benton, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dromard is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. W. b. S. from Sligo. It is situate on Ardnaglas Harbour.

DROMBANE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Emly. Drombane is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. See, Ballyscadane.

DROMCLIFFE, or, OGORMOCK, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, united by authority of the Diocesan, on the 7th of November 1803, to the Rectories of Kilmaly, and Kilnemona, is valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling; the Glebes belong to the Vicar: The Rev. Dean Joseph Palmer, A. M., the Rector (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is not resident; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, was Episcopally united, on the 20th of August 1802, to the Vicarages of Kilmaly, Kilnemona, Kilraghtis, and Templemaly: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Dromcliffe: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, in the parish of Dromcliffe, one mile from the church; another, of 0 a. 3 r. 14 p., in the parish of Kilnemona, convenient to the site of the old church: and a third, of 0 a. 3 r. 28 p., in the parish of Templemaly, convenient to the site of the old church: The Rev. Robert Weldon, A. B., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Dromcliffe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. N. b. W. from Ennis. The parishes in the Union of Dromcliffe are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 4 miles, and from East to West 8 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DROMCREHY, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R., which, with the Rectory of Glaninagh, belong to the Treasurership of Kilfenora, as the Corps thereof; and with which are holden, Episcopally united, on the 23d of November 1795, the Vicarages of Dromcrehy, and Glaninagh, and the Rectories and Vicarages of Killonoghan, and Rathbourney: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Rathbourney: no Glebe House: no return of Glebe Land: The Rev. Thomas Robinson, A. B., the Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, by permission, near Mullingar: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Oliver Grace, A. B. Dromcrehy is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 11½ m. N. W. b. W. from Gort. It is situate upon Ballyvaghan Bay. The parishes in the Union of Dromcrehy are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 5 miles, and, from East to West, 7 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DROMCULLIHER, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. W. b. S. from Charleville.

DROMDALEAGUE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and united, by authority of the Diocesan, on the 2d of December 1788, to the R. and V. of Cahiragh; and with which is holden, by Faculty, the R. and V. of Ringrone: a Church, in Dromdaleague, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Richard Webb, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Kinsale, and discharges the duties of Ringrone: the duties of Dromdaleague are performed by a Resident Curate, at an annual Salary of £50. Dromdaleague is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. E. from Bantry. The parishes of Dromdaleague, and Cahiragh, are contiguous; their estimated extent being 5 miles from East to West, and 7 miles from North to South: They are distant about 20 miles from Ringrone. It is situate upon the River Ilen.

DROMDEELY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £0..7..6 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry Bevan, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Killpeacon, where he is Curate; is not required to reside, because of the poverty of the parish (being only £20. per annum), and the smallness of the duty; which is performed by the Incumbent of the adjacent parish of Askeaton, at a Salary of £1..10..0 per annum. Dromdeely is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. W. from Rathkeale. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Nantinan.

DROMHANEE, v. DRUMHOME.

DROMIN, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, as far back as any Record of the Diocese reaches, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Athlacca: a Church, in indifferent repair, at Athlacca: a Glebe House, ordered to be built at Athlacca: a Glebe, of 12 a. 3 r. 5 p., close to the church; and another, of 21 a. 1 r. 30 p., close to the site of the old church, at Dromin: The Rev. Richard Croker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and is resident on his other Benefice at Croom, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dromin is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. from Bruff. It is situate on the River Maig. The parishes in the Union of Dromin are contiguous, and contain 5000 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DROMINEER, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Killaloe. Dromineer is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Nenagh. It is situate on the River Shannon. See, Kilkeary.

DROMISKIN, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £11..9..2 sterling, and Episcopally united for fifty years to, and ought not to be separated from, the Rectory of Derver: a Church, in good order, in Dromiskin: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 acres, lying together, near the church: The Rev. James Pratt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dromiskin is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. from Castle Bellingham. It is situate on Dundalk Bay. Here are the remains of one of the ancient Round towers. This parish contains 2940 acres, and is contiguous to that of Derver.

DROMKEEN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the entire Rectory of Kilcornan, and the Prebend and Vicarage of Ballynaclogh; being the corps of the Archdeaconry of Emly, which is valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: five Glebes; one, of 231 a. 0 r. 20 p., at Kilcornan; another, of 3 a. 0 r. 6 p., at Dromkeen; the third, and fourth, at Ballynaclogh, one of them being 4 a. 2 r. 0 p., and the other, 0 a. 2 r. 2 p.; and the fifth, of 0 a. 1 r. 5 p., at Emly: The Rev. Garrett Wall, the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish of Grean, which is surrounded by these parishes, and which he holds by Faculty; and performs the duties in person. Dromkeen is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. N. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 740 acres of land.

DROMLEAS, v. DRUMLEASE.

DROMLINE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery: the Vicarage being the Corps of the Treasurership of Killaloe, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling; and with which are holden, united by Act of Council, on the 14th of December 1802, the Vicarages of Kilmaleere, and Kilnasoologh: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kilnasoologh: no Glebe House: two Glebes, both in the parish of Kilnasoologh, one of 1 a. 0 r. 38½ p., near the church-yard; and the other, of 12 acres, about half a quarter of a mile distant from the former glebe: The Rev. John Palmer, A. M., the Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Dromline is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. b. S. from Six Mile Bridge. The parishes in the Union of Dromline are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 4 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is too small to afford the means of comfort to the Incumbent, who receives £30. per annum from the First Fruits. See, Traddery.

DROMMOTE, in the Barony of Mohill, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. N. W. from Longford. A village, situate on the River Shannon.

DROMOD, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the entire Rectory of Prior, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Valentia: a Church, in Valentia, in indifferent repair: no Glebe House, but one is immediately to be built at Valentia, the Glebe of which is 35 a. 2 r. 25 p., close to the church: The Rev. Maynard Denny, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and resides on his other Benefice, which he holds by Faculty: the duties in Valentia are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £65. per annum; and, in Dromod and Prior, by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Cahir, at an annual Salary of £15. The parishes in this Union are in the patronage of the Crown, and have been holden together, as far back as any existing record: the parishes in the Union of Cahir have but lately been separated from them. Dromod is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 23 m. W. b. S. from Kenmare. It is situate on the River Inny, at the extremity of Ballinaskeligs Bay. The parishes of Dromod, and Prior, are contiguous: Valentia is an Island in the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DROMORE, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Ennis. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of June, and 26th of September.

DROMORE, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., with the Treasurership of Dromore, valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev.

Henry Maxwell, the Treasurer (in 1806), who being of a very advanced age, and exceedingly infirm, is absent with the Bishop's full permission: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, with other emoluments; the whole being rated at £100. per annum. Dromore is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 66 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 28th of July, and 10th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a mineral spring. It is situate upon the River Lagan. The Right Rev. Thomas Percy, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1809. The Deanery of Dromore, which is in the gift of the Crown, is valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: it is a Sine Cure, there being no Cathedral establishment, or Choir; and no Deanery House, or Land: The Rev. Raphael Walsh, the Dean (in 1806), who is absent with the Bishop's entire approbation. According to the Diocesan Report, it appears, that the number of Roman Catholicks in this Diocese bear so small a proportion to that of the Protestants, that, in several parishes, the latter are more than ten to one. In one of these parishes, it was found, on an enumeration, that amidst more than 3000 families, there was but one of Roman Catholicks. The Foundation of this Diocese (valued in the King's Books at £50. sterling) is ascribed, according to Dr. Beaufort, to St. Colman in the Sixth century. It is extremely compact, and the smallest in extent of any Bishoprick in the kingdom, which is not annexed to another See; extending only 28 miles from North to South, and 17 miles from East to West. Yet it comprehends some part of three Counties. The Chapter of this Diocese, which was new modeled and established, with some peculiar privileges, by patent of James I., is composed of a Dean, Precentor (see, Magheralin), Chancellor (see, Clonallen), Treasurer, Archdeacon (see, Donoughcloney), and one Prebendary. The Lordship of Newry claims the same exemption from Episcopal jurisdiction, to which it was entitled when it appertained to a monastery, before the Reformation. And the Proprietor of the Lordship (Mr. Needham) exercises the jurisdiction in his peculiar court, granting marriage licenses, probates to wills, &c., under the old monkish seal. The Cathedral of Dromore is very small; but the Bishops house which was erected a few years ago by Dr. Beresford, is a handsome and convenient residence, near the town; And not 20 miles distant from any part of the Diocese.—" It takes its name from its situation, being built on the side of an Hill, and owes its origin to St. Colman.—An Abbey of Regular Canons was founded here by the same Saint, called also Mocholmoc, he was a disciple of Mac Nissy, Bishop of Connor, who died A. D. 513; St. Colman's Festival is observed on the 7th of June.—From Dr. Bourke we learn, that a monastery was founded here for Friars of the order of St. Francis; but no other account has transpired."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 118.

DROMORE, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, under repair: no Glebe House; 388 acres of Glebe, part being near the church: The Rev. Viscount Lifford, LL. D., Dean of Armagh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dromore is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. S. W. from Omagh.

DROMORE, WEST, in the Barony of ———, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 97 m. N. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday in January, and 6th of June.

DROMSPERANE, v. DROM.

DROMYN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9..14..10 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Collon. Dromyn is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. W. from Dunleer. This parish contains 1162 acres of land. See, Collon.

DRONMOYRE, v. TEMPLE BODANE.

DRUIM CHAOIN CHELLAIGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Abban, who died A. D. 650.

DRUIMCHEO, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, a Nunnery was erected here by St. Patrick for St. Lupita his sister.

DRUIMCHORCOTHRI, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, this Monastery, which is now unknown, was founded by St. Patrick, who placed over it St. Diermit the Bishop.

DRUIM-EDERDALOCH, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, a Religious House was anciently founded here by St. Finian.

DRUIMFERTAIN, or FERDHAIM, in the Barony of ——, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Carthag.

DRUIMFINCHOIL, in the Barony of ——, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey, which is now unknown, was founded by St. Columb and St. Lugad.

DRUIMFIOINN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Finian was Abbot here; and his festival is observed on the 10th of October.

DRUIMINDEICH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"In Dalrieda; This Abbey owed its erection to St. Patrick, about the year 460. He placed St. Enan over it. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

DRUIMLIAS, in the Barony of ——, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Patrick.

DRUIMMACUBLA, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Sedna was Abbot of this monastery in the year 458, and whose festival is observed on the 9th of March: no other trace of this abbey can now be found.

DRUIMNEA, in the Barony of Coolavin, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Patrick.

DRUIN LA CROIX, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"In the Diocese of Connor: An Abbey was founded here, for Premonstrant or White Canons. It was a Daughter of the Abbey of Drieburgh, in Scotland: See, Goodborn."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

DRUM, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. W. from Cootehill. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, 20th of June, 19th of September, and the first Monday in November.

DRUM, or, EDARDRUIM, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the R. of Moore. Drum is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. from Athlone. See, Moore.—"An Abbey was founded here by St. Diradius, or Deoradius, brother to St. Canoc, who flourished A. D. 492. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 609.

DRUMACHOSE, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, repairing: no Glebe House; 84 acres of Glebe, three miles from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Charles Knox, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumachose is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Newtown Limavady, on the North. It is situate on the River Roe.

DRUMACROE, v. DROMACCOO.

DRUMALL, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..4..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Charles Henry Crookshank, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Drumall is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. W. N. W. from Antrim. It is situate upon the River Maine.

DRUMANA, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Aglish. It is 7½ m. N. W. from Dungarvan. Here is a magnificent Mansion of the Earl of Grandison. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of June, and the 4th and 19th of September.

DRUMBALLYRONEY, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a V., united, time immemorial, to the R. and V. of Drumgooland, to which it is contiguous: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe, of 20 acres, at a distance from the church; no Glebe House: the Income is under £100. per annum: The Rev. Thomas Tighe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Drumballyroney is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. b. E. from Rathfriland.

DRUMBANAGHER, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Newry. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

DRUMBEG, partly in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of Antrim, and partly in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Archdeacon Dickson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls: the Duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Drumbeg is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. N. E. from Lisburn. It is situate on the River Lagan. The parishes of Drumbeg, and Drumboe, which are contiguous, contain together 6000 acres of land. See, Hillsborough.

DRUMBOE, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Drumboe is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Lisburn. The parishes of Drumboe, and Drumbeg, which are contiguous, contain together 6000 acres of land. It is situate on the River Lagan. See, Hillsborough.—" St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, of which St. Mochumma was Abbot about the beginning of the 7th century. This abbey was plundered by Connor, the son of Artgal Mac Lochlin. In after ages it became a parish church, in the Diocese of Down. The few remains show, it was 45 feet in length, and 20 in breadth. At the distance of 24 feet to the North West stands an ancient Round tower, about 35 feet in height, 47 in circumference, and 9 in diameter in the clear; the entrance is on the East side, six feet from the ground. It is generally supposed, that there was a small fortified town here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 119.

DRUMCANNON, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, last Episcopally united, on the 25th of August 1798, to the Vicarages of Ballygunner, Ballynakill, Kilmacleague, and Kilmacomb: no Church in such repair as to have Divine Service performed in it; but a new one is building, at Tramore, in the parish of Drumcannon: a Glebe House building, on a Glebe of 10¼ acres, which has lately been purchased, about a mile from the church, in the parish of Drumcannon: there is a Glebe also, in the parish of Ballygunner, now in dispute; the bounds and extent of which are not known, but steps are taken to recover it: The Rev. John Cooke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Drumcannon is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. from Waterford. The Fair is holden on the 25th of September. It is situate near the Sea Coast. The parishes in the Union of Drumcannon are contiguous; the estimated extent of that of Drumcannon being about 6000 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory entire of Drumcannon ought to be united Perpetually to the Vicarage of Kilmacleague.

DRUMCAR, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..16..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleer. Drumcar is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. b. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 2168 acres of land. See, Dunleer. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an Abbey here, in 811, which is now a parish church.

DRUMCLIFF, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £13. sterling: a Church, built in 1796: a Glebe House, and 40 acres of Glebe: The Rev. Richard Wynne, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Edward B. Ayre. Drumcliff is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¼ m. N. N. W. from Sligo. It is situate upon the Sea Coast. This parish is about 20 miles square, bog and mountains included. See, Killion.—"Now a desolated village, although in former times it was a town of some note, and an Episcopal See, which has been since united to that of Elphin. In the year 590, St. Columba founded a celebrated Monastery at Druimchliabh, and appointed his disciple, named St. Thorian, or Mothorian, to be the first Abbot. This monastery is now so demolished, that little in the descriptive way can be said. The parish church is built on part of the old foundation."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 631.

DRUMCOLLUM, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Drumcollum is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 10 m. N. b. W. from Boyle. See, Taunagh.—"This church owed its origin to St. Columb, and St. Finbar was Abbot of it. It is now a parish church, and the original founder is the patron."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 632.

DRUMCONDRA, or, DRUMCONRATH, otherwise CLONDTURK, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Jacob Cramer, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, resides very convenient to the church, and discharges the duties in person. Drumcondra is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Dublin. Here is an Union School, founded by the late George Purdon Drew, Esq., for 15 Boys and 15 Girls, of different religious principles.

DRUMCONDRA, or, DRUMCONRAGH, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £21..15..11 Irish Money: a Church, with the exception of the chancel, in complete repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 2a. 0r. 26p., close to the church: and also a Glebe, of 7¼ acres, within less than a mile of the Church: The Hon. and Rev. Ham. Cuffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, with permission, in his own house in the parish of Kells; the duties are discharged frequently by the Incumbent, and constantly by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Drumcondra is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. N. E. from Nobber.

DRUMCONRAGH, v. DRUMCONDRA.

DRUMCREE, v. KILCUMNEY.

DRUMCREE, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 46 English acres contiguous, and near to the church: The Rev. Stewart Blacker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within one mile of the parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumcree is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is ¼ m. N. from Portadown. It is situate on the River Bann.

DRUMCUILIN, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near Rathenin. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Barindeus was Abbot here, A. D. 590.

DRUMCULLIN, in the Barony of Eglish or Fircall, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Drumcullin is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. W. b. S. from Balliboy. See, Eglish, and Fircall. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Barrindeus, about the year 590, was Abbot here.

DRUMDA, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 3½ m. N. from Boyle. It is situate upon Lough Arrow.

DRUMDELIG, v. CANICE. ST.

DRUMDOWNEY, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyclough. Drumdowney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. W. from Mallow. It is situate upon the River Allow. See, Ballyclough. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DRUMENAGH, v. INNIS MAC SAINT.

DRUMFRY, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. E. b. S. from Leighlin-Bridge.

DRUMGATH, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; but the Incumbent has memorialed the Board of First Fruits for £400. to build a house: a Glebe, of 115 acres, three miles from the church: The Rev. Henry Boyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Drumgath is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Rathfriland, on the South.

DRUMGLASS, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, in excellent order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 405 English acres, 56 of them contiguous, a quarter of a mile from the church; the remainder in the parish of Donaghmore, eight miles from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Edmund Knox, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumglass is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Dungannon, on the North. Here are extensive Collieries.

DRUMGOOLAND, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and united, time immemorial, to the V. of Drumballyroney, to which it is contiguous: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Tighe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Drumgooland is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Rathfriland. See, Drumballyroney.

DRUMGOON, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: a Church in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent, having obtained a grant from the Board of First Fruits, is preparing to build: 343 acres of glebe contiguous: The Rev. Edward Lucas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Drumgoon is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Cootehill, on the South.

DRUMHOME, or, DROMHANEE, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. John Alcock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumhome is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. from Ballyshannon. It is situate upon Donegal Bay.—" St. Ernan, who was named also, St. Ernoc, or Mernoc, as we are informed, was Abbot of Druimthuoma. He died a very old man on the first of January, about the year 640. This House had been a celebrated monastery. Flahertach O'Maldory, King of Tyrconnell, was buried here in 1197. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 98.

DRUMKEERAN, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Hugh Tuthill, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Drumkeeran is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. N. from Kesh.

DRUMKEIRN, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 5¼ m. S. E. from Dromahaire. The Fairs are holden on the second Wednesday in February, 27th of May, 18th of July, 19th of October, and on Wednesday before Christmas.

DRUMKEY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., with Castle Mac Adam, valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. Drumkey is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Wicklow.

DRUMKRIN, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe; but both this parish, and the parish of Currin, will be provided with Glebes on the next avoidance: The Rev. William Moffet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls of Currin and Drumkrin, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. The parishes of Currin, and Drumkrin, contiguous and intermixed, are about seven miles in extent; and, together with the parishes of Aghnabog, Ematris, Killeevan, and Drumsnatt, had been all united and appropriated, time immemorial, as the Corps to the Chancellorship of the Cathedral of Clogher. By several Acts of Council (the last bearing date, 17th January, 1804), they have all been separated. By this Act, Drumkrin was divided into two parts, one whereof being a portion of the new Corps of the Chancellorship, and being resigned, the Incumbent retained the other part in Episcopal Union with Currin, March 6th 1806. The part retained will merge in, or take the name of Drummully on the next vacancy. Drumkrin is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.. It is 10 m. N. from Cavan. It is situate on the River Fina. See, Galloon.

DRUMLANE, or, DRUMLAGHAN, alias BOLGAN, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 209 acres of Glebe: 145 of which are contiguous to the church, 20 in a detached farm in the parish, and 44 acres ten miles distant in another parish: The Rev. John Creery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Clogher; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Drumlane is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. W. from Belturbet.—" There was here a celebrated Monastery, which was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. It was founded before the year 550, in which year St. Maidoc was born; to whom some have erroneously given this foundation.—The church-yard of this Priory has been for many years a famous burial-place, and there is a Round tower remaining in it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 41.

DRUMLARGAN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Raddonstown. Drumlargan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. b. E. from Summerhill. This parish contains 633 acres of land. See, Raddonstown.

DRUMLEASE, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 577 acres of Glebe, not far from the church: The Rev. Roger Dodd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumlease is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. S. E. from Dromahaire.—" St. Patrick built Druim-lias, near the River Boonid, and placed St. Benignus over it. This afterwards became a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 408.

DRUMLUMMON, in the Barony of Clonmoghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Granard: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Drumlummon is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. b. N. from Granard. See, Granard.—" There was an Hospital here, of which King James made a lease to Sir Edward Moore, at the rent of 2s..6d. See, Ballylinch."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 41.

DRUMMULLY, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House, but on the next vacancy, one will be built on the Glebe, of 154 acres, about one mile and three quarters distant from the church: The Rev. James Hastings, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Dublin; the Duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. By Act of Council, in 1804; after the present Incumbency, the Great North West division of this parish will become part of the parish of Galloon, the Corps of the Chancellorship; the remainder will be joined to Drumkrin, which will then take the name of Drummully. Drummully is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. W. b. S. from Clones. See, Drumkrin, and Galloon.

DRUMMURGHILL, v. DUNMOURGILL.

DRUMQUIN, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 7 m. W. N. W. from Omagh. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of June, and 8th of November.

DRUMRAGHT, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good order; the tower is building: a Glebe House; 550 acres of Glebe, four miles from the church: The Rev. Dr. Stack, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Drumraght is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Omagh, on the West.

DRUMRANY, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aglish. Drumrany is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Aglish.

DRUMRANY, or, DRUMRATH, in the Barony of Kilkenny West, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyloughloe. Drumrany is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. W. from Ballymore. This parish contains 4000 acres of land. See, Ballyloughloe.—"A famous Monastery was founded here, A. D. 588, in honour of St. Enan, whose festival is celebrated on the 19th of August. In the year 946, this monastery, with 150 persons in it, was burnt to the ground by the Ostmen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 710.

DRUMRAT, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Emlyfadd. Drumrat is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. S. from Ballymote. See, Emlyfadd.—"St. Fechin founded an Abbey here, and we meet with a St. Enan of Drumratha, who was one of the flock of St. Brigid. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 632.

DRUMREILLY, in the Barony of Carigallen, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the R. and V. of Templeport. Drumreilly is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. b. N. from Ballynamore. See, Templeport.

DRUMSHALLON, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Drogheda.—"St. Patrick founded a noble Monastery here for Canons Regular: the Precentor of the church of the Holy Trinity, Dublin, is Rector thereof; which is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 461.

DRUMSHAMBO, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. b. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of February, May, the second Friday in June, 16th of July, 6th of October, and 16th of November. It is situate on Lough Allen.

DRUMSNA, or, DRUMSNAW, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 72 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, 22d of June, 25th of August, 7th of October, and 13th of December. It is situate on the River Shannon. It has six Post-days in the week.

DRUMSNATT, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the R. and V. of Killeevan: a Church, now building: no Glebe, or Glebe House. Drumsnatt is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Monaghan. The parishes of Drumsnatt and Killeevan are contiguous, and extend about eight miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Galloon.

DRUMSWORDS, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Cootehill. A village.

DRUMTARIFFE, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drishane. Drumtariffe is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. N. E. from Millstreet. See, Drishane.

DRUMTEMPLE, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oran. Drumtemple is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. E. from Castlereagh. See, Oran.

DRUMURRY, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. N. N. E. from Lisburn.

DRUMWILLEN, v. OCYMILD.

DRUNG, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £15. sterling, and supposed to be united to the Vicarage of Larah; but when, or by what authority united, is not known, as Institution has been always taken out in the Court of Kilmore as a single Benefice: a Church, in the parish of Drung, in good order: a Glebe House, in the parish of Drung: 630 acres of Glebe; 130 acres of which are adjoining the house, and the remaining 500 are contiguous to each other, and lie in the parish of Larah: The Rev. Thomas Cradock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Dublin; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Drung is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. E. from Cavan. The length of the Union of Drung, taken together, is about five miles, and the breadth two miles; and it contains about 10,000 acres of land.

DRYMILD, v. OCYMILD.

DUAGH, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killcaragh. Duagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. S. E. from Listowell. It is situate upon the River Feale. See, Killcaragh.

DUBLIN, within the City and Liberties of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: in which are the following parishes, viz.,

ST. ANDREW'S, a V.: a new Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Bourn, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Resident Curates, The Rev. James Nevins, and The Rev. Gerald Fitzgerald, at a Salary to each of £75. per annum.

ST. ANNE'S, a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. John Pomeroy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near his church, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Resident Curates, The Rev. William Annesley, and The Rev. William Cotton, at a Salary to each of £65. per annum; and each of whom receives from the parish £50. per annum, for early service on Sunday morning, and Festivals, making each Salary per year £115.

ST. AUDEON'S, a Curacy, with a Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral, annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £7..9..10 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: a small lot of Glebe, which is not yet ascertained: The Rev. Thomas Cradock, LL. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being Librarian of Marshes Library, resides in the house belonging thereto, which is contiguous to the parish of St. Audeon: the duties are discharged by himself, and a Resident Curate, The Rev. William Connor, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

ST. BRIDGET'S, a Curacy; a Church, in good order: no Glebe House: a Glebe, containing in front 22 feet, and in depth 131 feet: The Rev. James Verschoyle, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides half the year in his Deanery House, and the other half at Swords: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Richard Drury, at a Salary of £62..10..0 per annum; and who also receives the additional Sum of £34..2..6 per annum, from the parish.

ST. CATHERINE'S, a V., valued in the King's Books at £18..16..0 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Whitelaw, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates, The Rev. James Stubbs, and The Rev.

William Whitelaw, at a Salary to each of £75. per annum, and who reside alternately in a house adjoining the church.

St. George's, a Rectory entire: a Church, building on a very extensive scale, and will be completed with all possible dispatch: the parishioners in the mean time resort to the Chapel of St. George, and to the neighbouring Church of St. Thomas, for Divine Service: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Bushe, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Moore Morgan, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

St. James's, a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Waters, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties in person.

St. John's, a Curacy, with a Prebend in the Cathedral of Christ Church, annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £11..13..4 sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Smith, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Matthew Sleator, at a Salary of £70. per annum; and who also receives the additional Sum of £30. yearly from the parishioners, for reading Prayers and Preaching every Friday.

St. Luke's, a Curacy: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House: 12 perches of Glebe Land, adjoining the church: Edward Ryan, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near the church, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. John Robinson, at a Salary of £55. per annum; and £20. per annum for Wednesday evening Lecture.

St. Mark's, a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Crinus Irwin, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate, The Rev, John Leahy, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

St. Mary's, a Rectory entire: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Dixie Blundell, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Resident Curates, The Rev. William Blundell, and The Rev. Robert King, at a Salary to each of £75. per annum.

St. Michael's, a Curacy, with a Prebend in the Cathedral of Christ Church, annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling: the Church is in ruins: Divine Service for this parish is performed in St. Mary's Chapel, being part of Christ Church Cathedral, and which is within a few perches of the ruined church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Richard Graves, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is a Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, and resides in the College: he discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £80. per annum.

St. Michan's, a Rectory entire, with a Prebend in the Cathedral of Christ Church, annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £12..11..3: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: William Dobbin, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his Benefice of Finglass: the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates, The Rev. John Jones, and The Rev. Thomas Gamble, at a Salary to each of £75. per annum.

St. Nicholas within the Walls, a Curacy: a Church, in good order; no Glebe House, or Glebe; The Rev. John Bradshaw, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person.

St. Nicholas without the Walls, a Curacy: the Church of this parish is in ruins, but money is collecting to build one immediately; the parishioners resort for Divine Service to a Chapel in St. Patrick's Cathedral, which is convenient to the parish: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. James Agar, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at a short distance from the church, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. John Letablere, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

St. Paul's, a Rectory entire: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Samuel Murray, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near the church, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Henry Campbell, at a Salary of £65. per annum; and who receives also the additional Sum of £30. yearly from the parish.

St. Thomas's, a Rectory entire: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Maguire, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in his parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. John Fea, at a Salary of £75. per annum.

St. Werburgh's, a Curacy, constituting with the Rectory of Finglass the Corps of the Chancellorship of St. Patrick's, a Dignity, which is valued in the King's Books at £50..5..0 Irish Money: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Richard Bourne, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, is resident near the parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, and a Reader, viz., The Rev. John le Strange, Curate, at a Salary and allowance from the parish, together £107. per annum: The Rev. Robert Gore Whistler, Reader, at a Salary and allowance from the parish, together £57. per annum.

The Deanery of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £145..5..0 Irish Money: the Cathedral Church, in as good repair, as from old age can be expected: a Glebe House, in good repair, near the Cathedral, and a small portion of Glebe Land: The Rev. James Verschoyle, LL. D., the Dean (in 1806), who is resident one half of the year in his Deanery House, and the other half at Swords: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Kingsbury, at a Salary of £62..10..0 per annum: and the additional Sum of £34..2..6 yearly, from the parish.

The Precentorship of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £51..12..8 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Richard Ponsonby, A. M., the Precentor (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral.

The Treasurership of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £68..3..4 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Smith, LL. D., the Treasurer (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral.

The Archdeaconry of Dublin, the Corps of which consisting of the Curacies of Donabrook, Kilgobbin, Rathfarnham, and Tawney, (being valued in the King's Books at £42..15..8 Irish Money), and of St. Peter's, in Dublin, a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Robert Fowler, D. D., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and Stalls in St. Patrick's and Christ Church Cathedrals: is resident on the borders of St. Peter's parish, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Resident Curates, The Rev. William Lyster, and The Rev. Vere E. Quaile, at a Salary to each of 65. per annum; and the additional Sum to each of £50 yearly, from the parish.

St. Kevin's, in Dublin, a Curacy: a Church, in good order: no

Glebe House, or Glebe: The duties are discharged by Mr. Archdeacon's Resident Curate, The Rev. John Lewis, at a Salary of £65. per annum; and the additional sum of £50. yearly, from the parish.

The parishes of Donabrook, St. Kevin, Kilgobbin, St. Peter, Rathfarnham, and Tawney, were perpetually united, at a time not known; they are contiguous, and extend from North to South about six miles, and from East to West about three miles and an half.

THE DEANERY OF THE CATHEDRAL OF CHRIST CHURCH, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £70. sterling: the Cathedral Church, in good repair: Demesne House, in Fish-Shambles Street, near the cathedral, and a considerable Demesne in Lease, about 8 miles South East from Dublin: But, see the Irish Statute of Session 1792, intituled, "An Act to enable the Dean of the Cathedral Church of The Holy Trinity in Dublin, to demise part of his Mensal lands." The Right Honourable and Right Rev. Charles Lindsay, D. D., Lord Bishop of Kildare, the Dean, in 1806.

THE PRECENTORSHIP OF THE CATHEDRAL OF CHRIST CHURCH, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Robinson, M. A., the Precentor, in 1806, who has a Stall in the Cathedral.

THE CHANCELLORSHIP OF THE CATHEDRAL OF CHRIST CHURCH, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £22..12..6 sterling: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Charles Cobbe Beresford, the Chancellor, in 1806, who has a Stall in the Cathedral.

THE TREASURERSHIP OF THE CATHEDRAL OF CHRIST CHURCH, a Dignity, valued in the King's Books at £24..10..0 sterling: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Dean Allott, the Treasurer, in 1806, who has a Stall in the Cathedral.

THE FRENCH CHURCH OF ST. PATRICK'S, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Letablere, M. A., the Incumbent, in 1806, who discharges the duties in person.

Dublin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. The Right Hon. and Most Reverend Euseby Cleaver, D. D., Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Primate of Ireland, in 1809. It is in the Latitude of 53°..21'..2" North, and the Longitude of 6°..15' West from the Meridian of Greenwich. This City returns two Members to Parliament; the Electors being, Freemen and Freeholders. The UNIVERSITY, being a Borough in itself, returns also one Member; the Election being in, The Fellows and Scholars. It is called Eblana Civitas by Ptolomey. According to Dr. Beaufort, it is impossible to give even an adequate Sketch of the City of Dublin in a short tract; but it would be unpardonable to omit some of its principal features. It extends above two miles in every direction, and is rapidly increasing in size, opulence, and beauty. The River Liffey, which passes through its centre, is crossed by six Bridges, one of which is of great elegance. The Harbour is defended from the inclemency of the winds and waves by a strong mole or wall, extending nearly four miles in length, and terminating with a Light-house, which is erected about a mile from the Eastern and adjacent to the Southern bar. Corresponding to this handsome and useful Pharos, there stands on the Promontory of Hoath, which forms the North side of the Bay, another very complete Light-house. The vast number of country-houses, and neat villages, which cover the shores of the Bay, the varied and undulating summits of the Wicklow Mountains in the southern back-ground, and the prospect of the City at the West end, compose one of the grandest scenes that can be imagined. Of the many Public Edifices that adorn it, the most remarkable are,—THE CASTLE, which stands nearly in the middle of the city, and is the residence of the Vice-roy,—THE PARLIAMENT-HOUSE;—THE UNIVERSITY,—THE ROYAL EXCHANGE,—and THE CUSTOM-HOUSE;—all buildings of great magnificence. THE COURTS of JUSTICE are almost finished in the same style,—THE LINEN HALL,—THE BARRACKS,—HOSPITALS for Invalids,—for the children of sailors and of soldiers, for the education of youth, and for the reception of the aged and infirm of various descriptions—are too numerous to mention separately. THE ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY was incorporated in 1786. THE DUBLIN SOCIETY, for the improvement of agriculture and useful arts, which was incorporated so early as the year 1749, has truly answered the end of its institution, by promoting objects of the utmost importance to Ireland. Two Canals are begun on the opposite sides of the river, with which they are immediately to communicate. The Southern Navigation extends upwards of forty miles, to the River Barrow, which is navigable; and a branch of this canal is carried on in a western direction towards the Shannon. The Northern Canal has also communication with that great River in the County of Longford, and, by a collateral Cut unites with the Boyne navigation. To the West end of the town adjoins THE PHŒNIX PARK, a Royal Demesne of great beauty, which extends above two miles in length, and a mile and an half in breadth, on the North side of the Liffey. The Corporation of this City consists of a Lord Mayor, Recorder, 24 Aldermen (all of whom are Justices of the Peace), two Sheriffs, a Common Council, and other Officers. It is almost needless to say, that most branches of commerce and every kind of trade are exercised in Dublin, and that the city is daily advancing in wealth and industry. The first mention, which we find of the See of Dublin, is in the Seventh century. In the year 1152 it was erected into an Archbishoprick, which is valued in the King's Books at £534..15..2½ Irish Money: And, in 1214, the Bishoprick of Glandelagh, which had been founded in the Sixth century, was incorporated with Dublin. It is 50 miles in length, from North to South, and 36 miles in the greatest breadth; containing the whole county of Dublin, the most of Wicklow, and part of two other counties. The Chapter of St. Patrick's, Dublin, consists of the Dean (who is elective by the Archbishop and Chapter), the Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, two Archdeacons, of Dublin and Glandelagh, and nineteen Prebendaries. The Members of the Collegiate Chapter of Christ Church are the Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, the Archdeacon of Dublin, and three Prebendaries: This Deanery is annexed to the Bishoprick of Kildare. The Cathedral of St. Patrick is a large and venerable Pile; and the Archbishop's Palace is a very antique building. His Grace has also a small Country Residence at Tallagh, of no very modern date. The most remote part of the Dioeese is thirty four miles from Dublin. The General Post-office was established by Act of Parliament, on the 1st of August 1784: The present Post-Masters General (in 1810) are The Right Hon. Earl O'Neil, and The Right Hon. the Earl of Ross: The Secretaries are Sir John Lees, Bart., and Edward S. Lees, Esq. There are six Packets between Dublin and Holyhead; and two Packet Wherries. The Mails for England leave Dublin every evening, except Sunday, and are due in Dublin every day, except Wednesday.—"The celebrated Religious Foundation of the Abbey of the Virgin Mary owes its origin to the Danes, about the year 948, immediately after their conversion to Christianity; although others fondly ascribe it to some of our Irish princes. At the first it was of the Benedictine Order, then the most celebrated in the Western world. In 1139, it was granted to the Monks of the Cistertian order. On the 27th of May, 1304, this beautiful and noble abbey, with the church and steeple, were destroyed by fire: At this time it was the Repository of the Rolls of Chancery, which were all consumed, to the 28th of King Edward the First, except two Rolls of that year. The Abbot had a Seat in Parliament as a Baron.—By the testimony of a venerable Record, The Black Book of Christ Church, we are informed, that about the year of Our Lord 1038, Sitric, the son of Ableb, or rather Aulif, the Danish Prince of Dublin, gave to Donat, Bishop of that See, a place, where the Arches or Vaults were founded, to erect a Church to the honour of The Blessed Trinity. Donat built an Episcopal Palace contiguous to the church. The Religious of this Community were Secular Canons, not tied to the observance of strict monastic rules, or belonging to any of the Cenobitical Orders: yet they were a sort of Monks lax in discipline, and bound to such regulations as the Bishop prescribed. On the advancement of Laurence O'Toole to the See of Dublin, in A. D. 1163, he made them Canons Regular of the Order of Arras, a branch of the Augustinians. On the 11th of January 1283, certain of the Scotch Nation, to retaliate upon some of the citizens for doing them an injury, set Skinner-Row on fire, which communicating to this church, destroyed the steeple and chapter-house, with the dormitory and cloisters. It is recorded, to the honour of the citizens on this occasion, that they agreed to make a collection sufficient for repairing the priory, before they would repair their own dwellings which had suffered by the fire. In the year 1300, a final and amicable agreement was made between the Prior and Canons of The Holy Trinity and the Dean and Chapter of St. Patrick's Cathedral, which was strengthened by the Common Seal of each Chapter. The principal heads of it were, That the Archbishop should be consecrated and enthroned in Christ Church; that each church should be called Cathedral and Metropolitical; that Christ Church as being the greater, the mother, and the elder church, should have the precedence in all rights and concerns of the church; that the cross, mitre, and ring of every Archbishop, in whatever place he died, should be deposited in Christ Church; and that each church should have their turn in the interment of the bodies of their Archbishop, unless otherwise ordered by their wills. In 1538, St. Patrick's Staff, that was brought hither from Armagh, as a relique of high estimation, was publicly committed to the flames. The Prior of the Holy Trinity always sat as a Baron in Parliament. In 1541, King Henry the Eighth, by Letters Patent, dated the 10th of May, changed the Priory into a Dean and Chapter, confirming their ancient estates and immunities, and made Payneswick, who was the last Prior, the first Dean; but it is to be remarked, that in some leases of lands, dated the 4th of December 1540, he is named Dean.—In the year 1146, Dermot, the son of Murchard, King of Leinster, founded an Abbey, for Nuns following the Rule of St. Augustin, in a village called Hogges, adjoining the East end of the City of Dublin, and near the present church of St. Andrew. No women were admitted into this house, till they were past the age of thirty years.—It is supposed, that the Knights Templars had a Priory in a place, called Casgot, in the South suburbs of the city; and that Walter de Fernsfield was a great benefactor to it. Probably this is the place, where now stands the palace of the Archbishop, in St. Kevin's Street. —The Nunnery of St. Mary les Dames was situated without the East gate of the city, which from thence was called, The Gate of St. Mary les Dames, and the avenue leading from the Castle to the University acquired the name of Dame Street. In 1487, the person, called Lambert Simnell, being supported by divers of the Nobility, was crowned King in the Priory of The Holy Trinity, by the name of Edward; the crown made use of, on this occasion, was borrowed from the statue of the Blessed Virgin, which stood in the church of this Nunnery.—King Henry the Second having granted the City of Dublin to a Colony from Bristol, they built the Abbey of St. Olave for such of their countrymen as should be inclined to embrace the order of St. Augustin, and called it from the abbey of the same order and name in their native town.—Very little is known of the monastery of Witeschan.—The Priory of All Hallows, or All Saints, was situated on Hoggin-Green, now called College-Green, and was founded about the year 1166, for Canons of the Order of Aroasia, by Diarmit, the son of Murchard, King of Leinster. In 1590, in Easter Holy days, the city, at the persuasion of Archbishop Loftus, granted the priory for the founding of an University; and the whole building, the steeple excepted, was for that purpose immediately demolished.—The Abbey of St. Thomas was founded in that part of Dublin, now called Thomas Court, for Canons of the Congregation of St. Victor, by William Fitz Andelm, butler to King Henry the Second.—The Priory of St. John the Baptist was situated in St. Thomas Street, without the West, or the New Gate, of the city. A Roman Catholic Chapel is erected on part of the site of this Priory; the ancient steeple still remains.—The Friary of St. Saviour, in Ostmantown, on the North bank of the River, near the old bridge, is now called The King's Inns. It was founded near the great bridge (on the place where stood the Chapel of St. Saviour), between the years 1202 and 1218, by William Mareschal the elder, Earl of Pembroke. The whole site was afterwards appropriated to the use of the lawyers, and is called The King's Inns, where a magnificent building is erected, which contains the Courts of Law, the Rolls, and all the other Public offices appertaining thereto.—The Monastery of St. Francis was built in the year 1235, upon a piece of ground given for that purpose by Ralph le Porter, and was situated in that part of the suburbs of the city, which is now called Francis Street.—The Monastery of The Holy Trinity was founded about the year 1259, for Friars of the Order of St. Augustin, by one of the family of Talbot. It was a very considerable foundation, and was the general College for all the Friars of that Order in Ireland. This monastery was situated on the ground whereon Crow Street, with a Theatre and other buildings, have been since erected.—The Carmelite Monastery, or White Friars, was built by Sir Robert Bagot, Knt., Chief Justice of the King's Bench, in the reign of King Edward the First, in the parish of St. Peter, in the South suburbs of the city.—Very little mention is made of the Hospital of St. Stephen, which was situate in the South suburbs of the city; and on the site whereof Mercer's Charitable Hospital has been erected.—Henry Loundres, Archbishop of Dublin, about the year 1220, founded an Hospital, in honour of God and St. James, in a place, called The Steyne, near the city of Dublin.—John Allen, Dean of the Cathedral of St. Patrick, in 1504, founded an Hospital for sick poor, to be chosen principally out of the families of Allen, Barret, Begge, Hill, Dillon, and Rodier, in the Dioceses of Meath and Dublin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 132. et seq.

DULEEK, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V. (St. Kennan's and St. Mary's), Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Clonalvey, Dowth, and Stamullin; a Church, in Duleek, in good repair: no Glebe House; about half an acre of glebe, near the church; in Clonalvey, about 21 acres, four miles distant: in Stamullin, 3 acres, about three miles distant: and, in Dowth, 20 acres, about the same distance from the church: The Rev. William Sheir Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, immediately connected with each other, in this district, are ten parishes, all Impropriate in The Marquess of Drogheda, and of which His Lordship is the Patron. A new distribution of them, with a view to form them into permanent Unions, would be highly expedient. As Episcopally united, they now intersect each other, and to procure residence is impracticable, as long as they continue Episcopally united or distinct, two years income of each separate parish being insufficient to build a Glebe House; but the Patron's consent, as the law now stands, is an essential preliminary. The Marquess of Drogheda formerly paid £7. per annum, for the Cure of Duleek, but this His Lordship now withholds. The Income of Duleek is £3. per annum, of Clonalvey £60., of Stamullin £40., and of Dowth £27. Total £130. Duleek is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 20¾ m. N. from Dublin. The market is on Friday. It is situate upon the Nany Water. This parish contains 10,236 acres of land. The parishes of Duleek, Clonalvey, and Stamullin, are contiguous: That of Dowth is separated from Duleek by the River Boyne.—" An Abbey was built here by St. Patrick, who placed St. Kienan, or Cienan over it, whom he had baptized in the year 450; And this Saint, after residing a considerable time in France, returned to Ireland, and erected a church of lime and stone here. The choir of the great church of St. Kienan is now the parish church.—We find, in a close Roll, 29°. Edward III, that a Priory was founded here for Regular Canons, by one of the family of O'Kelly, long before the arrival of the English.—There was also an Hospital here." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 533. et seq.

DULEEN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Duleen is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. b. W. from Kells. This parish contains 1940 acres of land. See, Kells.

DUMBAY, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donard. Dumbay is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. S. W. from Blessington. See, Donard.

DUNAGHY, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 25 acres, adjoining the church: The Rev. William Mayne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dunaghy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. from Ballymena. It is situate near to the Ravel Water. The Fairs are holden on the 1st and 13th of February, 6th of April, and 3d of December. Here is a celebrated Spa.

DUNANE, or, DOONAUN, in the Barony of Slewmargy, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Rathaspuck. It is 4¾ m. N. N. E. from Castle Comer. In the neighbourhood of this village are extensive Coal Pits.

DUNANY, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster, a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..3..1 sterling, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Marlinstown, and Parsonstown: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 18 acres, not contiguous; 13 of them being in Dunany, half a mile from the old church, the remainder close to the old church, three quarters of an acre excepted, which is in the parish of Parsonstown, at the distance of two miles: The Rev. Valentine Griffith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident; the duties are discharged by the Curate of Clonmore. Dunany is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. E. N. E. from Dunleer. It is situate on the Irish Sea. The parishes in the Union of Dunany lye about half a mile distant from each other. The parish of Dunany contains 917 acres of land. The Income of this Union is only £80. per annum.

DUNBEG, in the Barony of Ibrickin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 6 m. N. W. from Kilrush. A village, situate near the Atlantic Ocean.

DUNBELLE, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burnchurch. Dunbelle is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Burnchurch.

DUNBOE, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Archdeaconry, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, not in good order: a Glebe House; 388 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. Trefuses Lovel, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dunboe is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the Sea Coast.—"St. Patrick founded Duncruthen for St. Beoan, or Beoad."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 91.

DUNBOYNE, in the Barony of Dunboyne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £21..9..4 Irish Money: a Church, now putting into complete repair; a small House, on a Glebe of half an acre, close to the church: Vacant, in 1806: a cure of souls. Dunboyne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 9th of July. It gives title of Baron to the family of Grinston, now Viscount Grinston: and here His Lordship has a handsome Seat.

DUNBREA, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate parish, constituting part of the Union of Nicholastown. Dunbrea is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Nicholastown.

DUNBRODY, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killesk. Dunbrody is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. W. from Feathard. It is situate on Waterford Harbour. See, Killesk.—"Harvey de Monte Maurisco, who was Seneschal of the whole estate belonging to Richard Earl of Pembroke, made a considerable grant of divers lands to St. Mary and St. Benedict, and to the Monks of the Abbey of Bildewas in Shropshire, England, for the purpose of erecting an Abbey here for Monks of the Cistertian order. This Charter was witnessed by Felix, who was consecrated Bishop of Ossory in the year 1178. The Abbot sat as a Baron in Parliament. The ruins of this very extensive abbey exhibit an awful and picturesque scene. The interior walls of the church are nearly entire, as is the chancel, on each side of which (in the wings of the church) are three chapels, vaulted and groined; the great aisle is divided into three parts by a double row of arches, supported by square piers; the inside of those arches have a molding which springs from beautiful consoles: The tower, rather low in proportion to the rest of the building, is supported by a grand arch; the cloisters appear to have been spacious, but their foundations alone remain: some other ruinous walls indicate where the Hall, the Refectory, the Dormitory, &c., stood. The West window of an uncommon form, is entire, and the door immediately beneath it was very magnificent, being adorned with filigree open-work, cut in the stone, and so raised as to allow a finger easily under it; one precious fragment of this curious work remains. The Chapel at Portumna, in the County of Galway, was a dependant of this abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 736.

DUNBULLOGE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Peter's, in the City of Cork. Dunbulloge is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. The occasional duties in Dunbulloge are performed by the Curate, resident in St. Peter's, at a Salary of £75. per annum. It is 5 m. N. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Glanmire. See, Cork.

DUNBYN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Lurgan Green.

DUNCAN, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. This Grange, which is free from Tythe, is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

DUNCANELY, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. E. S. E. from Killybeggs. A village.

DUNCANNON, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Dunbrody. It is 3 m. N. W. from Feathard. Here is a Fort (under the charge of a Governor, and Fort Major), which commands the Harbour of Waterford, and where are upwards of 30 pieces of cannon. Without the fort is a village, mostly consisting of poor cabbins. The Governor's House, and Chapel, are small, but neat; and the Barracks are well built. These works are surrounded with a strong wall, erected upon the flat of a high rock, which overlooks the sea. There is a perpetuity of land, granted by Queen Elizabeth, to keep this fortress in repair. It was taken by King William's army, in 1690; And from it King James the Second fled into France. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Ponsonby, now Earl of Bessborough.

DUNCORMUCK, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £30..17..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1759, to the R. of Ambrosetown: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Duncormuck: no Glebe House, but one about to be built: four Glebes; one, of 6 acres, near the church: the three others, containing 12 acres in the whole; none of which are contiguous, but are three quarters of a mile distant from each other: The Rev. Ottiwell Moore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is non-resident, being engaged in the laborious cure of Gorey; the duties are discharged by The Rev. Joseph Miller. Duncormuck is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 11½ m. S. W. b. S. from Wexford. It is situate near the Sea Coast. The parishes in the Union of Duncormuck are contiguous; their contents being 4300 acres. The present Union of Kilkevan was formerly united to Duncormuck.

DUNCRUTHEN, v. DUNBOE.

DUNDALK, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7..10..3½ sterling: a Church, in very good order: a Glebe House, in Dundalk: a Glebe, of 19 acres, lying together, one mile from the church: The Rev. Elias Thackery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dundalk is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 40½ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Monday eight days before Ash-Wednesday, 17th of May, first Monday in July, last Monday in August, second Monday O. S., in October, and second Monday in December. This town sends one Member to Parliament: Patronage, in Lord Clanbrassil. The Assizes are holden here. It is situate on a Bay of the Irish Sea, to which it gives name, and is a safe port. Here is a Charter School, for 40 Girls. It has six Post-days in the Week. It is governed by a Recorder, Bailiff, and Town Clerk.—"Bertram de Verdon, Lord of the Town, towards the close of the reign of King Henry the Second, founded a Priory here for Cross-bearers, following the rule of St. Augustin, and dedicated it to St. Leonard. It was afterwards an Hospital for both sexes, and admitted the sick, the aged, and the infirm.—A Gray Friary was erected on the East side of the town, in the reign of King Henry the Third, by the Lord John de Verdon; the East window of this church was singularly admired, for its curious and elegant workmanship."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 462. et seq.

DUNDERRY, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. N. b. E. from Trim. A village.

DUNDONALD, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: a neat small House, fitted up at the expense of the Incumbent, on a Glebe of 15 a. 1 r. 30 p., near the church: The Rev. Jacob Haylet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dundonald is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. N. N. W. from Comber.

DUNDONNELL, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money, and Episcopally united to the Corps of the Chancellorship of Limerick. Dundonnell is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. W. b. N. from Rathkeale. See, Rathkeale.

DUNDRUM, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. from Clough. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 10th of October. It is situate on a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Irish Sea.—"A mean village, where the ruins of a strong Castle, boldly seated on a rock, still remain. This castle is said to have been built by Sir John de Courcey for Knights Templars, who possessed it till the year 1313, when that order was abolished. It was afterwards granted to the Prior of Down, who held the same, with a small manor adjoining, till the final suppression of religious houses. This castle was granted to the family of Magennis; on their forfeiture, it became the property of the Earl of Ardglass, and afterwards was in the possession of the Lord Viscount Blundell. The ruins are of an irregular multangular form, with a fine Round tower, which is about 35 feet in diameter in the inside."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 119.

DUNDRYNAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"Thomas was Abbot of the monastery of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Dundrynan, in the year 1374, and 29th of the reign of King Edward the Third. We can find no other account of this abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 283.

DUNDURROW, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilbrogan: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 24 a. 3 r. 37 p., distant from that of Kilbrogan about five miles: The duties are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Dundurrow is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Kinsale. It is situate upon the River Bandon. See, Kilbrogan.

DUNEAN, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., an Episcopal Union, time immemorial, with the R. of Cranfield: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. William George Macartney, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is occasionally resident: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Dunean is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. W. N. W. from Antrim. It is situate upon Lough Beg.

DUNFANAGHY, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 132¾ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday after Whit-Sunday, 5th of August, 2d of October, and 17th of November. It has three Post-days in the week; and is situate on the Bay of Sheep Haven.

DUNFEENY, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackan. Dunfeeny is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. W. b. N. from Killala. It is situate on Bunatraher Bay. See, Lackan.

DUNFERT, v. DUNSERT.

DUNFORT, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. W. from Kilcock.

DUNGANNON, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 73 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday in February, second Thursday in April, second Monday in May, first Thursday in July, third Tuesday in August, first Monday O. S., in October, and the last Tuesday in November. It has six Post-days in the week. This Town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, Lord Northland, who has a handsome Seat here. It is governed by a Provost, and Seneschal. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Trevor. Here is a Free School, which was founded and endowed by King Charles the First: The lands of the endowment, according to the Report of the Commissioners of the Board of Education, being situate about five miles from the town, and contain above 1600 acres English. They are let at present (in 1807) to Under-tenants, for £1481..4..9 per annum, by the son of the present Master (William Murray, D.D.), who holds them under a Trust Lease for his father's benefit, at the reserved rent of £796..12..0. Such a lease appears to have been first granted in the year 1785, when the present master had the lands valued at £570. per annum, and procured the lease for his Trustee from the then Primate (Robinson), at the reserved rent of £427..10..0, paying a fine of £1235., which was applied towards building a School-house.—"In the reign of King Henry the VII, Con. O'Neal built a small Monastery on the South side of this town, for Franciscan Friars of the third Order. On the suppression, it was granted to Richard Earl of West Meath, who assigned to Sir Arthur Chichester." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 682.

DUNGANSTOWN, or, ENNISBOKEEN, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 20 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Robert Baylis Dealtry, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Dunganstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. b. W. from Wicklow.

DUNGARVAN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: two Glebes; one, of 10 acres, near the site of the old church, and the other, of 5 acres: The Rev. Robert Shaw, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice, and is non-resident, having had another Benefice in this Diocese on which he resided, and from the smallness and circumstances of the parish of Dungarvan not seeming to require residence: the duties are discharged by the neighbouring Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Dungarvan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. from Gowran.

DUNGARVAN, anciently ACHAD GARBAIN, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, valued in the King's Books at £60. Irish Money; the Vicarage, which was Episcopally united, on the 15th of March 1787, to the V. of Killmolash, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, is valued in the King's Books at £30. Irish Money, but was taxed by order of the Court of Exchequer, in Hillary Term, in 1688, at £22..10..0 sterling: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Dungarvan: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6½ acres, in separate places, in the parish of Dungarvan, but none of it more than a quarter of a mile from the church: and another Glebe, of half an acre, close to the site of the old church at Killmolash: The Rev. Jabez Henry, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Dungarvan, and discharges the duties in person. Dungarvan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 117 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of June, and 8th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. This town sends one Member to Parliament; Patron, The Duke of Devonshire. The Corporation consists of a Sovereign, Recorder, and 12 Brethren. It is situate on a Bay, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel, and is one of the greatest Fishing Towns in Ireland. The Admiralty of the Harbour is vested in the Sovereign. It gives title of Viscount to the noble family of Boyle, Earl of Cork. The castle was vested in the Crown, by Act of Parliament, in the fourth year of the reign of King Henry the Eighth. An Aqueduct has been constructed here by Parliamentary encouragement, for supplying the town with fresh water, which is conducted for some miles from the River Phinisk. The parishes in this Union are not contiguous; being divided by a part of the parish of White Church, about two miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of Dungarvan, and the Vicarage of Rinagonagh, ought to be perpetually united; and a Glebe House ought to be built on the Glebe in Dungarvan.—" An Abbey of Regular Canons was founded, in the Seventh century, by St. Garbhan, a disciple of St. Finbar. No vestige remains of this erection, but the Festival of the Founder is celebrated on the 26th of March.—The Friary for Eremites following St. Augustine's rule, owed its erection to Thomas Lord Offaley, who was Justiciary of Ireland in 1295. The family of Magrath endowed this house with a Castle and some contiguous lands, and the O'Briens of Cummeragh, who held the Rectorial Tythes of the parish, were great benefactors to it. This monastery was situated on the other side of the water, and opposite to the town. The remaining walls of the church and steeple, show it to have been a neat light Gothic building. The steeple is about 60 feet high, supported by a curious vault, sustained by ogives passing diagonally from one angle to another and forming a cross with four other arches, which make the sides of the square of the building. The cells occupied a considerable space of ground; and on the North side of the church, near the altar, is the Tomb of Donald Magrath, who was interred here in the year 1400.—An Hospital for Lepers was built here and endowed, under the Invocation of St. Brigid, but we know nothing further of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 688. et seq.

DUNGIVEN, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a V., holden with the R. and V. of Banagher: a Church, old, and not in good order: no Glebe House; 400 acres of Glebe, near the church, and four miles from the glebe of Banagher: The duty is discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dungiven is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 99 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Roe. The estimated extent of this parish is four miles by three. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, and 25th of October. It has three Post-days in the week.—" O'Cahane, Prince of the Country, founded a Priory here (A. D. 1100) for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 92.

DUNGLO, v. CLOGHANLEA.

DUNGOURNEY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a Church, lately built: the offices built and fitted up, so as to make a residence for a Minister: a Glebe, of 10 acres, close to the church: This Living is at present (in 1806) vacant, the Right of Presentation being contested between the Crown, and James Fitzgerald, Esq.: the duty is performed by the Curate, The Rev. Charles Adams, who resides in the glebe house, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Dungourney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¾ m. N. W. from Castle Martyr.

DUNISKY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Peter's, in the City of Cork: The occasional duties of Dunisky are performed by the Curate of an adjoining Parish. Dunisky is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Lee. See, Cork.

DUNKELD, v. DUNKITT.

DUNKERRINE, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, and united by Act of Council, on the 22d of April, 1802, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Castletown Ely, and Rathnaveoge, and the entire Rectory of Finglass: a Church, in good repair, in the Parish of Dunkerrine: a Glebe House, in the Parish of Dunkerrine: three Glebes: one, of 41 a. 1 r. 29 p., in the Parish of Dunkerrine, and another, of 25 a. 3 r. 30 p., in the Parish of Castletown Ely, these two Glebes join each other, and are half a mile distant from the Church; the third Glebe, of 20 a. 3 r. 32 p., being in the Parish of Finglass, and one mile distant from the former: The Hon. and Rev. Charles Knox, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Drumachose, in the Diocese of Derry, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by The Rev. Richard Maunsell, A. B., his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dunkerrine is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Roscrea. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, the day before Whit-Sunday, 3d of November, and 21st of December. The Parishes in the Union of Dunkerrine are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 6 miles. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Girls; which was endowed, about the year 1740, by Mr. Frank, with 20 acres of excellent land.

DUNKERRON, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Kenmare.

DUNKITT, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, at a time unknown, to the Vicarages of Gaulskill, Kilcollum, and Kiltokegan: a Church, in perfect repair, in the Parish of Gaulskill: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: three Glebes; one, of 3 roods, adjoining the church of Gaulskill; another, of three roods, joining the ruins of the church of Dunkitt; and the third, of 23 acres, joining the ruins of the church of Kilcollum: The Rev. Edward Hunt, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, in all parts of his Benefice, is resident in the Parish of Jerpoint (whereof he is Curate), and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dunkitt is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Waterford. The Parishes in the Union of Dunkitt join each other, according to the County Book, and contain about 8000 acres of land.

DUNLAVAN, in the Barony of Talsbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed, valued in the King's Books at £12..6..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the R. and V. of Usk, and the Curacies of Friendstown, Giltown, Rathsallagh, and Tubber: a Church, in good order, in Dunlavan: no Glebe House, but £400. have been lately granted by the Board of First Fruits to build one: a Glebe, of 12 acres, in Usk, 3 miles from the church: The Rev. Peter Lefanue, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral; the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Anthony Jones, at a Salary of £65..13..9 per annum, and the small dues of the Union, amounting all together to about £90. per annum. Dunlavan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. S. W. from Blessington. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, first Friday O. S., in July, 21st of August, and the third Tuesday in October. The Parishes in the Union of Dunlavan are all contiguous; their extent being 5 miles from East to West, and about 4 miles from North to South.

DUNLEARY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 5¼ m. S. E. from Dublin. A Sea-port, situate on the South side of Dublin Bay.

DUNLECKNY, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1795, to the V. of Agha: a Church, in repair, at Dunleckny: a Glebe House, in the Parish of Dunleckny; and a Glebe, of 10 acres, within less than a mile from the church: The Rev. Weldon Molony, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Dunleckny is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. E. from Leighlin-Bridge. The Parishes in the Union of Dunleckny are contiguous; their contents being 4998 acres.

DUNLEER, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..2..0 sterling, and united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the Vicarage of Cappoge, the Rectory and Vicarage of Drumcar, the Vicarages of Dysert, and Moylary, and the Curacy of Monasterboyce: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, in Dunleer, but a neat Cabin in Moylary, where the Curate resides: a Glebe, of 28 a. 1 r. 10 p., one acre of which is in Dunleer, close to the church; half an acre, supposed to be in Sir E. Bellew's demesne, in the parish of Dysert, and lost to the church; 13 a. 3 r. 10 p., in Moylary, close to the church, and the remainder in the parish of Drumcar, distant from each other and from the church about two miles: The Rev. Samuel Little, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Dunleer is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 31 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 5th of July, 19th of September, and 11th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Dunleer are contiguous; that of Dunleer containing 1455 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union might be beneficially dissolved, and formed into two Livings; viz., Moylary and Monasterboyce to constitute one Living, and Cappoge, Drumcar, Dunleer, and Dysert the other.

DUNLOGHAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

DUNLOST, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Nicholastown. Dunlost is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Athy. It is situate near the River Barrow. See, Nicholastown.

DUNLUCE, or, PORTRAMON, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the three parishes which constitute the Precentorship of Connor: a Church, in tolerable repair: a Glebe House, much dilapidated, on a Glebe of 20 acres, two miles from the church: The Rev. William Phillips, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dunluce is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. N. E. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the Sea Coast. The Fair is holden on the 12th of November. Here is a curious cave in the rock, beneath the ancient Castle of Dunluce. See, Ballymoney.

DUNMANAWAY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Fanlobbus. It is 150 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Bandon. It is a cheerful little town; and much indebted to the late Sir Richard Cox, Bart. who established the Linen manufacture here, which is in a prosperous state. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, first Tuesday O. S., in July, 16th of September, and 26th of November. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Boys. It has six Post-days in the week.

DUNMOON, v. KILFRUSH.

DUNMORE, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: an addition to the Glebe (of 5 acres) has lately been procured, and preparations are making to build a Glebe House: The Rev. John Orr, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dunmore is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 91¼ m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The extent of this parish is about 14 miles by 12. Henry Mossop, the celebrated actor, was born in this town; his father was Rector hereof, and an eminent mathematician.—"St. Patrick built here the Monastery of Domnagh-padraig, and appointed St. Fulartach, Bishop of it. A Friary for Augustin Eremites was afterwards founded on the site of the old Abbey, by Walter de Bermingham, Lord Athenry, in the year 1425. The whole of this edifice cannot now be traced, part of it was converted into a parish church, the remaining part was levelled, and now forms the market place."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 283.

DUNMORE, within the County of the City of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £7. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, at a time unknown, to the Vicarages of Kilmodum, and Muckully: a Church, in good condition, in Dunmore: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 15 acres, contiguous to the church, in the parish of Dunmore; another, of 3 acres, in Kilmodum, contiguous to the ruins of its church; and the third, of 4 acres, in Muckully, contiguous to the ruins of its church: The Rev. Anthony Pack, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, by permission, in Kilkenny, as Master of The Duke of Ormond's School, and discharges the duties in person. Dunmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. from Kilkenny. It is situate upon the River Nore. The parishes of Muckully, and Kilmodum, are two miles distant from Dunmore, and adjoin thereto; they are about three miles in length.

DUNMOURGILL, or, DUROUGHILL, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..0 Irish Money, being a parish appropriated to the Cathedral Church of St. Bridget, Kildare. Dunmourgill is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Maynooth.

DUNMOWE, in the Barony of Morgallion, though locally situate in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £7..18..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Stackallan. Dunmowe is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. E. from Navan. This parish contains 600 acres of land. See, Stackallan.

DUNMOYLAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, having been always holden with the Rectory and Vicarage of Castle Robert, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballingarry. Dunmoylan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Castle Robert, and Ballingarry.

DUNMURRY, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £4..17..4 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Pollardstown. Dunmurry is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. from Kildare. See, Pollardstown.

DUNQUIN, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Marhyn. Dunquin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. W. S. W. from Dingle. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Marhyn.

DUNSANY, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..9..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taragh. Dunsany is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 555 acres of land. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Plunket. See, Taragh.

DUNSERT, or, DUNFERT, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burnchurch. Dunsert is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. from Kilkenny. See, Burnchurch.

DUNSFORT, or, DUNSPORT, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and P., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Richard Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice, in the South of Ireland: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £65. per annum. Dunsfort is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. E. S. E. from Downpatrick. It is situate on the Irish Sea.

DUNSHAGLIN, or, DUNSHAUGHLIN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, on the 27th of May, 1678, to the V. of Rathregan: a Church, in good repair, in Dunshaglin: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 23 acres, in Rathregan, two miles and an half distant from the church of Dunshaglin: The Rev. William Irvine, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dunshaglin is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 14 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of June, and 10th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Dunshaglin are contiguous; that of Dunshaglin containing 2641 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Glebe of this Union is very inconveniently situate with respect to the church: and an exchange would be desirable, in order to build, and insure residence.—" St. Seachlan, nephew to St. Patrick, came into Ireland, A. D. 439, and founded the church of Dunshaghlin; he died on the 27th of November 448, in his 75th year, and was interred here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 540.

DUNSPORT, v. DUNSFORT.

DUNTRILEAGUE, otherwise AHERLOE, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a parcel of the Rectory and Vicarage of Galbally. It is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. from Tipperary. See, Killenellick.

DUNURLIN, or, DUNORLING, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killquane. Dunurlin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Dingle. It is situate at the bottom of Smerwick Harbour, on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killquane.

DURAS, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..8..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Duras is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8½ m. N. W. from Gort. It is situate upon Galway Bay. See, Kilcolgan.

DUROUGHILL, v. DUNMOURGILL.

DURROW, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, though locally situate in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £10: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in good repair; and a Glebe, of 18 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. John Stone, the Vicar in (1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Durrow is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 52 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the second Thursday O. S., in May, August, and November. Near this is Castle Durrow, the magnificent Seat of Viscount Ashbrooke. Durrow was formerly part of the Queen's County, but on coming into the possessions of the Butler family, who were perpetually harrassed by the powerful Sept of the Fitz-Patricks, the Earl of Ormond procured an Act of Parliament, to make this estate, part and parcel of the county of Kilkenny, although surrounded by the Queen's County; And the offending Fitz-Patricks being taken, were transmitted immediately to Kilkenny, where, remote from their connections, they suffered the penalty of the law. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a monastery here; but of which very little is known.

DURROW, or, DERVAGH, in the Barony of Ballicowen, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Lay Impropriation, with a Curacy: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. R. P. Vaughan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Durrow is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. from Tullamore. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is only £60. per annum; viz, from the Impropriator £40., and from the First Fruits £20. And to remedy the evil of non-residence, a Glebe is recommended to be procured.—" St. Columb, who was born A. D. 522, founded a sumptuous Abbey here in the year 546, and died on the 9th of June 597. In later times we find, that a monastery for Regular Canons of St. Augustin was founded here, under the joint Invocation of the Virgin Mary and St. Columb."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 393.

DURRUS, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, and United by Act of the Privy Council in 1792, to the V. of Kilcrohane: a Church: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 8 a. 0 r. 8 p.: The Rev. Mason Alcock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, on account of infirmity: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate. Durrus is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. b. S. from Bantry. It is situate near to Bantry Bay. The parishes in the Union of Durrus are contiguous; their estimated extent being 2 miles from North to South, and 19 miles from East to West. The Rectory is Impropriate. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DURSEY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean, about half a mile from the Main. It is three miles in length, and is exceedingly rough and coarse.

DUY MAC LOUGNEY, v. ATHENRY.

DYAN, in the Barony of Dungannan, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 4¼ m. N. b. W. from Tynan. It is situate upon the River Blackwater.

DYMOR in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..9..11 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughcrew. Dymor is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Oldcastle. This parish contains 2025 acres of land. See, Loughcrew.

DYNISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.

DYSART, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting, with the Rectory of Kilmoleran, the Corps of the Prebend, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Glebe, of 7 a. 2 r. 20 p., at Churchtown, in the parish of Dysart, very near the site of the old church; The Hon. and Rev. Percy Jocelyn, the Prebendary (in 1806), which being a perfect Sine Cure, he has no cure of souls, no Glebe House, and does not reside: the Vicarage of Dysart, valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, was Episcopally united, in 1787, to the V. of Kilmoleran, when the present Incumbent took possession of them; and it appears, that they were always holden so united: and, on the 20th of November 1804, they were Episcopally united to the entire Rectory of Fenoagh, and the Rectory of Templemihil: a Church, in repair, at Churchtown, in the parish of Dysart and Kilmoleran: a Glebe House, in the parish of Dysart and Kilmoleran: three Glebes: one, of 4 a. 1 r. 7 p., at Dysart, within a quarter of a mile of the church: the other two, at Kilmoleran, one of them being 32 perches, and the other 38 perches, both of which are within a quarter of a mile of the site of the old church: The Rev. James Smyth, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Dysart is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Clonmell. It is situate upon the River Suir. The parishes in the Union of Dysart are all contiguous, except that of Templemihil, which is about six miles distant, in the County of Tipperary. The extent of Dysart and Kilmoleran is about a mile and an half in length, and about one mile in the greatest breadth. Kilmoleran is sometimes called a parish, but is more frequently considered a part of Dysart. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage of Dysart and Kilmoleran ought to be perpetually united.

DYSART, in the Barony of Moyashel and Magheradernon, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..4..5 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres, surrounding the old ruins of the church: The Rev. Stephen Ratcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice, at Skryne, in this Diocese: the occasional duties are discharged by a neighbouring Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Dysart is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. W. from Mullingar. See, Churchtown. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Colman founded a Monastery for Conventual Franciscans here.

DYSART ENOS, in the Barony of Maryborough, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, and the Vicarage at £4..3..4 Irish Money; and immemorially united to the R. and V. of Kiltale; which now constitute part of the Union of Tecolme. Dysart Enos is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Stradbally. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. The parishes of Dysart Enos are contiguous, and contain 4900 acres of land. See, Tecolme.—"St. Ængus, having resigned the government of Clonenagh, retired to this Desert, where he founded an Abbey, which for some time retained his name. It is now the parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 594.

DYSART GALEN, in the Barony of Cullinagh, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, building: a Glebe, of 30 acres, about a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. Sewell Stubber, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Dysart Galen is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Ballynakill, on the North East.

DYSERT, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage: the Prebend, to which belongs, as the Corps thereof, part of the Tythes of two denominations, in the parish of Kilneboy, is valued in the King's Books, together with the Rectory at £2. sterling; and with which are holden, Episcopally united, on the 7th of March 1801, the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilkeedy, and Kilneboy, the Vicarage of Dysert (valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling), and the Vicarages of Inchicronane, and Rath; two Churches, both in good repair; one of them being in the parish of Kilneboy, and the other in the parish of Kilkeedy: no Glebe House; four Glebes; one, of 2 a. 3 r. 30 p., in the parish of Kilneboy, one mile from the church; another, of 1 a. 1 r. 26 p., in the parish of Dysert, contiguous to the site of the old church: the third and fourth, being in the parish of Rath, one of them being 2 a. 3 r. 3 p., and the other 2 roods, and each of them contiguous to the site of the old church: The Rev. Frederick Blood, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Lane, A. B. Dysert is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Ennis. The parishes in the Union of Dysert are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 5 miles, and from East to West 8 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

DYSERT, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money: no Church; no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Vicars Choral of St Canice, the Vicars (in 1806), who have cure of souls in this parish: the duties are performed by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Dysert is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. from Castle Comer. It is situate upon the River Dinin.

DYSERT, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleer. Dysert is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 972 acres of land. See, Dunleer.

DYSERTAGNEY, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House; 200 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. J. Patterson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dysertagney is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 13 m. N. b. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Swilly.

DYSERTALE, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the Parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcumney. Dysertale is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is contiguous to Kilweilagh, and with that Parish, contain together about 3000 acres of land. See, Kilcumney.

DYSERTCREAGH, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: an old Church, in bad order: a Glebe House; and a Glebe of 186 Irish acres, in three parcels, 180 of them being four miles from the other; and also of 6 acres, which are near the church: The Rev. John Buck, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Dysertcreagh is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. S. b. W. from Cookstown.

DYSERTKERANE, v. ISERTKERIN.

DYSERTMORE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the Parishes which constitute the Union of Rosbercon. Dysertmore is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. from Inistioge. It is situate near the navigable River Nore. See, Rosbercon.

E.

EAGLE, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. These are two Islands, which appear to have obtained their names from the great resort of Eagles thither. They are situate in the Atlantic Ocean.

EANACHELTE, in the Barony of———Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—" The Church of this name was founded in the Territory of Hibhethach by St. Molibba. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 119.

EARLSTOWN, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the Parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Earlstown is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. E. from Callan. It is situate on the King's River. See, Kells.

EASKEY, or, EASKAGH, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 10½ acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Thomas W. Shiell, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near the Parish, and discharges the duties. Easkey is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 11½ m. N. b. E. from Ballina. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of June, and 18th of November. It is situate on the Atlantic Ocean.

EASROE, and EASRUADH, v. ASTRATH.

EASTERSNOW, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, to the V. of Kilcola; and, about the year 1765, the Parish of Kilbrine was added to the Union: a Church, in good repair; no Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Lloyd, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from Boyle. Eastersnow is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Boyle. The Parishes of Eastersnow, and Kilcola, are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about 8 square miles; the Parish of Kilbrine is about two miles distant from Eastersnow. The annual income from tythes of this Union is only about £50. per annum; to which an augmentation of £40. per annum is given from Primate Boulter's Donation.

ECHENACH, or ENACEICH, v. KILMACOEN.

EDARDRUIM, v. DRUM.

EDDY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Galway Bay.

EDENDERRY, in the Barony of Coolestown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Monasteroris. It is 29 m. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on Shrove Tuesday, Thursday after Whit-Tuesday, and 4th of November. It is much inhabited by the people, called Quakers, and carries on some trade. The Castle, which is now in ruins, was formerly the Seat of the Blundel family.

EDERMINE, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of a Prebend in the Cathedral of Ferns, and united by Act of Council, in 1806, to the V. of Ballynaslaney; a Church, in repair, in the Parish of Edermine: a Glebe House, building, on a Glebe of 20 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Thomas Gore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Edermine is in the diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Slaney. The Parishes in the Union of Edermine are contiguous; their contents being 3000 acres.

EDGWORTHSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Mostrim. It is 52 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the day before Shrove Tuesday, 2d of July, 12th of September, and 3d Wednesday in December. It has six Post-days in the week.

EFFIN, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money; the Vicarage being also valued at £1..2..6 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in four divisions: the first, of 1 a. 2 r. 3 p., being close to the site of the old church; the second, of 1 a. 1 r. 25 p.; the third, of 2 a. 1 r. 34 p.; and the fourth, of 1 a. 1 r. 20 p.; these three last divisions being not far from the first: The Rev. James Ellard, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, by Permission, in the contiguous Parish of Kilmallock of which he is Curate, being sufficiently near to perform the duties of Effin in person. Effin is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. S. S. W. from Kilmallock.

EGLISH, or, LEVALLYHEGLISH, in the Barony of Tyranny, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy, or R., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 64 English acres, lying together, and near the church: The Rev. Silvester Oliver, the Incumbent, in 1806. Eglish is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Tynan.

EGLISH, in the Barony of Eglish or Fircall, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Eglish is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¾ m. S. W. from Balliboy. The Parishes of Eglish, and Drumcullin, contain 8774 acres of land. See, Fircall.

EGLISH, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. S. b. W. from Dungannon. A village.

EGMONT, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the Parish of Bruhenny. It gives title of Earl to the ancient and noble Family of Perceval. The Mansion has been taken down.

EIGHT MILE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Rathfriland.

EIRKE, v. EYRKE

ELPHIN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R., constituting with the R. of Ogulla, under the King's Patent, for time immemorial, the Corps of the Deanery of Elphin, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: the Cathedral Church, in good repair: a very old Glebe House, in the parish of Elphin, but it is intended shortly to erect a new one on a better site: two Glebes; one, of about 161 acres, in the parish of Ogulla; the other, of about 77 acres, in the parish of Elphin: The Rev. John French, A. B., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at French Park, and there does the duty as Curate: The duties here are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. William Smith, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Elphin is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 76 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of May, and 10th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Elphin are contiguous, and are estimated to extend 14 square miles. The Right Rev. John Law, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806. This See, which is valued in the King's Books at £103..18..0 sterling, dates its origin, according to Dr. Beaufort, from St. Patrick, in the middle of the Fifth century. It comprises the greater part of the county of Roscommon, a large scope in Sligo, and Galway, and a very little in Mayo. In length, from North to South, it extends 63 miles, but in breadth, it varies from 2 to 24 miles. The Chapter consists of a Dean, Precentor, Archdeacon (see, Killuken), and 8 Prebendaries. The Cathedral, which is also the Parish Church, is neither large nor splendid: But the Bishop's Palace is a very good modern House, in the midst of an excellent demesne, and adjoining the small town of Elphin, which is about 35 miles from the Northern boundary of the Diocese—"The church of Imleach-ona (or, The Fortress of Ono, a principal Druid), now called Elphin, owed its origin to St. Patrick, who appointed St. Assicus bishop thereof; by advice of the Saint, Assicus introduced here a celebrated College of Monks, and presided over them: In process of time this became a parish church, and was dedicated to the original founder. This House and its possessions were granted to Terence O'Birne."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 609.

EMATRIS, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of Monaghan, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition; no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant, in 1806. Ematris is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. b. E. from Cootehill.

EMDOLL, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. This Grange, which is free from tythe, is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.

EMLAGH, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Newtown. Emlagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. b. E. from Kells. This parish contains 590 acres of land. See, Newtown.

EMLY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. Anthony Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his son, The Rev. Robert Armstrong. Emly is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. W. b. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 5046 acres of land. The Rev. Richard Moore, the Dean, in 1810. The See of Emly, which is valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 sterling, was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the Fifth century, and is said to have been at first an Archbishoprick. It was united, in the year 1568, to the See of Cashel. The See of Emly, which is 32 miles in length, from North to South, and about 12 miles in breadth, comprises a part of the County of Tipperary, and a large scope of the County of Limerick. The Chapter of Emly consists of a Dean (see, Ballyscadane), Precentor (see, Isert Laurence), Chancellor (without cure of souls, and whereof The Rev. Thomas Ryan is Chancellor, in 1806), and Archdeacon (see, Dromkeen), and four Prebendaries. See, Cashel.—"Originally its situation was much more beautiful than at present, being immediately seated on a considerable Lake, consisting of 200 acres, which on account of its value, was nearly drained by the neighbouring proprietors in the year 1718. Here we find an Abbey of Canons Regular which was founded by St. Ailbe, who, on account of his exemplary life, was styled another St. Patrick. He became the first Abbot and Bishop of this Monastery; and, dying on the 12th of September 527, in a very advanced age, was interred here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 654.

EMLYFADD, or, EMLAGHFADD, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Drumrat, Killmorgan, Killtora, and Tumore: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Emlyfadd: no Glebe House; 20 acres of Glebe, within a quarter of a mile of the church: The Rev. William Garrett, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Emlyfadd is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Ballymote, on the North West. The parishes in the Union of Emlyfadd are contiguous; their estimated extent being nine miles in length, and eight miles in breadth.—"An ancient town, where Richard Earl of Ulster built a Castle, about the year 1300. We can learn little of its monastic history, save that St. Columb built the Abbey of Imleachfoda, as we are told, in a magnificent style, and St. Enna, or Ennius, a disciple of the founder, was Abbot here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 633.

EMLYGRENNAN, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6..3..4 Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Limerick. Emlygrennan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. E. from Kilmallock. See, St. Patrick's.

EMO, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 34¾ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. Near this is Dawson's Court, the magnificent Mansion of the Earl of Portarlington.

EMY VALE, in the Barony of Trough, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. N. b. W. from Monaghan. A village. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, first Monday in February, first Monday O. S. in April, second Monday in May, 13th of June, first Monday in August, 4th of September, and second Monday in November.

ENACHAIRD, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Religious House here.

ENAGH DUNE, v. ANNAGHDOWN.

ENNIS, anciently, INIS CLUANRUADA, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Dromcliff. It is 113 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Markets are on Tuesday, and Saturday. The Fairs are holden on Saturday in Easter week, and 3d of September. This town sends one Member to Parliament; Patron, Sir Lucius O'Brien, Bart. It is a considerable, but not regular built town, where the Assizes for the County of Clare are holden; and is situate on the navigable River Fergus. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is an excellent School, on the foundation of the late Erasmus Smith's charities. The Magistrates are a Provost, Vice-Provost, and Town Clerk.—"About the year 1240, Donagh Carbrac O'Brien built a very noble and beautiful Monastery here for Conventual Franciscan Friars. Many of the ancient ornaments of this building still remain, which with other similar instances, must argue the refined taste of our ancestors. It is now the parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 44.

ENNIS BOFFIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Ennis Boffin is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean, about a mile and an half from the Main-land. The name signifies, the Island of The White Cow. It is said to contain 1200 acres. See, Ballynakill. —"An Abbey was founded on this Island, A. D. 667, by St. Colman, who died on the 8th of August, 674."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 497.

ENNISBOKEEN, v. DUNGANSTOWN.

ENNISCOFFEY, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in The Rev. Dean Blundell: no Church: no Glebe House: no Curate's Salary allowed. Enniscoffey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Mullingar.

ENNISCORTHY, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..11..4 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 26th of October 1778, to the V. of Clonmore, and the Rectories of Ballyhuskard, St. John's, and Templeshannon: a Church, in repair, in the parish of St. Mary, Enniscorthy: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 23 acres, in the parish of Templeshannon: and two Glebe Lands, in the parish of Ballyhuskard; one, of 4 acres, contiguous to the site of the old church; the other, of 16 acres, with two fields intervening, being distant about three miles from St. Mary's Church: The Rev. Richard Radcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. William Hinson, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Enniscorthy is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 60 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of February, 25th of April, 5th of July, 26th of August, 19th of September, 10th of October, 15th of November, and 21st of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here are the ruins of a very considerable Castle, built by the first English settlers. It is situate on the River Slaney. The parishes in the Union of Enniscorthy are all contiguous; their contents being 15,000 acres. According to Mr. Archdall, Gerald de Prendergast was Patron of the Abbey of Regular Canons here. The Franciscan Friary was founded for Friars Minor of the Strict Observance, A. D. 1460, by Donald Cavenagh, head of his Sept. In an ancient Missal belonging to this monastery we find, that its dedication was on the 18th of October in the same year.

ENNISTIMOND, v. INNISTYMON.

ENNISKEEN, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in complete repair: a Glebe House, with necessary offices, on 35 acres of Glebe, within less than half a mile of the church: The Rev. Arthur Rolleston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Enniskeen is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. N. W. from Nobber.

ENNISKER, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Ennisker is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Ballynakill, and Arran, Isles. It is situate at the entrance of Galway Bay, and is one of the South Arran Isles.

ENNISKERRY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. W. from Bray. This is a pleasant village, and is much frequented by Invalids.

ENNISKILLEN, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: two Churches, in good condition: a Glebe House, and a Glebe: Thomas Smyth, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Dublin; the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates; one, at a Salary of £75., the other at £60. per annum. Enniskillen is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 79 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of May, 12th of August, and 1st of November. This town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, Lord Enniskillen. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Cole. The Magistrates are a Provost, Recorder, and Town Clerk. It is situate upon Lough Erne. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a Free School, which was founded and endowed by King Charles the First: these School Lands, according to the Report from the Commissioners of the Board of Education, appear, by a survey taken in the year 1795, to contain about 3360 acres English, of which 2548 are arable and pasture, and are situate about six or eight miles from the town; there is no lease of them at present in existence, nor has been since the appointment of the present Master, Robert Burrowes, D. D.; the tenants pay their rents according to a letting made by the late master's brother, who held the lands under a trust lease for his, the master's benefit, granted by the then Primate (Newcome) at the reserved rent of £800. per annum, with a covenant for renewal fines, at the rate of £100. per annum. They were then let to Undertenants for £1461. per annum, which is the rent now paid (in 1807): but the Trust Lease having been surrendered before the appointment of the present Master, the Leases to the Undertenants of course became void, and no new ones have been since granted.

ENNISMAIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Ennismain is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Ballynakill, and Arran, Isles. It is situate at the entrance of Galway Bay, and is one of the South Arran Isles.

ENNISNAG, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. S. from Kilkenny. It is situate on the King's River.

ENNISRUSH, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a Chapel, in repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 15 acres, near the church: The Rev. J. Torrens, the Resident Incumbent, in 1806. It is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. b. N. from Portglenone. It is situate upon the River Clody, and near to the River Bann. It is a Chapel of Ease to the Benefice of Tamlaght O'Crilly.

ENNISTIOGE, v. INISTIOGE.

ENNISTRAHULL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

ENORELY, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Arklow. Enorely is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Arklow. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Arklow.

EREW, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. This Friary, according to Mr. Archdall, was erected at the extreme end of Erew, a peninsula stretching from the Barony of Tirawly into Lough Conn. St. Leogar was Abbot of Lough Conn, and his feast is holden on the 30th of September.

ERNATIENSIS, v. CLUAINBRAOIN.

ERRIGAL, in the Barony of Trough, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Thomas Brooke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Errigal is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. S. W. from Aughnacloy.

ERRIGAL KEROGH, anciently AIRECAL DACHIAROC, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in bad order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 219 Irish acres contiguous, and near to the church: The Rev. James Graham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Errigal Kerogh is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Aughnacloy.—" The Abbey of this name was founded in an early age: for, the Abbot Moelfogartach, the son of Ædgal, died A. D. 805, and the Abbot Ceallach Mac Coigry died in 837."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 678.

ERRIGALL, or, ARGILL, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, repairing: a Glebe House; 338 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. John Balfour, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Errigall is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Kilrea. It is situate upon the River Aghivey.—" The great St. Columb founded a Monastery at Arragell, in the territory of Oireacht Hy Cathan, and we afterwards find a St. Muadan of that place. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 82.

ERRY, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: Vacant, in 1806: According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Erry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. b. E. from Cashel. This parish contains 734 acres of land.

ERVAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

ERYNAGH, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. from Downpatrick.—" Here we find a celebrated well, dedicated to St. Finian, adjoining which Magnell Makenlefe, King of Ulster, on the 8th of September, A. D. 1126, or 1127, founded an Abbey for monks of the Order of St. Benedict, and called it, The Abbey of Carrig, from the rock on which it was erected. St. Evodius was the first Abbot; and, on the day of his decease, he gave directions that his corpse should be interred in the Island of Inis, afterwards Inis-Courcey, prophecying, that his own abbey would in after times be destroyed, but that one should be built on that island. This abbey continued of the Benedictin Order, during the times of Odo, Devincius, and John, the three succeeding Abbots; but, in the government of the latter, it was given to the Cistertian Order, and made a daughter of the Abbey of Furness (in the County Palatine of Lancaster). At the conquest of Ulster, Sir John de Courcey totally destroyed this house, it having been converted into a fortification against him; But, in atonement for this act of sacrilege, he founded an Abbey in his Island of Inis-Courcey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 119.

ESKER, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Esker is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. E. from Leixlip. This was one of the four ancient manors in this county (the other three being, Crumlin, Tassagard, and Newcastle), which were annexed to the crown, and named The King's Land. See, Leixlip.

ESKY, v. EASKEY.

ETTAGH, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Roscrea. Ettagh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Birr. See, Roscrea.

EYNES, v. ARDQUIN.

EYRECOURT, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Donanaghta. It is 72 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Monday after Easter-Monday, 9th of July, 8th of September, and 20th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is the fine seat of Lord Eyre: And also the ruins of a Castle. See, Donanaghta.

EYRKE, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money; a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, built at the sole expense of the present Incumbent: a Glebe, of about 15 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. John B. Ridge, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Eyrke is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 8¼ m. S. W. from Durrow.

F.

FAGHALSTOWN, v. FAUGHLEY.

FAGHAN, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 58 acres, near the church: The Rev. Mr. Hawkshaw, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Faghan is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. N. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. —"St. Columb founded the church of Fathenmura, called also Fothenmor. St. Colman Imromha was Abbot of Fathenmura, as was St. Murus or Muran, the son of Feradach; who was also esteemed the Patron of the place.—This noble Monastery was richly endowed, and for many ages was held in the highest veneration, as well for the reverence paid to St. Muran, to whom the great church is dedicated, as for the many monuments of antiquity which remained here, till they were destroyed after the Reformation; among the few reliques that were preserved, was the book of the Acts of St. Columb, written by St. Muran in Irish verse, some fragments of which yet remain; also a very large and ancient Chronicle, held in great repute, &c., and the pastoral staff of St. Muran, richly ornamented with jewels and gilding, is still preserved by the O'Neils; many miracles, it is said, have been wrought by it, and the people of that country, especially the family of the O'Neils, take their oaths upon it in the decision of controversies.—Fahan is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 98-99.

FAGHAN, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, building: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Coghran, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is resident. Faghan is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. from Buncrana. It is situate on Lough Swilly.

FAGHY, v. FAHY.

FAHY, or, FAGHY, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert. Fahy is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Eyrecourt. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Clonfert.—" An house was erected here for Grey Friars in the year 1390, by one Fallig, who, according to Wadding, was an Irishman."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 285.

FAITHBEG, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crooke. Faithbeg is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. N. N. W. from Passage, East. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, 20th of June, 14th of August, and 10th of October. This parish contains about 1000 acres of land. See, Crooke.

FALLIG, v. FAHY.

FAMAGH CHURCH, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thomastown. Famagh Church is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Thomastown.

FANEGARAGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" A small House for Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis was built here by Mac Ruinifaig."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 99.

FANLOBBUS, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1794, to the V. of Drinagh: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 23 a. 0 r. 3 p.: The Rev. Broderick Tuckey, the Incumbent

(in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Fanlobbus is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 13¾ m. W. S. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate on the River Bandon. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; their estimated extent being 10 miles from East to West, and 4 miles from North to South. The Rectories belong to the Vicars Choral of the Cathedral of Cork.

FARAHY, or, PHARAHAY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being the Corps of the Deanery of Cloyne, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, with 24 acres of Glebe; and a small Glebe at Cloyne, left for building, at £2. per annum: The Rev. James Archibald Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Living in the Diocese of Armagh: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Martin Armstrong, who resides in the Glebe House, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Farahy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. W. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon, at the distance of about 25 miles from the Cathedral of Cloyne. The extent of this parish, from North to South, is 5 miles, and from East to West, 2 miles.

FARNY-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Killnalongurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Thurles. A village.

FARRA, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Leny. Here is a Charter School, for 60 boys. It is situate near the banks of Lough Hoyle, at the distance of 6 m. N. b. W. from Mullingar.

FARRENE MANAGHE, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was formerly a Friary of this name, situate near Ballyloughloe.

FARREN MACHEIGKESE, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was formerly a Nunnery here.

FARTAGH, or, FERTAGH, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. John Pick, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls within the parish, and is resident. Fartagh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. W. from Durrow. The name signifies, The Cemetery: And here was the Burial-place of the Fitzpatricks, or Mac-gill-Padruicks, Chiefs of Upper Ossory for several ages. It is sometimes called Beggar's Inn.—"A Priory, under the Invocation of St. Kiaran, was founded here in the 13th century, by the family of Blanchfield, for Regular Canons following the Rule of St. Augustin. There still remains here a small ancient chapel, in which is a large raised tomb, with the figure of a man in armour rudely engraven thereon, his hands in a praying posture, and a dog at his feet; by his side was originally the figure of his wife, with an inscription on the cushion, which lay under her head; but this part of the tomb, now going to decay, is broken in two pieces, and the inscription rendered illegible by time: this tomb is said to belong to the family of Fitzpatrick. Near to it, is another tomb, which appears to be a woman, with a singular head-dress, rising up on each side, as Bishop Pococke describes it, in two horns. In the East wall is a small figure of Our Saviour, very inelegantly executed: and a few yards west of the chapel stands a Round tower, much decayed, being cracked quite up from the door, and wanting the top: it is about 48 feet in circumference, and the wall is three feet eight inches thick; the door, which is six feet by two, and ten from the ground, faces the East; the inside is divided into five stories, at each of which is a resting place, formed by the wall, sufficient to support a floor, and diminishing upwards: the neighbouring inhabitants say, this tower is 112 feet high, but it seems not to exceed ninety."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 350.

FAUGHAN VALE, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, old, but in repair: 600 acres of Glebe, three miles from the church, and four miles from Derry: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate. It is one of the three parishes which constitute the Deanery of Derry. Faughan Vale is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. E. from Londonderry. The estimated extent of this parish is six miles and an half by three. See, Templemore.

FAUGHER, v. FOGHARD.

FAUGHLEY, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..13..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Pollard. Faughley is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. W. from Castle Pollard. This parish contains 2506 acres of land. It is situate upon Lough Deryeragh. It is in the Deanery of Fowre. See, Castle Pollard.

FAVORAN, or, FOYRAN, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Pollard. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5. m. N. from Castle Pollard. This parish contains 2213 acres of land. See, Castle Pollard.

FEAKLE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, constituting part of the Union of Omullud: and the Vicarage, belonging to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in Killaloe. It is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. N. N. W. from Killaloe. See, Omullud, and Killaloe.

FEANAGH, v. FENAGH.

FEARTACHEARBAIN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Carban was Bishop of this church in the year 499: it is now unknown.

FEATHARD, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £12..5..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the V. of Hooke, and the Impropriate Cure of Templetown: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Feathard: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 2 r. 2 p., near the church: and two parcels of glebe, (one of them, of about 7 acres, being at Slade, in the parish of Templetown) of about 10 a. 0 r. 5. p., belonging to the Vicarage of Hooke, at six miles distance from the church: The Rev. John Kennedy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in a Castle contiguous to the church, and discharges the duties in person. Feathard is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 81 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the Sea Coast; and is governed by a Sovereign, and Town Clerk. Here are the ruins of three castles. The parishes in the Union of Feathard are contiguous: that of Feathard containg 2132 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the vicarage of Hooke is of the value of £30., and the Impropriate Cure of Templetown of £4.: these are of Lay appointment, and may at any time be detached from Feathard.

FEDAMORE, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..0..1 sterling, and Episcopally united, as far back as any record of the Diocese reaches, to the Vicarage of Glanogra: a Church, in good repair, in Fedamore: a Glebe House, in Fedamore: there are several small scattered Glebes in these parishes, some of them being near their respective churches, and amounting in the whole, to 31 a. 0 r. 29 p.: The Rev. Thomas Westropp, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in both parishes, and is resident: the duties having been performed by a Curate, resident in the Glebe House, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Fedamore is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. N. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of May, and 9th of October. The parishes in the Union of Fedamore are contiguous, and contain 4500 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

FEIGHCULLEN, partly in the Barony of Ophaly, and partly in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6..17..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 3 r. 34 p., in two parcels, the farthest of them being within a mile of the ruins of the church: The Rev. Thomas Simcockes, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is non-resident, being aged, and having had a Dispensation, in 1772: the duties are performed by The Rev. Mr. Annesley, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Feighcullen is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. N. from Kildare. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. A church ought to be built here, and better means provided for the Residence of the Rector. It might be united, by Act of Council, to Cloncurry; and the Deanery of Kildare might have compensation by the addition of the tythes of Tully, now belonging to the Bishop, which parish might, with great propriety, be added to Kildare, in lieu of Cloncurry, for which purpose the Cathedral should be made Parochial. The Bishop's income might be considered in some other way.

FENAGH, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the R. and V. of Cloon: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a large Glebe of 708 acres: The Rev. D. C. Ryder, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident on account of age and infirmities; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Fenagh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Ballynamore.—" St. Callin was Bishop and Abbot of Fiodhnach in Breffiny, in the life-time of St. Columb. The Festival of this Saint is observed on the 13th of November.—In the parish of Fenaugh, we find a church built by St. Callin, or Kilian: in the East end of which is a window of curious workmanship, and in the West end, which is vaulted, Divine service is now performed for the Protestant parishioners. The neighbouring inhabitants say, that when St. Kilian attempted to erect this church, an evil spirit destroyed by night what the Saint built by day; they also show a line engraven about the middle of the East gable, which reaches from South to North; and on the North side, about twelve feet from the ground, is also engraven an ugly figure in the wall, with part of the line in its mouth. This place was celebrated, in former ages, for its Divinity School, and was the general resort of students from every part of Europe. About half a mile from the church is a well, dedicated to St. Callin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 409.

FENARD, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. W. S. W. from Ballyshannon. A village, situate upon the Sea Coast.

FENIT, ISLAND, off the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killmellchedor. Fenit is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. W. b. N. from Tralee. It is a small Island, and is distant 3 miles from Ardfert. See, Killmellchedor.

FENNAGH, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., endowed, and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1735, to the R. of Myshall: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Fennagh: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Richard Dawson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Fennagh is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. E. from Leighlin-Bridge. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; their contents being 5000 acres, viz., in Fennagh 3377 acres, and in Myshall 1623 acres. The Rectory of Fennagh, the only Sine Cure in the Diocese of Leighlin, is holden by Faculty, in 1806, with the Union of Stradbally, by The Rev. Nicholas Forster; who has no cure of souls, and is non-resident.

FENNOR, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate: the Church is in ruins: no Glebe, or House: no Curate's Salary allowed. Fennor is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. S. from Slane. It is situate on the River Boyne.

FENNOR, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being the Corps of the Prebend, which is valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money: a Church, about to be built: no Glebe House: some Glebe Land has been withholden, but will, it is expected, be shortly restored: The Rev. M. N. Thompson, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and having been very lately collated, is not yet resident. Fennor is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. W. b. S. from Freshford. This parish contains 2918 acres of land.

FENOAGH, anciently, FINWAGHE, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £2..9..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysart: the Church is in ruins. Fenoagh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. E. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish is about a mile and an half in length, and one mile in breadth. See, Dysart, and Clonegan.

FENOUGH, v. FINNOE.

FERBANE, v. FIRBANE.

FERMOY, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, in 1803, to the R. and V. of Downmahon, and the V. of Litter: a Church, nearly finished, at Fermoy: no Glebe House, or Glebe; William Adair, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Fermoy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 113¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, 20th of August, and 7th of November. It is situate on the River Blackwater, over which here is a stone Bridge of thirteen arches. The parishes in the Union of Fermoy are contiguous; their extent being 4 miles from North to South, by 2 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. It has six Post-days in the week.—"An Abbey was founded here under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for Cistertian Monks, who were brought hither from an abbey on the Suire, in the county of Tipperary; and a new colony was afterwards introduced from the abbey of Furnes, in Lancashire. The church of the abbey, now the parish church, was a mean Gothic building."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 69.

FERN, LAKE, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. W. from Rathmelton.

FERNS, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clone: a Church, in repair; being the Cathedral of the Diocese, which is made Parochial: a Glebe House, on 29 a. 2 r. 15 p., contiguous to the church, in the parish of Ferns; and another Glebe, at Clone, of 21 a. 1 r. 30 p., contiguous to the ruins of the church: these two glebes are about one mile distant from each other: The Rev. Mark Charters, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Ferns is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 54 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of February, 12th of May, 4th of September, and 29th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate near the River Bann. The Bishoprick of Ferns (valued in the King's Books at £108..13..4 Irish Money) was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the year 598. It was united to the Bishoprick of Leighlin, in the year 1600. This See extends about 46 miles in length, from North to South, and 18 miles in breadth; and comprises the whole of the county of Wexford, and a small part of the county of Wicklow. The Union is 62 by 25 miles in extent. The Chapter of Ferns consists of a Dean (see, Gorey), Precentor (see, Templeshanbough), Chancellor (see, Kilscoran), Treasurer (see, Leskinfere), Archdeacon (see, Adamstown), and 10 Prebendaries. The Cathedral is small, and quite plain, and serves for the parish church. Here is a handsome and convenient Palace, erected by Bishop Cope, and completely finished by the late Bishop. It is 33 miles distant from the farthest part of Ferns, and 42 miles from the extremity of Leighlin. Here the Kings of Leinster resided for some time; and there are the remains of a large castle, erected about the year 1180. See, Clone.—"Brandub, king of Leinster, gave the lands of Ferns to St. Maodhog, otherwise called Aidan: who, by command of the King, was consecrated Bishop thereof about the year 598. In 1166, Diarmit Mac Murchad, King of Leinster, set fire to and destroyed the town. In atonement for this breach of humanity, that Prince founded an Abbey here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustine, and endowed it with considerable possessions." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 742.

FERRETER'S, ISLANDS, v. BLASQUETS.

FERRY-BANK, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. Here is a Ferry across the River Suir to Waterford.

FERTAGH, v. FARTAGH.

FERTIANA, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal. Fertiana is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. The duties of this parish are performed by The Rev. Thomas R. Dunlevie, Curate of the adjoining parish of Holy Cross (in 1806), at a Salary of £5. per annum. See, Tocm.

FETHARD, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the Rectories and Vicarrages of Clonyne, Rathcool, and Pepperstown, with the Parcel of Crompstown, and the Rectories entire of Kilconnell, and Raylestown, and the denominations of Coolmundry, and Kilbragh (the situation of which is now not known): a Church, in good repair, in Fethard: a Glebe House, lately built: four Glebes; one, of 8 a. 2 r. 38 p., at Fethard; another, of 9 a. 0 r. 32 p., at Rathcool; and the third, and fourth, not found, one of them being 2 a. 3 r. 18 p., and the other 1 a. 2 r. 0 p.: The Rev. Francis Benson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Fethard is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 78 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of April, Friday before Trinity Sunday, 7th and 19th of September, and 21st of November. This was formerly a town of some note, but is now in a decayed state: the walls of the town, and some of the gates still remain. It is governed by a Sovereign, Vice-Sovereign, Recorder, Portrieve, and Town Clerk. The parishes in the Union of Fethard are contiguous; that of Fethard containing 556 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is too extensive, but should not be dissolved at present, as a Glebe House has been lately built, and charged at the rate of two years' Income of the whole Union.—" The Eremites of St. Augustin of Fetherd having acquired to themselves, contrary to the statute of Mortmain, one acre and an half in the said town, from Walter de Mulcote (in pure and perpetual alms), for the purpose of re-building their house: and the Archbishop, from whom the said lands were immediately held, having granted his confirmation, the King (Edward I.) by patent, dated the 22d of June 1306, did grant to the said Eremites a full and free pardon. It appears to have been in ruins, on its surrender, in the 31st of King Henry the Eighth."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 657.

FEWS, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an Impropriate Rectory, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £3..0..6½ Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mothil: no Glebe: the Church is in ruins. Fews is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. W. N. W. from Kilmacthomas. It is situate upon the River Mahon. This parish is about two miles in extent from North to South, and about two miles and an half from East to West. See, Mothil, and Rossmere.

FEWS, The, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 10½ m. N. W. from Dundalk. A village.

FIDDOWN, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6..6..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council to the Rectories of Beaulieu, and Tubrid, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Tipperaghny: a Church, in the parish of Fiddown, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: there are 13 acres of Glebe, near the church, in the parish of Fiddown, and 1 a. 2 r. 5 p., one mile and an half from the church; the remaining Glebes are about three miles distant from the church: The Rev. John Kearney, A. M., the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the Union, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Fiddown is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Carrick upon Suir. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of April, 10th of June, 29th of September, and 30th of November. It is situate upon the River Suir. The parishes in the Union of Fiddown are contiguous. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Maidoc or Momoedoc was Abbot here, in the year 590: his Festival is holden on the 18th of May. It is now a parish church.

FIDHARD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.—" St. Patrick built an Abbey here, and placed over it St. Justus. Colgan informs us, that Fidhard was a parish church in the Diocese of Elphin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 285.

FIDHARD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught.—" St. Patrick built an Abbey here, over which he placed St. Justus; it afterwards became a parish church, in the Diocese of Elphin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 610.

FIELDTOWN, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 10 m. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on Whit-Monday.

FINAE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 47¾ m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Saturday before Whitsunday, 27th of July, 18th of August, 18th of September, and 15th of November. It is a small but neat village, situate on a stream that unites the two Lakes of Lough Shillen, and Lough Inny.

FINDONAGH, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 400 acres of Glebe, about one mile distant from the church: The Rev. William Atthill, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Findonagh is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

FINGLASS, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed: the Rectory being part of the Corps of the Chancellorship of St. Patrick's: no House: a Glebe, of 20 acres, near Finglass: The Rev. Richard Bourne, A. M., the Incumbent, in 1806: the Vicarage has the Curacy of Ballycoolane annexed: a Church, at Finglass, in good repair: a Glebe House, at Finglas, and a Glebe, of 15 a. 3 r. 10 p., very near the church: William Dobbin, D. D., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Walsh, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Finglass is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 6th of May, for Horses and Chapmen's wares. The Spa is now disused. The Parishes in the Union of Finglass are contiguous; their extent from North to South, being near 5 miles, and, from East to West, 4 miles.—" An Abbey was founded in this village in the early ages, and probably it owed its origin to our illustrious St. Patrick. It is now a Parish Church, and dedicated to St. Kenny. The Rectorial part of the Parish is the Corps of the Chancellorship of the Cathedral of St. Patrick."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 215.

FINGLASS, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkerrine. Finglass is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. E. S. E. from Money gall. See, Dunkerrine.

FINISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon, where it receives the River Fergus.—" St. Brigid, the daughter of Conchraid, of the Family of Mactalius, presided over an abbey of Nuns in the Island of Inisfidhe, or Cluainfidhe, in the Fifth century, in the time of St. Senan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 46.

FINISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

FINNOE, or, FYNOUGH, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 11th of August 1790, to the R. and V. of Cloghprior, and the Vicarage of Kilbarron: a Church, in good repair, in the Parish of Finnoe: a thatched Glebe House: three Glebes; two of which are in the Parish of Finnoe, one of them, of 4 a. 3 r. 36 p., being near the church, and the other, of 26 a. 2 r. 1 p., at one mile distant from the former; and the third, of 2 a. 2 r. 30 p., adjoining the site of the old church of Kilbarron: The Rev. James Martin, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Killaloe, with the consent of the Diocesan; he being Vicar General of the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Surrogate of the Diocese of Killaloe: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. Richard Falkener, A. B., at a Salary of £50. per annum. Finnoe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Burresokeane. The Parishes in the Union of Finnoe are contiguous; their estimated extent being from North to South 3 miles, and from East to West 5 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these Parishes, separately, is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

FINOGH, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Finogh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. See, Kilseily, and Traddery.

FINTONA, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 85 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 22d of June, and 29th of October. It has three Post-days in the week.

FINTOWN, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 13 m. W. N. W. from Stronorlane. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of May, 3d of July, September, and November. It is situate near to a Lake, which communicates with the River Fin.

FINUGE, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Finuge is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. S. S. W. from Listowell. It is situate upon the River Feale. See, Aghavallin.

FINVOY, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Rashackin; a Church, in good repair: a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Finvoy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Ballymoney. This Parish contains 2500 acres of land. See, Rashackin.

FIONMAGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Abban, who died about the year 650: but we know no more of this House.

FIRBANE, or, WHERY, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killygally. Firbane is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8½ m. S. W. from Clara. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of August, and 20th of October.

FIRCALL, in the Barony of Eglish or Fircall, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, and united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Balliboy, Drumcullin, Eglish, Killaghy, Lynally, and Raghan: this great Vicarage was dissolved by the King's Patent, on the 13th of June, in the 15°. of Charles the First, and erected into four Vicarages, viz., Balliboy, with 453 acres of Glebe; Killaghy, with 528 acres; Drumcullin, with 465 acres; and Lynally, with 593 acres: But, notwithstanding the King's Patent, the Earl of Mountrath, the Patron, has continued to present to it, as to the sole Vicarage of Fircall. The last Institution was on the 21st of June, 1796. It is evident, that it should be disunited, as it would make excellent provision for at least four Resident Vicars; but the Patron must consent to the disunion: four Churches, viz., one in Balliboy, in tolerable repair; one in Lynally, in indifferent repair; one in Raghan, in good repair; and one in Eglish, in good repair also: a conditional Grant has been made by the Board of First Fruits, of £500., for building a Church in Killaghy, on obtaining an Act of Council for building it on a new site, as petitioned for by the Incumbent and Parishioners; but the Patron not giving his consent, no application could be made for this Act; and this parish, of 7021 acres, and a Glebe of upwards of 641 acres, and an extensive Protestant population, has been left without a Church to this day: a Glebe House, with necessary offices, on a Glebe, in Killaghy, of 641 a. 1 r. 32 p.: in Raghan, of 45 a. 1 r. 0 p.; in Balliboy, of 339 a. 1 r. 10 p.; in Lynally, of 323 a. 2 r. 19 p.; and in Eglish and Drumcullin, of 292 a. 3 r. 34 p.: how these Glebes came to be different from the Grants of King Charles the First, does not appear: The Rev. Thomas Kemmis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by four Curates. Fircall is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. The parishes in the Union of Fircall are contiguous: Its length being 19 miles, and its breadth from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 6 miles.

FIRMOUNT, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of Longford, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. N. E. from Edgworthstown.

FITHMONE, v. KILFITHMONE.

FIVE MILE TOWN, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Clogher. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of January, second Saturday O. S., in March, Thursday before Whit-Sunday, third Saturday in August, and 22d of November.

FLORENCE COURT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 75 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

FLURRY-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster. It is 46 m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

FOGHARD, or, FAUGHER, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Eastwood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from Dundalk. Foghard is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. N. E. from Dundalk. The Fair is holden on the 12th of February.—"The natal place of St. Brigid, and from thence called Fochart Brighde.—St. Monenna erected a Nunnery here in the year 638, wherein she presided over 150 virgins.—A Monastery is said to have been erected here for Regular Canons, to the honour of St. Brigid: but it only existed in the earlier ages, and in time became a parish church, now in the Diocese of Armagh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 464.

FOHENAGH, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymacward. Fohenagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. b. E. from Castle-Blakeney. See, Ballymacward.

FOLLISTOWN, v. FONEYLYSTOWN.

FOLY, ISLAND, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 8 m. E. from Cork, being situate in that Harbour.

FONEYLYSTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in John Dawson, Esq.: no Church; no Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Foneylystown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Navan.

FONSTOWN, v. BALLINTOBBER.

FONTSTOWN, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 Irish Money: a Church, in good order: the Sum of £400. has been granted by the Board of First Fruits, out of the last Parliamentary Grant, for building a Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 9 acres, within a quarter of a mile of the church, and the other, of about 6 acres, adjoining the former: The Rev. Walter Baggot, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the contiguous parish of Monastereven, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. John Baggot, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Fontstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. from Kilcullen-Bridge.

FOOK'S-MILL, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Taghmon. The Fairs are holden on Easter Tuesday, and 2d of November.

FORE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster; an ancient Corporate Town, in which are the following parishes, united to the V. of Castle Pollard, viz.,

St. Feighan, a Curacy; containing 4016 acres of land.
St. Mary, a Curacy; containing 1003 acres of land.

Fore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. from Castle Pollard. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of January, and 24th of August. It is governed by a Portrieve. See, Castle Pollard.—" Here we find a Priory of Canons Regular, which was built by St. Fechin about the year 630: he died of the plague, A. D. 665, after having governed 3000 monks in this abbey, where his festival is observed with singular devotion on the 20th of January."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 711.

FORGNEY, or, CLONCALL, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of Longford, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry to the R. of St. Owen's of Loughsendy, alias Ballymore. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. E. from Ballymahon. See, Ballymore. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Munis founded a Monastery here, A. D. 486; which is now a chapel.

FORK-HILL, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 98 Irish acres, not contiguous; 45 acres being near the church, and the remainder about one mile distant: The Rev. Charles Atkinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Fork-hill is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 45 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 29th of September. It has three Post-days in the week.

FOUR MILE WATER, in the Barony of Glanehiry, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilronan. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Clonmell. A village, situate on the River Nier, over which there is a stone-bridge here.

FOWRE, v. FORE.

FOXFORD, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught. It is 112½ m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of May, 25th of June, 3d of October, and 10th of December. It is situate on the River Moy. It has three Post-days in the week.

FOYNS, ISLAND, off the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.

FOYRAN, v. FAVORAN.

FRANKFORD, anciently, KILCORMUCK, in the Barony of Balliboy, King's County, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. W. from Balliboy. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of May, and 8th of November. Here is a Charter School, founded by the late James Frank, Esq., which was opened in 1753, and contains upwards of 40 children. It is situate on the Silver River.—" A Monastery was founded here for Carmelites, or White Friars, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, by Odo, the son of Nellan O'Molloy, head of his Sept. This house, and its possessions, were granted on the suppression, to Robert Leicester."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 395.

FREDERICK'S TOWN, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 10 m. N. E. from Omagh. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of January, March, June, and October.

FRENCHFURZE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fair is holden on the 27th of July.

FRENCH PARK, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Artagh. It is 83 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 12th of July, and 21st of September. It has three Post-days in the week.

FRESHFORD, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Aghour. It is 64½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of August, 7th of September, custom free, and 17th of December. See, Aghour. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Lactan founded the Abbey of Achadhur, or, The Green-ford, and was himself the first Abbot. He died on the 19th of March, A. D. 622. It is now a parish church, and called the Prebend of Aghour.

FRIAR'S, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

FRIENDSTOWN, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunlavan. Friendstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. N. b. E. from Baltinglass. See, Dunlavan.

FRODEEN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. A village.

FUERTY, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athleague: a Church, in good repair. Fuerty is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. W. N. W. from Roscommon. The Fairs are holden on the first Wednesday O. S., in May, 4th of August, and 21st of November. See, Athleague.

FUES, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

FUNSHOG, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Collon. A village.

FURINISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

FURLONGSTOWN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Coolstuff. See, Coolstuff.

FURNACE, v. FURNAUGHTS.

FURNAUGHTS, or, FURNACE, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, holden by Licence with the Vicarage of Naas. Furnaughts is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. E. b. N. from Naas. This parish contains 190 acres of land. See, Naas.

G.

GALBALLY, or, NAHARLOWE, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory and Vicarage, the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, and the Vicarage at £5..1..0; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenellick. Galbally is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9¼ m. S. S. W. from Tipperary. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 15th of October. This parish contains 5268 acres of land. See, Killenellick.—"One of the O'Brien family founded a considerable Monastery here for Gray Friars; and the ruins of it, yet remaining, with those of several other religious foundations, sufficiently show the ancient magnificence of Galbally."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 420.

GALEN, v. GALLEN.

GALGOM, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 1 m. W. from Ballymena. A village, situate upon the River Maine.

GALLEN, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Reynagh. Gallen is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. E. from Banagher. It is situate near the River Brosna. This parish contains 3699 acres of land. It is said, that some Emigrants from Wales, founded a celebrated School here, from whence it acquired its present name. See, Reynagh. —"St. Canoc, or Mocanoc, erected the Monastery of Galinne, in Delbhna Mac Cochlain, about the year 492. The site of this abbey, and its possessions, were granted, on the 4th of June 1612, to Sir G. Moore."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 396.

GALLON, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Raddonstown. Gallon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Kilcock. This parish contains 1518 acres of land. See, Raddonstown.

GALLOON, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: no Church: a Glebe House: 56 acres of Glebe, one mile and three quarters distant from the church of Drummully, which, on the next vacancy, is to be the church of this parish: The Rev. John Story, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being Assistant Curate to the Dean of Clogher is not resident: the duties are discharged by the Rector of Drumkrin. Galloon is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Clones. The Corps of the Chancellorship of the Cathedral Church of Clogher (valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 sterling) did consist of five parishes, under the denomination of the Union of Galloon, (time of Union or Appropriation unknown), which have been at sundry periods separated and disannexed by Act of Council. By the last act, dated January the 17th, 1804, the two last remaining parishes, Currin and Killeevan, were disannexed, saving the right of the Incumbent, during his Incumbency. These two parishes, therefore, with the small parish of Drumsnatt, Episcopally united, and all contiguous, continue as an union to the present possessor, but no longer. There is a church building in Currin, and another in Drumsnatt, when finished, there will be a parish church in each of the three parishes; Divine Service is at present performed in two churches. There are about 60 acres of Glebe in Killeevan, where the Incumbent resides: none, in Currin or Drumsnatt.

GALLSKILL, v. GAULSKILL.

GALTRIM, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £13..5..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltale. Galtrim is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Trim. This district was an ancient Palatinate. It contains 2329 acres of land. See, Kiltale.

GALVOLY, v. BOLY.

GALWAY, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., with the Rectories and Vicarages of Ballinacourtney, Clare, Killcommon, Moycullin, Oranmore, Rahoon, and Shrule: one Church, in the town of Galway, in very good repair, and known by the name of The Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, Galway: no church in any of the other parishes; but money has been lately granted by the Board of First Fruits for building a church in the parish of Killcommon: no Glebe House, or Glebe land: The Rev. Ralph Daly, appointed Warden under the Charter of the Corporation of Galway, is non-resident (in 1806), and has cure of souls of all these parishes: The duty in Galway is performed by two Resident Vicars thereof, who are elected annually under the Charter. The Warden has been always entitled to the Tythes and Emoluments of the parish of St. Nicholas, and to the three-fourth parts of the Tythes of the remainder of the said parishes. The right of Presentation to the remaining one fourth of the Tythes of the said parishes, belongs to the Archbishop of Tuam and his successors, in free disposal. The Warden and Vicars of Galway claim an exemption from any jurisdiction of the Archbishop, except visiting. The Rev. John Wilson is the possessor of the fourth part of the Tythes of the parishes of Ballinacourtney, Killcommon, Moycullin, and Rahoon: The Rev. Robert Warren is the possessor of the fourth part of the Tythes of Clare Galway: The Rev. Maurice Mahon is the possessor of the fourth part of the Tythes of the parish of Oranmore; and The Rev. Alexander Arbuthnot is the possessor of the fourth part of the Tythes of the parish of Shrule; and the said several possessors have cure of souls of their said respective parishes, but are not resident. The quarter parts of the Tythes of these parishes are totally inadequate to afford the means of comfort to the respective possessors thereof. These parishes are not contiguous; their extent is computed to be 24 miles by 17. Galway is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 103 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of September, and at the East Gate, on the 31st of May, 21st of September, and 21st of October. It is advantageously situate for commerce, on a Bay to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean; and is the Capital of the County. This town sends one Member to Parliament. The Magistrates are a Mayor, two Sheriffs, a Recorder, Warden, and Town Clerk. It hath also a Military Governor, and Town Major. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Monkton. It has six Post-days in the week.—" A. D. 1296, Sir William de Burgh, surnamed Leigh, or The Grey, founded a Monastery for Franciscan Friars in St. Stephen's Island, situated without the North gate of the town, as it is particularly mentioned in the Obituary of the said Friary, and the dedication of it was on the 16th of May. Sir William died on the 12th of February, A. D. 1324, and was interred here.—The tomb of the founder, Sir William de Burgh, was discovered in June 1779, upwards of four feet under ground, with his family arms, and a very long broad sword elegantly carved thereon. Some remains of this Friary are still to be seen.—Near the West Gate of the town, without the walls, was the Monastery of St. Mary of the Hill, a daughter to that of The Holy Trinity of the Premonstratenses of Tuam. On the Nuns forsaking it, the Secular Clergy entered into and kept possession for a considerable time, but on the petition of the inhabitants of the Town to Pope Innocent VIII, it was granted to the Dominican Friars, by a Bull dated the 4th of December, 1488. There are no remains of this foundation save the cemetery, the whole building having been demolished by the Townsmen in the year 1652, in order to prevent Oliver Cromwell from turning it into a fortification against themselves.—The Augustinian Friary was founded on a Hill near this town, by Stephen Lynch, son of Dominick Duff (who was many times Mayor of Galway) and Margaret his wife, in the year 1508, at the earnest solicitation of Richard Nangle, a Friar of the same order, who afterwards became Archbishop of Tuam.—A Carmelite Friary is said to have been founded here by one of the Burghs. We cannot learn any other account of it.—A Nunnery was situated in an island in Lough Corrib, to the West of the town. But we are as much in the dark with respect to this nunnery, as to the friary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 285.

GALY, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Galy is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8½ m. S. W. b. S. from Tarbert. See, Aghavallin.

GARDEN-HILL, in the Barony of Clonawly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 8 m. W. S. W. from Enniskillen. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

GARE, v. BALLINGARRY.

GARFINAGH, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Austen Martin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the parish of Killnaghlin, where he assiduously attends an important cure: the duties are performed by the Curate of Dingle, at a Salary of £4. per annum. Garfinagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. E. from Dingle. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

GAROMNA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

GARRAN, v. BURNCHURCH.

GARRILOUGH, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 5¼ m. N. N. E. from Wexford. A village.

GARRISON, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 7 m. W. from Church Hill. It is situate on Lough Melvin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 19th of July, 19th of October, and 21st of December. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

GARRISTOWN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7..11..2 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 12 acres, about half a mile from the church; another, of about 7 acres, about half a mile distant from the Church and Glebe House; and the third, of 3 roods, near the church: The Rev. Hector Munro, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice at Portmarnock: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. John Moore, who is resident in the glebe house, which he has, with 12 acres of ground, and a Salary of £20. per annum, estimated, together, at £70. per annum. Garristown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 14½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of May, 15th of August, and 1st of November.

GARRON GIBBON, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. See, Templemihil.

GARRY, v. BALLINGARRY.

GARRYBOVE, or, GARRYVOC, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ightermurrough. Garrybove is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. E. b. S. from Castle Martyr. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Ightermurrough. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

GARRYCLOYNE, partly in the Barony of Muskerry, and partly in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and united by Act of Council, of very old standing, (for it is recognized by an Act of Parliament, in 1711, when Iniscarra and Matehy were taken from it), to the R. and V. of Greenagh: a Church, in repair, at Blarney: a Glebe House, lately built: a Glebe, at Greenagh, of 16 acres, and another, at Garrycloyne, of 15 acres: The Rev. William Stopford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. George Munro, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Garrycloyne is the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Blarney. The parishes in the Union of Garrycloyne are contiguous; their extent being 9 miles from North to South, and 6 miles from East to West.

GARRYNOE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, holden with the Rectory entire of Kilconey: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Hon. and Rev. Thomas de Courcey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the occasional duties in person. Garrynoe is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. S. W. b. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Bandon. See, Kilconey. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

GARTAN, or, GARTON, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Samuel Law, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Gartan is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 6 m. N. W. from Letterkenny. The celebrated St. Columb was born here in the year 521, and a Monastery was founded here by him, which is now the parish church.

GARVAGH, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 100 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It is a small Town, situate upon the River Aghivey, over which there are two Bridges here. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, 26th of July, and 5th of November. It has six Post-days in the week.

GARVAGHY, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but one about to be rebuilt; 74 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Thomas Beatty, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Garvaghy is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. from Dromore.

GAULSKILL, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkitt. Gaulskill is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. from Waterford. See, Dunkitt.

GEAGANSTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near the River Liffey.

GEALE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Prebend and Vicarage of Croghane, the Chapelry of Kilmore, the Rectory entire of Red City, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Tullaghmain; being the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cashel, which is valued in the King's Books at £12. Irish Money: no Church; no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0a. 2r. 14p., in the City of Cashel, four miles distant from any of the parishes: The Archdeaconry, vacant (in 1806): the duties are performed by The Rev. T. B. Dunlevie, Curate of the adjoining parish of Holy Cross, at an annual Salary of £5. Geale is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. b. W. from Thurles. The parishes in the Union of Geale are dispersed through the Diocese, and are in no instance contiguous to each other. The parish of Geale contains 617 acres of land.

GEASHILL, or, GESHIL, in the Barony of Geshil, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Vicarage; the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 sterling, and the Vicarage at £14..3..0; and united by Act of Council, but at what period is not known, to the Chapelry of Clonchorke; there is also the Chapelry of Killeigh annexed to, and included in this Benefice: a Church, in Geashill, in tolerably good repair, and the Chapel, at Killeigh, in similar order: an excellent Glebe House, near Geashill Church, with 52 acres of land, and about 8 acres, near the Chapel at Killeigh: William Digby, D. D., the Prebendary and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person, assisted by his Curates, The Rev. John Webb, and The Rev. Matthew Jellett; the Curate of Killeigh being paid £75. per annum; and the Curate of Geashill being paid upwards of that sum, he being accommodated with a House. Geashill is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Portarlington. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 6th of October, and 26th of December. The Castle is in ruins. It gives title of Baron to the family of Digby. The parishes in the Union of Geashill contain 16,000 acres of land. The parish of Clonchorke is distant from Geashill between four and five miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Clonchorke ought to be provided with a Church, a Minister, and a suitable residence. A very considerable part of the Town of Portarlington is in this parish (Clonchorke); and there are many Protestants, who have no place of worship. The Very Rev. Dean Digby is ready to concur in any measure that may be thought advisable, and there are persons of great consideration in the parish, who will, probably, assist either in erecting a Perpetual Curacy, or in rebuilding the Church.

GENEVA, or, NEW GENEVA, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilcop. It is 1¾ m. S. from Passage, East. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. This village was erected in an elegant and regular manner by Government, a few years since, for the reception of expatriated Citizens of Geneva : But they having relinquished the design of settling in Ireland, this place remains still uninhabited. It is governed by a Fort Major.

GERNONSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster : a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilsaran. Gernonstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Castle Bellingham. It is situate on Dundalk Bay. See, Kilsaran.

GERNONSTOWN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster : a R, valued in the King's Books at £14..8..6 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Stackallan. Gernonstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. W. from Slane. This parish contains 1442 acres of Land. See, Stackallan.

GERRANEKENNIF, v. GURRANE KENEFICH.

GERVAGHKERIN, in the Barony of ——— , Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster.—" A Monastery for Franciscan Friars of the third order was erected here, in the 15th century, and the Inquisition, taken A. D. 1603, finds, that the Cell of Franciscans of Gervaghkeirinn, in this county, was seized of half a quarter of land adjacent thereto, annual value one shilling. It was granted to Sir Henry Piers with the Friary of Corock."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 682.

GESHIL, v. GEASHILL.

GIANT'S CAUSEWAY, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 122 m. N. from Dublin. The following account of the Giant's Causeway is taken from a communication of The Rev. Richard Pocock,

LL. D., to The Royal Society of London, and inserted in the Philosophical Transactions, vol. 48. part 1. pp. 226. et seq.—" In a Letter, which I wrote in 1747 to Martin Folkes, Esq., President of The Royal Society, which was read in January, and printed in the Philosophical Transactions for that month, I observed, in relation to the Giant's Causeway, that there appeared in the Sea-Cliffs three strata of Pillars between 30 and 40 feet high, with strata of a black Rock between them; that the Causeway itself was the lowest of all these, extending in a point into the sea; and that another is seen towards the top of the Cliff. Last summer I took another view of it; I went from Bally-Castle, which is about 10 miles to the East of the Causeway. When I came two miles to the West of Bally-Castle, within less than a mile of Ballintoy, half a mile to the South of the Sea-cliffs, and about a quarter to the South of the road, I saw the same kind of Pillars in a low hill; I observed both Hexagons and Pentagons. The Rocks towards the sea appeared as if they were formed in the same manner; but when I came to them, I found it was only common rock in several strata, and perpendicular joints. I went on about two miles to a Peninsula, called Donseverik, where I saw some tendency in the rock towards this work of nature; and going about half a mile further, came to the beginning of the pillars in the Sea-cliff, as I believe, about five miles from the Causeway; and the shore and cliffs being shaped mostly in little semicircular Bays, I had many very beautiful views of the upper and middle strata of Pillars: in one, particularly, they had much of the appearance of ruined Portico's one over the other; and turning the little end of a Spy-glass, it appeared something like the ruins of Palmyra, as a View of them is represented in a Copper-plate, published in the Philosophical Transactions. This wonderful work of nature is continued on in the cliffs for about a quarter of a mile beyond the Giant's Causeway. I saw it again in the road to Coleraine, five miles to the West of the Causeway, in a low hill a furlong to the South of the Road, and two miles to the South of the Sea. The Pillars here are small; and being about a mile and a half from Ballimagarry, where the Earl of Antrim has a ruined house, lately burnt down, it served, as I suppose, for a Quarry for building part of that house in which I saw a great number of the stones, and particularly one of nine sides. I saw others near two miles farther, to the South of the road in a low hill, within two miles of Coleraine; so that the whole extends for about eleven Irish miles, or fourteen English.—As I spent a week at the Causeway, and sent away by sea to Dublin as great a variety of the stones as I could conveniently get, particularly a large octagon, with the eight large stones round it; a pair of less, with eight pair, that encompass it; two small pentagon pillars, about fourteen inches over, one of them 3 feet 10½ inches high, the other 5 feet 7 inches; one hexagon pillar, about the same size, and 5 feet 5 inches high; all which I have placed in my garden; so I have had an opportunity of considering it at leisure. It is a black stone, weighty and brittle: and I have been informed, that it was tried in a Glass-house, and that it melted with kelp, so as to make the black glass bottles: which experiment, I have been told, was made by Mr. Dobbs of this kingdom, who is now in London.—In relation to the joints in the pillars, this work of nature seems to be different from any thing yet known: and it must be very difficult to assign any satisfactory causes of it."

GILBERTSTOWN, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghade. Gilbertstown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Tullow. See, Aghade.

GILCAGH, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donhill: no Church, or Glebe. Gilcagh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Clolugh. See, Donhill, and Clonegan.

GILFORD, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 62¼ m. N. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Bann. Here is a Chalybeate spring. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, and November, custom free. It gives title of Baron to the family of Meade, now Earl of Clanwilliam.

GILTOWN, partly in the Barony of Naas, and partly in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunlavan. Giltown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. E. b. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge. See, Dunlavan.

GIRLY, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £8..16..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athboy. Girly is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. from Athboy. This parish contains 2539 acres of land. See, Athboy.

GLANBANE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Emly. Glanbane is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 7m. W. N. W. from Tipperary. See, Ballyscadane.

GLANBARAHANE, v. CASTLEHAVEN.

GLANBEHY, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahir. Glanbehy is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 13 m. S. W. from Milltown. See, Cahir.

GLANCHOLUIMCHILLE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—" St. Columb founded this Abbey. It is now a parish church in the Diocese of Kilfenora."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 46.

GLANDELAGH, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Derhassin. Glandelagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Rathdrum. It is situate upon the River Ovoca. The Fair is holden on the 20th of September. The Archdeaconry of Glandelagh is valued in the King's Books at £34..9..0 Irish Money. See, Derhassin, and Dublin.—" This was an ancient Episcopal See, and a well inhabited City, till about 1214, when the See was annexed to the Diocese of Dublin: And the City, memorable for its Religious edifices, not only suffered by decay, but insensibly became a receptacle for outlaws and robbers. The Archbishops of Dublin could not obtain quiet possession till 1479, in which year, on the 30th of May, a surrender was made in the Cathedral of St. Patrick, Dublin, by Friar Dennis White, who had long usurped that See, in opposition to the Regal authority: From this æra, Glandelagh has continued a desert: here the Mountains cast a melancholy gloom on the inferior valley, contracting every prospect; and so awful, so venerable is the scene, that, even to a momentary beholder, it appears as if formed for the study of the Eremetic life: Such was the situation chosen by St. Coemgene, or Keivin, who, descended from a Noble family, was born, A. D. 498; this Saint received the Sacrament of Baptism from the hands of St. Cronan, a priest, and at the age of seven years he was placed under the care and tuition of Petrocus, a Briton, who had passed many years in this kingdom for the exercise of learning. Under this Reverend man St. Keivin continued till 510, when his parents, Coinlogh and Coemhella, sent him to the cell of Dogain, Lochan, and Æneas or Enna, three holy Anachorites, with whom he studied a considerable time, previous to his embracing the Monastic profession; after which he took upon him the cowl and retired to these Wilds, where he wrote many learned works, particularly the life of St. Patrick, and where, he founded his Abbey, under the Invocation of St. Peter and St. Paul: Here he presided as Abbot and Bishop for a series of years, on the approach of death he received the sacrament from the hands of St. Mochuorog, and died on the 3d of June, A. D. 618, having nearly completed the uncommon and venerable age of one hundred and twenty years. His eminent virtues, his exemplary sanctity, and the miracles said to have been wrought by the Saint, drew multitudes from towns and cities, from ease and affluence, from the cares and avocations of civil life, and from the comforts and joys of society, to be spectators of his pious acts and sharers in his merits, and, with him, to encounter every severity of climate and condition: This influence extended even to Britain, and induced St. Mochuorog to convey himself hither, who fixed his Residence in a Cell on the East side of Glendalogh, where a city soon sprang up, and a seminary was founded, from whence were sent forth many saints and exemplary men, whose sanctity and learning diffused around the Western world that universal light of letters and religion, which, in the earlier ages, shone so resplendent throughout this remote, and, at that time, tranquil Isle, and were almost exclusively confined to it. On the 3d of June, annually, numbers of every sex and age flock to the Seven Churches, and there celebrate the Festival of the esteemed and venerated St. Keivin. The ruins of this abbey (being the first which a traveller perceives) are situated in the bottom of the vale, and consist of two buildings parallel to each other (the larger one, on the South, being the church); on the East end of the abbey is an arch, of extremely curious workmanship; the columns on the sides recede one behind another, and are very short, but do not diminish: the capitals are ornamented in a singular manner, most of them with human heads at the angles, and dragons or other fabulous animals at the sides; the heads have much the appearance of those in Egyptian sculpture, with large ears, long eyes, and the tresses of the hair strait; the ring-stones of the arch are indented triangularly, in imitation of the Saxon architecture, and in some parts human heads and other ornaments are within the triangular mouldings. On the removal of some heaps of rubbish from under the ruins of this arch, a few stones beautifully carved were found, many of them belonging to the arches, and some to the architrave of the window: the architrave is twelve inches broad, and a pannel is sunk, ornamented lozenge-wise, and an ovelo forms the lozenge, with a bead running on each side; the centre of the lozenge is decorated on one side, in bas relief, with a knot delicately carved; the other with a flower in the centre, and mouldings corresponding to the shape of the lozenge. The half-lozenge, at the bottom of the pilaster, in one is filled with a bas relief of a human head, with a bird on each side pecking at the eye, and the other by a dragon, twisting its head round and the tail turned up between its legs into the mouth. Here is another stone, apparently the capital of a column; two sides of it are visible, both are ornamented with a patera, but each side in a different manner; one consists of a flower of sixteen large leaves and fifteen smaller ones, relieved the eighth of an inch, and the other of six leaves branching from the centre, with another leaf extending between their points.—In describing the other ruins of this desolated city (which appears to have been built in an elegant style of Grecian architecture), we in some measure outstep the bounds originally prescribed, in which Monastic dwellings were alone included; but their contiguity to the abbey, which we have just now quitted, induces us to proceed to the next erection, called The Church of the Trinity; It stands on a rising ground, North of the Abbey; and, as the inhabitants say, was dedicated to the Holy Trinity; in the front of this church is a circular building upon a square base, which evidently was intended for a belfry, a sufficient space being left for the rope to come down. Hence let us come to The Seven Churches, for which Glandelagh has been for many centuries remarkable, and for which it will be celebrated, even when the vestiges now remaining are no more. The entrance to the area, on which these churches stand, is on the North-east side, through the ruins of a gateway, sixteen feet six inches in length, by sixteen feet in width; the arches, which are still entire, are nine feet seven inches wide and ten feet high, and the ring-stones, of mountain granite, are the full depth of the wall; the outside arch is composed of twenty four stones, and the inside one of twenty seven, which are two feet six inches in depth.—The Cathedral Church ranks as the first, and owes its origin to St. Keivin, by whom it was dedicated to the Patron Saints of the Abbey. It measures forty eight feet in length and thirty in width; on the South side were three small windows, and at the East end was an arch seventeen feet six inches wide, behind which was another building thirty seven feet six inches in length, by twenty three feet in width, with a beautiful window at the East end, on the North are two small ones, and one on the South, with a door three feet eight inches wide, communicating to a small building of sixteen feet by ten, the door of the church is seven feet four inches high, three feet six inches wide at top, and three feet ten at bottom: the jambs are composed of four courses and a lintel at top, over which is a discharging arch; the stones are the entire depth of the walls, with a reveal cut at the inside for the door, which appears to have turned on pivots; holes are cut for bars across, and iron cramps and bolts appear in some places; several courses of this building are of hewn stone, as well as a kind of pilasters, which project from the ends of the wall to the front and rear, and measure two feet six inches in width; the wall of the building to the East, within these, is detached, and has the appearance of a more modern style. Under a small window, at the South side of the choir, is a tomb of freestone, ornamented, and in the cemetery stands a Round tower, one hundred and ten feet high, uncommonly well built, and in fine preservation, the roof alone having suffered by time; at the bottom it measures fifty two feet in girth, and the walls are four feet thick. The remains of several crosses may still be seen amongst these ruins, and that situated in the cemetery of this church, particularly merits notice, being one entire stone, eleven feet in height.—St. Keivin's Kitchen (its vulgar appellation), was undoubtedly one of the Seven Churches, and is now almost entire, having suffered alone in the ruin of a window, the only one in the church, this was placed about eight feet from the South-east angle, and was ornamented with an architrave elegantly wrought, but being of free-stone, it was conveyed away by the neighbouring inhabitants, and brayed to powder for domestic use. The area of this church measures twenty two feet nine inches by fifteen, in height it is twenty feet, and the walls are three feet six in thickness; at the East end is an arch five feet three inches in width, which communicates to another building ten feet six in length, by nine feet three in width; on the North side of which is a door two feet two inches wide, which communicates with another chapel of the same length, and seven feet nine inches in width; each of these buildings has a small window in the centre to the East, the walls are three feet thick, and both measure twelve feet in height. The foundation, with two or three courses of the building, is laid of cut mountain grit; the door is six feet eight inches high, two feet four inches wide at top, and two feet eight inches at bottom, most of the stones run through the entire thickness of the wall; the lintel is five feet eight inches in length, by eleven inches and an half in depth, and a rude cornice, projecting about five inches, and measuring four feet ten inches long, by six inches in depth, is worked out of the same stone. A round Belfry rises from the West end of the church, the entrance to it is through a square hole in the cove of the church, over which, between the cove and the roof, is a large space, open to the belfry, that received its light from a small window. The height of this tower is about forty five feet; the roof, both of the church and tower, is composed of thin stones, very neatly laid, and with a very high pitch; the ridge of the roof is about thirty feet above the ground, and the double building at the rear, is only twenty feet; having ascended the roof of this building, we discover a groove cut in the East end of the larger building, which shews that this was not the original tower, but much higher and narrower than the former; indeed the walls of the double building are separated from those of the larger, and, though undoubtedly very ancient, yet the inferiority of the materials and workmanship, evidently show that this work was posterior to the former, and erected by much less skilful builders.—Our Lady's Church, the most Westward of the seven, and nearly opposite to the Cathedral, is now almost in ruins; but from the doorway, and the few remains of walls, it appears to have been built with more knowledge of the art than the other buildings. The door consists of only three courses; the lintel is five feet six inches in length, and fourteen inches and an half in depth; the door is six feet four in height, two feet six in width at top, and two feet ten at bottom; a kind of architrave is worked round the door six inches broad, and in the bottom of the lintel an ornament is wrought in a cross resembling the flyer of a stamping-press. The walls are carried up with hewn stone, in general of a large size, to about the height of the door, and the remainder are of the rude mountain rag-stone, but laid incomparably well. At the East end was an arch of hewn stone exactly similar to that of the Cathedral.—The Rhefeart, literally the Sepulchre of Kings, is famous for having seven princes interred within its limits; in this church is the tomb of Mac Mthuil, or O'Toole, the ancient Chieftain of the country, with the following inscription, in the Irish character:—

JESUS CHRIST
Mile Deach Feuch Corp Re Mac Mthuil.
See here the Resting-place of the body of King Mac Thuill, who died in Christ 1010.

Many others of this family are said to have been interred here, where a stone cross, elegantly carved, is still preserved.—Priory of St. Saviour, commonly called the Eastern Church. Of this building, little can be said, the foundation only remaining; but about five years since, a quantity of stone, remarkably well wrought, was discovered here, and on removing an heap of rubbish, the collection of many centuries, two clusters of columns were found, with curious emblematic decorations, which had supported a great fretted arch, composed of the beforementioned stones, which led to the discovery.—THE IVY CHURCH, is situated somewhat to the Westward, and has large breaches in its walls long since overgrown with ivy; nothing worthy of remark can be found in this building, which is entirely unroofed.—TEAMPULLNA SKELLIG. Situated in the recess of the South mountain, was the ancient Priory of the Rock, and was also called, The Temple of the Desert, both expressive of the Irish appellation.—The celebrated BED OF ST. KEIVIN, on the South side of the Lough, is a cave, hewn in the solid rock, on the side of the mountain, exceeding difficult in ascent and terrible in prospect, for it hangs perpendicular over the lake, at an alarming height above the surface of the water; at a small distance from this bed, on the same side of the mountain, are to be seen, the ruins of a small stone building, called ST. KEIVIN'S CELL.—We shall now bid adieu to this illustrious Seminary, which (in the language of a late eminent writer) 'was once the Luminary of the WESTERN WORLD, whence savage Septs and roving barbarians derived the benefits of knowledge and the blessings of religion'. The romantic shape of the surrounding Mountains, many of which are covered with a fresh spring of wood, and others, though of a surprising height, retaining the liveliest verdure almost throughout the year; these, added to the winding form of a very fertile valley, which terminates in a Lake of considerable extent, increase our veneration; in a word, on a review of such a scene, 'to abstract the mind from all local emotion would be impossible, if it were endeavoured, and would be foolish, if it were possible. Whatever withdraws us from the power of our senses; whatever makes the past, the distant, or the future, predominate over the present, advances us in the dignity of thinking beings. Far from us and from our friends be such frigid philosophy as may conduct us indifferent and unmoved over any ground which has been dignified by wisdom or by virtue. That man is little to be envied, whose piety will not grow warmer as he treads the ruins of Glandelogh'!"—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 765. et seq.

GLANDUFF, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 10 m. S. S. W, from Rathkeale.

GLANDY, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, here the Abbey of the Vale of God was built, and which was a daughter of the Abbey of Jerpoint, in the county of Kilkenny.

GLANELY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. Glanely is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Wicklow. See, Wicklow.

GLANEVY, v. GLENAVY.

GLANGRAGH, or, THE VALE OF CHARITY, in the Barony of Garrycastle, King's County, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here in the year 1200, which was a daughter of the Abbey of Swiry, of the line of Clariveaux.

GLANINAGH, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Treasurership of Kilfenora; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromcrehy. Glaninagh is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 13 m. N. from Innistymon. It is situate upon Galway bay. See, Dromcrehy.

GLANKEEN, in the Barony of Ileagh, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, and of which the Archbishop of Cashel is Prebendary, without cure of souls: the Vicarage is endowed: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas Green, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Glankeen is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Burros Ileagh, on the North-east. This parish contains 6260 acres of land.

GLANMIRE, LOWER, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 4½ m. E. N. E. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Glanmire.

GLANMIRE, UPPER, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 4¼ m. N. N. E. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Glanmire.

GLANMORE, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Corps of which is the Rectory thereof, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and united by Act of Council, at some distant and unknown time, to the Vicarages of Ballydelaughy, and Derryvillane, the R. and V. of Kilgulane, and the Particle of Ligane: a Church, in repair, at Glanworth: a Glebe House, now building, at Glanworth; and a Glebe, of 3 acres, above two miles from the church: Richard Woodward, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin at present, while his Glebe House is building: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Oliver Lodge, at a Salary of £75. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, all the Members of this Union, except Glanmore, are too small for a Clergyman's support. Glanmore is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. W. b. S. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon. The parishes in the Union of Glanmore are contiguous; their extent being 9 miles from North to South, and 6 miles from East to West.

GLANMORE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Kilmackevoge. It is 4½ m. S. W. from New Ross.

GLANOGRA, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fedamore. Glanogra is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. S. W. from Six Mile Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of May, and 28th of October. See, Fedamore.

GLANTON, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 4¾ m. S. W. b. S. from Mallow. A village.

GLANWORTH, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Glanmore. It is 4¼ m. S. W. b. S. from Mitchelstown. It was anciently a Corporation, but is gone to decay. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of March, 13th of May, 10th of August, 24th of September, and 30th of November. It is situate on the River Funcheon, over which it has a stone Bridge. See, Glanmore.—"The family of Roche founded a Monastery here in the year 1227, for Friars of the Order of St. Dominick: but Dr. Bourke says, this foundation (dedicated to The Holy Cross) was at some later period."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 70.

GLASHARE, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathdowny. Glashare is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. b. E. from Rathdowny. See, Rathdowny.

GLASLOUGH, in the Barony of Trough, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3¾ m. N. N. E. from Monaghan. The Fairs are holden on the last Saturday in every month. The Castle has lately been repaired.

GLASNAOIDHEN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.—"In the territory of Galeng, and near the River Liffey. St. Mobhius, surnamed Bernhan (one of St. Brigid's family), was Abbot here; he died on the 12th of October 544, on which day his feast was commemorated. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 315.

GLASNEVIN, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Crinus Irwin, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice in the City of Dublin: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Disney, at a Salary of £62. per annum. Glasnevin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. from Dublin.

GLASS CARRIG, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on the Sea-coast, 6 m. S. E. from Gorey. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Priory for Benedictine Monks here, which was subject to the Monastery of St. Dogmael, in the county of Pembroke; whose Abbot was always to present one of his Monks to succeed on the death of the Prior of Glass Carrig.

GLASSDRUMMIN, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, about to be built, on a Glebe of 20 acres Irish, lying together, and about a mile distant from the church: The Rev. James Clarke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Glassdrummin is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

GLASSMORE, v. MOORTOWN.

GLEANCHAOIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster.—" St. Patrick built an Abbey here. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 46.

GLEANE, or, GLIN, in the Barony of Garrycastle, King's County, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on the River Brosna, near Firbane.—" St. Diermit built an Abbey here, which then had the name of Glinnhusann, where his Festival is observed on the 8th of July."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 398.

GLEANIN-DEACHTA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.—" In the territory of Trian-Conguill; this valley still retains this name, says Father Colgan, in the Diocese of Connor. St. Patrick founded a Church or Abbey in that part of the Glin, which is called Machaire-Morna, or Mudhorn."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

GLEANNDALLAIN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught.—" St. Osnata, who lived in the time of St. Columb, is honoured here on the 6th of January."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 633.

GLENARM, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Teckmacraven. It is 105½ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of May, and 29th of October. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is Glenarm Castle, the magnificent Mansion of The Earl of Antrim.—" A Monastery was built here, for Franciscan Friars of the Third Order, in the year 1465, by Robert Bisset, a Scotchman. This monastery, and the lands belonging thereto, were granted to Alexander Mac Donnell, ancestor to the Earls of Antrim. There are still some remains of this building, on the Bay of Glenarm."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 6.

GLENAVY, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and anciently united to the Vicarages of Camlin, and Tullyrusk: a good Church, in Glenavy, nearly the centre of the Union; no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. S. Dieubourdieu, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident, by permission, on account of his age and infirmities: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum; the Income of the Living being small. Glenavy is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 77 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, and 29th of October. It is situate near to Lough Neagh. It is a Post-office town. The parishes of Camlin, Glen-avy, and Tullyrusk, are contiguous, and contain together 15,664 acres of land.

GLENCOLLUMBKILL, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Thomas Roulston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Glencollumbkill is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but a single parish. It is 11½ m. N. W. b. W. from Killybeggs. It is situate upon the Sea coast.

GLENDALOGH, v. GLANDELAGH.

GLEN INN, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 10 m. N. N. W. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon the Lake Glen. According to Mr. Seward, two miles from hence are some magnificent ruins of a Castle.

GLENOE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. from Larne. A village.

GLENOGRA, v. GLANOGRA.

GLIN, v. GLEANE.

GLINUS, v. GLYNNE.

GLISSHARE, v. GLASHARE.

GLUAIRE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"In the territory of Latharn, in Dalrieda. St. Patrick built a Church here, in which rests St. Molassius. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 7.

GLYNN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killfergus. It is 3 m. E. from Tarbert. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The Fairs are holden on the first Wednesday O. S., in September, and 3d of December. Here is the pleasant Seat of Mr. Fitzgerald, Knight of the Glynn.

GLYNNE, or, GLINUS, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1799, to the Rectories of Skerry, and Racavan. Glynne is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 3369 acres of land. It is 1½ m. S. from Larne. It is situate upon Larne Lough. See, Skerry.

GOAT, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Roaring Water Bay, and is a small, but fruitful spot.

GODDARSTOWN, v. LICKFINN.

GOLA, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. S. E. from Enniskillen.—" A Monastery dedicated to the Nativity of the Virgin Mary, was founded at Gaula, for Dominican Friars, by Mac Manus, lord of the place: Maguire, the Dynast of Fermanagh, contributed largely to the foundation, and John, the son of the founder, who had been educated at the Dominican Friary of Athenry, was extremely solicitous in forwarding this work. Some remains of the monastery are yet to be seen, and particularly where formerly stood the village of Gola."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 261.

GOLA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

GOLDEN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 3½ m. W. from Cashel. A village, situate upon the River Suir. The Fairs are holden on the 18th of May, 26th of August, and October, and 15th of December.

GOODBORN, or, WOODBORN, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. from Belfast.—" A Priory, dedicated to The Holy Cross, was founded here, for Premonstre, or White Canons. It was a daughter of the Abbey of Drieburgh; probably this may be the same with Druin la Croix. The Bissets, a powerful family in the neighbourhood of Athol, in Scotland, being principally concerned in the murder of Patrick, Earl of Athol, were obliged, in the year 1242, to abandon their country, and take shelter in this kingdom. Alan de Galvia, Duncan de Carrig, and the Bissets from Scotland, had lands given to them here by King Henry III. Some of these, probably, founded this priory in atonement for the murder of that Earl. It was resigned into the hands of the King's Commissioners, on the 1st March 1542, the 34° Henry VIII." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 7.

GORE'S-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 51 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Barrow. It has six Post-days in the week.

GOREY, otherwise, CHRIST CHURCH NEWBOROUGH, otherwise, KILMAKELOGUE, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., united to the Rectories of Kilkevan, Kilnehue, and Maglass; constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £33..6..8 Irish Money: the Deanery is holden under the Crown; the several parishes are not set forth in the Patent, and it is, therefore, presumed, that this Union is from time immemorial, by authority of the Crown: a Church, in repair, in the town of Gorey: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 a. 2 r. 20 p., at Kilnehue; another, of 8 a. 2 r. 0 p., at Kilkevan; and a third, of 6 a. 1 r. 20 p., at Clonattin, in the parish of Gorey: these Glebes are not contiguous, one being about two miles, and the other three, from the church; but a glebe is promised in exchange within a quarter of a mile of the church: The Rev. Peter Browne, the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the Diocese of Elphin, in a parish which he holds by Faculty: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Ottiwell Moore, at a Salary of £80. per annum. Gorey is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 45½ m. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June, 10th of July, 31st of August, and 27th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. The three parishes of Gorey, Kilkevan, and Kilnehue, are contiguous; they are of irregular form, and contain about 10,000 acres. The parish of Maglass, from whence the Dean derives tythes, is distant from Gorey from 27 to 30 miles. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Recorder, and Town Clerk.

GORMANSTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. N. W. from Balbriggan. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. Here is the Seat of Lord Gormanstown.

GORT, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 98 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of May, 11th of August, and 7th of November. See, Kilmacduagh.

GORTIN, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 7¾ m. N. N. E. from Omagh. The Fair is holden on Easter Monday.

GORTROE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united, from the earliest time, and probably under the authority then competent, to the R. and V. of Desert, and constituting the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cloyne, which is valued in the King's Books at £1..5..0 sterling: a Church, in repair, at Gortroe: no Glebe House: a small Glebe, at Cloyne; and another, of 6 acres, at Gortroe: The Hon. and Rev. James St. Leger, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Living in the Diocese of Cashel: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Ross, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Gortroe is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. b. E. from Rathcormuck. The parishes in the Union of Gortroe are contiguous; their extent being 4 miles North and South, by 3 miles East and West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Gortroe is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

GOWRAN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £26. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £13..6..8: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 10 acres, contiguous, and about a quarter of a mile from the church; and there are some few acres more dispersed about the town of Gowran, for which Lord Cliffden pays rent: The Rev. John B. Ridge, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident in his parish of Eyrke, in this Diocese: the duties are discharged by his Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Gowran is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 52 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 8th of December. It is governed by a Portrieve, Recorder, and Town Clerk. Here is the handsome Seat of Lord Cliffden. It gives title of Baron to the family of Fitzpatrick, now Earl of Upper Ossory.

GRACE DIEU, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. N. from Swords.—"About the year 1190, John Comin, Archbishop of Dublin, removed the Nunnery from Lusk hither, and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary on her Nativity: he filled it with Regular Canonesses following the Rule of St. Augustin, and granted an endowment to it. Part of the ruins yet remain; in which is a head carved in stone, which shows that the building of Grace Dieu, though not spacious, was by no means a work of an inferior order. The ancient road leading from this Nunnery to Swords, formerly a town of note, is still to be seen, paved with a reddish stone, whereon are several small bridges."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 216.

GRACE HILL, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Ballymena. Here is a settlement of Moravian Brethren; and near it is a Seat of Lord Mount Cashell. It is situate upon the River Maine.

GRAIG, or, GRAIGENAMANAGH, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ullard. Graig is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 58 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Barrow, whither the tide flows up, and over which is a good Bridge here. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Ullard.—"Some Monks of the Cistertian Abbey of Stanley, in Wiltshire, seated themselves in the year 1202 at Lough-meran, near Kilkenny, then at Athamolt (Athermolt), and lastly at the Vale of St. Saviour, otherwise Duisk, now called Graigenamanagh, where a Monastery dedicated to the Virgin Mary was founded for them, A. D. 1212, by William Marescall, the elder, Earl of Pembroke, who came into Ireland in 1207."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 351.

GRAIGENAMANAGH, v. GRAIG.

GRALLAGH, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Hollywood. Grallagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 12 m. N. from Dublin. See, Hollywood.

GRANARD, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £14. sterling, and Episcopally united, sixty years and upwards, to the Vicarages of Ballymacalenny, Ballymachugh, and Drumlummon: three Churches, all in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is preparing to build: three Glebes, about three miles distant from each other, containing 220 acres: The Rev. John Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by four Curates, at a Salary of £60. per annum to each. Granard is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 52 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of May, and 1st of October. It gives title of Earl to the family of Forbes. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Granard are contiguous; their estimated extent being 12 miles in length, and 10 miles in breadth.

GRANEY, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Dermot. Graney is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. E. b. S. from Castle Dermot. See, Castle Dermot.—"Walter de Riddlesford, about the year 1200, founded a Nunnery here (under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary) for Canonesses of the Order of St. Augustin, or of the Order of St. Brigid. It is now a burial-place of note, and Bishop Pococke, in his Itinerary, particularly observes its ruins."— Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 315.

GRANGE, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 37 English acres of Glebe, lying together, near the church: The Rev. George A. Stewart, the Incumbent (in 1806). Grange is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. from Armagh.

GRANGE, formerly GRANY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster, in the parish of Athnowen. It is situate upon the River Bride. A Nunnery is said to have been here formerly.

GRANGE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., under Sequestration: The Rev. William Ashe, the Incumbent (in 1806). Grange is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel.

GRANGEFORTH, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Urglin. Grangeforth is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. See, Urglin.

GRANGE-GEETH, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel of Ease, belonging to Armagh: no Church, or Glebe, or House, or Salary. Grange-Geeth is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. from Slane.

GRANGE GORMAN, within the Liberties of the City of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: no Church: the parishioners resort for Divine Service to St. Paul's, which is very convenient: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry Campbell, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. The Manor of Grange Gorman is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin.

GRANGE MOCLEER, or, NINE MILE HOUSE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate: The Church is in ruins. Grange Mocleer is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. b. W. from Callen. See, Templemihil.

GRANGE-MONACHORUM, or, GRANGEROSNOLVIN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Dermot. Grange-Monachorum is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. from Ballytore. See, Castle Dermot.—"Tradition says, there was a Nunnery here, but of which there are now no remains."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 315.

GRANGE MONK, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Baggott, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident by reason of the smallness of the Income: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Weldon, Rector of the neighbouring parish, who accepts no retribution. Grange Monk is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. E. b. S. from Carlow. It is situate near the River Slaney. This Vicarage extends over a small district, and is worth less than £20. per annum.

GRANGEROSNOLVIN, v. GRANGE-MONACHORUM.

GRANGE, ST. JOHN BAPTIST, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahir. Grange, St. John Baptist, is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. from Fethard. This parish contains 1400 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of St. John Baptist Grange ought to be perpetually united to the entire Rectory of Mora, though they do not join, but are divided from each other by a very small neck of the parish of Donaghmore; either of these alone would be of much too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, being very small parishes. The Crown is the Patron of the Vicarage of St. John Baptist Grange. The Bishop is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Mora. See, Cahir.

GRANGE SILVÆ, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, about to be built: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Edward Bayly, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Mr. Stone, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Grange Silvæ is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. E. from Gowran. It is situate near the River Barrow.

GRAY, or, GREY ABBEY, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure: a good Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the Income is only £55. per annum. The Rev. Henry Dillon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Gray Abbey is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. S. b. W. from Donaghadee. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, the second Tuesday O. S., in June, and the 29th of October. It is situate on Strangford Lough.—"This Monastery under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary of the Yoke of God, was founded on the 25th of August, in the year 1192 or 1193, by Africa, daughter of Godred, King of Man, and wife to Sir John de Courcey. She furnished it with Cistertian Monks from the Abbey of Holm Cultrain, in Cumberland, and chose to take up her last residence here.—This abbey was ruined in the rebellion, raised by Tyrone, towards the close of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The statue of the foundress, in alto relievo, carved in free-stone, though much defaced, is yet to be seen in an arch on the Gospel side of the high Altar: The building was large and magnificent, the East window of the church is a noble Gothic design of three compartments, each about six feet in width and upwards of twenty in height: on the North and South walls, on each side of the altar, is a large window of free-stone, neatly carved, and of the same breadth with the East window, but lower; the cells, dormitory, &c., are all in ruins, and part of the West end is fitted up for church service."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 120.

GRAYSTOWN, or, SKORNAN, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Cashel. Graystown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. S. W. from Killenaule. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of July, and 6th of December. See, Ballynure, and Templeneiry.

GREAN, or, PALICE GREAN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1788, to the Vicarage of Templebredin: a new Church building at Grean, in the place of one which, from age, was falling down: a Glebe House, at Grean: four Glebes; two of which are at Grean, one of them being 6 a. 2 r. 27 p., and the other being 2 acres; the other two were procured from Governor E. Smith's school, viz., one of them, in 1745, consisting of 19 a. 3 r. 13 p., and the other, in 1781, being 12 acres: The Rev. Garret Wall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Grean is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¼ m. N. W. from Tipperary. The parishes in the Union of Grean are contiguous; that of Grean containing 3193 acres of land. This is said to have been formerly a Corporation Town; and in which, we are also told, there was a Collegiate church.

GREANY, v. GREAN.

GREAT ISLAND, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Harbour of Cork, and contains the parishes of Clonmell, Kilgarvan, Temple Robin, and the Post-office Town of Cove. It is four miles in length, and seven in breadth. The largest ships in the British Navy may ride opposite to Cove, and the vessels trading to Cork generally anchor there. According to Mr. Archdall, the Festival of St. Saran, the son of Archuir, is observed here on the 15th of May.

GREAT ISLE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in the River Barrow, at the distance of six miles S. b. W. from New Ross.

GREENAGH, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Garrycloyne. Greenagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. N. W. b. N. from Cloyne. See, Garrycloyne.

GREEN CASTLE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster. It is 16 m. N. N. E. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Foyle. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, and the 13th of August, and two following days.

GREEN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is situate in the Harbour of Donaghadee, and contains only two acres of land.

GREEN, ISLAND, or, GUERNO ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. N. E. from Strangford.

GREENOCK, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmethon. Greenock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Clonmethon.

GREENOGUE, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ratoath. Greenogue is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 9½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. This parish contains 766 acres of land. See, Ratoath.

GREY ABBEY, v. GRAY.

GROOM-PORT, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. N. E. b. E. from Bangor. It is situate on the South side of Belfast Lough.

GUERNO, ISLAND, v. GREEN ISLAND.

GUILCAGH, v. GILCAGH.

GUNGEDAH, v. CASTLE JORDAN.

GUNNES, ISLAND, off the Barony of Lecale, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 6½ m. E. b. S. from Downpatrick.

GURRANE KENEFICH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Youghall: The Church is in ruins: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Gurrane Kenefich is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. W. b. S. from Cloyne. It it situate upon Cork Harbour. See, Youghall. For Parochial purposes, it is united to Aghada. It has belonged to the Bishop's Mensal from the earliest time.

GURTANAGLISH, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster. See, Cahircorney.

H.

HACKETSTOWN, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, ever since the year 1693, to the V. of Haroldstown: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Hacketstown: no Glebe House: three Glebes; two in Hacketstown, containing in the whole two acres and an half, but detached from each other nearly three hundred yards; and one in Haroldstown, of 6 acres, contiguous to the site of the old church, and three miles distant from the glebes in Hacketstown: The Rev. Daniel Mac Neille, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is non-resident by reason of incurable infirmity: The duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Dooley, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Hacketstown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 41½ m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday in February, 12th of March, 4th of May, the Thursday after Trinity Sunday, 21st of August, 18th of September, the third Thursday in November, and 21st of December. It has three Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Hacketstown are contiguous; their contents being 31,800 acres. The value of the Benefice of Hacketstown is £350., and of that of Haroldstown £70: Total £420. It is a mountainous country.

HACKNEYS, or, KILLCUMMIN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Prebend of Killpeacon. Hackneys is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Killpeacon.

HAGGARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Lurgan Green. It is situate on Dundalk Bay.

HAINSTOWN, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, or Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and holden by Licence with the Vicarage of Naas. Hainstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. E. b. N. from Naas. This parish contains 110 acres of land. See, Naas.

HAMILTON'S BAWN, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 1¾ m. S. from Rich-hill. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, and November. It is a large well built village, and is recorded in the Poetical works of the celebrated Dean Swift.

HANAA, v. BELTURBET.

HANACHREEN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

HANAMINE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

HANMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Clew Bay.

HARE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Roaring Water Bay; and is a large, fruitful spot.

HARE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Galway Harbour.

HARE, ISLAND, in the Barony of Kilkenny West, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Ree. According to Mr. Archdall, the family of Dillon built an Abbey here, but we know nothing of its history.

HAROLDSTOWN, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Hacketstown. Haroldstown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. See, Hacketstown.

HARRISTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, united to the Vicarage of Rathmore. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Kilcullen-Bridge. It formerly gave title of Baron to the Eustace family. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Recorder, and Town Clerk. See, Rathmore.

HARRISTOWN, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, though locally situate in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £2..6..8; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilbrackan. Harristown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Kildare. This parish contains 2000 acres of land. See, Kilbrackan.

HAWLBOWLING, ISLAND, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is ½ m. S. from Cove, in the Harbour of Cork. Here is a Royal Dock-yard. And the Island, which contains about twenty acres, is well protected by extensive fortifications.

HAZELHATCH, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is 8 m. S. W. from Dublin. A village.

HEADFORD, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Kilkilvery. It is 103 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, and 14th of October. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Kilkilvery.

HELEN, ST., in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. N. E. from Broadway. It is situate upon the Sea-coast.

HEYNSTOWN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..6..8 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Woolesly, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from Castle Bellingham. Heynstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. from Dundalk.

HIBHETHACH, the Baronies of Upper and Lower Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster.

HIGH ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.

HILFOTHUIR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster.—"An Abbey was founded here for Monks of the Cistertian Order, A. D. 1194, by O'Dogharty. It was a daughter of the Abbey of Asrhoe, and in process of time was united to it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 99.

HILLSBOROUGH, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Drumbeg, Drumboe, and Kilclief, constituting the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Down, which is valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a magnificent Church, in the town, built by the late Earl of Hillsborough: a good Glebe House, on a Glebe of 22 acres, subject to a rent of £34. per annum: The Rev. John Dickson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Hillsborough is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 4000 acres of land. It is 69½ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It gives title of Earl to the family of Hill, now Marquess of Downshire. The Fairs are holden on the third Wednesdays in February, May, August, and November. It has six Post-days in the week. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, and Deputy Sovereign. The Marquess of Downshire is Hereditary Constable of the Fort.

HOARETOWN, v. HORETOWN.

HOATH, v. HOWTH.

HOG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate at the entrance of the River Shannon, one mile South from Kilrush.

HOLLYMOUNT, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Killcommon. It is 107 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of May, and 11th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Robe. See, Killcommon.

HOLLYWOOD, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 12 a. 0 r. 4 p., a quarter of a mile from the church: the Income, exclusive of the glebe, is only £40. per annum: The Rev. William Pratt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Hollywood is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. E. from Belfast. It is situate upon Belfast Lough.—" A Monastery was founded here, for Friars of the third order of St. Francis. We know not to whom it owed its origin, although M. Allemande, without the least authority, gives it to one of the Annesleys, which family was not settled in the North of Ireland, until long after the final suppression of monasteries."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 121.

HOLLYWOOD, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7..4..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Grallagh, and Naul: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Naul: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5½ acres, in the parish of Hollywood, two miles from the church: The Rev. John Echlin, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Hollywood is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 12 m. N. from Dublin. The parishes in the Union of Hollywood are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 4 miles, and, from North to South, 2½ miles.

HOLLYWOOD, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7..7..4 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, and 20 acres of Glebe, within one mile of the church: The Rev. Skeffington Preston, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his benefice at Inch; the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Thomas Tucker, at a Salary of £50., and the use of the glebe house and offices gratis. Hollywood is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¾ m. S. S. W. from Blessington. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, 3d of May, 1st of August, and November.

HOLM-PATRICK, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Henry Johnson, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Holm-Patrick is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Balbriggen. It is situate upon the Irish Sea.—" Sitric, the Son of Marchard, founded a Priory for Regular Canons on Inis Patrick, an island about a mile South East of Holm-Patrick. The situation of this priory (the ruins of which are still visible), being very inconvenient, it was, between the years 1213, and 1228, removed by Henry, Archbishop of Dublin, to Holm-Patrick, on the Sea-side, 14 miles North by East from Dublin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 218.

HOLY CROSS, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, inserted in the same Licence with Rathkennan, when a Curate is appointed: a Church, in indifferent repair, at Holy Cross: no Glebe House, but 20 acres of Glebe Land have lately been purchased by the Board of First Fruits, and granted to Holy Cross, on which a Glebe House will shortly be built: The Rev. Thomas B. Dunlevie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. The whole Tythes of these two parishes, except £12. per annum, are received by Lay Impropriators. The Income has been made up to the sum of £60. per annum to the Curate, by the Trustees of Primate Boulter's bequest. Holy Cross is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Thurles. It is situate upon the River Suir. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 24th of September, and 18th of October.—" Donogh Carbragh O'Brien, King of Limerick, founded a celebrated Abbey here, in honour of the Holy Cross, St. Mary and St. Benedict, for Monks of the Cistertian Order. This abbey was a daughter of the Abbey of Nenay, or Maig, in the County of Limerick, and the Abbot was stiled Earl of Holy Cross, the lands belonging to the abbey being an Earldom; he was also a Baron of Parliament, and was usually Vicar General of the Cistertian Order in Ireland. The architecture of this erection was uncommonly fine, the building consists of an high steeple nearly square, supported on each side by a beautiful Gothic arch, and in the centre by a great variety of ogives passing diagonally from each angle, &c.: on the East side thereof is a small Chapel, 21 feet in breadth and 24 in length; the roof is arched, and beautifully supported by a number of ogives from the sides and angles; on the South side is a Gothic tomb, which, according to O'Hallaran, is that of the founder, with a cross thereon but no inscription; the tradition of the place, however, informs us, that this tomb was erected for the Good Woman, who brought the Holy relique hither: between the nave and steeple is a space of 21 f. 6 in. in breadth, and 30 in length, detached from the nave by an arch, which, we suppose, made a part of the choir: the nave is 49 feet broad, and 58 long; on each side is an arcade of four arches, with lateral aisles which pass on either side of that part we conclude to have been the choir: the entrance is by a door at the West end, under a large window. On the South side of the choir are two Chapels each about 10 feet square, and both of them arched and supported as the other parts of the building; between these are a double row of Gothic arches, supported by twisted pillars, each distant about two feet four inches from the other; here the ceremony of waking the Monks was performed, and not where the holy relique was kept, as remarked by a respectable writer, in a plate which by mistake is reversed: on the North side of the choir are two other Chapels, each of them seven feet long, and eleven feet broad, with roofs supported in like manner as the others; and between these and the opposite lateral aisle the whole is arched; but opposite the South chapel there is an open space, with a large flight of stairs leading to the steeple, &c.; in the north angle of which are stairs which ascend to the top. The difference in the work of this monastery is very extraordinary; nothing could have been more highly finished than the steeple and chapels, which are built of marble and limestone, yet the nave, the aisles, and adjoining ruins, are miserably mean. On the South side the ruins cover a considerable space. The River Suire, which before it reaches the sea is so amazingly extensive, flows near the ruins of this monastery in a small stream. A parish church, with a few wretched Cabbins, are the only remains of a once celebrated town."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 658. et seq.

HOOKE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Feathard. Hooke is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Feathard. It is situate upon St. George's Channel: and the tower is now a Light-house for shipping. This parish contains 576 acres of land. See, Feathard.

HORE ABBEY, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, Episcopally united, in 1789, to the R. and V. of Brickendown; no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. R. Alexander, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at New Ross, from whence he performs the duties of a parish, in the Diocese of Ossory: the duties are performed by The Rev. Frederick Neligan, the Curate of the adjoining parish of St. John's, in 1806. Hore Abbey is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. S. W. from Cashel. The parishes in the Union of Hore Abbey are nearly contiguous; that of Hore Abbey containing 777 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—"Hore Abbey, called also St. Mary's Abbey of the Rock of Cashel, was situated near the Cathedral Church, and originally founded for Benedictines: But the Archbishop, David Mac Carvill, having dreamed, in the year 1269, or 1272, that these Monks had made an attempt to cut off his head, he violently dispossessed the unfortunate men, of their house, lands, &c., and gave the whole of their possessions to a body of Cistertian Monks, whom he brought from the Abbey of Mellifont, in the county of Louth, and at the same time took on himself the habit of that order. The noble ruins of this erection still remain, and are for the most part entire. The steeple is large, and about 20 feet square on the inside, which is supported by a variety of ogives from each angle, some meeting in an octagon in the center, and others at the key stones of the vault, and the structure is supported by two fine arches about thirty feet high. The choir or chapel, which adjoins the East side of the steeple, is about 29 feet in length and 24 in breadth on the inside: The East window is small and plain; and in the side walls are some remains of stalls, &c. The nave is 60 feet in length, 23 in breadth, and on each side was an arcade of three Gothic arches, the North side whereof is levelled, with lateral aisles, which were about 13 feet broad; between this and the steeple is a part, but we are equally ignorant as to its name and the use it was applied to, it is 31 feet in length, of the same breadth with the nave, and divided from the steeple by a plain wall; on each side are similar arcades of two arches only, and this opens with the West arch of the steeple. On the south side of the steeple is a small door leading into an open part, about 30 feet long and 24 broad: the side walls are much broken, and in the gable end is a long window; there is a similar division on the North side of the steeple. Here is a small, low, arched apartment, which seems to have been a Confessionary, as there are niches in the wall, with holes, &c."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 648.

HORETOWN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1759, to the R. of Kilgarvan, and the Impropriate Cures of Ballyingly, Ballylennan, and Downony; and, in 1791, to the V. of Inch: and with which are also holden, by Licence, the Impropriate Cures of Clongeen, and Kilcowanmore, presented to the present Incumbent by Mr. Leigh, the Lay Impropriator: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Horetown: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Simon Little, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjoining parish of Ballymitty, and discharges all the duties in person. Horetown is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. W. from Taghmon. The parishes in the Union of Horetown are all contiguous, and contain 6968 acres; some of them being of little or no value. The Vicarage of Inch is of the value of £24..9..11. The Impropriate Cures of Clongeen, and Kilcowanmore, pay only £11. annually. The Impropriate Cures of Ballyingly, and Downony, belong to the See of Ferns.—" In the Fourteenth century, a Monastery for Carmelite or White Friars, was founded at Little Horton, by ——— Furlong, who endowed and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary. On the suppression, this friary was granted to Sir John Davis, who assigned to Francis Talbot."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 747.

HORSE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. This Island contains about 100 acres of land.

HORSE-LEAP, v. ARDNURCHER.

HORSE-PASS-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Blessington. A village.

HORTLAND, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Ballysculloge. It is 5 m. S. W. b. W. from Kilcock. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of May, and 9th of December.

HOSPITAL, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Hospital is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. W. S. W. from Tipperary. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of May, 9th of July, 8th of September, and 30th of October. This parish contains 2190 acres of land. See, Any.—" In the Records this is always called, The Hospital of Any, although it is a full mile North of that village. A Commandery for Knights Hospitallers was founded here, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, in the reign of King John, by Geoffrey de Mariscis; who was chief Governor of Ireland in the year 1215. Queen Elizabeth granted this hospital and its possessions to Sir Valentine Browne, who erected a magnificent Castle on the site of the same, which castle is now in ruins. The walls of the ancient church yet remain: and in a nich on the North side of the high altar is the tomb of a Knight, in alto relievo, which is said to be the tomb of the founder."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 420. et seq.

HOWTH, or, HOATH, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Curacies of Baldoyle, and Kilbarrack, and the Prebend of Howth in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed, which is valued in the King's Books at £24..6..10 Irish Money: the Church is in ruins; but the sum of £500. has been granted to rebuild it on the old site, if a more convenient one cannot be forthwith procured: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Lewis, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, and is about to reside: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. John Gavan, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Howth is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7¾ m. N. E. b. E. from Dublin. It gives title of Earl to the family of St. Laurence. This Promontory, on which is a Light-house, forms the North entrance of Dublin Bay. Here is a Druidical Altar. It has been in the possession of the family of St. Laurence above 600 years: which family is so called, from their having gained a victory over the Danes, on their first landing hereabouts in 1177, on St. Laurence's day, their former name being Tristram. The Sword, with which the famous Chieftain gained this battle, was hung up in the Hall at Howth, and still remains there to perpetuate the victory.

HUA-DERCHAIN, a Valley, anciently so called, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

HUARAN HICHLABACH, v. ORAN.

HUECHIA, the Baronies of Upper and Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.

HUGHESTOWN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Hughestown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

HY FALGIA, the Barony of Ophaly.

HY-MEITH-TIRE, the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster.

HY-TUIRTRE, a small Territory on the Eastern Bank of Lough Neagh, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

I.

IBERIUS, ST., in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. St. Iberius is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is adjacent to Broadway, on the South East. It is situate upon Lough Ta. See, Killenick.

ICANE, ISLES, v. ISLAND of KEANE.

IGHTERMURROUGH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united to the R. and V. of Kilcredan, and the Vicarages of Garrybove, and Kilmacdonough: This Union, though Episcopal, is in the gift of the Crown, and the presentation to the two Livings being on the same instrument, the Bishop has some doubts whether he is at liberty to dissolve it; this, however, should be considered on a future vacancy: the Union, if divided, might be able to support two clergymen comfortably; two Churches, one at Ightermurrough, and one at Kilcredan, both in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, at Ightermurrough, of 4 acres; at Kilcredan, of 11 acres; and at Kilmacdonough, of 8 acres; these are not contiguous, but Kilcredan is convenient to the church of that name, and Ightermurrough to its own church: The Rev. George S. Cotter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties of Ightermurrough in person: the duties of Kilcredan are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. James Cotter, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Ightermurrough is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Castle Martyr. The parishes in the Union of Ightermurrough are all contiguous; their extent being 7 miles from North to South, and 6 miles from East to West.

ILANMORE, v. ISLANDINE.

IMLAGH, v. EMLAGH.

IMLEACHCLUANN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" In the territory of Semne, in Dalaradia. St. Patrick built an Abbey here for St. Coeman. Colgan supposes it to be the same as Kil-chluana, or Kilchoemhain, in Hy-tuirtre. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 7.

IMLEACHEACH, or, IMLEACH-BROCADH, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Brochad, brother to St. Loman of Trim, was Bishop here: we know no more of this abbey.

IMLEACH-ONA, or, THE FORTRESS OF ONO, v. ELPHIN.

IMPHRICK, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lisgoold. Imphrick is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¾ m. S. from Charleville. See, Lisgoold.

INBHERDAOILE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Dagain was Abbot of this Monastery, which was situate near the sea.

INCH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghada. Inch is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. b. W. from Cloyne. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Aghada. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

INCH, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Ardquin, and the V. of Witter; a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Trail, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice, in the Diocese of Connor: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. It is 2½ m. N. from Downpatrick. This parish contains 3300 acres of land. It is situate on Strangford Lough. It was formerly appropriate to the Abbey of Inch: the church is built on a new site. The parishes of Ardquin, and Witter, are contiguous: but Inch is several miles distant from them. See, St. Andrew's.

INCH, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, in May 1789, to the V. of Kilgorman: a Church, in good order, at Inch: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 17 acres, near the church, and of 20½ acres, at the distance of two miles and an half from it, in the parish of Kilgorman: The Rev. Skeffington Preston, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Inch is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Arklow. The parishes in the Union of Inch are contiguous; their extent being 4 miles from East to West, and 4 miles from North to South.

INCH, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Inch is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. W. b. W. from Taghmon. See, Horetown.

INCHEGEELAGH, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., Impropriate, and endowed V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and holden, by Faculty, with the R. of St. Paul's, in the city of Cork: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 242 a. 2 r. 30 p.: the duties are performed by a Curate, who resides in the Glebe House, at a Salary of £50. Inchegeelagh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. W. S. W. from Macromp. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of May, 31st of August, and 3d of December. It is situate upon the River Lee, and near to the Eastern extremity of Lough Alua.

INCHENEBO, v. MONAINCHA.

INCHICRONANE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysert. Inchicronane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N. E. from Ennis. See, Dysert.

INCHIHOLOGHAN, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 Irish Money; and immemorially united, by Act of Council, to the Vicarage of Tullohanebroge, and the Prebend of Outrath; being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Ossory, which is valued in the King's Books at £11. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Inchihologhan: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 33 acres, contiguous, and within half a mile of the church: The Rev. Michael D. Madden, the Rector and Vicar, and Prebendary (in 1806), who has not cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Inchihologhan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. W. from Kilkenny. The parishes in the Union of Inchihologhan are contiguous, and are three miles in extent.

INCHINABACKY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templenecarigy. Inchinabacky is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. W. from Castle Martyr. See, Templenecarigy.

INCHINEMEO, or, INCHENEBO, v. MONAINCHA.

INCH, ISLAND, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a Chapel, not in repair; it is in the Division of Templemore. It is situate in Lough Swilly, 7 m. N. W. from Londonderry.

INCHKENNY, v. INISKENNY.

INCHMACNERIN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. An Island, situate in Lough Key.—"St. Columb founded a noble Monastery here, over which he placed St. Mochonna his disciple, and betook himself to Britain, A. D. 563."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 611.

INCHMEAN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught.—"Here was a Cell for Monks of the Order of St. Benedict, which was afterwards united to the Monastery of Kilcrunata, in the county of Galway." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 612.

INCHMORE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. An Island, situate in Lough Key.—"Here we find a Priory of Regular Canons, but know not who was the founder, nor at what period it existed. It is, however, highly probable, that St. Liberius, the son of Loscan, founded this house, as the memory of that Saint is still honoured in the Island."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 612.

INCHMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.—"St. Senan, the great Saint of Iniscathy, built an Abbey at Inismor, and placed St. Liberius, one of his disciples, over it; his memory is still celebrated in the Island."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 47.

INCHRIE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Cistertian Abbey here, dedicated to the Virgin Mary: It was a Cell of the Abbey of Maure in this county, and is now unknown.

INCHYANLY, or, JUSHYFOGARTY, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Cashel. Inchyanly is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. E. from Burros Ileagh. The parishes of Dovea, and Inchyanly, are contiguous, and are supposed to contain less than 2000 acres of land. The duties are performed by The Rev. Robert Forsayth, the Rector of the adjoining parish of Kilfithmone (in 1806), at an annual Salary of £5. See, Clogher.

INCHYCRONANE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.—" Donald O'Brien, king of Limerick, founded an Abbey in the Island of Iniscronane, for Regular Canons, about the year 1190."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 47.

INCHYDONY, v. ISLAND, The.

INCHYMORY, or, THE GREAT ISLE, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Gawn.—" St. Columb, about the middle of the Fifth century, founded a Monastery here for Canons Regular, where St. Boadan, of Inismore, died on the 14th of January, but the year is uncertain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 439.

INDENEN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey was situate not far from Slane: but little is known of it.

INISANLAOI, ISLAND, off the Barony of ——, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—" Turlogh, son of Teige Caoluisge, son of Conor Na Suidaine O'Brien, king of Thomond, built a magnificent Abbey here, in which he was buried in the year 1305."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 47.

INISBEG, in the Barony of ——, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery of this name was founded by St. Patrick, who placed his disciples St. Erditus and St. Augustine there; but we know nothing further of it.

INIS BEG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.

INISBEG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INISBEG, ISLAND, off the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster.

INIS-BOFFIN, v. ENNIS BOFFIN.

INISBOFFIN, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Ree.—" St. Rioch, son of St. Darerca, the sister of St. Patrick, founded an Abbey here and was himself the first Abbot; this Saint was living, after the year 530, but the time of his death is not recorded. It was plundered and destroyed by the Danes in the year 1089."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 440.

TORONTO ATHENÆUM

INIS BOFIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INISBOYNE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is situate upon the Sea-coast, 4 m. S. E. from Wicklow. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Baithen was Abbot here.

INISCAOIN, ISLAND, in the Great Lough Erne, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—" In the early ages we find an Abbey here, of which St. Mochaimoc, the son of Endeus, was Abbot, about the middle of the 7th century. His Festival is observed on the 13th of April.—St. Fergus, the son of Endeus, was also Abbot here: his Festival is holden on the 29th of March."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 262.

INISCARRA, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and R., valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 sterling, and united for ever, by Act of Council, many years ago, to the V. of Kilmurry, and the R. and V. of Matehy: a Church, in repair, at Iniscarra: a Glebe House, at Iniscarra, and a Glebe, of 15 acres, close to the church; another, of 24 acres, at Kilmurry, at 5 miles distance; and a third, of 10 acres, at Matehy, at the distance of 3 miles: The Rev. George de la Poer Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duty in person, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Giles Lee, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Iniscarra is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. b. S. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Lee. Here is a Charter School, which was opened in 1760, for 20 female children. The parishes in the Union of Iniscarra are contiguous; their extent being 6 miles from North to South, by 7 miles from East to West. See, Garrycloyne.—" St. Senan of Iniscathay built an Abbey here, and placed eight of his disciples therein. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 71.

INISCLOTHRANN, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Ree.—" St. Dhiarmuit Naoimh, or, The Just, and brother to Fiedlimid, Bishop of Kilmore, founded an Abbey here about the year 540, where he died on the 10th of January. He wrote a learned and pious work, in elegant rhime, in the nature of a psalter; which, as Colgan informs us, was in his possession."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 440.

INIS-COURCEY, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—" A peninsula, opposite to Downpatrick, and running into the Lough of Strangford. Sir John de Courcey, who in his wars, had demolished the Abbey of Erynagh, or Carrig; in order to make his peace with heaven for that profanation, built an Abbey here for monks of the Cistertian Order, and dedicated it, on the 3d of June, A. D. 1180, to the Virgin Mary. He supplied this house with monks from the Abbey of Furness, in the county Palatine of Lancaster, and gave to it all the possessions which had belonged to Erynagh. The church of the abbey was built in the form of a cross. Part of it yet remains. At the East end are three large windows with Gothic arches, upwards of twenty feet high. In the North and South walls are two windows, each of two arches, and little inferior to those at the East end. On the South side of the altar of this noble building, are still to be seen the tops of the seats for the administering priest and his assistants, cut in the wall and beautified with Gothic sculpture. On the South side was the steeple, supported by an elegant arch, some of the beads or strings of which are yet visible." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 122.

INISCRONAN, v. INCHICRONANE.

INISCUNLA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—" St. Senan built a Church here, and placed over it the Saints Finan and Finnen. This church is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 47.

INISDRISUL, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Roaring Water Bay.

INIS DUFF, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INIS DUH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INIS-EO, or, EONOIS, in the great Lough Erne, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Constans, the son of Fuasclac, who was Abbot and Anachorite here, died on the 14th of November, A. D. 777. His bones were translated into a Shrine by Matthew, Bishop of Clogher, on the 6th of September, 1308."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 262.

INISFEAL, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery of this name was founded by St. Patrick; but it is now unknown.

INISFREE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INIS GLORA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.

INISGOULA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Clew Bay.

INISHAE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

INISHANNON, v. INISHONAN.

INISHARN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate at the entrance of The Killery Harbour.

INISHEGIL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Bullan Bay.

INISHERKAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate between Clare Island and Baltimore Bay, and is said to be of a good soil.—" In the year 1460, Florence O'Driscol, the Great, founded a small Monastery here for Franciscan Friars of the strict observance; other writers say, that Dermot O'Driscol was the Founder in 1470. In 1537, the Citizens of Waterford destroyed all the villages on this island, with the mill, castle, and friary. This monastery was built near the castle, on the plan of that at Kilcrea, but much smaller: the steeple is a low square tower, from whence runs the nave, with an arcaded wing, to the South."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 71.

INISHIRK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

INISHMURRY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Clanderlogh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.

INISHONAN, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7..16..8 sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of half an acre: The Rev. Richard Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. Inishonan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 153 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is a very neat and regularly built village, beautifully situate upon the River Bandon, which is navigable to within half a mile of the village. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of May, and 3d of October. Here is a well conducted Charter School, for 50 Boys. It has six Post-days in the week.

INISHRATER, ISLAND, off the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Lough Corrib.

INISHRUIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate to the Westward of Joyce's Country.

INISHUGH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Newport or Clew Bay.

INIS IRHIR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INISKEA, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. There are two Islands of this name, distinguished by their situation of North and South.

INISKEEL, or, NAIRN, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £15. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. John Barrett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Iniskeel is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 135 m. N. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Sea Coast. It has three Post-days in the week.

INISKEEL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Conald Coel was Abbot of Iniscoel, and is honoured here on the 12th of May; St. Dallan wrote a work in his praise; he was killed by pirates about the year 590, and was interred with his friend; his Festival is holden on January the 29th. Here is a celebrated well, which, with the church, is dedicated to St. Conald, and yearly visited by a great concourse of Pilgrims on the 12th of May."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 100.

INISKELTAIR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.—" St. Camin founded an Abbey here, which was afterwards a Church, and still retains his name. He died in the year 653, and was buried in his own church. His Feast is observed on the 25th of March. There yet remains here a fine Round tower, with seven small churches, which bespeak, in miniature, an elegance of taste. This Island is remarkable for the great resort of pilgrims on certain festivals."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 47.

INISKENNY, within the County of the City of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £2..5..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1768, to the R. and V. of Moviddy, the V. (Rectory Impropriate) of Kilbonane, and the V. (one Rectory Impropriate; one other Rectory belongs to Kilbrogan,) of Aglish; and with which is holden, by Faculty, the R. of Templetrine: a Church, at Moviddy; a Glebe House, at Moviddy, and a Glebe, of 80 acres: a Glebe, (but no Glebe House) in Kilbonane, of 9 acres, adjoining the ruins of the church, and 5 miles distant from Moviddy: a Glebe, in Templetrine, of 19 acres, adjoining the ruins of a church: a Glebe, (but no Glebe House), in Aglish, of 5 acres, adjoining the site of the old church, and 5 miles distant from the church at Moviddy: no Glebe House, or Glebe, in Iniskenny: The Rev. Edward Kenney, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curates, viz., by a Resident Curate at Moviddy, at an annual Salary of £50.; at Iniskenny, at £10.; and of Templetrine, there being but one Protestant Family in the parish, at £5. Iniskenny is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Cork. The parishes of Moviddy, Kilbonane, and Aglish, are contiguous; their estimated extent being 4 miles in length, and from 3 to 4 miles in breadth. Iniskenny is 8 miles distant from Moviddy, and 10 miles from Templetrine; which is 5 miles distant from Moviddy.

INIS KERACH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.

INISKERRY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ibrickin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean, about three miles from the Mainland.—" St. Senan of Iniscathy, built an Abbey on Iniscaorach, in the territory of Hybreccain, in Thomond."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 46.

INISKIN, v. KENE.

INISLIRE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Clew Bay.

INISLOUGH, v. INNISLOUNAGH.

INISLUA, ISLAND, off the Barony of ———, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—" St. Senan of Corca Baiscin founded a Monastery here before the coming of St. Patrick into Munster, and St. Moronoc, called The Penitentiary of Inisluaidhe, had a cell here at the time of St. Senan's death."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 48.

INIS MAC KILANE, ISLAND, one of the Blasquets.

INISMAGRATH, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 541 acres of Glebe within the parish, and part of it near the church: The Rev. John Leahy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Inismagrath is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. S. E. from Dromahaire.

INISMAIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Lough Mask.—" There was an abbey on this Island, as we are informed by the author of the Life of St. Cormac, who lived in the year 490."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 502.

INIS MAKEERA ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INIS MANAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

INIS MOCHDA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this church was destroyed four times by fire.

INISMURRAY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—" In the early ages, there was an Abbey here, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and governed by St. Dicholla, the son of Meinida, who died A. D. 747.—This Island is a Rock rising from the Sea, with horrid precipices towards the Ocean, but shelving gently, like steps, on the side opposite the land. It contains about 130 acres of a shallow soil, from four to five inches in depth, which serves to feed some sheep, a few cows, and five or six horses, the remainder of the island is a mere rock. The habitable part contains about 40 or 50 people, children included, who live in five houses, with as many barns adjoining them. They intermarry amongst each other, and when the land is overstocked with inhabitants, they seek their fortunes on the great Island of Ireland. They are one community, and live by fishing and selling their fish on the Main. They speak Irish only, one man bowed beneath the weight of years excepted (in 1779): and boast their having had this island in possession upwards of seven hundred years. What is called the Abbey, is an inclosure of dry stones, from five to seven and eight feet thick. It is impossible to determine whether it is round or oval; more rude, inelegant workmanship was never seen. There are a few cells under ground, which receive their light, some through a hole at the top, others through a loop-hole in the side; they are dark, and horrible dungeons. There are also two Chapels built with mortar, and quite in a gross state, as is St. Molasse's Cell, which has a stone roof, and where the statue of the Saint is preserved. One of the chapels, standing by itself, has an extraordinary window, the arch of which is one rough crooked stone, just in its original shape. Here is an altar, called the cursing altar, which is covered with round stones, and North-West of this, stands the altar of the Trinity. The neighbouring inhabitants say, that if a man, who is really wronged, turns one of these stones, and, at the same time, curses his adversary, the wish, whatsoever it is, will fall upon him if guilty, but if otherwise, the curse recoils upon the person who denounces it; this keeps them in such awe, as to prevent rash imprecations. There are several small inclosures with a stone in the centre, and some springs, each of them consecrated to a particular saint. A statue of their Patron, Saint Molasse, very rudely carved in wood, and painted of a redish colour, is still preserved here. The Abbey was erected conjointly by this Saint and St. Columb, but the latter being of an impetuous and fiery disposition could not accord with the mildness of Molasse, and betook himself to the Main-land, leaving the other in peaceable possession."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 634.

INISNEGANANAGH, or, THE ISLAND OF CANONS, off the Barony of ———, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster.—" Donald O'Brien, King of Limerick, in the 12th century, founded, or rebuilt, a Priory here, for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustine."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 48.

INIS NI BROE, ISLAND, one of the Blasquets.

INIS PATRICK, v. PATRICK'S, ST., ISLE.

INISPICT, or, INISPUINC, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery was built here about the close of the Sixth century.

INISPUINC, v. INISPICT.

INISQUIN, off the Barony of Clare, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught. An Island, situate in Lough Corrib.—" St. Brendan erected an Abbey here, and made St. Meldan, one of his disciples, Abbot. St. Meldan died some time before the year 626, his Festival is holden on the 7th of February."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 288.

INIS ROCHA, in the great Lough Erne, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster.—" About the beginning of the Sixth century, St. Berchan, the son of Declan, son of Fieg, son of Deodatus, son of Rochad, son of Colla Dachrioch, was Abbot here; where his Festival is holden on the 24th of November."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 263.

INIS SAMER, ISLAND, off the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster.—" An Island in the Bay of Donegal, at the mouth of the River Erne. There seems to have been a Religious house on this Island, for we find that Flaherty O'Maoldora, King of Conall, or Tyrconell, Inisoen, and of the districts of Easdara and Loughgille, having renounced the cares of the world, and dedicated himself to heaven, died in this Island in the year 1197."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 100.

INIS SHARK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

INIS-SHERE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

INIS STORMOR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Monastery here, for Eremites of the order of St. Augustin, under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity.

INISTEGILL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate near the entrance of The Killery Harbour.

INISTIOGE, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1782, to the Vicarages of Kilbeacon, Killahy, and Rosinan, and the Prebend of Cloneamery: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Inistioge: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 16 acres, in the parish of Kilbeacon, contiguous to the old church there: The Rev. Francis W. Flood, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the Union, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Curate... Inistioge is in the Diocese of Ossory and Province of Dublin. It is 63 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of June, and 13th and 14th of December. It is situate upon the navigable River Nore. Near this is Woodstock, the superb Mansion of William Tighe, Esq. The parishes in the Union of Inistioge are contiguous to each other: the estimated extent of each parish being about two miles.—"An Abbey appears to have been founded here, so early as the year 800: But about A. D. 1210, Thomas, the son of Anthony, seneschal of Leinster, erected an Abbey here for Augustinian Canons, and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary and St. Columb, the especial Patrons of the place. By the advice of the Bishop of Ossory, he appointed Alured, a Canon of Kells, the first Prior, and granted to him and the Convent, the Churches of Grenan, and Kilcrenath."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 359.

INISTRAVAN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

INISTUISKAR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster.

INISTURC, ISLAND, off the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.

INIS VACHTUIR, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Shelan. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Carthag built an Abbey on this Island about the year 540, who, a little after that period, was Abbot here.

INNISCALTHRA, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 26th of August 1803, to the Vicarages of Clonrush, Moynoe, and Ogonilloe: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Inniscalthra: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Richard Martin, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Killaloe, by permission, being Registerer of the Dioceses of Killaloe and Kilfenora, and discharges the duties: These parishes collectively are too small, making but £58. per annum. Inniscalthra is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. N. b. W. from Killaloe. The parishes in the Union of Inniscalthra are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 4 miles, and from East to West 3 miles. It is situate upon the River Shannon.

INNISCALTHRA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in the River Shannon.

INNISCATHRIE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, to which belong, as the Corps thereof, the Rectory of Kilfieragh, and Kilrush, valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling; and with which are holden, Episcopally united, on the 24th of July 1777, the Vicarages of Kilfieragh, Kilballyhone, Killard, and Moyferta: two Churches, in good repair; one of them being in the parish of Kilrush, and the other in the parish of Kilfieragh: a Glebe House, building, in the parish of Kilrush: three Glebes; one, of 2 a. 3 r. 5 p., in the parish of Kilrush, within a quarter of a mile of the church; another, of 3 a. 2 r. 25 p., in the parish of Kilfieragh, convenient to the church; and the third, of 3 a. 0 r. 20 p., in the parish of Moyferta, convenient to the site of the old church there: The Rev. Irvine Whitty, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Graham, A. B. Inniscathrie is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. b. W. from Kilrush. The rich and beautiful little Island of Inniscathrie is situate at the entrance of the River Shannon, between the Counties of Kerry, and Clare. The parishes in the Union of Inniscathrie are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 12 miles, and from East to West 8 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—" St. Senan of Corca Baiscin founded an Abbey here before the arrival of St. Patrick in Munster, as some report: but others say, that St. Patrick himself was the founder, and that he placed St. Senan here: he had eleven churches for his monks, and no women were permitted to land on the island before the coming of the Danes into this country. The Prelates of this noble and ancient church are sometimes called by our Ecclesiastical Historians, Bishops, and at other times, Abbots: in process of time it became a Priory of Regular Canons. The monument of St. Senan is still to be seen here, with the remains of eleven small churches and several cells; in the stone that closes the top of the altar window of the great church is the head of the Saint, with his mitre, boldly executed, and but little defaced. An ancient Round tower of 120 feet in height, and in complete repair, graces the scene. This island is remarkable for the resort of pilgrims on certain Festivals."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 49. et seq.

INNISDADROM, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Killaloe: no Church: The Rev. William Hadlock, A. B., Curate, in 1806. Innisdadrom is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. See, Lateragh.

INNISFALLEN, ISLAND, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. This Island contains twelve acres of land, and is situate in the Lake of Killarney.—" St. Finian Lobhar, or The Leper, son of Alild, King of Munster, and disciple of St. Brendan, founded an Abbey here towards the close of the Sixth century. The remains of this abbey are very extensive, and its situation is extremely picturesque. A small chapel standing at some distance from the abbey, and which had originally belonged to it, is now converted by the Noble proprietor into a banqueting house for the reception of visitors to the romantic scenes of Killarney."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 301.

INNISHARGY, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Act of Parliament of an old date, to the Vicarages of St. Andrew's, Ballyhalbert, and Ballywalter. Innishargy is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 1920 acres of land. See, St. Andrew's.

INNISKEAN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 7 m. W. S. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Bandon.

INNISKEEN, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 35 acres of Glebe, very near the church: The Hon. and Rev. George Gore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Inniskeen is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. N. from Louth. It is situate on the River Fane.

INNISKILLEN, or, ENNISKILLEN.

INNISLOUNAGH, partly in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and partly in the Barony of Glanehiry, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united, in the year 1804, to the entire Rectory of Monks Land, when the present Incumbent took possession; and it appears, that it has been holden so united, time out of mind: a Church, in repair, on the Tipperary side of the parish of Innislounagh: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Fleury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Archdeaconry in the City of Waterford: the duties are performed by a Curate, who resides within a mile of the church, in an adjacent parish, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Innislounagh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. W. S. W. from Clonmell. It is situate upon the River Suir, by which it is divided into two parts. The parishes in the Union of Innislounagh are not contiguous; and are at least twenty-three miles separate. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Innislounagh might very well stand alone; and Glebe land ought (if possible), to be purchased near the church, and a Glebe House built thereon.—" St. Mochoemoc, or The Beautiful, founded an Abbey at Inisleamhnacta, which he dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and died on the 13th of March 655;—This was a singularly beautiful building, in which was a Chapel, said to have been consecrated by St. Patrick. There is also a celebrated well here, which, as we are told, wrought many miracles, particularly in removing distempers. The learned Nicholas Fagan, Abbot of Inislaughnaght, provided by the Pope to the See of Waterford, was interred here in 1617."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 661. et seq.

INNIS MAC SAINT, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: three Churches; one, in good condition: the other two, under repair: a Glebe House; 540 acres of Glebe, not distant from the churches: Thomas Brooke Clarke, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being Chaplain to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, is not resident; the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates. Innis Mac Saint is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Church Hill, on the North West. It is situate on Lough Erne.—" St. Nenn, or Nernid, of the blood Royal of Ireland, who was educated under St. Fiech at Sletty, and afterwards under St. Finian at Clonard, founded this famous Abbey (on an Island, in Lough Erne, about half a mile from the shore), and died in the year 523 or 530. His Festival is commemorated here on the 18th of January. The Saint's Bell, ornamented with gold and silver, is yet preserved here as a precious relique, and is holden in so great veneration amongst the lower class of people, that it is often judicially tendered them to swear on. This ancient abbey, in process of time, was converted into a parish church, with a very large district, being a Rectory and Vicarage, in the Diocese of Clogher; but the situation being at length found to be highly inconvenient, it was in the reign of Queen Anne removed to Drumenagh, in the same parish, on the Main-land."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 262.

INNISMOOTHY, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., endowed with £10. Income: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Valentine Duke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, on account of his infirmities: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Drumcondra. Innismoothy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Ardee. The last collation of this Benefice was to the Curate of Drumcondra: the Income is scarcely £30. per annum.

INNISMORE, ISLAND, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Lough Gille, to the South East of Sligo.—"St. Loman founded the Church of Innismore in the time of St. Columb.—This Island, commonly called Church Island, is about two miles in length, and in some places half a mile in breadth. The church stands at the East end of the island, and in former ages it was the Burial-place of the parish of Calry. In a rock, near the door of the church, is a cavity, called Our Lady's Bed, which is said to be favourable to women in pregnancy, who fondly imagine, that, by going into it and turning thrice round, at the same time saying certain prayers, they shall not die in labour. This rock, and the remains of the church, are now entirely covered with ivy."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 633.

INNISMOTT, v. INNISMOOTHY.

INNISTYMON, or, ENNISTIMOND, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 118¼ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Castle is the handsome Seat of Edward O'Brien, Esq.—"St. Luchtighern was Abbot of Inistimensis, or Inistornensis."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

INOSH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River Shannon.

INSHEY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinvoher. Inshey is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. See, Ballinvoher.

INSHIANLY, v. INCHYANLY.

INVER, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., or Perpetual Cure, being one of the five parishes which constitute the Deanery of Connor: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Dobbs, the Resident Curate, in 1806, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Inver is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Larne, on the South. This parish contains 1220 acres of land. See, Carrickfergus.

INVER, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on Broad Haven, on the Western Ocean.

INVER, alias INVERNAYLE, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling; and with which is holden, by Faculty, the Rectory and Vicarage of Templecrone: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Alexander Montgomery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Inver is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but a single parish. It is 8 m. W. from Donegal. It is situate upon the River Inver, at the bottom of Inver Bay.—" St. Natalis, who died A. D. 563, was Abbot of Inbernaile. A small Monastery was founded here, in the 15th century, for Friars of the third order of St. Francis, and probably on the very site of the ancient Abbey of St. Natalis."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 99.

IRELAND'S EYE, off the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is a small Island, situate in the Irish Sea, about a mile from the Main-land. It produces many curious medicinal plants. It was anciently called Adros, by Ptolomey Adri-deserta, by Pliny Andros, and by Richard of Cirencester Edria.—" St. Nessan founded an Abbey here about A. D. 570, where he passed the evening of a well-spent life in fasting and in prayer. The Book of the four Gospels, commonly called The Garland of Howth, was preserved here, of which Archbishop Allen, in the Liber Niger, says, 'That book is holden in so much esteem and veneration, that good men scarcely dare take an oath on it, for fear of the judgments of God being immediately shewn on those who should forswear themselves.' The ruins of St. Nessan's church still remain on the South side of the Island."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 221.

IRISH-TOWN, v. CANICE, ST.

IRISH-TOWN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. E. from Dublin. It is a decayed village, situate upon Dublin Bay.

IRRELAGH, or, MUCRUSS, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate on the borders of Lough Lane.—" Donald, son of Thady Mac Carthy, in the year 1440, founded a Friary here, under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity, for Conventual Franciscans: He repaired it in the year 1468, a few months before his decease. Irrelagh has continued since that time the cemetery of the Mac Carthy family. And Donald, Earl of Clancare, was interred here; as was Patrick, Lord Kerry, the Earl's nephew, who died on the 12th of August 1600. This Abbey was re-edified by the Roman Catholicks in the year 1602, but was soon after permitted to go to ruin. It is surrounded by a venerable grove of very tall ash-trees, which in some places grow spontaneously from the ruins. The choir, nave, and steeple, are yet entire, as are the cloisters, which consist of several Gothic arches all of solid marble, inclosing a small square, in the centre of which stands a very tall yew-tree, whose spreading branches, overshadowing and throwing a brown shade over the niches of the whole cloister, form a much more solemn and awful kind of covering than the original one. The steeple of this extensive building is supported by a Gothic arch, which, from its size could only contain one bell. A miraculous image of the Virgin Mary was said to have been preserved here. This abbey, with its possessions, were granted to Robert Collan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 303.

ISERKELLY, or, DYSERT-KELLY, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killinane. Iserkelly is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 7½ m. S. W. from Loughrea. It is situate upon the River Gurtnamackin. See, Killinane.

ISERTKERIN, or, DYSERTKERANE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. Isertkerin is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. S. W. from Callan. This parish contains 692 acres of land. See, Killenaule.

ISERT LAURENCE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed: the Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, is valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling, and of which The Archbishop of Cashel is Prebendary, without cure of souls; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling, and united, at a period to which no known Record reaches, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Ballybrood, Listeely, and Rathjordan, and the entire Rectory of Liscormuck, constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Emly, which is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 sterling: a Church, newly built, at Ballybrood: no Glebe House: five Glebes; one, of 11 a. 2 r. 26 p., in three divisions, in the parish of Isert Laurence; another, of 3 a. 2 r. 0 p., in the parish of Rathjordan; a third, of 13 a. 0 r. 20 p., in the parish of Liscormuck: the fourth, of 1 a. 0 r. 20 p., in the parish of Listeely; and the fifth, supposed to be of 5 acres, in the parish of Ballybrood: The Rev. William Benson, the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Isert Laurence is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Limerick. The parishes of Ballybrood, Listeely Liscormuck, and Rathjordan, are contiguous, and are four or five miles distant from Isert Laurence. It contains 507 acres of land.

ISHARTMON, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. Ishartmon is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. W. b. W. from Broadway. It is situate near the Sea coast. See, Killenick.

ISLANDINE, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aglish. Islandine is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¾ m. N. N. W. from Castlebar. See, Aglish.

ISLAND OF ALL SAINTS, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in Lough Ree.—" Here St. Kieran built a noble Monastery in the year 544. In four years afterwards he procured a very large endowment for the support of its poor; and having appointed St. Domnan, or more properly Donnan, to be his successor, he forsook this Island, and erected the Abbey of Clonmacnoise. In 1087, it was spoiled by the Munstermen. We are told that a descendant of Sir Henry Dillon of Drumrany (who came into Ireland with John Earl of Morton) erected an Abbey on this Island, and probably on the site of the ancient Abbey of St. Kieran. It was granted at the suppression to Sir Patrick Barnwall."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 441.

ISLAND of KEANE, or, ISLAND ICANE, anciently INSULA BRIKE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Oeconomy of the Cathedral of Waterford. Island of Keane is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. S. W. from Waterford. This parish contains about 1600 acres of land. The Isles of Icane are three in number, and are situate in St. George's Channel. See, Killbride.

ISLAND MAGEE, v. MAGEE, ISLAND.

ISLAND, The, or, INCHYDONY, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and Vicarage, each valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 11th of February, 1786, to the V. of Ardfield, the V. of Castrum Ventry, the V. of Desert, the V. of Kilgarruff, and the V. of Kilkerran: a Church, at Kilgarruff, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, at Kilgarruff, of 3 acres; at Kilkerran, of 3 acres; and, at Ardfield, of 9 a. 2 r. 10 p.: The Rev. Horatio Townsend, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within a mile of the church of the Union, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. The Island is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate in Cloghnakilty Bay. The parishes in the Union of The Island are contiguous; their estimated extent being 7 miles from North to South, and 6 miles from East to West.

ITERMURROUGH, v. IGHTERMURROUGH.

IVERNOON, or, ST. JOHN'S, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kellenvoy. Ivernoon is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. N. b. W. from Athlone. See, Killenvoy.—" A Priory was founded at Randown, or Teach-eon, commonly called St. John's, for Knights Hospitallers, or for Crossbearers, in the reign of King John, and, as some writers say, by his express command. Very little now remains either of the Town, or Castle. It appears that Clarus, Archdeacon of Elphin, who founded the Priory of Lough Key, founded also the church of The Holy Trinity of Rinduin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 617.

J.

JAMES'S, St., in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killesk. St. James's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Feathard. It is situate near Waterford Harbour. See, Killesk.

JAMES TOWN, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 73¾ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of May, 8th of July, and 20th of December. It is situate on the River Shannon.—"We are told that there was a Franciscan Friary here, but have not learned any farther particulars respecting it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 409.

JERPOINT, EAST, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V.: no Church: a Glebe, of 5 a. 3 r. 15 p.: The Rev. John Orr, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Parish: According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. East Jerpoint is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. W. from Thomastown. It is situate near the River Nore.

JERPOINT, WEST, or, ABBEY JERPOINT, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burnchurch. West Jerpoint is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Thomastown. It is situate upon the River Nore. See, Burnchurch.—"A. D. 1180, Donogh O'Donoghoe, king of Ossory, founded an Abbey here, to the honour of the Virgin Mary, for Cistertian Monks, whom he removed hither from a distant part of Ossory. The Abbot of West Jerpoint was a Lord of Parliament."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 355.

JOHN'S, ST., v. IVERNOON.

JOHN'S, ST., within the County of the City of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clarah. St. John's is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N.

from Kilkenny. It is situate near the River Nore. This parish is about 3 miles in length, and from ¾ of a mile to 2 miles in breadth. See, Clarah.

JOHN'S, ST., in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Enniscorthy. St. John's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is ½ m. S. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Enniscorthy.

JOHN'S, ST., within the Liberties of the Town of Wexford, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £16..15..0 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. St. John's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is a small parish contiguous to the Town of Wexford; and from which the Rector hardly derives any Income. See, Wexford.

JOHNSTOWN, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 60 m. S. W. from Dublin. Near this village is Foulkes Court, the noble Seat of Mr. Hely. It has three Post-days in the week.

JOHNSTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. E. from Naas. This Parish contains 587 acres of land.

JOHNSTOWN-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 6½ m. W. b. N. from Kilcock. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of March, 29th of May, 13th of October, and 21st of December.

JOHNSTOWN, ST., v. CASTLE BUY.

JOHNSTOWN, ST., in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 8½ m. N. b. W. from Strabane, and 108½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Foyle, which is of considerable breadth here, and divides the Counties of Donegal, and Tyrone. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of April, 13th of October, and 25th of November.

JOHNSTOWN, ST., in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. W. from Granard. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 21st of November, and 29th of December.—"There was a Gray Friary, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, in this County; which was probably situated in or near St. Johnstown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 445.

JOHNSTOWN, ST., or, SCADDANSTOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. St. Johnstown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. b. E. from Killenaule. This parish contains 1317 acres of land. See, Killenaule.

JONESBOROUGH, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in very bad order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. W. H. Pratt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Jonesborough is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. W. from Newry. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of June, 14th of August, 21st of October, and 3d of December.

JULIANSTOWN, or, NANY, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, on the 28th of June 1792, to the Vicarages of Ardeath, Moore Church, and Tymole; but another distribution of these parishes would be expedient: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 4 a. 1 r. 0 p., in Julianstown, close to the church: 10 a. 0 r. 15 p., half a mile from the church: and 5 a. 1 r. 0 p., at one mile's distance: in Moore Church, 4 a. 0 r. 25 p., near the old church, and one mile from the church of Julianstown: in Ardeath, 16 a. 1 r. 14 p., close to the old church, and four miles from Julianstown church; also 6 a. 2 r. 29 p., half a mile from the old church, and four miles and an half from Julianstown: in Tymole, 1 a. 1 r. 36 p. close to the old church, and five miles from Julianstown; and 4 a. 3 r. 29 p., half a mile farther from both: The Rev. Robert Shanley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Julianstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Drogheda. It is situate upon the Nany Water. This parish contains 1609 acres of land. The parishes of Julianstown, and Moore church, are contiguous: the parish of Ardeath is three miles distant from them, and Tymole is a mile and an half from Ardeath.

JUSHYFOGARTY, v. INCHYANLY.

K

KANTURK, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: in the parish of Clonfert: a Chapel of Ease, in repair: no Glebe House. Kanturk is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Newmarket. It is situate upon the River Dalua. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 4th of July, 3d of November, and 11th of December. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Perceval, now Earl of Egmont: to whom the Castle, with the Town and Manor of Kanturk, at present, belong.

KEADY, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 40 Irish acres of Glebe, lying together, one mile from the church: The Rev. Samuel Close, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Keady is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. S. S. E. from Tynan. It is situate on the River Callen. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of April, 14th of August, and 14th of October.

KELLNAIGE, v. KILROOT.

KELLS, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Disert. It is 5½ m. N. from Antrim. It is situate on the River Glenwhirry.—" Kellach, son of Conmagius, an Anchorite of Disert Kellaigh, died in the year 828. A Priory for Regular Canons was erected on the site of this ancient Cell, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, before the arrival of the English in this Kingdom, by O'Brian Carrog."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 8.

KELLS, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united, by an authority unknown, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Ballytobin, Earlstown, and Mallardstown, and the Rectories of Aghnamolt, Kilrea, and Stamacarty: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kells: a Glebe House, in good repair, in the parish of Kells: a Glebe, of 21 acres, at Kells, near the church; and also 15 acres of Glebe, which lie scattered in different parts of the union, and are not convenient to the site of any church: The Rev. Thomas Kemmis, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is occasionally resident; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90 per annum. Kells is in the Diocese of Ossory and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. S. b. W. from Kilkenny. The Fair is holden on the 13th of July. It is situate on the King's River. The parishes in the Union of Kells are all contiguous to each other; their estimated extent being about 3 miles in breadth, and about 4 miles in length.—" Geoffrey, the Son of Robert, on his coming into Ireland, obtained in possession the Barony of Kells, where, by advice of Richard Earl of Strigul, his Patron, he founded a Priory, in the year 1193, which he dedicated to the Blessed Virgin; and as there were not any Regular Canons of St. Augustin, of the English nation, then in this Kingdom, he caused the church to be served by Priests, till he had procured the following persons from the Priory of Bodmin in Cornwall, viz., Reginald de Aclond, Hugh de Rous, Alured, and Algar: Reginald was the first Prior of this house, who was succeeded by Hugh; Alured was made the first Prior of Inistioge; and Algar being sent to Rome on business respecting the priory, he obtained a Bishoprick in Lombardy. The Prior of Kells was a Lord of Parliament."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 361.

KELLS, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., united, time out of mind, to the Chapelries of Burry, Duleen, and Rathboyne, and forming the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Meath, which is valued in the King's Books at £100. Irish Money: a Church, in perfect repair, in the parish and town of Kells: a Glebe House, with all necessary offices, in perfect repair, on the Mensal lands in the parish of Kells; a Glebe, of 882 acres; 80 acres of which, whereon the house stands, are a quarter of a mile from the church; 140 acres, three quarters of a mile from the church; 256 acres, one mile and an half; 268 acres, three miles; 132 acres, half a mile; 3 acres, one mile and three quarters; and 3 acres, two miles and an half: The Rev. Thomas de Lacy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates. Kells is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 31½ m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday before Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ascension, 9th of September, and 16th of October. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Cholmondeley. It is governed by a Sovereign, and Deputy. Near it is Headfort, the magnificent Seat of The Marquess of Headfort. It is situate on the River Blackwater. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Kells are contiguous; that of Kells containing 3200 acres of land.—" In former ages this was a city of note, and on the arrival of the English, it was walled and fortified with towers: in 1178, a castle was erected where the Market-place is now, and opposite the castle was a cross of an entire stone, ornamented with figures in bas relief, and many curious inscriptions in the ancient Irish character; within a small distance was the church of St. Senan, and on the South of the cemetery, we find a Round tower, which measures 99 feet from the ground, the roof ending in a point, and near the top were four windows opposite the Cardinal points. The celebrated Monastery of Regular Canons, founded in this town, about the year 550, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary, owes its origin to St. Columba, or Columb, to whom the site of the abbey was granted by Dermod, the son of Kervaill, King of Ireland.—A Priory or Hospital, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, was founded in this town, by Walter de Lacie, Lord of Meath, in the reign of King Richard the First, for Cross-bearers or Crouched Friars, following the Rule of St. Augustine.—There was also a Perpetual Chantry of three Priests or Chaplains in the parish church of St. Columb."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 541.

KELLYSTOWN, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church, but one about to be built; a Glebe House, newly erected; four Glebes, not contiguous: the first, containing 3 a. 2 r. 23 p., on which the Glebe House stands, being a mile and a half distant from the old church; the second, containing 10 a. 3 r. 4 p., being at the distance of 172 perches from the first; the third, containing 3 acres, near the old church; and the fourth, containing 3 a. 0 r. 36 p., near the third glebe: The Rev. Frederick Eyre Trench, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kellystown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Carlow. It is situate near the River Burren.

KELPOLE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. Kelpole is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Wicklow. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Wicklow.

KENAGH, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Taghshinod. It is 5¾ m. W. N. W. from Cole-Hill.

KENARD, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Nunnery of this name, on the lands of Clonmore, but it is not known who was the founder, or to what order it belonged.

KENE, or, INISKIN, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Baronstown. Kene is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. W. from Dundalk. This parish contains 168 acres of land. See, Baronstown.—"St. Dageus, said by some Monkish writers to have been smith to St. Kieran, was Bishop of Inis-chaoin, in the beginning of the Sixth century. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 465.

KENMARE, in the Barony of Glanerought, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the Rectories and Vicarages of Killcrohane, and Templenoe, and the entire Rectory of Tuosist; these parishes are in the Patronage of the Crown; and have been holden together since 1763: before 1763, Kenmare and Tuosist were holden by one Incumbent, and Templenoe and Killcrohane by another: a Church, in Kenmare, in good repair: no Glebe House, but one is about to be built at Kenmare: a Glebe, in Kenmare, of 4 a. 0 r. 4 p., two miles from the church; in Tuosist, of 4 a. 0 r. 30 p., near one mile from the old church; in Templenoe, of 18 a. 0 r. 17 p., near one mile from the old church; that of Killcrohane is a craggy steep Mountain, containing about 500 acres, and is four miles from the old church. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford to a Resident Incumbent the means of comfort, but they would form two very sufficient Benefices, viz., Kenmare and Tuosist, in one; and Killcrohane and Templenoe, in the other: The Rev. Stephen Dunlevie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kenmare is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 155½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Brown. It is situate at the North-east extremity of an extensive River or Bay, on the Atlantic Ocean. The parish of Kenmare lies between Tuosist, which is on the East side of the River Kenmare, and Templenoe, which is on the West side; it is contiguous to them both: the parish of Templenoe is contiguous to that of Killcrohane, which runs down to the mouth of the River; the entire length of this Union being near 40 miles.

KENNEIGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carrigrohane: the V. endowed, is valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and is holden, by Faculty, with the Prebend of Kilbrogan: a Church, lately built: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 47 a. 1 r. 1 p., being about six miles distant from the glebe at Kilbrogan: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kenneigh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. W. from Bandonbridge. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. See, Carrigrohane, and Kilbrogan.

KENTSTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10..12..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 5th of July 1751, to the Rectories of Ballymagarvey, Brownstown, and Danestown: a Church, undergoing a thorough repair, in Kentstown: no Glebe House, and the Incumbent resists an injunction to build, on the ground that the Right of the Crown, by which he has been presented to this Living, is disputed: a Glebe, of 4 acres, contiguous to the church: 1½ acre, in Danestown, about half a mile from the church: and 4½ acres, in Ballymagarvey, about one mile from the church: The Rev. John Toler, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Kentstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. S. b. W. from Slane. The parishes in the Union of Kentstown are contiguous.

KESH, or, KISH, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 93 m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

KEYDUE, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Kilmore, and is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling. Keydue is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. This parish is contiguous to those of Kilmore, and Ballyntemple. See, Kilmore.

KID, ISLAND, off the Barony of Erris, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught.

KIL-ABBAIN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Abbain founded the church of this name, A. D. 640; but nothing further is known of it.

KILAILBE, v. TEGHSINCHEA.

KILASPICKBROWN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. John's, Sligo: 16 acres of Glebe. Kilaspickbrown is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. W. from Sligo. See, Sligo.

KILASPUGHENANE, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Kilfenora: the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmanaheen. Kilaspughenane is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Innistymon. See, Kilmaereky, and Kilmanaheen.

KILASPUGMULLANE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, and united, at a period prior to any known record, to the Rectories of Connaway (Vicarage endowed), Kilcoan, Kilroan, and Templeusque: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 10 a. 3 r. 18 p., in Kilroan, about two miles distant from the church of the Union: The Rev. James Stopford, Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilaspugmullane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Rathcormuck. The parishes of Kilaspugmullane, Kilcoane, Kilroan, and Templeusque, are contiguous: their estimated extent is two miles and an half from East to West, and 9 miles from North to South, containing thirty-one Ploughlands and an half. The parish of Connaway is at a distance from the others. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILBALLYHONE, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: one third of the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Prebend of Tomgrany: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscathrie. Kilballyhone is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 11½ m. S. W. from Kilrush. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Tomgrany, and Inniscathrie.

KILBANNERAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, 26th of August, and 12th of November.

KILBARRACK, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Curacy of Howth. Kilbarrack is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Howth.

KILBARRON, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; a large tract of Glebe at a considerable distance from the town of Ballyshannon, where the church stands: the greater part of this parish being Impropriate, the Clergyman's Income is but small, arising chiefly from the lands which were granted by Charles 1°.: The Rev. Henry Major, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a KILBERRY, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £18. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donogh Patrick. Kilberry is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. from Navan. This parish contains 2260 acres of land. See, Donogh Patrick. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Perpetual Chantry of two Priests, or Chaplains, in the parish church of St. Mary here.

KILBIAN, in the Barony of ———, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—"Was founded, A. D. 583, and probably by St. Abban."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 398.

KILBIXY, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leny: a Church, built at the sole expense of Lord Sunderlin: the duties of Kilbixy are discharged by the Rector of Portlemon, for which he is most liberally allowed a house, and 20 acres of land, by Lord Sunderlin. Kilbixy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¾ m. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 3338 acres of land. It is situate on Lough Iron. It was anciently a town of great note. See, Leny.—"This ancient town was adorned with a Castle, erected by Hugh de Lacie in 1192, and a Monastic edifice, or rather an Hospital, built for the support of Lepers, and hence it acquired the appellation of The Leper House of St. Brigid."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 720.

KILBOEDAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"Which was afterwards named Kiloscoba, was founded by St. Boedain, after the beginning of the Sixth century; this Saint quitted this church, and betook himself to the church of Moinmor, in the South of Munster, his native country. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 8.

KILBOLANE, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, united, for ever, by Act of Council, to the R. of Knocktemple, and valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling. Kilbolane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. S.W. b.W. from Charleville. See, Knocktemple.

KILBONANE, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., (the R. Impropriate, in Richard T. Rye, Esq.) valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Iniskenny: the Church is in ruins. Kilbonane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. S. W. from Cork. See, Iniskenny.

KILBOUGHT, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 4 m. E. from Loughrea.—"We are told that a Monastery was founded here by the family of Waley; and the Inquisition of the 6th of Queen Elizabeth expressly mentions, that the Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis were possessed of this Friary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 288.

KILBRACKAN, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, though locally situate in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united to the Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage of Harristown: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Walter Bagot, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Monastereven, and performs the duties in person. Kilbrackan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. b. E. from Monastereven. The parishes in the Union of Kilbrackan are contiguous: that of Kilbrackan containing 1111 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parishes of Kilbrackan, and Harristown, should be united, a Glebe, and Glebe House procured, and the Church of either re-built.

KILBRAGH, or, KILLBREAGH, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1781, to the Rectory of Callabeg, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Templetouhy: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, building: a Glebe, of 13 a. 3 r. 0 p., at Templetouhy: The Rev. Patrick Hare, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Cashel, where, until lately, he executed the Office of Vicar General, and performs the duties of another parish, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Patrick Kennedy, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilbragh is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Union of Kilbragh is not too extensive, and furnishes a moderate Income: and the Diocesan is of opinion, that it should not be dissolved. The parishes of Callabeg, and Templetouhy, are contiguous, and are 15 miles distant from the Denomination of Kilbragh.

KILBRENAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was formerly a Monastery here: but of which very little is known.

KILBRENIN, v. STRAWHALL.

KILBRENNAN, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Parcel of Graystown, the situation of which, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, is now not known. See, Templeneiry.

KILBREW, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13..7..1½ Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tryvet. Kilbrew is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 1499 acres of land. See, Tryvet.

KILBRIDE, v. CASTLECORR.

KILBRIDE, v. RATHMORE.

KILBRIDE, v. TULLAMORE.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1775, to the V. of Donegor. Kilbride is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. W. N. W. from Ballyclare. This parish contains 3194 acres of land. It is one of the parishes, which constitute the Archdeaconry of Connor. See, Billy.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., with Kilcoan, valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bordwell. Kilbride is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. W. b. S. from New Ross. See, Bordwell.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Dunboyne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. N. N. W. from Dublin.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templeneilan. Kilbride is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. from Roscommon. See, Templeneilan.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, on the 14th of December 1776, to the V. of Ferns; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clone. Kilbride is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Clone.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killurin. Kilbride is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Taghmon. See, Killurin.

KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Arklow. Kilbride is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. N. N. W. from Arklow. It is situate on the River Ovoca. See, Arklow.

KILBRIDE PILATE, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..14..0 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe, or Glebe House; the Income is but £60. per annum: The Rev. Thomas Robinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the occasional duties. Kilbride Pilate is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. W. b. N. from Kinnegad.

It is recommended to unite this parish, by Act of Council, to the Rectory of Castlelost, as the two parishes are contiguous.

KILBRIDE VESTON, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfadforan. Kilbride Veston is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. W. b. N. from Kinnegad. This parish contains 882 acres of land. See, Clonfadforan.

KILBRIN, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and holden with the V. of Liscarrol: The Rev. Sackville Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1810), who resides in the parish. Kilbrin is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. N. W. from Mallow. See, Cooliney. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILBRINE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Eastersnow. Kilbrine is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Boyle. It is situate near to Lough Key. See, Eastersnow.

KILBRITTON, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 26th of June 1794, to the R. and V. of Rathclarin; but these parishes appear by the Records of the Diocese to have been constantly united: a Church: a Glebe House; and two Glebes, one of them being 4 a. 3 r. 36 p., the other 22 a. 3 r. 38 p.: The Rev. Thomas Barry, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Glebe house. Kilbritton is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. S. E. from Bandonbridge. The Fair is holden on the 22d of November. The parishes in the Union of Kilbritton are contiguous, and extend 4 miles from North to South, and 2½ miles from East to West. It is situate on the River Arigideen. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILBROGAN, in the Barony of Kinalmeaky, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and united, at a time prior to any Record, and by Authority then competent, to the Rectory of Aglish; and Episcopally united, on the 20th of January 1796, to the Rectory of Dundurrow; and with which is holden, by Faculty, the Vicarage of Kenneigh: a Church, at Kilbrogan, in good repair: no Glebe House, in these parishes: a Glebe, of 34 a. 3 r. 0 p., in Kilbrogan: the Glebe land of Dundurrow is distant from that of Kilbrogan about five miles; and that of Kenneigh about 6 miles: John Kenney, D. D. (Vicar General of Cork and Ross), the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, being resident within half a mile of the church, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilbrogan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Bandonbridge, on the North East. It is situate on the River Bandon. The parishes in the Union of Kilbrogan are in no instance contiguous: Dundurrow is about three miles East of Kilbrogan; and Kenneigh is about three miles West of Kilbrogan.

KILBRONEY, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the Income is under £100. per annum: The Rev. Thomas Ross, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilbroney is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Rostrevor, on the North West. It is situate on the Bay of Carlingford.

KILBROWNEY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bregogue. Kilbrowney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Mallow. See, Bregogue.

KILBURNE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, constituting part of the Deanery, and the Tythes at Ballycasheen, constituting part of the Precentorship, of Waterford. Kilburne is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Waterford. This parish is about a mile and an half square. See, Waterford, and Kilbarrymeaden.

KILCARAGH, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Waterford: a Glebe, on the spot where the site of the old church is supposed to be. Kilcaragh is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Waterford. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish is about three quarters of a mile in length, and about half a mile in breadth. See, Waterford.

KILCARN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Skryne. Kilcarn is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Navan. It is situate on the River Boyne. This parish contains 951 acres of land. See, Skryne.

KILCARR, or, KILKARAGH, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. James Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilcarr is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 5 m. W. b. S. from Killybeggs. It is situate at the bottom of Tiellen Harbour.—" St. Carthach was Bishop of Killen, now called Kilchartaich, about the year 540; his Festival is observed on the 5th of March. This church was situated in Tirboguine, a territory in Tyrconell, and is supposed to be Kilcarr, which is now a parish church in the Diocese of Raphoe."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 101.

KILCARRAGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—" There was an Hospital or Monastery here, of which we have no further account, than that it was endowed with a quarter of land adjoining thereto: which at the dissolution was granted to John King."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

KILCARRICK, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 1½ m. S. S. E. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate on the River Barrow. A village.

KILCASH, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmell: The Church is in ruins. Kilcash is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. E. N. E. from Clonmell. See, Clonmell, and Templemihil.

KILCASHEL, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Rathdrum. It is situate on the River Ovoca.

KILCASKIN, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: no Church, but one about to be built: no Glebe House: Glebe Land: The Rev. William Hodnett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Kilcaskin is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. W. from Bantry. The Rectory belongs to the Archdeacon of Ross.

KILCATERN, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killaconenagh. Kilcatern is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. N. W. from Castletown. It is situate on Cuolagh Bay, on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killaconenagh.

KILCHAIRPRE, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—According to Mr. Archdall, a Church was founded here, about the year 500.

KILCHARTAICH, v. KILCARR.

KILCHOLPA, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.

—"Near Downpatrick; an Abbey was founded here by St. Patrick, for St. Thassac, whose Festival is observed on the 14th of April. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 122.

KILCHRIST, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Rectory of Kilfarboy. Kilchrist is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. N. E. from Killadysert. It is situate upon the River Shannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilfarboy, and Killadysert.

KILCHUILINN, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Nunnery here, of which St. Cannera was Abbess, and where she was also honoured.

KILCLEEHEEN, v. KILCULLIHEEN.

KILCLIEF, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Down; a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 245 acres: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilclief is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. from Strangford. This parish contains 1391 acres of land. It is situate on Strangford Bay, and is 20 miles distant from the other parishes of the Union. See, Hillsborough.—"In the Lives of the Irish Saints we are told, that St. Eugene and St. Niell, Disciples of St. Patrick, were Abbots of Kil-chleifhe (an Abbey of Regular Canons) near Down. The castle and lands of Kilclief were an ancient See House and Manor, belonging to the Bishops of Down. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 122.

KILCLONBROOK, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timahoe. Kilclonbrook is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. See, Timahoe, and Stradbally.

KILCLONFERT, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Sine Cure Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £12. Irish Money: and Vicarage endowed: no Church: no Glebe House, but about an acre of Rectorial Glebe Land, contiguous to to the site of the old church: The Rev. Thomas French, the Rector (in 1806), who having no cure of souls, is non-resident: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilreny. Kilclonfert is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. b. W. from Philipstown. This parish contains 2000 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Consolidation of this Rectory with the Vicarage would be a desirable object; provided a suitable quantity of Glebe could be procured, on which to build a house. A church is much wanted in this part of the Diocese. The Union of this Vicarage with that of Castropeter, is by no means to the advantage of the Reformed Church. In point of fact, the parishes are contiguous, but they approach each other at the extremes: and the Town of Edenderry, where the Vicar resides, is at least 12 miles distant from the ruined church of Kilclonfert. See, Kilreny.

KILCLOAN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..0..9 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Raddonstown. Kilcloan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Kilcock. This parish contains 1420 acres of land. See, Raddonstown.

KILCLOGHAN, v. TEMPLETOWN.

KILCLOGHER, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Termonfeckan. Kilclogher is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 ¼ m. N. E. from Drogheda. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Termonfeckan.—" St. Nectan, nephew to St. Patrick, was Bishop or Abbot here. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 465.

KILCLONAGH, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Kilclonagh is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Templemore. See, Thurles, and Moyne.

KILCLUNEY, in the Barony of Clonmacow, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Creagh. Kilcluney is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Ballinasloe. It is situate on the River Suck. See, Creagh.

KILCOAN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilaspugmullane. Kilcoan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N.E. from Cork. See, Kilaspugmullane.

KILCOAN, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bordwell. Kilcoan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Kilbride, and Bordwell.

KILCOCK, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4..3..4 Irish Money, and with which is holden the Impropriate Rectory of Downings, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloncurry. Kilcock is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 14 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of March, 11th of May, 11th of August, and 29th of September. See, Cloncurry.—" The virgin St. Cocha is honoured, on the 6th of June, in the Church or Monastery of Killchoca on the borders of Meath."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 321.

KILCOE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghadown. Kilcoe is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. W. b. S. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon Roaring Water Bay. One Rectory is Impropriate in the Representatives of Lord Castlehaven; and one Rectory belongs to the Archdeacon of Ross. The Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling. See, Aghadown.

KILCOE, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilcoe is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. from Castle Wellan. This parish contains 9940 acres of land. See, Kilkeel.

KILCOLA, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Eastersnow. Kilcola is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. The Prebend is valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling. It is 3½ m. N. b. W. from Elphin. The Chantorship of Elphin, has a portion of tythes in this parish. See, Eastersnow.

KILCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united for ever to the Particle of Magourney; being holden with the Prebend of Lackeen. Kilcoleman is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. W. b. N. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Dripsey. The Castle is demolished. Here Spenser composed his excellent Poem, called The Fairy Queen. See, Lackeen.

KILCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Ballibritt, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being part of the Union of Birr, and the Vicarage part of the Union of Roscrea. Kilcoleman is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. b. S. from Birr. See, Birr, and Roscrea. —"St. Colman, the son of Ængus, King of Munster (his mother's name was Darenia) flourished about the year 570; he built Dairemore, or Doremore, in the territory of Ely, and his Festival is observed on the 31st of July. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 398.

KILCOLEMANBANE, in the Barony of Maryborough, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Borres: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, and the Vicarage at £2. Irish Money. Kilcolemanbane is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Maryborough. See, Borres.

KILCOLGAN, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the Vicarages of Ballane, Dromaccoo, Duras, Kilcooly, Kilily, Killikineen, Kiliney, Killinvarra, Kinvarra, and Stradbally: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: four Glebes, viz., 4 acres in the parish of Killinan, 5¾ acres near the church, 3 acres in the parish of Kinvarra, and 1½ acre in the parish of Kilily: The Rev. Lewes H. Younge, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts, and discharges the duties. Kilcolgan is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 12½ m. W. from Loughrea. It is situate upon the River Carnamart. The parishes in the Union of Kilcolgan are all contiguous, except those of Kilcooly and Bullane, which are about 15 miles distant, and in which there is no duty.—According to the Ecclesiastical Report, "the Union of Kilcolgan, comprehending eleven parishes, is supportable only by the consideration that, multitudinous as it is, £120. annually is the extent of needy support which it supplies to the Incumbent."—"St. Colgan was Abbot here about the year 580; and is Patron Saint of the Abbey. It is now a parish church.—We find another Monastery of the same name in the Diocese of Clonfert; which was founded by St. Columbkill, who appointed St. Colgan, one of his disciples, Abbot of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 289, 290.

KILCOLGAN, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, St. Colgan, A. D. 580, founded this Abbey. It is situate near the River Brosna.

KILCOLLUM, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkitt. Kilcollum is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. b. E. from Waterford. See, Dunkitt.

KILCOMB, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tomb. Kilcomb is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. W. b. S. from Gorey. It is situate near the River Bann. See, Tomb.

KILCOMENTY, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killnerath. Kilcomenty is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is ½ m. N. from Newport. This parish contains 1844 acres of land. See, Killnerath.

KILCOMIN, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Shinrone. Kilcomin is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. W. from Shinrone. See, Shinrone. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Cumene greatly enriched this abbey, and presented to it many holy reliques of St. Peter and St. Paul. He died on the 24th of February, A. D. 668.

KILCOMIN, in the Barony of Killnalongurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 9 m. W. from Holy Cross.—" Philip of Worcester, who was chief governor of Ireland, A. D. 1184, founded the Priory of Kilcumen, which he dedicated to St. Philip, St. James, and St. Cumin. He filled it with Benedictin Monks, from the Abbey of Glastonbury in Somersetshire, and appointed James, one of the Brethren, to be the first Prior."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 664.

KILCOMMICK, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united, above twenty years, to the R. and V. of Moydoe; a Church, in good repair: a Glebe, of 173. a. 3 r. 35. p: The Rev. Robert Beatty, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice, at Taghshinod, in this Diocese; the duties are discharged occasionally by himself, and a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kilcommick is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Ballymahon. The parishes in the Union of Kilcommick are contiguous.

KILCOMMON, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., constituting with the R. of Cross Patrick the Corps of a Prebend in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; and to which, the Impropriate Cure of Braban was Episcopally united, in 1784: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Kilcommon: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Richard Symes, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilcommon is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¾ m. S. W. from Enniscorthy. The parishes in the Union of Kilcommon are all contiguous; their contents being 12,117 acres.

KILCOMMON, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. Kilcommon is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Rathdrum. See, Wicklow.

KILCOMREAGH, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardnurcher. Kilcomreagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Moate. This parish contains 4572 acres of land. See, Ardnurcher.

KILCONEY, in the Barony of Courceys, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, holden with the Rectory entire of Garrynoe. Kilconey is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. W. b. W. from Kinsale. It is situate near the Sea-coast. See, Garrynoe.

KILCONICKNY, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the Vicarages of Kilconiran, Kiltullagh, and Lickerigg: no Church; Divine Service being performed in Mr. Daly's House of Dunsandel: but a church is about to be built, as soon as Mr. Daly, and other Gentlemen who are willing to contribute, have agreed upon the most convenient site: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 acres, in the parish of Lickerigg, and, of 2½ acres, in the parish of Kilconiran: The Rev. Alexander Macauley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, in all parts, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilconickny is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Loughrea. This parish contains 2568 acres of land. The parishes in the Union of Kilconickny are contiguous, and contain about seven miles square.

KILCONIRAN, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilconickny. Kilconiran is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Loughrea. This parish contains 2039 acres of land. See, Kilconickny.

KILCONLA, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tuam. Kilconla is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Tuam. See, Tuam.

KILCONNELL, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fethard. Kilconnell is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. E. b. S. from Cashel. This parish contains 1245 acres of land. See, Fethard.

KILCONRY, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Kilconry is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. W. from Six Mile Bridge. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Kilseily, and Traddery.

KILCOOLE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Delgany. Kilcoole is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. E. N. E. from Newtown Mount Kennedy. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, and 4th of September. Between Kilcoole and the Sea, is the celebrated Salt-marsh of Cooldross. See, Delgany.

KILCOOLEY, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Trim. Kilcooley is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. E. b. N. from Trim. It is situate upon the River Boyne. See, Trim.

KILCOOLY, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Kilcooly is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Loughrea. See, Kilcolgan.

KILCOOLY, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1750, to the Vicarages of Clonmagormacum, Killuken, Kilmacumsy, and Shankill: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. William Digby, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Geashill, in the Queen's County, where he has another Benefice: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Crawford, his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilcooly is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Strokestown. The parishes of Clonmagormacum, Kilcooly, and Killuken, are contiguous to each other, and are supposed to extend about 20 square miles: The parishes of Kilmacumsy and Shankill (which are contiguous to each other) are distant about two miles from the others. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Olcan, or Bolcan, built the Abbey here; which is now a parish church.

KILCOOLY, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, Episcopally united, in 1796, to the Rectory entire of Buolick: a Church, in good repair, at Kilcooly: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George St. George, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is under orders to reside: the duties are performed by The Rev. Charles Coote, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilcooly is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¾ m. S. W. from Freshford. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of April, and 10th of October. The parishes in the Union of Kilcooly are contiguous; that of Kilcooly containing 3990 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these two parishes are so intermixed, and so intersect each other, that it would answer no general purpose of accommodation to the parishioners, if they were to be separated according to the ancient division.—"Donogh Carbragh O'Brien founded an Abbey here for Cistertian Monks, in the year 1200, and dedicated it to the Virgin Mary; some writers place this foundation in the year 1209. This house was a daughter of the Abbey of Jerpoint. It is now the Seat of Sir William Barker, Bart."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 664.

KILCOONA, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkilvery. Kilcoona is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Headford. It is situate on Lough Carrib. See, Kilkilvery.—"Tipraid, Prince of Hy-fiachria, granted the Abbey of Killchuanna to St. Columb, who placed St. Cuannan over it. It is now a parish church.—There is another Kill-conagh in the territory of Tirbhriuin; and we are told that the Abbey of Kilconan, founded by Fergal Muiner y Induibidan in 1339, was destroyed by fire the following year but was rebuilt in 1343."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 290.

KILCOP, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being a constituent part of the Union of Crooke. Kilcop is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. Kilcop and Crooke are generally supposed to be one parish. It is 1½ m. S. S. W. from Passage, East. This parish contains about 400 acres of land. See, Crooke.

KILCORBAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—" A small village consisting of a cabbin or two, with the ruins of a chapel, now under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, but originally dedicated to St. Corban, who died in the year 732. The statue of the Virgin Mary, which was worshipped in the chapel of Kilcorban, called The Chapel of the Blessed Virgin of the Rosary, is still preserved by the family of the Burgh's of Pallais."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 289.

KILCORKY, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling: neither Church, nor Glebe: The Rev. William Smith, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides about 6 miles from his Benefice, at Elphin, where he is Curate and Diocesan Schoolmaster. Kilcorky is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. W. from Elphin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, first Thursday in May, 3d of August, and 29th of September. This Benefice is worth only about £20. per annum. The extent of this parish is about six square miles. The Chantorship of Elphin has a portion of Tythes in this parish.

KILCORMUCK, v. FRANKFORD.

KILCORMUCK, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Odogh. Kilcormuck is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Odogh.

KILCORMUCK, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..3..2 Irish Money: a Church, in repair; a good Glebe House, newly erected by the Rector, but not quite finished, on a Glebe of 22 a. 2 r. 22 p., about a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. John Corvain, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilcormuck is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. E. from Ferns.

KILCORNAN, in the Barony of Kenry, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £2 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 61 acres, close to the church: The Rev. Francis Langford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person, assisted by a Curate. Kilcornan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. W. b. S. from Limerick. It is situate near the River Shannon.

KILCORNAN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Emly. Kilcornan is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. W. N. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 548 acres of land. See, Dromkeen.

KILCORNEY, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilhenny, and Oughtmanna, being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Kilfenora: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 18 a. 0 r. 14 p., in the parish of Kilcorney, and another, of 2 roods, in the parish of Kilhenny, each of them being convenient to the sites of their old churches: The Rev. Robert Peacock, A. B., the Chancellor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Lorrha, with the consent of the Diocesan: the occasional duties are performed by the Curate of Kilfenora. Kilcorney is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. N. N. E. from Innistymon. The parishes of Kilcorney, and Kilhenny, are contiguous, and are three miles distant from Oughtmanna; their estimated extent, from North to South, being two miles, and from East to West, five miles.

KILCORNEY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling: a Glebe, of 21 acres, near the old church: The Rev. Philip Townshend, the Incumbent (in 1810), who resides in the parish. Kilcorney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. S. E. from Millstreet.

KILCOWAN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory Impropriate, with a Vicarage endowed, valued in the King's Books at £4..18..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mulrancan. Kilcowan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. W. b. S. from Wexford. It is situate near the Sea-coast. See, Mulrancan.

KILCOWANMORE, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Kilcowanmore is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Horetown.

KILCREA, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Desertmore. The Castle here was formerly a Seat of the Earls of Clancarty.—"St. Cyra, or Chera, was Abbess of the Nunnery here; where her Feast is celebrated on the 16th of October.—A Franciscan Monastery was founded in this town, under the Invocation of St. Brigid, by Cromac Mac Carthuigh, the Great, Prince of Desmond, in the year 1465. He was murdered by Owen his brother, and was buried here in the middle of the choir: on his tomb is a Latin Inscription. A great part of this building still remains, with the nave and choir of the church. On the South side of the nave is an handsome arcade of three Gothic arches, supported by marble columns, more massive than those of the Tuscan Order. This arcade continues to form one side of a chapel, being a cross aisle. In the choir are some old tombs of the family of Clancarty, &c. The steeple, a light building about eighty feet high and placed between the nave and choir, is still entire, and supported by Gothic arches. From the gateway, on either side, to the high road, are high banks entirely formed of human bones and sculls, which are cemented together with moss; besides these, and great numbers strown about, there are several thousands piled up in the arches, windows, &c. The River Bride runs near this ruin. The lands were granted to Lord Muskerry, but after the wars of 1641, Oliver Cromwell gave them to Lord Broghill."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 72.

KILCREDAN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., two thirds thereof being comprised in the Union of Lisgoold. Kilcredan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Lisgoold.

KILCREDAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ightermurrough. Kilcredan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. E. from Castle Martyr. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Ightermurrough.

KILCREUNATA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.—"Called also, The Nunnery of the Chaste Wood, which was founded for Nuns of the Order of St. Benedict, about the year 1200, by Cathald O'Conor Crovderg. The Cells of Inchmean and Ardcarn, in the County of Roscommon, were afterwards annexed to this House. At the suppression, this nunnery was granted to Richard Earl of Clanricarde."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 291.

KILCROAN, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oran. Kilcroan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 11 m. N. W. from Roscommon. See, Oran.

KILCROHANE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Durrus: a Glebe, of 5 a. 1 r. 35 p. Kilcrohane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 14 m. S. W. from Bantry. It is situate upon Dunmannus Bay. The Rectory is Impropriate. See, Durrus.

KILCRONAGHAN, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, now in repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 3 acres, near the church; and another Glebe, of 105 acres, two miles from the church: The Rev. J. Bryan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilcronaghan is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. W. S. W. from Tubbermore.

KILCRUIMTHIR, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Abban built a Church here: It is now unknown.

KILCRUMPER, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilworth. Kilcrumper is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. S. W. from Kilworth. It is situate near the River Funcheon. See, Kilworth.

KILCULLEN, or, OLD KILCULLEN, in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 20 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. Kildare Burrowes, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilcullen is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge.—"A Monastery was founded here in a very early age: and St. Patrick appointed St. Isernin Bishop of it, who died A. D. 469, and was succeeded by St. Mactalius, son of Corcran, a disciple of St. Patrick: he died on the 11th of June, in the year 548, of the plague called Cromchonnail. Old Kilcullen was a large walled town with seven gates, one only remains now, which is ten feet wide, with an handsome arch. In 1319, a bridge was built about a mile North-west of the town, over the River Liffey, by Maurice Jakis, a Canon of the church of Kildare, where another town immediately sprang up, called Kilcullen-Bridge; and from this æra we may date the fall of Old Kilcullen. In the church-yard is an ancient Round tower, not exceeding fifty feet in height, with four windows; it does not appear ever to have been higher. To the East of the town is the shaft of a cross, of a single stone, ten feet high; and in a garden bounding the North of the church-yard is the Pedestal of another cross."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 321.

KILCULLEN-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 21 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon the River Liffey. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 2d February, 25th March, 22d June, 8th and 29th September, 2d October, and 8th of December.

KILCULLIHEEN, or, KILCLEEHEEN, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., with the R. of Macully: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kilculliheen: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. William Dennis, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident adjoining thereto. Kilculliheen is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. N. E. from Waterford. It is situate upon the River Suir.—"A. D. 1151, Dermot, son of Murchard, king of Leinster, founded a Nunnery here, as a Cell to the Nunnery of St. Mary de Hoggis near Dublin. It was endowed by John Earl of Morton, Lord of Ireland (afterwards King John of England), and by David Fitz Milo. Kilcleeheen had also the name of the Nunnery de Bello portu."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 366.

KILCULLY, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Desertmore. Kilcully is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N. from Cork. See, Desertmore.

KILCUMMER, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coole. Kilcummer is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. E. b. S. from Doneraile. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of April, July, September, and December. See, Coole.

KILCUMNEY, or, DRUMCREE, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, on the 12th of September 1794, to the R. of Dysertale, and the R. and V. of Kileveilagh: And it would be expedient to unite these parishes by Act of Council, and include in the Union, the small neighbouring parish of Killagh: a Church, in Drumcree, in indifferent repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 36 a. 1 r. 15 p., in Drumcree, with every necessary office, a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. John Mac Causland, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilcumney is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Castletown Delvin. The parishes in the Union of Kilcumney are contiguous; that of Kilcumney containing 1377 acres of land. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an establishment here for Eremites, in the ninth Century.

KILCURFIN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being a particle in the Union of Carrigtohill. Kilcurfin is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. from Rathcormuck. It is situate on the North side of Cork Harbour. See, Carrigtohill. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILDALKEY, in the Barony of Lune, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athboy. Kildalkey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Trim. This parish contains 3868 acres of land. See, Athboy.

KILDALLOCK, or, KILDALLAGH, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by charter by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Rashackin. Kildallock is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. The parishes of Kildallock, and Rashackin, contain 2700 acres of land. It is 1¾ m. E. b. N. from Coleraine.

KILDALLON, in the Barony of Tullaghonoho, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, old and bad: 339 acres of Glebe; a large portion thereof contiguous to each other, a quarter of a mile from the church: and the remainder, in the parish of Killeshandra, about three miles distant: The Rev. Edward Story, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident, by permission, on account of bad health; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kildallon is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. from Killeshandra. It is situate on Lough Oughter.

KILDANGAN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackagh. Kildangan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. W. b. S. from Kildare. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 29th of September. Here are the ruins of an ancient Castle. See, Lackagh.

KILDARE, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £49..6..8 Irish Money: The Hon. and Right Rev. Charles Lindsay, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806: The Cathedral Church of St. Bridget, of which the Members are, The Rev. Dixie Blundell, D. D., Dean (see, Cloncurry): The Rev. William Maunsell, A. M., Precentor (see, Carne), and who is also Archdeacon of the Diocese, which is valued in the King's Books at £15..3..2 Irish Money: The Rev. Arthur Mac Guire, Chancellor: The Rev. John Bayly, Treasurer (see, Knavenstown): There are four Prebendaries; and four Minor Canons, The Rev. John Williamson, being the first Canon, The Rev. Arthur John Preston, being the second Canon, The Rev. Francis Mac Guire, being the third Canon, and The Rev. Ralph Dillon, being the fourth Canon. To this church are appropriated the parishes of Dunmourgill, Carne, Knavenstown, and Lea, the respective Vicarages of which are stated under the titles of the present Incumbents. There are here no Residences of any kind, belonging to the church, for the occupation of the Dean and Chapter, who are poorly endowed. The Bishop has not thought proper to call the Dean to the exercise of his duty, on account of his great age and infirmities. The other Members of the Cathedral are represented by a Canon, who resides at present in the town, and performs duty for them all. The Revenues of the church, though inconsiderable, are faithfully employed in keeping the choir in good repair: but the nave has been long in ruins. The Bishop of Kildare (who is always Dean of Christ Church, in Dublin) has no Residence in his Diocese. There is extant in the Registry a Map of lands, belonging to the Bishoprick, in which seven fields (viz, No. 1, 2, 5, 6, 7,), are marked Mensal Lands, and contain 67 acres and 1 rood; but, by a modern admeasurement, the same fields have been found to contain, of Plantation measure, 72 acres and 3 roods. In the above-mentioned old map, a field, adjoining the Cathedral precincts, or church-yard, is distinguished by being intituled, The Palace, and it is there stated to contain 3 acres and 2 roods; but, by the modern admeasurement, it is no more than 3 acres. These lands were formerly, and still are intersected by roads, and there have been no traces known of The Palace in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of the town, in 1806. The Bishop of the Diocese has not the power, by virtue of any existing law, to charge upon his successors any sum adequate to the building of a palace, by reason of the Tenuity of the Bishoprick. Kildare is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 24¾ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of February, 26th of April, 12th of May, and 19th of September. It was instituted a Borough, in the reign of King James the First, and is governed by a Sovereign, two Portrieves, and a Town Clerk. It gave title of Earl to the noble family of Fitzgerald, until the year 1766, when the then Earl was created Duke of Leinster. Of the original church, and city, of Kildare, there are at present no remains; both the church, and other buildings, having been frequently plundered, and destroyed by the Danes. The present town, which seems to be situate Eastward of the ancient one, stands boldly on a rising ground, and consists of the Cathedral, part of the Castle which is inhabited, the County Infirmary, the Parish School adjoining the church, a Roman Catholic Chapel, a Market House, and about 180 houses, most of which, however, are but indifferent. The Curragh of Kildare contains near 5000 English acres, and is under the superintendency of a Ranger. It is the Newmarket of Ireland, and generally allowed to exceed the English race-ground in elasticity of turf, and in characteristic beauty; the Meetings are holden on the last week in April, the second Monday in June, and the second Monday in September, when King's Plates are run for by Irish bred horses. The Bishoprick of Kildare, which is valued in the King's Books at £69..11..4 Irish Money, was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, about the end of the Fifth century. Its greatest length, from East to West, does not exceed 36 miles, nor its greatest breadth 23 miles. This See comprehends part of the Counties of Kildare, the King's County, and the Queen's County.—"St. Brigid, the illegitimate daughter of an Irish chieftain, was born in the year 453, and in the 14th year of her age she received the veil from the hands of St. Patrick himself, or from one of his immediate disciples; it is said she made a pilgrimage to the Abbey of Glastonbury, in Somersetshire. She founded a Nunnery here, before the year 484; and about the same time an Abbey was also founded under the same roof for monks, but separated by walls from the nunnery; it afterwards came into possession of the Regular Canons of St. Augustine. The Nuns and Monks had but one church, in common, which they entered at different doors. St Brigid presided as well over the Monks, as Nuns, and, strange to tell! the Abbot of this House was subject to the Abbess for several years after the death of the celebrated founder, which happened in the year 523, on the first of February, when her Feast is celebrated. She was interred here, but her remains were afterwards removed to the Cathedral Church of Down.—Gray Abbey is situated on the South side of the town; this monastery was erected for Friars of the Franciscan Order, or, as they were more generally called, Gray Friars, in the year 1260, by the Lord William de Vescy; but the building was completed by Gerald Fitz-Maurice, Lord Offaley. A considerable part of this abbey still remains; which, from the appearance of the ruins, was of very small extent.—An House for Carmelites, or White Friars, was founded in this town in the year 1290, by William de Vescy. Several Chapters of this Order were holden in Atherdee and in Dublin by David O'Buge, who was born in this town, and was a man of sound erudition, as such, he was in the highest estimation at Oxford and at Treves in Germany, and wrote several learned works. He was well versed in Divinity, Philosophy, Rhetorick, and the Canon and Civil law, and was generally called the burning Light, the Mirror, and the Ornament of his country. O'Buge flourished about the year 1320, when he was Provincial of the Carmelite Order, and died full of years, and full of honour in this friary, where he was interred."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 322. et seq.

KILDAREIS, in the Barony of———, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught.—" Kildareis, or the Cell of, The two palms of the hands. It is probably the same with that which was otherwise called Carcuir-shineill, or, The Reclusory of St. Sinell, which is situated in an island in Lough Melvin. St. Sinell, who was Bell-founder to St. Patrick, died A. D. 548."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 409.

KILDAVAN, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Kildavan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. b. W. from Wexford. See, Wexford.

KILDAVIN, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. S. W. from Clonegal. A village, situate near the River Slaney.

KILDELGY, v. KILLDELLYGLY.

KILDEMOCK, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..1..1 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardee. Kildemock is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. S. S. E. from Ardee. This parish contains 1771 acres of land. See, Ardee.

KILDERERY, in the Barony of Condons and Glangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Nathlash. Kilderery is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel.

It is 107 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 27th of June, 3d of September, and 27th of November. See, Nathlash.

KILDERRY, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mothell. Kilderry is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. E. from Kilkenny. See, Mothell.

KILDERRYDADROM, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Toomevara. Kilderrydadrom is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. See, Toomevara.

KILDIMMA, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—"A Monastery was founded here some time before the arrival of St. Patrick in Munster, by Dimma a Priest, who instructed and educated St. Declan. This house is situated near Adaire, and at this day retains its ancient name."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 423.

KILDRESS, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 527 Irish acres, lying together, about two miles distant from the church: The Rev. Richard Bourne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and occasionally discharges the duties (being resident one half of the year here, and the other half on his other Benefice), assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kildress is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Cookstown.

KILDROGHT, v. CELBRIDGE.

KILDROUGHALL, or, KILDROGHILL, in the Barony of ——, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of April, 8th of September, and 7th of November.

KILDRUMFERTON, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: an old Church, in bad order; but a new one is building: a Glebe House, and a Glebe: The Rev. Henry Woodward, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kildrumferton is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh.

KILDUMHAGLOINN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Patrick founded a Church here; but of which very little is known.

KILDYSART, v. KILLADYSERT.

KILFANE, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, at a time unknown, to the Vicarages of Blanchvellstown, and Tulloherin, and constituting the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ossory, which is valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair, in the Parish of Kilfane: a Glebe House, building, in the parish of Kilfane; a Glebe, of 46¾ acres, contiguous, and within a quarter of a mile of the church: The Rev. Paul Heldsham, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is non-resident, being Vicar General of the Diocese of Ossory: the duties are performed by the Incumbent. Kilfane is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. E. from Thomastown. The parishes in the Union of Kilfane are contiguous; and are two miles and an half in length, and one mile and an half in breadth. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Phian erected the Abbey here; which is now the parish church.

KILFARBOY, in the Barony of Ibrickin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, Episcopally united, on the 5th of September 1801, to the Vicarages of Kilchrist, and Killadysert, is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Hadlock, A. B., the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident, by permission, in Ennis, 12 miles distant from the Vicarages, the duties of which are performed by the nearest officiating Clergyman: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, was Episcopally united, on the 21st of June 1801, to the Vicarage of Kilmihill: a new Church, in the parish of Kilfarboy: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Michael Davoren, A. M., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is about to reside: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Andrew Davoren, A. B., at a Salary of £50. per annum. Kilfarboy is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Innistymon. It is situate near the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—"The Monastery of Kilfobrick was founded A. D. 741. We find that Cormac, Bishop and Scribe of Kilfobrick, died A. D. 837."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

KILFAUGHNABEG, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Myross. Kilfaughnabeg is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. W. S. W. from Ross. It is situate upon Glandore Harbour. The Rectory belongs to the Archdeaconry of Ross. See, Myross.

KILFEACLE, or, THE CHURCH OF THE TOOTH, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tipperary. Kilfeacle is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. b. E. from Tipperary. This parish contains 3561 acres of land. See, Tipperary. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey of this name, which he places in the County of Cork: but very little is known of it.

KILFEDANE, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmurry. Kilfedane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. W. S. W. from Killadysert. See, Kilmurry.

KILFENORA, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Rectories of Cloney, and Kiltoraght, being the Corps of the Deanery of the Cathedral Church of St. Fechnan, Kilfenora: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kilfenora: no Glebe House: no return of Glebe, but it is estimated at 90 acres, and is within a quarter of a mile of the church: George Stevenson, D. D., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls in the parish of Kilfenora, and is resident at Callan, in the County of Kilkenny, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. John Sympson Armstrong, A. B., who resides within two miles of the church, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilfenora is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. N. E. from Innistymon. The Fairs are holden on Wednesday before Whit-Sunday, and 9th of October. The parishes in the Union of Kilfenora are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 4 miles, and, from East to West, 5 miles. According to Dr. Beaufort, the See of Kilfenora, which had been established, about the Twelfth century, was united in the year 1752 to the See of Killaloe. It is confined to the Baronies of Burrin, and Corcomroe, and extends only 18 miles by 9 miles. The Chapter consists of a Dean, Precentor (see, Noughaval), Chancellor (see, Kilcorney), Treasurer (see, Dromcrehy), and Archdeacon (see, Kilmacrehy). The Cathedral is very ancient, but in good repair: the nave is full of old family ornaments, and in the choir is that effigy of St. Fechnan, its original founder, carved at full length. Here are also seven crosses, each of which is formed of a single stone, and ornamented with very ancient sculpture. It was anciently called Fenabore.—"The Annals of Munster tell us, that Morogh O'Brien burnt the Abbey of Kilfenora, and slew many people therein, A. D. 1055."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

KILFENTINAN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Michael Fitzgerald, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the town of Ennis, where he keeps an eminent School; on which account, as well as the nature of his parish (having neither church, nor glebe), he has not hitherto been required to reside: the duties are attended by the Curate of the neighbouring parish. Kilfentinan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. from six Mile Bridge.

According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILFERA, or, KILFEAROW, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burnchurch. Kilfera is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. E. b. S. from Kilkenny. See, Burnchurch.

KILFHIACHRA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Fiachrius built the small Abbey of this name near Kilkenny; but of which no other particulars are known.

KILFIERAGH, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Prebend of Inniscathrie: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscathrie. Kilfieragh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. W. b. N. from Kilrush. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Inniscathrie.

KILFINAGHTY, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Kilfinaghty is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is ½ m. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. See, Omullud, and Kilseily.

KILFINAIN, v. KILLFYAN.

KILFITHMONE, or, FITHMONE, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1789, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Barnanely, and Killoskehan: a Church, under repair, at Kilfithmone: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 19 acres, at Kilfithmone: and another, of 12 acres, at Barnanely: The Rev. Robert Forsayth, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Kilfithmone is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Templemore. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; that of Kilfithmone containing 836 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is not too extensive, and furnishes a very moderate Income.

KILFOELAIN, in the Barony of ———, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" A Church was founded here in the time of St. Patrick, of which St. Foillan, sirnamed The Leper, and son of Ængus, King of Munster, was Abbot. This place is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 595.

KILFORTCHEARN, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster.—" This noble Monastery, it is said, was founded by St. Fortchearn, who was Smith to St. Patrick."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 36.

KILFRUSH, or, DUNMOON, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Kilfrush is in the Doicese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 720 acres of land. See, Any.

KILFUACHNA, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster—"St. Fuachna had a Cell here, at which time this place had the name of Killaidan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 423.

KILGARRUFF, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of The Island. Kilgarruff is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Cloghnakilty, on the North. The Rectory is Impropriate in the representatives of Francis Townsend, Esq. See, The Island.

KILGARVAN, in Great Island, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. E. b. N. from Cove.

KILGARVAN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..5..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Horetown. Kilgarvan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Taghmon. See, Horetown.

KILGAVOWER, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughaval. Kilgavower is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 11 m. W. S. W. from Westport. It is situate on Newport Bay. See, Aughaval.

KILGEFFIN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Elphin. Kilgeffin is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. W. b. N. from Lanesborough. See, Killuken.

KILGLAIS, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. —"In Dalaradia, was built by St. Patrick, for St. Glassian. It is now unknown." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 8.

KILGLASS, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..4..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 5 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. John Cromie, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice, in the Diocese of Killala: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Hon. and Rev. Maurice Mahon, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilglass is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. E. b. N. from Strokestown. It is situate upon the River Shannon. This parish is estimated to extend about eight square miles.

KILGLASSAN, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 3 m. S. E. from Hollymount.

KILGOBAN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £3..16..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinadee. Kilgoban is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Bandon. See, Ballinadee.

KILGOBBIN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Dublin: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 14 acres, about a mile from the church: The Rev. Hayes P. Quead, the Resident Curate (in 1806), who enjoys all the Tythes and emoluments of the parish, amounting to £137..17..6 per annum. Kilgobbin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. b. E. from Dublin. The Castle is in ruins. See, St. Peter's, Dublin.

KILGOGHLIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend, having portions of Tythes in four parishes: John Brinkley, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who having no cure of souls, and being Professor of Astronomy in the University of Dublin, resides at the Observatory. Kilgoghlin is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam.

KILGORMAN, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inch. Kilgorman is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Arklow. It is situate near the Irish Sea. See, Inch. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Gorman was Abbot here.

KILGOWAN, in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of May, and 20th of July. Here is an ancient stone Pillar.

KILGRANT, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmell: The Church is in ruins. Kilgrant is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Clonmell. See, Clonmell.

KILGUAN, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltormer. Kilguan is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from Eyrecourt. See, Kiltormer.

KILGULANE, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Glanmore. Kilgulane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. S. W. from Mitchelstown. See, Glanmore.

KILHENNY, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Kilfenora. Kilhenny is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. N. from Innistymon. See, Kilcorney.

KILHILL, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. E. from Naas.—" A Commandery for Knights Hospitallers was founded here, by Maurice Fitzgerald, in the 13th century. At the suppression of Monasteries this Commandery was granted to John Allen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 331.

KILHUAILLEACH, in the Barony of Eglish or Fircall, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, here was an ancient Abbey, in which St. Lonan flourished before the middle of the Sixth century.

KILILY, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Kilily is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 11½ m. W. from Loughrea. It is situate on the River Carnamart. See, Kilcolgan.

KILINEY, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Kiliney is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Gort. See, Kilcolgan.

KILITA, v. CLUAIN CHREDUIL.

KILITRAGH, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. N. N. E. from Ballymoney.—" St. Patrick built Cuileachtrann, and made Fiachrius the Bishop of it. Colgan says, that it is now a parish church, and named Cuilechtra, in the territory of Cathrigia."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9.

KILKEA, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Dermot. Kilkea is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. W. from Castle Dermot. It is situate upon the River Griss. The Presentation to this Benefice is in the family of Keatinge. See, Castle Dermot.

KILKEARY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period long prior to any known Record, to the entire Rectory of Dromineer, and the Vicarages of Ballyneclough, and Terryglass, being the Corps of the Deanery of the Cathedral Church of Killaloe, which is valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 sterling: a Church, building, in the parish of Ballyneclough: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about one rood, in the town of Killaloe, nearly eight miles distant from the site of the church now building: The Rev. Peter Carleton, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Coolock near Dublin, which parish he holds by Faculty with the Deanery: the duties are performed by the Officiating ministers of the parishes respectively, adjoining the several parishes of this Benefice. Kilkeary is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Nenagh. The parishes in the Union of Kilkeary are not in any instance contiguous to each other: they are dispersed through the Diocese in some instances, part of two, in others, parts of three parishes intervening: And each of them, separately, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, are too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.

KILKEASY, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Kilkeasy is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. from Knocktopher. See, Knocktopher.

KILKEEDY, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and the Vicarage at £0..6..8; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysert. Kilkeedy is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. S. W. from Gort. See, Dysert.

KILKEEL, v. KILTEEL.

KILKEEL, in the Barony of Mourne, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Kilcoe, and Kilmegan, and constituting the Corps of the Treasurership of Down; a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in Kilkeel, on a Glebe of 30 acres, one mile and an half from the church: The Rev. Lucas Waring, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilkeel is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 65 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. This parish, which is very mountainous and the mearings undefined, contains 23,780 acres of land. It has three Post-days in the week.

KILKELLANE, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..3 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahircorney. Kilkellane is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. E from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 691 acres of land. See, Cahircorney.

KILKELLY, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 9 m. N. N. W. from Ballyhaunis. A village, near which is a remarkable echo.

KILKENNY, within the County of the City of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a City, in which are the following parishes, viz.,

ST. MARY'S, a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in very good repair: no Gleb House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Peter Roe, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident in the parish, and discharges the duties in person.

St. Patrick's, a R. and V., being the Corps of the Deanery of Ossory in the King's Patents (the parish of St. Patrick partly in the City of Kilkenny, and the Rectory of Aghaboe without cure of souls, being specified), which is valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: The Glebe House, called The Deanery, is situate in the parish of St. Canice: there are about 20 acres of Glebe land, which being within the Precincts of the Corporation, have from time immemorial been let off on building leases: The Hon. and Rev. Jos. Bourke, the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls in the parish of St. Patrick only, is resident in the Deanery House, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Curate, at a Salary of £20. per annum. The parish of St. Patrick contains about 2200 acres of land.

Kilkenny is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 57½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Markets are holden on Wednesday, and Saturday; And the Fairs on the 5th and 28th of March, Thursday after Trinity Sunday, 17th of August, 12th of September, 11th of October, and 9th of November. This city sends one Member to Parliament. It is governed by a Mayor, Deputy, two Sheriffs, a Recorder, and Town Clerk. Here is a Charter School, which was opened in the year 1745, for 70 Boys. This City came by marriage into the ancient family of Le Despencer. It was incorporated by Charter, from King James the First, in 1609. It surrendered to Oliver Cromwell, in 1650. It gives title of Earl to the family of Butler. The City of Kilkenny, and the Borough of St. Canice, or Irish-Town, according to Dr. Beaufort, form but one large town, which stands in the midst of The County of the City of Kilkenny. It is delightfully situate on the River Nore, over which are two handsome bridges. Of the many large and good buildings that adorn this city, I shall only mention the Bishop's Palace, the magnificent Castle of the Earl of Ormond, and the celebrated Free School or College, founded by the Butler family, and lately re-built on a large scale. The houses are decorated with a very beautiful black and white marble, from the large Quarries in the neighbourhood of this city, which supply various parts of Ireland, and even London, with this commodity. Kilkenny contains about 16,00 souls; and has been long noted for the politeness of its inhabitants. In this city, and its environs, abundance of blankets and much coarse woollen cloth are manufactured. See, St. Canice.—" No Religious House appears to have been in this city, till after the year 1211, when William Mareschal the elder, Earl of Pembroke, founded, on the East side of the town, and near the head of the small bridge, the Priory of St. John the Evangelist, for the relief of indigent poor. This monastery (with various possessions) was granted to the Mayor and Citizens of Kilkenny. The ruins of this building still remain in St.

John Street.—The Franciscan Friary was founded (on the banks of the Nore) for Conventual Franciscans: And Richard Mareschal, Earl of Pembroke, is by some writers made the Founder. Near the Infirmary of the monastery is a well, which was dedicated to St. Francis: it was formerly celebrated for many miracles said to have been wrought there, and still retains some degree of credit amongst the superstitious. This building, with its offices, was of great extent, reaching from the street and city walls to the river; and the ruins, which still remain, sufficiently evince its former elegance and grandeur."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 368. et seq.

KILKENNY, WEST, in the Barony of Kilkenny West, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Sauvin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Ossory: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilkenny, West, is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. W. from Ballymore.—" An Abbey was founded here in the early ages; for we find that the Abbot St. Scannail died A. D. 773. A Priory or Hospital was afterwards erected in this town for Cross-bearers, or Crouched Friars, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist. Some writers erroneously give the foundation to the family of Tyrrell; but, from the best authority, we say, that Friar Thomas, a Priest, and grandson of Sir Thomas Dillon, who came into Ireland, A. D. 1185, was the founder of this house, and lies interred here. There was an Holy Well here, dedicated to the Virgin Mary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 720.

KILKERIL, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Kilkeril is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Knocktopher. See, Knocktopher.

KILKERRAN, or, KILKERRANMORE, in the Barony of Ibawne, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of The Island. Kilkerran is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. b. W. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon Cloghnakilty Bay. The Rectory of Kilkerran is Impropriate in the Representatives of Francis Townsend, Esq. See, The Island.

KILKERRIN, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Boyannagh, and Clonbern: a Church, in Kilkerrin, in bad repair; and for the repairing of which a Cess has been laid on the parish: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. John Dennis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilkerrin is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 8¼ m. N. W. from Ballinamore. The parishes in the Union of Kilkerrin are contiguous: the extent of which is about 12 miles every way.

KILKEVAN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..17..9 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1806, to the V. of Bannow: no Church, but one about to be built: four Glebes, one, of one rood, contiguous to the site of the church of Kilkevan; the three others, not contiguous, but dispersed, containing in the whole 5½ acres; two of them being half a mile asunder, and the third three miles from the former two: The Rev. Joseph Miller, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilkevan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 11½ m. S. W. from Wexford. The parishes in the Union of Kilkevan are contiguous; their contents being 5400 acres. It formerly constituted part of the Union of Duncormuck.

KILKEVAN, otherwise, LIMBRICK, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Gorey. Kilkevan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Gorey. See, Gorey.

KILKILVERY, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., Episcopally united to the Rectories of Carrigin, Donaghpatrick, Kilcoona, Killeny, Killower, and Killursa: a Church, at Headford, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Cecil Crampton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being old and infirm, is non-resident: the duties are discharged by The Rev. John Wilson, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kilkilvery is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Headford, on the North. The parishes in the Union of Kilkilvery are contiguous; their extent from East to West is about eight miles.

KILKYRAN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the V. of Rathcool. Kilkyran is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Kilkenny. See, Rathcool.

KILL, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monkstown. Kill is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. E. from Dublin. See, Monkstown.

KILL, partly in the Barony of Salt, and partly in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united to the Rectory of Lyons: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kill: a Glebe House, with seven acres of Glebe, and four acres more in a place, called Cloghnallis, about two miles distant: The Hon. and Rev. Richard Ponsonby, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is generally resident: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. Theophilus Blakely, at a Salary of £75. per annum, who is resident in the Glebe House, and has also the occupation of seven acres of Glebe rent free. Kill is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. E. from Naas. This parish contains 899 acres of land.

KILLABRAHER, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.—"Or, The Church of the Brotherhood; a ruined Monastery between Churchstown and Liscarol. It is uncertain to what Order it did belong." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 73.

KILLACHAD, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster.— "An Abbey was founded here for Canons Regular by St. Tigernach, a different person from the St. Tigernach of Clunes.—After the departure of King Henry the Second from this kingdom, the English plundered this abbey and many other Religious houses."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 41.

KILLACHAD-CONCHEAN, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey was founded by St. Abban in the Sixth century, for the Holy Virgin St. Conchenna, who is honoured here on the 28th of April.

KILLACONENAGH, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..3..4 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 12th of December 1795, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilcatern, and Kilnamanagh: no Church: a Glebe House, now building: a Glebe, in Kilnamanagh, of 23 a. 1 r. 8 p.; and another, in Kilcatern, of 5 a. 2 r. 15 p.: The Rev. John Beamish, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Killaconenagh is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is ½ m. S. b. W. from Castletown. It is situate upon Bear Haven. The parishes in the Union of Killaconenagh are contiguous: they are but thinly inhabited, and for the most part uncultivated, and, therefore, of small value; although their estimated extent is 12 miles from North to South, and 16 miles from East to West. The Rectory of Killaconenagh is Impropriate in the Representatives of Lord Castlehaven. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLADERRY, commonly called PHILIPSTOWN, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling, and the Vicarage at £9.: a Church, by no means in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: William Ould, D.D., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Philipstown, where the Church stands, and performs the duties in person. Killaderry is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 38½ m. S. W. from Dublin. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish, now called Philipstown, is the Shire Town of the King's County; and the Benefice, extremely poor at present, ought, if possible, to be largely augmented. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 22d of June, and 3d of December. It was so named from King Philip, husband to Mary, Queen of England, who made this part of the country Shire-ground, in 1557. It gives title of Baron to the family of Molesworth. The Castle, which is now in ruins, was built by the Bellinghams.

KILLADOON, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Killadoon is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 7½ m. N. N. W. from Boyle. It is situate on Lough Arrow. See, Taunagh.

KILLADOWN, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Celbridge. Killadown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Leixlip. Here is the handsome Seat of Lord Leitrim. See, Celbridge.

KILLADREENY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. b. E. from Newtown Mount Kennedy.

KILLADYSERT, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Rectory of Kilfarboy. Killadysert is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 122 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of May, and 27th of August. The Castle is in ruins. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The Vicarages of Kilchrist, and Killadysert, are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 2½ miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilfarboy.

KILLAG, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..6 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mulrancan. Killag is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 11 m. S. W. b. S. from Wexford. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Mulrancan.

KILLAGAN, v. KILLYGLEN.

KILLAGH, v. KILLAHA.

KILLAGH, or, KILOE, v. KILLEAD.

KILLAGH, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..19..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Assey. Killagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. from Castletown Delvin. This parish contains 797 acres of land. See, Assey, and Kilcumney.

KILLAGHIN, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Killaghin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. N. from Tralee. See, Ballinacourty.

KILLAGHTEE, or, KILLAUGHTY, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Thomas Hawkins, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Killaghtee is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 3 m. E. S. E. from Killybeggs.

KILLAGHY, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 10 m. N. W. from Kilkenny. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Sinchell, the elder, who died at the great age of 130, was interred in this Abbey: the foundation of which is assigned to the year 548. It is now an Appropriate Rectory.

KILLAGHY, in the Barony of Balliboy, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Killaghy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. from Balliboy. This parish contains 7021 acres of land. See, Fircall.

KILLAHA, or, KILLAGH, anciently DE BELLO LOCO, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Herbert, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is beneficed in the Diocese of Ross, where he resides: The duties are discharged by the Curate of Killarney, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Killaha is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. E. b. E. from Killarney. See, Aghadoe. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. It is situate near the river Flesk.—"A Priory of Regular Canons was founded here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, by Geoffrey de Mariscis, in the reign of King John. The Prior of this House was a Lord of Parliament; but, on account of the very great distance between his place of residence and the metropolis, he was seldom summoned. The walls of the church are of a great length, and strong in proportion; these, and a noble Gothic East window, are yet entire. The architecture, which is of a dark marble, bespeaks the structure to be much more modern than the time before mentioned. Large possessions, situate in divers parts of the country, did belong to this House: which were granted for the term of 21 years to Thomas Clinton, at the annual rent of £17..1.. 9.—An Augustinian Friary was said by some writers to have been founded here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 304.

KILLAHENY, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the Parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Killaheny is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. S. W. b. W. from Tarbert. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Aghavallin.

KILLAHURLER, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Arklow. Killahurler is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. W. from Arklow. See, Arklow.

KILLAHY, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inistioge. Killahy is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. from Knocktopher. See, Inistioge.

KILLAIDAN, v. KILFUACHNA.

KILLAIRD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Tamthinna the virgin was Abbess here.

KILLALA, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: The Right Rev. Joseph Stock, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806: a R. and V.: The Parish Church is demolished; and the Cathedral, which is in good repair, is used as such: a Glebe House and Plot, in the Town of Killala: there are also some Glebe Lands, the quantity and bounds of which are unknown, situate about a mile from the Cathedral Church: The Rev. Edmund Burton, LL. D., Dean, Rector and Vicar, in 1806: who is non-resident, the Glebe House being in possession of a tenant, who sets up a lease alleged to have been made by a former Dean: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Henry Palmer, A. B., his Curate, at a salary of £75. per annum, and who is resident in the Bishop's Palace. Killala is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 127 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 17th of August, and 8th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean. Here the French effected a landing under General Humbert, in 1798: and of which a most interesting Narrative has been published. The Bishoprick of Killala (valued in the King's Books at £23..6..8 sterling) was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, about the middle of the Fifth century; and in the following century, the See of Achonry was established. They both extend into the Counties of Mayo, and Sligo; the river Moy and the Ox Mountains forming the boundary between them. The greatest length of Killala is, from East to West, 45 miles, by a breadth of 21 miles. Achonry stretches from North East to South West 28 miles, and is 21 miles broad. The United Sees measure, East and West, 55 miles, and, from North to South, 21 miles. The Chapter of Killala is composed of a Dean, Precentor, and Archdeacon, with five Prebendaries. The Crown presents to two parishes, which are the Corps of the respective Deaneries, in each of these Dioceses: the other 48 parishes are in the gift of the Bishop. The Cathedral of Killala is small, but venerable for its antiquity: it is the only church in the parish, though a Round tower at the other end of the village indicates the ancient site of another church, of which, however, no vestige remains. The Palace is a very small and ruinous house, ill situated and ill contrived, at the edge of a very fine demesne: But the present Bishop is making such additions and improvements as will render it a very comfortable residence. It is not 30 miles distant from the most remote part of either Diocese. In the rebellion of 1798, most of the records in the Registry of the united Dioceses of Killala and Achonry were destroyed.

KILLALAGHTON, in the Barony of Clonmacow, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghrim. Killalaghton is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Ballinasloe. See, Aghrim.

KILLALIATHAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. W. b. S. from Charleville.

KILLALIATHAN, or, KILLAGHILLIAN, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Butler Odell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is now fitting up a residence close to the parish, and performs the duties in person. This Benefice is only £14. per annum. Killaliathan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. from Croom.

KILLALLON, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, on the 18th of February, 1782, to the V. of Killoah: a Church, in complete repair, in Killallon: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is enjoined to build; a Glebe, of 36 acres, in Killallon, 3 acres of which are two miles from the church, 26 acres one mile from the church, and the remaining 7 acres, about the same distance: The Rev. George Leslie Gresson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killallon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. N. W. from Athboy. The parishes in the Union of Killallon are contiguous; that of Killallon containing 3950 acres of land.

KILLALOAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £8..0..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmell: The Church is in ruins. Killaloan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. N. E. from Clonmell. See, Clonmell, and Killsheelan.

KILLALOE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: The Right Rev. Lord Robert Tottenham, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806:

a Rectory entire, which, with the Rectory entire of Donamona, the Rectories of Clonrush, and Moynoe, the Half Rectory of Ogonilloe, and the Vicarage of Feakle, belong to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in the parish of Killaloe: no Church in the other parishes: no Glebe: The Rev. James Martin, A. M., Curate (in 1806), who is resident, and is assisted by The Rev. Henry Allen, A. B., Curate, who is also resident. Killaloe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 86½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week; and is situate upon the river Shannon, over which here is a Bridge of 19 arches. Here is a considerable Salmon and Eel Fishery. It is a place of great Antiquity. The Diocese of Killaloe (valued in the King's Books at £20..0..0 sterling) was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, early in the Fifth century: in the Twelfth, it was incorporated with the ancient Bishoprick of Roscrea, which was founded in 620. And in the year 1752, the See of Kilfenora, which had been established about the Twelfth century, was united to it; and though very small in extent and value, had continued separate till after the Restoration, when it was first annexed to the Archbishoprick of Tuam: That Union continued 81 years, till 1741, when Ardagh being annexed to Tuam, this Bishoprick was given in Commendam to the Bishop of Clonfert. The Diocese of Killaloe stretches 80 miles in length, through the Counties of Clare and Tipperary, into the King's County, and includes also a small part of the Queen's County, Galway, and Limerick. It varies in breadth from seven to twenty five miles. Kilfenora is confined to the Baronies of Burrin, and Corcomroe, and extends only 18 miles by nine. The Chapter consists of a Dean (see, Kilkeary), Precentor (see Lateragh), Chancellor (see, Toomevara), Treasurer (see, Dromline), and Archdeacon (see, Aghlishcloghane), and five Prebendaries. The Church of Killaloe is not large for a Cathedral, but venerable for its antiquity, and in good preservation, though built above 660 years. It serves like many others for the parish church. Very near the little town of Killaloe, in the midst of a fine Demesne, beautifully situate on the Western Bank of the Shannon, stands the Episcopal Residence, a handsome new House, erected by the late Archbishop of Dublin, when Bishop of Killaloe. This See is 50 miles from the South West extremity of the Diocese.—" St. Molualobhair, the grandson of Eocha Bailldearg, King of North Munster, founded an Abbey here, about the beginning of the Sixth century. He was succeeded by his Disciple St. Flannan, who, about the year 639, was consecrated Bishop of the place; from this time we hear no more of it as an abbey. Killaloe was anciently the Resort of many pilgrims." Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

KILLALOE, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Callan. Killaloe is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. from Callan. See, Callan.

KILLALOGUE, within the Liberties of the Town of Wexford, Co. of WEX-

FORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Killalogue is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is a small parish, contiguous to the town of Wexford; and from which the Rector hardly derives any Income. See, Wexford.

KILLALTON, or, TELTOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Lay Impropriation: the Church is in ruins: no Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Killalton is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. S. E. from Kells. It is situate on the River Blackwater. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Teallean founded the Church of Teachtelle, where his Feast is holden on the 25th of June.

KILLAMEEN, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V.: It is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. N. W. from Galway.

KILLAMERY, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £8..3..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 8 acres, which are contiguous: The Rev. James Jones, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident in his parish, in the County of Derry: the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Killamery is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Kilkenny. It is situate upon the River Nore. This parish is about two miles and an half in length, and two miles in breadth. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Gobban presided over a thousand Monks here.

KILLAN, or, SHERCOCK, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 296 acres of Glebe contiguous to each other: one half in the parish of Shercock, the other in the parish of Knockbride, about two miles from the church: The Rev. Hugh Montgomery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate. Killan is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 8½ m. N. W. from Carrickmacross.

KILLAN, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. N. b. E. from Kesh. A village, situate upon the River Derg.

KILLAN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: a new Glebe House, erected by the late Incumbent, on a Glebe of 33 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. William Eastwood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Killan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. W. b. N from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the River Bove.

KILLANCOOLY, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donaghmore. Killancooly is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10½ m. S. b. E. from Gorey. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Donaghmore.

KILLANE, or, KILLOEBHAIN, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymacward. Killane is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. W. b. S. from Ballinasloe. See, Ballymacward. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Maccectus of this church was Smith to St. Patrick, and made the famous relique, called Finnfaidheach.

KILLANEAR, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ratass: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: there is a piece of ground, called The Glebe, near the ancient church, but it has not been possessed by the Incumbents within the memory of man: The Rev. William Godfrey, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person, from the contiguous parish of Killcoleman where he resides, and of which he is Curate. Killanear is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. See, Ratass.

KILLANEY, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the Income is only £12. per annum: no Clergyman has been presented by the Lay Patron, since the death of the last Incumbent: a cure of souls. Killaney is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. W. from Saintfield.

KILLANIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Killanin is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Ballynakill.

KILLANULLY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: two Glebes, one of them containing 1 a. 2 r. 13 p., the other 1 a. 2 r. 21 p.: The Rev. Henry St. Eloy, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is not resident: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. William Lewis Beaufort, who resides in Cork, at a Salary of £10. Killanully is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Cork. It is situate near the River Awinboy. This parish is of but small extent.

KILLANY, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 120 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. Harcourt Lees, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Killany is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Louth.

KILLARAGHT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Patrick founded a Nunnery here for the Virgin St. Athracta.

KILLARAGHT, in the Barony of Coolavin, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Killfree, and Killshalvee: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: 10 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Veatch Simpson, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who is non-resident, with permission, being one of the Chaplains to His Grace The Lord Lieutenant: the duties are discharged by The Rev. James Ellwood, A. B., his Curate. Killaraght is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. from Boyle. The parishes in the Union of Killaraght are contiguous; their estimated extent being five miles in breadth, and eight miles in length. It is situate on Lough Garagh.—"St. Patrick built a Nunnery here for St. Athracta, sister to St. Coeman; she received the veil from the hands of St. Patrick, A. D. 470, and her feast, as Patroness, is celebrated here on the 9th of February, or, more probably, on the 11th of August. It is now a parish church." Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 635.

KILLARD, in the Barony of Ibrickin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscathrie. Killard is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. N. W. from Kilrush. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. It gives title of Baron to the Family of Allington. See, Inniscathrie.

KILLARDRY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Chapelry of Clonfinglass, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 16 a. 2 r. 12 p., in the parish of Killardry: The Rev. Anthony Armstrong, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on the Vicarage of Emly, which he holds by Faculty: the duties of both Killardry, and Clonfinglass, are performed by The Rev. Edward Labarte, Curate of the adjoining parish, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Killardry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. N. W. from Cahir. This parish contains 4006 acres of land.

KILLARE, v. KILSLERE.

KILLARE, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. E. b. S. from Ballymore.—"Here we find three Churches, the first dedicated to St. Aid, was Parochial, the next was called Temple Brigid, and the third, The Court of St. Brigid. Here were also three Holy Wells, but we know not to whom they were dedicated."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 716.

KILLARGE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster.—" In the reign of King John, Gilbert de Borard founded a Preceptory here, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, for Knights Templars, but on the downfall of that Order it was granted to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 36.

KILLARGY, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: 288 acres of Glebe; a considerable part of which is mountain, and about one mile distant from each other, in different Dioceses: The Rev. John Gumley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Killargy is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Manor Hamilton.

KILLARNEY, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes holden with the Archdeaconry of Aghadoe. Killarney is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 144 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of July, and 11th of November. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate near the beautiful Lake of Loch Lean, or, The Lake of Killarney, the boast and pride of Ireland! See, Aghadoe. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Killarney is in a very improving state; not so much owing to the great concourse of visitants whom the beauties of the Lake attract, as to the judicious attention of the respectable proprietor, Lord Kenmare, and to the encouragement which his Lordship gives to the extension of the Linen Manufacture through that neighbourhood.

KILLARVEY, or, KILLARY, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £20..5..0 Irish Money: The Rev. George Lambart, the Rector (in 1806), is non-resident, and has not cure of souls: the Vicarage (endowed) is valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Syddan. Killarvey is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. E. b. S. from Nobber. This parish contains 2562 acres of land. See, Syddan.

KILLARY, v. KILLARVEY.

KILLASHEE, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united by Act of Council, thirty years and upwards, to the R. and V. of Tashinny: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in Killashee, and a Glebe: The Rev. James Hutchinson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killashee is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E.

from Lanesborough. The Fairs are holden on the second Monday in March, 24th of May, 29th of September, and the first Wednesday in December. The parishes in the Union of Killashee are distant from each other about six miles.

KILLASHER, in the Barony of Clonawly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 1300 acres of Glebe, most of them in the parish of Kinawley; a small portion only in the parish of Killasher, and five miles distant from the church: The Rev. Charles Cobbe Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in this Diocese; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Killasher is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. W. from Enniskillen.

KILLASNET, in the Barony of Rossclogher, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., united, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Clonclare, and Clonlogher. Killasnet is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. W. from Manor Hamilton. See, Clonclare.

KILLASPUGBRONE, v. KILASPICKBROWN.

KILLASPUGMULLEN, v. KILASPUGHENANE.

KILLASSER, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..2..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Strade. Killasser is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. E. N. E. from Foxford. See, Strade.

KILLATHY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhooly. Killathy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. b. N. from Fermoy. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Ballyhooly.

KILLBARRY, within the County of the City of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory; no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: George Fox, Esq., the Impropriator (in 1806): has cure of souls: the occasional duties are performed by a Curate, The Rev. John Cooke, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Killbarry is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. from Waterford. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Impropriate Rectory entire of Killbarry is alone of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent. It is recommended (if possible), that it should be perpetually united to the Archdeaconry which joins it, and which, it is conceived, is of too small value by itself to afford comfort to the Incumbent.—"An House was founded here for Knights Templars in the 12th century, which was afterwards given to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 689.

KILLBEAGH, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killconduff. Killbeagh is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 11 m. N. from Ballyhaunis. See, Killconduff.

KILLBEGGAN, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Lay Impropriation, with a Curacy: a Church, old, and in indifferent repair: a new Glebe House, on a Glebe of 21 a. 2 r. 25 p., within half a mile of the church: The Rev. William Marshall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killbeggan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 44 m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of June, and 28th of October. It is situate on the River Brosna. It has six Post-days in the week. The Income of Killbeggan is only £60. per annum, viz., from the First Fruits £40., and from a Diocesan Fund £20. —"An Abbey was founded here by St. Becan, son of Murchade, of the Blood Royal of Munster: he was a Cotemporary of St. Columb, and his Festival is held on the 5th of April.—In the year 1200, a Monastery was founded here, by the family of Dalton, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, and probably on the site of the ancient abbey: it was supplied with Cistertian Monks from the Abbey of Mellefont."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 717.

KILLBELFAD, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardagh. Killbelfad is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. b. S. from Ballina. It is situate upon Lough Conn. See, Ardagh.

KILLBONANE, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Killcredane, and Molahiffe: Killbonane and Killcredane were first united, in 1678: Molahiffe was added to them between 1732 and 1755, but the exact year is not known: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Maurice Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is beneficed in the Diocese of Elphin, where he resides: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Killcoleman, at a Salary of £15. per annum. Killbonane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. E. from Milltown. It is situate on the River Mang. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLBREEDY, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackan. Killbreedy is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. N. N. W. from Killala. See, Lackan.

KILLBREEDY, MAJOR, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4

Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmallock. Killbreedy, Major, is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. W. b. S. from Kilmallock. See, Kilmallock.

KILLBREEDY, MINOR, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bruff. Killbreedy, Minor, is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Bruff. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Bruff.

KILLBRIDE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, constituting, with the entire Rectory of the Island of Keane, the Corps of the Oeconomy of the Cathedral of Waterford, and which were probably united at the same time when the Deanery was established: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres, at Killbride, near the site of the old church: has cure of souls: the occasional duties are performed by a Curate, who resides in the City of Waterford, at a Salary of £2..5..6 per annum. Killbride is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. b. W. from Waterford. The parishes in the Union of Killbride are contiguous; that of Killbride containing about 1000 acres of land.

KILLBRIDE TANGAN, v. CLARA.

KILLBRODERAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 a. 2 r. 0 p., near the old church; The Rev. Thomas Maunsell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Ossory: the duties are performed by the Vicar of Shanagolden. Killbroderan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5. m. N. W. b. W. from Rathkeale. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLCARAGH, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, some time between the year 1721 and 1732, to the V. of Duagh: no Church: no Glebe House: several small Glebes, in Duagh, near the old Church, making together 6 a. 2 r. 6 p.; and a Glebe, in Killcaragh, close to the old church, of 13 a. 0 r. 15 p.: The Hon. and Rev. Maurice Crosbie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; he is also Dean of Limerick, but is incapable of performing the duty, or attending to any business; he resides in the county of Wexford: since thus circumstanced, the duties are performed by the Curate of Listowell, at a Salary of £20. Killcaragh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. W. from Listowell. It is situate upon the River Brick. The parishes in the Union of Killcaragh are not contiguous. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes, separately, are too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLCHRIST, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killinane. Killchrist is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. from Loughrea. It is situate upon the River Gurtnamuckin. The Prebend of Killchrist is valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling. See, Killinane.

KILLCLONEY, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling. Killcloney is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Markethill.

KILLCOCKAN, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templemihil: the Church is in ruins. Kilcockan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. E. from Tallow. It is situate upon the River Blackwater, which is of considerable breadth here, and makes a beautiful appearance. See, Templemihil.

KILLCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: no Register of Glebe: an Impropriation, possessed by the Earl of Glandore, though supposed to be included in the Forfeiture of Edward Spring to the Crown, along with the parishes which compose the Union of Killtallagh, and is included in every Patent for those parishes: the duties are performed by The Rev. William Godfrey, the Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £50. per annum. Killcoleman is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Milltown, on the North-west. See, Killtallagh.

KILLCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..7..6 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3a. 0r. 20p., close to the old church: The Rev. John Stone, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Ossory; the duties are performed by the Vicar of the adjoining parish of Shanagolden, at a Salary of £3. per annum. Killcoleman is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. W. from Rathkeale. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castlemore. Killcoleman is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 17 m. N. W. from Strokestown. See, Castlemore.

KILLCOLMAN, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinrobe. Killcolman is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. N. from Clare. See, Ballinrobe.

KILLCOMMON, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, Galway. Killcommon is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 12½ m. N. W. from Galway. It is situate on Lough Corrib. See, Galway.

KILLCOMMON, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the V. of Killmore-Erris. Killcommon is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 26 m. N. N. W. from Newport Pratt. It is situate on Broad Haven, on the Western Ocean. See, Killmore-Erris.

KILLCOMMON, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., united by Act of Parliament, in 1703, to the Vicarages of Robeen, and Taghkeen: a Church, in Hollymount: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 8 a. 3 r. 0 p., in Killcommon: The Rev. Edmund Burton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives in Tuam, as being Vicar General of the Diocese of Tuam: the duties are discharged by The Rev. George Paul Woodward, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killcommon is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Hollymount, on the North-west. The parishes in the Union of Killcommon are contiguous; their extent is about six miles. It is situate on the River Robe.

KILLCONDUFF, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united on the 9th of May, 1805, to the Vicarages of Killbeagh, and Meelick: there is no Church in this Union, but it is intended to apply to the Board of First Fruits for Money to erect one: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land, in this Union: The Rev. Thomas Radcliffe, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, with permission, having a parish in another Diocese: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Bell, A. B., his Curate, at a Salary of £20. per annum. Killconduff is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is ½ m. E. from Swineford. The parishes in the Union of Killconduff are contiguous; their estimated extent being 14 miles in length, and 5 miles in breadth.

KILLCONLY, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., constituting with one-fifth part of the parish of Ardfert, and the R. and V. of Killemlagh, the Corps of the Treasurership of Ardfert, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: two Glebes, in Killconly, of 4 a. 0 r. 25 p.; three, in Killemlagh, of 37 a. 2 r. 19 p.; and one, of 45 acres, in Ardfert; all which Glebes were let for 21 years, about 12 years ago, by a former Treasurer, at a very small rent: The Rev. Windham Magrath Fitzgerald, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Killconly, and Killemlagh, and jointly with other Dignitaries in Ardfert; he serves a Cure in the Diocese of Emly; and the duties of Killconly, and Killemlagh, are attended by the Curates of the adjoining parishes, viz., by the Curate of Aghavallin, for Killconly, at a Salary of £15. per annum; and by the Curate of Cahir, for Killemlagh, at an annual Salary of £10. The Union of these parishes was at a period prior to any existing Record; probably, at the first institution of the dignity, and by such authority as was then competent. These parishes are remote from each other; Killconly is above 20 miles from Ardfert, and 50 from Killemlagh, which is 35 miles from Ardfert. Killconly is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. W. b. S. from Tarbert. It is situate at the entrance of the River Shannon, on the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLCONNEL, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymacward. Killconnel is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 78 m. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, 4th of August, and 11th of November. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Ballymacward.—"St. Conall was Abbot of Kilchonail, in the time of St. Patrick. The existence of this Abbey was but short, which the vulgar impute to a denunciation pronounced by that Saint: it is now a Vicarage in the Diocese of Clonfert. A Monastery for Franciscan Friars was afterwards founded here about the year 1400, by William O'Kelly. At the Dissolution it was granted to Charles Calthorpe. The Roman Catholics repaired the Friary in 1604."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 290.

KILLCONYGAYN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Prebend of St. Munchin. Killconygayn is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Munchin's, Limerick.

KILLCREDANE, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killbonane. Killcredane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. See, Killbonane.

KILLCROHANE, in the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kenmare. Killcrohane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Prov-nce of Cashel. It is 17 m. S. W. from Kenmare. It is situate upon the River Kenmare. See, Kenmare.

KILLCUMMIN, v. HACKNEYS.

KILLCUMMIN, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes holden with the Archdeaconry of Aghadoe. Killcummin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. N. W. from Killarney. See, Aghadoe. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLCUMMIN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackan. Killcummin is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 4¼ m. N. from Killala. It is situate on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Lackan.

KILLDACAMOGE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aglish. Killdacamoge is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. E. N. E. from Castlebar. See, Aglish.

KILLDANALE, v. KILLENAULE.

KILLDEEMO, in the Barony of Kenry, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..16..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Limerick. Killdeemo is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. W. b. W. from Limerick. It is situate near the River Maig. A Perpetual Curacy has lately been erected in this parish, and endowed by the Archdeacon (Averell Hill, D. D.) with Glebe and Tythes. See, St. Michael's, Limerick.

KILLDELLIG, v. KILLDELLYGLY.

KILLDELLYGLY, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; no Church: The Rev. John Carey, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice; and which is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. Killdellygly is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Burros in Ossory.—" We meet with a St. Sillan and St. Cuanan of Kildelge, the latter of whom died, A. D. 721. It afterwards became a parish church, but is now in ruins."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 594.

KILLDORRERY, v. KILDERERY.

KILLDRUM, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Edward James Day, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves an important Curacy at Bally Mac Elligott, by permission: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Dingle, at a Salary of £4. per annum. Killdrum is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. W. from Dingle. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLEA, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. John Harris, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killea is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 4 m. S. W. from Londonderry. It is situate upon the River Foyle.

KILLEA, or, KILSLEW, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templemore. Killea is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. W. from Templemore. This parish contains 2235 acres. See, Templemore.

KILLEA in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crooke: a Glebe, adjacent to the site of the old church. Killea is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. from Passage, East. This parish contains about 2500 acres of land. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. See, Crooke. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Corbally, and the Vicarages of Killea, Rathmoylan, and Kilmacomb, ought to be perpetually united, and a church and a glebe house built at Killea. The Crown is the Patron of Killea and Rathmoylan; the Bishop, of Corbally and Kilmacomb.

KILLEAD, or, KILLAGH, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 10 a. 1 r. 15 p., near the church: The Rev. Bernard O' Doran, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killead is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. from Glenavy.

KILLEAGH, or, KILLEIGH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, now building: a Glebe, of 16 acres: Richard Rogers, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Jeremiah Harte, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killeagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Youghall. The Fairs are holden on the 13th of June, and 12th of November. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Abban built an Abbey here, and made the Holy Virgin, St. Conchenna, Abbess of it.

KILLEAGH, or, MOYNENE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £11..10..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughcrew. Killeagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. from Oldcastle. This parish contains 3530 acres of land. See, Loughcrew.

KILLEAK, v. KILLECK.

KILLEANY, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Corclone. Killeany is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. This parish contains 443 acres. See, Corclone.

KILLEASPUIC-BOLCAIN, in the Barony of ——, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" In the Reuts, not far from Airthermuighe. St. Bolcain, or Olcain, a disciple of St. Patrick, built this church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 8.

KILLEBANE, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £2.: the old Church, lately taken down, and re-built: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Jocelyn Weldon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident within the parish. Killebane is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. S. b. W. from Athy. —" St. Abban built a sumptuous Monastery here about the year 650. No accounts of this Abbey are now to be traced, save that, in the course of time, it became, and is now, a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 595.

KILLECK, or, KILLOUGH, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Swords. Killeck is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. W. from Swords. See, Swords.

KILLECRAU, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Religious House or Chapel of this name, situate near Ballinrobe.

KILLEDAW, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Strade. Killedan is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. S. S. E. from Foxford. It is situate upon the River Guishden. See, Strade.—" Here was a Friary of Conventual Franciscans, which, by an Inquisition taken on the 12th of May, 1608, was seized of divers lands and tenements, with four quarters of land, the tythes of the same, &c."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 503.

KILLEEDY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money: the Vicarage being also valued at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, about to be built: a Glebe, of 26 a. 3 r. 17 p., near the church: The Rev. Edward Geraghty, the Prebendary

(in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Killeedy is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is $10\frac{1}{2}$ m. S. S. W. from Rathkeale.

KILLEELY, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 11a. 3r. 8p., two miles from the church, but close to the ancient site: The Rev. George Gustavus Baker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Killeely is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. W. from Limerick.

KILLEEN, v. KILLEENY.

KLLEEN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £9. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taragh. Killeen is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is $2\frac{1}{4}$ m. N. b. W. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 1825 acres of land. See, Taragh.—"High in repute in earlier ages, but now only an inconsiderable town. In the year 1180, Hugh de Lacie built a stately Castle here, which afterwards became the residence of the Fingall family, and at this day is in possession of the present Earl. Near the castle was a Church dedicated to St. Mary, beautifully carved, and built in the Gothic style; the East window was large and of a considerable height, and West of the church were two Towers. The ruins of many ancient tombs are still to be seen here, with several figures in the Episcopal habit, mitres on their heads, &c.—St. Endeus founded an Abbey of Regular Canons here.—A Nunnery was also built by St. Endeus, for his sister St. Fanchea, who was called Carecha; in the year 480, she was interred here, and her reliques have been held in great veneration. It is probable, says Colgan, that Teghaine, famous for the interment of seven Bishops, is the same with Killeen." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 550.

KILLEEN, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghamacart. Killeen is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is $2\frac{1}{2}$ m. S. W. from Durrow. See, Aghamacart.

KILLEENY, otherwise KILLEEN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monkstown. Killeeny is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Irish Sea. See, Monkstown.

KILLEEVAN, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the V. of Drumsnatt: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 64 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Andrew Allen, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by Curate. Killeevan is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. E. from Clones. It is situate on the River Fina. The parish of Killeevan was separated from the Corps of the Chancellorship, in 1304. See, Gadlo KILLEGLAN, in the Barony of Ratoath, County of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ratoath. Killeglan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 11½ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. This parish contains 438 acres of land. See, Ratoath.

KILLEIGH, in the Barony of Geshil, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, annexed to, and included in the Benefice of Geashill. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 9¾ m. N. W. from Portarlington. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June and 16th of October. See, Geashill.—" In the year 550, St. Sincheal Mac Cermain, Abbot of Killeach, died of the plague: He probably founded the Priory of Augustin Canons of the Holy Cross here.—A Nunnery was founded by the family of Warren, soon after the arrival of the English, for Nuns of the Order of St. Augustin.—An House for Gray Friars was erected here, in the reign of King Edward the First, of which, O'Connor was the Founder, as some writers suppose. At the general suppression, this Monastery was granted to John Allee."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 400.

KILLEIGHY, otherwise BALLYKEANE, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is a Sine Cure, of which, William Ould, D. D., is Rector (in 1806), without cure of souls: the Vicarage is endowed: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 6 acres, close to the ruins of an old church, and in the possession of the Vicar: The Rev. John Webb, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the contiguous parish of Geashill of which he is Curate, and performs the duties in person. Killeighy is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. from Portarlington. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, a consolidation of this Rectory with the Vicarage is desirable. The village of Ballykeane is well situate for a church, though the united Rectory and Vicarage would barely afford subsistence in this place. It is at a considerable distance from any market, and a few more acres of glebe would, on that account chiefly, be a great acquisition.

KILLEILAGH, in the Barony of Corcomroe, County of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmanaheen. Killeilagh is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. W. b. N. from Innistymon. See, Kilmanaheen.

KILLEINY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, County of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 9 acres, has been withholden for many years by the tenant of the Bishop's lands, in Kil-leiny, which surround it: but it is now likely to be recovered, when the Incumbent will be required to build and reside: The Hon. and Rev. Frederick Mullins, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the parish of Killtallagh, where he is Curate: the duties are performed by the Incumbent of Kilgobban, at a Salary of £18. per annum. Killeiny is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 12½ m. W. b. S. from Tralee. It is situate upon Tralee Bay. See, Killgobba.

KILLELEAGH, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyloughloe: a Church, in complete repair: three portions of Glebe, each a little more than a mile from that which is nearest to it: the one, nearest to the church, contains 22 acres; that which is next, about 37 acres; and the third, 20 acres. Killeleagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Moate, on the South West. This parish contains 5301 acres of land. See, Ballyloughloe.

KILLELY, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Ellis. Kiely is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the Irish Sea. See, Castle Ellis.

KILLEMLAGH, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killconly. Killemlagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 35 m. S. W. from Killarney. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killconly.

KILLEN, v. KILCARR

KILLENAGH, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donaghmore. Killenagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. by E. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Awin Banna. See, Donaghmore.

KILLENANE, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahir. Killenane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 22 m. S. W. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Fartin, at the extremity of Valentia Harbour. See, Cahir.

KILLENAULE, or, KLLDANALE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, united by Act of Council to the Rectories and Vicarages of Coolagh, Drangan, Isertkerin, Lickfinn, and Magowry; and to which was united by Act of Council, in 1801, the Rectory of St, Johnstown: a is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Killeevan is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. from Clones. It is situate on the River Fina. The parish of Killeevan was separated from the Corps of the Chancellorship, in 1804. See, Galloon.

KILLEGLAN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ratoath. Killeglan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 11½ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. This parish contains 438 acres of land. See, Ratoath.

KILLEIGH, in the Barony of Geshil, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, annexed to, and included in the Benefice of Geashill. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 9¾ m. N. W. from Portarlington. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June, and 16th of October. See, Geashill.—" In the year 550, St. Sincheal Mac Cenenain, Abbot of Killeach, died of the plague: He probably founded the Priory of Augustin Canons of the Holy Cross here.—A Nunnery was founded by the family of Warren, soon after the arrival of the English, for Nuns of the Order of St. Augustin.—An House for Gray Friars was erected here, in the reign of King Edward the First, of which, O'Connor was the Founder, as some writers suppose. At the general suppression, this Monastery was granted to John Allee."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 400.

KILLEIGHY, otherwise BALLYKEANE, in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is a Sine Cure, of which, William Ould, D. D., is Rector (in 1806), without cure of souls: the Vicarage is endowed: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 6 acres, close to the ruins of an old church, and in the possession of the Vicar: The Rev. John Webb, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the contiguous parish of Geashill of which he is Curate, and performs the duties in person. Killeighy is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. from Portarlington. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, a consolidation of this Rectory with the Vicarage is desirable. The village of Ballykeane is well situate for a church, though the united Rectory and Vicarage would barely afford subsistence in this place. It is at a considerable distance from any market, and a few more acres of glebe would, on that account chiefly, be a great acquisition.

KILLEILAGH, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmanaheen. Killeilagh is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. W. b. N. from Innistymon. See, Kilmanaheen.

KILLEINY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 9 acres, has been withholden for many years by the tenant to the Bishop's lands, in Kil-leiny, which surround it: but it is now likely to be recovered, when the Incumbent will be required to build, and reside: The Hon. and Rev. Frederick Mullins, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the parish of Killtallagh, where he is Curate: the duties are performed by the Incumbent of Kilgobban, at a Salary of £18. per annum. Killeiny is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 12½ m. W. b. S. from Tralee. It is situate upon Tralee Bay. See, Killgobban.

KILLELEAGH, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyloughloe: a Church, in complete repair: three portions of Glebe, each a little more than a mile from that which is nearest to it: the one, nearest to the church, contains 22 acres; that which is next, about 37 acres; and the third, 20 acres. Killeleagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Moate, on the South West. This parish contains 5301 acres of land. See, Ballyloughloe.

KILLELY, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Ellis. Killely is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the Irish Sea. See, Castle Ellis.

KILLEMLAGH, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killconly. Killemlagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 35 m. S. W. from Killarney. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killconly.

KILLEN, v. KILCARR.

KILLENAGH, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donaghmore. Killenagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. b. E. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Awin Banna. See, Donaghmore.

KILLENANE, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahir. Killenane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 22 m. S. W. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Fartin, at the extremity of Valentia Harbour. See, Cahir.

KILLENAULE, or, KILLDANALE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, united by Act of Council to the Rectories and Vicarages of Coolagh, Drangan, Isertkerin, Lickfinn, and Magowry; and to which was united by Act of Council, in 1801, the Rectory of St. Johnstown: a Killeny is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. S. from Headford. See, Kilkilvery.

KILLERERAN, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united by Act of Council, in 1792, to the R. of Knockmoy: a Church, in Killereran, in good repair: a Glebe House, in good repair also, with 40 acres of Glebe land: The Rev. Henry Major, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and having a Faculty, resides in his parish at Ballishannon, in the Diocese of Raphoe: the duties are discharged by The Rev. William Lawler, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, together with the use of the Glebe House, and Garden. Killereran is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. S. E. from Tuam. It is situate on the River Moyne. These two parishes are contiguous; their extent being nearly a square of seven miles.

KILLERICK, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, paid by the Impropriator £18. per annum, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Urglin. Killerick is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. E. b. N. from Carlow. It is situate upon the River Slaney. See, Urglin.

KILLERMOGH, or, KILDERMOY, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, lately built; and about 300 acres of Glebe land about one mile asunder, 3 acres being at a remote corner of the parish, the rest in the centre thereof, and contiguous to the church: The Rev. Edward Price, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and discharges the duties in person. Killermogh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. N. b. W. from Durrow.—" St. Columb founded an Abbey at Armuighe, in Ossory, A. D. 558. It afterwards became a parish church, and is now in ruins."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 595.

KILLERSHERDINY, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in very good repair: no Glebe House: 285 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. William Keating, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Killersherding is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Cootehill.

KILLERY, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Killenumury: a Church, in good repair. Killery is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. W. from Dromahaire. See, Killenumury.

KILLESHANDRA, in the Barony of Tullaghonoho, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £15. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House; 500 acres of Glebe; 200 of which are contiguous to the church, and 300 about two miles distant: The Rev. William Hales, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Killeshandra is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 61 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 22d of June, the second Wednesday, O. S., in August, and 8th of November. It has six Post-days in the week.

KILLESHELL, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: an old Church, in tolerable order: no Glebe House, but one nearly built: 360 English acres of Glebe, about 60 of which are mountain, all lying together near to the church: The Rev. Daniel Kelly, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Killeshell is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. W. from Dungannon.

KILLESK, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Ellis. Killesk is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. S. E. b. S. from Enniscorthy. See, Castle Ellis.

KILLESK, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., consolidated, and Episcopally united, in 1780, and ever since, to the Impropriate Cures of Dunbrody, Rathroe, and St. James's: a Church, in repair, at Ballyhack, in the parish of St. James: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Glascott, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Pilltown, a mile and an half from Dunbrody, and four miles from the church at Ballyhack, and discharges the duties in person. The three Impropriate Cures have never received more than £20. annually from the Impropriator, which is now withdrawn. Killesk is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. The parishes in the Union of Killesk are all contiguous; their contents being 7262 acres. The Earl of Donegal is the Lay Impropriator.

KILLESKIN, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carlow. Killeskin is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. W. b. N. from Carlow. It is situate near the River Barrow. See, Carlow.

KILLESKY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. Killesky is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Wicklow.

KILLESOLAN, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, on a Glebe, of 82 acres: The Rev. Alexander Gunning, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killesolan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Castle-Blakeney, on the North-east. The extent of this parish is about 24 square miles.

KILLESTER, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. E. from Dublin. Here is a handsome Seat of Sir William Gleadow Newcomen, Bart. It is an agreeable village.

KILLETRYNODE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—" We find a Cell or Chapel, named as above, in this county, which was endowed with a Quarter of land adjoining. It was afterwards united to the Abbey of the Holy Trinity in Loughkee, in the county of Roscommon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 503.

KILLEVY, or, KILSLEVE, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in bad order: a Glebe House, in the City of Armagh, the Rector of this parish being Precentor in the Chapter, 12 miles distant from hence: 300 English acres of Glebe, not contiguous, distant from the church, 3 miles, and the two Glebes about the same distance from each other: The Rev. John Cleland, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Killevy is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. from Newry.—" St. Darerca, otherwise called Monenna, sister to St. Patrick, was Abbess of Kilsleve, or Belsleibhe: he died A. D. 517, or 518, and her feast is held on the 6th of July. Others say, that this Nunnery was built by St. Monenna, about the year 630, after she had quitted Faugher, in the County of Louth. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 34.

KILLEYMUR, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmurry. Killeymur is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. S. E. from Kilrush. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Kilmurry.

KILLFEIGHNY, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., constituting with one-fifth of the parish of Ardfert, and the V. of Ballyconry-derico, the Corps of the Precentorship of Ardfert, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Ardfert, of 71 a. 0 r. 12 p., and, in Killfeighny, of 10 acres: The Rev. Samuel Monsel, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has the cure in both Vicarages, and jointly with the other Dignitaries in Ardfert: is resident on his Glebe of Ardfert: the duties of the Vicarages are performed by the Incumbent of Killflynn, for Killfeighny, at a Salary of £10.; and by the Curate of Liseltin, for Ballyconry-derico, at £2.

annually. The Union of these parishes was at a period prior to any existing Record: probably, at the first Institution of the Dignity, and by such authority as was then competent. These parishes are not contiguous. Killfeighny is 4 miles from Ardfert, and 6 miles from Ballyconry-derico. Killfeighny is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. S. W. from Listowell. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, and also the Union, are too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLFENNY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Nantinan. Killfenny is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. The Fairs are holden at Killfenny Common, on the 15th of May, 14th of July, 12th of September, and 22d of December. See, Nantinan.

KILLFERGUS, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Ashe, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the parish of Newcastle, where he has been many years Curate: the duties are performed by the Curate of the contiguous parish of Killnaghtin, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Killfergus is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Tarbert. It is situate near the River Shannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilmallock.

KILLFINNAN, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., holden with the Vicarage of Daragh, as far back as any existing Record, and steps are now taking to unite them by Act of Council; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballingarry. Killfinnan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. E. S. E. from Kilmallock. The parishes of Killfinnan, and Daragh, are contiguous, and contain 4000 acres of land. The Fairs are holden on the 19th of May, 9th of August, and 25th of October. Here is a Charter School, for 20 Children, built at the expense of Robert Oliver, Esq. See, Ballingarry.

KILLFLYN, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: no Church, nor no appearance of there having been any: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Rose, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides, by permission, at Adare, where he was for many years Curate: the duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish of Killfinnan, at a Salary of £4..11..0 per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Killflyn is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel.

KILLFLYNN, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Killflynn is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Tralee. See, Ballinacourty.

KILLFREE, in the Barony of Coolavin, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killaraght. Killfree is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. W. b. S. from Boyle. See, Killaraght.

KILLFYAN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crossmolina. Killfyan is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. W. from Killala. See, Crossmolina.—" St. Finan, Abbot of Rathene in Tirconnel, built an Abbey here, which, according to Colgan, existed but a very short time."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 503.

KILLGARRYLANDER, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killtallagh. Killgarrylander is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Milltown. It is situate upon Castlemain Harbour. See, Killtallagh.

KILLGARVAN, in the Barony of Glanerought, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of about 4 acres; it is near the old church, and it is supposed that it ought to contain 11 acres; but no other evidence exists of its extent than Vallancey's Copy of the Down Survey: The Rev. William Hughes, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Limerick, where he is Residentiary Preacher at the Cathedral: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Walter Stewart, of Kenmare, at a Salary of £6. per annum. Killgarvan is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Kenmare. It is situate upon the River Roughy. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLGARVEY, or, KILNEGARVAN, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardagh. Killgarvey is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. S. E. b. E. from Ballina. See, Ardagh.—" St. Fechan founded the Church of Kilnagharbhan; and died, A. D. 664."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 504.

KILLGERRILL, in the Barony of Clonmacow, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghrim. Killgerrill is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. W. N. W. from Ballinasloe. See, Aghrim.

KILLGLASS, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united, seventy years and upwards, to the Vicarages of Aharagh, and Rathrea: a Church, out of repair; and for the repair of which a Subscription has been entered into: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is preparing to build; four Glebes, of 89 acres, about two miles distant from each other: The Rev. William Dudley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other parish in Ferns; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killglass is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Edgworthstown. The parishes in the Union of Killglass are contiguous, and are estimated to extend six miles in length, and three miles in breadth. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Echea, sister to St. Mell, was Abbess of the Monastery here; but nothing more is known of this foundation.

KILLGLASS, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V. valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the R. and V., of Castleconnor. Killglass is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. N. b. E. from Ballina. See, Castleconnor.

KILLGOBBAN, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the R. and V. of Cloghane: These parishes, and Killeiny, were holden together in 1669, and so continued till about the year 1760, when they were separated, and remained so during two Incumbencies, till the year 1795, when they were again united by authority of the Diocesan: a Church, in Killgobban, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 11 a. 0 r. 4 p., near the church: The Rev. Thomas Orpen Stewart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. These parishes are contiguous, though the parish of Killeiny is interposed between most parts of them. Killgobban is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. W. S. W. from Tralee. It is situate upon Tralee Bay. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLGOBBIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock. Killgobbin is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Kilmallock.

KILLGOBENET, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Rectory being the Corps, which is valued in the King's Books at £4..10..0: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0 a. 2 r. 1 p., with a Cabin thereon, in Lismore, very near the Cathedral: The Rev. Peter Augustus Franquefort, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has not cure of souls, and it being a perfect Sine Cure, he resides in the City of Waterford, where he is Minister of the French Church: the Vicarage constitutes a part of the Union of White Church. Killgobenet is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. b. E. from Dungarvan. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of February, 3d of May, 11th of June, 1st of November, and 27th of December. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Killgobenet, and the entire Rectory of Killrush, ought to be perpetually united, and a Church built at Killgobenet, and a Glebe House on the Glebe at Killrush; or, if it could be exchanged for glebe land near the site of the church, it would be better. See, White Church.

KILLIADHUIN, in the Barony of ———, King's County, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, a Friary or Nunnery was founded here by St. Keran, about the beginning of the Fifth century.

KILLIANE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. Killiane is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. S. E. from Wexford. It is situate upon Wexford Haven. See Killenick.

KILLIGARVAN, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church. It is 12 m. N. E. b. N. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is one of the six parishes, which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Raphoe. It is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh.

KILLIGNEY, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster; a R., Episcopally united, in 1798, to the Impropriate Cure of Chapel: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Bentley Gordon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Killigney is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; their contents being 4630 acres.

KILLIKINEEN, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Killikineen is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8½ m. W. N. W. from Loughrea. See, Kilcongan.

KILLILANE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilscoran. Killilane is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Kilscoran.

KILLILEAGH, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Tynan.

KILLILEAGH, in the Barony of Dufferin, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in bad order; £100. have been laid on the parish in Vestry, and Sir J. Blackwood has engaged to give as much, in addition, as will put the church in good repair: a Glebe House, much dilapidated, on a Glebe of 14 acres, near the church: The Rev. Richard Stack, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is resident for three months in each year,; the remaining months he lives on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Derry; has cure of souls, and, whilst here, discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Killileagh is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 80 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of April, Monday after Trinity, 11th of October, and 11th of December. It was incorporated by King James the First. The celebrated Naturalist and eminent Physician, Sir Hans Sloane, was born here on the 16th of April 1660. It is situate upon Strangford Lough. It has six Post-days in the week.

KILLILEAGH, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: no Church; but Money is granted for building one: a Glebe House: 164 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the site of the intended church: The Rev. G. Marshall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killileagh is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. N. b. W. from Tubbermore. It is situate upon the River Clody.

KILLIMORBOLOGE, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert. Killimorbologe is in the Diocese of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 7¼ m. W. S. W. from Eyrecourt. See, Clonfert.

KILLIMORE DALY, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghrim. Killimore Daly is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. E. from Athenry. See, Aghrim.

KILLINAGH, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land in this parish; but there are 39 acres belonging to it, in the parish of Kinawley, eight miles distant: The Rev. John Clarke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killinagh is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 7½ m. E. b. S. from Manor Hamilton. It is situate upon Lough Macnean.

KILLINANE, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster : a R., being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Leighlin, which is valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 Irish Money : no Church : no Glebe House : a Glebe, of 0a. 1r. 5 p., about a quarter of a mile distant from the site of the old church : The Rev. Joseph Fairtlough, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is non-resident, from the smallness of the district and the duty, and the want of a glebe house : the occasional duties are discharged by the Rev. Mr. Vigers, who is resident in the parish of Wells and within a quarter of a mile of the site of the old church, at a Salary of £5..13..9 per annum. Killinane is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. This is a very small parish.

KILLINANE, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught : a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and consolidated by the Privy Council, on the 11th of March, 1726, with the Vicarages of Iserkelly, Killchrist, Killogillin, Killora, and Killthomas : a Church, lately built, but not quite finished : four glebes, viz., 10 acres, in the parish of Killthomas, two miles from the church, 4 acres adjoining the church-yard, 3 acres in the parish of Killchrist, at two miles distance, and 3 acres in the parish of Killora, at nearly four miles distance : The Rev. Robert Marsh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killinane is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Loughrea. It is situate on the River Gurtnamackin. The most remote parts of this Union are between four and five miles distant from the church.

KILLINCHY, in the Barony of Dufferin, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster : a R. : a Church, in tolerable order, but has not been ceiled : a good Glebe House, on a Glebe of 11 acres, near the church : The Rev. James Hewetson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killinchy is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 92 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Strangford Lough. The Fairs are holden on the first Wednesday in February, May, and August. It has six Post-days in the week.

KILLINCOOLE, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster : a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..11..9 sterling : a new Church : a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 15 acres ; 13½ of which lie together, the remainder being distant about half a mile, and each of them the like distance from the church : The Rev. Moore Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killincoole is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. N. E. from Ardee. Here is a fine old castle.

KILLINE BONAINA, in the Barony of ——, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—" A Friary for Franciscans of the Third Order was built here in the year 1428, which afterwards became one of the most considerable houses of that Order."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 291.

KILLINELLY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster; a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, its situation is now unknown. See, Nantinan.

KILLINENALLAGH, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 7 m. N. E. from Nenagh.—"In the reign of King Henry the Sixth, a Monastery was founded here for Gray Friars, which afterwards belonged to the third Order of Franciscans."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 665.

KILLINKERE, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling. Killinkere is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. W. S. W. from Bailieborough.

KILLINMORE, in the Barony of Granard, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on Lough Gaun. According to Mr. Archdall, this is probably the church of Kilmore which was founded by St. Palladius, who flourished A. D. 450.

KILLINSERE, within the County of the Town of DROGHEDA, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. W. from Drogheda.

KILLINVARRA, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling: being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Killinvarra is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. N. b. W. from Gort. See, Kilcolgan.

KILLINY, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. —"The Festival of St. Altin, Bishop of this Church, is holden on the 1st of November. We know nothing further of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 682.

KILLION, in the Barony of Killihan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, Episcopally united to the V. of Kilronan: no Church, or Glebe: The Rev. Owen Gallagher, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in an adjoining Union, the Cure of which he holds: the very few Protestants who are in this Union go to a church convenient, in which he does the occasional duties. Killion is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1 m. W. b. N. from Ballinamore. The parishes of Killion and Kilronan are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about 10 square miles. These parishes, in the year 1756, were Episcopally united to the parish of Ahaskeragh: In 1799, they were separated therefrom, and Episcopally united. The Income is only about £80. per annum.

KILLISHY, or, KILLOSSY, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory and Vicarage, consolidated, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £7..15.4 Irish Money; and Episcopally united to the Rectory of Ballymanny: a Church, in Killishy, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Mac Guire, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin, being Rector of the parish of St. Thomas: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. John Isaac Harrison, who is resident in the adjoining parish of Naas, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killishy is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Naas. This parish contains 1700 acres of land. The parish of Ballymanny is 6½ miles distant from Killishy.—"St. Patrick founded an Abbey here for his nephew St. Auxil, who gave his name to the place, and died August 27th, A. D. 454. It is now a parish church." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 332.

KILLKEEDY, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..1..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 43 a. 2 r. 5 p., near the church: The Rev. Richard Dixon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Killkeedy is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. W. S. W. from Limerick. It is situate near the River Shannon.

KILLMACSHALGAN, or, KILLMACSALLAGHAN, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..4 sterling, and Episcopally united to the V. of Templeboy: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Killmacshalgan: a Glebe House, and 9 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. William Grove, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties Killmacshalgan is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 15 m. W. b. S. from Sligo. The parishes of Killmacshalgan, and Templeboy, are contiguous: their estimated extent being eight miles in length, and five in breadth.

KILLMACTEIGE, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, now repairing; the sum of £80. having been granted by Government, since the Rebellion of 1798, and a Ces levied to complete the repairs: no Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. James Neligan, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who is non-resident, with permission, from want of health: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Scarlett, A. B., at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killmacteige is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. N. E. from Foxford.

KILLMANTIN, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught.—" Here was a Priory of Canons Regular, founded in the year 1280, by the family of Mac Donald."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 625.

KILLMEEN, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drishane-Killmeen is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. W. S. W. from Newmarket. See, Drishane.

KILLMEEN, otherwise KILVINE, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House: The Hon. and Rev. Maurice Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission, as he serves a cure in the Diocese of Elphin: the occasional duties are performed by the clergyman of the adjoining parish. Killmeen is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. E. from Loughrea.

KILLMELLCHEDOR, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., constituting with one fifth of the parish of Ardfert, and the R. of Fenit, the Corps of the Chancellorship of Ardfert, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: this Union was at a period prior to any existing Record; probably, at the first institution of the dignity, and by such authority as was then competent: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Killmellchedor, near the site of the old church: The Rev. Henry Crofton, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Killmellchedor, and Fenit, and jointly with the other dignitaries in Ardfert: he resides at the Foundling Hospital, in Dublin, where he has been many years beneficially employed as Chaplain, on which account he has not been required to reside as Chancellor, the Income arising from which is very small; as also because of his having no church, or glebe house: the duties of Killmellchedor are performed by the Curate of Dingle, at a Salary of £5.; and of Fenit, by the Curate of Ardfert, at £3. annually. Killmellchedor is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. N. W. from Dingle. This Benefice is 25 miles distant from Ardfert. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately, and also the Union, are too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. This church is said to have been erected by the Spaniards, who formerly built many other churches hereabouts.

KILLMOLASH, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage: the Rectory, constituting part of the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Lismore; the Vicarage, which is valued in the King's Books at £9..16..3, being Episcopally united to the V. of Dungarvan. Killmolash is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. E. from Lismore. See, Ballybacon, Dungarvan, and Clashmore.

KILLMOLINOGE, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaugt: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert. Killmolinoge is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Portumna. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Clonfert.

KILLMONEY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. b. S. from Cork. It is situate near the River Awinboy.

KILLMORE, v. VALENTIA.

KILLMORE-ERRIS, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Killcommon: a Church, in tolerable repair, at Killmore-Erris: a Glebe House, and 40 acres of Glebe Land, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Patrick Maxwell, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killmore-Erris is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 29 m. N. W. from Newport Pratt. It is situate on Black Sod Bay. The parishes in the Union of Killmore-Erris are contiguous; their estimated extent being twenty miles in length, and fifteen in breadth.

KILLMORE-MOY, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardagh. Killmore-Moy is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is ¼ m. S. from Ballina. It is situate upon the River Moy. See, Ardagh.—" St. Olcan, or Bolcan, a disciple of St. Patrick, built the Monastery of Kilmore, or Kilmormoyle, on the banks of the Moy. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 503.

KILLMORGAN, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Emlyfadd. Killmorgan is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. E. b. N. from Ballymote. See, Emlyfadd.

KILLMOVEE, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castlemore. Killmovee is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 19 m. N. W. b. W. from Strokestown. It is situate on the River Gara. See, Castlemore.

KILLMOYLAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..7..6 sterling, being holden, by Faculty, with the Rectory and Vicarage of Tankardstown: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres, in the parish of Tankardstown: The Rev. William Deane Hoare, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and is resident in Limerick, where he attends a church, and is Assistant Curate in the parish of St. Michael: the duties are performed by the Incumbents of the adjacent parishes, viz., the Vicar of Shanagolden for those of Killmoylan, at £3. per annum, and the Vicar of Bruff for those of Tankardstown, at £3. per annum. Killmoylan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N. W. from Rathkeale. It is situate near the River Shannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of the parishes in this Union, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilmallock.

KILLMOYLY, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe: This Benefice has always belonged to the Bishop, who has cure of souls therein: the duties are performed by the Curate of Ardfert, at a Salary of £5. Killmoyly is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 13 m. S. W. b. W. from Listowell. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLMURRY, in the County of the City of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..1..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1792, to the entire Rectory of Derrygalvin: a Church, in good repair, in Killmurry: a Glebe House, in Killmurry, and five divisions of Glebe Land, all near the church, and containing 11 a. 2 r. 10 p.: there is also a Glebe, in Derrygalvin, for which rent is paid, but the bounds are not known; it is said to be near the old church, and to contain about 6 acres: The Rev. Henry Ivers Ingram, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duty of the Union in person. Killmurry is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. E. from Limerick. It is situate near to the River Shannon. The parishes in the Union of Killmurry are contiguous, and contain 2542 acres.

KILLMURRY, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, and constituting part of the Union of Carrick upon Suir: The Church is in ruins. Killmurry is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. W. b. N. from Carrick upon Suir. See, Carrick upon Suir.

KILLNAGHTIN, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Killnaghtin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Tarbert, on the East. It is situate on the River Shannon. See, Aghavallin.

KILLNERATH, in the Barony of Owney, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1767, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilcomenty, Killoscully, and Kilveliane: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe

House: four Glebes; one, of 2 a. 0 r. 10 p., in the parish of Kilcomenty; another, of 3 a. 0 r. 39 p., in the parish of Killoscully; a third, of 2 a. 0 r. 34 p., in the parish of Killnerath; and the fourth, of 1 acre, in the parish of Kilvellane: The Rev. John Pennefather, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident more than six months in the year; and is assisted in the performance of the duties by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Killnerath is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. E. from Newport. The parishes in the Union of Killnerath are contiguous; that of Killnerath containing 2715 acres. The Diocesan remarks, it is difficult to form a satisfactory judgment how these parishes should be separated: The country being very mountainous, ill cultivated, and thinly inhabited.

KILLOAH, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killallon. Killoah is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. W. N. W. from Athboy. This parish contains 2795 acres of land. See, Killallon.

KILLOEBHAIN, v. KILLANE.

KILLOEN, v. KILLONE.

KILLOFIN, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmurry. Killofin is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. W. from Killadysert. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Kilmurry.

KILLOGHCONNOGHAN, in the Barony of Lune, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster; a Curacy: a Church, lately put into thorough repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Connolly, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. The Income of this Curacy, at present, is £80., viz, a settled Salary of £40. per annum allowed by Lord Darnley, the Impropriator; £20. during pleasure; and from the Board of First Fruits £20. more. Killoghconnoghan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. W. from Trim. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Curacy cannot be said, permanently, to afford the Curate a comfortable livelihood; and a glebe must be purchased for this parish before residence can be secured.

KILLOGILLIN, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killinane. Killogillin is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. W. from Loughrea. See, Killinane.

KILLOKENNEDY, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltenanlea. Killokennedy is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. from Killaloe. See, Omullud, Lockeen, and Kiltenanlea.

KILLOMY, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, a Monastery was founded here about the year 760, but we can learn no account of it.

KILLONE, or, KILLOEN, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R.. It is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. b. W. from Ennis.—"About the year 1190, Donald O'Brien, King of Limerick, founded an Abbey here for Nuns following the Rule of St. Augustine, and dedicated it to St. John the Baptist."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 53.

KILLONEHON, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Prebend of St. Munchin. Killonehon is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Munchin's, Limerick.

KILLONOGHAN, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromcrehy. Killonoghan is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. N. b. W. from Innistymon. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Dromcrehy.

KILLORA, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killinane. Killora is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. W. b. N. from Loughrea. See, Killinane.

KILLORAN, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltormer. Killoran is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. W. N. W. from Eyrecourt. See, Kiltormer.

KILLORAN, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V. and Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..11..0 sterling, and Episcopally united to the V. of Killvarnet: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Killoran: no Glebe House: there are 20 acres of Glebe Land, in the parish of Killvarnet, and the Incumbent proposes erecting a Glebe House, as soon as an Act of Council can be obtained for uniting the two parishes: The Rev. Josiah Hern, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who is non-resident, with permission, having no Glebe House: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Roger Chambers, A. B., his Curate. Killoran is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¼ m. N. W. from Ballymote. The parishes of Killoran, and Killvarnet, are contiguous; their estimated extent being six miles and an half in length, and five in breadth. The Vicarage of Killoran is holden with the Archdeaconry of Achonry, which is valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling.

KILLORGLIN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killtallagh. Killorglin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Lane, which empties itself into Castlemain Harbour. The Fairs are holden on the 19th and 20th of May, 30th of June, 1st of July, 11th of August, and 18th and 19th of November. It is sometimes called Castle-Conway. The lands hereabouts were granted by Queen Elizabeth to the family of Conway, and afterwards descended by heirs female to that of Blennerhasset. See, Killtallagh.

KILLOSCOBE, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Annaghdown, and Lackagh: a Church, in Annaghdown, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, in Killoscobe: The Rev. Alexander Arbuthnot, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Killoscobe is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. W. from Castle-Blakeney. The parishes of Annaghdown, and Lackagh, are contiguous, being 8 miles in length, and 5 miles in breadth: Killoscobe is about 18 miles distant from them.

KILLOSCULLY, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killnerath. Killoscully is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. W. from Nenagh. This parish contains 3490 acres of land. See, Killnerath.

KILLOSKEHAN, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilfithmone. Killoskehan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Templemore. This parish contains 1361 acres. See, Kilfithmone.

KILLOSSORY, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Swords. Killossory is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. W. b. N. from Swords. See, Swords.

KILLOSSY, v. KILLISHY.

KILLOTERAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united to the Corps of the Deanery of Waterford: a Church, in repair: The duties are performed by a Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Killoteran is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. W. from Waterford. It is situate upon the River Suir. Here is a Charter School, for 30 Children, which is endowed by the Corporation of Waterford, with 26 acres of Land, for 999 years, at a Pepper Corn rent per annum: It was opened in 1744. The parish of Killoteran is about 3 miles long, and three quarters of a mile broad; and contains 1223 acres. See, Waterford. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectories of Kilronan, and Killoteran, ought to be perpetually united, though the parish of Kilburne intervenes, and divides them about three quarters of a mile; but Kilronan is infinitely of too small value alone to afford comfort to the Incumbent, and cannot well be united to any contiguous parish, they being all the Corps of some of the Chapter. The glebe at Kilronan ought to be exchanged for one near Killoteran church, it being in a very inconvenient place for the residence of a Clergyman.

KILLOUGH, v. KILLECK.

KILLOUGH, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster; a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in very bad order; but the late Incumbent of Rathmullin (The Rev. J. Hamilton) bequeathed an ample sum to re-build it, and which will be applied to that purpose without delay: the value of the Living is only £40. per annum: The Rev. Robert Stewart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killough is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 7 m. S. E. from Clough. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Irish Sea. The Fairs are holden on the first Friday, O. S., in February, 9th of June, 17th of August, and 12th of November. Here is a remarkable Well, called St. Scordin's Well, which is highly esteemed for the extraordinary lightness of its water. There is also a mineral Spring, near the Charter Working School. This Curacy is endowed with the Tythes of two small parishes, which contained about 260 acres.

KILLOUGHTER, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. b. E. from Newtown Mount Kennedy. It is situate near the Sea-coast. See, Wicklow.

KILLOVINOGE, v. CLONMORE.

KILLOWEN, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House; 30 acres of Glebe, 1½ mile from the church: The Rev. R. Haslet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killowen is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. S. W. from Coleraine. It is situate upon the River Bann. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 5th of July.

KILLOWER, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkilvery. Killower is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. W. b. N. from Tuam. See, Kilkilvery.

KILLOWILLAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. (a small Impropriation), being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Youghall: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Killowillan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Youghall.

KILLPEACON, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the entire Rectory of Hackneys, and by Act of Council, in 1803, to the Vicarage of Knocknegaul; being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in Killpeacon, in good repair: a Glebe House, in Killpeacon, and a Glebe, of 10 a. 3 r. 39 p., which is about a mile from the church, and close to the site of the old church of Knocknegaul: The Rev. James Wilmot Ormsby, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his Benefice, in another Diocese: the duties are performed by a Curate, who resides in the glebe house, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killpeacon is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. from Limerick. The parishes of Killpeacon, and Knocknegaul are contiguous, and contain 1777 acres of land: the parish of Hackneys is at some miles distance from them. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Benefices of Killpeacon, and Knocknegaul, are each of them, separately, too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILLPHELAN, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. S. b. E. from Mitchelstown.

KILLPOOLE, v. KELPOLE.

KILLQUAN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. from Limerick.

KILLQUANE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united, prior to the date of any existing Records, to the entire Rectory of Dunurlin: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6 a. 1 r. 20 p., in Killquane, surrounding the old church: the glebe of Dunurlin, having been withholden for many years, cannot be ascertained: The Rev. John Day, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is permitted to reside at Listowell, where he is Curate, and has important duties, to which he assiduously attends: the duties of these parishes are performed by the Curate of Dingle, at a Salary of £20. per annum. Killquane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. b. W. from Dingle. The parishes of Killquane, and Dunurlin, are contiguous; they contain, by the Down Survey, four ploughlands and 45 reduced acres, or 285 reduced acres. They are mostly mountainous, and are situate upon the Atlantic Ocean.

KILLROAN, in the Barony of Courceys, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. S. b. W. from Kinsale. It is situate upon St. George's Channel.

KILLRONAN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent has memorialed to build one; a Glebe, of 30 acres: The Rev. John Little, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killronan is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. N. from Carrick on the Shannon. "The celebrated Irish Bard, CAROLAN, died, while on a visit at the house of Mrs. Mac Dermot of Alderford, in the month of March, 1738, in the 68th year of his age, and was interred in the parish church here; but 'not a stone tells where he lies.'"—Dublin Chronicle, vol. i. no. 29, Thursday 5th of July, 1787.

KILLROSSANTY, or, KILLROSSANCTA, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Rectory being the Corps, which is valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Philip Ryan, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is non-resident, it being a perfect Sine Cure: the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £9..1..8 Irish Money: a new Church, building: a Glebe House, building; two Glebes; one, of 6 acres, close to the site of the old church; and the other, of 10 a. 0 r. 2 p., within a few perches of the new church: these Glebes are distant from each other something more than a mile: The Rev. Richard Eyre, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. This Living is conceived to be of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent. Killrossanty is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. S. W. b. W. from Kilmacthomas. The Vicarage of Killrossancta was taxed by order of the Court of Exchequer in Hilary Term, in 1668, at £6..16..8 sterling. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage ought to be perpetually united.

KILLRUSH, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 14½ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. Here are the remains of a noble Castle. It is situate upon the Irish Sea.

KILLRUSH, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, constituting part of the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Lismore: the Chapel, which is in ruins, is valued in the King's Books at £4..4..6. Killrush is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. W. from Dungarvan. See, Ballybacon, and Killgobenet.

KILL, ST., v. SHANKILL.

KILL, ST. LAURENCE, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being a constituent part of the Union of Killure. Kill, St. Laurence, and Killure, are generally supposed to be one parish. Kill, St. Laurence, is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Waterford. See, Killure, and Ballygunner.

KILL, ST. NICHOLAS, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crooke. Kill, St. Nicholas, is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Passage, East. This parish contains about 2000 acres of land. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. See, Crooke.

KILLSCANNELL, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Limerick. Killscannell is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. S. W. from Rathkeale. See, Rathkeale.

KILLSHALVEE, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..2..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killaraght. Killshalvee is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 8½ m. W. N. W. from Boyle. See, Killaraght.

KILLSHANNY, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate. It is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N. from Innistymon.—"The Cell of Kilshanny, alias Kilsonna, was annexed to the Abbey of Corcumroe. This Monastery, with all its appurtenances, mills and fisheries, was granted to Robert Hickman."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 53.

KILLSHEELAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Carrick upon Suir: the Church is in ruins. Killsheelan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. N. W. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate near the River Suir. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Killsheelan, Killaloan, and Templetenny, ought to be perpetually united, and a church built in the parish of Killaloan, where a glebe ought to be purchased, and a glebe house built. The Crown is the Patron of the Vicarages of Killaloan, and Templetenny. The Earl of Ormond is the Patron of the Vicarage of Killsheelan. See, Carrick upon Suir.

KILLSHINANE, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Killshinane is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. from Listowell. See, Ballinacourty.

KILLTALLAGH, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united to the entire Rectories of Currens, and Killorglin, and the Rectories and Vicarages of Killgarrylander, and Knockane: a Church, in Killtallagh, in good repair: a Glebe House, in Killtallagh, with a Glebe, close to the church, of 6 a. 0 r. 3 p.; in Killgarrylander, of 11 a. 2 r. 14 p., close to the old church; in Currens, of 4 a. 3 r. 16 p., close to the old church; and there is also a Glebe, said to belong to Knockane, surrounding the old church, of about 13 acres; but it has not been possessed by the six last Incumbents: The Rev. Edward Day, A.M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate. Killtallagh is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. N. b. E. from Milltown. The parish of Killtallagh is contiguous to the parishes of Currens, and Killgarrylander, and lies between them: according to the Down Survey (which, however, gives no idea of the real extent of these parishes,) they contain 826 acres. The parishes of Knockane, and Killorglin, are contiguous (containing, by the same survey, 885 acres), and are separated from the rest of the Union by the River Mang, and by the parish of Killcoleman, which is always included in the Patent with those five parishes, but is, and was in 1669, enjoyed by the Crosbie family as an Impropriation. See, Knockane, and Killcoleman.

KILLTEAMY, in the Barony of ———, Co of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock. Killteamy is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Kilmallock.

KILLTEEVAGH, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being one of the six parishes which constitute the Deanery of Raphoe: a Church. Killteevagh is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 5 m. N. W. from Stranorlane. It is situate upon the River Fin.

KILLTENNEL, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lorum. Killtennel is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¾ m. N. E. b. N. from Graig. See, Lorum.

KILLTHOMAS, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., united by the Privy Council, on the 11th of March, 1726, and valued in the King's Books at £7..3..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killinane. Killthomas is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. E. b. N. from Gort. See, Killinane.

KILLTOGHARD, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V.: two Churches, in good repair; one, in Killtoghard, and one, in Carrick on the Shannon: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 200 acres: The Rev. John Chetwood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in Cork; the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates, at a Salary of £60. per annum to each. Killtoghard is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Carrick on the Shannon.

KILLTOOMY, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Killtoomy is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. b. W. from Listowell. See, Ballinacourty.

KILLTORA, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Emlyfadd. Killtora is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. S. b. W. from Ballymote. See, Emlyfadd.

KILLTUBRID, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas Kennedy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Down; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Killtubrid is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. W. b. S. from Ballynamore.

KILLUATHRENN, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, the Holy Virgin St. Luathrenn was honoured here.

KILLUCAN, or, KILLUQUIN, in the Barony of Farbill, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, lately built, and in complete order: a new Glebe House, on a Glebe of 40 acres, near the church: The Rev. Henry Wynne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killucan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 28 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, and 28th of November.—"St. Luican built an Abbey here, where his Festival is observed on the 27th of July. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 721.

KILLUKEN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Creeve, and Tumna, time immemorial: In 1802, the parish of Kilgeffin (worth about £80. per annum) was added to the Union by the present Bishop of Elphin, as it was thought that the Income of the other three (being only about £150. per annum,) was inadequate to the Archdeaconry of Elphin, which these parishes constitute, and which is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: The Rev. Oliver Cary, A. M., the Archdeacon, and Incumbent (in 1806,) who has cure of souls, is resident in Elphin, and discharges the duties in person. Killuken is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. S. S. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. The parishes of Killuken, Creeve, and Tumna, are contiguous, and are supposed to extend eleven square miles: The parish of Kilgeffin is about ten miles distant from the others. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Lunechairia, who was born before A. D. 637, is honoured here.

KILLUKEN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcooly. Killuken is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. W. from Strokestown. See, Kilcooly.

KILLUMOD, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughrim. Killumod is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. See, Aughrim.

KILLUNCHE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Religious house here; but which is now wholly unknown.

KILLUNKART, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster. It is situate upon the River Bricky, a mile and an half South from Dungarvan.—"The remains of a building, said to have been a Commandery for Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, is still to be seen here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 689.

KILLURANE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Killurane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. W. b. W. from Killaloe. See, Omullud, and Kilseily.

KILLURE, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, with Kill, St. Laurence, Episcopally united, on the 27th of November 1787 (when the present Incumbent took possession of the Union), to the Rectories entire of Corbally, and Ross-Duff; and with which are holden, by sequestration, the Rectory entire of Kilronan: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 10a. 2r. 1p., in the parish of Kilronan, contiguous to the site of the old church: The Rev. John Fraser, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the City of Waterford (where he holds a Curacy), which is within one mile of the commencement of the Union, and performs the duties in person. Killure is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Waterford. The parishes in the Union of Killure are not contiguous: that of Kilronan is about three miles from Killure, and about eight miles from Corbally; and Corbally is distant from Killure about four miles. Killure and Kill, St. Laurence, are generally supposed to be one parish. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the value of the parishes in this Union is not £120. per annum, and cannot be sufficient to afford comfort to the Incumbent. See, Ballygunner.—" A Preceptory was founded here for the Templars in the 12th century, which was afterwards given to the Knights Hospitallers, and became a Commandery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 689.

KILLURIN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £7..6..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in the year 1796 or 1797 (the Act having been destroyed in the Rebellion), to the Impropriate Cures of Chapel Carron, Kilbride, and Whitechurch of Glinn: and Episcopally, ever since 1784, to the Impropriate Cure of Ballykeogue: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Killurin: a Glebe House, newly erected by the present Incumbent, on a Glebe of 20 acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Abraham Swanne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Killurin is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Slaney. The Fair is holden on the 21st of August. The parishes in the Union of Killurin are all contiguous.

KILLURSA, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilkilvery. Killursa is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. W. from Headford. It is situate on Lough Corrib. See, Kilkilvery.—" Rathmhath, an island, in Lough Corrib, where, it is said, St. Fursey, the son of Fintan, of the blood royal of South Munster, built an Abbey: he died about the year 653, and his Festival is celebrated in France on the 16th of February. There are no traces of this house, but Colgan supposes it to be a parish church near Lough Corrib, which is now called Killursa."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 295.

KILLURY, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 1 r. 30 p., near the church: The Rev. John Talbot, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £35. per annum. Killury is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. W. S. W. from Listowell.

KILLVARNET, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and Episcopally united to the V. of Killoran. Killvarnet is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. W. b. N. from Ballymote. See, Killoran.

KILLVECONTY, in the Barony of Killartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Kilmacduagh. Killveconty is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. E. b. N. from Gort. See, Kilmacduagh.

KILLWATERMOY, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an Impropriate Rectory; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tallow: the Church is in ruins. Killwatermoy is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. E. from Tallow. This parish is about two miles in extent from North to South, and two miles and an half from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of Killwatermoy might stand alone: and a Church, and Glebe House, ought to be built in the parish. But should this Vicarage be too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent, it could be increased by the purchase of Glebe Lands. See, Tallow.

KILLYBEGGS, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..0 sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; 2,000 acres of Glebe, for the most part mountainous, but very re-claimable, about three miles from the church: The Rev. Thomas Hawkins, the Incumbent (in 1806), who having been lately instituted is not resident, but has cure of souls. Killybeggs is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 124 m. N. W. from Dublin. It is a Sea-Port, with a spacious Harbour, and has an extensive Herring Fishery. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, and 12th of November. It has three Post-days in the week.—"A small House was built here, for Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis, by Mac Swiny Bannig."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 101.

KILLYBEGS, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clane. Killybegs is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. W. from Rathcoole. This parish contains 1362 acres of land. See, Clane, and Carogh.—"The Knights Hospitallers had a Commandery here; of which we have no farther account."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 321.

KILLYGALLY, or, TESSAURAN, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, on the 21st of February 1804, to the V. of Firbane: two Churches, lately re-built, and in good order; one in Killygally, the other in Firbane: a Glebe House, with every necessary office, has been lately built by the present Incumbent, on one of the glebes of Killygally, about a mile and an half from the church: the two Glebes contain 394 acres: The Rev. Henry Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Killygally is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. N. E. from Banagher.

It is situate between the Rivers Shannon, and Brosna. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Trena, about the end of the Fifth century, or in the beginning of the sixth, was Abbot here. It is now a parish church.

KILLYGLEN, or, KILLAGAN, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Connor and Solar, and is one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Connor. Killyglen is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. E. from Ballymoney. It is situate upon the River Maine. It is a very small denomination. See, Connor.

KILLYGORDON, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. W. from Castle Fin. It is situate upon the River Fin. Near this, at the foot of a lofty hill, are the ruins of a Castle.

KILLYMAN, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 226 English acres contiguous, and near to the church: The Rev. Charles Caulfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Killyman is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Moy.

KILLYMARD, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe of good Land, and sufficiently extensive for the complete accommodation of the Incumbent: The Rev. William Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), is resident in the next parish, has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Killymard is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 3 m. W. from Donegal. It is situate upon Donegal Bay.

KILLYN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an Abbey here.

KILLYON, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonard. Killyon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Clonard. This parish contains 1511 acres of land. See, Clonard.

KILMACABEA, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Myross. Kilmacabea is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. W. b. S. from Cloghnakilty. The Rectory belongs to the Archdeacon of Ross. See, Myross.

KILMACAHILL, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, building: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev.

William Latta, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmacahill is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. from Gowran.

KILMACALLANE, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend, and Vicarage: the Prebend is comprised in a moiety of the tythes of four parishes: The Rev. Thomas Hackett, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who, not having cure of souls as Prebendary, resides at Boyle, where he has cure of souls: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..3..4 sterling, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Kilmacallane is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 12 m. N. N. W. from Boyle. It is situate on the river Arrow. See, Taunagh.

KILMACDONOUGH, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and with which the Rector holds the R. and V. of Mogealy, united to the Particle of Temple-Belagh: this Particle is about two miles from the parish of Mogealy, the extent whereof is 6 miles North and South, by 3 miles East and West. This Prebend has properly no parish, but a portion of the Rectorial Tythes of Kilmacdonough, the Vicarage of which (valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling) is endowed, and constitutes a part of the Union of Ightermurrough, and the duty is performed by the Vicar: a Church, at Mogealy, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 acres, at Kilmacdonough; at Mogealy, of only two roods; and in Temple-Belagh, of 2 acres: The Hon. and Rev. Thomas St. Lawrence, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Cork, being Dean of that Cathedral: the duties of the parish of Mogealy are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Alexander Grant, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kilmacdonough is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. S. W. from Youghall. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Ightermurrough. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Benefice of Kilmacdonough is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILMACDUAGH, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., Episcopally united, at a distant period, to the Rectories of Killveconty, and Kiltartan; and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Kilmacduagh, which is valued in the King's Books at £12. sterling: one Church, in good repair, in the town of Gort, in the parish of Kilmacduagh: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4½ acres, at Killveconty, two miles and an half from the church: The Rev. William Foster, LL. B. the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the Union, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilmacduagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Gort. The parishes in the Union of Kilmacduagh are contiguous. This See (valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling) was founded, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the beginning of the 7th century. It was united to the See of Clonfert in 1602. The Members of the Chapter are a Dean, a Provost, a Chancellor, an Archdeacon, and two Prebendaries. See, Clonfert.—"St. Colman, the son of Duach, founded an Abbey here about the year 620, and Maurice, Bishop of this See, who died in 1283, erected on the ancient site, a Monastery for regular Canons of the Order of St. Augustine. This abbey is situated to the North West of the Cathedral (which is now in ruins), on a neck of land between two Loughs, which, according to some authors, evacuate themselves in summer into whirlpools; however, this rarely happens, as the water never goes off but in a very dry season. The church, though small, is a very neat building; the pillars and arches, from the entrance to the altar part, and those of the East window, are finished in an elegant style, and the angles at the East end are worked in pillars. To the South of the church is a Sacristy, and adjoining to that a room, where was probably deposited the valuable effects belonging to the church, and which being arched, they call the Jail; on the South of these, is a Chapel and the Refectory; from the whole of this we may infer, that the Canons of the Monastery dwelt in separate houses. To the North, about two feet from the church, is an old wall; an ancient tradition still exists at Kilmacduagh, of its being once a place of penance. There is also an Holy Well here, with a circular inclosure. Here is an ancient Round tower, which leans 17½ feet from its perpendicular. It may not be improper to remark, that the Tower at Pisa, so universally celebrated, leans but 13 feet. At the general suppression, this monastery was granted to Richard Earl of Clanricarde."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 291.

KILMACDUANE, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmurry. Kilmacduane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. N. b. E. from Kilrush. See, Kilmurry.

KILMACEDY, v. BALLIADAMS.

KIL MAC ENOGUE, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Delgany. Kil Mac Enogue is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Bray. See, Delgany.

KILMACKEVOGE, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rosbercon. Kilmackevoge is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. S. W. from New Ross. See, Rosbercon.

KILMACLASSER, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and rovince of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughaval. Kilmaclasser is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 22 m. S. W. from Westport. It is situate on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Aughaval.

KILMACLEAGUE, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed; the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Chancellorship of Waterford; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drumcannon. Kilmacleague is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. S. E. from Waterford. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. This parish contains 4976 acres of land. See, Monemointer, and Drumcannon.

KILMACLENINE, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and holden with the R. and V. of Kilshanick: a Church, in repair, at Kilshanick: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, close to the church: The Rev. John Lombard, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by The Rev. John Michael Becker, his Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Kilmaclenine is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. W. S. W. from Doneraile. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of April, 21st of June, and 2d of October. Here is a pit of good Yellow Ochre. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Kilmaclenine is four miles distant from Kilshanick; the extent of which is 10 miles East and West, by 5 miles North and South.

KIL MAC NEVIN, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leny. Kil Mac Nevin is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. W. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 2043 acres of land. See, Leny.

KILMACOE, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Mac Adam. Kilmacoe is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. b. E. from Rathdrum. Near this are the Cronebane Mines. See, Castle Mac Adam.

KILMACOEN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of Sligo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books £0..1..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. John's, Sligo. Kilmacoen is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Sligo. It is situate on Ardnaglas Harbour. See, Sligo.—"This Church was built by St. Maneus, one of St. Patrick's Diciples; in process of time it became a parish church, where the Saint was honoured on the 5th of November."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 633.

KILMACOMB, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Chancellorship of Waterford; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drumcannon. Kilmacomb is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Passage, East. This parish contains 1888 acres of land. See, Monemointer, Killea, and Drumcannon.

KILMACOW, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £4.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 11 acres and 32 perches, which are contiguous and compact, and adjacent to the church: The Rev. Edward Carr, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmacow is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. N. b. W. from Waterford. This parish contains about 3000 acres of land.

KILMACREAN, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moylough. Kilmacrean is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. See, Moylough.

KILMACREDA, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 7½ m. W. from Donegal. A village.

KILMACREE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. Kilmacree is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. b. E. from Wexford. It is situate upon Wexford Haven. See, Killenick.

KILMACREHY, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting with the Rectories of Kilaspughenane, and Kilmanaheen, the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Kilfenora; and with which are holden, by the authority of the Diocesan, the Union of Kilmanaheen: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kilmanaheen: a Glebe House, in the parish of Kilmanaheen: a Glebe, of 40 acres, in Kilmanaheen, within half a mile of the church; another, of 1 a. 3 r. 15 p., in the parish of Kilaspughenane, convenient to the site of the old church: and a third Glebe, of 3 a. 2 r. 39 p., in the parish of Kilmacrehy, convenient to the site of the old church there: The Rev. James Kenny, LL.D., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Kilmacrehy is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. The parishes in the Union of Kilmacrehy are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 7 miles, and, from East to West, 7 miles. See, Kilmanaheen.

KILMACRENAN, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..6..0 sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. William Bristow, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is bene-ficed in the Diocese of Down, where he does duty; the duty here being discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilmacrenan is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 6 m. N. N. W. from Letterkenny. It is situate on the River Gannon, and is now a poor depopulated Village.—"St. Columb founded an Abbey here, which was richly endowed. And O'Donnell founded a small house here, probably on the site of the ancient abbey, for Friars of the Order of St. Francis. The present church is supposed to be part of the Franciscan Friary; over the door is a mitred head in releivo. Near to this town is a rock, on which the O'Donnells, Princes of Tyrconnell, were always inaugurated."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 101.

KILMACTALWAY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend in the Cathedral of St. Patrick, valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 Irish Money, and annexed to the Vicarage of Clondalkin. Kilmactalway is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Clondalkin.

KILMACTHOMAS, in the Barony of Upper Third, though locally situate in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Rossmere. It is 83 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and August, and 6th of December. Here is an ancient Castle, which was built by the Powers of this County: It was taken, in 1643, by Sir Charles Vavasor, who, at that time, reduced other castles in the Eastern parts of the county. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Mahon. See, Rossmere.

KILMACTRANEY, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Kilmactraney is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. N. from Boyle. See, Taunagh.

KILMACUD, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Curacy of Stillorgan. Kilmacud is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. b. S. from Dublin.

KILMACUMSY, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcooly. Kilmacumsy is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. N. W. from Elphin. The Chantorship of Elphin has a portion of Tythes in this parish. See, Kilcooly.

KILMACUNNA, or, LUSMAGH, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert.

Kilmacunna is in the Diocese of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Banagher. It is situate upon the River Little Brosna. See, Clonfert.

KILMAGE, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, 29th of June, and 25th of September.

KILMAHON, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling, and with which is holden, by Faculty, the Vicarage of Clonmult, at the distance of 12 miles, which has no church, and only occasional duty: a Church, lately built, at Kilmahon: a Glebe House, just finished; a Glebe, of 12 a. 1 r. 29 p.: The Rev. Thomas Carson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Kilmahon, and discharges the duties of both parishes in person. Kilmahon is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Cloyne. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Clonmult is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILMAIN, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Arklow. Kilmain is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Arklow.

KILMAINBEG, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmainmore. Kilmainbeg is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. S. E. from Ballinrobe. See, Kilmainmore.

KILMAINHAM, within the Liberties of the City of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is adjacent to Dublin, on the South. Here the Quarter Sessions are holden for the county of Dublin, and Knights of the Shire elected for that county. It was sometimes the seat of Government, before Dublin Castle was converted to that purpose, and though much decayed, gives title of Baron to the family of Wenman.—"St. Magnend was Abbot of Kilmaignend, A. D. 606: his Festival was observed on the 18th of December.—A Priory, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, was founded here, probably upon the site of the ancient abbey, about the year 1174, for Knights Templars, by Richard, surnamed Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke, or Strigul; And, King Henry II, granted his confirmation. These Knights were of the order of St. John of Jerusalem, and exempt from all ordinary jurisdiction; the Priory was also an Alms-house and Hospital for the sick."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 222.

KILMAINHAM-BEG, v. KILBEG.

KILMAINHAM WOOD, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, newly built: no Glebe, or House; but a Glebe is promised, of 20 acres, upon Lease, according to the provision of the Statute: The Rev. John Kellet, the Incumbent, in 1806: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum, being the whole of the Income of the Vicarage. Kilmainham Wood is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. W. from Nobber. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to the Incumbent; and, in order to remedy the evil of non-residence, a Glebe must be procured.—"A Commandery for Knights Hospitallers was founded here, in the 13th century, by the family of Preston. The ruins of a small old church are still to be seen here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 554.

KILMAINMORE, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught; a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Ballinchalla, Kilmainbeg, Kilmolara, Moorgaga, and Ross: two Churches; one, in Kilmainmore, the other, in Ballinchalla, and both in good repair: no Glebe House; 8 acres of Glebe Land: The Rev. Thomas Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, having a Faculty, and resides in his parish, in the Diocese of Ardagh: the duties are discharged in Kilmainmore by The Rev. Andrew Wilson, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum; and, in Ballinchalla, by The Rev. John Cromie, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kilmainmore is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Ballinrobe. The parishes in the Union of Kilmainmore are contiguous, except Ross, which is about three miles distant from them; their extent being 9 miles in length, and 7 miles in breadth.

KILMAKEA, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of White Church. Kilmakea is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. b. W. from New Ross. It is situate near the navigable River Barrow. See, White Church.

KILMAKELOGUE, or, KILMACLOGUE, v. GOREY.

KILMALEERE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromline. Kilmaleere is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. W. from Six Mile Bridge. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Traddery, and Dromline.

KILMALLOCK, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the Rectories of Cloncagh, Clonelty, Corcomohide, Crecoragh, Killfergus, Killgobbin, Killmoylan, Killteamy, and Morgans, and the Chapelry of Chapel Minit, and half of the Chapelry of Chapel Martin, belong to the College of St. Mary, in Limerick, which is valued in the King's Books at £21..3..4 sterling: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..5. 0 sterling, and united, in Perpetuity, by Charter, to the entire Rectories of Athenassey, Killbreedy Major, and Parbeles, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Ballingaddy, belong to the College of Kilmallock, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..1..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair, in Kilmallock: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Kilmallock, of 11 acres, about a mile from the church, and on which it is proposed to build a Glebe House: there are several Glebes dispersed in the other parishes, and containing in all about 85 acres: The Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of St. Mary, Limerick, are the Incumbents of this Union, by Charter from the Crown in the year 1674: the duties are performed (as required by the said Charter) by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum, and who is also a Member of the Chapter. Kilmallock is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 107½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on Whit-Tuesday. It is governed by a Sovereign, and Deputy. Here is a Charter School, for 20 children. According to Dr. Beaufort, Kilmallock was, two centuries ago, one of the best built inland towns in the kingdom. The walls of many large houses evidently of a date, of excellent workmanship, and all of cut stone, remain at this day; and the ruins of Churches and Monasteries, the Walls and Gates of the town, with the extensive district contained In the Liberty of Kilmallock, prove the former splendour of a town, which is now no more than a miserable village. It makes a conspicuous figure in the Military History of Ireland. The parishes in the Union of Kilmallock are contiguous, and contain 8000 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—"An Abbey was founded here by St. Mocheallog, who died between the years 639 and 656. This is now the parish church.—The Friars of the Order of St. Dominick seated themselves here, A. D. 1291: and the tradition of the place informs us, that the founder of this Friary was Gilbert, the second son of John of Callen, Lord Offaley. The ruins of this monastery, which was situated within the town, may still be seen, and are sufficient to convince every observer, that this was once an elegant erection."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 424.

KILMALODA, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 20 a. 1 r. 1 p., near the church: The Rev. William Stawell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the glebe house. Kilmaloda is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. S. W. from Bandonbridge.

KILMALOG, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Ellis. Kilmalog is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Enniscorthy. See, Castle Ellis.

KILMALY, in the Barony of Islands, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Dromcliffe; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Vicarage of Dromcliffe. Kilmaly is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. from Ennis. See, Dromcliffe.

KILMANAGH, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, lately built; and, a Glebe, of about 201 a. 3 r. 18 p., contiguous to the church: The Rev. Hans Caulfield, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the Benefice, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmanagh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. N. from Callan. The Vicarage of Kilmanagh is valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Natalis, who died in the year 563, was the Founder and Abbot of this church.

KILMANAGHAN, in the Barony of Killcoursey, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardnurcher. Kilmanaghan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. W. from Clara. This parish contains 3223 acres of land. See, Ardnurcher.

KILMANAHEEN, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Kilfenora: the Vicarage was united by Act of Council, on the 29th of April 1779, to the Vicarages of Kilaspughenane, Killeilagh, Kilmacrehy, and Kilmoon; and these were united, by the authority of the Diocesan, on the 28th of June 1785, to the Rectories of Carrune, Killeilagh, and Kilmoon: the whole being holden with the Archdeaconry. Kilmanaheen is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. W. from Innistymon. See, Kilmacrehy.

KILMANAN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £16. Irish Money; and the Vicarage at £8.; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mulrancan. Kilmanan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. from Wexford. See, Mulrancan.

KILMANMAN, in the Barony of Tinehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oregan. Kilmanman is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Balliboy. See, Oregan.

KILMAOGE, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £1..15..0 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, in 1782, to the Prebend and Rectory entire of Lulliamore, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Rathernon: a Church, at Kilmaoge, the roof of which has fallen in, but is now under repair: a Glebe House, in Rathernon: and 28 acres of Glebe Land, scattered through the parishes of Kilmaoge, and Rathernon; six acres of which are adjacent to the glebe house, and about a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. Edward Richardson, the Rector and Vicar of Kilmaoge, and Rathernon, and the Rector and Prebend of Lulliamore (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and is non-resident, by permission of the Diocesan, on account of old age and certified ill health: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. William Annesley, at a Salary of £50. per annum, with the use of the glebe house, and the six acres of land adjoining thereto. Kilmaoge is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. N. b. E. from Kildare. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, and 29th of June. The parishes in the Union of Kilmaoge are adjacent to each other, and contain 7500 acres of land, exclusive of a large quantity of bog.

KILMASTULLA, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, in 1790, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Templeichally: a Church, in good repair, at Kilmastulla; no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 1 a. 0 r. 31 p., at Kilmastulla; and another, of 0 a. 3 r. 36 p., at Templeichally: The Rev. Edward Lloyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Limerick, and performs the duties in person, assisted by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilmastulla is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Killaloe. The parishes in the Union of Kilmastulla are contiguous; that of Kilmastulla containing 3639 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Income arising from these parishes, separately, would not furnish the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent; and the Diocesan, therefore, thinks, that the Union should not be dissolved.

KILMBIAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. —" This Abbey was founded by St. Fergus, Bishop of Down, who died the 30th of March A. D. 583. We meet also with a St. Neman of this place, whose Festival is holden on the 1st of September. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 123.

KILMEADEN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed: one part of the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Deanery, another part, called Stone House, constituting part of the Corps of the Precentorship, a third part constituting part of the Corps of the Chancellorship, and the fourth part constituting part of the Corps of the Treasurership, of Waterford: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, was Episcopally united, in the year 1799 (when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice), to the V. of Reisk; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in the parish of Kilmeaden, in good repair: a Glebe House, building, and nearly finished, in the parish of Kilmeaden: a Glebe, of 7 a. 3 r. 21 p., at Kilmeaden, close to the church; and another Glebe, of 2 a. 0 r. 15 p., at Reisk, close to the site of the old church there: these two Glebes are distant from each other about six miles: The Rev. Henry Archdall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmeaden is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. W. N. W. from Waterford. It is situate upon the navigable River Suir. Here is a celebrated Spa, of a chalybeate quality. It gives title of Baron to the family of St. Ledger, now Viscount Doneraile. The parishes of Kilmeaden, and Reisk, are, at the nearest point, one mile distant from each other; being intercepted by the parish of Donhill. See, Waterford, Kilbarrymeaden, Monemointer, Reisk, and Lisnakill.

KILMEAN, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenvoy. Kilmean is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Roscommon. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of July, and 28th of October. See, Killenvoy.

KILMEEN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..5..0 sterling: a Church: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 26 a. 3 r. 9 p.: The Rev. Edward Herbert Kenny, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmeen is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Arigadeen.

KILMEGAN, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Down; yet it nevertheless claims an exempt jurisdiction, belonging to the Lordship of Newry: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilmegan is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Castle Wellan, on the East. This parish contains 9280 acres of land. See, Kilkeel.

KILMENAN, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Attanagh. Kilmenan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. b. W. from Ballynakill. See, Attanagh.

KILMESSAN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..17..0 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1804, to the V. of Macetown: a Church, in Kilmessan, in tolerable repair: a Glebe House, on 6 acres of Glebe, near the church, and 6 acres more, at three quarters of a mile's distance: The Rev. D. C. Ingham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident; and discharges the duties. The parishes of Kilmessan and Macetown were united, although not contiguous, on account of the smallness of Income: Kilmessan being but £100. per annum, and Macetown £12. Kilmessan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Dunshaglin.

KILMICHAEL, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate: the Vicarage endowed, is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and was Episcopally united, in 1797, to one Rectory and Vicarage of Macloneigh: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 7 a. 1 r. 18 p.: The Rev. Robert Warren, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, at an annual Salary of £50. Kilmichael is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. S. W. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Toone. The parishes in the Union of Kilmichael are contiguous; their estimated extent being 10 miles from East to West, and 4 miles from North to South.

KILMICHAEL, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. N. from the river Inny.—"A Monastery was founded here for Franciscan Friars of the Third Order, by the family of Petyt, but we know not at what period. At the suppression of Monasteries its possessions were granted to Robert Nangle. Part of the walls of this church yet remain.

KILMIHILL, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Vicarage of Kilfarboy. Kilmihill is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8¼ m. W. N. W. from Killadysert. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILMILCON, in the Barony of Owney, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal. Kilmilcon is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. b. W. from Newport. This parish contains 311 acres of land. See, Toem.

KILMINA, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Burishhoole. Kilmina is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Newport Pratt, on the North-west. It is situate upon Newport or Clew Bay. See, Burishhoole.

KILMOCAR, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: no Church: The Rev. Thomas Henry Kearney, A. M., the Vicar (in 1806). According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. Kilmocar is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Castle Comer.

KILMOCOMOGUE, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 3 r. 11½ p.: The Rev. Charles Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the parish. Kilmocomogue is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Bantry, on the East. The Rectory is Impropriate.

KILMODUM, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunmore: the Church is in ruins. Kilmodum is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Dinin. See, Dunmore.

KILMODUMOGE, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mothell. Kilmodumoge is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. S. b. W. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Dinin. See, Mothell.

KILMOE, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 7 a. 0 r. 4 p.: The Rev. Fitzgerald Tisdall, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilmoe is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 19 m. S. W. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon a Peninsula, on the Atlantic Ocean.

KILMOGANY, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Kilmogany is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. W. from Knocktopher. The Fairs are holden on Easter Tuesday, and 4th of September. See, Knocktopher.

KILMOLARA, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmainmore. Kilmolara is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. S. from Ballinrobe. See, Kilmainmore.

KILMOLERAN, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting, with Dysart, the Corps of the Prebend; the V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, constituting part of the Union of Dysart. Kilmoleran is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. W. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Suir. See, Dysart.

KILMONOGUE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Peter's, in the City of Cork: the duties are performed by a Curate. Kilmonogue is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. E. from Kinsale. It is situate near the Sea-coast. See, Cork.

KILMONY, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

KILMOON, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmanaheen. Kilmoon is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N. from Innistymon. See, Kilmanaheen.

KILMOON, in the Barony of Duleek, though locally situate in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13..9..1½ Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in the month of November 1803, to the V. of Piercetown Landy; and have been so united, time immemorial, on every vacancy, although a small Impropriate parish intervenes: the three denominations would form a very expedient Union, by Act of Council: a Church, in Kilmoon, old, and in bad repair: but money has been raised to put it in complete order, and with part of which the Church has been ceiled and painted: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 36 acres, adjoining the church of Kilmoon: and, in Piercetown Landy, there are about 7 acres, about one mile distant from the glebe of Kilmoon: The Rev. J. W. Upton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilmoon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¾ m. N. E. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 1091 acres of land.

KILMORE, v. RATHMORE.

KILMORE, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster; a R., valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 700 English acres of Glebe, lying within half a mile of each other, and near to the church: The Rev. William Lodge, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Rich-hill. It is situate upon the Tall Water.—"St. Mochtee, who afterwards built Louth, founded Kilmore-aedhain, in the territory of Huadmeth; the church is dedicated to St. Aedan. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 34.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: The Right Rev. George de la Poer Beresford, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806: a V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling; and united by authority of the Crown, but no trace when, to the Vicarages of Ballyntemple, and Keydue, constituting the Deanery of Kilmore, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good repair, in Kilmore: a Glebe House, in Kilmore: 120 acres of Glebe, near the church; the other Glebes are scattered through different parishes: William Magennis, D. D., the Dean (in 1810), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. S. W. from Cavan. The parishes in the Union of Kilmore are contiguous: that of Kilmore being about six miles in length, and three miles and an half in breadth, and containing about seven thousand acres of land. This See was founded in the Thirteenth century, according to Dr. Beaufort, and in the Fifteenth changed its ancient name of Brefny, into that of Kilmore. It lies parallel to, and South of Clogher, extending 58 miles in length, and from 10 to 20 in breadth, through four Counties. There are a Dean, and an Archdeacon, but no Chapter in this Diocese. There is no Cathedral, and the parish church of Kilmore is very small and ancient. It joins the Bishop's Palace, which is a large house situated in a fine demesne, about 39 miles from the remotest part of the Diocese.—"In the Sixth century, St. Columb founded the Abbey of Cella Magna Deathreib. We hear no more of it as an Abbey. It is now a Bishop's See."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 42.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: two Glebes; one, of 6 a. 3 r. 2 p., subject to a Crown Rent of £0..15..0 yearly, on which stands a good Glebe House: the other Glebe contains 10 acres, subject to an annual Rent to the Bishop of £8..2..4: The Rev. Thomas Kennedy Baillie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Ballynahinch. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of March, 1st of May, 3d of June, 5th of August, 29th of September, and 5th of November.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Carbury.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..13..7 Irish Money: a Church, the outside in good repair, the inside much out of order: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is making preparations to build, having presented a Memorial and Plan for that purpose: three Glebes, one of 2 a. 1 r. 3 p., near the church; a second, of 0 a. 3 r. 31 p., also near the church; and a third, of 9 a. 0 r. 15 p., a quarter of a mile from it: The Rev. J. Travers Ratcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident, being Superintendant of Wilson's Hospital: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. E. from Summerhill.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; above 40 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. George Hay Schombergh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. b. N. from Monaghan.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. William Thompson, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Jamestown, and discharges the duties. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. S. S. E. from Carrick on the Shannon. This parish extends about seven square miles.—"Here are the remains of a Priory, and an Abbey; which last was built by St. Patrick, and is now a parish church. The Priory was erected by Con O'Flanagan for Regular Canons, in honour of the Virgin Mary. It was granted to Sir Patrick Barnwall, termor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 613.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cashel: the duties are performed by The Rev. Arthur Lord, the Rector of the adjoining parish of Ballintemple (in 1806), at a Salary of £4. per annum. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. W. N. W. from Cashel. This parish contains 870 acres of land. See, Geale.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united, on the 18th of July 1801, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilnaneave, and Lisbunny: a Church, in good repair, in Kilmore: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Gilbert Holmes, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, having a Faculty for holding the Deanery of Ardfert with this Benefice: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. George Rose, A. B., at a Salary of £50. per annum. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. from Nenagh. The parishes of Kilmore, and Kilnaneave, are contiguous, and are a quarter of a mile distant from Lisbunny; their estimated extent from North to South being 4 miles, and from East to West 7 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish of itself is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. —"An Abbey was founded, A. D. 540, at Kilmore-aradhtire. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 665.

KILMORE, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory Impropriate, with a Vicarage endowed, valued in the King's Books at £8..0..2 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tomhaggard. Kilmore is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 13 m. S. S. W. from Wexford. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Tomhaggard.

KILMOYLAN, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moylough. Kilmoylan is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¾ m. S. from Tuam. See, Moylough.

KILMUCKRIDGE, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyvalden: a Church, in repair: two Glebes, belonging to Mr. Grogan, in whose gift the Impropriate Cure is, as Lay Impropriator. Its annual value is £18. Kilmuckridge is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 9½ m. S. b. E. from Gorey. It is situate near the Irish Sea. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, Easter-Monday, 24th of June, and 29th of September. See, Ballyvalden.

KILMUD, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: no Church; but there are, an old burying place, and the ruins of an old Church: no Glebe, or Glebe House: the Income is only £20. per annum: The Rev. F. E. Lascelles, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves the Cure of Hillsborough; the occasional duties are discharged by the Curate of the adjoining parish. Kilmud is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Comber. It is presented to by Lord Downshire.

KILMURRY, in the Barony of Clanderlagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 31st of May 1774, to the Vicarages of Kilfedane, Killeymur, Killofin, and Kilmacduane: a Church, in tolerable repair, in the parish of Kilmurry: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 1 a. 3 r. 10 p., in the parish of Kilmurry, adjoining the church-yard; another, of 2 a. 2 r. 5 p., in the parish of Kilfedane, convenient to the site of the old church; and the third, of 1 a. 0 r. 10 p., in the parish of Killeymur, convenient to the site of the old church: The Rev. John Butler, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Kilmurry is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. W. S. W. from Killadysert. It is situate near the River Shannon. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Needham. The parishes in the Union of Kilmurry are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 8 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILMURRY, partly in the Barony of Muskerry, and partly in the Barony of Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Iniscarra. Kilmurry is partly in the Diocese of Cloyne, and partly in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. S. E. from Macromp. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 8th of September, 1st of November, and 21st of December. Here are the Ruins of a Castle. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it is apprehended that this Benefice, by itself, would be too small to maintain a Clergyman. See, Iniscarra.

KILMURRY ELY, in the Barony of Clonlisk, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Shinrone. Kilmurry Ely is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. b. W. from Shinrone. See, Shinrone.

KILMURRYNEGAUL, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ogashin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Kilmurrynegaul is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. b. W. from Six Mile Bridge. See, Kilseily, and Ogashin.

KILNADEMA, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughrea. Kilnadema is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. S. b. W. from Loughrea. It is situate upon Lough Rea. See, Loughrea.

KILNAGALLEGH, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster. It is situate on the shore of the River Shannon.—" St. Senan gave the veil to the Daughters of Nateus in Kileochaille, now called Kilnacaillech, or, The Church of the Nuns, not far from Inis Scattery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 52.

KILNAGLORY, partly in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of Cork, and partly within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £2..5..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 25th of April, 1785, to one R. and V. (one Rectory Impropriate, in the King; and Vicarage endowed) of St. Mary's, otherwise Athnowen: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 3 r. 20 p., about one hundred yards from the site of the old church: The Rev. James Pratt, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides within a mile of the parishes, performing the duties in person. Kilnaglory is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Bride. The parishes in the Union of Kilnaglory are contiguous: their estimated extent being 6 miles from East to West, and 2 miles from North to South. The Glebes are about a mile and an half asunder. See, Athnowen. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILNAGROSS, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Bryan. Kilnagross is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Arigadeen. See, Temple Bryan.

KILNAILE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught.—" St. Natalis, or Naal, was Abbot here, and died A. D. 563; his Festival is observed on the 27th of January."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 410.

KILNAIS, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near Swords. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Cumania is honoured here.

KILNAMANAGH, in the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killaconenagh. Kilnamanagh is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. from Castletown. It is situate upon the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killaconenagh.

KILNAMANAGH, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, erected in 1805: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Stephen Lyster, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Boyle, and discharges the duties. Kilnamanagh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. S. S. W. from Boyle. The extent of this parish is about six square miles. The annual Income from Tythes of this parish is about £20.; to which an augmentation of £40. per annum is given from Primate Boulter's Donation.—" This ancient Abbey was founded by St. Fechin. Breasall, the son of Angne, was Abbot here, and died A. D. 842. This House existed till the general suppression, when it was granted to Richard Earl of Clanrickard. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 636.

KIL NA MARBHAN, or, THE CHURCH OF THE DEAD, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is situate near Brigown. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Abban founded the Church here.

KILNAMARTERY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., holden with the Prebend of Brigown: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 41 a. 1 r. 20 p.: The Rev. William Butler, the Incumbent (in 1810), who, while his church is building, resides with the Bishop as his Domestic Chaplain. Kilnamartery is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Macromp. It is situate on the River Toone. See, Brigown.

KILNANEAVE, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmore. Kilnaneave is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. S. from Nenagh. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish of itself is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. See, Kilmore.

KILNANINGHEAN, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Brigid, sister to St. Colman of Cloyne, was Abbess of a Nunnery here, where she was honoured on the 6th of March. It is now unknown.

KILNASOOLOGH, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromline. Kilnasoologh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. W. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Traddery, and Dromline.

KILNEBOY, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, and the Vicarage at £0..5..0: and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysert. Kilneboy is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. N. W. b. N. from Ennis. See, Dysert.

KILNEDDY, or, KILNEADY, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Kilneddy is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Knocktopher. See, Knocktopher.

KILNEGARENAGH, v. LEMANAGHAN.

KILNEGARRUFF, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Connel. Kilnegarruff is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. S. E. from Castle Connel. See, Castle Connel.

KILNEGARVAN, v. KILLGARVEY.

KILNEHUE, otherwise LAMOGUE, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Gorey. Kilnehue is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. W. from Gorey. See, Gorey.

KILNEMANAGH, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money: no Church, but one about to be built, as soon as a site can be obtained: a very good Glebe House, newly built, on a Glebe of 27 acres: The Rev. Mr. Mosse, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilnemanagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Awin Banna.

KILNEMONA, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Dromcliffe: the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of the Vicarage of Dromcliffe. Kilnemona is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. W. N. W. from Ennis. See, Dromcliffe.

KILNESEAR, v. CALLABEG.

KILNOE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Kilnoe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. N. W. from Killaloe. See, Omullud, and Kilseily.

KILODIERNAN, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Monsea. Kilodiernan is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. W. from Burresokeane. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Monsea.

KIL O'DONNELL, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"About the beginning of the 16th century O'Donnell built a small Monastery here for Friars of the third Order of St. Francis."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 101.

KILOSCOBA, v. KILBOEDAIN.

KILPATRICK, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate. Kilpatrick is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. S. S. E. from Cork. It is situate near to the Sea-coast.

KILPATRICK, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..17..1 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drakestown. Kilpatrick is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Nobber. This parish contains 2150 acres of land. See, Drakestown.

KILPATRICK, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballintemple. Kilpatrick is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. N. E. from Tipperary. This parish contains 1274 acres of land. See, Ballintemple.

KILPATRICK, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Pollard. Kilpatrick is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. W. N. W. from Castletown Delvin. This parish contains 857 acres of land. See, Castle Pollard.

KILPATRICK, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..16..4. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. Kilpatrick is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. b. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the River Slaney. See, Ardcolme.

KILPIPE, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1782, to the V. of Killenor: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Kilpipe: a Glebe, of 15 acres, in the parish of Killenor, and on which is a Glebe House, newly built, being about four miles distant from the church of Kilpipe: The Rev. Ralph Cumine, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Killenor, and discharges the duties in person. Kilpipe is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. b. S. from Rathdrum. The parishes in the Union of Kilpipe are contiguous, and contain 1120 acres. The whole value is not £200. per annum.

KILRAGHTIS, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Rashackin. Kilraghtis is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. E. from Ballymoney. This parish contains 1800 acres of land. See, Rashackin.

KILRAGHTIS, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ogashin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromcliffe. Kilraghtis is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. E. from Ennis. See, Dromcliffe, and Ogashin.

KILRANE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory (a Sine Cure), constituting the Corps of the Prebend of Kilrane in the Cathedral of Ferns, is valued in the King's Books at £28..4..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe Lands: The Rev. Thomas Goff, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is non-resident: the Vicarage is endowed, and constitutes part of the Union of Kilscoran. Kilrane is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. from Taghmon. The value of this Benefice is about £90. per annum. It is a considerable distance from Kilscoran KILRANELAGH, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltegan. Kilranelagh is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 1st of February. See, Kiltegan.

KILRATH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—"This Religious House was built near the mountain of Claire, by St. Coeman, a disciple of St. Patrick, but we have not learned the time of its foundation."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 424.

KILREA, or, KILREE, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Kilrea is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Knocktopher. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. See, Kells.

KILREA, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling: a Church, repairing: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 5 acres, near the church; and another Glebe, of 350 acres, four miles from the church: The Rev. John Waddy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilrea is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 102 m. N. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 10th of October. It is situate on the River Bann.

KILREE, GRANGE, v. BURNCHURCH.

KILRENY, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., united, but by what authority not known, to the Vicarages of Castropeter, and Kilclonfert: a Church, in excellent order, in Castropeter: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. William Lambart, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Castropeter, of which parish he performs the duties; the duties of Kilclonfert are performed by The Rev. William Chamberlaine, at a Salary of £2..10..0 per annum; and those of Kilreny, by The Rev. Charles Palmer. Kilreny is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. from Kinnegad. This parish contains 1000 acres of land. The parishes of Castropeter, and Kilclonfert, are contiguous: the parish of Kilreny is four miles distant from them. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILRICKILL, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughrea. Kilrickill is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. E. b. N. from Loughrea. See, Loughrea.—"St. Patrick built Kilrichelle for his sister St. Richella. We know no more of it as a Monastery. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 292.

KILROAN, or, BALLYDELOHER, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilaspugmullane. Kilroan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. N. E. from Cork. See, Kilaspugmullane.

KILROE, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. —According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey of this name was erected either by St. Fechan or St. Patrick.

KILROIS, in the Barony of Mourne, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. Here was anciently an Abbey.

KILRONAN, in the Barony of Killihan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killion. Kilronan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Ballinamore. See, Killion.

KILRONAN, in the Barony of Glanehiry, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of White Church; The Church is in ruins. Kilronan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Clonmell. See, White Church, and Rathronan.

KILRONAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, holden, by Sequestration, with the Union of Killure. Kilronan is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Waterford. The Prebend of Kilronan is valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money. See, Killure, and Killoteran.

KILROOT, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Ballynure, and V. of Templecorran, constituting the Prebend of Kilroot, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, at Ballynure, in decent order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Gwynne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilroot is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. N. E. from Carrickfergus. The parishes in the Union of Kilroot are all nearly contiguous, that of Ballymure being only two miles distant from Templecorran. The parish of Kilroot contains 1660 acres of land. It is situate upon the Sea-coast.

KILROSS, or, KILRASSE, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Kilross is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2½ m. E. from Coloony. See, Taunagh.—"Clarus Mac Moylin O'Moillchonry, Archdeacon of Elphin, founded the Church of the Holy Trinity at Kilruisse, in 1233, for Canons of the order of Præmonstre, and made it a Cell to the Abbey of Loughkee. The founder died A. D. 1251."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 636.

KILRUAIDH, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"In Dalaradia, near Lough Neagh. St. Colman is the Patron Saint, and his Festival is kept here on the 16th of October. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9.

KILRUANE, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., holden with the Rectory of Terryglass: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Anthony Gale, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Kilruane, and is resident in the Queen's County, by permission of the Diocesan, on account of infirmity: the duties are performed by the officiating Minister of the adjoining parish. Kilruane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. The parishes of Kilruane, and Terryglass, are 7 miles distant from each other, and are holden by separate titles, dated the 17th day of August 1790. Each of these parishes, separately, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILRUSH, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being holden with the Union of Traddery: the Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Prebend of Inniscathrie. Kilrush is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 142 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of May, and 12th of October. It is situate upon the River Shannon. Here is the Seat of Crofton Vandeleur, Esq. See, Traddery, and Inniscathrie.

KILRUSH, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballysonan. Kilrush is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. W. from Kilcullen-Bridge. See, Ballysonan.—"An Abbey was founded here about the beginning of the 13th century for Canons Regular of the order of St. Augustin, by William Mareschal, Earl of Pembroke: this was a Cell to the Priory of Carthmel, in Lancashire."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 332.

KILRUSH, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., with Cloghmantagh, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Kilrush is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. W. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

KILRUSH, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of a Prebend in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Rogers, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Kilrush is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. E. from Clonegal.

KILSAGHLAN, v. KILSALLAGHAN.

KILSALLAGHAN, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..0 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and 32 acres of Glebe, conveniently situate: The Rev. Charles Milley Doyle, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kilsallaghan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 9 m. N. from Dublin. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an ancient Monastery here, of which very little is known.

KILSARAN, or, KILLSORRAN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Parliament to the R. of Gernonstown: a Church, in good order, in Gernonstown: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 19 a. 0 r. 36 p., in the parish of Kilsaran, lying together, about three quarters of a mile from the church: The Rev. Alexander Mac Clintock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kilsaran is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. N. N. W. from Castle Bellingham. It is situate upon Dundalk Bay. The parishes of Kilsaran, and Gernonstown, are contiguous, and contain 2700 acres of land.—" A Commandery was founded here in the 12th century for Knights Templars, by Maud de Lacie; but, in the reign of King Edward the Second, it was given to the Knights Hospitallers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 465.

KILSCANLAN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Kilscanlan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. E. from New Ross. See, Ross, New.

KILSCORAN, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £26..11..0 Irish Money, and united, from time immemorial, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Rosslare, and Tacumshane, the Rectories of Ballymore, and Killilane, the Vicarage of Kilrane, and the Impropriate Cure of St. Margaret's; constituting the Corps of the Chancellorship of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £32..11..8 Irish Money: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Kilscoran: five Glebes, one, of 10 acres (part of which lies in the parish of Rosslare), on which the Glebe House stands, at Kilscoran: the second, of 1½ acre, at the distance of a mile, in the parish of Rosslare; the third, of 2 acres, about half a mile distant, in the parish of Kilscoran; the fourth, of 4 acres, about a mile distant, in the parish of Kilscoran; and the fifth, of 1½ acre, about four miles distant, in the parish of Tacumshane: The Rev. Henry Bate Dudley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate (resident also in the Glebe House), The Rev. Mr. Jacob, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilscoran is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. N. from Broadway. The parishes in the Union of Kilscoran are all contiguous, except the parish of Kilrane, which is situate at a considerable distance in the Barony of Shelburne: their contents being 7243 acres.

KILSEILY, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, was Episcopally united, on the 18th of March 1790, to the Vicarages of Bunratty, Clonlea, Clonloghan, Finogh, Kilconry, Killurane, Kilfinaghty, Kilmurrynegaul, Kilnoe, and Tomfinlogh: two Churches, in good repair; one of them being in the parish of Kilseily, and the other in the parish of Kilfinaghty: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 a. 1 r. 36 p., in the parish of Kilconry, and another, of 3 a. 1 r. 26 p., in the parish of Tomfinlogh; each of which glebes are not far from the site of their old churches: The Rev. William Miller, A.M., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, The Rev. Simon Holland, A. B. Kilseily is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8¼ m. W. b. S. from Killaloe. The parishes in the Union of Kilseily are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 10 miles, and the like distance from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Omullud.

KILSHANE, or, KILSONNA, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—" Here we find a Friary of Conventual Franciscans, which was erected by Fitzgerald, Lord of the territory of Clenlis, in the Barony of Conillo, and bordering on the County of Cork.—Here was also an Abbey for Cistertian Monks, which was founded in the year 1198, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary. It was a daughter of the Abbey of Corcumroe, and afterwards became a Cell to it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 425.

KILSHANICK, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and holden with the Prebend of Kilmaclenine. Kilshanick is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. W. from Mallow. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Kilmaclenine.

KILSHARVAN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..7..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Colpe. Kilsharvan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. from Drogheda. It is situate on the Nany Water. This parish contains 1191 acres of land. See, Colpe.

KILSHENY, or, KILSHYNE, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R.: the Church is in ruins; the parish being too small to support one: no Glebe House: 13 acres of Glebe, surrounding the ruins of the old church: The Rev. Robert Barker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is non-resident, being excused on account of infirmity: the duties are dicharged by a neighbouring Clergyman: It is recommended to unite this parish with the Rectory of Clongill, to which it is contiguous. Kilsheny is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. b. W. from Navan. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KILSHYNE, v. KILSHENY.

KILSILLAGH, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster : a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lislee. Kilsillagh is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. b. S. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Lislee.

KILSKEERY, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster : a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling : a Church, in good condition : a Glebe House ; 1115 acres of Glebe, near the church : The Rev. John Stack, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Kilskeery is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. N. b. E. from Enniskillen.—"A Monastery of this name was founded, A. D. 749. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 263.

KILSKYRE, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster : a R., valued in the King's Books at £17..15..0 Irish Money : a Church, lately put into complete repair : a Glebe House, with every necessary office, on a Glebe of 17 acres, one mile from the church ; and two Glebes more, one of 3 acres, one mile and an half from the church, and the other of 2 acres, on which the church stands : The Hon. and Rev. Pierce Butler, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilskyre is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¾ m. N. W. from Athboy.—"An Abbey was founded here under the Invocation of St. Schiria the Virgin, who lived in the year 580 ; her Feast is observed on the 24th of March."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 555.

KILSLERE, in the Barony of ——— , Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. —"Wadding, the Franciscan, calls this Killare, and says, it was the principal Monastery belonging to the third Order of Franciscans in Ireland. Thomas Ornay was made Perpetual Commissary of it, in the year 1457."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 34.

KILSLEVE, v. KILLEVY.

KILSLEW, or, KILLECLEWE, v. KILLEA.

KILSONNA, v. KILSHANE.

KILTALE, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster : a R. (a Lay Impropriation), Episcopally united to the R. of Dirpatrick, and the Vicarages of Colmolyn, and Galtrim : a Church, in Galtrim, in complete repair : a Glebe House, building, on 6 acres of Glebe, in Galtrim, near the church, and in great forwardness : in Colmolyn, 6 acres of Glebe, near the old church, and 3 acres at some distance : Vacant, in 1806 ; the Right of Presentation to Galtrim, being in dispute : The duties are discharged by the Curate, who has the sequestration. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it would be expedient to unite these parishes permanently. Kiltale is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¾ m. W. N. W. from Dunshaglin. There is no Income from Kiltale. The parishes in the Union of Kiltale are contiguous; that of Kiltale containg 547 acres of land.

KILTALE, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysart Enos: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £15. sterling, and the Vicarage at £2. Irish Money; The Church is in ruins. Kiltale is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. W. from Stradbally. See, Dysart Enos, and Tecolme.

KILTARTAN, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Kilmacduagh. Kiltartan is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Gort, on the North West. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 3d of September, and 21st of November. See, Kilmacduagh.

KILTEAL, v. KILTALE.

KILTEEL, v. LISTEELY.

KILTEEL, or, KILKEEL, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathmore. Kilteel is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. E. N. E. from Naas. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 24th of June, 29th of September, and 2d of November. See, Rathmore.

KILTEELY, v. LISTEELY.

KILTEEVAN, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballintobar. Kilteevan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Castlereagh, on the South. See, Ballintobar.

KILTEEVAN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templeneilan. Kilteevan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Roscommon. See, Templeneilan.

KILTEGAN, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1804, to the R. of Kilranelagh: a Church, in the parish of Kiltegan, newly erected: no Glebe House: a Glebe, lately granted, of 20 acres, in the parish of Kiltegan, near the church: The Rev. Edward Blake, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the Union, and discharges the duties in person. Kiltegan is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. E. from Baltinglass. The parishes in the Union of Kiltegan are contiguous; their contents being 9535 acres.

KILTEIDHILL, or, KILTEIMHILL, in the Barony of ——, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—"The Saints Mumis and Lomchuo, disciples of St. Patrick, rest here: where seven Bishops were also interred."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 425.

KILTENANLEA, or, DOONAS, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 7th of August 1795, to the V. of Killokennedy; and now holden with the Prebend of Lockeen. Kiltenanlea is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. S. W. from Killaloe. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Lockeen.

KILTENNEL, or, COURTOWN, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 30 acres, at Prospect, about two miles from the church: The Rev. Roger Owen, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Kiltennel is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Gorey. It is situate on the Irish Sea. The church here was erected principally at the expense of Lord Courtown, who also built the tower here, and has the Patronage of the Living. It is about 7 miles from Camolin. See, Tomb.

KILTERNAN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bray. Kilternan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¾ m. S. b. E. from Dublin. See, Bray.

KILTESKILL, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughrea. Kilteskill is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¾ m. S. E. from Loughrea. See, Loughrea.

KILTEYNAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Jebb, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Cashel, where he officiates as Preacher at the Cathedral: the duties of Kilteynan being performed by The Rev. Francis Benson, the Rector of the adjoining parish of Fethard. Kilteynan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. b. E. from Fethard. This parish contains 2500 acres of land.

KILTIGAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each united by Act of Council to the R. and V. of Donaghmore, and constituting part of the Corps of the Prebend. Kiltigan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is ¾ m. N. W. from Clonmell. See, Donaghmore.

KILTOKEGAN, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkitt. Kiltokegan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Dunkitt.

KILTOMA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Nennid, or Ninn, was Abbot or Bishop of this church, and his Festival is holden on the 13th of November. It is now unknown.

KILTONGA, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"On the North side of Newtown. Here was a Cell, of which some remains were to be seen in the beginning of this century."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 123.

KILTOOM, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., united by Act of Council, in 1784, to the V. of Camma: a Church, in good repair: 20 acres of Glebe, in the parish of Kiltoom, whereon is a Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas Young, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Castlereagh, in the Diocese of Elphin, where he does the duty of Curate: the duties here are discharged by The Rev. Samuel Hodson, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kiltoom is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¾ m. N. W. from Athlone. The parishes in the Union of Kiltoom are contiguous; and are estimated to extend about 12 square miles.

KILTORAGHT, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Deanery of Kilfenora: the Vicarage being Episcopally united, on the 5th of January 1795, to the Vicarage of Cloney: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Arthur Brownlow Ford, A. B., the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and who, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, "fled from the neighbourhood of Kilfenora, where he resided, during the Rebellion in 1798: and although inquiry has been made, the place of his residence has not yet been discovered." Kiltoraght is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. E. b. N. from Innistymon. The parishes in the Union of Kiltoraght are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being three miles, and, from East to West, three miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, these parishes are too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilfenora.

KILTORKIN, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Knocktopher. Kiltorkin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Knocktopher.

KILTORMER, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Abbeygormagan, Kilguan, and Killoran: one Church, in the parish of Kiltormer, almost perfectly repaired, after monition: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 acres, four miles from the church: The Rev. Robert Hawkshaw, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and having another Benefice in the Diocese of Ferns, on which he resides, the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Purefoy, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kiltormer is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 ¼ m. N. W. from Eyrecourt. The parishes in the Union of Kiltormer are contiguous. See, Clonfert.

KILTRISK, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..12..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leskinfere: a Glebe, of 16 a. 1 r. 22 p. Kiltrisk is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Awin Banna. See, Leskinfere.

KILTRUSTAN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bumlin. Kiltrustan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Povince of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. N. N. W. from Strokestown. See, Bumlin.

KILTULLAGH, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilconickny. Kiltullagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. E. b. S. from Athenry. This parish contains 2549 acres of land. See, Kilconickny. According to Mr. Archdall, a Cell of the third Order of St. Francis was built here some time before the year 1441.

KILTULLAGH, in the Barony of Ballintobar, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2..5..0 sterling, and united by Act of Parliament, in 1711, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Aghavower, Annagh, Bekan, Knockdrumcalry, and Templetogher: a Church, in Kiltullagh, in repair: no Glebe House: half an acre of Glebe: The Rev. Richard Faulkner, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Kiltullagh is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. W. from Castlereagh. The parishes in the Union of Kiltullagh are contiguous; its extent being about fifteen miles.—"A Monastery for Franciscan Friars of the third Order, and of the Order de Poenitentia, was erected here sometime after the year 1441; of which no other particulars have transpired."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 614.

KILTURK, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory Impropriate, with a Vicarage endowed, valued in the King's Books at £8..5..4 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tomhaggard. Kilturk is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. b. W. from Wexford. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Tomhaggard.

KILVELLANE, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killnerath. Kilvellane is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Newport, on the North West. This parish contains 3429 acres of land. See, Killnerath.

KILVEMNON, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. George Madder, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being Surrogate of the Diocese, resides at Cashel, where the Court is holden: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. T. B. Gough, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilvemnon is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Callan. This parish contains 5060 acres of land.

KILVINE, v. KILLMEEN.

KILVINE, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinrobe. Kilvine is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Dunmore. See, Ballinrobe. According to Mr. Archdall, there was formerly a Franciscan Friary here.

KILWAGHTER, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Carncastle. Kilwaghter is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. W. S. W. from Larne. This parish contains 4852 acres of land. It is situate upon the River Larne.

KILWEILAGH, in the Barony of Delvin, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..1..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcumney. Kilweilagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. W. from Castletown Delvin. This parish, together with the contiguous one of Dysertale, contain about 3000 acres of land. See, Kilcumney.

KILWORTH, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., united for ever, by Act of Council, to the Vicarages of Kilcrumper, Leitrim, and Macrony: a Church, in repair, at Kilworth: a Glebe House, and three detached Glebes, at Kilworth, amounting together to 15 acres: The Hon. and Rev. Robert Moore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being absent in Italy, the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. John Lodge, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kilworth is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 108¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of January, Easter Tuesday, Thursday after Trinity Sunday, 11th of September, 21st of November, and 10th of December. It is situate on the River Funcheon. Here is Moorpark, the superb Mansion of Lord Mountcashel. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Kilworth are all contiguous; their extent being 11 miles from North to South, by 7 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KINALEKIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—" A Commandery for Knights Hospitallers was founded here in the 13th century, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, by O'Flaherty. A Franciscan Friary was founded here before the year 1325."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 293.

KINALLY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

KINAWLEY, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: two Churches; one, in good repair; the other, enlarging and repairing: no Glebe House: The Rev. Dixie Blundell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Dublin; the duties are discharged by two Resident Curates, at a Salary of £60. per annum to each. Kinawley is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 13 m. N. b. W. from Killeshandra. It is situate upon the River Clodagh.

KINEAGH, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V.: the Church has been in ruins, from time immemorial: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 18 a. 1 r. 24 p., contiguous to the ruins of the old church: The Rev. John Bayly, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is Vicar Choral of the Cathedral of Christ Church, and St. Patrick's in Dublin, where he officiates: the duties are performed by the Curate of the contiguous parish of Castle Dermot, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Kineagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. E. b. N. from Castle Dermot. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Total value of this Benefice is only £40. per annum: viz., the Glebe Land being set at £25., and the Tythes at £15.

KING'S COURT, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 39 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, 18th of June, 19th of September, 8th of November, and 4th and 24th of December. It has three Post-days in the week.

KINLOUGH, in the Barony of Rossclogher, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 5¾ m. S. S. W. from Ballyshannon. A village.

KINNARD, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Studdart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides near Limerick: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Ballinacourty, at a Salary of £6. per annum. Kinnard is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Dingle. It is situate upon Dingle Bay. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KINNEAGH, v. TINTERN.

KINNEGAD, in the Barony of Farbill, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in indifferent repair: a Glebe House, on 30 acres of Glebe, with every necessary office, three miles from the church: The Rev. Charles O'Berne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Kinnegad is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 29½ m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 9th of May. The Curate resides, by permission, in Kinnegad, where he keeps a School. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 9th of May.

KINNEIGH, v. KENNEIGH.

KINNITTY, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Half Rectory and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and united by Act of Council, on the 14th of December 1796, to the Half Rectory and Vicarage of Litterluna, and the Vicarage of Roscomroe: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kinnitty: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 21 a. 1 r. 11 p., in the parish of Kinnitty, convenient to the church: The Rev. Abraham Downs, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Kinnitty is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. b. W. from Balliboy. The parishes in the Union of Kinnitty are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 4 miles, and from East to West, 4 miles.—"An Abbey was founded here in the year 557, when St. Finan, sirnamed Com, of the race of Corcudubne, and a disciple of St. Brendan of Clonfert, who died in 576, was Abbot of Cinneteach. The Abbot Colga Mac Conagann died here in 871: he was esteemed the best and most elegant poet then in this kingdom, and was also the principal historian."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 401.

KINSALE, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the R. is Impropriate in James Kearney, Esq.: the V.

is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in a ruinous state: Glebe Land: The Rev. Samuel Beamish, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Kinsale is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 136 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Bandon, at the Northern extremity of a commodious and secure Harbour, to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 4th of September, and 21st of November. This town sends one Member to Parliament; Patronage, in the family of Southwell. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Recorder, and Town Clerk. It is defended by a strong fort, built by King Charles II, called Charles Fort, on the Eastern entrance of the harbour; the Military establishment of which is under a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and Fort Major. It gives title of Baron to the ancient family of de Courcey, lineally descended from John de Courcey, Earl of Ulster, who from him have the privilege to be covered in the presence of the King of England. Here is a Royal Dock-yard. It has six Post-days in the week. The town, which contains at least 10,000 inhabitants, is built on the side of Compas-hill, and close to the water's edge. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Gobban was Patron of the Monastery of Kingsale. We have no information about the foundation of the house of White Friars: part of the ruins of which still remain in the North end of the town.

KINSALEBEG, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templemihil: the Church is in ruins. Kinsalebeg is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 8½ m. S. W. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon the River Blackwater, over which it has communication with the town of Youghall by a Ferry-boat. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Lisgenan and Kinsalebeg ought to be perpetually united; and, if a Church, and Glebe House, were built in the parish of Kinsalebeg, it is thought, that this would be a good arrangement. See, Templemihil.

KINURE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Kinsale. It is situate upon St. George's Channel.

KINVARRA, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Kinvarra is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. N. W. from Gort. It is situate upon Galway Bay. The Fairs are holden on the 18th of May, and 17th of October. See, Kilcolgan.

KIRCUBBIN, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.

It is 97 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of April, May, August, and November. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate on Strangford Lough. See, St. Andrew's.

KIRKEEL, v. KILKEEL.

KISH, v. KESH.

KISHCARIGAN, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 7 m. N. E. from Carrick on the Shannon. A village.

KNAVENSTOWN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being appropriated to the Cathedral Church of St. Bridget, in Kildare, and is valued in the King's Books at £2..16..8 Irish Money; the Vicarage being the Corps of the Treasurership of the Cathedral: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. John Bayly, the Vicar and Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin, being a Vicar Choral of Christ Church in that City: the duties are performed by The Rev. Henry Bayly, without Salary, the Income being very small. Knavenstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Kildare. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KNIGH, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Nenagh. Knigh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. from Nenagh. See, Nenagh.

KNOCK, v. KNOCKDRUMCALRY.

KNOCK, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., united, time immemorial, to the R. of Breda: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent has promised to build one; a Glebe, of 12 acres, a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. Mervyn Pratt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Knock is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. S. E. from Belfast. It is situate on the River Lagan. The parishes of Knock, and Breda, are contiguous, and contain together 4800 acres of land. The church here is remarkably neat and elegant: It was erected under the direction of Mr. Castell, at the sole expense of Viscountess Dowager Middleton.

KNOCKANE, in the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killtallagh: In 1669, Knockane was separated from the rest of the Union, which were then holden together: It was united to them, by the Institution of the Incumbent of Knockane, to the other four parishes, in July 1682; since which time, they have been holden together. Knockane is in the Dioceses of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is $6\frac{1}{4}$ m. S. S. W. from Milltown. See, Killtallagh.

KNOCKANURE, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Knockanure is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is $4\frac{1}{4}$ m. E. b. N. from Listowell. See, Aghavallin.

KNOCKAVILLY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £6..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Brinny: a Glebe, of 30 acres, within a quarter of a mile from the ruins of the church; and 12 acres, about half a mile therefrom, and a mile from the church at Brinny. Knockavilly is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. N. E. from Bandonbridge. See, Brinny.

KNOCKBRIDE, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2..1..4 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; but the Incumbent has memorialed to build; 188 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Daniel Palmer, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a non-resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Knockbride is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. from Bailieborough.

KNOCKCOMMON, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Duleek. Knockcommon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. from Slane. See, Duleek.

KNOCKDRUMCALRY, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltullagh. Knockdrumcalry is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. W. b. N. from Ballyhaunis. See, Kiltullagh.

KNOCKGRAFFON, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1803, to the Rectory entire of Doggstown: a Church, in good repair, in Knockgraffon: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 40 acres, at Knockgraffon: The Rev. John Lloyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Knockgraffon is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is $4\frac{1}{4}$ m. S. from Cashel. The parishes in the Union of Knockgraffon are contiguous; that of Knockgraffon containing 4780 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the small parish of Doggstown would not, if separated from Knockgraffon, afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KNOCKMARK, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4..17..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taragh. Knockmark is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. b. N. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 1673 acres of land. See, Taragh.

KNOCKMORE, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—" A Friary was erected here, in the 14th century, by O'Gara, and according to some writers, for Dominican Friars. But the tradition of the place informs us, that it belonged to the Carmelite Friars, and the ruins of O'Conor's Castle still remaining in this village, seems to infer that he was the founder."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 637.

KNOCKMOURN, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, and united by Act of Council, many years ago, to the V. of Ballynoe: a Church, repairing, at Knockmourn: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres, close to the church: The Rev. Thomas Campion, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Knockmourn is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. N. W. from Tallow. It is situate on the River Bride. The parishes in the Union of Knockmourn are contiguous; their extent being 7 miles from North to South, by 3 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

KNOCKMOY, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killereran. Knockmoy is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. S. E. from Tuam. See, Killereran.—" An Abbey, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, was founded here for Cistertians in the year 1189, or 1190, by Cathol O'Conor, surnamed Crove-derge, or Red Hand, king of Connaught. This House was a daughter of the Abbey of Boyle."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 266.

KNOCKMUILAN, or, KNOCKMYLAND, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 7¾ m. S. b. W. from Thomastown. A village. The Fair is holden on the 5th of August.

KNOCKNACRIOTH, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is contiguous to the Nunnery of Graney.—" Here was a Religious House, and some marks of its ruins still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 332.

KNOCKNEGAUL, in the County of the City of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick; and the Vicarage being part of the Corps of the Prebend of Killpeacon. Knocknegaul is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Limerick. See, Nantinan, and Killpeacon.

KNOCKTEMPLE, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., united for ever, by Act of Council, to the Perpetual Curacy of Kilbolane: a Church, in repair, at Kilbolane: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas King, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. The Curacy of Kilbolane is £6..13..4 per annum, which is paid by the Impropriator. Knocktemple is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. W. from Charleville. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, neither of these preferments will maintain a Clergyman by themselves.

KNOCKTOPHER, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money; and united by Act of Council, at a remote period, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Aghavillyr, Dernahensy, Donomagan, Kilkeasy, Kilkeril, Kilmogany, Kilneddy, and Kiltorkin: two Churches; one, in the parish of Knocktopher, and the other, in the parish of Kilmogany, both in good repair: a Glebe House, in the parish of Knocktopher: there are 40 a. 3 r. 17 p., of Glebe Land, in the parish of Knocktopher, about 16 acres of which adjoin the Glebe House, 15 acres are a mile from it, 5 acres are occupied by the Curate at Kilmogany: and three small patches about the town of Knocktopher: The Rev. Hans Hamilton, A. M., the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Knocktopher is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 63 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Knocktopher are contiguous.—"A. D. 1356, James, the second Earl of Ormond, founded a Friary here for Carmelites, or White Friars, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 375.

KNOCKVICAR, or, THE HILL OF VICTORY, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. It is 4 m. E. from Boyle.—"A Monastery for Friars of the Order of St. Dominick was founded on the summit of this hill, of which there are now no remains: the foundation has been given to the family of Bingham, but the time of their arrival in Ireland, evidently proves the mistake. A lease of this Abbey was granted to Richard Kendlemarch."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 614.

KNOUGH, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster; a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drakestown. Knough is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Nobber. This parish contains 450 acres of land. See, Drakestown.—"Donchad Hua Kervail, Prince of this country, and Edan Coellaidhe, Bishop of Clogher, founded a Priory here for Regular Canons, under the Rule of St. Augustin, in the year 1148, which he dedicated to the Saints Peter and Paul."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 466.

KYLE, or, CLONFERT MULLOE, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Roscrea: The Church is in ruins. Kyle is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Burros in Ossory. See, Roscrea.—" This Monastery was founded in the Sixth century by St. Molua, or St. Luan, the son of Carthar of Munster, who was educated at Benchor, and died A. D. 622, after having laboured under a severe leprosy for the preceding twenty years. His Festival is observed on the 4th of August. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 379.

KYLE, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. E. b. N. from Enniscorthy. A village, situate on the River Awin Banna.

KYNNETHIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—" In Michaelmas term, 1300, a writ issued to the Sheriff to distrain the Abbot of Kynnethin, at the suit of Robert de Bland, for the sum of thirteen marcs, an arrear due of the annual rent of 40s. We find no other mention of this Abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 426.

L.

LACKAGH, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killoscobe. Lackagh is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 10 m. N. E. b. N. from Galway. The Prebend of Lackagh is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling. See, Killoscobe.

LACKAGH, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Kildangan, and Walterstown, and the Vicarage of Doneny: a Church, in Kildangan, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 18 a. 2 r. 16 p., in five lots; four of which, containing 15 a. 3 r. 16 p., are near the ruins of the old church in Lackagh, and four miles and an half from Kildangan Church; the fifth, containing 2 a. 3 r. 0 p., is in the parish of Doneny, a mile and an half from the church of Kildangan: The Rev. Arthur John Preston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident in the adjoining parish of Rathangan, and performs the duties in person. Lackagh is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. from Kildare. It gives title of Baron to the family of Fielding, now Earl of Desmond. The parishes in the Union of Lackagh are contiguous to each other, and contain in all 4464 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, Lackagh might be united with the Rectory and Vicarage of Doneny. Kildangan and Walterstown should be united with Nurney. There is a church at Kildangan, and a House, and Glebe, should be procured for the Incumbent.

LACKAN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Vicarages of Dunfeeny, Killbreedy, Killcummin, and Templemurry: a Church, in the parish of Lackan, in bad repair: and a Chapel of Ease, in the parish of Dunfeeny, in good repair: A sum of money has been assessed on the Union, to repair the church at Lackan: a Glebe House, in the parish of Lackan, and 28 acres of Glebe Land contiguous: There are also, in the parish of Killbreedy, three roods of Glebe; and, in that of Dunfeeny, 19½ acres contiguous to the Chapel of Ease: The Rev. James Little, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. The parishes in the Union of Lackan are contiguous; their estimated extent being 11 miles in length, and 5 miles in breadth. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. Lackan is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Killala.

LACKEEN, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being holden with the R. and V. of Kilcoleman, and which is for ever united to a small portion of Aghabollogue, under the name of the parish of Magourney: a Church, in repair, at Magourney: a Glebe House, at Magourney; and a Glebe, of 69 acres, near the church: The Rev. William Butler, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Cloyne, being the Bishop's domestic Chaplain. Lackeen is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. S. S. W. from Charleville. The extent of the Union of Lackeen is four miles North and South, by three miles East and West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Benefice of Lackeen is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

LACKIN, v. LECKEN.

LACKOWRAN, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of White Church. Lackowran is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. According to Dr. Smith, Lackowran is a particle of Modeligo. See, White Church.

LADY'S ISLAND, v. MARY'S, ST., ISLAND.

LADYTOWN, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., or Perpetual Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Great Connel. Ladytown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Naas. This parish contains 560 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Great Connel.

LAGHY, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. S. from Donegal. A village.

LAMBAY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in the Irish Sea, 2 miles East from the Main-land. This Island is about 3 miles in length, and 1½ mile in breadth, and is nearly of an oval form. Here is a very curious ancient fortification. It is remarkable for vast quantities of Rabbits, and Sea-fowl; and has a curious Well, and fine Spring of water, dedicated to the Holy Trinity. Crabs, lobsters, and oysters, are taken in great plenty here, and abundance of Kelp is also made on it. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, a grant of the Island of Lambay was made to Sir William Usher and his heirs for ever, on condition of his paying £6. per annum to the See of Dublin. It is mentioned by Ptolomey, and is called by Pliny, Limnus, which is thought by Mr. Beaufort to be a corruption from the ancient British, Lan-n'-iii, or, Intirely in the Water.

LAMBEG, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Bishop is Rector; has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £68. per annum, being the whole Income of the parish. Lambeg is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Lisburn. It is situate upon the River Lagon. —"Mac Donnell built a small Monastery here, in the 15th century, for Franciscan Friars of the third Order."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9

LANESBOROUGH, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Rathline. It is 62¼ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 12th of February. It gives title of Earl to the family of Butler. It is situate upon the River Shannon, over which here is a bridge, into the County of Roscommon.

LANGFIELD, LOWER, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.; a Church, old, but in repair: a Glebe House; one Glebe of 90 acres, on which the Glebe House stands, near the church; and a mountain Glebe of 1520 acres, two miles from the other Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. Edmund Knox, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being beneficed in the Diocese of Armagh, he does duty there; the duties here are discharged by a Curate, resident in the Glebe House, at a Salary of £100. per annum, and 30 acres of land. Lower Langfield is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh.

LANGFIELD, UPPER, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, building: a Glebe House; 32 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Richard Babington, the Incumbent (in 1806), who being Curate of Derry, is allowed to reside there until his church is built: The duties are performed by a Curate, resident in the Glebe House, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Upper Langfield is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8½ m. W. b. N. from Omagh.

LARACOR, or, LEICOR, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..0..9 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: one acre of Glebe, close to the church, and 20 acres, at half a mile distance: The Rev. Joseph Sandys, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his parish in the Diocese of Down; the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Laracor is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. from Trim. A glebe house is greatly wanted in this parish.

LARAH, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., with the V. of Drung. Larah is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Cavan. See, Drung.

LARAHBRYAN, v. MAYNOOTH.

LARGAY, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 8 m. E. b. S. from Manor Hamilton. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of May, July, September, and 19th of November.

LARNE, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in tolerable repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Dobbs, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Larne is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 97 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of July, and December. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the Sea-coast, and gives name to an extensive Lough, called Larne Lough.

LATERAGH, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period long prior to any known Record, to the R. and V. of Innisdadrom, being the Corps of the Precentorship of Killaloe, which is valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling; and with which is holden, by a separate title, the Rectory of Monsea: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 a. 1 r. 22 p., in the parish of Kilmore, and nearly six miles distant from the site of the old church of Lateragh: The Rev. Samuel Jocelyn Otway, A. B., the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the occasional duties in person: the duty of Innisdadrom is performed by the nearest Officiating Clergyman. Lateragh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. b. W. from Burros Ileagh. The parishes in the Union of Lateragh are not in any instance contiguous: they are situate in different parts of the Diocese, and are at least 30 miles asunder: And according to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of them, separately, is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.—"We know not at what time this Abbey was founded, but are told that St. Odran of Letreach-odhrain, died of the plague on the 2d of October 548; This Saint presided over 3000 Scholars, all of them remarkable for piety and learning. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 666.

LATTIN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Rectory entire of Bruis, and the Vicarages of Clonpet, Cardangan, and Corroge; being the Corps of the Prebend thereof: no Church, but it is intended to build one: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Gustavus Baker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on a Living in the Diocese of Limerick, according to the terms of the Faculty granted by the Primate: the duties are performed by The Rev. Hugh Dixon. Lattin is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. W. from Tipperary. The parishes in the Union of Lattin are contiguous; that of Lattin containing 1810 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

LAVAN, v. BALLYCLOUGH.

LAYDE, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 4 acres, half a mile from the church: The Rev. William Lindsay, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves a Cure, by permission, in the Diocese of Down; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Layde is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. N. from Glenarm. It is situate upon the Sea-coast.

LEA, or, LEY, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money: a Church, in the parish of Lea, inconveniently situated, and in bad repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 25½ acres, contiguous to the church: The Rev. William Maunsell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, according to a dispensation, obtained in 1791: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Jones, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Lea is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. E. S. E. from Portarlington. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Portarlington.

LEAMCHUILL, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—"St. Fintan-Chorach was Abbot here towards the close of the Sixth century: by some writers he is said to have been interred here, and from others we learn, that Cluainednach, or Clonfert Brendan, was the place of his sepulture."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 595.

LEAP, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 4½ m. N. from Roscrea. A village.

LECK, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being one of the six parishes which constitute the Deanery of Raphoe: a Church. It is 1 m. E. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon the River Swilly. Leck is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish.

LECKEN, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leny. Lecken is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 7½ m. N. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 1351 acres of land. See, Leny.—"St. Crumin, or Crumain, was Bishop here in the time of St. Fechin, who died A. D. 664, in his 180 year. His Festival is holden on the 28th of June. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 722.

LECKNOWE, v. PIERCETOWN LANDY.

LECK PATRICK, or, LEGH PATRICK, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £16. sterling: a Church, not in good order: a Glebe House; 120 acres of Glebe, half a mile from the church: The Rev. Robert Downing, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Leck Patrick is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. b. E. from Strabane.

LEGAN, v. LIGANE.

LEIGHLIN-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 45 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 25th of September, and 6th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. —"About the end of the reign of King Henry the Third a Monastery was founded for Carmelites, or White Friars, by one of the Carews, near to the Black Castle, on the East bank of the River Barrow. It was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. In 1320, the Bridge of Leighlin was built by Maurice Jakis, a Canon of the Cathedral of Kildare; who also built the bridge of Kilcullen. On the suppression of Religious Houses, this Monastery was converted into a Fort, wherein a regular garrison was kept."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 38.

LEIGHLIN, OLD, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Impropriate Cure of Tullowcrine: a Church; the Cathedral of the Diocese: no Glebe House: a very small portion of Glebe (not a rood each), belonging to the Dean and Members of the Chapter, the bounds of which are not clearly ascertained: The Tythes of old Leighlin belong to the Bishop, the Dean, and the Chapter: The Dean and Chapter find a Curate to discharge the duties: the present Curate (in 1806), being The Rev. Mr. Vigers, at a Salary of £75. per annum, and who resides in the parish of Wells, within two miles of the Cathedral. Old Leighlin is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. The Right Rev. and Hon. Percy Jocelyn, D.D., Lord Bishop, in 1810. It is 2¼ m. W. b. N. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate near the River Barrow. It was incorporated in the year 1216, and the extent of its liberties were marked by large stones, inscribed, "Terminus Burgens. Lechlinen. hic lapis est." One of these stones stands near Leighlin-Bridge, another near Wells, and a third in the Mountains. It was formerly a City. The Bishoprick of Leighlin, according to Dr. Beaufort (which is valued in the King's Books at £50. Irish Money), was established in 632: it was united to the Bishoprick of Ferns in the year 1600. It comprehends the entire County of Carlow, a considerable part of the Queen's County, and extends into the Counties of Wicklow, and Kilkenny. This Diocese is of a very irregular form; being in some places but six, and in none above thirteen miles broad, though it is thirty-nine miles long from North to South. The Chapter of Leighlin is composed of a Dean (see, Wells), Precentor (see, Nurney), Chancellor (see, Killinane), Treasurer, Archdeacon (see, Clonmore), and four Prebendaries. The Cathedral, though not large, is very neat, and serves for the parish church.—"St. Gobban founded a celebrated Abbey here.—St. Stephen's Priory, was founded, or more probably endowed, by Burchard, a Norwegian captain; he was the son of Gurmund; he was buried in the choir of the Cathedral, under a marble monument, whereon was his effigies, with a Latin inscription commemorative of the above. This Priory, being situated in a depopulated and wasted country, and the Prior having given refuge and succour to his Majesty's good subjects in this neighbourhood, and intending to pursue that laudable practice, the King, Edward the Second, therefore granted them a concordatum on the 1st of May 1372. We cannot say to what Order this priory did originally belong. It was dissolved in the year 1432, by the authority of Pope Eugene IV., and the lands thereunto belonging were annexed to the Deanery of Leighlin, at the request of Nicholas Cloal the Dean."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 36.

LEIGHMAKEWOGED, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Cashel. Leighmakewoged is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. from Thurles. This parish contains 400 acres. See, Burrosleigh.

LEIGHMONEY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Joseph Wright, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Aghadown (of which he is Vicar), in the Diocese of Ross; the duties are performed by a Curate, resident in the adjoining parish. Leighmoney is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. E. b. S. from Bandon-bridge. It is situate upon the River Bandon.

LEITRIM, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilworth. Leitrim is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. E. from Kilworth. See, Kilworth.

LEITRIM, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lickmolassy. Leitrim is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. W. N. W. from Portumna. See, Lickmolassy. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, "Leitrim is a parish sufficient as to local extent and population to stand by itself; but under its present circumstances, and under its long-inherited dispositions towards the church in respect to Parochial dues, it cannot be separated from Lickmolassy, to which it has been long united, and leave a competent provision for the Incumbent of Lickmolassy and Ballinakill, who ought to reside in or near the Town of Portumna; and where indeed the Earl of Clanricarde, the chief Landlord, has expressed to the present Diocesan a zealous desire to promote the building of a Glebe House, and promised an accommodation, as far as twelve acres, towards the accomplishment of it."——

LEITRIM, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Carrick on the Shannon. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of January, 7th of May, 18th of June, 23d of July, 3d of September, and 3d of December. It gives title of Viscount to the Family of Clements. It is situate on the River Shannon.—"St. Mac Liegus, son of Cernac, was Bishop of Lietdrumai, or Liath-dromen, and his Festival is observed on the 8th of February." Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 410.

LEIXLIP, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, at a time not known, to the Curacies of Confoy, and Stacumnie, and the Vicarages of Alderg, St. Catherine's, Esker, Lucan, and Westmorestown: a Church, at Leixlip, in good repair: a Glebe House, in the parish of Esker, and 28 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. Edward Berwick, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. George Crane, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Leixlip is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, and 9th of October. The Castle, the property of The Right Honourable Thomas Conolly, is beautifully situate on the banks of the River Liffey: It is a magnificent edifice, with large and pleasant gardens, on one side of which is a fine Waterfall, called The Salmon Leap. The parishes in the Union of Leixlip are all contiguous; their extent, from North to South, being 3 miles, and, from East to West, 4½ miles. Near this is a celebrated Spa.—"In the year 1463, it was enacted by Parliament, that the Church of St. Columb, in this county, should be annexed to the Monastery of the Blessed Virgin, near Leixlip. No other mention has been found of this Religious House."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 333.

LEMANAGHAN, or, KILNEGARENAGH, in the Barony of Garrycastle, King's County, and Province of Leinster; a V., holden by Faculty with the Vicarage of Killygally: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 72 acres: The Rev. Henry Mahon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice of Killygally: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate (and occasionally by the Vicar), at a Salary of £75. per annum. Lemanaghan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. W. from Clara. It is situate near the River Brosna. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a monastery here, the ruins of which may yet, though distantly, be seen, being surrounded by a bog at present impassable.

LENY, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, Episcopally united to the Curacies of Kilbixy, Kil Mac Nevin, Lecken, Templeoran, and Tyfernan; being all Impropriate in Sir John Piers: a Church, now re-building, at Leny: the Glebes are in the possession of the Impropriator: The Rev. Thomas Mears, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to do the duties: According to the Ecclesiatical Report, the only means of remedying the evil of non-residence here, would be to procure a Glebe. Leny is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¾ m. N. N. W. from Mullingar. The parishes in the Union of Leny are contiguous; that of Leny containing 1409 acres of land.

LEOGHMACKIVOGE, v. LEIGHMAKEWOGED.

LEPERS' TOWN, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killea. It is 4½ m. S. from Passage, East. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. This place was formerly bequeathed to the Leperous Poor of Waterford, and by the Down Survey, contained 419 acres of land: it now constitutes part of the endowment of the Infirmary.

LERHA, v. ABBEY-LARAGH.

LESKINFERE, alias CLOUGH, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., united, from time immemorial, to the Rectories of Ballycannow, Kiltrisk, and Monymolin; constituting the Corps of the Treasurership in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £32..14..8 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, lately erected by Dean Bond, in the parish of Leskinfere, on a Glebe of 16 a. 2 r. 18 p., contiguous to the church: The Rev. Wensley Bond, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Leskinfere is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. from Gorey. The parishes in the Union of Leskinfere are contiguous; their estimated extent being 7900 acres. The Treasurership formerly consisted of Ballycannow, Monymolin, Kiltrisk, and Carne; which last parish being about 20 miles distant from the others, it was disunited by Act of Council, on the 19th of January 1739, and Leskinfere, by reason of contiguity, was added.

LETTERKENNY, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Conwall. It is 113 m. N. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Swilly, over which there is a bridge here. The Fairs are holden on the first Friday in January, 12th May, 10th July, third Friday in August, and 8th November. See, Conwall.

LETTERMACWARD, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church: It is one of the six parishes, which constitute the Deanery of Raphoe. Lettermacward is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but a single parish. It is 32 m. W. from Strabane. It is situate upon the River Guibarra.

LETTIKEEN, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Newport Pratt.

LEVALLYHEGLISHE, v. EGLISH.

LHANNAVACH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"Lhannavach, or, The Church of the Dwarf, in the Diocese of Connor, was founded by St. Patrick, for Daniel his Disciple, who was very low in stature. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9.

LIANAMANACH, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the banks of the River Moy, near to Kilmore. Here was an Abbey erected to St. Patrick.

LICKBLA, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Pollard. Lickbla is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Castle Pollard. This parish contains 3462 acres of land. See, Castle Pollard.

LICKERIGG, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilconickny. Lickerigg is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 3 m. N. W. from Loughrea. This parish contains 1368 acres of land. See, Kilconickny.

LICKFINN, or, GODDARSTOWN, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. Lickfinn is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. E. from Killenaule. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, Lickfinn is part of the Archdeaconry. See, Killenaule.

LICKMOLASSY, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the R. and V. of Ballinakill, and the V. of Leitrim: two Churches, in good repair: one at Woodford, in the parish of Ballinakill, the other at Portumna, in the parish of Lickmolassy: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3½ acres, in the parish of Lickmolassy, and of 4 acres, in the parish of Leitrim; they are about 8 miles distant from each other, and 4 miles from either of the churches: The Rev. Armst. Kelly, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident on the borders of the Union, and discharges the duties, assisted by two licensed Curates, at a Salary of £70. per annum to each. Lickmolassy is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Portumna, on the West. The Union of Lickmolassy is exceedingly extensive. See, Leitrim.

LIETHMORE, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—According to Mr. Archdall, St. Pulcherius founded this Monastery, and in which he was buried. His Festival is observed on the 13th of March.

LIFFORD, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 1 m. W. from Strabane, and 101 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It gives title of Viscount to the Family of Hewitt. It is situate on the River Foyle. Lifford is the Capital of the county of Donegal.

LIGANE, or, LEGAN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Particle, constituting part of the Union of Glanmore. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Glanmore. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Monastery here, of which John de Compton was Prior in the year 1301.

LIMBRICK, in the Barony of Gorey, Co of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Kilkevan. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Arklow. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, Whit-Monday, 21st of August, and 12th of November. See, Kilkevan.

LIMERICK, within the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a City, in which are the following parishes, viz.,

ST. JOHN'S, a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, but no Glebe Land: The Rev. Henry Johnstone, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

St. Laurence, an entire Rectory, partly within the City, and partly in the County of the City of Limerick: valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Thomas Shepherd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Limerick, and performs the duties in person. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of support to a Resident Incumbent.

St. Mary's, an entire Rectory, partly within the City, and partly in the County of the City of Limerick: united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the Rectory of Ballyhoward, the Rectory of Bruree, the Rectory and Vicarage of Cappagh, the entire Rectory of Cahirnarry, the Rectory of Mungret, the Rectory and Vicarage of St. Nicholas, and the entire Rectory of Rathsyward; being the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 Irish Money: a Church, in St. Mary's, being the parish church for that and St. Nicholas's; and also the Cathedral Church of the Diocese; it is in good repair: there is also a Church, in Cahirnarry, in indifferent repair: the Deanery House, in Limerick: eight Glebes; four of them being in the parish of St. Nicholas, viz., one, of 23 a. 1 r. 30 p., about half a mile from the site of the old church; another, of 4 a. 0 r. 5 p., the third, of 3 acres, and the fourth, of 1 a. 0 r. 38 p., these three last being about two furlongs from the site of the old church; the fifth Glebe, of 4 a. 1 r. 8p., in Cahirnarry, half a mile from the church; the sixth, of 6 acres, in Cappagh; the seventh, of 7 a. 0 r. 8 p., in Bruree, near the old church; and the eighth, of 9 a. 0 r. 11 p., in five divisions, in Mungret, all near the old church: The Hon. and Rev. Maurice Crosbie, D. D., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls in the parishes of St. Mary, St. Nicholas, Cahirnarry, and Cappagh: has been resident in the Deanery House, till rendered by infirmity unequal to the discharge of any duty, and is now, therefore, permitted to reside at his daughter's, in the County of Wexford: he has a Licensed and Resident Curate in the contiguous and United parishes of St. Mary and St. Nicholas, at a Salary of £75. per annum: and another Licensed and Resident Curate in Cahirnarry, at a Salary of £75. per annum: the duties of Cappagh are performed by the Curate of the neighbouring parish of Rathkeale, at a Salary of £2..5..6 per annum. These parishes are dispersed through the Diocese. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parishes of St. Mary, St. Nicholas, Cahirnarry, and Cappagh, are, separately, too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent; and of the parishes of Bruree, and Mungret, the Dean has not cure of souls. See, Kilmallock.

St. Michael's, an entire Rectory, partly within the City, and partly in the County of the City of Limerick: the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling; and united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the entire Rectories of Ardagh, Cloncrema, and Killdeemo, with its Perpetual Curacy; being the Corps of the Archdeaconry, which is valued in the King's Books at £16. Irish Money; a Church, in Killdeemo, in good repair: St. Michael's Church has been ordered to be rebuilt, and a Cess has been laid on for that purpose: an Archdeaconry House, in Limerick; and a Glebe House, on the Curate's Glebe, at Killdeemo: five Glebes; one, of 0 a. 1 r. 7 p., in St. Michael's, close to the site of the old church: another, of 1½ acre, belonging to the Archdeacon, in Killdeemo, close to the church: the third, of 6½ acres, belonging to the Curate, in Killdeemo, and adjacent to the Archdeacon's: the fourth, of 1 acre, in Ardagh, close to the site of the old church; and the fifth, a mile from it, containing 14 a. 2 r. 36 p.: Averell Hill, D. D., the Archdeacon (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and performs the duties of St. Michael's parish in person, assisted by a Curate: He is also attendant on the Cathedral: The Curate of Killdeemo is resident, and has no Salary, having been endowed by the Archdeacon (who also frequently attends in person) with Glebe and Tythes: the duties of the parish of Ardagh are performed by the Incumbent of the contiguous parish of Rathronan, at a Salary of £20. per annum. These United parishes are not contiguous. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of the parishes in this Union, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

St. Munchin's, an entire Rectory, partly within the City, and partly in the County of the City of Limerick; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the Rectories of Drehidtarsny, and Killconygayn, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Killonehon, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in the parish of St. Munchin, in good repair: a Glebe House, in St. Munchin's, with a garden near it; a Glebe, of 5 a. 1 r. 24 p., in three divisions, in Killonehon, close to the site of the old church: The Rev. John Duddell, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident, and performs the duties of the parish of St. Munchin in person: the duties of Killonehon are attended by the Curate of the neighbouring parish of Killpeacon, at a Salary of £3. per annum. The parishes in this Union are not contiguous.

St. Nicholas's, a Rectory and Vicarage, partly within the City, and partly in the County of the City of Limerick. See, St. Mary's.

Limerick is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. The Right Rev. Charles Warburton, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1810. It is 94 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Markets are on Wednesday, and Saturday. The Fairs are holden on Easter Tuesday, 4th of July, 4th of August, and 12th of December. There is a Privilege annexed to the Fair, which is holden on the 4th of August, that, during fifteen days, no person can be arrested in the City or Liberties, on any Process issuing out of the Tholsel Court of Limerick. This City sends one Member to Parliament. The Magistrates are a Mayor, two Sheriffs, a Recorder, Town Clerk, Aldermen, and Burgesses; it hath also a Military Governor, Constable, and Town Major. It is composed of the Irish and English town; the latter standing on the King's Island, which is formed by the River Shannon, and which admits Ships of 500 tons burden to its Quays. It is the Chief town in the county; and gives title of Viscount to the family of Hamilton. The population is estimated at upwards of Forty thousand. The Bishoprick of Limerick (valued in the King's Books at £40. sterling) was united, according to Dr. Beaufort, in 1663, to those of Ardfert and Aghadoe, which had long been so incorporated, as to form but one Diocese. Ardfert, or, Ardart, was established in the Fifth century, and Limerick before the Thirteenth. The latter extends in length, from East to West, 27 miles in the County of Limerick, and 17 miles in breadth; taking in a small part of Clare. The Bishoprick of Ardfert, which includes the whole county of Kerry, and a portion of Cork, is 52 miles long from North to South, and 48 miles broad. There are 71 miles from one extremity of the Union to the other. The Chapter of Limerick consists of a Dean, Precentor (see, Nantinan), Chancellor (see, Rathkeale), Treasurer (see, St. Patrick's), and Archdeacon, and 11 Prebendaries. The Cathedral of Limerick is an ancient and venerable pile. The Bishop's Palace is a comfortable modern house, pleasantly situate on the Shannon, at the West end of the City; about 30 miles from the bounds of the Diocese of Limerick, and 80 miles from some parts of Ardfert.—"About the time of the arrival of the English (in 1174), an House was founded here for Black Nuns of the Order of St. Augustin, by Donald O'Brien, King of Limerick, who dedicated it to St. Peter.—In the reign of King John, a Friary was founded under the Invocation of St. Mary and St. Edward the King, by Simon Minor, a citizen of Limerick, for Regular Canons of the Order of St. Augustin.

This Priory, situated near Ball's-Bridge, was granted at the Suppression to Edmund Sexton.—A Dominican Friary was founded here under the Invocation of St. Saviour, by Donogh Carbreach O'Brien, king of Thomond. He was interred here in the year 1241, in a tomb with his statue placed over it. We are told by another writer, that he was interred at Killaloe. Part of the Friary is now converted into a tan-yard, and a large barrack has been erected on the other part: some small remains of the church, walls, &c., may yet be seen.—A Gray Friary was founded in the reign of King Henry III, by O'Brien, a lineal descendant of the kings of Limerick and Thomond. This Friary stood without the town wall, and where the County court-house is now erected. The old church has been since converted into the County hospital. Wadding says, that another Franciscan Monastery was founded here in the year 1293, in the King's Island near Limerick.—The Augustinian Friary, generally called The House of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and of The Holy Cross, was founded in the 13th century by O'Brien. It is supposed that this Friary was situated near Quay-lane; but even a trace of it is not now to be found. —The Knights Templars had an House near to the Augustinian Friary, of which the smallest remains are now not discoverable."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 426. et seq.

LINALLY, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. —" An ancient Abbey of this name is placed by Conry, expressly in this county." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9.

LINN, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Darerca, sister to St. Patrick, was Abbess of a Nunnery in Linn, a spacious plain, near Carrickfergus. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 9.

LINNLEIRE, v. LYNNE.

LINTOWN FACTORY, within the County of the City of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster. It is situate close upon the High-road, on a lofty situation, over the Town of Kilkenny, and about three quarters of a mile from the Market-place. This Establishment was founded and endowed by Bishop Pococke, the Antiquary and Traveller, who left an estate, which now (in 1808) produces about £700. per annum, for its support.

LION, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught.

LISANE, v. LISSAN.

LISBELLA, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Lisnaskea. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of May, 20th of June, 10th of November, and 23d of December. It is a Chapelry, in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

LISBUNNY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmore. Lisbunny is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. S. E. from Nenagh. See, Kilmore.

LISBURN, formerly LISNAGARVY, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a good Church: the Cathedrals of Down and Connor being in ruins, this Church was made a Cathedral for both Dioceses by Patent, 17th October 1662: a Glebe House, in Lisburn, near the church, but no Glebe: S. Cupples, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Lisburn is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 73 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of July, and 5th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. This Town sends one Member to Parliament: one half of the Patronage of this Borough is in the Marquis of Hertford. It gives title of Earl to the Family of Vaughan. It is situate on the River Lagan. It possesses particular Privileges for its fidelity, in 1641. It is large and handsome, and is equally noted for the neatness of its buildings, and the urbanity of its inhabitants.

LISCARROL, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling, and holden with the V. of Kilbrin. Liscarrol is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. S. W. from Charleville. The Fairs are holden on the 1st and 31st of May, 31st of August, and 29th of November. The Castle is in ruins. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Kilbrin, and Cooliney.

LISCARTEN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £9..6..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardbraccan. Liscarten is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Navan. This parish contains 706 acres of land. See, Ardbraccan. The Castle here was the birth place of the first Lord Cadogan, to which family it belongs.

LISCLEARY, or, LISLEY CLERRIGGE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Waller, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls: the occasional duties are performed by a Curate, who is resident in an adjoining parish, at a Salary of £10. Liscleary is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. S. E. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Awinboy. This parish consists of two separate parts, between which other parishes intervene: and, according to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parts, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

LISCOLEMAN, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghold. Liscoleman is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. E. from Tullow. See, Aghold.

LISCORMUCK, or, AGLISHCORMUCK, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 sterling; being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Emly: the duties of Liscormuck, and Listeely, are performed by The Rev. G. Wall, Rector of the adjoining parish (in 1806), at a Salary of £5. per annum. Liscormuck is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. b. N. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 1275 acres of land. See, Isert Laurence.

LISELTIN, or, LISLAGHTIN, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Liseltin is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. W. from Tarbert. See, Aghavallin.—"A Monastery was founded here, in the year 1464, by O'Connor, Prince of Kerry, for Franciscan Friars of the strict observance. The Steeple, Choir, and many other parts of the building may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 304.

LISGENAN, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate: and Vicarage, constituting part of the Union of Templemihil: the Church is in ruins. Lisgenan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. S. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon the River Licky, and near to St. George's Channel. See, Templemihil, and Kinsalebeg.

LISGOOL, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—"In the early ages of Christianity, a Monastery was founded here, where we find the Festival of St. Aid, or Hugh, of Lisgovel, was observed on the 25th of January. An Abbey, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, was afterwards founded here, and probably on the site of the ancient Monastery, for Regular Canons, following the rule of St. Augustin, by Mac Noellus Mackenlef, King of Ulster, in the year 1106.—This abbey having gone to ruin for want of necessary repairs, and Divine Service being totally neglected therein, the Abbot Cahill Mac Brian, Mac Cuchonnaght Maguire, entered into articles with Cuchonnaght Fitz-Cuchonnaght Maguire, lord of the Country of Fermanagh, to restore it to its pristine state. Maguire being grieved at seeing the church, which he and the principal people of the country had chosen for the place of their sepulture, so nearly demolished, requested the before mentioned Lord Abbot to surrender his title, and suffer him to provide another Order for the House, who should keep it in proper repair, and engage that there should be constantly Divine Service therein. The Abbot, together with the Bishop and Chapter, entered into an agreement which received the Confirmation of the Pope, who ordered the Franciscan Friars to take possession of the abbey: and the Lord Maguire made a recompence to the Abbot Cahill, of ten dry Cows yearly, to him and his lineal heirs for ever. In this deed, a fine was ordered of — cows to the O'Hosies and Mac Crifferties, the Poets, who were to reprove, infame and reprehend, in their satirick writings, every disturber of the Friars, otherwise the ordinary fine of 20 cows was to be levied out of their own proper goods and lands.—Maguire afterwards began to rebuild the Abbey in a most agreeable and eligible situation: but before the completion of the building, the destroying powers of King Henry VIII overwhelmed it, in the year 1530.—It was granted to Sir John Davis, Knight."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 263.

LISGOOLD, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., united from time immemorial, and constituting with the Rectory and Vicarage of Ballintemple, the Rectory of Ballycaraney, the Rectory and Vicarage of Imphrick, and two thirds of the Rectory of Kilcredan, the Corps of the Precentorship of Cloyne, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: and with which is holden, by Faculty, the Union of Clonmell: a Church, in repair, lately built at Lisgoold: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 7 acres, at Cloyne; another, of 2 acres, in two separate portions, at Ballintemple, and not far from the old church there: the third, of 3 roods, at Ballycaraney and Imphrick; but none of these glebes are contiguous, or near the church of Lisgoold: Francis Atterbury, D.D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Benefice at Clonmell, about 7 miles from Lisgoold: the duties are chiefly performed by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. Pratt, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Lisgoold is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. S. E. from Rathcormuck. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 25th of June, 1st of November, and 21st of December. The parishes of Lisgoold and Ballycaraney are contiguous, their extent being 6 miles from East to West, and 3 miles from North to South. The other parishes of the Union of Lisgoold are in detached parts of the Diocese: Ballintemple being about 5 miles to the South; Kilcredan about the same distance to the South East; and Imphrick at least 15 miles to the North West from Lisgoold. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, none of these Livings, taken separately, can afford comfort to an Incumbent, except, perhaps, Ballintemple, which might produce £100. per annum, and yet leave enough to support the Precentorship from the four other parishes: It has also a Glebe, and might have a Church. See, Clonmell.

LISKEEVY, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tuam. Liskeevy is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6¾ m. N. W. from Tuam. See, Tuam.

LISKINFERE, v. LESKINFERE.

LISLAGHTIN, v. LISELTIN.

LISLEE, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster:

a V., valued in the Kings Books at £6. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1805, to the R. of Kilsillagh: a Church, in Lislee, in good repair: no Glebe House: an ancient Glebe, of 9 a. 3 r. 22 p., and a new Glebe, granted at a rent by The Right Hon. The Earl of Shannon, adjoining, of 32 a. 0 r. 18 p.: The Rev. Henry Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is preparing to build a Glebe House: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate. Lislee is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Clognakilty. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. The parish of Kilsillagh is a very small piece of ground, entirely surrounded by the parish of Lislee; the estimated extent of which is, including Kilsillagh, 4 miles from North to South, and 1½ mile from East to West. The Rectory of Lislee is Impropriate in The Earl of Shannon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

LISMAKEERY, or, LISMACDIRY, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Askeaton. Lismakeery is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Rathkeale. See, Askeaton.

LISMALIN, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, in 1801, to the Vicarage of Ballingarry, and the Rectories and Vicarages of Modeshill, and Mowney: a Church, in good repair, at Lismalin: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 33 acres, at Modeshill: The Rev. James G. Fitzgerald, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjoining parish, and performs the duties, assisted by a Curate. Lismalin is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Callan. Here are the ruins of a Castle. The parishes in the Union of Lismalin are contiguous; that of Lismalin containing 2660 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Ballingarry should be separated; and the other three parishes should be holden together. See, Ballingarry.

LISMORE, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory has been united time out of mind, and probably at the first establishment of the Cathedral, to the Rectory of Macollop: these Rectorial Tythes belong to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral of Lismore, and are appropriate for keeping the Cathedral in repair: the Vicarage has also been united, time out of mind, to the Vicarage of Macollop: these Vicarial Tythes, valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling, belong to the five Vicars Choral of Lismore: who are alleged to have the cure of souls, and they do not dispute it; but, for the want of the Charter, this, as well as many other things concerning the Establishment of this Cathedral, cannot be ascertained: The Cathedral, at Lismore, is the only Church in the Union, (which from its extent requires at least two churches); And being in indifferent repair, is about to undergo a thorough renovation: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are performed by one of the Vicars Choral, who always resides in Lismore, at a Salary of £50. per annum. The parishes in the Union of Lismore are contiguous, and are very large. Lismore is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. The Dean of Lismore has a Peculiar jurisdiction over the three parishes of Lismore, Tallow, and Macollop. It is 101 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, and September, and 12th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a Free School. The Castle was built by King John, on the ruins of the Abbey of St. Carthagh: It belonged to the Duke of Devonshire, and gave birth to the great philosopher, Robert Boyle: It is boldly seated on the verge of a rocky hill, which rises almost perpendicularly, to a considerable height, over the River Blackwater. It was for many years an Episcopal residence, until Myler Magrath, Archbishop of Cashel, and Bishop of this See, granted the Manor of Lismore to that celebrated scholar and soldier, Sir Walter Raleigh, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, at the yearly rent of £13..6..8: But this estate being lopped off with his head, in the reign of King James the First, it afterwards came into the hands of Sir Richard Boyle, who purchased all Sir Walter's lands. Here is a fine bridge over the River Blackwater, which was erected at a very great expense by the Duke of Devonshire; and which is remarkable for the extent of its principal arch, the span of it being 90 feet. Below the town is a rich fishery for salmon, which is the greatest branch of trade here. The public road to Cork was formerly through this town. The Bishoprick of Lismore, according to Dr. Beaufort, was founded in the beginning of the Seventh century. It was united to the See of Waterford, in the year 1536. The Chapter of Lismore consists of a Dean (see, Tubrid), Precentor (see, Ardmore), Chancellor (see, Derrygrath), Treasurer (see, Newcastle), and Archdeacon (see, Ballybacon), and ten Prebendaries. The Cathedral is spacious, and handsome. There are some parts of the Diocese of Lismore 35 miles distant from the city of Waterford. See, Waterford.—" Some writers affirm, that there was neither Church nor City here before the time of St. Mochuda; yet we find, that John was Bishop of Lismore in the time of St. Senan, who lived about the year 540.—An Hospital for Lepers was founded here under the Invocation of St. Brigid, to which several lands did belong, as appears from a Registry compiled some time after 1467, when the Master of the Hospital, styled Prior of Lismore, was in his 120th year: At the time of the general suppression, these lands were unknown.—A Cell for an Anachorite, belonged to the church of Lismore, which was endowed with the lands of Ballyhaufy or Anchoret's town, a burgage in Lismore, six stangs of land, a field called Gortrimenyearty, and two small gardens, the whole of the annual value of £10."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 691. et seq.

LISMULLEN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Skryne. Lismullen is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Navan. This parish, with the parish of Templecarnan, contains 650 acres of land. See, Skryne. Here is a Seat of Lord Dillon. According to Mr. Archdall, Alicia, sister to Richard de la Corner, Bishop of Meath, founded a Religious House in this village in the year 1240, under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity, for Nuns following the Rule of St. Augustine.

LISNADILL, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in good order: an elegant Glebe House, on a Glebe of 63 English acres, lying together, and near the church: The Rev. J. Paul, the Incumbent, in 1806. Lisnadill is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. from Armagh. The elegant church, and glebe house here, were erected by Primate Robeby.

LISNAKILL, or, LISTINE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, constituting, with part of the Rectory of Kilmeaden, the Corps of the Treasurership of Waterford, which were probably united at the same time when the Deanery was established, and which is valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: no Church: a Glebe House, in Trinity parish, in theCity of Waterford, belonging to the Treasurer: a Glebe, of 5 a. 1 r. 32 p., at Lisnakill, very near the site of the old church: The Rev. William Bushe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Diocese of Dublin, where he has another Benefice, with cure of souls: his Reading and Preaching turns in the Cathedral are performed by a Substitute, at a Salary of £30. per annum; and the occasional duties of Lisnakill are performed by the Curate of the next parish, at a Salary of £6. per annum. Lisnakill is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. W. b. S. from Waterford. This parish contains about 900 acres of land.

LISNARICK, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. S. from Kesh. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, 5th of April, 9th of May, 22d of June, and 15th of October.

LISNASKEA, or, LISNESKEA, in the Barony of Magherastephana, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 70 m. N. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Monday before Easter Sunday, Monday after Ascension, and 10th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

LISNAVILLA, v. TEMPLENOE.

LISNINNY, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¼ m. S. W. from Killbeggan. A village.

LISPOLE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kinnard. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Dingle.

LISRONAGH, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 15 r. 3 r. 30 p., very near the site of the old church: The Incumbent lately dead (in 1806), and no Successor yet appointed: there is cure of souls: and the duties are now performed by the Curate of a neighbouring parish. Lisronagh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. from Clonmell. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Lisronagh may very well stand alone; and a Glebe House ought to be built upon the Glebe.

LISSADILL, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 8 m. N. W. from Sligo. It is situate upon the Sea-coast.

LISSAN, or, LISANE, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in very good order: a Glebe House, building: and a Glebe of 57 Irish acres contiguous, and near to the church: The Rev. John Staples, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Lissan is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Cookstown. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 12th of May, August, and 26th of November.

LISSONUFFY, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bumlin. Lissonuffy is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. N. W. from Lanesborough. See, Bumlin.

LISTEELY, or, KILTEEL, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Emly. Listeely is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 1355 acres of land. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, and June, and 25th of October. See, Isert Laurence, and Liscormuck.—"The Knights Templars had a church here, which was erected on an eminence. We know no other particulars relating to it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 425.

LISTERLING, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money: a Church, building: an old Glebe House; a Glebe, of 9 acres, contiguous, and close to the church: The Rev. James Adam Ker, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the adjoining parish of Inistioge of which he serves the Cure, as there are no duties to be performed here. Listerling is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. S. W. from Inistioge.

LISTOWELL, or, LISTOWHILL, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Listowell is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 131 m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 13th of May, 25th of July, and 28th of October. It is situate on the River Feale. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Aghavallin.

LITTER, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling each; the R. is a Perfect Sine Cure: no Church: no House, or Glebe: The Rev. Arthur Hyde, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has no cure of souls; the Vicarage is endowed, and constitutes part of the Union of Fermoy. Litter is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. W. b. N. from Fermoy. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Fermoy.

LITTERLUNA, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Half Rectory and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kinnitty. Litterluna is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. See, Kinnitty.

LITTERMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

LITTLE IRELAND, v. BEGERY.

LITTLE ISLAND, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirlag. Little Island is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. E. from Cork, and is situate in that Harbour. See, Cahirlag.

LITTLE ISLAND, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Ballynakill. It is situate in the River Suir; and is about a mile in length, and as much in breadth. Here is an old Castle.

LLYGUFF, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lorum. Llyguff is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Lorum.

LOCKEEN, or, LOGHCAYNE, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and with which are holden, by separate titles, the Rectory and Vicarage of Kiltenanlea, and the Vicarage of Killokennedy: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Kiltenanlea: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Charles Massey, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Kiltenanlea, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Richard Welsh, A. B. Lockeen is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. W. b. S. from Birr. The parishes of Kiltenanlea, and Killokennedy, are contiguous, and are distant from Lockeen about 32 miles; their estimated extent from North to South being 2½ miles, and from East to West 4 miles. The Vicarage of Lockeen is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Birr. See, Birr.

LOGHILL, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick. Loghill is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 11¼ m. N. W. from Rathkeale. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Nantinan.

LONDONDERRY, or, DERRY, within the County of the City of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: The Hon. and Right Rev. William Knox, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1806: a Chapel of Ease, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. H. Mardock, the Resident Incumbent, in 1806. Londonderry is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 115 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of June, 4th of September, and 17th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. This City sends one Member to Parliament. The Magistrates are a Mayor, Aldermen, Recorder, Chamberlain, two Sheriffs, and a Town Clerk. It hath also a Military Governor, and Town Major. It was built by the citizens of London, in the reign of James the First; and takes its name from having become the property of the Twelve Trades or Corporations of London. The family of Pitt take title of Earl from this City; and the family of Stewart that of Baron. It is a handsome town, situate upon the River Foyle, and contains about 10,000 inhabitants, whose principal commerce is with America, and the West Indies. It is still surrounded with walls, and is the Metropolis of the County. The Military Governor of Londonderry is Commander of Culmore Fort. The celebrated dramatic writer, George Farquhar, was born here in the year 1678. The Bishoprick of Derry (valued in the King's Books at £250. sterling) was constituted, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the year 1158: Its greatest length is 47 miles, and its greatest breadth 43, extending into the Counties of Antrim, Donegal, Londonderry, and Tyrone. The Chapter consists of a Dean (see, Templemore), an Archdeacon (see, Dunboe), and three Prebendaries. There are in the city of Londonderry the Cathedral, and a large Palace erected at the expense of Bishop Barnard. It is only 32 miles distant from the remotest part of the Diocese.—"St. Columb, of noble extraction, was born at Gartan, in the county of Donegal, in the year 521, and was educated under St. Finian in the great school of Clonard. The Noblesse of Kinell-conuill (the county of Donegal) granted Dorecalgach to their relation St. Columb in the year 535; but as the Saint could not at that time be sixteen years old, the foundation of the Abbey cannot be placed before the year 546, when he may be supposed to have founded it for Canons Regular under the Rule of St. Augustin: This Abbey was a daughter of that of St. Peter and St. Paul at Armagh, and was in after times dedicated to St. Columb himself: He is said by some to have made a pilgrimage to the Abbey of Glastonbury, in Somersetshire, and there to have concluded his earthly pilgrimage, A. D. 597, in the 76th year of his age: he was buried in the Abbey of Hy, but was afterwards removed to Downpatrick.—The Registry of the Honour of Richmond says, that an Abbey for Nuns of the Cistertian Order was founded at Derry, A. D. 1218, by Turlogh Leinigh O'Neil of Strabane.—A Dominican Friary was founded here in the year 1274 by O'Donell, the younger, Prince of Tyrconnell, at the request of St. Dominick: the number of Friars in this House was generally 150. There are no remains of this building, which was situate on the North side of the city.—Dr. Bourke alone mentions, that the Friars of the Order of St. Francis had a Monastery here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 84. et seq.

LONG, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Any. Long is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. S. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 2198 acres of land. See, Any.

LONGFIELD, v. LANGFIELD.

LONGFORD, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Temple Michael. It is 59 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of June, 19th and 20th of August, and 22d of October. It gives title of Baron to the family of Packenham. Here is a Charter School for 60 boys. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Camlin. See, Temple Michael.—"In a very early age an Abbey was founded here, of which St. Idus, one of St. Patrick's disciples, was Abbot: his Feast is celebrated on the 14th of July.—A. D. 1400, a very fine Monastery was founded here to the honour of the Virgin Mary, for Friars of the Order of St. Dominick, by O'Ferrall, Prince of Annaly.—On the 29th of January, 1615, King James I granted this Monastery to Francis Viscount Valentia. The Church of this Friary is now the Parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 443.

LONG ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is situate in Roaring Water Bay, and contains 316 acres of land.

LONGWOOD, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. E. N. E. from Clonard. It is situate on the River Blackwater. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, Whit-Tuesday, 12th of July, and 11th of December.

LORRHA in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghlishcloghane. Lorrha is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 8½ m. W. from Birr. It is situate near the River Shannon. See, Aghlishcloghane.—"An Abbey of Regular Canons was founded by St. Ruadan here, who presided over 150 Monks, and died A. D. 584, when he became the Patron thereof. The hand of St. Ruadan was preserved, in a silver case, in this Abbey, till the time of the suppression. It is now a parish church.—In the year 1269, Walter de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, founded a Dominican Friary here. The walls of the church adjoining the village, and the greater part of the other buildings, are still entire. In 1688 this Friary was so complete, that a Provincial Chapter of the Order was holden there, and 150 Friars, clothed in their proper habits, attended on the occasion."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 666.

LORUM, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1714, to the R. of Ballyellin, and the Vicarages of Clonagoose, Killtennel, and Llyguff: two Churches, in repair; one, at Lorum, and the other, at Killtennel: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Benjamin Hobart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being the Surrogate, resides at Carlow, where the Bishop's Court is holden: the duties are discharged by two Curates, at a Salary of £75. per annum to each, viz., The Rev. Mr. Downing, for his attendance on Lorum, and The Rev. Mr. Pasley, on Killtennel. Lorum is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Leighlin-Bridge. The parishes in the Union of Lorum are all contiguous; their contents being 8019 acres.

LOUGH BEG, v. LOUGH NEAGH.

LOUGHBRACCAN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with Nobber. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. E. from Nobber. The Rectory of Lougbraccan is valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money.

LOUGHBRICKLAND, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 58 m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the first Tuesday in February, 28th of March, 10th of July, the third Tuesday in September, and the 12th of November. The name, it is said, signifies, The Lake of the Speckled Trout; and it is so called, from a Lake near it, which abounds with that particular species of fish.

LOUGH CONN, v. EREW.

LOUGHCREW, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4..5..4 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 20th of September 1682, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Dymor, Killeagh, and Moylagh; and Episcopally united, on the 12th of March 1798, to the R. of Russagh: two Churches, one in Loughcrew, and one in Killeagh, both in complete repair, the latter having lately been built: no Glebe House: an exchange took place, several years back, between a small piece of ground, of original Glebe, near the church, and 20 acres, half a mile from the church, at a reserved yearly rent of £8.: but it has appeared that the legal forms had not been gone through, and the defect cannot be remedied until the proprietor comes of age: in the mean time, the Incumbent has built offices on this glebe, in which the Curate resides, and the Incumbent occasionally: The Rev. Moore Smith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice, in the Diocese of Armagh: the duties of Loughcrew are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum: no Curate is, at present, appointed for Killeagh. Loughcrew is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. S. E. from Oldcastle. The parishes in the Union of Loughcrew are contiguous; that of Loughcrew containing 2586 acres of land.

LOUGH DEARG, v. DERG, LOUGH.

LOUGHGALL, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 139 a. 2 r. 3 p., English acres contiguous, and close to the church: The Rev. William Bissett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Loughgall is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Rich-hill. The Fairs are holden on Friday before Old Christmas, Ascension day, 1st of July, and 4th of September.

LOUGHGILLY, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 515 English acres, not contiguous; 110 being near the church, and the remainder one mile distant: The Rev. Thomas Vesey Dawson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Loughgilly is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Markethill. It is situate upon the River Cusher.

LOUGH GLINN, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. N. W. from Castlereagh. A village.

LOUGHGULE, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1797, to the V. of Ardmoy, and valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in excellent repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Richard Russell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Loughgule is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. E. S. E. from Ballymoney. This parish contains 11,840 acres of land, and is contiguous to the parish of Ardmoy. It is situate on Lough Gule. Here is Lissanour Castle, the handsome Seat of Lord Macartney. See, Ramoran.

LOUGHIN, ISLAND, in the Barony of Kinelearty, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being the Corps of the Precentorship of Down, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Richard Wolseley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves the Cure of Drumboe; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Loughin Island is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. N. from Clough.

LOUGH KEY, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught.—" The river Boyle runs through this Lough, in which is an Island, called Trinity Island, where an Abbey was founded in the earlier ages; for we find, that the Monastery of the Holy Trinity existed A. D. 700. In the year 1215, Clarus May Moylin O'Moillchonry, Archdeacon of Elphin, re-founded this abbey, under the Invocation of the Holy Trinity, for Præmonstre Canons. This abbey was a daughter of the Abbey of Præmonstre in France."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 614.

LOUGHMOE, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Loughmoe is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Templemore. This parish contains 3618 acres of land. See, Thurles.

LOUGHMORE, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Limerick.

LOUGH NEAGH, this great body of water, washes the shores of the Counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down, Londonderry, and Tyrone. According to Dr. Beaufort, it is fifteen miles long, seven broad, and covers 58,200 acres. The River Bann is the only outlet for seven rivers and innumerable streams, that pour their tributary waters into this great Inland sea; which, though by far the largest, is by no means the most beautiful of the Irish lakes. The shores are mostly formed either by an inanimate strand, or marshy borders liable to frequent floods; and are, of course, deficient in those varied banks and bold promontories, without which such extensive sheets of water cannot have a picturesque effect, unless when the uniformity is broken by frequent Islands of different size and character:—but there are only two in this Lake; a very small one near the mouth of the Blackwater, and Ram Island, within a short distance of the Antrim shore, remarkable only for an ancient Round tower. The views are more pleasing in Lough Beg, a small Lake, into which these waters again expand, after a course of about a mile through a very contracted channel. The form of Lough Beg, its Islands, some wooded points of land, with intervening lawns and rocks, the magnificent Rotunda at Ballyscullen, and the beautiful lightness of Toome-Bridge, produce the most happy effect. It would be unpardonable to omit, that Lough Neagh has been long celebrated for a petrifying quality, which the water, or rather (it is said) the soil, possesses on some parts of the Antrim shore.

LOUGH OUGHTER, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster.—" About the festival of Christmas, in the year 1237, or in 1249, Clarus Mac Moylin O'Moillchonry, Archdeacon of Elphin, brought the White Canons of the Order of Premonstre from Trinity Island in Lough Kee, in the County of Roscommon, to Lough Oughter in the Brenie, Cathall O'Reilly making a grant of the ground. The Abbey was dedicated to the Holy Trinity: and was granted, with all its possessions, by Queen Elizabeth, in 1570, to Hugh O'Reilly of the Brenie, for the term of 21 years, at the rent of £2..5..8 Irish Money."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 42.

LOUGHREA, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £21. sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the Vicarages of Kilnadema, Kilrickill, and Kilteskill: one Church, in Loughrea, in good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes, about 7 miles apart; one, of about 10 acres, being on a Mountain, to which there is no road; the other, of three acres, being near Loughrea: The Rev. Christopher Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the Benefice: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Richardson, his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Loughrea is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 87 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 11th of February, 26th of May, 20th of August, and 5th of December. Here is a Charter School, for fifty Girls. It is situate upon a fine Lake, to which it gives name. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Loughrea are contiguous.—"Richard de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, founded a Monastery here about the year 1300 for Carmelites, or White Friars, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary. This was granted to Richard Earl of Clanricarde.—There was also a Chapel, or House of Lepers here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 293.

LOUGHSENDY, v. BALLYMORE.

LOUGH SHILLEN, off the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is adjacent to the Counties of Meath, West Meath, and Cavan.—"On an Island in this Lough, and near to the county of Meath, the ruins of a large Friary are yet to be seen, which was built here in an earlier age; we know not to whom the erection is owing, nor to what Order the house did belong, but to this day it continues a Burial-place of note."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 558.

LOUGH UVA, in the County of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—"An Abbey was founded here, in the year 500. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 265.

LOUISBURGH, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the Parish of Kilgavower. See, Aughaval.

LOUTH, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a new Church, in good order: a Glebe House, lately built on 40 acres of Glebe, a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. Samuel Little, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Louth is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 39½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 28th of March.—" St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for St. Mocteus or Mochtalugh, a Briton; who died on the 19th of August, A. D. 534, on which day his Feast is commemorated. The Prior sat as a Baron in Parliament. At the suppression of Monasteries, its possessions were granted to Sir Oliver Plunkett."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 469.

LOWEY, in the Barony of Loughtee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, very old; the roof covered with straw; the inside kept in tolerably good repair: the Parish being poor, little fund is to be expected therefrom, and none from the First Fruits, as the Church has not been in such a dilapidated state as to prevent Divine Service being performed therein for twenty years past: no Glebe House: The Rev. Thomas Sneyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Dublin; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Lowey is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Cavan.

LOWTHERSTOWN, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Kesh. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 10th of July, 26th of August, and 11th of December.

LUCAN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4..16..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Lucan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. W. from Dublin. Here is a celebrated medicinal Spring: and the handsome Seat of George Vesey, Esq. It is pleasantly situate on the banks of the River Liffey. This was the ancient patrimony of the Sarsfields. The family of Bingham have a Peerage by the title of Baron Lucan of Castlebar, in the County of Mayo. See, Leixlip.

LUDDENBEG, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirconlish. Luddenbeg is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Limerick. This parish contains 650 acres of land. See, Cahirconlish.

LUDEGAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money. It is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin.

LUEIM, within the County of the City of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Monastery here: but of which very little is known.

LULLIAMORE, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Rectory entire, the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; and is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmaoge. Lulliamore is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. S. E. from Edenderry. See, Kilmaoge.

LURGAN, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 68 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th and 6th of August, and the 22d and 23d of November. It has six Post-days in the week. The Inhabitants are extensively engaged in the Linen Manufacture.

LURGAN, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., with the R. and V. of Munter Connaught, valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; 517 acres of Glebe, divided into four farms; three of which are in the parish, contiguous to the church; the fourth, in another parish, at a distance: The Rev. William Sneyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is not resident in the parish, but in his own house, by permission; it being sufficiently near to discharge the duties, which he does. Lurgan is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. N. W. from Virginia.

LURGANBOY, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 2 m. W. b. N. from Manor Hamilton. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of June, and August, and 22d of October.

LURGAN GREEN, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. It is 37 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of May, 25th of July, and 11th of November. It is situate upon Dundalk Bay. It has six Post-days in the week.

LUSK, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in two Portions in the King's Books, one on the part of the Precentor at £14..5..10, and the other on the part of the Treasurer at £14..12..6, both Irish Money: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 2 acres, near the church, and the other, of nearly 20 acres, half a mile from it: The Rev. William Cox, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Lusk is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 11 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 13th of July, and 25th of November.—"An Abbey was founded here in the first ages of Christianity. The Church of Lusk consists of two long aisles, divided by a range of seven arches; the East end is fitted up for the use of the parish. Adjoining the West end stands an handsome square steeple, three angles of which are supported by round towers, and near to the fourth angle is one of those ancient round towers, so peculiar to this Kingdom: it is in good preservation, and rises several feet above the battlements of the steeple.—The Nunnery, which was originally founded for Nuns of the Order of Arroasia, was afterwards appropriated to the Priory of All Saints, Dublin. The walls of a Church, said to have been this ancient Nunnery, are still to be seen in Lusk."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 251.

LUSMAGH, v. KILMACUNNA.

LYNALLY, in the Barony of Ballicowen, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Lynally is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. N. E. from Balliboy. This parish contains 1735 acres of land. See, Fircall. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Colman was the founder of this Abbey, and died on the 26th of September, A. D. 610.

LYNNE, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..19..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Moleskar. Lynne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. b. W. from Mullingar. It is situate upon Lough Ennel. This parish contains 2574 acres of land. See, Moleskar. According to Mr. Archdall, this is probably the same with Linnleire, where an Abbey was founded in a very early age. It is now a Parish church.

LYONS, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..2..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kill. Lyons is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Rathcoole. This parish contains 547 acres of land. See, Kill.

LYSDUFFE, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Priory, which was a Cell and Dependant to the Abbey of Cong: the possessions whereof were granted to the Provost and Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin.

M.

MACETOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmessan: no Church: no House, or Glebe. Macetown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Dunshaglin. Here is an ancient Castle. See, Kilmessan.

MACHAIRE-RATHA, v. RATHMURBUILG.

MACLONEIGH, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. (the Vicarage endowed), being one of the parishes which constitute the Unions of Ballinadee, and Kilmichael: a Glebe, of 48 a. 1 r. 37 p. Macloneigh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. b. E. from Macromp. It is situate near the River Lee. See, Ballinadee, and Kilmichael.

MACOLLOP, or, MOCOLLOP, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage: the Rectory is united to the Rectory of Lismore, and is appropriate to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, is united to the Vicarage of Lismore, and is appropriate to the five Vicars Choral there: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Macollop is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. W. b. N. from Lismore. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Lismore.

MACOSQUY, or, MOYCOSCAIN, in the Liberties of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a Chapel, to the R. of Camus. It is 2½ m. S. from Coleraine. Macosquy is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh.—" Moycoscain, or, The Abbey of the Virgin Mary of the Clear Spring, was founded for Monks of the Cistertian Order, A. D. 1172. The Abbot John was made Bishop of Derry by the Pope in the year 1401, and he died in 1419."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 92.

MACREDDIN, v. CARYSFORT.

MACROMP, or, MACROOM, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, now building: a Glebe, of 6 acres, near the church: The Rev. Simon Davies, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Macromp is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 141 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, July, September, and November. It is situate upon the River Sullane. It has three Post-days in the week. The Castle is very ancient, having been first built in the reign of King John: it was burned down in the wars of 1641, and was altered into a more modern structure by the late Earls of Clancarty. It is now inhabited, and kept in good order: and in it, Sir William Penn, the famous Admiral, was born.

MACRONY, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilworth. Macrony is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. N. E. from Kilworth. See, Kilworth.

MACROOM, v. MACROMP.

MACULLY, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., with the R. of Kilculliheen. Macully is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. b. W. from Knocktopher. See, Kilculliheen.

MAGAUNAGH, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crossmolina. Magaunagh is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. S. W. from Killala. It is situate upon the River Awinmore. See, Crossmolina.

MAGEE, ISLAND, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the five parishes which constitute the Deanery of Connor: a Church, in tolerable repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe. The Island (or rather Peninsula) of Magee is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 6½ m. N. E. b. E. from Carrickfergus. This parish contains 4081 acres of land. It is bounded by the North Channel on the East, and Larne Lough on the West. See, Carrickfergus.

MAGHAREE, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster.

MAGHCE, or, MAGHELE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—"St. Alban, after having built three Monasteries on this plain, died in the year 650."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 294.

MAGHELE, v. MAGHCE.

MAGH-ENE, in the County of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster.—A small territory to the North of the River Erne, having the Lough to the East, and the Ocean to the West. In this territory are the ruins of several churches.

MAGHERA, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 12 acres: it is of little or no value: The Rev. James Maffet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Maghera is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Castle Wellan. It is situate upon a branch of Dundrum Bay. The Fair is holden on the 26th of April.

MAGHERA, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, old, but in repair: a Glebe House; 320 acres of Glebe, close to the church, and on which the House stands; a second Glebe, a mile; and a third Glebe, four miles distant: The Rev. C. Soden, the Resident Incumbent, in 1806. Maghera is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 96 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, 13th of June, 14th of August, 12th of October, and 15th of November. It has six Post-days in the week.

MAGHERACLONY, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. St. George James Caulfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident: the duties are discharged by a Clergyman of an adjoining parish. Magheraclony is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. S. S. W. from Carrickmacross.

MAGHERACRIGAN, or, MAGHERACREEGAN, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. W. S. W. from Newtown Stewart. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, first Thursday before June, second Thursday in August, third Thursday in October, 24th of November, and the third Thursday in December.

MAGHERACROSS, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House; about 300 acres of Glebe, inconveniently situated, and about three miles distant from the church: The Rev. John Irwin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Magheracross is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. b. E. from Enniskillen. It is situate upon the River Tullyclea.

MAGHERACULMONEY, in the Barony of Lurge, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: The Rev. William Elliot, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Meath; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Magheraculmoney is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. b. E. from Kesh.

MAGHERADROLL, in the Barony of Kinelearty, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 25 acres, near the church: The Rev. James Forde, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Magheradroll is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Ballynahinch, on the South East. Here is an endowed school.

MAGHERAFELT, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 238 a. 3 r. 31 p., Scotch, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. John Orr, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Magherafelt is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 88 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of May, 25th of August, and 29th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate near to Lough Neagh.

MAGHERAGALL, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House: the Income of tythe, and £30. from the First Fruits, making but £75..10..0 per annum: The Rev. Francis Patten, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Magheragall is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. E. from Moira.

MAGHERALIN, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., with the Precentorship of Dromore, valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 65 acres, near the church: The Rev. Thomas Percy, LL. D., the Precentor (in 1806), who having been constantly resident, and distinguished himself during the late rebellion, has now the Bishop's leave of absence: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum, with other emoluments; the whole being rated at £75. per annum. Magheralin is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Moira.—"St. Colman, or Mocholmoc, who died on the 30th of March, A. D. 699, founded the Monastery of Lann, or Linn, or Linn Huachuille, in the East of Ulster. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 123.

MAGHERALLY, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 acres, near the church: the Income is under £100. per annum: The Rev. William Sampson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. It is 2½ m. E. b. N. from Bannbridge. Magherally is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh.

MAGHERAMESK, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and anciently united to the Vicarages of Aghagallon, and Aghalee. Magheramesk is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. N. E. from Moira. This parish contains 3960 acres of land. See, Aghalee.

MAGHERAVEELY, in the Barony of Clonkelly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 3 m. N. from Clones. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of May, and 2d of October. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

MAGHERE NUIDHE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of White Church. It is situate near the River Barrow. According to Mr. Archdall, a noble Town and Abbey were built here by St. Abban, who died A. D. 647 or 650.

MAGHERIBEG, or, THE LITTLE PLAIN, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is near the town of Donegal.—" A Monastery was founded here by O'Donnell, about the middle of the Fifteenth century, for Friars of the third Order of St. Francis."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 103.

MAGHEROSS, in the Barony of Donaghmoyne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 112 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. William Pinching, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Magheross is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Carrickmacross, on the North.

MAGHERSHERKAN, v. RASHACKIN.

MAGILLAGAN, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 9 m. N. from Newtown Limavady. It is situate on the Outlet of Lough Foyle, on the Atlantic Ocean.—" St. Columb, the great founder of churches, erected a Monastery at Ardia, which is also called Airdmegiollagain. This Abbey was called The Shrine of St. Columb, and in process of time became very rich. It was plundered, A. D. 1203, by Diermit Hua Lochluinn, who at the head of a party of foreigners attempted to plunder Kinel-eoguin, but the Lords of that Country pursuing them, Diermit with many of his party fell."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 92.

MAGLASS, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Sine Cure R. (and endowed V.), being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Gorey: the V., valued in the King's Books at £7..9..2 Irish Money, constitutes part of the Union of Killenick. Maglass is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. S. from Wexford. See, Gorey, and Killenick.

MAGOURNEY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Particle, united for ever to the Rectory and Vicarage of Kilcoleman.

Magourney is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. from Macromp. It is situate upon the River Dripsey. See, Aghabollogue, and Lackeen.

MAGOWRY, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenaule. Magowry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. E. from Killenaule. This parish contains 1017 acres of land. See, Killenaule.

MAGUIRE'S-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Lisnaskea. A village.

MAHOUNAGH, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 13 a. 3 r. 21 p., close to the old church, the other, of 8 a. 0 r. 39 p., three miles distant: The Rev. Thomas Locke, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, holding this Benefice by Faculty with the Union of Newcastle, where he resides: and performs the duties of Mahounagh in person, assisted by a Curate. Mahounagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. b. W. from Rathkeale.

MAINE, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Termonfeckan. Maine is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¾ m. N. E. b. N. from Drogheda. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Termonfeckan.

MAINHAM, in the Barony of Ikeath and Oughterany, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..9..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clane. Mainham is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. W. b. S. from Maynooth. This parish contains 1714 acres of land. See, Clane.

MALAHIDE, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Swords. Malahide is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. E. from Swords. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. It is a Manor, and its Royalties reach a considerable way along the Sea shore. Here is a Well, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and inclosed by a stone building. Near it is the Castle, or, as it is usually styled, The Court of Malahide, the seat of the Talbot family. See, Swords.

MALIN, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 12 m. N. W. b. W. from Killybeggs. It is situate upon the Sea-coast, and gives name to a Bay, called Malin Bay. The Fairs are holden on Easter Tuesday, 24th June, 1st August, and 31st October. Here is a very ancient Ecclesiastical building, which is said to have been a Monastery.

MALIN, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. Here is a Mineral Spring. Malin Head is the most Northern Cape of Ireland.

MALLARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Mallardstown is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Kells.

MALLOW, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, with which is holden, by Faculty, the Union of Raghan: a Church, in repair, at Mallow: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. William King, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Chester, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Mallow is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 117 m. S. W. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Blackwater, over which here is an excellent stone Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, the day before Shrove Tuesday, 11th of May, 25th of July, and 28th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. This town sends one Member to Parliament; Patronage, in the family of Jephson. It was incorporated by Charter, in 1688, and is governed by a Provost, and Burgesses. It is much frequented, on account of a soft and tepid spring (discovered, in 1724), of the same nature and efficacy as the Hot-wells of Bristol. The parishes of Mallow, and Raghan, are contiguous; their extent being 7 miles from North to South, by 4 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

MALONE, or, MALLONE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Belfast. A village.

MANFIELDSTOWN, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £17..3..9½ sterling: a Church, old, but in good order: no Glebe House; a Glebe of 3 acres, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. Henry Bunbury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties from a distance of six miles. Manfieldstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. from Castle Bellingham.

MANILLA, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. S. E. from Castlebar. A village.

MAN of WAR, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 12¾ m. N. from Dublin. A village.

MANOR CONYNGHAM, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. E. N. E. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of July, and 6th of November.

MANOR HAMILTON, in the Barony of Dromahaire, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught. It is 94 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of May, 1st of July, 7th of October, and first Thursday, O. S., in November. It has six Post-days in the week.

MAPASTOWN, or, MAPLESTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Charlestown. Mapastown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. N. E. from Ardee. See, Charlestown.

MAPLESTOWN, v. MAPASTOWN.

MARALIN, v. MAGHERALIN.

MARGARET'S, ST., in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 30th of July.

MARGARET'S, ST., in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilscoran. St. Margaret's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. E. from Broadway. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Kilscoran.

MARGARET'S, ST., otherwise RAVEN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. St. Margaret's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. N. E. from Wexford. It is situate on the Irish Sea; the Southern point of the parish, called Raven Point, being a Headland, at the North side of the entrance of Wexford Haven. See, Ardcolme.

MARHYN, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., Episcopally united, ever since the year 1669, to the V. of Dunquin: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Goodman, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Marhyn is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. W. N. W. from Dingle. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

MARKET-HILL, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 58 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 22d of June, and 26th of October. It is noted in the writings of the celebrated Dean Swift, who chose a favourite spot, not far from it, to which he gave the name of Draper's Hill. It has six Post-days in the week.

MARLINSTOWN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunany.

Marlinstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. S. S. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 461 acres of land. See, Dunany.

MARMULLANE, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Finbarry's, in the City of Cork: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6 a. 2 r. 23 p., adjoining the church: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate (in 1806), who receives the tythes, and other emoluments, in lieu of Salary. Marmullane is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Cork. It is situate upon the Western side of Cork Harbour. The Benefice of Marmullane is in the gift of The Rev. The Dean and Chapter of Cork, who are the Appropriators.

MARSHALSTOWN, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of near 3 acres: The Rev. Zachary Cooke Collis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Castle Cooke. Marshalstown is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. W. b. S. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon.

MARTIN'S, ST., in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Canice, near the City of Kilkenny. St. Martin's is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. E. from Kilkenny. See, St. Canice.

MARTRY, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardbraccan. Martry is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Navan. This parish contains 1733 acres of land. See, Ardbraccan.

MARYBOROUGH, in the Barony of Maryborough, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Borres. It is 40 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 24th of February, 12th of May, 5th of July, 4th of September, and 4th of December. It is situate on the River Barrow. Here are the remains of a Castle, of which General The Marquess of Drogheda is Constable. The Magistrates are a Burgo-master, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk: it is the Assizes Town of the County. Maryborough is so called in honour of Mary, Queen of England, who reduced this part of the country to Shire-Ground, by Act of Parliament, 6° and 7° of Philip and Mary. See, Borres.

MARY'S, ST., ISLAND, or, LADY'S ISLAND, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. St. Mary's Island is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Broadway. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of August, and 19th of September. It is bounded on the East by St. George's Channel, and on the West by Lough Ta. See, Killenick.

MASON, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

MASSAREEN, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It gives title of Earl to the family of Skeffington.—"A small Monastery was founded here, in the 15th century, for Franciscan Friars of the third Order, by O'Neil. On the 20th of November, 1621, it was granted to Sir Arthur Chichester, Baron of Belfast, by the name of The Friary of Masseryne."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 10.

MATEHY, partly in the Barony of Barrets, and partly in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Iniscarra. Matehy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Dripsey. See, Iniscarra.

MATHEYN, v. MOYNE.

MATTHEW, ST., RINGSEND, v. RINGSEND.

MAUDLINTOWN, within the Liberties of the Town of Wexford, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Maudlintown is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. b. E. from Wexford. It is a small parish, situate upon Wexford Haven; and from which the Rector hardly derives any Income. See, Wexford.

MAUR, v. CARIGILIKY.

MAYCOMB, v. MOYACOMB.

MAYNE, v. MAINE.

MAYNE, or, MOYNE, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 80 acres: The Rev. Richard Butler, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Mayne is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. S. W. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Dinin.

MAYNE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., lately erected into a Perpetual Curacy, and valued in the King's Books at £6..17..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Pollard. Mayne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. W. from Castle Pollard. This parish contains 2274 acres of land. It is in the Deanery of Fowre. It is situate near to Lough Deryeragh. See, Castle Pollard.

MAYNOOTH, or, LARAHBRYAN, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Vicarage: the Prebend is valued in the King's Books at £23..2..3 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Tisdall, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral: The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £17..6..8 Irish Money: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House; and a Glebe, of 6 acres, near the church: The Rev. Nicholas Ashe, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Maynooth is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 11½ m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 19th of September, and 9th of October. Here is a Charter School for 50 Girls. Near this is Carton House, the superb Mansion of His Grace The Duke of Leinster. THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ST. PATRICK, MAYNOOTH, for the education of persons professing the Roman Catholic religion, was instituted by Act of Parliament, in the year 1795. The Building consists of lodging-rooms, schools, a church, library, hall, and different offices, suitable to the accommodation of 200 Ecclesiastical Students, besides a President, Vice-President, Dean, Bursar, Professors, and Servants: And an extension of one of the wings is far advanced for the reception of 200 additional Students. THE LAY COLLEGE, at Maynooth, was established by Private Subscription, in 1802.—" Gerald Earl of Kildare founded a College adjoining this town, in which he placed a Provost, and Vice-Provost, with five Priests or Fellows, two Clerks, and three Boys, to pray for his soul, and the soul of his wife; And William, Archbishop of Dublin, on the 6th of October, in the year 1518, granted his especial confirmation."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 333.

MAYO, in the Barony of Clonmorris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinrobe. Mayo is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. N. b. E. from Hollymount. This town, though now decayed, appears to have been formerly a large place: and was famous for its University. See, Ballinrobe.—" St. Colman, having resigned the Benedictine Cell of Lindisfarne, in Northumberland, returned into Ireland, A. D. 665, and founded an Abbey of Regular Canons here, under the Invocation of St. Michael. He placed a company of English Monks therein, from whom it was called Magio na Sasson, or, Mayo of the English. Here was also a Nunnery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 505.

MAY-POLE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. N. W. b. N. from Castletown Delvin.

MAZE, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. E. b. N. from Moira. It is situate on the River Lagan. A village.

MEELICK, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. W. N. W. from Limerick.

MEELICK, or, MILICK, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert. Meelick is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¼ m. S. E. from Eyrecourt. It is situate on the River Shannon. The Fair is holden on the 1st of October. See, Clonfert.—" O'Madden, dynast of Silamchia, founded a Monastery here for Conventual Franciscan Friars. The situation was delightful, and the building itself spacious and beautiful. During the winter months, the Friary was surrounded by the inundations of the river. The Monastery of Milick was afterwards granted to Sir John King, who assigned it to the Earl of Clanricarde."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 294.

MEELICK, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killconduff. Meelick is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Swineford. See, Killconduff.

MELLIFONT, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Drogheda. It is situate in a beautiful little valley, watered by a rivulet.—" A. D. 1142, Donough Mac Corvoill or Carrol, Prince of Uriell, erected an Abbey here for Monks of the Cistertian order, with which St. Bernard furnished it from his own Abbey of Clairvaux. The Abbot of this House sat as a Baron in Parliament. Here yet remains, in tolerable preservation, a beautiful little Chapel, built of a yellowish free-stone, intermixed with red; the entrance to the chapel is through a superb Gothic arch, which on the inside is exquisitely finished; the East window is truly elegant, and on each side are three smaller windows, finished in the style of the great arch, which is accurately represented in Wright's Louthiana; the work of this arch, as well as that of the windows, pillars, &c., have still the remains of a profusion of gilding, and painting in variegated colours. Here is also to be seen the ruins of a spacious octagon erection, built of a light-grey free-stone, on the top of which was a large cistern, from whence water was conveyed, by means of pipes, to the different offices in the Abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 479. et seq.

MENLOUGH, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 4¼ m. W. from Castle-Blakeney. A village.

MEVAGH, or, MOYVAGH, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; an inconsiderable Glebe in this parish, at a distance from the church: The Rev. Christopher Russell, the Incumbent (in 1806), who is beneficed in the Province of Connaught, where it is supposed he does duty: the duties here being discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Mevagh is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 14 m. N. b. W. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Mulroy Bay.

MEW, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 7 m. E. N. E. from Bangor. It is one of the Copland Islands.

MICHAEL, ST., in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. N. E. from Cork.

MICHAEL'S, ST., in the Barony of Forth, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenick. St. Michael's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. S. E. from Wexford. It is situate upon Wexford Haven. See, Killenick.

MIDDLETON, in the Barony of Tyranny, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Curacy: a new Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 36 Irish acres, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. John Mee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Middleton is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. S. W. from Tynan. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of February, 4th of May, 8th of August, 11th of September, and the 3d and 28th of November.

MIDDLETON, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Castrachore. It is 122 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 5th of July, 10th of October, and 22d of November. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Broderick. It derives its name from its situation, being mid-way between Cork and Youghall. It is contiguous to the North East angle of Cork Harbour. It has six Post-days in the week.—" An Abbey was founded here, A. D. 1180, by the Fitzgeralds; or, according to others, by the family of Barry; it was supplied with Monks of the Cistertian Order from the Abbey of Nenay, or Magio, in the County of Limerick, and was called The Abbey of St. Mary of Chore, or of the Chore of St. Benedict."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 75.

MILICK, v. MEELICK.

MILLENAGH, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyvalden. It is in the gift of Mrs. Hatton, the Lay Impropriatrix. Millenagh is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Ballyvalden.

MILL ISLES, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. from Donaghadee. There are a group of Rocks to the Eastward of this Village, which are also called Mill Isles.

MILL of LOUTH, in the Barony of Louth, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster. It is 40½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. A village.

MILLSTREET, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Drishane. It is 134 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of March, June, September, and December. It has three Post-days in the week.

MILLTOWN, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1775, to the Vicarage of Castle Buy: a Church, in bad order: no Glebe House: two Glebes, of 20 acres each: The Rev. William Hawkey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Milltown is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. The parishes in the Union of Milltown are contiguous; that of Milltown containing 2640 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Value of the two Benefices of Milltown, and Castle Buy, is only £98. per annum.

MILLTOWN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killcoleman. It is 169 m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th and 27th of April, 23d and 24th of June, 23d and 24th of August, and 15th and 16th of December. It has three Post-days in the week. This, which was a small village, according to Dr. Beaufort, but a few years since, promises to become a good Market town by the exertions of Sir William Godfrey, and the convenience of water carriage; the Tide bringing up Sloops from the Mang very near this town.

MILLTOWN, anciently BALLYWULLIN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster.—"Nellan O'Molloy erected a Monastery here for Carmelite Friars. We know no other particulars respecting it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 432.

MILLTOWN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 10½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin.

MILLTOWN, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. S. from Castle Pollard. The Fairs are holden on the day after Trinity Sunday, and 2d of October. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Fitzwilliam, now Earl Fitzwilliam.

MILLTOWN-PASS, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 6 m. N. W. from Athlone. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 22d of July, 22d of September, and 20th of December.

MILTOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¼ m. S. from Dublin. It gives title of Earl to the family of Leeson.

MILTOWNMALBY, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 128 m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

MINARD, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Minard is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. S. E. from Dingle. It is situate upon Dingle Bay. See, Ballinacourty.

MINISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

MINOLA, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Balla. Minola is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 8¼ m. N. N. W. from Hollymount. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of June, and 3d of November. Here is an endowed Charter School, for 24 Children. See, Balla.

MITCHELSTOWN, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Brigown. It is 102 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of July, and 12th of November. It is situate upon the River Funcheon. Here is a College, founded by the late Earl of Kingston, for the support of 12 decayed gentlemen, and 12 decayed gentlewomen, who have each £40. per annum, and handsome apartments; and a Chaplain, at £100. per annum, with a House. Here is also a magnificent seat of Lord Kingsborough. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Brigown.

MITCHELSTOWN, or, STROKESTOWN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £9..3..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Syddan. Mitchelstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Nobber. This parish contains 395 acres of land. See, Syddan.

MOATE, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Killeleagh. It is 50 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

MOBLUSK, or, MOYLUSK, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the five parishes which constitute the Deanery of Connor: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Moblusk is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. b. W. from Ballyclare. The Grange of Moblusk contains 900 acres of land. See, Carrickfergus.

MOCKTOWN, v. BURNCHURCH.

MODELIGO, anciently MODILRIGE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Rectory being the Corps, which is valued in the King's Books at £3..13..6: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0 a. 2. r. 16 p., in Lismore, very near the Cathedral: The Rev. William Bushe, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and it being a perfect Sine Cure, he resides in the Diocese of Dublin, where he has a Benefice with cure of souls: the Vicarage constitutes a part of the Union of White Church. Modeligo is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. E. b. N. from Lismore. It is situate upon the River Phinisk. The Fair is holden on the 26th of August. In this parish are the remains of some ancient Castles, belonging to the family of the Magraths, who had formerly a large Estate in this part of the Country. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage of Modeligo ought to be perpetually united. See, White Church.

MODESHILL, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lismalin. Modeshill is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Callan. This parish contains 1643 acres of land. See, Lismalin.

MODREENY, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster; a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling, and the Vicarage at £3.; and Episcopally united, on the 17th of June 1801, to the V. of Ardcrony: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Modreeny: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2 acres, in the parish of Modreeny, convenient to the church: The Rev. Edwin Palmer, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Robert Stoney, A. B. Modreeny is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Burresokeane. The parishes in the Union of Modreeny are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 4 miles, and from East to West 5 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Benefice of Ardcrony is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.

MOGEAFAGH, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templenecarigy. Mogeafagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 11½ m. S. b. E. from Rathcormuck. It is situate on the North side of Cork Harbour. See, Templenecarigy.

MOGEALY, or, MACALUE, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirultan. Mogealy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. N. from Castle Martyr. See, Cahirultan. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

MOGEALY, in the Barony of Kilnatalloon, Co. of Cork, and Province of of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmacdonough. Mogealy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. W. from Tallow. It is situate upon the River Bride. See, Kilmacdonough.

MOGORBAN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal. Mogorban is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. E. from Cashel. There is a Church in preparation at Mogorban, but now stopped by the proprietor of the adjoining land, who refuses access to the church-yard, by the established road, which he has stopped. It has no Glebe Land. The duties are performed by The Rev. George Forster (in 1806), at a Salary of £100. per annum. See, Toem.

MOHAN, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. S. S. E. from Markethill. A village.

MOHILL, in the Barony of Mohill, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 400 acres: The Rev. George Beresford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in Cloyne: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Mohill is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 78 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday in January, 25th of February, 8th of May, first Thursday in June, 31st of July, second Thursday in September, 19th of October, and first Thursday in December. It has three Post-days in the week.—"St. Manchan, the patron of seven churches, built an Abbey here for Canons Regular in the year 608, and died A. D. 652; many Glebes, Lands, Vassals, Fees, Tythes, &c., were given to this church, which was dedicated to the Virgin Mary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 410.

MOINTAGLIS, v. MOYNTAGHS.

MOIRA, anciently MOIRATH, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good repair: a new Glebe House, on 17 acres of Glebe, a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. C. W. Moore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident, by permission, on account of bad health: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Moira is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 69 m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It gives title of Earl to the family of Rawdon. It is noted for its Linen manufacture. Here is the beautiful Seat of Earl Moira.

MOLAHIFFE, in the Barony of Magunihy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killbonane. Molahiffe is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. from Milltown. It is situate upon the River Mang. See, Killbonane.

MOLANA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster. It is two miles and an half North from Youghal. It is a small Island, and was anciently called, The Island of St. Molanfide, and also, Darinis.—" St. Molanfide founded an Abbey here in the Sixth century, for Canons Regular, and was the first Abbot. On the Suppression, Queen Elizabeth granted this Abbey and its possessions to Sir Walter Raleigh, who assigned it to the Earl of Cork. The Nave and Choir of this Abbey remain entire, adjoining which are several ruinous Walls, and the erection, built in the Gothic style, appears to be very ancient."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 695.

MOLCONRIAGHE, v. MONEGEA.

MOLESKAR, or, MOLYSCAR, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..10 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, time not known (though it is probable, that the Act must have been destroyed by the fire which consumed the Records in the Council office in 1711, as there are documents that seem to indicate its having passed about that time), to the Rectories of Carrick, and Lynne: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Evans, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is non-resident, on account of Infirmity; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £65. per annum. It is 3¾ m. S. from Mullingar. The parishes in the Union of Moleskar are contiguous; that of Moleskar containing 935 acres. It is situate upon Lough Ennel. Moleskar is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh.

MOLL GRANGE, v. BURNCHURCH.

MONAGHAN, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House; 24 acres of Glebe, half a mile distant from the church: The Rev. Robert Montgomery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Monaghan is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 62 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Tuesday, 28th of May, 12th of July, 18th of August, first Tuesday in October, and 21st of November. It gives title of Baron to the family of Blayney. It has six Post-days in the week. It is governed by a Sovereign.—" Here we find an ancient Abbey, of which St. Moeldodius, the son of Aedh, was Abbot.—Phelim Mac Brien, &c., founded, on the site of this ancient Abbey, a Monastery for Conventual Franciscans, which was granted, at the Suppression, to Edward Withe, and a Castle has been since erected on the site by Edward Lord Blayney."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 585.

MONAINCHA, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 3 m. S. E. from Roscrea. It is situate almost in the centre of the great Bog of Monela.—" The Monastery of Monaincha was originally an Abbey of Culdean Monks, under the Invocation of St. Columba, whose Festival was formerly celebrated there on the 15th of June. The situation chosen by these Religious was very singular. The Island, whereon the Monastery is built, consists of about two acres of dry ground; all the surrounding parts being a soft morass, scarcely accessible by human feet, and yet, on this Isle stands the remains of a beautiful edifice; not large, but constructed in so fine a style, and with such materials, as excites our wonder how they could have been transported thither. The length of the Church is 44 feet, the width about 18; the arches of the Choir and the Western portal are semicircular, and adorned with a variety of curious mouldings; the Windows were contrasted arches, such as appear over the West entrance to the church of St. Edmund's Bury, in Suffolk, but they are decaying, and some are fallen down. The antiquity of this Monastery is indisputable; for it is mentioned by Giraldus Cambrensis, who came into Ireland in 1185, as Preceptor and Secretary to King John, then Earl of Morton. He says this Island borders upon North Munster and the confines of Leinster, and that there a few Culdees, or Colidei, did devoutly serve God. To the East of the Abbey Church is a small Oratory, but no vestige of Monastic dwellings can be found on this Isle, save only the Abbey and the Abbot's room adjoining it, which was over the Cellars, and but small; whatever others might have been, were probaly formed of wood, and in the lapse of many centuries have ceased to exist. Superstition established an opinion, so early as the age of Giraldus, that no person could die in this Isle let his malady be ever so extreme, or his fate ever so urgent: the merits of the Patron Saint and those of his Religious, secured this privilege to an Isle so favoured, and hence it acquired the appellation of Insula Viventium, or, The Island of the Living. This Legendary celebrity brought, from the remotest parts, innumerable Pilgrims, to expiate their sins at the altar of St. Columba, and a gainful trade was carried on for more than Ten centuries; which enabled the monks to improve their Abbey and add such decorations as the fashion and taste of the day required: for we are not to suppose, that the present church is the same as the original, which was erected in the Seventh century: that was probably of wood, in which state it continued till the invasion of the Ostmen, when a new style of Architecture commenced, and Monaincha was constructed of more durable materials. However, the salubrity and supernatural power of the Isle was not so great as to prevent the emigration of its Religious inhabitants to the main land. They found the noxious vapours of the surrounding marshes and swamps highly injurious to their constitutions, and they, as Ware informs us, fixed their residence at Corbally; where is at this day, in good preservation, a small neat Chapel of a cruciform shape, with narrow slits for windows, and many other particulars indicating a respectable antiquity. By an inquisition taken, A. D. 1568, it was found that the Monastery of Canons Regular of the Virgin Mary, in the Island of the Living, otherwise called Inchenebo, was seized of the following lands;

the Island, which contained three acres of moor, wherein were two Chapels; and near the island, a Village, called Corballi, in which the Prior and Convent dwelt, where also was a Church, formerly the church of the Priory and Parish, and is still the parish church; in this village were eight waste cottages, and the land which belonged to the priory consisted of 180 acres of arable and pasture, annual value 30s.; 140 of unprofitable, and 16 acres of wood and underwood, annual value £0..2..8, &c. In the 28th of Queen Elizabeth, this Abbey was granted to Sir Lucas Dillon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 667. et seq.

MONANIMY, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coole. Monanimy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. E. from Mallow. It is situate near the River Blackwater. See, Coole.—"No mention is made by any of our writers of this Commandery; but at Monanimy we find an ancient Castle, with the traces of several large buildings round it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 75.

MONASTERBOYCE, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleer. Monasterboyce is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. S. E. from Collon. This parish contains 1000 acres of land. See, Dunleer.—"Here we find a Religious house, which was anciently called Monaster-Bute, being founded by St. Bute, or Boetius, the son of Bronagh. Here are the ruins of two small chapels; and although nothing remarkable is to be seen in their structure, yet do they evince the great antiquity of this foundation; near the West end of one of these chapels is a Round tower, 110 feet high, beautifully diminishing, in the manner of a Tuscan pillar, from a base of 18 feet: its circumference is seventeen yards, and the wall, built of a slaty stone of which the surrounding hills are composed, is three feet six inches thick, the door is five feet six inches in height, twenty-two inches in width, and six feet from the present level of the ground, it is arched and built of free-stone, as are the windows of the chapels; in the inside the diameter is nine feet, and above the door it is divided into five stories, by rings of stone slightly projecting.—There are two large crosses on the South side of the church, the principal one is said to be of an entire stone, and is called St. Boyne's Cross, which is the most ancient Religious relique now extant in Ireland; the ornamental figures on it are rudely engraven, and at once show the uncivilized age in which they were executed; there is also an inscription on this cross in the old Irish character, equally inelegant with the figures, some letters of which appear and evidently form the word Muredach, who was for some time King of Ireland, and died A. D. 534, about one hundred years after the arrival of St. Patrick. This Abbey continues to be a Burial-place of note."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 490.

MONASTEREVAN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. By an Inquisition, taken in the 28th of Queen Elizabeth, it appears that this Monastery was possessed of the half Town-land of Kynetty in this County.

MONASTEREVEN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Curacy: a Church, in excellent repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Walter Bagot, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Monastereven is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 30 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 19th of May, 31st of July, and 7th of December. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. Should this Curacy be holden separately, it ought to be considerably augmented. Monastereven is a Town of very great importance, having a flourishing trade, and a considerable Protestant population, with a very handsome Church. It is situate on the River Barrow. Here is a Nursery for 100 Children.—" St. Abban founded a sumptuous Abbey here, and granted to it the privilege of being a Sanctuary. At the general suppression, this Abbey was granted to George Lord Audley, who assigned the same to Adam Loftus, Viscount Ely. It afterwards came into the Earl of Drogheda's family, by whom it was beautifully repaired, still externally wearing the venerable appearance of an Abbey, which appellation it continues to support, and Moore Abbey is now the elegant seat of the present Earl."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 333.

MONASTERNENAGH, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Bennet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and performs the duties in person; he is resident in a neighbouring parish, to which he is Curate. Monasternenagh is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. E. from Croom. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—" An Abbey was founded here to the honour of the Virgin Mary, A. D. 1148 or 1151, by O'Brien, who furnished it with Monks of the Cistertian Order from the Abbey of Mellifont, in the County of Louth. The Cell of Feal was afterwards annexed to this House. The Abbot was a Baron of Parliament. This Abbey, and its possessions, were granted to Sir Henry Wallop, Knight."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 432.

MONASTERNICALLIAGH, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster—" Here was formerly a Nunnery for Canonesses of the Order of St. Augustin, dedicated to St. Catherine. It was granted, with the lands and tenements thereunto belonging, to Sir Henry Wallop, Knight."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 433.

MONASTER NI ORIEL, in the Barony of Glanerought, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, here are some traces of an ancient building, which, according to tradition, was a Religious house.

MONASTERORIS, v. CASTROPETER.

MONEA, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 7½ m. W. N. W. from Enniskillen. The Fairs are holden on Whitsun-Monday, 26th of August, and 12th of November. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

MONEGEA, or, MOLCONRIAGHE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Newcastle. Monegea is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. W. from Rathkeale. See, Newcastle.

MONEMOINTER, or, BALLYCLOGHY, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £1..7..4 Irish Money, and constituting with the Rectories of Kilmacleague, and Kilmacomb, and part of the Rectories of Kilmeaden, and Reisk, the Corps of the Chancellorship of Waterford, having probably been united at the same time when the Deanery was established, and which is valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: no Church: a Glebe House, in Trinity parish, in the City of Waterford, belonging to the Chancellor: four Glebes: one, of 15 a. 2 r. 15 p., at Kilmacomb, close to the site of the old church: the second, of 8 a. 1 r. 21 p., at Kilmacleague, close to the site of the old church; and the third and fourth, of about 6 acres in each, at Reisk, one of them being close to the site of the old church, and the other about a mile distant from it: each of these Glebes are very distant from the other: The Hon. and Rev. Charles Trench, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has not cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in the Diocese of Clonfert, where he has cure of souls: his Reading and Preaching turns in the Cathedral of Waterford are performed by a Substitute, at a Salary of £30. per annum. Monemointer is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Waterford. The parishes in the Union of Monemointer are not all contiguous.

MONEYGALL, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 69 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

MONEYMORE, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 83 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of January, and 8th of May. It has six Post-days in the week.

MONIVEA, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a Chapelry, in the parish of Athenry: the Chapel, in good repair. It is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¾ m. N. N. E. from Athenry. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and 12th of October. Here is a Nursery for 100 children. See, Athenry.

MONK-NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapel of Ease, belonging to Armagh: no Church, or House, or Glebe, or Salary. Monk-Newtown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. b. N. from Slane.

MONKS GRANGE, in the Barony of Balliadams, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Barrow.

MONKS LAND, in the Barony of Upper Third, though locally situate in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Innislounagh. Monks Land is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. S. E. from Kilmacthomas. It is situate upon the River Mahon. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Monks Land, and the Vicarages of Donhill, Newcastle, and Kilbarrymeaden, ought to be perpetually united; and a Church ought to be built in the parish of Donhill, and Glebe Land purchased, on which a Glebe House ought to be built. The Corporation of Waterford are the Patrons of the Vicarages of Donhill and Newcastle. The Crown is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Monks Land. And the Bishop is the Patron of the Vicarage of Kilbarrymeaden. See, Innislounagh.

MONKSTOWN, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 7½ m. S. E. from Cork. A village, situate upon Cork Harbour.

MONKSTOWN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, united by Act of Council, in 1780, to the Curacies of Bullock, Carrick Brennan, Dalkey, Kill, and Killeeny; a Church, in good order, in the parish of Monkstown, built about the year 1797: a Glebe House, and 2 acres of Glebe at Kill, about half a mile from the church, and of 12 acres at Dalkey, about two miles from the church: these Glebes are distant from each other about a mile and an half: The Rev. Singleton Harpur, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his resident Curate, The Rev. William Tew, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Monkstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Dublin Bay. The parishes in the Union of Monkstown are all contiguous; their extent being about 4 miles from East to West, and about 3½ miles from North to South. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Grange belonging to the Priory of the Holy Trinity, Dublin.

MONKSTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Lay Impropriation: no Church, no Glebe, or House: no Salary. Monks-town is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. S. E. b. S. from Navan.

MONMOHEMOCK, or, DONMANOGUE, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend in St Patrick's Cathedral, valued in the King's Books at £11..15..11 Irish Money, with the Vicarage annexed, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castle Dermot. Monmohemock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. W. from Castle Dermot. It is situate upon the River Griss. See, Castle Dermot.

MONOMOLING, v. MONYMOLIN.

MONSEA, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being holden, by a separate Title, with the Corps of the Precentorship of Killaloe: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, was Episcopally united, on the 11th of October 1805, to the R. and V. of Kilodiernan: a new Church, in the parish of Monsea: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 8 a. 1 r. 0 p., in the parish of Monsea, near the church: The Rev. William Parsons, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident near Birr, with the consent of the Diocesan, on account of his bad state of health: the duties are performed by his Curate, The Rev. Richard Studdert, A. B., at a Salary of £75. per annum. Monsea is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N.W. from Nenagh. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The Parishes in the Union of Monsea are contiguous; their estimated extent being from North to South 4 miles, and from East to West 4 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. See, Lateragh.

MONS PIETATIS, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—"Bourke alone informs us, that a Franciscan Friary of this name was in this county. At present we cannot find a trace of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 506.

MONYMOLIN, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leskinfere: a Church, in repair: a Glebe, of 25 a. 3 r. 20 p., contiguous to the church: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Mosse, Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £75. per annum. Monymolin is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. b. W. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Awin Banna. See, Leskinfere.

MONYSEED, in the Barony of Gorey, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 5½ m. W. N. W. from Gorey. A village.

MOONE, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Moone is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. b. W. from Ballytore. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 19th of June, 13th of August, and 28th of October. See, Timolin.—"Here is a large old Church, which is said to have been a Monastery of Conventual Franciscans. An old Cross still remains here, and several Irish inscriptions."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 335.

MOORE, in the Barony of Moycarne, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R., Episcopally united to the V. of Drum: no Church; no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. George St. George, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Moore is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. S. W. from Athlone. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; their extent being about 8 miles in length, and 4 miles in breadth.

MOORE CHURCH, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Julianstown. Moore Church is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Balbriggan. This parish contains 2775 acres of land. See, Julianstown.

MOORGAGA, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmainmore. Moorgaga is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. N. from Headford. See, Kilmainmore.

MOORTOWN, v. BALLYNAMONA.

MOORTOWN, or, GLASSMORE, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is near to Swords. According to Mr. Archdall, there was a Monastery here, in which St. Cronan, with all his Monks, were inhumanly murdered by a party of Danish pirates.

MORA, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; an entire Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Land: The Rev. Richard Bermingham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are performed by the Curate of the neighbouring parish, at a Salary of £6..16..6 per annum. The value of this Benefice is about £150. per annum. Mora is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. W. b. S. from Fethard. See, Grange, St. John Baptist.

MORAGH, v. MURRAGH.

MOREGAGA, v. MOORGAGA.

MORGANS, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of the Rectory of Kilmallock; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick. Morgans is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 16 m. W. S. W. from Limerick. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Kilmallock, and Nantinan.

MORISK, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aughaval. Morisk is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5 m. S. W. b. W. from Westport. It is situate upon Newport Bay. See, Aughaval.—"The O'Mallie's, lords of this county, founded a Friary here for Eremites following the Rule of St. Augustin. Large ruins of this building may still be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 506.

MORNANSTOWN, or, MORRANSTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Colpe. Mornanstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. E. from Drogheda. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Colpe.

MORNINGTON, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry: no Chapel: no Curate's Salary. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It gives title of Earl to the family of Cooley.

MORRISTOWN BILLER, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Old Connel. Morristown Biller is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. S. W. from Naas. See, Old Connel.

MORTLESTOWN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oughteragh: The Church is in ruins. Mortlestown is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. b. E. from Cahir. This parish contains about 900 acres of land. See, Oughteragh.

MOSSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Collon. Mosstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. W. S. W. from Dunleer. This parish contains 2252 acres of land.

MOSTRIM, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 20 acres contiguous: The Rev. George Keating, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Mostrim is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Edgworthstown, on the North.

MOTHELL, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kilderry, and Kilmodumoge; a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Mothell: a Glebe House, building, in the parish of Mothell: a Glebe, of 34 acres, contiguous to each other, and joining the church: The Rev. Samuel Thomas Roberts, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and discharges the duties in person. Mothell is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Dinin. The parishes of Mothell, and Kilmodumoge, are contiguous, and are about 6 miles long; and the parish of Kilderry is only divided from them by a Town-land, of about one mile in extent, which, though alienated, has been united to Kilderry, and lately claimed.

MOTHIL, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an Impropriate Rectory, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4; and Episcopally united, on the 15th of December 1800, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the Vicarages of Fews, and Rathcormick: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Mothil: a small Cabin, or House, thatched: a Glebe, of 2 a. 2 r. 28 p., within a few yards of the church: The Hon. and Rev. Richard Ponsonby, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in the Diocese of Kildare: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Mothil is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. b. E. from Carrick upon Suir. The parishes in the Union of Mothil are contiguous: The extent of Mothil being about four miles from North to South, and about four miles and an half from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Mothil, and Rathcormick, ought to be perpetually united; and some additional Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of Mothil, and a Glebe House built thereon.—"St. Brogan founded an Abbey here, and was succeeded, in the Sixth century, by St. Coan or Cuan: some assert that it afterwards belonged to the Cistertians, but it more probably was possessed by the Canons Regular of St. Augustine."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 696.

MOUNT BELLEW, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. N. W. from Castle Blakeney. A village.

MOUNT-CALLAN, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 9 m. N. W. from Ennis. For an account of an ancient Inscription in Ogam character on the Sepulchral Monument of an Irish Chief, discovered here by Theophilus O'Flanagan, student of T. C. D., see, The Transactions of the Royal Irish Academy, vol. i. p. 3. Antiquities.

MOUNT CHARLES, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. W. from Donegal. Here is the elegant Mansion of The Right Hon. Earl Conyngham. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 9th of June, 22d of September, and 18th of November.

MOUNTEAGLE, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. A village, situate upon Dingle Bay.

MOUNT MELLICK, in the Barony of Tinehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Oregan: a Chapelry. It is 42 m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, Thursday after Trinity Sunday, 26th of August, 29th of September, 1st of November, and 11th of December. It is situate upon the River Barrow; and is much inhabited by the people, called Quakers. See, Oregan.

MOUNT NUGENT, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 46 m. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June, and 21st of October.

MOUNTRATH, v. MOYNRATH.

MOUNT SHANNON, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Inniscalthra. It is 7¾ m. N. b. W. from Killaloe. A village, situate upon the River Shannon.

MOUNT-TALBOT, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 76 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of May, 14th of June, 1st of November, and 21st of December. It is situate upon the River Suck. It has three Post-days in the week.

MOUNT TEMPLE, in the Barony of Clonlolan, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Ballyloughloe. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Moate. A village.

MOURNE, or, BALLINAMONA, in the Barony of Barrets, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 acres, in the parish of Castle Lyons, at the distance of 15 miles: The Rev. Robert Longfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides near the parish. Mourne is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. S. from Mallow. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, 21st of August, and 5th of December. By an Inquisition taken at Cork, on the 4th of November 1584, Ballinamona was found to be an ancient Corporation: it was ruined by Morough O'Brien, in the reign of King Edward the Fourth.—" In the reign of King John, Alexander de Sancta Helena either founded this Preceptory for Knights Templars, or he was a principal Benefactor to it; but on the abolition of that Order, it was given to the Knights Hospitallers. The body of the church, 180 feet in length, yet remains, in which are some grave-stones of the Barrets, Quinlans, and other ancient Irish Families. The foundation walls of the Commandery inclosed several acres: It was defended to the South by a strong Castle, which was standing not long since, and there were two Towers to the West. The possessions were granted to Teighe Mac Carthy, whose descendants forfeited in the rebellion of 1641: notwithstanding which, that family are at this day styled Masters of Mourne."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 75.

MOURNE, LORDSHIP, v. DOWNPATRICK, and NEWRY.

MOVIDDY, or, MOYVIDDY, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Iniskenny. Moviddy is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 11½ m. S. W. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Bride. See, Iniskenny.

MOVILLE, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster. —"St. Finian, the son of Ultach, king of Ulster, was a regular Canon of St. Augustin, and Abbot of Maghbille; in the year 559, he went, a youth, to Rome, and was made Bishop of Lucca, where he was buried in 595: This Saint did also belong to the Abbey of Moville, in Inis-Eogain (Inishowen), which occasions some doubts to which of them belong sundry (as expressed) Saints, and Bishops. Part of the ruins of the church still remain, and the vestiges of some large foundations appear in the cemetery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 124.

MOVILLE, LOWER, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Lower Moville is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 17 m. N. N. E. from Londonderry. It is situate on the Northern side of the entrance of Lough Foyle.

MOVILLE, UPPER, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, repairing: a Glebe House; 70 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. John Hill, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Upper Moville is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 120 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. It is situate upon Lough Foyle. It has three Post-days in the week.—"St. Patrick founded the Monastery of Domnachbile, commonly called Maghbile, and placed there Ængussius, the son of Olild. For some time this was in high repute.—It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 103.

MOWNEY, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lismalin. Mowney is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Killenaule. This parish contains 759 acres of land. See, Lismalin.

MOY, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 68 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of March, 12th of July, and 22d of November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Blackwater.

MOYACOMB, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry Browne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Moyacomb is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. b. E. from Clonegal.

MOYAGHER, in the Barony of Lune, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athboy. Moyagher is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. from Athboy. This parish contains 841 acres of land. See, Athboy.

MOYALIFFE, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. William Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate. Moyaliffe is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. W. from Thurles. This parish contains 3342 acres of land.

MOYBOLGUE, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: The Rev. John Brougham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in this Diocese; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Moybolgue is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Bailieborough, on the North West.

MOYCARKEY, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Cashel. Moycarkey is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. from Thurles. This parish contains 1991 acres of land. See, Clogher.

MOYCOSQUIN, or, MOYCOSCAIN, v. MACOSQUY.

MOYCULLIN, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, GALWAY. Moycullin is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. N. W. from Galway. See, Galway.

MOYDOE, or, MOYDOW, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcommick: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and two Glebes of 90 acres, distant from each other; 60 of them being contiguous to the house. Moydoe is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. from Longford. See, Kilcommick. —" St. Modan or Modiud (The Simple), whose Festival is observed on the 12th of February was Abbot of Kilmhodain, and Bishop of Carnfurbuidhe, A. D. 591. Erclacus, a disciple of St. Patrick's, was a Presbyter here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 445.

MOYFERTA, in the Barony of Moyferta, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books, at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscathrie. Moyferta is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. S. W. from Kilrush. It is situate at the entrance of the River Shannon. See, Inniscathrie.

MOYGLARE, or, MOYCLARE, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4..3..7½ Irish Money; a Church, in bad repair: a small Glebe House, on half an acre of land, lately given as Glebe by the Patron; 2¼ acres, a quarter of a mile from the church; and another, of 2 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. Thomas Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission, as he serves a cure in the Diocese of Ardagh: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum, together with the House, &c. Moyglare is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. E. from Kilcock.

MOYHANNA, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Stradbally. The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money. Moyhanna is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. See, Stradbally.

MOYLAGH, v. MULLOGH.

MOYLAGH, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £7..5..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughcrew. Moylagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. from Oldcastle. This parish contains 3630 acres of land. See, Loughcrew.

MOYLARY, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..4..1 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunleer: a Church, in bad order, and very old: The duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Moylary is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. b. W. from Dunleer. This parish contains 2288 acres of land. See, Dunleer.

MOYLESKAR, v. MOLESKAR.

MOYLOUGH, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectories of Aghiart, Ballinakilly, Kilmacrean, and Kilmoylan: a Church, in Moylough, in ruins, since 1805; but a considerable sum is now subscribed, and it is intended to rebuild: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres, in Moylough, and of 9 acres, in Kilmoylan: The Rev. William Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and having a Faculty, resides in his parish of Meolliffe, in the Diocese of Cashel: The duties are discharged by The Rev. John O'Rorke, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £85. per annum. Moylough is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. W. from Ballinamore. The parishes in the Union of Moylough are contiguous, except that of Kilmacrean, which is distant about 5 miles from the other parishes; their extent is about 12 miles.

MOYLUSK, v. MOBLUSK.

MOYMET, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. George Alley, the Incumbent, in 1806. Moymet is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¼ m. N. from Trim.

MOYNALTY, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £18. Irish Money: a Church, very old, but kept in as good order as the fabrick will admit; a Glebe House, in complete repair, on a Glebe of 13 acres, not quite a mile from the church: The Rev. William Kellet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Moynalty is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. from Kells.

MOYNE, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 1 m. S. E. from Killala, at the mouth of the River Moy.—"A Friary for Franciscans of the strict Observance was founded here, A. D. 1460, by Mac William Bourke, through the advice of Nehemiah O'Donachan, who introduced into Ireland the last reformation of this Order, and was their first Provincial Vicar after the said reformation: Notwithstanding this, other writers affirm, that the founder was Thomas (Oge) Bourke, of Moyne Culeagh, who died Mac William Oughter, and that Father Nehemiah only took possession of this House, pursuant to the licence of Pope Nicholas V.—Here is a remarkable square tower, on one side of the two gable ends, which form the choir and the body of the church, hexagon arches, being turned on consoles, from East to West fixed in the gable ends, which is a bold execution. There is some much admired stone-work about the church, convent, and cloister; the latter is built on plain pillars, in couplets, as at Sligo. The Tower is still entire, and ninety feet in height, and the Cloisters are esteemed a very fine building."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 507.

MOYNE, or, MATHEYN, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. 6..8 Irish Money, being one of the Parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Moyne is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Thurles. The parishes of Kilclonagh, and Moyne, are contiguous, and contain together 3215 acres of land. See, Thurles.

MOYNENE, v. KILLEAGH.

MOYNOE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory belonging to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in Killaloe; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscalthra. Moynoe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N. N. W. from Killaloe. It is situate on the River Shannon. See, Inniscalthra, and Killaloe.

MOYNRATH, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Clonenagh. It is 47 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of February, the second Thursday in May, 29th of September, and the Thursday before the 12th of November. It gives title of Earl to the family of Coote. Its name signifies, The Fort in the Bog. See, Clonenagh.

MOYNTAGHS, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: but the Incumbent has memorialed the Board of First Fruits, to purchase the House in which he now resides, and some adjoining lands, to annex to the Vicarage; the Income is under £100. per annum: The Rev. Thomas Ratcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Moyntaghs is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. W. from Lurgan. It is situate on Lough Neagh.

MOYRUS, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Moyrus is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 37 m. W. b. N. from Galway. See, Ballynakill.

MOYVAGH, v. MEVAGH.

MOYVIDDY, v. MOVIDDY.

MOYVORE, or, TEMPLEPATRICK, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate: no Church: no Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Moyvore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 9½ m. W. from Mullingar. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 20th of August, and 5th of December.

MUCINIS, off the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. An Island, situate in Lough Derg.—"Regulus, who was living in the time of the great St. Columb, was Abbot of Mucinis. His Festival is holden here on the 16th of October."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 294.

MUCKAMORE, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. S. E. from Antrim. This Grange, which is free from Tythe, is situate on the Six Mile Water. It is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh.—"St. Colman Elo, in the year 550, built a noble Monastery here, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary. This Saint was afterwards made Bishop of Dromore, and died on the 7th of June, or the 27th of October, A. D. 600, or 610. This priory was granted to —— Langford, and Sir Roger Langford was seized of it in the year 1639."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 10.

MUCKISH, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—"Muckish appears, in the map, to be four miles and an half from Castle Doe; yet Bishop Pococke observes, that when he visited that country he could not hear of such an abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

MUCK, ISLAND, off the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. E. from Larne.

MUCKNOE, in the Barony of Cremourne, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, about to be built: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Lendrum, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Mucknoe is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Castle Blaney, on the South.

MUCKULLY, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunmore: The Church is in ruins. Muckully is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Castle Comer. It is situate near the River Dinin. See, Dunmore.

MUCRUSS, v. IRRELAGH.

MUFF, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. E. S. E. from Bailieborough. The Fair is holden on the 12th of August.

MUFF, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 5½ m. N.N. E. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Foyle. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 5th of August, 25th of October, and 11th of December. It is in the Division of Templemore; the Chapel is in tolerable repair.

MUFF, in the Barony of Tyrekerin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 6 m. N E. b. E. from Londonderry. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday in February, May, August, and November.

MUGDORNA, the Barony of Mourne, in the Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.

MUGNA, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was erected here by St. Finian of Clonard, but of which nothing more is known.

MULLAGHBRACK, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 1082 English acres, in five parcels, within about one mile of each other: four of them being about half a mile distant from the church, the other, three miles: The Rev. James Archibald Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate. Mullaghbrack is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. from Markethill.

MULLAGHVELLY, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Lake, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Mullaghvelly is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. b. W. from Tanderagee.

MULLAHIDART, in the Barony of Castleknock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Curacy: the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £18. Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Truell, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral; the Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castleknock. Mullahidart is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¾ m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. See, Castleknock.

MULLET, The, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is a Peninsula.

MULLIFARRAGH, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate between Killala, and Ballina. A village, in which the Linen Manufacture has been established by the Earl of Arran; but which suffered dreadfully in the rebellion, in 1798.

MULLINACUFF, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghold. Mullinacuff is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. S. W. from Tinehaly. See, Aghold.

MULLINAHONE, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 4¾ m. S. S. W. from Callan. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, first Thursday in July, 14th of September, and the first Thursday in December.

MULLINAVAT, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 7¾ m. S. b. E. from Knocktopher. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Tuesday, and 3d of October.

MULLINGAR, in the Barony of Moyashel and Magheradernon, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..15..0 Irish Money: a Church, in indifferent repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 1¾ acre, close to the church-yard, with some Cottages on it, but a Glebe, near the Town of Mullingar, and about one mile from the church, has been promised, for the purpose of having a Glebe House built thereon; and which will afford conveniences for a residence, that the present Glebe cannot command: The Rev. Henry Dundas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Mullingar is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 38 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of April, 4th of July, 29th of August, and 11th of November. It was an ancient Palatinate, and gave title of Baron to the family of Petit. It is the Assizes, and Shire-town, for the County of West Meath. It has six Post-days in the week·—"The Priory of St. Mary here, which was formerly known by the name of The House of God of Mullingar, was founded in 1227 for Canons Regular of the Order of St. Augustin, by Ralph le Petyt, Bishop of Meath, who died in 1229.—The family of Nugent founded a Dominican Friary here in the year 1237. Part of the Bell-tower, and some other ruins of the building, still remain.—In the year 1622, the Friars of Multifernam began to erect an House here for Friars of the Order of St. Francis. This house was never completed."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 722.

MULLIN'S, ST, in the Barony of St. Mullin's, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 Irish Money: no Church; no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Francis Thomas, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is not resident; nor does he discharge any duties by himself or others, as the Impropriation pays no stipend whatever; nor is the Vicarage endowed with any portion of land or tythes. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this is a large district, and the most uncivilized in the Diocese, as no Clergyman of the Established Church ever sets his foot in it. St. Mullin's is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. b E. from Graig. It is situate on the River Barrow. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of June, 25th of July, 8th of September, and 1st of November.—"St. Moling founded an Abbey here; he was made Bishop of Ferns in the year 632, and died on the 17th of June in 697. He was buried in his own Monastery. The Regular Canons following the Rule of St. Augustine obtained a settlement here, the ruins of which yet remain. It was the burial place of the Cavenaghs, Kings of Leinster, and still continues the place of interment of the descendants of that family.'—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 39.

MULLOGH, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church; no Glebe House: 357 acres of Glebe, about six miles distant from the church: The Rev. Arnold Crosby, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Mullogh is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. N. W. from Kells.

MULLOGH, or, MOYLAGH, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardfinan. Mullogh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. W. from Clonmell. The Fair is holden on the 12th of February. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish contains 786 acres of land. See, Ardfinan, and Newcastle.—" Here we find a Monastery, which was founded under the Invocation of St. Brigid, for Black Nuns of the Order of St. Augustin. At the general suppression this Nunnery was granted to Sir Henry Radcliff, termor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 669.

MULRANCAN, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £16. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £11..9..3; Episcopally united, from time immemorial to the year 1806, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Killag, and Kilmanan, and the Vicarage of Kilcowan: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Mulrancan: a Glebe House, in the Parish of Mulrancan, lately erected; four Glebes; one, of 15 acres, at Mulrancan; the second, of 6 acres, at Kilmanan; the third, of 10 acres, at Killag; and the fourth, of 3½ acres, at Kilcowan: none of these Glebes are contiguous to each other, but are each near the sites of their respective churches: Vacant, (in 1806), but a Rector then about to be appointed; The duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Montgomery, occasionally Curate, since the vacancy, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Mulrancan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. S. b. W. from Wexford. The parishes in the Union of Mulrancan are all contiguous; their contents being 5100 acres.

MULTIFARNHAM, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £8..10..0 Irish Money: no Church; no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. Ponsonby Gouldsbury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his Chapelry in Tullamore; the duties are discharged by a Curate. The Income of this Benefice is under £100. per annum. Multifarnham is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 7 m. N. from Mullingar. It is in the Deanery of Mullingar. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of March, 13th of May, and 1st of September. It is situate on the River Gaine. —" A Monastery was founded here for Conventual Franciscans by William Delamar in the year 1236; and, A. D. 1460, we find it reformed by the Friars of the strict Observance. This Friary was rather neat and compact than sumptuous or towering, having in the middle, between the body of the church and the chancel, an handsome but very narrow steeple, rising from a small arch to nearly the height of 60 feet, with off-sets between the sides. This building, we learn from the tradition of the place, was committed to the flames by the Rochforts, a powerful family in this country. But some ruins, which remain, evince its extent and extraordinary workmanship, the whole being built of a blackish slate; the East window, totally devoid of ornament, is still entire."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 726.

MUNDREHID, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 5 m. W. from Moynrath.—" A. D. 600, St. Lasren was Abbot of Mendroichet in Leix about this year."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 596.

MUNGRET, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory, constituting part of the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or cure of souls: a Glebe, of 6 a. 2 r. 32 p., near the site of the old church: Vacant, in 1806: the duties being performed by the Curate of St. John's Limerick, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Mungret is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. W. from Limerick. According to the Ecclesiastical Report this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.—" An Abbey was said to have been erected in the Fourth century, before the arrival of St. Patrick in Munster. It is, however, indubitable that St. Patrick placed St. Nessan here, who died A. D. 551. The Psalter of Cashel gives an incredible account of this abbey; that it had within its walls six Churches, which contained, exclusive of Scholars, 1500 Religious; 500 of whom were learned Preachers, 500 Psalmists and the remaining 500 wholly applied themselves to Spiritual exercises. The ruins of this abbey may still be seen, consisting of the walls of a church, which by no means bespeak either antiquity, or its former splendour; the East end is 47 feet long by 16 feet broad, with a plain narrow window; the centre, or nave, is 33 feet by 28½, and the communication from this with the East end is by a small arch; on the North side of the nave is a small porch or entrance; the West end is 12 feet by 22, on the north side whereof is a small square tower, with ruined battlements; there are no old tombs to be found here, but at a small distance North-east, are the walls of an old house, which probably made a part of the abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 434.

MUNTER CONNAUGHT, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., with the R. and V. of Lurgin. It is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. b. E. from Odlcastle.—" There was an endowed Hospital here; King James granted a lease of it, for the term of 21 years, to Sir Edward Moore, at the rent of 15d. See, Ballylinch."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 42.

MURHIR, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghavallin. Murhir is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. S. from Talbert. See, Aghavallin.

MURNEVAN, v. ADAMSTOWN.

MURRAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 5¼ m. W. S. W. from Bandonbridge. A village, situate on the River Bandon.

MURRAGH, or, MORAGH, in the Barony of Kinalmeaky, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, building: a Glebe, of 37 a. 0 r. 16 p., near the church: Ambrose Hickey, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Murragh is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. W. b. W. from Bandonbridge.

MUTTON, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Galway Harbour.

MYLERSTOWN, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster.

MYROSS, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 27th of September 1793, to the Vicarages of Kilfaughnabeg, and Kilmacabea: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: The Rev. Edward Herbert, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the Union. Myross is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 9½ m. S. W. b. W. from Cloghnakilty. The Parishes in the Union of Myross are contiguous; their estimated extent being 7 miles from North to South, and 4 miles from East to West.

MYSHALL, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fennagh. Myshall is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 54 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Fennagh.

N.

NAAS, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £10..8..1 Irish Money; and with which are holden by License from the Bishop the Curacies of Furnaughts, and Hainstown: the Rectory of Carogh is also holden with the Vicarage of Naas, by Act of Parliament, without cure, the Vicarage thereof being endowed: a Church, at Naas, the body of which is in excellent repair, but the tower was never finished: a Glebe House, with a garden, and about 30 acres of Glebe land in three lots, one of which is distant from the church half a mile, the other two about a mile: The Rev. James Slator, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Naas is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 15½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 7th and 18th of May, and 23d of November. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Bourke. This was anciently the Residence of the King's of Leinster. It was a strong hold during the Civil Wars; and several Parliaments have been holden here. The Assizes are holden here, and at Athy, alternately: and here is the County Goal, and Session house. It is situate upon a branch of the river Liffey. The Curacies of Furnaughts, and Hainstown, are adjacent to each other, and are two miles distant from Naas. The parish of Naas contains 2970 acres of land.—" In the 12th century, the Baron of Naas founded a Priory, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, for Canons Regular of the Order of St. Augustin.—In the centre of this town, the family of Eustace erected a Monastery under the Invocation of St. Eustachius, for Dominican Friars: and it appears that their possessions in Naas were granted to them in the year 1355. A public Inn is now erected upon part of this ancient foundation.—An house was founded here in 1484 for Friars Eremites of the Order of St. Augustin. The ruins of the building may still be seen at the foot of the mount, which lies at the farther end of the town."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 335.

NAHARLOWE, v. GALBALLY.

NAIRN, or, NAREN, v. INISKEEL.

NANTINAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period prior to any existing record, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Killfenny, Killinelly, and Loghill, the entire Rectory of Crewmally, the Rectories of Dromdeely, Knocknegaul, and Shanagolden, and the Vicarage of Morgans; being the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick, which is valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money: a Church, at Nantinan, in good repair: a Precentor's house, at Limerick: the Glebe of Nantinan is not possessed by the Incumbent, being inclosed in a Gentleman's Demesne, and the boundaries defaced; it is about 5 acres, and very near the church: the Glebe of Loghill, near to the site of the old church there, is 16 a. 0 r. 11 p.: at Shanagolden, there is a Glebe of 4 acres, half a mile from the church, and another of 18 a. 0 r. 35 p., about three quarters of a mile from the church; there are also other Glebes in this parish belonging to the Vicar: The Rev. George Vaughan Harte, B. D., the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Nantinan, Killfenny, Loghill, and Morgans, is resident in the Precentor's house, at Limerick, and is attendant on the Cathedral: the duties of Nantinan and Killfenny are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum: the Vicar of Shanagolden is paid £3. per annum, for the occasional duties of Loghill; and the Vicar of Askeaton is paid £3..8..3 per annum, for the occasional duties of Morgans. Nantinan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. N. W. from Rathkeale. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of July, 5th of August, and 12th of November. The parishes in the Union of Nantinan are not all contiguous; Knocknegaul is about 6 miles from Nantinan, and Killfenny about 3 miles; Morgans and Dromdeely are contiguous, and are about a mile from Shanagolden, which is contiguous to Loghill. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately (except Nantinan), is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

NANY, v. JULIANSTOWN.

NAPPOGH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

NARRAGHMORE, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £20. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £13..6..8: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 12½ acres, near the church: The Rev. John Paul, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Narraghmore is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. N. N. W. from Ballytore. The Fair is holden on the 28th of March. Here is a handsome Seat of M. Keatinge, Esq.

NARROW-WATER, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Newry. It is situate on the Bay of Carlingford. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of January, 4th of May, and 2d of October.

NATHLASH, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, many years ago, to the V. of Kilderery: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Giles Lee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Cork, where he is Diocesan Schoolmaster. Nathlash is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. W. b. W. from Mitchelstown. It is situate upon the River Funcheon. The parishes in the Union of Nathlash are contiguous; their extent being 4 miles from North to South, by 2 miles East and West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

NAUL, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Hollywood. Naul is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 14 m. N. from Dublin. Here is a romantic Glen, over-hung with Rocks, and wherein are many Caves; a small stream winds its course through this Glen, dividing the counties of Dublin, and Meath, which, at a short distance lower down, forms a fine Waterfall, called The Roches. The old Castle of Naul is boldly situate over this romantic Glen. See, Hollywood.

NAVAN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, some time in the Seventeenth century, (of which there is no special Record, but since that period it has been presented to as a Perpetual Union), to the R. of Ardsallagh, and the V. of Donaghmore; and Episcopally, to the V. of Athlumney, in 1789: a Church, in Navan, in complete repair: no Glebe House; 10 acres of Glebe, in detached parcels; 3 acres being within 2½ miles of the church; 2 acres, distant from the last about a quarter of a mile; 2 acres about a mile from the church of Navan, and a quarter of an acre near the old church of Donaghmore: The Rev. Daniel Augustus Beaufort, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Armagh: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate (and frequently by the Incumbent), at a Salary of £75. per annum. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, to secure residence in this parish, a Glebe House must be built; and the Corporation of Navan have it in contemplation to give an additional Glebe of 40 acres, convenient to the church, for this purpose; and the Incumbent is in hopes to have the grant made, which it seems expedient, under the present circumstances of the Benefice, to wait for. Navan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 23¾ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, the day after Trinity-Sunday, the second Monday in September, and the first Monday in December. It is situate on the River Boyne. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Navan are contiguous; that of Navan containing 2160 acres. It was an ancient Palatinate; and in former ages was high in repute; it was walled by Hugh de Lacie. Here is a School, which was founded by Alderman John Preston, in 1686. —"An Abbey for Regular Canons was erected here under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary; whether it existed before the end of the 12th century we are at a loss to determine, but about that period it was either founded or re-edified by Joceline de Angulo, or Nangle. In the burial-ground are the remains of many ancient tombs, with figures in alto releivo; and the present Horse-barrack is erected on the site of the abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 558.

NEAGHEN, v. SEAFORD.

NEAGH, LOUGH, v. LOUGH NEAGH.

NEALE, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 2½ m. S. from Ballinrobe. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of February, 6th of May, 4th of August, and 5th of November. It is usually called, The Neale. Here is the Seat of Lord Kilmain.

NEDDANS, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardfinan: the Church is in ruins. Neddans is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. S. W. from Clonmell. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish contains 1256 acres of land. See, Ardfinan.

NEDDRUM, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster.—" Sir John de Courcey, in the year 1179, granted to the Monks of St. Bega of Coupland (in the County of Cumberland), the church, founded in this island, to serve God therein, together with a large portion (two thirds) of the issues and profits and lands of the island: he granted to them also several other lands. This Abbey did not long exist, the cause of which does not appear. We cannot find an island of the name of Neddrum: but, probably, it may be the largest of the Copland Islands."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 126.

NEDEEN, in the Barony of Glanerought, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kenmare. It is 1 m. W. from Kenmare. The Fairs are holden on the 22d and 23d of May, 1st and 2d of July, 26th and 27th of September, and 20th of November. It is situate on the North-east extremity of the River Kenmare.

NENAGH, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, on the 16th of February 1798, to the R. and V. of Knigh: a Church, in good repair, in the Town of Nenagh: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: a Glebe, of 2 acres, in the parish of Nenagh, near the church; and, of 16 a. 3 r. 0 p., in the parish of Knigh, two miles distant from the former: The Rev. Henry Bayly, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is under orders to reside: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Falkener, A. B., at a Salary of £50. per annum. Nenagh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 75 m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of May, 4th of July, 4th of September and 10th of October. It is situate upon a River, which empties itself into Lough Deirgeart, and is a large, regular, and well built Town. Here is a handsome old Castle, of great strength, called Nenagh Round. The parishes in the Union of Nenagh are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 5 miles.—" About the beginning of the year 1200, an Hospital was founded here for Canons following the Rule of St. Augustin, who were constantly to admit the sick and infirm; it was dedicated to St. John the Baptist, and was usually called Teacheon, or, St. John's House. Theobald Walter was the founder.—A Friary was founded here for Conventual Franciscans, in the reign of King Henry the Third, by one of the family of Butler, or, as others say, by Kennedy. This Friary was supposed to be one of the richest foundations of the Franciscan Order in this kingdom."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 670. et seq.

NETHLASH, v. NATHLASH.

NEW ABBEY, in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on the River Liffey, near Kilcullen-Bridge.—"A Monastery was founded here for Franciscans of the strict Observance, in the year 1460, by Sir Rowland Eustace, son to Sir Edward Eustace, of Harrestown, Baron of Portlester, and many years Lord Chancellor and Treasurer of Ireland. A great part of the church still remains, in which is a fine Monument of Sir Rowland, the founder. The steeple fell to the ground about the year 1764."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 338.

NEWBAWN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ferns. Newbawn is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Adamstown:

NEWBOROUGH, v. GOREY.

NEWBRIDGE, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 6½ m. W. from Mallow. It is situate on the River Blackwater. A village.

NEWBRIDGE, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 5¼ m. S. W. from Naas. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, and 15th of August.

NEWBRIDGE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 3½ m. N. W. from Rathkeale. It is situate upon the River Deel.

NEW BUILDINGS, within the Liberties of the City of Londonderry, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 4¾ m. S. from Londonderry. It is situate near the River Foyle.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Castle Wellan. It is situate on the Irish Sea.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., being part of the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Glandelagh: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 16 acres, near the church: The Rev. James Langrish, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in St. Patrick's Cathedral: is resident, and discharges the duties of the Parish in person. Newcastle is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 10 m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, and 8th of October.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, having been always holden with the Rectory and Vicarage of Monegea, but are considered to be only Episcopally united: a Church, in good repair, in Newcastle: no Glebe House, but one has been ordered to be built at Newcastle: a Glebe, in two divisions, at Newcastle, half a mile from the church, one of them being 9a. 0r. 24p., and the other 27a. 1r. 38p.: and a Glebe, of 53a. 1r. 34p., at Monegea, close to the old church: The Rev. Thomas Lock, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, is resident in Newcastle, and performs the duties in person, assisted by a Curate. Newcastle is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 114 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of May, 20th of August, and 1st of October. It has three Post-days in the week. The church, which was finished in the year 1777, was built at the sole expense of Lord Courtenay. The parishes in the Union of Newcastle are contiguous, and contain 8000 acres of land.—"The Knights Templars erected a Castle here, hence its present name, adjoining which a walled town insensibly sprung up, and at length became a Corporation. But in process of time it fell to decay, and is now in ruins."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 435.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster. A village, situate near the River Inny.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Slane, though locally situate in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. N. b. W. from Nobber.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, constituting with the entire Rectory of Tulloghmelan the Corps of the Treasurership of Lismore, and probably united at the time of the establishment of the Cathedral, is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling; a Church, in repair, in the parish of Tulloghmelan: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 15 a. 0 r. 24 p., at Newcastle, one mile from the site of the old church there; another, of 12 a. 2 r. 24 p., at Tulloghmelan, half a mile from the church; and the third, of 72 a. 1 r. 15 p., at Lismore, about 8 or 9 miles from either of the two foregoing: the bounds of 10 acres of the Glebe at Tulloghmelan are not ascertained, but the rent is paid for this part by Lord Donoughmore: Charles Tuckey, D. D., the Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on the borders of his Benefice of Shanrahan, which he holds with this by Faculty: the duties are performed by a Curate, resident in Clonmell, at a Salary of £50. per annum: the parishes in this Union are not contiguous, being divided from each other about three quarters of a mile, by a small parish, called Mullogh; which is as frequently called a Particle of Tulloghmelan parish, as it is a parish itself: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardfinan. Newcastle is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. b. S. from Clonmell. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish contains 1623 acres of land. See, Ardfinan.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £3..14..0 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donhill: the Church is in ruins. Newcastle is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. W. S. W. from Waterford. See, Donhill, and Monks Land.

NEWCASTLE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. (and a V. endowed): no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Singleton Harpur, A. B., the Incumbent, in 1806, and who holds also the Union of Monkstown: the V. is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, building; and a Glebe, of 1 a. 1 r. 28 p., near the church: and another, of 1 a. 0 r. 17 p., one mile from it: The Rev. Thomas Brownrigg, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Newcastle is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. S. E. from Newtown Mount Kennedy. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of April, 10th of July, 1st of September, and 6th of December. It is situate near to the Sea-coast.

NEW CHAPEL, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof; a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House: The Rev. John Aldwell, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. New Chapel is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Clonmell. This parish contains 2245 acres of land.

NEWCHURCH, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¼ m. E. from Mount Mellick. A village.

NEW FERRY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 4¼ m. S. from Portglenone. It is situate upon the River Bann. Here is a handsome Seat of the Courtenay family.

NEW GRANGE, v. SLANE.

NEW INN, in the Barony of Killconnel, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 10 m. W. from Ballinasloe. A village.

NEW INN, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Kilcock. A village, situate near the River Blackwater.

NEWMARKET, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 108 m. W. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, 25th of August, and 31st of December. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate upon a River, which falls into the Shannon.

MEWMARKET, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Clonfert. It is 134 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of June, 8th of September, 10th of October, and 21st of November. It is situate on the River Dalua. It is a considerable Thorough-fare into the County of Kerry. See, Clonfert.

NEWMARKET, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Aghavillyr. It is 129 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. A village, near which is Castle Morres, the handsome Seat of Viscount Mountmorres. It has three Post-days in the week.

NEW MILLS, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. N. E. from Dungannon.

NEW-PIER, in the Barony of Corcomroe, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 4½ m. W. from Innistymon. A village, situate upon Ballyela Bay.

NEWPORT, or, SAINT JOHN'S, NEWPORT, in the Barony of Owney, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilvellane. It is 86 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 23d of October. It gives title of Baron to the family of Jocelyn. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Girls. See, Kilvellane.

NEWPORT PRATT, in the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Kilmina. It is 123¼ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 8th of June, and 11th of November. It has six Post-days in the week; and is situate at the extremity of a large Bay, called Newport, or, Clew Bay. A considerable degree of commerce is carried on here.

NEWRAH-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Wicklow. A village.

NEW ROSS, v. ROSS, NEW.

NEWRY, within the Lordship of the same, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 50½ m. N. from Dublin. The Market is on Thursday. The Fairs are holden on Monday after Easter week, and 29th of October. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; the Electors being Potwallopers. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the Newry-Water, which was made navigable by Act of Parliament: and over which are two stone Bridges. It extends into the County of Armagh.—"A Cistertian Abbey was founded here to the Honour of the Virgin Mary and St. Patrick, by Maurice Mac Lochlain, Monarch of all Ireland, with the unanimous consent of the Kings and Peers of Ulster and Ergal: from the several Bishops who were witnesses to this Charter, it appears to have been granted between the years 1148 and 1173.—In 1543, John Prowle, the late Abbot, was appointed Warden, when this House was converted into a Collegiate Church, at the suit of Sir Arthur Magennis. This College consisted of a Warden and Vicars Choral. On the 28th of June, 30°. Hen. VIII, a confirmation of all their possessions was granted to them, reserving only to the Crown the yearly rent of four marcs. But in a few years it was totally destroyed. The Abbot exercised Episcopal Jurisdiction over the Lordships of Newry, and Mourne; which is still enjoyed by a Mr. Needham, descended from Sir Nicholas Bagnal, to whom King Edward VI granted this abbey: the Seal of his Court is a Mitred Abbot in his Albe, sitting in a chair, supported by two yew-trees; with this Inscription, Sigillum exemptæ jurisdictionis de Viridi ligno, alias Newry et Mourne."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 126.

NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 11 m. S. W. from Dublin.

NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Newtown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, belonging to the Abbey of Mellifont: no Chapel. Newtown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. from Drogheda.

NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..0 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 2d of April 1802, to the Rectories of Emlagh, Kilbeg, and Robertstown: the present Incumbents enjoy the profits of their respective parishes, each during his Incumbency, as the Act directs; and the Survivor to succeed to the whole Union: a Church, in the parish of Newtown, lately put into complete repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 16 acres, in Kilbeg, about a mile and an half distant from the church, on which a House is to be built by the surviving Incumbent, on succeeding to the Union: The Rev. Wentworth Shields, the Incumbent of Newtown (in 1806): and The Rev. Thomas Simcocks, the Incumbent of Kilbeg (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is non-resident, on account of his great age and infirmities: the duties of the whole Union are discharged by The Rev. W. Shields, who lives in a neighbouring parish. Newtown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Kells. The parishes in the Union of Newtown are contiguous; that of Newtown containing 545 acres.

NEWTOWN, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., with St. Mary's of Trim: no Church, no Curate's Salary allowed.

Newtown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Trim, on the South. It is situate on the River Boyne. See, Trim.—"Simon de Rochfort, bishop of Meath, founded a Priory here, about the year 1206, for Canons Regular of the Congregation of St. Victor: He also erected the church into a Cathedral, which he dedicated to the honour of St. Peter and St. Paul. The Prior of this House was the third in Dignity, and sat as a Baron in the House of Lords. The remains of the large old church are still in being, where is also to be seen, an ancient tomb, said to have been placed there for a daughter of King John.—A Priory, or Hospital, was erected in the 13th century, under the Invocation of St. John the Baptist, for Cross-bearers, or Crouched Friars, and the Bishops of Meath were either the founders, or great benefactors to this House. This priory stands on the South side of the river, a little below the abbey, and contiguous to the bridge. The ruins are extensive, though by no means remarkable for regularity of style, nor have they much appearance of a Religious foundation. A square Castle adjoins the bridge, from whence a regular range of building, along the water's edge, extends to another Castle at the East end, near which stands the East window of a small chapel, of a light triple form; and on the road side, near the castle, is a very neat Turret, built in an octagon form. This Priory and its possessions were granted to Robert Dillon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 560.

NEWTOWN ARDES, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: an Impropriate Cure: a Church, in very indifferent repair: Divine Service is performed in a Chapel annexed to the church, and kept in repair by the Earl of Londonderry: but Money is raising to repair the Church: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 20 acres, two miles distant from the church, and a waste Tenement in Newtown Ardes: the Income is only £75. per annum; of which, £44. is paid by the Earl of Londonderry, the remainder arises from the glebe: The Rev. John Cleland, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Newtown Ardes is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 88 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of January, 14th of May, and 23d of September. It was erected into a Borough Town, and incorporated, by Patent 11° James I, under the name of a Provost, 12 Burgesses, and Commonalty: The Provost has power to hold Pleas of any sums not exceeding 5 marks. It is agreeably situate on the Northern extremity of Strangford Lough. It has six Post-days in the week.—"Walter de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, founded a Monastery here in honour of St. Columb, for Dominican Friars, A. D. 1244. There are some remains of this monastery still to be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 127.

NEWTOWN BARRY, formerly BUNCLOADY, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Barragh. Newtown Barry is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Clonegal. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of April, 17th and 18th of June for frize and linen, 20th of August, 14th of September, and 4th and 30th of November. It is situate on the River Slaney. It is said to be one of the prettiest villages in the Island. See, Barragh.

NEWTOWN BELLEW, in the Barony of Tiaquin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 7¾ m. W. from Ballinamore. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of May, 11th of October, and November.

NEWTOWN BREDA, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Belfast. It is situate on the River Lagan.

NEWTOWN BUTLER, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. W. b. S. from Clones. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 5th of August, 7th of November, and 5th of December. It gives title of Baron to the Earl of Lanesborough.

NEWTOWN CONYNGHAM, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 6½ m. W. from Londonderry. A Fair is holden here on the 29th of October.

NEWTOWN FERTULLAGH, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..3..4 Irish Money: a Church, newly re-built, and in complete order: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 40 acres, is now purchasing for this benefice, out of a Diocesan Fund, and when the Deeds are perfected, a House will immediately be built: The Rev. John Yeates, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Newtown Fertullagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. E. N. E. from Killbeggan.

NEWTOWN FORBES, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Clongesh. It is 1¼ m. N. N. W. from Longford. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Tuesday, 4th of September, and 31st of October.

NEWTOWN FORTESCUE, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. N. from Slane. A village.

NEWTOWN-GLENS, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 109 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Cashendal, or Red Bay, in the North Channel. It has three Post-days in the week.

NEWTOWN HAMILTON, in the Barony of Fews, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 36 English acres, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. Robert Tronson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Newtown Hamilton is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 11½ m. N. W. from Dundalk.

NEWTOWN, in the Mullet, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. A village.

NEWTOWN LENAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonegan: The Church is in ruins. Newtown Lenan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate near the River Lingan. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Newtown Lenan might very well stand alone; a Church ought to be built in this parish, and Glebe Land purchased near it, and a Glebe house built thereon. See, Clonegan.

NEWTOWN LIMAVADY, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 106½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 13th of June, 12th of July, and 29th of October. It is situate upon the River Roe, over which it hath a bridge.

NEWTOWN MOUNT KENNEDY, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Killadreeny. It is 17 m. S. b. E. from Dublin. A village. It has six Post-days in the week.

NEWTOWN SAVILLE, in the Barony of Clogher, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 5¾ m. N. from Clogher. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and November.

NEWTOWN STEWART, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 94¼ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 2d of June, 10th of October, and 10th of December. It is situate on the River Moyle: and has six Post-days in the week.

NICHOLAS, ST., in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. St. Nicholas is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. N. N. E. from Wexford. See, Ardcolme.

NICHOLASTOWN, or, ST. NICHOLAS, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £9..13..6 Irish Money; and united by Act of Council, in September 1804, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Tankardstown, and the Impropriate parishes of Ardree, Reban otherwise Churchtown, St. Michael Athy, and Dunbrea, and the Chapels of Dunlost, and St. John Athy: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of St. Michael Athy, which is about the centre of the Union: the Sum of £600. has been granted by the Board of First Fruits, out of the last Parliamentary grant, to build a Glebe House: two Glebes, both in the parish of St. Michael Athy, within a quarter of a mile of the church, one of them being 7 acres ascertained, and the other, two acres not ascertained: The Rev. Welbore Ellis Agar, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Oliver Lodge, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Nicholastown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. E. from Athy. The parishes in the Union of Nicholastown are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 6 miles, and, from North to South, about 6 miles.

NINE MILE HOUSE, v. GRANGE MOCLEER.

NOBBER, in the Barony of Morgallion, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Cure, with Loughbraccan, valued in the King's Books at £29..5..8 Irish Money: a Church, in complete repair: a Glebe House, with necessary offices, on 40 acres of Glebe, two miles from the church: The Rev. James Ellis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Nobber is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 33½ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of April, 25th of May, 20th of June, 15th of August, 13th of October, and 14th of November. This is the Birth-place of Turlogh O'Carolan, the famous Irish bard: who was born here, in the year 1670: he died in the month of March, 1738, in the 68th year of his age, at Alderford, a Seat in the County of Roscommon; and was interred in the parish church of Kilronan. It has three Post-days in the week.

NOENDRUM, in the Barony of ———, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"St. Cælan was Abbot of this Monastery, about the year 520. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 126.

NOGHEVAL, in the Barony of Kilkenny West, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. W. N. W. from Ballymore.

NOHOVAL, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Peter's, in the City of Cork: a Church: a Glebe, of 2 a. 2 r. 4 p.: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate. Nohoval is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. E. b. N. from Kinsale. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Cork.

NOHOVAL DALY, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Drishane. Nohoval Daly is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Millstreet. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. Here are the remains of one of the ancient Round towers. See, Drishane.

NOHOVAL KERRY, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Bally Mac Elligott. Nohoval Kerry is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Tralee. See, Bally Mac Elligott.

NONANE, otherwise, TEMPLE MOLOGGY, v. TEMPLE MOLOGGY.

NOUGHAVAL, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united at a period prior to any known Record, to the Vicarage of Carrune, and which belong to the Precentorship of Kilfenora, as the Corps thereof: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 2 r. 0 p., in the parish of Carrune, near the site of the old church: The Rev. Michael Davoren, A. M., the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident on his other Preferment, in the Diocese of Killaloe. Noughaval is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N. E. from Innistymon. The parishes in the Union of Noughaval are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 2 miles, and, from East to West, 4 miles.

NUADHCHONGBHAIL, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this ancient Abbey was situate on the Banks of the Boyne; and of which St. Fachtnœus was Abbot, whose Festival is observed on the 19th of January.

NURNEY, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Precentorship of Leighlin, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: a Church, newly erected: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Brooke Clarke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and, as Chaplain to His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales, resides in London: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Richard Preston, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Nurney is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. E. from Leighlin-Bridge.

NURNEY, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage; the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £1.: no Church: no Glebe House: it is said, that there are 5 acres of Glebe Land, for which Christopher Bagot, Esq., pays an annual rent; but they cannot be ascertained: The Rev. John Williamson, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Kildare, and discharges the duties in person. Nurney is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Kildare. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent; and it should be united with Walterstown, and Kildangan, where there is already a church. See, Lackagh.

O.

OBALVENE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, in a Plea Roll of the 44th of King Henry III, mention is made of an Abbey of this name.

O'BRENNAN, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of Kerry, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Kerin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Ardfert, where he is Curate: the duties are discharged by the Curate of Bally Mac Elligott, at a Salary of £4..11..0 per annum. O'Brennan is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. N. E. from Tralee. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

O'BRIEN'S BRIDGE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster. It is 13 m. S. W. from Nenagh. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of July, and 7th of November. It is situate upon the River Shannon. At this place is Montpelier, an excellent sulphureous spring, which is famous for curing several disorders.

OCYMILD, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. —"About the year 1202, William de Burgh granted the village of Ardimur (Quære, Ardmoy), with the Church and and all its appurtenances, to Richard, one of the Monks of Glastonbury, to found a Priory to the honour of God and the Virgin Mary; which being done, the place was called Ocymild, and Richard was appointed the first Prior. It is thus mentioned in the Monasticon Anglicanum, but M. Allemande changes the name to Drymild, and conjectures that it is in this county: if Drymild be the true reading, we may with some probability suppose it to be Drumwillen, near Ballycastle."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 11.

ODBHACHEARA, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught.—"The saints Liban and Forchern are said to have belonged to this church in the time of St. Columbkill. We can find no other trace or account of this Monastery."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 508.

ODDOR, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in —— Crow, Esq., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taragh: no Church: no House, or Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Oddor is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. N. W. from Dunshaglin. See, Taragh. According to Mr. Archdall, the family of Barnwall founded this Nunnery, in honour of St. Brigid, for Regular Canonesses of the Order of St. Augustin.

ODOGH, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, in the year 1797, to the Vicarages of Donoughmore, and Kilcormuck, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Coolcraheen: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Odogh: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 20 a. 0 r. 4 p., in the parish of Odogh, and about a mile from the church: The Rev. Stearne Ball, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Odogh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. b. E. from Castle Comer. The parishes in the Union of Odogh are all contiguous to each other: their contents being about 6000 acres, and their extent about six miles.

O'DORNEY, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: no Church: no Glebe House: This Impropriation belongs to the Earl of Glandore: The Rev. Samuel Collis is Curate (in 1806), and performs the duties. O'Dorney is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. b. E. from Tralee. It is situate near to the River Brick.—" An Abbey, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, was founded at Odorney, otherwise called Kirie Eleyson, in the year 1154, and was supplied with Monks from the Cistertian Abbey of Magio, in the County of Limerick. Keating fixes its foundation in the year 1161. The Abbot of this House was a Lord of Parliament. This abbey is now a shapeless ruin; nothing but old low walls are to be seen, which resemble those of an ancient church without a steeple." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 305.

OFFERELANE, or, DE FORAILAN, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money: a Church, in tolerable good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of between 260 and 270 acres, which are all contiguous, and come closely up to the site of the church: The Dean and Chapter of St. Canice, are the Rectors: The Rev. Samuel Murphy, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident in the parish. Offerelane is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Moynrath. It is situate on the River Nore. This parish is about 9 miles in length, and the same in breadth. See, Annatrim.

OGASHIN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 25th of October 1802, to the Rectories of Clonie, Dowrie, Kilmurrynegaul, Kilraghtis, Quin, and Templemaly, and the Half Rectory of Tullogh: two Churches: one of them in the parish of Quin, and the other in the parish of Tullogh: the Glebes belong to the Vicars· The Rev. Arthur Young, A. B., the Rector (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and resides in England. Ogashin is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. The parish of Kilmurrynegaul is three miles distant from the rest of the Union.

OGHAVAL, v. AUGHAVAL.

OGONILLOE, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage; one Half of the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Omullud, the other Half belonging to the Oeconomy of the Cathedral Church of St. Flannan, in Killaloe; and the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inniscalthra. Ogonilloe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Killaloe. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Omullud, Killaloe, and Inniscalthra.

OGORMOCK, v. DROMCLIFFE.

OGULLA, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Elphin. Ogulla is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4¼ m. S. S. W. from Elphin. See, Elphin.

OLART, or, OULART, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 57 m. S. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

OLDCASTLE, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castlecorr. Oldcastle is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 41 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the last Monday in January, the second Monday in June, July, 20th of August, the last Monday in September, and the second Monday in December. This parish contains 3508 acres of land. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Castlecorr.

OLD MERION, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 2½ m. S. E. b. S. from Dublin. Here is a Castle.

OLD ROSS, v. ROSS, OLD.

OMAGH, anciently OIGH-MAGH, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 86¾ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of January, the second Thursday, O. S., in February, 5th of April, the second Thursday, O. S., in May, the last Thursday in June, 5th of August, the second Thursday, O. S., in August, 2d of October, 3d of November, and the third Thursday in November. It has six Post-days in the week. The Assizes for the County of Tyrone are holden here. It is situate on the River Cameron.—"An Abbey was founded here so early as the year 792, and in the 15th century a Monastery for Franciscan Friars of the third Order was erected here. This was granted with the Friary of Corock."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 683.

OMEY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

OMOLAGGIE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey here.

OMULLUD, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R., Episcopally united, on the 18th of September 1805, to the Rectories of Clonlea, Feakle, Kilfinaghty, Killokennedy, Killurane, Kilnoe, and Kilseily, and the Half Rectory of Ogonilloe: two Churches; one in the parish of Kilseily, and the other in the parish of Kilfinaghty: the Glebes belong to the Vicars: The Rev. George Macartney, LL. D., the Rector (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is not resident. Omullud is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. The Rectory of Feakle is two miles distant, and the Rectory of Ogonilloe three miles, from the rest of the Union.

ORAN, anciently HUARAN HICHLABACH, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Ballinakill, Donamon, Drumtemple, and Kilcroan: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Radcliffe, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Castlecoote, and discharges the duties. Oran is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Roscommon. The parishes in the Union of Oran are contiguous, and extend about seventeen square miles.—" St. Patrick founded this church, of which St. Cethecus was Bishop, and rests here. This place continues remarkable for the many pilgrimages made thereto, and is now a parish church; adjoining which, is one of the ancient Round towers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 617.

ORANMORE, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, Galway. Oranmore is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 98 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of May, and 20th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Galway.

OREGAN, otherwise ROSENALLIS, in the Barony of Tinehinch, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Book's at £12..3..0½ sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 5th of September 1801, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the Vicarages of Castlebrack, Kilmanman, and Rerymore: a Church, at Rosenallis, in excellent repair; and a Chapel, at Mount Mellick, in the same parish, now rebuilding: General Dunn, of Brittas, has lately built a handsome Chapel, in the parish of Kilmanman, which he proposes to endow; it is five miles distant from Rosenallis: there is a Glebe House, in Rosenallis, with 180 acres of Glebe adjoining to it: and there is another Glebe, in the same parish, of 6 acres, about one mile from the church; In the parish of Rerymore, there is a Glebe of about 50 acres, including mountain: And, in the parish of Kilmanman, there are 100 acres of arable, meadow, and pasture, with about 200 acres of mountain, distant from Rosenallis about five miles: The Rev. James Saurin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. John Baldwin, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Oregan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. W. from Mount Mellick. The parishes in the Union of Oregan are contigous; and contain in the whole about 11,000 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report the Chapel of Kilmanman, when endowed and consecrated, will be of a value too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

ORITOR, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. N. W. from Cookstown. The Fairs are holden on the second Wednesday in July, 3d of August, 10th of October, and the third Wednesday in November.

ORLARE, v. URLARE.

OUGHTERAGH, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, in the year 1805, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the entire Rectory of Mortlestown: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres, very near the site of the old church; and another Glebe, of 10 a. 3 r. 36 p., in Mortlestown, the bounds of which not being ascertained, it is not in the possession of the Incumbent: these Glebes are not contiguous: The Rev. Gabriel Stokes, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice in the Diocese of Kildare: the duties are performed gratis by the Vicar of Cahir on one side, and by a Curate of a neighbouring parish in the Diocese of Cashel, on the other. Oughteragh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. N. b. E. from Cahir. The parishes in the Union of Oughteragh are contiguous; that of Oughteragh containing about 1107 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiatical Report, the Union of Oughteragh, as it now stands, ought to be made perpetual, and a Glebe House built on the Glebe.

OUGHTERARD, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught. It is 119¾ m. W. b. N. from Dublin. It is situate on Lough Corrib.

OUGHTERARD, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. W. b. S. from Rathcoole. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. This parish contains 895 acres of land.

OUGHTERLEAGUE, or, BILL, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballintemple. Oughterleague is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Cashel. This parish contains 1174 acres of land. See, Ballintemple.

OUGHTMANNA, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Chancellorship of Kilfenora. Oughtmanna is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 9 m. N. W. b. W. from Gort. See, Kilcorney.

OULART, v. OLART.

OUTRAGH, in the Barony of Carigallen, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; 422 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. John Hill, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Derry; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Outragh is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Ballynamore, on the North West.

OUTRATH, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inchihologhan. Outrath is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Kilkenny. See, Inchihologhan.

OWEN DUFFE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, Episcopally united, in 1785, to the Impropriate Cures of Clonmines, and Tintern: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Tintern: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Sutton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but does not reside from Infirmity in his eyes: the duties are discharged by The Rev. William Archdall, his Curate, resident in Tintern, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Owen Duffe is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7¼ m. S. W. from Taghmon. The parishes in the Union of Owen Duffe are all contiguous; their contents being about 10,000 acres. The whole value of this Benefice is only £75.; the Impropriator paying £35. thereof, and the Trustees of the First Fruits £40. more. These three parishes are in the gift of the Colclough family.

OWEN'S, ST., v. ATHNOWEN.

OWEY, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

OXMANTOWN, or, OSTMANTOWN, within the Liberties of the City of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It was formerly an Outlet of the City of Dublin, but is now included in it. THE FREE SCHOOL here, founded by King Charles II, in 1670, and commonly called, THE BLUE-COAT HOSPITAL, contains at present (in 1810) 130 Boys. The Governors meet at the Hospital, on the first Thursday in every month. This Hospital is entirely supported by its own property, and receives no grant from Parliament. The sum of £20. is paid annually to it, from rents bequeathed by Alderman JOHN PRESTON.

OYSTER, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.

P.

PAINESTOWN, partly in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and partly in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloydagh. Painestown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. N. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Barrow. This Impropriate Cure is not worth £30. per annum. See, Cloydagh.

PAINSTOWN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £22..2..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 27th of September 1682, to the R. of Ardmulchan: a Church, in Painstown, in complete repair: a Glebe House, with necessary offices, now building: a Glebe, of 1½ acre, close to the church, and at a very little distance 20 acres: in Ardmulchan, 2 acres adjoining the ruins of the old church, and within two miles of Painstown: The Rev. Brinsley Nixon, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Painstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Slane. The parishes in the Union of Painstown are contiguous; that of Painstown containing 1873 acres of land

PALATINE-TOWN, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Carlow. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of March, 23d of April, 17th of June, and 6th of November. It is said to take its name from a Colony of industrious people, who were driven from their native country, by the persecuting arms of Lewis the Fourteenth of France.

PALICE GREAN, v. GREAN.

PALLAS, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 3 m. from Askeaton. A village, situate on the River Shannon.

PALLICE, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 11 m. N. W. from Portumna.—" At Kaltragh-ne-Pallice was a Friary dedicated to the Virgin Mary, for Friars of the Order of Mount Carmel, or White Friars. It was founded by Bermingham, Baron of Athenry, in the 14th century."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 295.

PALMERSTOWN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmethon. Palmerstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 11 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. See, Clonmethon.

PALMERSTOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Chapel Izod. Palmerstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. W. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 21st of August, for horses. It is situate on the banks of the River Liffey; And gives title of Viscount to the family of Temple. See, Chapel Izod. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Leper House near this, but of which very little is known.

PARBELES, in the Barony of Coshlea, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmallock. Parbeles is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, Kilmallock.

PARKGATE, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4½ m. E. b. N. from Antrim. A village.

PARSONSTOWN, v. BIRR.

PARSONSTOWN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunany. Parsonstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 391 acres of land. See, Dunany.

PARTEEN, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 2½ m. N. from Limerick. It is pleasantly situate upon the River Shannon.

PASSAGE, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. A village, situate on the Eastern side of Kinsale Harbour.

PASSAGE, East, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kill, St. Nicholas. It is 76 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 12th of June, 8th of September, and 12th of November. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour, where is an excellent road, in which 500 sail of ships may ride in safety. On the 20th of February 1663, the Duke of Ormond was made Governor of the Port and Town of Passage for life. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Crooke.

PASSAGE, West, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Marmullane. It is 130 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 25th of July. It is situate upon the Western side of Cork Harbour, opposite to Great Island, where all ships of burden unload, and transport their cargoes in vessels of small size, to the City of Cork; as the Channel does not admit large ships to proceed higher up. Near Passage, on the right, is Pembroke Town, the hospitable Seat of Thomas Boland, Esq.

PASS IF YOU CAN, in the Barony of Moyashel and Magheradernon, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. N. E. from Mullingar. A village.

PASS of KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¾ m. W. from Kinnegad. A village.

PATRICK'S, ST., in the County of the City of Limerick, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period prior to any existing Record, to the entire Rectory of Cahirvally, and the Rectory and Vicarage of Emlygrennan, being the Corps of the Treasurership of Limerick, which is valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 acres, at St. Patrick's, near the site of the old church; and another, of 30 acres, at Emlygrennan, near the old church: the Treasurer has also a small lot of ground near the Cathedral: The Rev. Thomas Quinn, A. M., the Treasurer (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and is resident on his Benefice in another Diocese: the duties are performed by the Resident Curates of the adjoining parishes, and who are paid by Mr. Quinn annually, as follow; to the Curate of St. John's, £10., for his attendance on St. Patrick's; to the Rector of Killeely, £5., for that part of St. Patrick's which is to the North of the River Shannon; to the Curate of Killpeacon, £5., for Cahirvally; and to the Curate of Kilmallock, £5., for Emlygrennan. St. Patrick's is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is close to the South-East side of the City of Limerick; part of the parish being situate on the North, and part on the South side of the River Shannon; that part, which is on the North, being in the Barony of Bunratty, and County of Clare. The parishes in the Union of St. Patrick's are not contiguous. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

PATRICK'S, ST., ISLE, or, INIS PATRICK, off the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. E. b. E. from Balbriggen. Here are the ruins of a church, dedicated to St. Patrick. It is said, this Island was the first spot on which that Saint landed, after his arrival in Ireland; and that the church likewise was built under his own immediate direction, at which time the Isle was parted from the Main-land, by only a small stream of water at spring tides, at other times accessible on foot; but the interval is now impassable at the lowest ebb of the tide, and on that account the sacred pile has been suffered to fall to ruins. On the shore, near this Isle, stands the Fishing-town of Skerries, to whose inhabitants the said church originally served as a place of Worship, to supply which, another church has been erected, which they call St. Patrick's New Church. See, Holm-Patrick.

PATRICK'S-WELL, in the Barony of Poblebrien, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Crecoragh. It is 6 m. S. W. from Limerick.

PENNY-COME-QUICK, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. N. from Arklow. A village.

PEPPERSTOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fethard. Pepperstown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Fethard. This parish contains 2721 acres of land. See, Fethard, and Crompstown.

PETER'S, ST., in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. St. Peter's is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is ½ m. S. from Wexford. See, Wexford.

PETTIGOE, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. W. b. N. from Kesh. The Fair is holden on the 25th of July.

PHILIPSTOWN, v. KILLADERRY.

PHILIPSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Charlestown. Philipstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¾ m. N. from Ardee. This parish contains 1647 acres of land. See, Charlestown.

PHILIPSTOWN NUGENT, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Baronstown. Philipstown Nugent is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. W. N. W. from Dundalk. This parish contains 440 acres of land. See, Baronstown.

PIERCETOWN, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Almoritia. Piercetown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. W. b. N. from Mullingar. This parish contains 1800 acres of land. See, Almoritia.

PIERCETOWN LANDY, or, LECKNOWE, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., augmented with a Rectory, and valued in the King's Books at £0..17..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmoon. Piercetown Landy is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 9 m. S. S. E. from Slane. This parish contains 924 acres of land. See, Kilmoon. According to Mr. Archdall, the Abbey of Lecknagh was founded in the year 750; and of which nothing more is known.

PILLTOWN, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. E. from Carrick upon Suir. A village.

PILLTOWN, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kinsalebeg. It is situate on the River Blackwater. Here was the residence of Judge Walsh, the supposed author of the forged Commission in favour of the Irish Rebels in the time of King Charles the First: the particulars of which affair were not discovered till after the Restoration, when Lord Muskerry confessed the whole to Lord Orrery, at the Duke of Ormond's Castle of Kilkenny.

PLUCK, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 3½ m. S. E. from Letterkenny. A village.

POINTZ PASS, or, FENWICK'S PASS, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Loughbrickland. Here was the first assembly of the English army, in 1688. It was formerly an incumbered Pass, through bogs, woods, and morassy grounds.

POLEROAN, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and united, by an Authority unknown, to the Vicarages of Portnescully, and Ullid: no Church: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of half an acre, in the parish of Poleroan; and, of 3½ acres, at Ullid, adjacent to the site of the old church; they are about three miles distant from each other: The Rev. Francis Newport, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice, and is resident at present in Waterford, the Glebe House being under repair: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £15. per annum. Poleroan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. N. W. from Waterford. It is situate upon the River Suir. The parishes in the Union of Poleroan are contiguous; the greatest distance being three miles, and the least one mile, and their extent about seven or eight miles.

POLES, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¾ m. N. W. from Nobber. A village.

POLIPLICKE, v. BALLYFOYLE.

POLLARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £0..16..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united to the Rectories entire of Dunmurry, and Thomastown: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of half an acre, at Pollardstown: The Rev. Thomas Tisdall, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the duties are performed by The Rev. Henry Bayly. Pollardstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. E. b. E. from Kildare. The parishes in the Union of Pollardstown are contiguous. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, a Church, a Glebe House, and Glebe, are much wanted here. The Bishop's tythes, as part of Tully, viz., Treaistown, Rathbride, and Redhills, might be added with great propriety to this Benefice, of which the three Denominations should be perpetually united, with an adjustment of the rights of the Crown in Tully with the Duke of Leinster.

POMEROY, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 118 English acres; beside a tract of Mountain of 84 acres, distant three miles from the other; and both about four miles from the church: The Rev. James Graham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Pomeroy is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 7¼ m. N. W. from Dungannon. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of June, and 11th of November.

PORT, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathdrummin. Port is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¾ m. E. from Dunleer. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. This parish contains 985 acres of land. See, Rathdrummin.

PORTACHLOE, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on the Western Ocean.

PORTADOWN, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 65½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, Whitsun-Monday, and 13th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Bann, over which here is a Stone bridge. It is noted for its extensive business in the Linen manufacture.

PORTAFERRY, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster; in the Parish of Ballyphilip. It is 80½ m. N. N. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of July, and 12th of December. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is a Ferry over to Strangford. See, Ballyphilip.

PORTARLINGTON, partly in the Barony of Philipstown, KING'S COUNTY, and partly in the Barony of Portnahinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Borough Town, partly in the parish of Clonchorke, and partly in the Parish of Lea, and containing

THE CHAPEL OF ST. MICHAEL THE ARCHANGEL, which is almost in ruins, there being no Fund wherewith to repair it: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: the emoluments of the Chaplain arise from a rent-charge on the Estate of Lord Galway, in the King's County, of £40. per annum. The Rev. Archibald Clarke, the Chaplain (in 1806), having no cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person.

THE CHAPEL OF ST. PAUL, founded by Earl Galway, for the use of French Protestant Refugees: this Chapel is almost in ruins, there being no fund wherewith to repair it: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: the emoluments arising from this Chapelry consist in a rent-charge on the Estate of Lord Galway, in the King's County, and a pension of £50. per annum, subject to some deductions, granted by Government about the beginning of the last century, to the Chaplain and his Successors, for performing Divine Service in the French language : The Rev. John Vignoles, the Chaplain (in 1806), having no cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person.

Portarlington is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 36¾ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, 22d of May, 12th of October, and 23d of November. This town sends one Member to Parliament; Patron, Lord Portarlington. It is handsomely situate on each side of the River Barrow, which divides the town; the greater part thereof being in the Queen's County. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, two Portrieves, and a Recorder. It gives title of Earl to the family of Dawson. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Lea cannot well be considered without reference to the town of Portarlington. At Lea, two miles from Portarlington, there is a decayed old Church, which can scarcely be prevented by ordinary repairs from falling. It is inconveniently situate for the town, and equally so for the numerous Protestant Inhabitants of the country. By a plurality of voices, at a late vestry, it has, therefore, been determined to change its site, and to re-build it still further from the town, by which means Portarlington, containing about 1500 inhabitants, will be in a worse state than it now is. In Portarlington there are two Chapels, and two Schools, endowed by the Earl of Galway, in 1702; one Chapel, and School, for Protestant French Refugees, and the like for the English Protestant Settlers and native Irish, on his Lordship's Estate. A rent-charge of £40. per annum was settled on each Chaplain, £20. per annum on the English Schoolmaster, and £12. on the French master; and the Bishop of Kildare, the Diocesan, and his successors, were appointed trustees for ever. The chapels, and schools, with their endowments, were accordingly conveyed to the Bishop, for the time being, and shortly after, because there were many French Protestants in the place, a pension of £50. was granted to the French Chaplain, for the time being, which is enjoyed to this day. When the chapels were conveyed in trust to the Bishop, they were newly built; repairs were little thought of; and the fund, provided for that purpose, was only a fine of £20., to be paid on the demise of each of three lives, on the perpetual renewal of which, the lands, charged with the above rent of £122., are holden for ever. At present there is one sum of £20. in hand, which bears interest: but, as the two Chapels are absolutely in ruins, and must be shortly altogether abandoned for want of necessary repairs, the Bishop considers himself (so far as the buildings are concerned) incapable of fulfilling the purposes of this trust. The Rectory of Lea is appropriate to the Dean and Chapter of Kildare. The Vicarage is endowed with one third of the tythes, and the Incumbent (in 1806), is The Rev. William Maunsell.—Part of the town of Portarlington, situate in the King's County, and Parish of Clonchorke, must also be considered on the occasion. The ancient site of Clonchorke Church is too remote from the town, which contains a great number of Boarding Schools, kept by very respectable persons, for children of both sexes; and serious inconveniences must arise to such seminaries of Education, if the children be debarred from the exercise of Public worship.

PORTERIN, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenvoy. Porterin is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 7 m. S. E. from Roscommon. It is situate upon Lough Ree. See, Killenvoy.

PORTGLENONE, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry, united by Act of Council, many years ago, to the R. of Ahogill: a Chapel, in good order: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Portglenone is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 105 m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the Second Tuesday in May, O. S., and the 12th of August. It is situate on the River Bann: over which here is a Bridge. It has three Post-days in the week.

PORTLAW, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster. It is 89 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

PORTLEMON, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, on the 13th of September 1803, to the R. of Portshangan, on account of smallness of Income; and it might be expedient to make it a permanent Union, the annual income of which would be £150.: no Church; no Glebe House, but a small house might be built in Portshangan, if this Union were made perpetual: But the church of Leny lies so convenient for both parishes, that a new church is unnecessary; and these Livings were given to the present Incumbent to enable him to do duty in Kilbixy, for which the Impropriator allows no stipend: a Glebe, of 3 acres, in Portshangan, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. John Jephson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Portlemon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 700 acres of land. The parishes in the Union of Portlemon are contiguous. It is situate upon Lough Hoyle. See, Kilbixy.

PORTMARNOCK, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy; a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, in good order; and 9 acres of Glebe land: The Rev. Hector Munro, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Portmarnock is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea.

PORTNEHINCH, in the Barony of Portnehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. S. W. from Portarlington. Here is a Bridge over the River Barrow. This village gives name to the Barony.

PORTNESCULLY, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Poleroan. Portnescully is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. W. from Waterford. It is situate near the River Suir. See, Poleroan.

PORT-NORRIS, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 6½ m. N. W. b. N. from Newry. A village.

PORTRAHON, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Donaghbate. Portrahon is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¾ m. N. E. from Swords. It is situate upon the Irish Sea. See, Donaghbate.

PORTRAMON, or, DUNLUCE.

PORT-RUSH, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. N. from Coleraine. A small Fishing-town, near the mouth of the River Bann.

PORTSHANGAN, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..8..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Portlemon. Portshangan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 1300 acres of land. It is situate upon Lough Hoyle. It is in the Deanery of Mullingar. See, Portlemon.

PORTUMNA, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Lickmolassy. It is 76 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 15th of February, May, August, and November. It is situate on the River Shannon, to the Northward of Lough Deirgeart. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is the Castle of Portumna, the noble Seat of The Marquess of Clanricarde. See, Lickmolassy.—"The Monks of the Cistertian Abbey of Donbrody, in the County of Wexford, had for a long time a Chapel here, which was dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul; but being at length forsaken by them, O'Madden, dynast of the country, gave it to the Dominican Friars, who, with the approbation of the Monks of Donbrody, erected a Friary here and also a Church, which they dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, and the original Patron Saints; at the same time they built a steeple, cemetery, and all other necessary offices. The walls are still nearly entire, and plainly show that the Monastery of Portumna was by no means an ignoble structure; the ancient choir is now the parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 295.

POWERSCOURT, or, STAGONIL, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed, valued in the King's Books at £1..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Michael Sandys, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Powerscourt is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. W. S. W. from Bray. It is situate upon the River Dargel, where there is a celebrated Cataract. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Wingfield.

POWERSTOWN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a consolidated R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House: six Glebe Lands, but none contiguous, and containing in the whole 12 acres: The Rev. John Kennedy, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the parish of Feathard, in the Diocese of Ferns, which he holds by Faculty with this Benefice: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. Silleto, who resides at Gowran. Powerstown is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. E. b. S. from Gowran. The Fair is holden on the 31st of May.

PRIMULT, v. BALLYBURLEY.

PRIOR, in the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromod. Prior is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 33 m. S. W. b. S. from Milltown. It is situate upon the West side of Ballynaskellig Bay. See, Dromod.

PROSPEROUS, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 11 m. S. W. from Leixlip. A village, at which a Cotton Manufactory was established by Captain Brook, in 1780, under Parliamentary encouragement.

PUBLE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster.—"A Friary, for Franciscans of the Third Order, was built here in the Fifteenth century. This also was granted to Sir Henry Piers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 683.

PUFFINS, ISLAND, off the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the Atlantic Ocean: and is much frequented by the fowls, called Puffins: it is also well stocked with Rabbits. It is steep, and craggy, and hath a remarkable opening, or gap, in its highest part.

PUREFOY'S-PLACE, v. CLONBULLOGE.

Q.

QUICHWILL, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Abbey is mentioned to have existed, A. D. 1355; but we know no more of it.

QUIN, or, QUINCHY, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ogashin; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, was Episcopally united, on the 24th of October 1799, to the Vicarages of Clonie, and Dowrie: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Quin: no Glebe House: the Glebe Land cannot be ascertained: The Rev. Michael Fitzgerald, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the town of Ennis, by permission of the Diocesan, where he is Master of an endowed School, and discharges the duties in person. Quin is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. E. from Ennis. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of July, and 31st of October. Here are the ruins of a Castle. The parishes in the Union of Quin are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 3 miles, and from East to West 5 miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Ogashin.—"An Abbey was founded here early, which was consumed by fire A. D. 1278. The Monastery of Quin, for Franciscan Friars, was founded in 1402, by Sioda Cam Mac Namarra: but Father Wadding places it in the year 1350, yet at the same time he declares, that he thinks it was more ancient. The Roman Catholics repaired this Monastery in 1604. Bishop Pococke thus describes its present state. 'Quin is one of the finest and most entire Monasteries that I have seen in Ireland: it is situated on a fine stream, with an ascent of several steps to the church; at the entrance, one is surprised with the view of the High Altar entire, and of an Altar on each side of the arch of the chancel. To the South is a Chapel, with three or four Altars in it, and a very Gothic figure, in relief, of some Saint: on the North side of the chancel is a fine monument of the family of the Mac Namarras of Rance, erected by the founder: on a stone by the High Altar, the name of Kennedye appears in large letters: in the middle, between the body and the chancel, is a fine tower built on the two gable ends. The cloister is in the usual form, with couplets of pillars, but is particular, in having buttresses round it by way of ornament: there are apartments on three sides of it, the refectory, the dormitory, and another grand room to the North of the chancel, with a vaulted room under them all: to the North of the large room is a closet, which leads through a private way to a very strong Round tower, the walls of which are near ten feet thick. In the front of the Monastery is a building, which seems to have been an apartment for strangers, and to the South-west are two other buildings.' "—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 53.

QUIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of July, 15th of August, and 30th of December.

QUINCE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.

R.

RACAVAN, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R, united, time immemorial, to the R. of Skerry. Racavan is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. N. E. from Ballymena. It is situate on the River Braid. This parish contains 18,985 acres of land. See, Skerry.

RACKIBIRN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

RADDONSTOWN, or, BALRODDAN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..10..0 Irish Money, and united to the Rectories of Balfeighan, Drumlargan, Gallon, and Kilcloan; which parishes have always gone together, and been presented to as to one Benefice, but it does not appear by what authority: it is a very proper Union: a Church, in the best repair: no Glebe House; half an acre of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Ponsonby Gouldsbury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his Chapelry at Tullamore, in this Diocese: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Raddonstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Kilcock. The parishes in the Union of Raddonstown are contiguous; that of Raddonstown containing 982 acres of land. Here is a handsome Seat of the Tew family.

RAGHAN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., united in perpetuity, by Act of Council, many years ago, to the V. of Carrigleamleary; and holden, by Faculty, with the R. of Mallow: a Church, lately built, in Raghan: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are discharged by The Rev. George Brereton (in 1810), who resides in the parish. Raghan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. E. from Mallow. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Mallow.

RAGHAN, in the Barony of Ballicowen, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fircall. Raghan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. W. from Tullamore. This parish contains 4205 acres of land. See, Fircall.

RAGHLIN, v. RATHLIN, ISLAND.

RAGHNIOHIE, v. RAY.

RAHARROW, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killenvoy. Raharrow is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. W. from Athlone. See, Killenvoy.

RAHENY, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House: two Glebes, one of 25 acres, half a mile from the church, and the other of about 8 acres, within a quarter of a mile of the church; The Rev. Lathum Coddington, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident near the parish, and discharges the duties in person. Raheny is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. E. from Dublin. About half a mile from hence is a pleasant Strand by the Bay of Dublin, where there is another village, called Raheny on the Strand, to distinguish it from the present village, which is called Raheny in the Country.

RAHILL, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathvilly. Rahill is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. from Baltinglass. See, Rathvilly.

RAHOON, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of Galway, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Nicholas, Galway. Rahoon is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Galway. It is situate upon Galway Bay. See, Galway.

RAHUE, or, RATHUGH, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardnurcher. Rahue is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. b. E. from Killbeggan. This parish contains 2216 acres of land. See, Ardnurcher. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Aid, who died in the year 588, founded the Monastery here.

RALOO, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a

R., being one of the five parishes which constitute the Deanery of Connor: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe. Raloo is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. from Carrickfergus. This parish contains 3700 acres of land. See, Carrickfergus.

RAMELTON, v. RATHMELTON.

RAM, ISLAND, off the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 3 m. W. from Glenavy. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. It is situate in Lough Neagh.

RAMOAN, v. RAMORAN.

RAMORAN, or, RATHMOANE, in the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., Episcopally united, in 1793, to the V. of Culfaghtrin, and valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a very ancient Church, in decent repair: no Glebe House in the Union; 25 acres of Glebe, in Ramoran: the Income of both parishes is but £50..19..6: they are contiguous, and are very mountainous: The Rev. Charles Hill, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ramoran is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. S. W. from Ballycastle. This parish contains 7200 acres of land. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. Ramoran, and Culfaghtrin, are two of the parishes, with Milltown, St. Johnstown, Loughgule, and Teckmacraven, which constitute the Chancellorship of Connor, and which were united by Charter, by James I, on the 20th of July 1609: The Chancellorship is valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: no Glebe, or House: The Rev. William Trail, LL. D., the Chancellor, in 1806, who resides part of each year in the Diocese. The Vicars reside in their respective Vicarages.—"St. Patrick founded Rathmodhain, and placed St. Ereclasius therein: it is now, according to Colgan, a parish church in The Reuts, and Diocese of Connor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 13.

RAMSGRANGE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 8 m. S. from New Ross. A village.

RANDALSTOWN, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. W. from Antrim, and 88 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 16th of July, and 1st of November. A great Linen Market is holden here on the first Wednesday in every month. It is situate on the River Maine, to the Northward of Lough Neagh. It has six Post-days in the week.

RANDOWN, v. IVERNOON.

RAPHOE, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., united by Patent, in the reign of James I, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Killigarvan, Killteevagh, Leck, Lettermacward, and Stranorlar, and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Raphoe, which is valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling: The Cathedral: a Glebe House, in the parish of Raphoe, and a considerable Glebe near to the church: Richard Allott, D. D., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by six Curates. Raphoe is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is 107 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is a Free School, which was founded and endowed by King Charles the First. The lands belonging to this school, according to the Report from the Commissioners of the Board of Education, are situate in the Western part of the County of Donegal, 15 miles from Raphoe, and four from the Town of Donegal, on the great road from Londonderry to Sligo. By a survey, it appears, that the lands contain 5946 acres, of which number, 1114 are profitable, the remainder bogs and mountain. These lands abound with Lime-stone. The Rev. James Irwin, A. B., is the present Master (in 1807): who, in the month of November 1798, let the lands which constitute the Endowment of the School, for ten years (provided his Incumbency should so long continue) to 130 Tenants, at the yearly Rent of £639. Two Farms, producing £90. per annum, and included in the above, are let by him during his Incumbency. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 22d of June, 27th of August, and 4th of November. The Bishoprick of Raphoe is valued in the King's Books at £200. sterling. The Right Hon. and Rev. Lord John George Beresford, D. D., Lord Bishop, in 1807. The parishes of Killteevagh, Leck, Raphoe, and Stranorlar, are contiguous, and extend eighteen miles by seven: the parishes of Killigarvan, and Lettermacward, are at a considerable distance from them, and are very far distant from each other. According to Dr. Beaufort, it is not precisely known at what time this See was founded, but it must have been prior to the Tenth century, since Bishops of Raphoe are mentioned in the Ninth. This Diocese comprises the greater part of the County of Donegal, being 44 miles in length from North to South, and 32 miles in breadth. The Chapter of Raphoe consists of a Dean, Archdeacon, and four Prebendaries. In the small town of Raphoe there is a very neat, though not a large Cathedral, which serves also for a parish church, and the Bishop's Palace is an old, but convenient edifice. This Episcopal See is at one extremity of the Diocese, and near 40 miles from the other.—"St. Columb founded an extensive Monastery at Rathboth, and died on the 9th of June, A. D. 596. St. Adamnon, Abbot of Hy and Patron and Restorer of this monastery, died on the 23d of September, A. D. 703, about which time Raphoe became and continues to be the Seat of a Bishop."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

RASHACKIN, or, RASHARKAN, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Finvoy, Kilraghtis, and Kildallock, constituting the Prebend, which is valued in the King's Books at £8. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, lately repaired at the expense of the Incumbent, on a Glebe of 23 acres, near the church: The Rev. William Dickson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Rashackin is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. E. from Kilrea. The parishes in this Union are contiguous; those of Rashackin, and Kildallock, containing 2700 acres of land.

RASHADOC, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. W. b. S. from Letterkenny. A village, situate on the River Swilly.

RASHARKAN, v. RASHACKIN.

RASKEE, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Carncastle: a Church, in bad condition. Raskee is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. The united parishes of Ballycor, and Raskee, contain 5000 acres of land. It is 2 m. N. W. from Ballyclare. See, Carncastle.

RATASS, in the Barony of Trughanacmy, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, constituting with one-fifth of the parish of Ardfert, and the R. of Killanear, the Corps of the Deanery of Ardfert, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Ardfert, of 37a. 1r. 8p.; and, in Ratass, of 8a. 2r. 12p.: The Rev. Gilbert Holmes, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in Ratass, and jointly with the other Dignitaries in Ardfert: is beneficed in the Diocese of Killaloe, and resides on his Benefice there: the duties of Ratass are attended by the Incumbent of Tralee, into which town the parish runs, at a Salary of £15. per annum. Ratass is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. E. b. N. from Tralee. The Union of these parishes was at a period prior to any existing Record: probably, at the first institution of the Deanery, and by such Authority as was then competent. These parishes are not contiguous: Ardfert is about 3 miles from Ratass, from which Killanear is 6 miles, and from Ardfert 10. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

RATEYNE, or, RATHYNE, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardbraccan. Rateyne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. from Trim. This parish contains 859 acres of land. See, Ardbraccan.

RATH, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. Rath is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. S. W. from Baltinglass.

RATH, in the Barony of Inchiquin, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage: the Prebend, to which belongs, as the Corps thereof, some portion of Tythes in the parish of Rath, is valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling, and with which are holden, Episcopally united, on the 1st of December 1803, the Rectory of Rath (valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling), and the Rectory of Dysert: no Church: the Glebes belong to the Vicar: The Rev. Edward Mangin, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is not resident: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysert. Rath is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. N. W. from Ennis. See, Dysert.

RATHAIGE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"In Dalaradia. St. Foilan, or Fullen, was Abbot or Bishop here. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 12.

RATHANGAN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, Rectory, and Vicarage: the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £40. Irish Money, and the Rectory at £12..6..8: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe, of 28 acres, divided into four lots, on the nearest of which to the church a Glebe House is now building: The Rev. William Bourne, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Henry Bayly, at a Salary of Sixty guineas per annum. Rathangan is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. N. W. from Kildare. The Fair is holden on the 19th of May. The Grand Canal from Dublin passes through this parish.

RATHASPECK, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £7..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wexford. Rathaspeck is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. S. b. W. from Wexford. There is the Prebend of Rathaspeck also mentioned in the King's Books, and which is valued at £20. Irish Money. See, Wexford.

RATHASPICK, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Patrick Sweeny, the Incumbent, in 1806. Rathaspick is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Edgworthstown.

RATHASPUCK, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money: a Church was erected here, about 30 years since, by aid of the Trustees of the First Fruits; but which is now undermined by Colliers, and in ruins: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Edward Sterling, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within the parish, and discharges the duties in person. Rathaspuck is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. N. b. E. from Castle Comer. In this neighbourhood are the extensive Coal-pits of Dunane.

RATHBARRY, in the Barony of Ibawne, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 3 r. 37 p.: The Rev. Armiger Sealey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls. Rathbarry is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. S. W. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon Ross Bay.

RATHBEAGH, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Rathbeagh is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is m. . from Freshford. This is supposed to be the ancient Argiodross. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 11th of June, 1st of November, and 6th of December. See, Aghour.

RATHBEG, in the Barony of Clonlisk, King's County, and Province of Leinster. It is 3 m. S. E. from Birr.—"St. Abban built the Monastery of Rathbecain in Ely, and died A. D. 650. No other particulars have been found respecting this House."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 403.

RATHBEGGAN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..17..0 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Rowland Betty, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls. Rathbeggan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. b. E. from Dunshaglin. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the only mode of remedying the evil of non-residence here, would be to unite this parish perpetually with the Rectory of Ballymaglasson, to which it is contiguous, providing a Glebe to build on, and building a Church.

RATHBIN, v. BURNCHURCH.

RATHBOURNEY, in the Barony of Burrin, Co. of Clare, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromcrehy. Rathbourney is in the Diocese of Kilfenora, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. N. b. E. from Innistymon. See, Dromcrehy.

RATHBOYNE, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Rathboyne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. b. E. from Kells. This parish contains 2160 acres of land. See, Kells.

RATHBRAN, v. RATHREA.

RATHBRIDE, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Kildare. The Fair is holden on the 6th of July. See, Pollardstown.

RATHCLARIN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..16..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilbritton. Rathclarin is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S. b. E. from Bandonbridge. It is situate on the River Arigideen. See, Kilbritton.

RATHCLINE, v. RATHLINE.

RATHCOLP, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught.—" The Festival of St.. Tassach of Rathcolp is observed on the 14th of April. This place is wholly unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 508.

RATHCONDRA, v. RATHCONRATH.

RATHCONEY, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cahirlag. Rathconey is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. E. N. E. from Cork. It is situate on the River Glanmire. See, Cahirlag.

RATHCONNELL, in the Barony of Moyashel and Magheradernon, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..16..11 Irish Money: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 4¼ acres, four miles distant, and one lately purchased, of 20 acres, adjoining the church: on this last, the house and offices are to be built, and for which materials are now collecting: The Rev. Francis Pratt Winter, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Rathconnell is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. N. E. from Mullingar. It is in the Deanery of Mullingar.

RATHCONRATH, or, RATHCONDRA, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13..15..0 Irish Money: a Church, now building: no Glebe House, but as soon as the church shall be finished, the Incumbent of this parish must be compelled to build, to remove, hereafter, the evil of non-residence: 22 acres of Glebe, close to the church: The Rev. William Ould, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in the King's County; the occasional duties are discharged by a neighbouring Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Rathconrath is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. W. from Mullingar.

RATHCOOL, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the V. of Kilkyran: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert C. Armstrong, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is resident on a parish with cure of souls, in another Diocese: the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Rathcool is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. N. E. from Kilkenny. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Rathcool is the only one in the Benefice, though Kilkyran is stated in the Visitation Books, as a distinct Parish ; but it is only a small denomination of the parish of Rathcool, containing 448 acres, as appears from the Down Survey ; the whole parish of Rathcool contains 2529 acres.

RATHCOOL, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fethard. Rathcool is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. N. W. from Fethard. This parish contains 2924 acres of land. See, Fethard.

RATHCOOLE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Curacy of Tassagard: a Church, in good repair, at Rathcoole: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 9 a. 0 r. 16 p., near the church: The Rev. Thomas Hayden, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties of his parish in person. Rathcoole is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7¾ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 23d of April, 18th of June, and 9th of October, for Cattle and Pedlars' wares. It gives title of Viscount to the Family of Tracey. It has six Post-days in the week.

RATHCOOLE, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, though locally situate in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster; a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Rathcoole is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. N. W. b. N. from Baltinglass. See, Timolin.

RATHCORE, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, in thorough repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 46 acres, about a mile from the church; another, of one acre, the same distance; and a third, of an acre and an half, contiguous to the church: The Rev. John Roberts, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Rathcore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Summerhill.

RATHCORMICK, in the Barony of Upper Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an Impropriate Rectory, and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Mothil. Rathcormick is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. W. from Carrick upon Suir. This parish is about three miles in extent from North to South, and about two miles and an half from East to West. See, Mothill.

RATHCORMUCK, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £5..10..0 sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 31 acres, near the church: The Hon. and Rev. John Blackwood, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and occasionally discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Tristram Land, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Rathcormuck is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 111 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of August, and 29th of October. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate near the River Bride.

RATHCUNGA, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Patrick founded an Abbey here, in which St. Assicus and five other Bishops were interred."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

RATHDOWNY, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., united by Act of Council, at a time unknown, to the R. of Glashare: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Rathdowny: there is a miserable Glebe House, which is condemned, in the parish of Rathdowny, and the Incumbent is under orders to build: there are about 266 acres of Glebe Land, all in a circle, and within half a mile of the church: The Rev. Marcus Monck, the Vicar of Rathdowny, and Rector of Glashare (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, and is non-resident, by reason of the Glebe House not being habitable. Rathdowny is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 44¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 10th of July, 12th of September, and 15th of December. The parishes in the Union of Rathdowny are contiguous; and contain together nearly 9000 acres of Land. It has three Post-days in the week.

RATHDOWTAN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinadee. Rathdowtan is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Bandonbridge. See, Ballinadee.

RATHDRUM, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and 11½ acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Richard Powell, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Rathdrum is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 25¾ m. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Thursday, O. S., in February, 5th of April, and July, 10th of October, and 11th of December; Also on the first Monday in each month for Flannels, except July, when it is on the second Monday in that Month. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the River Ovoca.

RATHDRUMMIN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..4..1½ sterling, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the R. of Carrick, and the V. of Port: a very old church, in good order, in Rathdrummin: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12½ acres, not contiguous; 10 acres being in the parish of Rathdrummin, close to the church, and the remainder in the parish of Port, about half a mile distant from the other, and from the church of Rathdrummin: The Rev. A.

Lindsay, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties. Rathdrummin is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. E. from Dunleer. This parish contains 633 acres of land. The Income of this Union is of very moderate value. The parishes are not contiguous.

RATHEANICH, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Brugach, the son of Degad, was Bishop of Ratheanich, about the beginning of the Sixth century; from which period we can learn nothing of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

RATH-EASPUIC-INNIC, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Patrick founded a Church here, and appointed St. Vinnoc Bishop of it. It is in the territory of Hua-derchain, a Valley in the Barony of Antrim: there are four churches in this Valley, one of which, Rathmor, probably is Rath-easpuic-innic."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 12.

RATHELTY, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Rathelty is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. N. E. from Thurles. The parishes of Rathelty, and Shyane, are contiguous, and contain 1851 acres of land. See, Thurles.

RATHENE, or, RATHNANEPSCOP, in the Barony of ———, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Aid Glass fixed his residence here, where his Festival is observed on the 16th of February; And the Feast of St. Fidmunius of Raithen, brother to St. Fidharleus, who flourished A. D. 750, is observed here on the 16th of May."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

RATHENIN, v. RATHYNE.

RATHERNON, in the Barony of Great Connel, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £3..8..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmaoge. Rathernon is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¾ m. N. N. E. from Kildare. See, Kilmaoge.

RATHFARNE, in the Barony of Farbill, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 5¼ m. N. from Kinnegad. A village.

RATHFARNHAM, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Dublin: a Church, in good order: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry Mac Lean, the Resident Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £60. per annum, and the small dues of every description, amounting to £5. per annum. Rathfarnham is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the 10th of July. Here are the extensive improvements, and Castle, of Lord Loftus. See, St. Peter's, Dublin.

RATHFAYGTH, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Skryne. Rathfaygth is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. S. from Slane. This parish contains 1535 acres of land. The Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £12..7..0 Irish Money. See, Skryne.

RATHFRILAND, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 57½ m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the second Wednesday, O. S., in April, Wednesday after Trinity, second Wednesday, O. S., in September, and second Wednesday in December.

RATHGARTH, v. CASTLE POLLARD.

RATHGOGAN, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhay. Rathgogan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is adjacent to Charleville, on the North. This parish extends into the County of Limerick. See, Ballyhay.

RATHJORDAN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Precentorship of Emly. Rathjordan is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. b. N. from Six Mile Bridge. This parish contains 360 acres of land. See, Isert Laurence.

RATHKEALE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money; and united, at a period prior to any existing record, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Cloonagh, Clonshier, and Killscannell, being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Limerick, which is valued in the King's Books at £12. Irish Money; and with the Chancellorship is holden by Episcopal Union, and which has been so holden for several Incumbencies, the entire Rectory of Dundonnell: a Church, at Rathkeale, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 4 a. 1 r. 31 p., near the Church, at Rathkeale; there is also another Glebe, at Rathkeale, of 4 a. 0 r. 31 p., a mile distant: two Glebes, at Killscannell, one of them being 8 a. 0 r. 33 p., near the old church, and the other 5 a. 0 r. 20 p., half a mile distant; a Glebe, at Cloonagh, of 1 a. 2 r. 13 p., near the old church; two Glebes, at Clonshier, one of them being 2 a. 2 r. 14 p., near the old church, and the other of 7 a. 1 r. 28 p., at a distance; a Glebe, of 4 a. 3 r. 0 p., at Dundonnell: the Chancellorship has also a small lot of ground, in the City of Limerick: The Rev. John Hoare, A. M., the Chancellor (in 1806), who has cure of souls in each parish, and is resident in Limerick as Vicar General, and also as Attendant on the Cathedral: has a Licensed Curate for the whole Union, who resides in the Glebe House at Rathkeale, with a Salary of £75. per annum. Rathkeale is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 108 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of April, 1st of June, 25th of August, 18th of September, and November for Horses. This was formerly a Corporation town, and of much more consequence than at present. It is situate on the River Deel: and sustained an attack of the English army, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The parishes in the Union of Rathkeale are all contiguous, and contain about 8000 acres; of which 246 acres are in the parish of Dundonnell. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately (except Rathkeale), is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—" A Priory, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, was founded here for Augustin Canons of the Order of Aroacia, by a person of the name of Harvey. The ruins of this Priory are still remaining." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 435.

RATHKELTY, v. RATHELTY.

RATHKENNAN, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Perpetual Curacy, with Holy Cross. Rathkennan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. S.W. from Thurles. See, Holy Cross.

RATHKENNY, in the Barony of Navan, though locally situate in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £10..9..4 Irish Money: a Church, old, but in good repair: no Glebe House: about an acre of Glebe, adjoining to the Church-yard: The Rev. Robert Henry, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Rathkenny is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Slane.

RATHKYRAN, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2..6..8 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Dean and Chapter of Ossory are the Rectors, and the Vicars Choral are the Vicars: there is cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice: the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £70 per annum. Rathkyran is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Waterford.

RATHLACKEN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 132 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week.

RATHLIBTHEN, in the Barony of Eglish or Fircall, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" Here we find the Abbey of St. Illand, who flourished A. D. 540. The statue of the Saint is still to be seen in this Church, with his Episcopal Mitre and a Crosier in his hand: the head was broken off some time since by sacrilegious hands. St. Illand's Festival is observed on the 10th of June." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p 404.

RATHLINE, or, RATHCLINE, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united, forty years and upwards, to the V. of Cashell: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; two Glebes, containing 65¾ acres, about three miles distant from each other: The Rev. Robert Maffett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and serves a cure in another parish; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Rathline is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Lanesborough, on the North. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The parishes in the Union of Rathline are contiguous. The Castle, which is now in ruins, is said to be one of the most ancient in the kingdom.

RATHLIN, ISLAND, off the Barony of Cary, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in decent repair: a Glebe House, near the church, but no Glebe, except a small Garden: The Rev James Moore, the Incumbent in (1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. The Income of Rathlin is only £70. per annum. It is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is called Ricinia by Ptolomey. It abounds with some curious arrangements of columnar Basaltes; and is near five miles in length, and about three miles and a quarter in breadth, towards the middle: it contains about 1200 inhabitants, and where cultivated, produces excellent barley. Various antiquities have been discovered here. The remains of the ancient fortress, called Bruce's Castle, are still visible in the north angle of the Island.—"An Island, in the great Atlantic Ocean, two miles North of Fairhead Point, on which St. Comgall landed with an intent to erect a Cell, but he was instantly seized by a band of thirty military men, who, holding his hands, drove him out of the Island. We are not informed by whose orders the holy man was so inhospitably received and so rudely treated; but St. Columba, who founded Derry, A. D. 546, succeeded better, he founded a Church here, and placed over it, Colman, the Deacon, who was the son of Roi."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 11.

RATHLOGAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no Glebe; The Rev. The Dean and Chapter of Ossory, the Rectors, who have cure of souls in all parts of this Benefice: The duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £10 per annum. Rathlogan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin.

RATHLYNAN, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballintemple. Rathlynan is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. N. E. b. E. from Tipperary. This parish contains 1314 acres of land. See, Ballintemple.

RATHMACKNEE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £11..13..4

Irish Money, and the Vicarage at £13..6..8: no Church: a new Glebe House, erected by the present Incumbent, on a Glebe of 12 acres, contiguous to the site of the old church: The Rev. Francis Pentland, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Rathmacknee is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. b. W. from Wexford.

RATHMACVEOGE, v. RATHNAVEOGE.

RATHMANEPSCOP, v. RATHENE.

RATHMELTON, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Tully-Aghnish. It is 117 m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. It is situate on a Bay, to which it gives name, at the bottom of Lough Swilly. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the second Tuesday, O. S., in March, and May, the 17th of July, the Tuesday before 10th of October, 16th of November, and Tuesday after 11th of December. See, Tully-Aghnish.

RATHMHATH, v. KILLURSA.

RATHMICHAEL, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster; one of the Prebends of St. Patrick's Cathedral, valued in the King's Books at £8..1..1 Irish Money, and annexed to the Union of Bray. Rathmichael is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. N. W. from Bray. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. See, Bray.

RATHMINES, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 1 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. A small village, where the Duke of Ormond was defeated, in 1649, by the Parliament's Forces, under the command of Colonel Jones.

RATHMOANE, v. RAMORAN.

RATHMOLYON, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..12..0 Irish Money: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is preparing to build; two Glebes, one near the church, of about an acre; the other, of 35 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. Conway Benning, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but is not resident, on account of his infirmities: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Rathmolyon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. W. b. N. from Summerhill. The Fairs are holden on the 19th of April, and 29th of September.

RATHMOR, v. RATH-EASPUIC-INNIC.

RATHMORE, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathvilly. Rathmore is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. from Baltinglass. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Rathvilly.

RATHMORE, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £10..12..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarage of Kilteel, and the Chapels of St. Catharine, Beetra otherwise Beehan, Bride-Patrick, Harristown, Kilmore, and Kilbride; and to which is annexed the Prebend of Tipper: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Rathmore: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 12 acres, in the parish of Rathmore, near the church: The Rev. Hill Benson, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Rathmore is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. E. from Naas. These Chapelries are said to be Town Lands in the parishes of Rathmore, and Kilteel, and are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being 5 miles, and, from North to South, 4 miles.

RATHMORE, in the Barony of Lune, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. (an entire Impropriation), valued in the King's Books at £17..12..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athboy. Rathmore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Athboy. This parish contains 1222 acres of Land. No Income is derived from this Impropriation. See, Athboy.

RATHMOYLAN, in the Barony of Gaultiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a V., with the V. of Killea, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Crooke: two Glebes, adjacent to the site of the old church. Rathmoylan is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. b. W. from Passage, East. This parish contains about 1350 acres of land. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. See, Crooke, and Killea.

RATHMUIGHE, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"On the Sea shore, eight miles from Dunliffsia, as Colgan observes, which may probably be Dunluce. It was formerly a principal town of the Dalriedans, and an Episcopal seat and Monastery; but is now reduced to a small village with a church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p 13.

RATHMULLEN, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 11 m. N. E. b. N. from Letterkenny. It is a small town, situate on Lough Swilly.—"An House was built here for Carmelites, or White Friars, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary, by Mac Swine-fannagh."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 104.

RATHMULLIN, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., holden with the Perpetual Cure of Killough: a Church, in very good order: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 2 r. 10 p., near the church: The Income is under £60. per annum: The Rev. Bernard Ward, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides sufficiently near to discharge the duties. Rath-mullin is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S.[1]E. from Clough.

RATHMURBUILG, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"St. Domangart, Bishop of this church, which is in Dalaradia, died in the year 506; it is now called Machaire-ratha."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 14.

RATHNAVEOGE, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunkerrine. Rathnaveoge is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. b. S. from Roscrea. See, Dunkerrine.

RATHNEW, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Wicklow. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. N. W. from Wicklow. It is situate upon the Sea coast. See, Wicklow.

RATHOSSAIN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It was situate near the West gate of Trim. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Ossan, called The White, was Bishop here; and died on the 17th of February, A. D. 686. Nothing more is known of it.

RATHPATRICK, or, BALLYPATRICK, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rosbercon. Rathpatrick is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. E. b. N. from Waterford. It is situate upon the navigable River Suir. See, Rosbercon.

RATHREA, in the Barony of Ardagh, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killglass. Rathrea is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. from Edgworthstown. See, Killglass.

RATHREA, or, RATHBRAN, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united to the V. of Ballisakery. Rathrea is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 3½ m. W. N. W. from Killala. See, Ballisakery.—"The family of Dexter, who afterwards took the name of Mac Jordan, founded a Monastery here for Dominican Friars, in the year 1274. Other writers give this foundation to Sir William Burgh, surnamed The Greyheaded, and for some time Lord Justice of Ireland. There is a small village here, consisting of a few wretched cabins; and the walls of the Monastery, with its sacred edifices, still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 508.

RATHREGAN, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunshaglin. Rathregan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. S. b. W. from Dunshaglin. This parish contains 1822 acres of land. See, Dunshaglin.

RATHROE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killesk. Rathroe is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Killesk.

RATHRONAN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of Limerick, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling: a Church, in indifferent repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 2a. 2r. 10p., near the church: The Rev. Edward Wight, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish, and performs the duties in person. Rathronan is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. W. from Rathkeale.

RATHRONAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Daniel Sullivan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in Lismore, where he performs the Preaching turns for the Dean and Chapter: the duties are discharged by a Curate, who resides in Clonmell, at a Salary of £50. per annum. This Benefice is not worth £70. per annum. Rathronan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. from Clonmell. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Rathronan, and Kilronan, ought to be perpetually united, though they are separated from each other by the Town of Clonmell. They are each of too small value to stand alone. There is a very good Church in the parish of Rathronan; and, if Glebe Land could be purchased near it, and a Glebe House was built thereon, it is thought that these two Vicarages would form a good Union. The Duke of Devonshire is the Patron of both; and His Grace is not the Patron of any of the parishes contiguous to either of them.

RATHSALLAGH, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunlavan. Rathsallagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge. The Fair is holden on the 4th of September. See, Dunlavan.

RATHSARAN, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, newly built, and nearly finished: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build; about 113 acres of Glebe Land, contiguous to each other, and adjoining the church: The Rev. Francis G. Despard, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Rathsaran is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. W. from Rathdowny. The estimated extent of this parish is about 1200 acres.

RATHSITHE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.—"Was built by St. Patrick. It is now, says Father Colgan, a parish church, in the Diocese of Connor. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 14.

RATHSYWARD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Limerick, Rathsyward is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. See, St. Mary's, Limerick.

RATHUGH, v. RAHUE.

RATHVILLY, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., Episcopally united, ever since the year 1683, to the Rectories of Rathmore, and Straboe, and the Impropriate Cure of Rahill: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Rathvilly: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres, in the parish of Rathmore, two miles distant from the church: The Rev. John Whitty, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjacent parish, and discharges the duties in person. Rathvilly is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. S. from Baltinglass. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 25th of March, 24th of June, 1st of August, and 12th of November. The parishes in the Union of Rathvilly are contiguous; their contents being 6116 acres. It is situate on the River Slaney.

RATHWERE, in the Barony of Farbill, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the R. is valued in the King's Books at £43..13..4, and the V. at £22..6..8, both Irish Money. Rathwere is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. N. W. from Kinnegad.

RATHYNE, in the Barony of Fertullagh, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 6 m. S. E. from Mullingar.—"St. Carthag, alias Mochuda, erected a famous Monastery at Rathenin, where he presided, during the space of forty years, over 867 Monks, who supported themselves and the neighbouring poor by labour. There was also a celebrated Academy under the direction of this Saint. But in the Holy days of Easter, A. D. 630, he and his Monks were driven out of the Abbey by King Blathmac, who, as Keating observes, was incensed against them by the Monks of a neigbouring Abbey. St. Carthag took refuge at Lismore, in the County of Waterford, where he died on the 14th of May 636."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 727.

RATOATH, in the Barony of Ratoath, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3..17..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the Vicarages of Creekstown, Donaghmore, Greenogue, and Killeglan: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6 acres, close to the church: The Rev. Launcelot King Cunningham, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Ratoath is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 12¾ m. N. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fair is holden on the day before Whit-Sunday. The parishes in the Union of Ratoath are contiguous; that of Ratoath containing 4821 acres of land.—"The Abbey of St. Mary Magdalene, near this town, which existed in 1456, was seized, about the year 1385, of 40 acres of land, annual value £0..6..8. Some old Walls and the West window of the Abbey still remain.—In the parish church of St. Thomas the Apostle, which has been lately called, The Holy Trinity, was a Perpetual Chantry of three Priests."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 568.

RATORP, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 2½ m. S. S. W. from Gort. A village.

RATTOO, in the Barony of Clanmaurice, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory: no Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Samuel Collis, Curate (in 1806), and performs the duties, at a Salary of £14. per annum. Rattoo is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. W. b. S. from Listowell. This Impropriation belongs to Thomas Houghton, Esq. —"Rattoo is said to have been a Corporation Town, in which were seven Churches, and the residence of a Bishop: an high Round tower stands in the present churchyard. We are told that there was an Hospital or Commandery erected here for Knights Hospitallers by a brother William, which was confirmed by Meyler, the son of Meyler, in the reign of King John. It was afterwards converted into a Monastery of Regular Canons of the Order of Aroacia, and dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul. The Abbot of this House was a Lord of Parliament."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 306.

RAVEN, v. MARGARET'S, ST.

RAY, or, RAGHNIOHIE, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £18. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. John Usher, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Ray is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 4 m. E. b. N. from Letterkenny. It is situate upon Lough Swilly. Here is a Charter School, for 30 Boys: but which is recommended to be suppressed, and the Boys turned over to Ballykelly.

RAYLESTOWN, or, VILLARAILE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fethard. Raylestown is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. E. from Cashel. This parish contains 467 acres of land. See, Fethard.

RAYMUNTERDONY, or, RAGMUNTERDOYNE, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Alexander Crawford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Raymunterdony is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 4 m. S. W. from Dunfanaghy. It is situate upon the Sea coast.

REBAN, or, CHURCHTOWN, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Parish, constituting part of the Union of Nicholastown. Reban is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. W. from Athy. The only remains of this ancient City are a deep quadrangular Intrenchment, on the Western extremity of which is a high conical Mount. It seems to have been a Fort, commanding a Pass over the River Barrow, and situated among woods, which are now destroyed. It belonged to the ancient Principality of Leix. The Castle also is in ruins, which was erected by Richard de St. Michael, Baron of Reban, in the reign of King John. See, Nicholastown.

RED CASTLE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 14 m. N. N. E. from Londonderry.

RED CITY, or, DEMELLOGE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cashel: the duties are performed by The Rev. Francis Benson, the Rector of the adjoining parish of Fethard (in 1806), at an annual Salary of £5. Red City is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. S. W. from Fethard. This parish contains 2135 acres of land. See, Geale.

RED-CROSS, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 4¼ m. S. E. from Rathdrum. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, and 5th of August.

REDHILLS, v. POLLARDSTOWN.

RED LION, in the Barony of ——, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of March, and 8th of September.

REISK, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory, and Vicarage endowed: one part of the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Deanery, and another Part constituting part of the Corps of the Chancellorship, of Waterford: the Vicarage is Episcopally united to the V. of Kilmeaden. Reisk is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Waterford. See, Waterford, Monemointer, and Kilmeaden. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Kilmeaden, and Reisk, though the parish of Donhill intervenes, ought to be perpetually united: the Vicarage of Reisk is of much too small value alone to afford comfort to the Incumbent, and cannot well be added to any contiguous parish, they all being the Corps of some of the Chapter, or belonging to another Diocese; they are not above one mile distant from each other.

RELICKMURRY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Athassel. Relickmurry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. from Cashel. It is situate near the River Suir. See, Athassel.

RERYMORE, in the Barony of Tinehinch, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Oregan. Rerymore is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. See, Oregan.

REUTS, The, a District, on the North-west, and part of the Southof the County of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

REYNAGH, in the Barony of Garrycastle, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., Episcopally united, in the month of September 1798, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Gallen: a Church, in Reynagh, in good repair: a Glebe House, with every necessary office, in Reynagh, on a Glebe of 94 acres, within less than half a mile of the church: there are also two Glebes, of 137 acres, in Gallen, near the ruins of the old church: The Rev. John Burdett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Reynagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is contiguous to Banagher, on the North-east. The parishes in the Union of Reynagh are contiguous; that of Reynagh containing 2699 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it is expedient that these parishes should be disunited, as the Episcopal Union prevents a Church from being built in Gallen, where it is greatly wanted, and has been repeatedly applied for by the parishioners; and as there belongs to it an extensive Glebe, on which a House might be built.—" St. Regnacia, sister to St. Finian, who died A. D. 563, founded Kill-rignaighe; and Talacia, the mother of St. Finian, was Abbess here. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 404.

RHINCREW, v. TEMPLEMIHIL.

RICHARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster; a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Strabannon. Richardstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. from Ardee. This parish contains 547 acres of land. See, Strabannon.

RICHARDSTOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. See, Killenaule.

RICH-HILL, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster. It is 62¼ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It is situate on the Tall Water. It has three Post-days in the week.

RINAGONAGH, or, RINEOGONAGH, in the Barony of Decies within Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardmore: the Church, which is in ruins, was dedicated to St. Nicholas. Rinagonagh is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. S. E. from Dungarvan. It is situate upon Dungarvan Bay. See, Ardmore, and Dungarvan.

RINCURRAN, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and Episcopally united to the Rectory entire of Taxaxon: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3 acres: The Rev. Arthur John Preston, the Incumbent (in 1806), who resides partly in this Union, and partly on a Benefice in the Diocese of Kildare: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Rincurran is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. E. from Kinsale. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

RINEOGONAGH, v. RINAGONAGH.

RINGA ROGA, ISLAND, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.

RINGRONE, in the Barony of Courceys, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9. sterling, being holden, by Faculty, with the Prebend of Dromdaleague. Ringrone is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Kinsale. It is situate upon the River Bandon. It gives title of Baron to the Lords of Kinsale. This parish is about 20 miles distant from Dromdaleague.

RINGSEND, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Chaplaincy: a Church, in good order, dedicated to St. Matthew: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Ball, A. B., the Chaplain (in 1806), who discharges the duties himself, being that of Preaching only: all the Parochial duties are discharged by the Incumbent of the parish of Donabrook, to which parish the duties belong. Ringsend is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon Dublin Bay. Its proper name is said to be Rin-ann, i. e. The Point of the Tide, a term very applicable to its situation.

RIVERSTOWN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. N. E. b. E. from Cork. It is situate upon the River Glanmire.

ROACH, or, ROCHE, in the Barony of Dundalk, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster; a Curacy, holden with the Rectory of Baronstown. Roach is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. N. W. from Dundalk. This parish contains 168 acres of land. See, Baronstown.

ROAD, in the Barony of Warrens Town, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is 5½ m. N. E. from Philipstown. A village.

ROAMUISH, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.

ROBEEN, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killcommon. Robeen is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. W. from Hollymount. It is situate on the River Robe. To this parish belongs the Particle Anagh. See, Killcommon.

ROBERTSTOWN, v. CASTLE ROBERT.

ROBERTSTOWN, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Chapel, valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is situate to the Eastward of Rathcormuck.

ROBERTSTOWN, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Newtown. Robertstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Nobber. This parish contains 1000 acres of land. See, Newtown.

ROCHESTOWN, or, BALLYWILLIAM, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Thomas Ryan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and who, from age and infirmities, being incapable of performing the duties, is resident at Limerick, with the consent of the Diocesan: the duties are discharged by The Rev. John Bennet, his Curate. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is of very small value, and has been augmented to £60. per annum, by the Trustees of Primate Boulter's Fund. Rochestown is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. b. W. from Six Mile Bridge.

ROCHESTOWN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardfinan. Rochestown is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. b. E. from Cahir. It is situate upon the River Suir. This parish contains 571 acres of land. See, Ardfinan.

ROCK-ORRY, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. E. from Cootehill. The Fairs are holden on the last Wednesday in January, and February, 28th of March, and second Wednesday, O. S., in November.

ROCKVILLE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Affane. It is $5\frac{1}{2}$ m. E. S. E. from Lismore. It is situate upon the River Phinisk.

ROE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Burishhoole, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate in Clew Bay.

ROGERI CALVI, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clenore. Rogeri Calvi is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. See, Clenore.

ROSBERCON, or, ROSS-IBERCON, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., with Shanbough, valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, at a time unknown, to the Vicarages of Ballygurrum, Dysertmore, Kilmackevoge, Rathpatrick, and Shanbough: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Rosbercon; no Glebe House: five Glebes; one, of 112 acres, at Kilmackevoge; the second, of 4 acres, at Ballygurrum; the third, of $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres, at Shanbough; the fourth, of $2\frac{1}{4}$ acres, at Rosbercon; and the fifth, of one rood, at Dysertmore: these Glebes are all contiguous to each other, and also to the sites of their old churches: The Rev. Thomas Wallis, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Rosbercon is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is $\frac{1}{2}$ m. W. from New Ross. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, 3d of May, Whit-Monday, 10th of August, and 5th and 18th of October. It is situate upon the navigable River Barrow. The parishes in this Union are all contiguous, except that of Rathpatrick, which is about two miles distant from Kilmackevoge: and are each in extent about two miles.—"The families of Grace and Walsh are said to have founded a Monastery here, dedicated to the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, where Friars preachers were first introduced, on the 19th of September, 1267. From the ruins it appears that this monastery was by no means an ignoble structure."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 376.

ROSCOM, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. It is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 1 m. S. E. from Galway.

ROSCOMMON, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Templeneilan. It is $69\frac{1}{4}$ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, and 5th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. It is the County Town, and where the Assizes are holden. Here is a Charter School, for 40 Girls. See, Templeneilan.—"In an early age a Castle was erected here, which was re-edified in 1268, by Sir Robert de Ufford, Justiciary of Ireland, and in 1271, it was razed to the ground.—The first Religious foundation, which stands on record, is the Abbey of Regular Canons, founded by St. Coeman, the son of Faolchon, and a disciple of St. Finian; he flourished, A. D. 540, when he wrote a rule for Monks, which was observed by most of these religious bodies in Connaught.—The Dominican Friary was founded in the year 1253, or in 1257, by Felim, king of Connaught, who was interred here in 1265: his monument, in fine Irish marble, still remains, surrounded by his body guards in the dress of their time, but it has been lately much defaced. Tumultach O'Conor, who was made Bishop of Elphin in 1246, and translated to Tuam in 1259, consecrated the church of this Friary, which he dedicated to the honour of the Blessed Virgin. This Friary, and its possessions, were granted first to Sir Nicholas Malbye, Knight; and afterwards, on the 29th of January 1615, both the Abbey and Friary were granted to Francis Viscount Valentia.—The Franciscan Friary was founded A. D. 1269; and in the following year it was totally destroyed by fire."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 618. et seq.

ROSCOMROE, in the Barony of Ballibritt, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kinnitty. Roscomroe is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. b. E. from Birr. See, Kinnitty.

ROSCONNEL, in the Barony of Fassachdining, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. Irish Money: the Church has been a ruin upwards of one hundred years: a Glebe House, in good repair: a Glebe, of about 90 acres, all contiguous to each other, and to the site of the old church: The Rev. Chamberlain Walker, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this parish, and is resident. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. Rosconnel is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. b. W. from Ballynakill. Here was an ancient Castle of the O'Mares.

ROSCREA, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling, and the Vicarage at £2.; and Episcopally united, on the 28th of July, 1779, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Ettagh, and the Vicarages of Kilcoleman, and Kyle: two Churches, one of them in the parish of Roscrea, and the other in the parish of Ettagh, both in good repair: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 1 a. 2 r. 28 p., convenient to the church, in the parish of Roscrea; another, of 23 a. 1 r. 30 p., in the parish of Kilcoleman, near the site of the old church; and the third, of 24 a. 0 r. 18 p., in the parish of Ettagh, near the church: The Rev. Thomas L'Estrange, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties of Roscrea, and Kyle; and his Curate, The Rev. Richard Kennedy, A. B., who is resident in the parish of Ettagh, performs the duties of Ettagh, and Kilcoleman. Roscrea is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 59¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of May, 21st of June, 8th of August, 9th of October, and 29th of November. Roscrea was once a Bishoprick, but was united to Killaloe in the Twelfth century. The large old castle was built by the Ormond Family. The parishes in the Union of Roscrea are contiguous: their estimated extent from North to South being 6 miles, and from East to West 7 miles.—" St. Cronan, the son of Odran, built a Cell on a small Island in Loughkee, but finding that situation too retired, he erected a sumptuous Monastery (of Regular Canons) near the King's High-way, where a celebrated city afterwards sprang up, now only a small town, and called Roscrea. After the performance of many miracles, the holy and aged Founder of this House, ended an exemplary life on the 10th of May, in the beginning of the Seventh century, and his feast (as patron of Roscrea,) is holden on the 28th of April. The present church is dedicated to St. Cronan; the front of it is very old, and consists of a door and two flat niches on either side, of Saxon architecture, with a mezzo relievo of the Patron Saint, much defaced by time; at a little distance is a Cross in a circle, with a crucifix on one side, adjoining to which is a stone carved in various figures, and at each end a mezzo relievo of a Saint, both are called, if we mistake not, The Shrine of St. Cronan. To the North-west is a fine Round tower, 15 feet diameter, with two steps round it at the bottom; about 15 feet from the ground is a window with a regular arch, and at an equal height is another window with a pointed arch.—A Franciscan Friary was founded here, A. D. 1490, by Mulruany na Feasoige O'Carrol, who married Bibiana, the daughter of O'Dempsey. Others inform us, that Bibiana herself was the founder after she became a widow; the Cloister, however, could not have been built till after that time, as appears from an inscription, which was formerly in this Friary. This Building was situate on the River, at the North-west part of the town, and the remains are in good preservation."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 672.

ROSENALLIS, in the Barony of Tinehinch, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Oregan. It is 2¼ m. N. W. from Mount Mellick. A village. See, Oregan.

ROSINAN, in the Barony of Knocktopher, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inistioge. Rosinan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Inistioge.

ROSKEEN, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmeen. Roskeen is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. W. from Mallow. It is situate on the River Blackwater. See, Clonmeen. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

ROSS, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a V.: the Cathedral and Parochial Church of St. Faughnan, in very good repair, at the expense of The Chapter; and united, at a period prior to any known record, and by competent Authority at the time of the Institution of The Chapter, to the Rectory of Desert: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Dean and Chapter have cure of souls; the duties are performed by The Dignitaries, Prebendaries, and The Rev. George Armstrong, Resident Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £75. per annum. The Deanery of St. Faughnan, Ross (Wensley Bond, D. D., being Dean, in 1806, is valued in the King's Books at £3..2..0 sterling); has no cure of souls; no Parish: no Church: no Glebe House: no Glebe; but Land accustomed to be lett, 147 a. 0 r. 0 p., and the Presentation of the Vicar Choral: The Precentorship, (The Rev. Arthur Hyde, being the Precentor, in 1806, is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling); has no cure of souls; no Parish: no Church: no Glebe House: no Glebe; but Land accustomed to be lett, 237 a. 1 r. 28 p.: The Chancellorship, (The Rev. George Armstrong, being the Chancellor, in 1806, is valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling); has no cure of souls; no Parish: no Church: no Glebe House; no Glebe; but Land accustomed to be lett: The Treasurership, (The Rev. John Griffith, being the Treasurer, in 1806, is valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling); has no cure of souls; no Parish: no Church: no Glebe House: no Glebe; but Land accustomed to be lett, 128 a. 1 r. 9 p.: The Archdeaconry (The Rev. William Bissett, being Archdeacon, in 1806, is valued in the King's Books at £3..10..0 sterling), and consists of the Rectories (the Vicarages of each parish being endowed) of Aghadown, Kilcaskin, Kilcoe, Kilfaughnabeg, and Kilmacabea, being united at a period prior to any known record; has no cure of souls: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land. Ross is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 152½ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 19th of September, and 8th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The Castle is under the command of a Governor It is situate upon a Bay or Harbour, to which it gives name, but which is now choaked up with sand, on St. George's Channel. The Foundation of the Bishoprick of Ross (valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling) is unknown: it was united by Queen Elizabeth, according to Dr. Beaufort, in 1586, to the Bishoprick of Cork. The length of the principal part of the Diocese of Ross, is 25 miles from East to West, and the breadth 6 miles: the detached part of it, in the Mountains of Bear and Bantry, is about the same length, but not more than 4 miles broad. See, Cork.—" St. Fachnan Mongach, or, The Hairy, Abbot of Moelanfaidh, in the County of Waterford, was Abbot of this Monastery, and Principal of the School founded there; his Festival is holden on the 14th of August. A City grew up here, in which there was always a large Seminary of Scholars. This Monastery has been generally given to the Regular Canons following the Rule of St. Augustine; but it appears, from the two instruments published by Hugh Ward, that it did belong to the Order of St. Benedict, and that they professed obedience to the Benedictine Abbey of St. James, without the walls of the City of Wurtzburgh, in the Province of Mentz in Germany. The ruins of it still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 76.

ROSS, in the Barony of Ross, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmainmore. Ross is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 8 m. S. W. from Ballinrobe. It is situate on Lough Mask. See, Kilmainmore.—"A Monastery for Conventual Franciscans was founded at Ross-traily, A. D. 1431; which was reformed by the Observantines in the year 1470. It is a very solitary place, being on all sides surrounded by water."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 296.

ROSSBEENCHOIR, in the Barony of ———, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. Near the Western Ocean.—"St. Cocca, nurse to St. Kieran, was Abbess of a Nunnery here, which is now wholly unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 54.

ROSSCLARE, v. ROSSLARE.

ROSSDAGH, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. S. S. E. from Castletown Roche. It is situate upon the River Blackwater.

ROSS DROIT, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, newly erected; no Glebe, but one about to be granted: Vacant (in 1806): has cure of souls: a Rector will soon be appointed, who will be resident: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Cranfield, Curate, who resides near the parish, at a Salary of £70. per annum. Ross Droit is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Bove.

ROSS-DUFF, in the Barony of Gualtiere, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killure. Ross-Duff is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. The Prebend of Ross-Duff is valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money. See, Killure.

ROSSE, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 1 m. S. E. from Taragh. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Coeman Breac, who was Abbot here, died on the 14th of September 614.

ROSSERELLY, in the Barony of Clare, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate near Lough Corrib.—"The Lord Gannard founded a Monastery here for Franciscans of the strict Observance, in the year 1498. The Roman Catholicks repaired the Monastery of Rosserelly in the year 1604. And the ruins, which yet remain, show it to have been a very extensive building."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 296.

ROSSERICK, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on the River Moy, two miles South East from Killala.—"A Friary for the third Order of Franciscans was founded here by —— Joice; and a lease of the said Friary was afterwards granted to James Garvey. Here also is a Tower built on the same plan with that of Moyne, but exactly on the middle of the gable end. It is remarkable, that in each of these Monasteries there is a closet of hewn-stone, for two Confessors to sit in, with a hole on each side for the persons who confess to speak through."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 508.

ROSSES, The, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. A considerable Herring Fishery is carried on here: the Roads or Harbours on this part of the Coast are all excellent and safe retreats for Vessels.

ROSS-IBERCON, v. ROSBERCON.

ROSSINVER, in the Barony of Rossclogher, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: 312 acres of Glebe, in the parish of Killasnet, seven miles from the church: The Rev. Francis Saunderson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Rossinver is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. S. S. W. from Ballyshannon.

ROSSLARE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the R. is valued in the King's Books at £39..9..0 Irish Money; the V. is valued in the King's Books at £16. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilscoran. Rosslare is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. E. b. S. from Wexford. It is situate upon the Sea coast. See, Kilscoran.

ROSSLEE, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Balla. Rosslee is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 5½ m. N. b. W. from Hollymount. The Fair is holden on the 28th of October. See, Balla.

ROSSMENOGUE, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tomb. Rossmenogue is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Bann. See, Tomb.

ROSSMERE, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £8..9..9½ Irish Money: a Church, at Kilmacthomas, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Hewetson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Down: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Lymberg, at a Salary of £65. per annum. The value of this Living is £140. per annum. Rossmere is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 1 m. N. E. from Kilmacthomas. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Rossmere, Fews, and Ballylameen, ought to be perpetually united; and Glebe Land ought to be purchased near the church, in the parish of Rossmere, and a Glebe House built thereon.

ROSSMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is situate in the River of Kenmare.

ROSS, NEW, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £12..9..4 Irish Money; and the Vicarage at £10. Irish Money; and united by Act of Council, on the 28th of June 1678, to the Rectories of Ballyane, Carnagh, Old Ross, and Tillaraght, the Vicarages of Clonleigh, and Temple Adigan, and the Impropriate Cures of Ballybrassell, and Kilscanlan: two Churches, in repair; one, in the town of New Ross, dedicated to St. Mary; and one, in the town of Old Ross: A Chapel of Ease is also to be built immediately, at Temple Adigan: no Glebe House: there are five lots of ground in the town of New Ross, but not sufficient for the purpose of building: The Rev. James Dunn, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is constantly resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curates, viz, The Rev. George Carr, in the town of New Ross, at a Salary of £90.; The Rev. Mr. Duncan, in the parish of Old Ross, at a Salary of £70.; and, The Rev. Mr. Napper, in the parish of Temple Adigan, at a Salary of £70. per annum. New Ross is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 67¼ m. S. S. W. from Dublin. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; Patron, Lord Loftus. It is situate upon the navigable River Barrow, and is one of the Staple ports for the exportation of Wool. The Magistrates are a Sovereign, Deputy, Recorder, Bailiff, and Town Clerk. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Boys. It gives title of Earl to the family of Gore. It has six Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of New Ross are all contiguous; their contents being 10,065 acres. The Impropriate Cure of Ballybrassell produces only £2: as does also the Impropriate Cure of Kilscanlan, which belongs to the Bishop's Mensals. Here is a Ferry into the County of Kilkenny.—"The Crouched Friary was built on the summit of an hill in the town; but one of the Friars having killed a principal inhabitant, the whole body of the people arose, put the Friars to death, and totally destroyed the Friary.—The Monastery of St. Saviour, for Conventual Franciscans, was erected on the site of the first foundation by Sir John Devereux. The East end of the building is now the parish church.—To whom the Augustinian Friary owed its origin we are not informed; but, according to Ware, it was founded in the reign of King Edward the Third." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 749.

ROSS, OLD, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £12..17..9 Irish Money; and the Vicarage at £7. Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Old Ross is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. E. from New Ross. See, Ross, New.

ROSSORY, or, ROSS ORRY, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good condition: no Glebe House; 98 acres of Glebe, for the most part, in another parish: but an exchange of Glebe will soon be effected, and a house will then be built: The Rev. Alexander Aughenlick, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate. Rossory is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. S. from Enniskillen.—" St. Fanchea, or Fuinchea, founded a Nunnery at Ross-Oirthir, near Lough Erne. She died about the year 480; and her Festival is observed here on the 1st of January. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 265.

ROSTILLAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghada. Rostillan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Cloyne. It is situate upon the Eastern side of Cork Harbour. Here are the magnificent improvements and demesnes of The Earl of Inchiquin. The Fairs are holden on the 25th of March, and 15th of August. See, Aghada. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

ROSTREVOR, or, ROSE-TREVOR, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 57½ m. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Shrove-Tuesday, Easter-Monday, Whit-Tuesday, 1st of August, 19th of September, 1st of November, and 11th of December. It is situate on the Bay of Carlingford. This place, it is said, took its name from an heiress, whose name was Rose, who married into the family of the Trevors; And was the Seat of the Trevors, Viscounts Dungannon. It has three Post-days in the week.

ROSTUIRC, in the Barony of ———, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster.—" We know not the situation of this Abbey, nor to whom it owed its origin, but are told it was near the mountains of Slieu Bloom. St. Brendan governed this church, and was Abbot of Cluainimurchir, in the life-time of St. Abban." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 596.

ROWER, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money: a Church: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Michael D. Madden, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in his other parish, in this Diocese: The duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Rower is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. E. from Inistioge.

RUGGED, ISLE, off the Barony of Carberry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster.

RUSCAR, in the Barony of Magheraboy, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 6 m. N. W. b. N. from Church Hill. It is situate on Lough Erne. Ruscar is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

RUSH, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is 13½ m. N. b. E. from Dublin. It is situate upon the Irish Sea, and is a pretty large Fishing-town. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 29th of September for horses, and chapmen's goods. The Ling cured here, and of which much is exported, has long been celebrated for its superior flavour. The Harbour admits only small craft; its passage being very narrow.

RUSKY-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Mohill, Co. of Leitrim, and Province of Connaught. It is 7 m. N. N. W. from Longford. A village, situate on the River Shannon.

RUSKY-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Kilglass. It is 7 m. N. b. W. from Longford. A village, situate upon the River Shannon.

RUSSAGH, or, CLONABRENY, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Loughcrew. Russagh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. S. E. from Oldcastle. This parish contains 540 acres of land. See, Loughcrew.

RUSSAGH, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Abbey-Laragh: no Church. Russagh is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. S. E. from Edgworthstown. See, Abbey-Laragh.

RUSSEL'S WOOD, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster. The Fair is holden on the 26th of August.

RUTLAND, or, RUTLO, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¾ m. E. from Carlow. A village.

RUTLAND, ISLAND, off the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster. It is 153 m. N. N. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. It takes its name, according to Dr. Beaufort, in compliment to the late Duke of Rutland, where a small Town has lately been built by the public-spirited exertions of The Right Hon. Mr. Conyngham, for the purpose of promoting the Herring Fishery; to which this situation seemed peculiarly adapted.

S

SAGGARD, v. TASSAGARD.

SAINTFIELD, or, TULLAGHNANEVE, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of Down, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a good Glebe House, on a Glebe of 12 acres, near the church: The Rev. James Clewlow, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Saintfield is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 78 m. N. b. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 26th of January, the second Thursday, O. S., in February, March, the third Thursday, O. S., in April, May, 26th of June, 30th of July, 26th of August, the third Thursday in September, 26th of October, the third Thursday, O. S., in November, and the Thursday after Christmas. It has three Post-days in the week.

SAINT JOHN BAPTIST GRANGE, v. GRANGE, ST. JOHN BAPTIST.

SALTEE, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Bargie, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster. These are three Islands, which lie about a league from the shore, and between which is a ledge of rocks, called St. Patrick's Bridge.

SALTERSTOWN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, belonging to the Abbey of Mellifont: no Chapel. Salterstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Dunleer. It is situate upon Dundalk Bay.

SANDFIELD, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. It is 4¾ m. S. E. from Roscommon. A village.

SANTRY, in the Barony of Coolock, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe, of one acre, near the church; and the Board of First Fruits has granted £400. out of the last Parliamentary grant, to build a Glebe House, and which will forthwith be built: Thomas Smith, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and will reside as soon as the Glebe House is finished: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Moore, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Santry is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. N. from Dublin. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Girls.

SAUL, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Down: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Saul is in the Diocese of Down and Province of Armagh. It is 1¾ m. N. b. E. from Downpatrick. It is situate on the South West branch of Strangford Lough. This parish contains 3125 acres of land. See, Downpatrick.—"St. Patrick founded an Abbey here for Canons regular, and made his disciple, St. Dunnius, or Modunn, Abbot of it: the Patron Day is the 29th of May. The founder died here on the 17th of March, A. D. 493, in his 120th year, and was interred with great solemnity at Downpatrick. Of this Monastery large ruins still remain: there are yet entire two vaulted Rooms of stone, about seven feet high, six long, and two and an half broad, with a small window in one side."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 128.

SCADDANSTOWN, or, ST. JOHNSTOWN.

SCAREWALSH-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Ferns. A village, situate on the River Slaney. The Fair is holden on the 16th of August.

SCARIFF, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 93 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. It is situate on the River Shannon. It has three Post-days in the week.

SCARIFF, ISLAND, off the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is an high Mountain in the Atlantic Ocean, and hath one family on it, who take care of some Cows, and make a considerable quantity of Butter; on the top of the highest ground in the Island, is a ruined Hermitage.

SCARVAGH PASS, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. N. W. from Loughbrickland. It was formerly an incumbered Pass, through bogs, woods, and morassy grounds. Here is a large Salt Work. It is situate on the Newry Canal.

SCHEMES, The, off the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. These are four small Islands, situate in Roaring Water Bay.

SCILLY, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is a well-built village, near to Kinsale, on the East.

SCOT'S HOUSE, in the Barony of Dartree, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. N. W. from Cootehill. A village.

SCOURLOUGHSTOWN, v. SUNLOCKSTOWN.

SCRABA, in the Barony of Tullaghonoho, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 7 m. N. W. b. W. from Granard. The Fairs are holden on Ascension Day, and 11th of December.

SCREEB, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. A village, situate on the Sea-coast.

SEAFORD, anciently NEAGHEN, in the Barony of Kinelearty, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is ¾ m. N. from Clough. The Fairs are holden on the 7th of March, 9th of June, 4th of September, and 6th of December.

SEAL, ISLAND, off the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is situate near the entrance of Strabragy Bay.

SEANBHOTHA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently an Abbey here: but it is now unknown.

SEAPATRICK, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, under repair, on a Glebe of 73 acres, not far from the church: The Hon. and Rev. Pierce Meade, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Seapatrick is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. N. from Bannbridge. It is situate on the River Bann.

SEGOE, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 499 English acres, near the church: The Rev. George Blacker, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Segoe is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. N. E. from Portadown. It is situate on the River Bann.

SEIKYRAN, v. SEIRKYRAN.

SEINGLEAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" Here was a celebrated Abbey, founded by the great St. Columb; in process of time it became a parish church, and is in the Diocese of Raphoe." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 105.

SEIRKYRAN, in the Barony of Ballibritt, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: about 40 acres of Glebe Land, in the hands of the Impropriator: The Rev. Matthew Wood, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this parish, and is resident within a quarter of a mile thereof: Acccording to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent. Seirkyran is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. E. b. S. from Birr. This parish is about 2 miles in breadth, and 2½ miles in length.—" St. Kiaran, the elder, was born A. D. 352, in the Island of Cape Clear. He studied at Rome, and in the year 402 founded this abbey. The time of this Saint's death is uncertain, but his Festival is celebrated on the 5th of March. In succeeding ages, a Monastery, dedicated to St. Kiaran, was founded here for Canons Regular of the Order of St. Augustin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern p. 404.

SESKINAN, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, the Rectory being the Corps, which is valued in the King's Books at £4..10..0: no Church: no Glebe House, or Land: The Rev. John Frazer, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and it being a perfect Sine Cure, he resides in the City of Waterford, where he is the Public Schoolmaster, and Lecturer of St. Olave's: the Vicarage has neither Glebe, Glebe House, or Church: The Rev. Harris Oldfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Drumana, in the parish of Aglish, where he attends the Chapel of Villierstown, and discharges the duties in person. The value of this Living is not £100. per annum. Seskinan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¾ m. N. from Dungarvan. This parish is for the most part a mountainous and boggy tract. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage of Seskinan ought to be perpetually united.

SEVEN CHURCHES, v. CLONMACKNOIS.

SEVEN CHURCHES, v. GLANDELAGH.

SHANAGOLDEN, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Corps of the Precentorship of Limerick; the Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: three Glebes; one, of 1¼ acre, close to the church; another of 1 a. 2 r. 10 p., a quarter of a mile from the church; and the third, of 2 a. 0 r. 18 p., two miles from the church: The Rev. George Vincent, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and performs the duties in person. Shanagolden is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 115 m. W. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Wednesday after Trinity-Sunday, and 4th of September. It has three Post-days in the week. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Nantinan.

SHANBOUGH, in the Barony of Ida, Igrin, and Ibercon, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rosbercon. Shanbough is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. W. from New Ross. See, Rosbercon.

SHANCOE, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Taunagh and Boyle. Shancoe is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. b. E. from Boyle. See, Taunagh.

SHANDRUM, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £11. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballyhay. Shandrum is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Charleville. The Fairs are holden on the 25th day of May, and 20th of August. See, Ballyhay.

SHANE CASTLE, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. N. W. from Antrim. A village, situate upon Lough Neagh. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of July, and 8th of October. Here is the noble mansion of The Right Hon. Earl O'Neill.

SHANGAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilmahon. A village, situate on St. George's Channel.

SHANKHILL, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., holden with the Prebend of Dromaragh, and valued in the King's Books at £14. sterling: a Church, in good repair; an old Glebe House, so much out of repair as to require being rebuilt, on a Glebe of 169 English acres: The Rev. Holt Waring, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident sufficiently near to the Benefice, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Shankhill is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is ¼ m. N. W. from Lurgan.

SHANKILL, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House, but no Glebe: The Rev. William Bristow, the Resident Incumbent, in 1806. Shankill is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. N. W. from Belfast. It is situate upon Belfast Lough.

SHANKILL, or, ST. KILL, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. James Mac Grath, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the adjoining parish. Shankill is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Leighlin Bridge. Here is a seat of the Aylward family.

SHANKILL, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..5..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcooly. Shankill is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. S. W. from Elphin. The Chantorship of Elphin has a portion of Tythes in this parish. See, Kilcooly.

SHANNON GROVE, in the Barony of Connello, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster. It is 3 m. from Askeaton. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Boys: And also a Nursery for 100 Children. It is placed on an high and beautiful situation over the river Shannon, and close to the village of Pallas.

SHANRAHAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 18th of April 1774, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the Vicarage of Templetenny; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Shanrahan: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 3¾ acres, in Shanrahan, about four miles from the church; Charles Tuckey, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjacent parish of Tullaghorton, and discharges the duties in person. Shanrahan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is ½ m. W. S. W. from Clogheen. The parishes in the Union of Shanrahan are contiguous; their extent being 9870 acres of land; a great part of which is mountainous, uncultivated, and uninhabited. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Shanrahan, and Templetenny, ought to be perpetually united; and Glebe Land purchased in the parish of Shanrahan, near the church, and a Glebe House built thereon.

SHEEP, ISLAND, off the Barony of Cary, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster.

SHEFFIN, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Sheffin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Aghour.

SHENEX, ISLE, off the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster. It is situate in the Irish Sea, 4½ miles S. E. from Balbriggen.

SHENLIS, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardee. Shenlis is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. S. W. from Ardee. This parish contains 883 acres of land. See, Ardee.

SHERCOCK, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster; in the parish of Killan. It is 8¼ m. N. W. from Carrickmacross. The Fair is holden on Whit-Monday. See, Killan.

SHERLOCKSTOWN, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Great Connel. Sherlockstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Rathcoole. The parish of Sherlockstown is three miles distant from Ladytown, and contains 700 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent. In this parish are 700 acres having Rectorial Tythes; and it is recommended to be united to the Benefice of Bodenstown. See, Great Connel, and Bodenstown.

SHILELAGH, in the Barony of Shilelagh, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster. It is 4 m. S. W. from Tinehaly. A village. Here are the remains of a Forest, once the most celebrated in Ireland for the excellence of its Oak, which was exported to England, and different parts of Europe; and is still shown in the roof of Westminster Hall, and of some ancient buildings on the Continent.

SHINRONE, in the Barony of Clonlisk, King's County, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..0

sterling, and united by Act of Council, on the 7th of May 1792, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Kilmurry Ely; and these are Episcopally united to the entire Rectory of Kilcomin: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Shinrone: a Glebe House, in the parish of Shinrone, a d a Glebe, of 21 a. 2 r. 17 p., within one mile of the church; another Glebe, of 31 a. 0 r. 27 p., in the parish of Kilmurry Ely, convenient to the site of the old church; and a third Glebe, of 22 a. 0 r. 11 p., in the parish of Kilcomin, convenient to the site of the old church there: The Rev. John Huleatt, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Arthur Huleatt, A. B. Shinrone is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 64¼ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of July, and 21st of November. The parishes in the Union of Shinrone are contiguous; their estimated extent, from North to South, being 4 miles, and, from East to West, 6 miles.

SHIRCOCK, v. SHERCOCK.

SHRADUFFE, or, TEMPLE DISERT, in the Barony of ——, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster.—"On the 12th of March 1611, the site of this Abbey, and the possessions thereunto belonging, were granted, in fee, to Sir Edward Fisher, Knt. This is the only information we have that there was a Religious House here."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 54.

SHRONELL, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cullen. Shronell is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. S. W. from Tipperary. See, Cullen.

SHROWLE, v. ABBEY-SHROWLE.

SHRULE, in the Barony of Rathline, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is preparing to build: two Glebes, containing 33 a. 3 r. 0 p.: The Rev. M. Maguire, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Shrule is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Ballymahon, on the North. It is situate on the River Inny.

SHRULE, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Galway. Shrule is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 3¾ m. N. from Headford. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, 26th of July, and 11th of November. It is situate on the Black River. See, Galway.

SHRULE, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory, being the Corps of a Prebend in the Cathedral of Leighlin, and one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloydagh. Shrule is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Cloydagh.

SHYANE, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Thurles. Shyane is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. See, Rathelty, and Thurles.

SILVER MINES, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. S. from Nenagh. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, 8th of June, 12th of September, and 25th of October. Here are very productive Lead Mines, among the ore of which some virgin silver has been found.

SIMONSTOWN, in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Timolin. Simonstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Timolin.

SINGLAND, in the County of the City of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. S. E. from Limerick.

SIX MILE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster. It is 102¾ m. W. S. W. from Dublin. Near this is a fine Seat, called Mount Ievers. This Town was called in Irish Abhuin O'Gearna, from the River Gearna, which runs from thence to the Shannon.—"There was a Chapel, or Vicarial House, near to this town, which did belong to the Dominicans of Limerick, but of this there are now no remains."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 54.

SIX MILE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Small County, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Fedamore. It is 102 m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

SIX MILE CROSS, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 7¼ m. S. E. from Omagh. The Fair is holden on the 19th of June. See, Termonmaguirk.

SKEA, in the Barony of Clonawly, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 4 m. S. b. W. from Enniskillen. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

SKEIRKE, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: two Glebes, of 109 acres, about a quarter of a mile distant from each other, and contiguous to the church: The Rev. James Rogers, the Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of the parish, and is non-resident, by want of a Glebe House: the duties are discharged by a Licensed Curate, at a Salary of £90. per annum. Skeirke is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¾ m. S. S. W. from Burros in Ossory. Here are the ruins of a Castle, a Pagan Fane, a Cromlech, and a high Keep or Exploratory Fort. This parish contains about 1500 acres of land.

SKELIG, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. These Islands are three in number, and are situate in the Atlantic Ocean: the largest is called, The Great Skelig, and is three leagues from the Main, the others are but rocks of marble. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here by St. Finian. But the situation being found extremely bleak, and the going to and from it highly hazardous, it was removed to Ballinaskeligs, on the Continent.

SKERRIES, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. S. E. from Balbriggen. It is situate upon the Irish Sea, and is a pretty considerable Fishing-town. Near this are several very elegant Seats, and Villas. The Skerries Rocks, or Islands, are three in number, at a small distance from the Town of Skerries, and are remarkable for producing great quantities of the Sea-weed, from which Kelp is made. See, Patrick's, St., Isle.

SKERRIES, ISLANDS, off the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster.

SKERRY, in the Barony of Antrim, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling; and united to the R. of Racavan, time immemorial; and Episcopally united, in 1799, to the V. of Glynne: a Church, at Broughshane, in the parish of Skerry, in tolerable order; and Money is raised to complete its repair: no Glebe, or Glebe House, in the Union: The Rev. George Macartney, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a neigbouring Curate. Skerry is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 5½ m. N. E. from Ballymena. The parishes of Skerry, and Racavan, are contiguous; the parish of Glynne is about twelve miles distant from the latter. It is situate upon the River Braid. This parish contains 17,130 acres of land.

SKIBBEREEN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Creagh. It is 161¾ m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 14th of May, 10th of July, 2d of August, 12th of October, and 11th and 23d of December. It has six Post-days in the week. The Revenue Officers of the Port of Baltimore reside here. It is situate on the River Ilen.

SKORNAN, v. GRAYSTOWN.

SKREEN, or, SKRINE, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £7. sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and 20 acres of Glebe, contiguous to the church: The Rev. Leslie Battersby, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Skreen is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 11½ m. W. S. W. from Sligo.—"Tipraid, Prince of the Hy-Fiachrii, granted Knocknamoile to St. Columb. It was afterwards called Scrinium Sancti Adamnani. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 637.

SKREEN, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. Skreen is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6½ m. N. N. E. from Wexford. See, Ardcolme.

SKRINE, v. SKREEN.

SKRYNE, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..18..0 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, in 1677, to the V. of Dowdstown, and the Chapelries of Kilcarn, Lismullen, Rathfaygth, and Templecarnan: a Church, in Skryne, in bad repair: the site is inconvenient, and the Parishioners are preparing a Fund to build one in a more central situation: no Glebe House: a Glebe, in Skryne, of 22 acres, in four different Parcels: and for which an exchange has been agreed upon, in an equivalent lying together and convenient to the church; whereon, as soon as the legal forms are gone through, the Incumbent is to build a Glebe House, having presented a Memorial for that purpose: The Rev. Stephen Ratcliffe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Skryne is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. from Dunshaglin. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of June, and 10th of October. The parishes in the Union of Skryne are contiguous; that of Skryne containing 3150 acres of land.—"In former times it was called Scrinium St. Columbœ, from the shrine of that Saint, which in the year 875 was brought from Britain into Ireland, to prevent its falling into the hands of the Danes. In the year 1175, Adam de Feypo erected a Castle in this town.—The Abbey of Regular Canons was plundered by the Ostmen, A. D. 1027.—In the year 1341, the Lord Francis de Feypo granted to the Eremite Friars of the Order of St. Augustin, a piece of ground adjacent to his park, for the space and term of 99 years, at the rent of a pepper-corn annually. The ruins of this building, situated near the church, may still be seen. —The same Lord de Feypo founded here, about the year 1342, a Perpetual Chantry."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 569.

SKULL, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 63 a. 3 r. 6 p.: The Rev. Anthony Trail, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in the Diocese of Connor, of which he is Archdeacon: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Skull is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. W. S. W. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon a small Harbour, to which it gives name, in Roaring Water Bay.

SLADE, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: in the Parish of Templetown. It is situate upon a Bay to which it gives name, in the Harbour of Waterford. See, Feathard.

SLANE, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. See, Ballyphilip.

SLANE, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £24..6..0 Irish Money: a Church, in complete repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 12 acres, close to the church, on which the Incumbent is now building a House, with suitable offices: The Rev. Thomas Brownrigg, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Dublin: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Slane is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 24 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of April, 2d of June, 2d of September, and 8th of November. In this parish are the ancient Mounts, or Tumuli, of New Grange. It is situate upon the River Boyne. It has six Post-days in the week.—"In the time of Hugh de Lacie this was a town of some note, being one of the Boroughs in his Palatinate of Meath. The Hermitage of Eirc, which lies South of the town, and near the river, takes its name from St. Eirc, the first Bishop of Slane, who was consecrated by St. Patrick, and died November the 20th A. D. 514, in the 90th year of his age.—The Abbey of Canons Regular was founded, in a very early age, on the hill at some distance from the hermitage, and was remarkable for being many years the residence of a Royal prince. In the year 1512, it appears to have been re-built for Friars of the third Order of St. Francis, by Christopher Fleming, Knight, Lord of Slane, and Elizabeth Stuckle his wife. In the present remains of Lord Slane's building are several fragments of the ancient Abbey, and many of the architraves were evidently cut out of the ornamental parts, particularly one with the appearance of a head crowned. A spacious Castle was erected here by the Lord of Slane, who being afterwards engaged in the great rebellion in 1641, the estate vested in the Crown: and The Right Honourable William Conyngham, who at present possesses this beautiful seat, is now employing (in 1786) every aid of architecture and design in rendering it a truly elegant residence."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 570.

SLATEY, or, Sletty, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cloydagh. Slatey is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1¼ m. N. N. W. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Barrow. See, Cloydagh.—"The first Abbot we meet with here is St. Fiech, a celebrated Bard and a disciple of St. Patrick. St. Aid, who was Bishop of this church, died A. D. 698, and his Festival is holden on the 12th of October."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 596.

SLEGUFF, v. LLYGUFF.

SLETTY, v. SLATEY.

SLEUSHANCOGH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.—" There was a Friary of Conventual Franciscans here, which, on the Suppression of Monasteries, was granted to Sir Francis Sammes."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 296.

SLIEVE DONARD, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—" St. Domangart, a Disciple of St. Patrick, founded a noble Monastery at the foot of this mountain. His Festival is on the 4th of March. Yet the Patron day seems to be, July the 25th, when the Roman Catholicks climb up the mountain to perform their penance."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 129.

SLIGO, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, and Episcopally united for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Calry, Kilaspickbrown, and Kilmacoen: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: one acre of Glebe, in the parish of St. John: The Rev. Wenesley Bond, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice in the Diocese of Ferns; the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. W. C. Armstrong. Sligo is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 105 m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, 4th of July, 11th of August, and 9th of October. It is the County Town: and here the Assizes are holden. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; Patronage, in the Wynne Family. The Magistrates are a Provost, and Town Clerk. Here is a Charter School, for 80 Boys, which was opened in the year 1755. It is a Town of considerable trade, situate on a Bay to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean. It has six Post-days in the week. The Union of Sligo is estimated to extend about 42 square miles.—" In the year 1245, a castle was built in this Town by Maurice Earl of Kildare; and, in 1271, it was destroyed; but, in 1310, the castle was rebuilt by Richard Earl of Ulster.—A. D. 1252, a Monastery was founded here, under the Invocation of the Holy Cross, for Friars of the Order of St. Dominick, by Maurice Fitzgerald, who was Lord Justice of this Kingdom, in the year 1229, and retained that office from 1232 to 1245. Some writers erroneously attribute this foundation to O'Connor (Lord of) Sligo. At the general suppression, this Friary was granted to Sir William Taafe. The few ruins of this spacious and beautiful monastery evince its former splendour. Three sides of the Cloister may still be seen, covered with an arched roof: the arches and pillars are of extraordinary workmanship, and a few of the pillars are ornamented with Sculpture. The great East window is beautiful, and the High Altar, adorned with relievos in the Gothic style, is now so overwhelmed with bones and skulls, (the quantity, as we are told, being sufficient to load a small vessel), as to prevent a minute description. The Nave is spacious, with a passage round it in the nature of a gallery, and supported by pillars of stone about four feet distant from each other. In the corner, to the right as you look towards the Altar, is the Tomb of O'Conor, with the figures of himself and Lady, and an inscription now almost defaced. Here are also several vaults and cells, and the tower in the centre is pretty entire, except the battlements. This great and curious monument of antiquity seems to have fallen a prey rather to the devouring teeth of time than to the hands of man; although Cromwell is said to have done some injury to it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 637.

SLUNAGH, or, ABBEY SLUNAGH, in the Barony of Glanehiry, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster.—" There were some lands in this Barony thus called, which, in the Down Survey, are made a distinct Parish. These lands formerly belonged to the Abbey of Inis Launaght (Innislounagh), or de Suirio, in the County of Tipperary, probably the place on the Suir, called Abbey. It was endowed by Donald O'Brien, King of Limerick, and Malachy O'Feolain, Lord of Decies, in the Twelfth century. At the dissolution, the lands were granted to Sir Patrick Gough, of Kilmanehin."—Smith's Waterford. Sec. edit. p. 93. note.

SMERMORE, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardee. Smermore is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. S. S. W. from Ardee. This parish contains 801 acres of land. See, Ardee.

SMERWICK, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is 7 m. N. W. from Dingle. It is situate upon a Bay, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean.

SMITH'S-BOROUGH, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5½ m. W. from Monaghan. The Fairs are holden on the 2d of April, Whit-Monday, and the second Monday in August, and November.

SNAMHLUTHIR, in the Barony of Carbury, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught.—" An Abbey was founded here by Columban, or Colman, the son of Echodius, a disciple of the great St. Columb, and, as we are told, his Charioteer. We know nothing further of this Abbey."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 639.

SOLAR, in the Barony of Kilconway, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Connor and Killyglen, and is one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Connor.

Solar is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is a very small Denomination. See, Connor.

SOLDIERS TOWN, v. AGHALEE.

SOLLOGHODBEG, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £5..1..0 sterling, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cullen. Solloghodbeg is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. is 2¾ m. N. from Tipperary. See, Cullen.

SOLLOGHODMORE, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cullen. Solloghodmore is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. W. from Tipperary. See, Cullen.

SPIDDAL, in the Barony of Moycullin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate on Galway Bay.

SPIKE, ISLAND, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. It is 1½ m. S. b. E. from Cove, in Cork Harbour, and is strongly fortified.

SPITLE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Orrery and Kilmore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Bothon. It is 2¼ m. W. from Doneraile. Here are the ruins of a Chapel of Ease. According to Dr. Smith, this whole Town formerly seems to have been an assemblage of Churches, and Religious Houses, which being dissolved, consequently went, with them to ruin. It belongs to the Earl of Barrymore; and is situate upon the River Awbeg.

SRUTHAIR, or, SRUTHAIRGUAIRE, in the Barony of Slewmargy, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster. It is situate near Slaty. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Mogoroc was Abbot here.

STABANNON, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £16..8..7 sterling, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the V. of Richardstown: a Church, in Stabannon, in indifferent order; a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 6 acres, contiguous and close to the church: The Rev. Thomas Murphy, the Incumbent (in 1806,) who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Stabannon is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. N. E. from Ardee. The parishes in the Union of Stabannon are contiguous: that of Stabannon containing 1771 acres of land.

STACKALLAN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £10..0..0 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, (on the 21st of May 1667; but the Patronage not having been settled, a new Act was obtained, on the 16th of December 1800,) to the Rectories of Dunmowe, and Gernonstown: a Church, in Stackallan, in indifferent repair: a small thatched Cabbin, on a Glebe, of 9 acres, close to the church: there is also a Glebe, of 12 acres, in Gernonstown, about two miles and an half from the church: The Rev. George Hardman, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties; and is under an injunction to build. Stackallan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. N. E. from Navan. Here is the Seat of Lord Boyne. The parishes in the Union of Stackallan are contiguous; that of Stackallan containing 1222 acres.

STACUMNIE, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Stacumnie is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. S. b. W. from Leixlip. See, Leixlip.

STAFFORDSTOWN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate, in John Dawson, Esq.: no Church: no Glebe: no Curate's salary allowed. Staffordstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh.

STAGONIL, v. POWERSCOURT.

STAHALMOCK, in the Barony of Kells, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..3..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Syddan. Stahalmock is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. S. W. from Nobber. This parish contains 870 acres of land. See, Syddan.

STALABAN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, belonging to the Abbey of Mellifont: no Chapel. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh.

STAMACARTY, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kells. Stamacarty is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. from Knocktopher. See, Kells.

STAMULLIN, in the Barony of Duleek, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £14..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Duleek. Stamullin is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¾ m. S. b. E. from Drogheda. This parish contains 2620 acres of land. See, Duleek.

STAPLESTOWN, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster; in the Parish of Ballinacarrig. It is 2 m. S. E. from Carlow. It is situate on the River Burren, over which there is a Bridge of seven arches here. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, and 7th of November. Here is the handsome Seat of Mr. Bagnel. See, Ballinacarrig.

STEWART'S TOWN, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 77 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of May, November, and 30th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is the superb Mansion of Lord Castlestewart.

STICKELLEN, in the Barony of Ardee, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardee. Stickellen is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1 m. E. from Ardee. This parish contains 669 acres of land. See, Ardee.

STILLORGAN, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, with the Curacy of Kilmacud: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Stillorgan: a Glebe House, in the parish of Stillorgan, and 4 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Edward Beatty, B. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. John Reid, at a Salary of £56. per annum. Stillorgan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Dublin.

STONE HALL, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R., entirely Impropriate in The Marquess of Headfort: no Church: no Glebe: no Curate's Salary allowed. Stone Hall is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6¼ m. N. from Mullingar. It is situate upon Lough Deryeragh.

STONE HOUSE, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Kilmeaden. See, Kilbarrymeaden, and Kilmeaden.

STRABANE, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 101½ m. N. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, and November. It gives title of Viscount to a branch of the family of Hamilton. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on the River Morne, and is a populous and well-built Town. The Magistrates are a Provost, Recorder, and Town-Clerk.—"The Franciscan Friars had a Monastery here, but we know nothing further of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 683.

STRABOE, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rathvilly. Straboe is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 6 m. S. b. W. from Baltinglass. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Rathvilly.

STRABOE, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Borres. Straboe is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Mount Mellick. The Rectory of Straboe prope Shyan is valued in the King's Books at £18..10..0 sterling. See, Borres.

STRADBALLY, v. CASTLE CONNEL.

STRADBALLY, in the Barony of Dunkellin, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilcolgan. Stradbally is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 14 m. W. b. N. from Loughrea. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Kilcolgan.

STRADBALLY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacourty. Stradbally is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 10 m. N. E. b. N. from Dingle. It is situate at the bottom of St. Brandon's Bay, on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Ballinacourty.

STRADBALLY, in the Barony of Stradbally, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., united by Act of Council, in 1774, to the Rectory of Moyhanna, and Episcopally, in 1791, to the Union of Tullowmoy, and also Episcopally, in 1801, to the Union of Timahoe; with which is also holden the Sine Cure Rectory of Fennagh, by Dispensation from the Crown: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Stradbally: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 4 acres, in the parish of Stradbally; and another Glebe, of 6 acres, at the distance of half a mile from the former: The Rev. Nicholas Foster, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Hamilton Morgan, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Stradbally is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 38½ m. S. W. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 6th of May, 10th of July, 21st of August, and November. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Boys. Near this is Brockley Park, the superb Mansion of The Earl of Roden. The parishes in the Union of Stradbally are contiguous: their contents being 19,600 acres of land, much of which is pasture: and their value £405. per annum.—"In the 12th century the Lord O'Mora founded the Monastery of Mon-au-bealing, or, as more generally called, Stradbally, for Conventual Franciscans."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 596.

STRADBALLY, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £12 .2. 9 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, on the 11th of January 1799, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the Vicarages of Ballylameen, and Clonea: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Stradbally: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 3 r. 31 p., in the parish of Clonea, which is about half a mile from the site of the old church, and about 4 miles from the church of Stradbally: The Rev. John Devereux, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in Stradbally, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Stradbally is n the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. S. S. W. from Kil-macthomas. It is situate upon the River Tay, which empties itself into St. George's Channel, at a Cove below Woodhouse. The parishes in the Union of Stradbally are contiguous: that of Stradbally being about two miles and an half in extent from North to South, and about three miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Stradbally and Clonea ought to be perpetually united; and Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of Stradbally, and a Glebe House built thereon.

STRADE, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. E. b. N. from Ballyclare. A village.

STRADE, or, TEMPLEMORE, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of Mayo, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..4..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 9th of May 1805, to the Vicarages of Bucholla, Killasser, Killedan, and Towmore: there are two Churches in this Union, in good repair, standing in the parishes of Towmore, and Killedan; in the Church of Towmore only is Divine Service performed, the other being a Chapel of Ease: no Glebe House, or Glebe, in this Union: The Rev. John Cromie, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, with permission, having a parish in another Diocese: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Thomas Bell, A. B., his Curate, who is resident, at a Salary of £50. per annum; and also £20. per annum, for attending the occasional duties of the Benefice next in order. Strade is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. S. from Foxford. The Fairs are holden on the 31st of May, 30th of July, 23d of October, and 27th of November. The parishes in the Union of Strade are contiguous; their estimated extent being 10 miles in length, and 7 miles in breadth. It is situate on the River Moy.—"The sept of Mac Jordan founded an House here, under the Invocation of the Holy Cross, for Friars of the Order of St. Francis, but it was given to the Dominicans in the year 1252, by Jordan of Exeter, Lord of Athlethan, or by his son Stephen, at the particular request of Basilia his wife, daughter of the Lord Meiler de Bermingham.—A very small part of this Friary remains, but the walls of the church, which was singularly beautiful, are still entire, and the High Altar is adorned with Gothic ornaments; in the centre of the altar is an image of Our Lord and Saviour when an infant, in the Virgin's lap, and a person in relievo within a compartment on each side. Here is also a Tomb adorned with curious relievos of four kings, in different compartments, one of whom is kneeling before a mitred person; near to which is another relievo of the Saints Peter and Paul."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 509.

STRADHAILLOYSE, in the Barony of ——, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster.—"Wadding says, that it is in the Diocese of Armagh, and that a Monastery for Conventual Franciscans was founded there, A. D. 1282, and that a Provincial Chapter of the Order was held therein, in the year 1315."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 34.

STRADONE, in the Barony of Tullaghgarvy, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 5 m. E. b. S. from Cavan. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 24th of June, 16th of August, 10th of October, and 18th of December.

STRAFFAN, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Celbridge. Straffan is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¾ m. S. W. from Leixlip. It is situate on the banks of the River Liffey. Here is the fine and improved Seat of Joseph Henry, Esq. See, Celbridge.

STRAND-TOWN, in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is ½ m. E. from Belfast. It is situate on Belfast Lough.

STRANGFORD, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 80 m. N. N. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of August, and 8th of November. Strangford is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Smythe. It has three Post-days in the week. It is situate on Strangford Bay. The Lough of Strangford, which abounds with excellent fish, was formerly called Lough Cuan. Here is a Charter School, for 50 Boys. The contents of the 54 Islands in Strangford Lough, amount to 954½ acres.

STRANORLANE, v. STRANORLAR.

STRANORLAR, or, STRANORLANE, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., being one of the six parishes which constitute the Deanery of Raphoe: a Church. Stranorlar is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 112¾ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of March, 6th of July, 12th of August, 10th of October, and 9th and 10th of December. It has three Post-days in the week.

STRATFORD upon SLANEY, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Perpetual Cure, with a District annexed, taken out of the parish of Baltinglass: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Mark Lister, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties in person. Stratford upon Slaney is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. N. E. from Baltinglass. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of April, and 7th of September. It is a manufacturing town, lately erected by the Earl of Aldborough: who, in 1790, very munificently endowed the Chapelry with lands, producing £50. per annum.

STRAWHALL, formerly KILBRENIN, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.—" Ædh, the son of Breic, founded a Monastery of this name, and died November 10th, A. D. 588. Part of the ruins are still visible."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 77.

STREET, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £14. sterling: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of five acres: The Rev. James Webster, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his parish in Clogher: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Street is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. E. b. N. from Edgworthstown.

STROKESTOWN, v. MITCHELSTOWN.

STROKESTOWN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Bumlin. It is 70 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Tuesday, O. S., in May, June, October, and November. It has six Post-days in the week.

SUBULTER, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being holden with the R. and V. of White Church; and with which the Rector also holds, by Faculty, the R. and V. of Aghabollogue: a Church, in repair, at White Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4 acres: James Hingston, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides chiefly at Cloyne, being Vicar General of the Diocese: the duties of White Church are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. William Chatterton, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Subulter is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. W. from Mallow. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Benefice of Subulter is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

SUMMERHILL, in the Barony of Moyfenrath, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 20 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of April, for dry Cows, 9th of June, 22d of September for Sheep and Calves, and the 25th of November for fat Cattle. It gives title of Baron to the family of Rowley, now Viscount Langford; And here is the beautiful Seat of his Lordship. It has six Post-days in the week.

SUNLOCKSTOWN, or, SCOURLOUGHSTOWN, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Trim. Sunlockstown is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. E. S. E. from Trim. It is situate on the River Boyne. Here are the ruins of a Castle. See, Trim.

SWANLINBAR, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster. It is 13 m. N. b. W. from Killeshandra. The Fairs are holden on the 18th of May, 27th of July, and 27th of November. Near this is a celebrated Spa.

SWATTERAGH, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster. It is 6¼ m. N. from Tubbermore. It is situate upon the River Clody. The Fairs are holden on the 3d of March, 17th of May, 17th of July, and 3d of December.

SWINEFORD, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught. It is 103 m. N. W. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 20th of May, 2d of July, 18th of August, and 18th of December. It has three Post-days in the week.

SWORDS, in the Barony of Nether Crosse, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £22..6..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Curacies of Killossory, Killeck, and Malahide: a Church, in good order, in the parish of Swords, and which is nearly central to the Union: a Glebe House, in the parish of Swords, and a Glebe, of 33 a. 2 r. 20 p., conveniently situate near the church: The Rev. James Verschoyle, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident half the year: the duties are discharged by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Parkinson, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Swords is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 11th of May, for horses and pedlar's wares. Here is one of the most perfect of the ancient Round towers; It is 73 feet high, and fifty or sixty feet distant from the church, and is a plain and simple structure. It is situate near the Irish Sea. The parishes in the Union of Swords are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being about 3 miles, and, from North to South, about 2 miles. The Prebend of Swords is valued in the King's Books at £32..14..0 Irish Money: no Glebe, or Glebe House: The Rev. Henry Lomax Walsh, the Prebendary, in 1806, who has a Stall in the Cathedral.—"A sumptuous Monastery was founded here, A. D. 512, by the great St. Columb, who gave to it a Missal, written by himself, blessed the Well there, and placed St. Finan Lobhair, or, The Leper, over the Abbey. It is now a parish church. There was also a Nunnery here, but of which very little is known. Here are some remains of a palace, which was formerly the residence of the Archbishops of Dublin."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 256.

SYDDAN, in the Barony of Slane, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £8..11..0 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 23d of September 1734, to the V. of Killarvey, and the R. of Mitchelstown; and Episcopally, in the month of November 1788, to the Rectories of Cruisetown, and Stahalmock: a Church, in Syddan, in complete repair: a Glebe House, in Syddan, on a Glebe of 20 acres, about a quarter of a mile from the church: in Killarvey are four acres; in Mitchelstown 9¾ acres, about two miles from the church: in Stahalmock 24 acres round the ruins of the old church, four miles from the church of Syddan; and one acre at Cruisetown, about the same distance: The Rev. Brab. Disney, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. The parish of Syddan, which contains 2442 acres of land, is contiguous to the parishes of Killarvey, and Mitchelstown: The parishes of Cruisetown, and Stahalmock, are contiguous to each other, but are distant from the former four miles; Upon which account, another distribution of them appears to be necessary, especially as there are other small parishes contiguous, to which they might be permanently united. Syddan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. S. E. from Nobber.

T.

TACUMSHANE, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: the V. is valued in the King's Books at £7..7..0 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilscoran. Tacumshane is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. W. from Broadway. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Kilscoran.

TAGHADOE, or, TEAGHDO, in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £15..6..8 Irish Money; the Church is in ruins: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Henry Savage, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident: the occasional duties are performed by The Rev. Nicholas Ashe, the Vicar of the adjoining parish of Maynooth, gratis. The value of this Living, which is in the Presentation of the city of Dublin, is only £25. per annum. Taghadoe is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. from Maynooth. Here is one of the ancient Round towers.

TAGHBOY, in the Parony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tessaragh. Taghboy is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. E. from Ballinamore. See, Tessaragh.

TAGHKEEN, in the Barony of Kilmain, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the Kings Book's at £0..6..8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killcommon. Taghkeen is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 2 m. N. N. E. from Hollymount. It is situate on the River Robe. See, Killcommon.

TAGHMACONNEL, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Creagh. Taghmaconnel is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 9¼ m. W. from Athlone. See, Creagh.

TAGHMON, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £6..18..0 Irish Money: a very old Church, in bad repair: no Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. Albert Nesbitt, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is not resident; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum, and £15. in lieu of house. Taghmon is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¾ m. N. N. E. from Mullingar. It is in the Deanery of Mullingar.

TAGHMON, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £28..19..7 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, in 1746, to the R. of Ballyconnick; and, in 1785, to the Impropriate Cure of Ballymitty: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Taghmon: no Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 21 perches; and the other, of 0 a. 3 r. 3 p., in the Town of Taghmon, and not far from the church: The Rev. Robert Hawkshaw, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Taghmon is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 73 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of February, and 21st of October. It has three Post-days in the week. The parishes in the Union of Taghmon are all contiguous; their contents being 6309 acres. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Munnu founded an Abbey here: he died in the year 634.

TAGHSHINOD, in the Barony of Moydoe, Co. of Longford, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Robert Beatty, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Taghshinod is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is ½ m. E. from Cole-Hill.

TAGHSHINY, v. TASHINNY.

TAHELLEN, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of Armagh, and Province of Ulster.—"St. Patrick founded Teg-talain, and made St. Killian Bishop of it. His Feast is holden on the 27th of May. This Church was burnt, A. D. 670."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 35.

TALANSTOWN, in the Barony of Ardée, Co. of Louth, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Charlestown. Talanstown is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. from Ardee. This parish contains 1442 acres of land. See, Charlestown.

TALBOTSTOWN, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster. It is 3¼ m. E. S. E. from Baltinglass. A village.

TALLAGH, or, TALLAGHT, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, or, Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £8..11..1 Irish Money, and perpetually united, at a time not known, to the Curacy of White Church, and the Rectory of Crevagh: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Tallagh: a Glebe House, in the parish of Tallagh; and a Glebe, of 16 acres, near the church: The Rev. Robert Cochrane Literale, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Tallagh is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Tuesday in March, 7th of July, 16th of September, and 9th of November. Here is the ancient and noble residence of the Archbishops of Dublin. The parishes in the Union of Tallagh are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being five miles, and, from North to South, 5 miles. According to Mr. Archdall, an Abbey was founded here, in an early age, of which St. Mælruan, was the first Bishop.

TALLOW, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, Episcopally united, in the year 1768, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the Vicarage of Killwatermoy; and it appears, that it has always been holden so united: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Tallow: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of one rood, contiguous to the church-yard in Tallow; and, a Glebe, of 2½ acres, in Killwatermoy, close to the site of the old church there: these Glebes are not contiguous, that of Killwatermoy being about two miles distant from the church of Tallow: The Hon. and Rev. Robert Moore, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tallow is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 104½ m. S. W. b. S. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of March, the day after Trinity Sunday, 10th of October, and 8th of December. It was erected into a Borough, at the request of the first Earl of Cork: its Charter bears date, 10°. James I, by which the Liberties of the Borough were extended one mile and an half beyond the church every way; but the jurisdiction of the Sovereign and Burgesses is gone into disuse. The Castle is in ruins. It is situate near the River Bride. The parishes in the Union of Tallow are contiguous; that of Tallow being about two miles square. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectory of Tallow might stand alone; and a Glebe House ought to be built on the Glebe.

TALLOW-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster. It is ½ m. N. from Tallow. A village, situate on the River Bride.

TAMLACHTA UMHAIL, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"There was an ancient Abbey here, wherein the Feasts of the three Saints Nassad, Beoan, and Mellan, who flourished about the middle of the Seventh century, were observed on the 26th of October. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 129.

TAMLAGHT, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House; and a Glebe of 40 Irish acres, lying together, and close to the church: The Rev. Isaac Ashe, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tamlaght is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 3¼ m. S. b. E. from Moneymore. It is situate upon the River Ballinderry.

TAMLAGHTARD, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House; 24 acres of Glebe, 1½ mile from the church: The Rev. Dr. Christie, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tamlaghtard is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. N. from Newtown Limavady. It is situate upon the Sea-coast.

TAMLAGHTFINLAGAN, in the Barony of Kenoght, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in perfect order: a Glebe House; 197 acres of Glebe, one mile from the church: The Rev. Sir H. Bruce, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Tamlaghtfinlagan is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. W. S. W. from Newtown Limavady. It is situate near to Lough Foyle.—"St. Columb founded Tamlacht-fionlugain, and made St. Finnlugan, his disciple, Abbot: it is now a parish church, and is named Tamlaghtfinlagan, or, The Church of Finnlugan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 93.

TAMLAGHT O'CRILLY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church, under repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 365 acres, two miles from the church: The Rev. James Jones, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Tamlaght O'Crilly is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. N. N. E. from Tubbermore. Ennisrush is a Chapel of Ease to this Benefice.

TAMNACHABUADH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster.—"An Abbey in the territory of Maghfemhin, of which St. Finchad, a disciple of St. Finbar, was Abbot about the year 750. It is now unknown."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 674.

TANDERAGEE, anciently, TAWNATELEE, in the Barony of Orior, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling. Tanderagee is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 61¼ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of July, and 5th of November. It has six Post-days in the week. The Linen Manufacture is extensively carried on here.

TANKARDSTOWN, or, BALLYTANKARD, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..10..0 sterling; and being holden, by Faculty, with the Vicarage of Killmoylan. Tankardstown is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. N. W. from Kilmallock. See, Killmoylan.

TANKARDSTOWN, partly in the Barony of Balliadams, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and partly in the Barony of Kilkea and Moone, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Nicholastown. Tankardstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¾ m. S. from Athy. It is situate upon the River Barrow. See, Nicholastown.

TARAGH, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5. Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 21st of March, 1680, to the R. of Dunsany, and the V. of Killeen; and Episcopally, in 1781, to the Rectories of Knockmark, and Oddor: a Church, in Taragh, very small, but in tolerable repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 8 a. 3 r. 15 p., close to the church: in Killeen, are two Glebes, one of 50 acres about 3 miles from that of Taragh, and another of about two acres, at the same distance: The Rev. John Rogers, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Taragh is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. b. W. from Dunshaglin. The parishes in the Union of Taragh are contiguous; that of Taragh containing 1950 acres. Here is the celebrated Hill of Taragh, whereon the States are said to have assembled for several ages.

TARA HILL, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¼ m. S. E. from Portaferry. It is situate on the Irish Sea.

TARBERT, in the Barony of Iraghticonnor, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killnaghtin. It is 124 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, 22d of June, 12th of August, and 11th of December. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is a Charter School. It is situate upon the River Shannon.

TARBERT, ISLAND, off the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught.

TARMANCARRA, in the Mullet, in the Barony of Erris, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—"Some old walls of a Church appear here, nearly buried in the sands; they are said to have belonged to a Nunnery, of which we can learn no account."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 509.

TARMONBARRY, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend and V., valued in the King's Books at £5..3..4 sterling: neither Church, nor Glebe: Prayers are read by the Curate in a private House of the parish: The Rev. John Cliffe, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but being very old and infirm, is permitted to reside at New Ross, in the County of Wexford: the duties are discharged by The Hon. and Rev. Maurice Mahon, at a Salary of £40. per annum. Tarmonbarry is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. N. W. from Longford. The extent of this parish is about eight square miles; and the Income is stated at only £120. per annum. It is situate upon the River Shannon.

TARMONBARRY-BRIDGE, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Tarmonbarry. It is 3½ m. W. from Longford. A village, situate on the River Shannon.

TARTARAGHAN, in the Barony of O'Neil-Land, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R.: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 40 English acres, lying together near the church: The Rev. John Jephson, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Tartaraghan is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Portadown.

TASCOFFIN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money: a Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Johnston, A. M., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of this parish: the duties are discharged by a Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Tascoffin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Gowran.

TASHINNY, or, TAGHSHINY, in the Barony of Shrowle, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, and united by Act of Council to the R. and V. of Killashee: a Church, in good repair. Tashinny is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 1¼ m. S. from Cole-Hill. It is situate upon the River Inny. The Fairs are holden on the 27th of March, 28th of May, 9th of July, and 26th of September. See, Killashee.

TASSAGARD, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Curacy: the Prebend, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, is valued in the King's Books at £10..1..8 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Crinus Irwin, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), and has a Stall in the Cathedral: the Curacy is holden with the Vicarage of Rathcoole. Tassagard is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is ¼ m. S. E. from Rathcoole. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of October, and 8th of November. See, Rathcoole. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Mosacre founded the Church here; which is now in ruins.

TAUGHBOYNE, in the Barony of Raphoe, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £33. sterling: a Church: a Glebe House in the parish, and a Glebe of above 40 acres: The Rev. Thomas Pemberton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Taughboyne is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 5 m. W. S. W. from Londonderry.—" St. Baithen, the son of Brendan, a disciple and kinsman of St. Columb, and his successor in the Abbey of Hy, founded Teghbaoithin, that is, The House of Baithen, in Tyrconnell. This Saint flourished A. D. 584, and 593. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 105.

TAUNAGH, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..1..4 sterling, being the Benefice of Taunagh and Boyle, and consisting of nearly half of the Tythes of the parishes of Ahanagh, Ballinakill, Ballysumaghon, Drumcollum, Killadoon, Kilmacallane, Kilmactraney, Kilross, Shancoe, Taunagh, and Boyle, which are contiguous, and are estimated to extend about 60 square miles: this extent arises from a considerable portion of the Curliew Mountains being included in this Union: the ten first of these parishes have been Episcopally united for successive Incumbents, time immemorial, and being vacant, in 1802, together with the parish of Boyle, it was added to the Union by the present Bishop of Elphin, being contiguous thereto; and the clear Income of all the Vicarages (after paying £75. per annum to a Curate) appearing not to exceed £420. per annum, and more particularly to enable the Incumbent to build a Glebe House: for as there is no Glebe in any of the first ten parishes, and a Glebe of about 21 acres, being in the parish of Boyle or Affilyn, the Bishop required a Glebe House to be built thereon, which has been erected and certified for: now, and heretofore, one Church, in the parish of Taunaugh, and one, in the parish of Boyle, both in good repair: The Rev. Thomas Hackett, A. M., the Incumbent of Taunagh and Boyle Union (in 1806), who, having cure of souls, resides in his Glebe House at Boyle, built in 1803, and attends Boyle Church: The Rev. John Maxwell attends the Church of Taunagh, as Curate, and resides in the Union at Loughend, convenient to the church. Taunagh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. N. W. from Boyle. It is situate upon the River Arrow.

TAWNATELEE, v. TANDERAGEE.

TAWNEY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Dublin: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 6 acres, adjoining the church: The Rev. Matthew Campbell, the Resident Curate (in 1806), at a Salary of £60. per annum, and the small Dues of every description, amounting to £10. per annum. Tawney is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. from Dublin. It is commonly called Church Town. See, St. Peter's, Dublin.

TAXAXON, or, TISASSON, within the Liberties of Kinsale, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Rincurran. Taxaxon is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 1½ m. W. N. W. from Kinsale. See, Rincurran.

TEACHROMHAM, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster. It was situate on the River Dea, and near the Harbour of Wicklow. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Palladius founded an Abbey here, but we know no more of it.

TEACH SAXON, v. TEMPLE GAILE.

TEACH SCHOTIN, in the Barony of Slewmargy, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster. Near to the Mountain known by that name.—"This Monastery was built by St. Schotin in the Sixth century, whose Feast is observed on the 2d of January."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 597.

TEAGH BAOITHEN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Baithen was Abbot of the Monastery here.

TEAGHDO, v. TAGHADOE.

TEAGHNANINGHEAN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Roscommon, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Religious House, where the seven daughters of Fergus were honoured.

TEAGH TELLE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Cera, some time before the year 576, built an Abbey here, which she afterwards resigned to St. Tellius.

TEAMPUL NA CAILLEACHDUBH, in the Barony of Upper Ossory, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster; in the parish of Aghaboe. According to Mr. Archdall, this is said to have been an ancient Nunnery, on which two small Chapels depended. The founder is unknown. A few ruins of this Monastery are still to be seen.

TECKMACRAVEN, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1786, to the R. of Templeoughter: a Church, at Glenarm, in very good repair: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 27 a. 1 r. 2 p., one mile from the church, twelve acres of which only are arable: the Income of the Union, the Glebe included, is only £42..6..9½: The Rev. John Hodges, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Teckmacraven is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to the North-west of Glenarm. The parishes of Teckmacraven, and Templeoughter, are contiguous, and very mountainous, and contain 9708 acres of land. See, Ramoran.

TECOLME, in the Barony of Maryborough, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a V., constituting the Corps of the Prebend of Tecolme, in the Cathedral of Leighlin, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling; and Episcopally united, since the 8th of June 1805, to the Union of Dysart Enos: a Church, in repair, at Dysart Enos: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 7 a. 1 r. 18 p., in the parish of Kiltale, about one mile distant from the church of Dysart Enos: The Rev. Hamilton Morgan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, as he is engaged in a laborious cure at Stradbally, in the neighbourhood: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. Cassan, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Tecolme is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is a small parish, not worth £30. per annum, and contains 600 acres of land. It is three miles distant from Dysart Enos.

TEDONAGH, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, half a mile distant from the church: Howard St. George, D. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is non-resident, by permission; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tedonagh is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. N. N. W. from Monaghan.

TEGHAINE, v. KILLEEN.

TEGHDAGOBHA, in the Barony of ——— Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—" This Abbey, which is now unknown, is said to have been in the Barony of Iveagh, on the River Bann. It was founded by St. Goblan, said to be the father of 1000 Monks in this Monastery. Although others say, that his Abbey was at Killamery, in the County of Kilkenny, and that he was buried at Clonenagh, in the Queen's County. There were seven Saints of this name."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 129.

TEGH-ERNAIN, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Odran was Abbot here.

TEGHMOLING, v. MULLIN'S, ST.

TEGH SACRA, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this was an ancient Abbey near Tallaght, founded by St. Mosacre, in the Seventh century.

TEGHSINCHEA, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Abban founded the Monastery of Kilailbe, for St. Sinchea, who died A. D. 597

TEHALLON, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 40 acres of Glebe, very near the church: The Rev. Edward Stanley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tehallon is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. E. N. E. from Monaghan.—"St. Killian was Bishop of Tegtalain, or Teachtally, in Orgiella, and his Festival is holden on the 27th of May."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 586.

TEINAGH, v. TYNAGH.

TELTOWN, v. KILLALTON.

TEMAGHCREMAY, v. TECKMACRAVEN.

TEMPLE ADIGAN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Temple Adigan is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. E. b. N. from New Ross. See, Ross, New.

TEMPLE-BELAGH, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being a Particle in the Union of Kilmacdonough. Temple-Belagh is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. W. from Lismore. It is situate upon the River Blackwater. See, Kilmacdonough.

TEMPLE BODANE, alias DRONMOYRE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 9 acres: The Rev. Martin Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and resides at Farahy, of which he is Curate. Temple Bodane is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

TEMPLEBOY, in the Barony of Tyreragh, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., Episcopally united to the V. of Killmacshalgan. Templeboy is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 13 m. W. b. S. from Sligo. It is situate on the Atlantic Ocean. See, Killmacshalgan.

TEMPLE BREADY, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V. (Rectory Impropriate), united, at a period long prior to any known record, to the Rectories of Cullen, and Temple Martin, and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Cork, which is valued in the King's Books at £30. sterling: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, in this Union, except the Deanery House, in the parish of St. Finbarry, in the City of Cork: a Glebe, of 6 acres, near the Church: The Hon. and Rev. Thomas St. Lawrence, Dean of Cork, the Incumbent (in 1806), who resides in the Deanery House: the duties are performd in each parish by the Curate thereof respectively, except Cullen, where there being few Protestant Inhabitants, the occasional duties are performed by the Curate of the adjoining parish: The Salary of the Resident Curate at Temple Bready is £60. Temple Bready is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 10½ m. S. E. from Cork. It is situate upon St. George's Channel. The parishes in the Union of Temple Bready are not in any instance contiguous. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes separately is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

TEMPLEBREDIN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Grean. Templebredin is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m, N. W. b. W. from Tipperary. This parish contains 1256 acres of land. See Grean.

TEMPLE BRYAN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, Episcopally united, in 1763, to the Rectory entire of Kilnagross, the R. and V. of Temple O'Malis, and the V. of Templequinlan: a Church, in good repair, at Kilnagross: no Glebe House in the Union: a Glebe, at Kilnagross, of 12 a. 2 r. 30 p.: The Rev. Thomas Brown, the Incumbent (in 1806), who, being very infirm, resides in Kinsale: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Temple Bryan is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¼ m. N. N. W. from Cloghnakilty. The parishes in the Union of Temple Bryan are contiguous; their estimated extent being 6 miles from North to South, and 3 miles from East to West.

TEMPLECARNAN, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Skryne. Templecarnan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. See, Lismullen, and Skryne.

TEMPLECARNE, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 sterling; a Church, under repair: a Glebe House: 140 acres of Glebe, one mile distant from the church: The Rev. Thomas Wallis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Templecarne is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 15½ m. N. b. W. from Enniskillen. See, Derg, Lough.

TEMPLECORRAN, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Prebend of Kilroot. Templecorran is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4¼ m. N. E. from Carrickfergus. This parish contains 3000 acres of land. It is situate upon Larne Lough. See, Kilroot.

TEMPLECRONE, in the Barony of Boylagh and Bannogh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster; a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and holden, by Faculty, with the R. and V. of Invir: a Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Alexander Montgomery, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his other Benefice of Inver, at the distance of fifteen miles from hence: the duties are discharged by a Curate. Templecrone is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage of Templecrone have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 38 m. W. N. W. from Strabane. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. That part of the Barony, called The Rosses, is to the Northward of this parish, where a considerable Herring Fishery is carried on.

TEMPLEDERRY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe; The Rev. Edmund Jordan, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Mac Culloch, A. B. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent, who receives £30. per annum from the First Fruits. Templederry is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Nenagh.

TEMPLE DISERT, v. SHRADUFFE.

TEMPLEDOWNEY, v. TOOMEVARA.

TEMPLE ERRY, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Templemore. Temple Erry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 2½ m. N. E. from Templemore. This parish contains 1270 acres. See, Templemore.

TEMPLEFINLAGHAN, v. TAMLAGHTFINLAGAN.

TEMPLE GAILE, or, TEACH SAXON, in the Barony of Athenry, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 2 m. W. from Athenry.—"A Friary of small extent was founded here in the reign of King Henry VII, by one of the Family of Burgh, for Franciscans of the Third Order: which Friary and its appurtenances, together with the Abbey of Mayo, were afterwards granted to the Burgesses and Commonalty of Athenry.—Temple Moyle, another Friary, was erected here sometime after the year 1441, for Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis; which was granted to Edmund Barret."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 296.

TEMPLEGALL, v. WHITE CHURCH.

TEMPLEHARRY, in the Barony of Clonlisk, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 sterling, and Episcopally united, on the 5th of September 1799, to the R. and V. of Cullenwayne: a new Church, in the parish of Templeharry: no Glb House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. John Jones, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Templeharry is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. W. from Roscrea. The parishes in the Union of Templeharry are contiguous: their estimated extent, from North to South, being three miles, and, from East to West, four miles. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, each of these parishes, separately, is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

TEMPLEHAY, v. TEMPLETHIRY.

TEMPLE HOUSE, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 10 m. S. W. from Sligo. The Fairs are holden on the 24th of May, 30th of July, and 7th of November.—"Here we find Teach-Temple, or, The House of the Temple, which was founded for Knights Templars in the reign of King Henry the Third, but, on the final overthrow of this Order, it was given by King Edward the Second to the Knights Hospitallers."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 639.

TEMPLEICHALLY, or, CALLATHAMERY, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilmastulla. Templeichally is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. E. from Killaloe. It is situate upon the River Shannon. This parish contains 2138 acres of land. See, Kilmastulla.

TEMPLEMALY, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Ogashin: the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..15..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromcliffe. Templemaly is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. N. b. E. from Ennis. See, Ogashin, and Dromcliffe.

TEMPLE MARTIN, in the Barony of Kinalmeaky, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Bready; a new Church: a Glebe, of 16 a. 1 r. 0 p., near the church: the duties are performed by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. Temple Martin is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. from Bandonbridge. See, Temple Bready.

TEMPLE MICHAEL, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Prebend; no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Rev. Edward Mitchel Carleton, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, resides in the adjoining parish, and performs the duties in person. Temple Michael is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. E. N. E. from Bandonbridge.

TEMPLE MICHAEL, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of LONGFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and united, one hundred years and upwards, to the R. of Ballymacormack: a Church, in Longford, in good repair: a Glebe House; a Glebe, in eight parcels, containing 338 acres, about 5 miles distant from each other; 100 acres of which are contiguous to the House: The Hon. and Rev. Richard Bourke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Temple Michael is in the Diocese of Ardagh, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Longford, on the North. It is situate on the River Camlin. The parishes in the Union of Temple Michael are contiguous; and are estimated to extend about 7 miles square.

TEMPLE-MICHAEL, in the Barony of Arklow, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Arklow. Temple-Michael is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin, It is 2½ m. N. from Arklow. See, Arklow.

TEMPLE MICHAEL DE DUAGH, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire; no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Brown, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in Kinsale: the occasional duties are performed by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. This is but a small parish. It is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel.

TEMPLEMIHIL, or, TEMPLE MICHAEL, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dysart. This is a very poor Benefice. Templemihil is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. N. from Carrick upon Suir. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the entire Rectories of Templemihil, and Grange Mocleer, and the Vicarages of Garron Gibbon, and Kilcash, ought to be perpetually united. A Church ought to be built in the parish of Garron Gibbon, and Glebe Land purchased near it, and a Glebe House built thereon. The Bishop is Patron of the Rectory of Templemihil. The Representative of Cæsar Sutton, Esq., is Patron and Impropriate Vicar, and is Patron and Impropriator of the entire Rectory of Grange Mocleer, and of the Vicarage of Garron Gibbon. The Crown is Patron of Kilcash. See, Dysart.

TEMPLEMIHIL, or, TEMPLE MICHAEL, in the Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, Episcopally united, in the year 1784, when the present Incumbent took possession of this Benefice, to the Vicarages of Killcockan, Kinsalebeg, and Lisgenan; a Church, in repair, in the parish of Templemihil: no Glebe House: two Glebes, in the parish of Kinsalebeg, and distant from each other about a mile; one of them, of 4 a. 0 r. 6 p., being adjacent to the site of the old church there; the other, about a mile from the site of the old church; and each of them four miles from the church of Templemihil, exclusive of the Ferry; there is also a Glebe, of 3 roods and 19 perches, in the parish of Killcockan: The Rev. Robert Stephens, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the parish of Kinsalebeg, and discharges the duties in person. Templemihil is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. S. E. from Tallow.

The Castle here is said to have belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem: which, at the suppression, was granted to Sir Walter Raleigh, who assigned to the Earl of Cork. The extent of the Union of Templemihil is very great: the parishes of Templemihil, and Killcockan, join each other, on the West side of the River Blackwater; and the parishes of Kinsalebeg, and Lisgenan, are contiguous to each other, on the East side of the same River. In the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of Templemihil, and Killcockan, are recommended to be perpetually united; and Glebe Land to be purchased in the parish of Templemihil, and a Glebe House erected thereon.

TEMPLE MOLOGGY, or, NONANE, in the Barony of Condons and Clangibbon, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £6..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clenore. Temple Mologgy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3¼ m. N. W. from Mitchelstown. See, Clenore.

TEMPLEMORE, v. STRADE.

TEMPLEMORE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Patent, by James I, to the Rectories of Clondermot, and Faughan Vale, and constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Derry, which is valued in the King's Books at £50. sterling: The Cathedral, in the parish of Templemore, lately repaired, and now in perfect order: a Glebe House, in Londonderry, in the parish of Templemore; and 10 acres of Glebe, near the City: The Rev. John Hume, the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by seven Curates, five of whom are resident in Templemore. Templemore is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 1½ m. N. b. W. from Londonderry. This parish is fourteen miles in length, by seven in breadth.

TEMPLEMORE, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a V., united by Act of Council, in 1789, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Clonmore, and Killea; and to which was Episcopally united, in 1789, the Rectory and Vicarage of Temple Erry: a Church, in good repair, at Templemore: a Glebe House: a Glebe, of 45 a. 2 r. 21 p., at Clonmore; and another, of 20 acres, at Templemore: The Rev. Harry Meggs Graves, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Templemore is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 75½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of May, 28th of June, 3d of September, 21st of October, and 7th of December: and, for Wool, on the 11th, 12th, 13th, 29th, 30th, and 31st of July. Here is a handsome Seat of Sir John Craven Carden, Bart. The parishes in the Union of Templemore are contiguous; that of Templemore containing 4332 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the parish of Templemore should be separated from this Union; and the other three parishes should be holden together.

TEMPLEMURRY, in the Barony of Tirawly, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackan. Templemurry is in the Diocese of Killala, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¼ m. N. N. W. from Killala. It is situate upon Killala Bay. See, Lackan.

TEMPLENECARIGY, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., united in perpetuity, by Act of Council, at some unknown time, to the Rectories and Vicarages of Castrachore, Inchinabacky, Mogeafagh, and the Vicarage of Ballyspillane, and constituting the Corps of the Treasurership of Cloyne, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in repair, at Middleton: a Glebe House, and 14 acres of Glebe, at Middleton; 24 acres, at Templenecarigy; 5 acres, at Ballynacarra; and 3 roods, at Church Town: these Glebes are not contiguous, but are distant two or three miles from each other, being all near their churches, except Ballynacarra, which is one mile from it: The Rev. John William Bennet, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Middleton, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. William Green, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Templenecarigy is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. E. from Rathcormuck. The parishes in the Union of Templenecarigy are all contiguous; their extent being 12 miles from North to South, by 6 miles from East to West. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, it appears, that this Union being by Act of Council, it is not in the power of the Bishop alone to dissolve it; and while a charge remains, as at present on the house, it is conceived it could not be done without an Act of Parliament; but if it was possible, it would be a benefit to the church to divide this great Union into two parishes, at some future time.

TEMPLENEILAN, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 sterling, and Episcopally united, time immemorial, for successive Incumbents, to the Vicarages of Kilbride, and Kilteevan: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. Thomas Blakeney, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Hollywell, and discharges the duties. Templeneilan is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Roscommon, on the South-west. The parishes in the Union of Templeneilan are contiguous, and extend about twenty square miles.

TEMPLENEIRY, in the Barony of Slewardagh and Compsey, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., united, at a period prior to any known Record, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Ballynure and Graystown, the Parcels of Ballygraffny, Derryniflyn, and Kilbrennan, and the Vicarage of Donohill; being the Corps of the Precentorship of Cashel, which is valued in the King's Books at £6..13..4 Irish Money: a Church, in good repair, at Templeneiry: a Glebe House, at Templeneiry: five Glebes; one, of 9 a. 1 r. 20 p., at Templeneiry; another, of 0 a. 2 r. 36 p., near the Cathedral of St. Patrick; a third, of 1 a. 3 r. 26 p., at Ballynure; and the fourth, and fifth, at Donohill, one of them being 34 a. 1 r. 28 p., and the other, of 3 a. 1 r. 3 p.; The Rev. Richard Bagwell, A. M., the Precentor (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is also Dean of Clogher, where he is supposed to reside, according to the terms of the Faculty granted by the Primate: the duties of Templeneiry are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Edward Labarte, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Templeneiry is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. This parish contains 2578 acres of land. The parishes in the Union of Templeneiry are dispersed through the Diocese, and are remote from each other.

TEMPLENOE, in the Barony of Dunkerron, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kenmare. Templenoe is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 7¼ m. W. S. W. from Kenmare. It is situate upon the River Kenmare. See, Kenmare.

TEMPLENOE, or, LISNAVILLA, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, with Donagore, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tipperary. Templenoe is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¼ m. N. N. E. from Tipperary. The parishes of Templenoe, and Donagore, are contiguous, and contain 1540 acres of land. See, Tipperary.

TEMPLE O'MALIS, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Bryan. Temple O'Malis is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Cloghnakilty. It is situate upon Cloghnakilty Bay. See, Temple Bryan.

TEMPLEORAN, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leny. Templeoran is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5 m. N. W. from Mullingar. This parish contains 2970 acres of land. See, Leny.

TEMPLEOUGHTER, in the Barony of Glenarm, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., Episcopally united, in 1786, to the V. of Teckmacraven. Templeoughter is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. See, Teckmacraven.

TEMPLE OUTRAGH, in the Barony of Killnalongurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archbishop of Cashel's Mensal: The duties are performed by The Rev. Thomas Skelton (in 1806), at a Salary of £5. per annum. Temple Outragh is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. S. W. from Burros Ileagh. This parish contains 2455 acres of land. See, Toem.

TEMPLEPATRICK, v. MOYVORE.

TEMPLE PATRICK, in the Barony of Belfast, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, and Episcopally united, in 1773, to the V. of Antrim. Temple Patrick is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. E. b. S. from Antrim. This parish contains 8565 acres of land. It is situate on the Six Mile Water.

TEMPLE PETER, in the Barony of Forth, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £2..13..4 Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Pasley, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and from the smallness of the district, and want of accommodation, is non-resident; and is engaged in an effectual Cure in the parish of Kiltennel, in the Union of Lorum in this Diocese: the occasional duties are discharged by The Rev. F. French (who lives in the adjoining parish), and which are so small, that he accepts of no Retribution. Temple Peter is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. W. from Tullow.

TEMPLEPORT, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling, and united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the V. of Drumreilly: two Churches, both in good order: a Glebe House, in Templeport, with 59 acres of Glebe; and 250 acres, in the parish of Drumreilly: The Rev. Joseph Story, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and discharges the duties, assisted by two Curates. Templeport is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is 7½ m. N. N. W. from Killeshandra. The parishes of Templeport, and Drumreilly, are supposed to be eight miles in length, and five in breadth, and to contain 2560 acres, including a very large tract of uncultivated Mountain.

TEMPLEQUINLAN, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Temple Bryan. Templequinlan is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. N. E. from Cloghnakilty. The Rectory of Templequinlan is Impropriate in The Earl of Shannon. See, Temple Bryan.

TEMPLEREE, v. TEMPLE ERRY.

TEMPLE ROAN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united for ever, by Act of Council, to the Perpetual Curacy of Doneraile: no Church, at Temple Roan: no House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Dwyer, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but resides at present, at Kinsale, for his health. Temple Roan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. E. N. E. from Doneraile. See, Doneraile.

TEMPLE ROBIN, in Great Island, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmell. Temple Robin is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. E. N. E. from Cove. See, Clonmell.

TEMPLESCOBIN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R.: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Mr. Cranfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is non-resident, from want of accommodation, but lives within a mile of the parish, and discharges the duties in person. Templescobin is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. W. b. S. from Enniscorthy. It is situate near the River Urrin. The parish of Templescobin being contiguous to that of Ross Droit, it is intended to unite them by Act of Council.

TEMPLESHANBOUGH, in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being the Corps of the Precentorship in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £14..18..8 Irish Money: one Mother Church, in repair; and one Chapel of Ease, lately erected, and endowed with 14 acres of Glebe and Tythes, four miles from the mother church: an incompetent Glebe House, on a Glebe of 26 acres, contiguous to the churchyard: The Rev. Henry Wynne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in a parish in the Diocese of Meath, which he holds by Faculty: the duties of Templeshanbough are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Lowe, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £90: the duties of the Chapelry are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Harpur, Curate, who lives in the Chapelry, the endowment being about £85. per annum. Templeshanbough is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. N. W. from Enniscorthy.

TEMPLESHANNON, in the Barony of Ballagheen, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Enniscorthy. Templeshannon is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is ¼ m. N. E. from Enniscorthy. It is situate on the River Slaney. See, Enniscorthy.

TEMPLETENNY, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Shanrahan. Templetenny is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. See, Shanrahan, and Killsheelan.

TEMPLETHIRY, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate; and Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmell: The Church is in ruins. Templethiry is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. E. b. E. from Clonmell. See, Clonmell.

TEMPLETOGHER, in the Barony of Half Ballimoe, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kiltullagh. Templetogher is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 9 m. N. E. from Dunmore. See, Kiltullagh.

TEMPLETOUHY, or, BALLINSIN, in the Barony of Ikerin, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £0..13..4 Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilbragh. Templetouhy is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. E. S. E. from Templemore. This parish contains 2295 acres. See, Kilbragh.

TEMPLETOWN, otherwise KILCLOGHAN, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £33..6..8 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Feathard. Templetown is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. W. from Feathard. It is situate upon Waterford Harbour. This parish contains 2017 acres of land. See, Feathard.—"A Preceptory was founded here by O'More, for Knights Templars, on whose abolition it was given to the Hospitallers, and in 1326 John Fitz David was Commendator."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 748.

TEMPLETRINE, in the Barony of Courceys, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling, and holden, by Faculty, with the Prebend of Iniskenny. Templetrine is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 3½ m. S. W. from Kinsale. It is situate near the Seacoast. See, Iniskenny.

TEMPLEUSQUE, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilaspugmullane. Templeusque is in the Diocese of Cork, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N. N. E. from Cork. See, Kilaspugmullane.

TEMPO, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Chapelry. It is 6 m. E. N. E. from Enniskillen. The Fairs are holden on the 29th of January, 28th of May, and 6th of November. It is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh.

TERELA, v. TYRELA.

TERFECKAN, v. TERMONFECKAN.

TERMONAMONGAN, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling: a Church, in bad order: no Glebe House; 20 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. J. Galbraith, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Termonamongan is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 8 m. N. from Kesh. It is situate on the River Derg.

TERMONANY, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling. Termonany is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¼ m. N. E. from Tubbermore.

TERMONFECKAN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £9..7..0 sterling, and united by Act of Council, but the time does not appear, to the Rectories of Kilclogher, and Maine: a Church, in good order, in Termonfeckan: no Glebe House, but the Primate is in treaty for land, properly situated, whereon to build one: a scattered Glebe, of 10 a. 1 r. 2 p.; 3 a. 2 r. 2 p. of which lie about the church, the remainder in the parish of Maine, two miles distant from the church: The Rev. W. J. Armstrong, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, but non-resident, by permission, as he has lately been promoted to the Benefice: the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Termonfeckan is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. E. from Drogheda. It is situate near to the Irish Sea. The parishes in the Union of Termonfeckan are contiguous, and contain 5435 acres of land.—"The Monastery (of Regular Canons) of Termon-fechan was founded in the year 665, but we know not to whom the foundation should be given, and can only learn, that Conangenius, Abbot of Tegh-fethgna, and a principal Presbyter of Armagh, died A. D. 935.—An Abbey was founded here for Regular Canonesses by Mac Mahon, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary; and Pope Celestine III confirmed their possessions, by a Bull bearing date the 26th of February, A. D. 1195. Here was a fine old Palace, belonging to the See of Armagh; the last Primate who resided, was the great Usher. The remains of this palace were a few years since totally demolished."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 491.

TERMONMAGUIRK, in the Barony of Omagh, Co. of Tyrone, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £13. sterling: two Churches; one, at Termonmaguirk, in good order: and one, at Six Mile Cross, in bad order: no Glebe House, but one is about to be built: a Glebe, of 4000 acres, including Bog and Mountain, 400 of which are now in an improved state, and distant from the former about four miles, and from the church three miles; beside 77 acres near the church, and three miles from the Glebe of 400: The Rev. Henry Stewart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Termonmaguirk is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 7 m. S. E. from Omagh.

TERRILL'S-PASS, in the Barony of Moycashel, Co. of West Meath, and Province of Leinster. It is 3½ m. E. N. E. from Killbeggan. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of May, and 17th of December. Here are the ruins of a Castle.

TERRYGLASS, or, TIRDAGLASS, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.; the Rectory being holden with the R. and V. of Kilruane; the Vicarage being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Deanery of Killaloe: no Church: The Rev. James Martin, A. B., the Curate, in 1806. Terryglass is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. W. from Burresokeane. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Kilruane, and Kilkeary.—"St. Columba, the son of Crimthann, a disciple of St. Finian, was the first Abbot of Cluain-ednach, and afterwards founded and became the first Abbot of Tirdaglass. He died of a pestilence, A. D. 548, or rather 552, and his Festival is kept on the 13th of December. It was consumed in 1162."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 676.

TESSARAGH, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, and Episcopally united for every successive Incumbent, time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Disert, and Taghboy: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe: The Rev. William Mac Laughlin, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, resides at Bushy Park, and discharges the duties in person. Tessaragh is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1½ m. N. E. from Mount-Talbot. The parishes in the Union of Tessaragh are contiguous; and are estimated to extend about 12 square miles.

TESSAURAN, v. KILLYGALLY.

THACINELING, in the Barony of ———, Co. of LEITRIM, and Province of Connaught.—" An House for Gray Friars was founded in a place of this name, A. D. 1414, by William O'Reily. But it was afterwards given to the Friars of the Strict Observance by Malachy O'Reily."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 410.

THOMAS-STREET, in the Barony of Athlone, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 5 m. S. E. from Ballinamore.

THOMASTOWN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory entire, valued in the King's Books at £5..12..0 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Pollardstown. Thomastown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. N. b. W. from Kildare. See, Pollardstown.

THOMASTOWN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., united lately by act of Council to the Rectories and Vicarages of Collumkill, and Famagh Church: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Thomastown: a Glebe House, building, in the parish of Thomastown: a Glebe, of about 18 acres, half a mile asunder, and about a quarter of a mile from the church: The Rev. Alexander Hamilton, A. M., the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts of his Benefice, is resident, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by a Curate, whose Salary varies, according to circumstances, from £50. to £90. per annum. Thomastown is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 58¾ m. S. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fair is holden on the 25th of May. The Castle was erected about the year 1180, by Thomas Fitzanthony. Here is a fine bridge over the River Nore, which is navigable for small vessels from hence to Waterford. It is governed by a Sovereign. The parishes in the Union of Thomastown are contiguous; and are about one mile and three quarters in length, by one mile and a half in breadth. Tradition says, there was a Dominican Convent here; but, according to Mr. Archdall, no authentic account can be found of it.

THORNBACK, v. CANICE, ST.

THURLES, in the Barony of Eliogurty, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, united by Act of Council, in 1682, to the Rectory and Vicarage of Moyne and Kilclonagh, the Rectory and Vicarage of Rathelty and Shyane, and the Vicarages of Adnith, Ballymoreen, and Loughmoe, and Ballycahill: a Church, in good repair, in Thurles: a Glebe House, building, in Thurles: a Glebe, of 37a. 1r. 25p., at Thurles; another, of 13 a. 0r. 30 p., at Moyne; and a third, of 4a. 3r. 30p., at Loughmoe: The Rev. Francis Garnett, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Thurles is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 70½ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. Here is a great Market, on the first Tuesday in each month. The Fairs are holden on Easter-Monday, 21st of August, and 21st of December. It is situate upon the River Suir, which divides the Town nearly into two equal parts. Here was formerly a Castle, which belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem. The parishes in the Union of Thurles are contiguous; that of Thurles containg 4338 acres.—" In the year 1300, the family of Butler founded a Monastery here for Carmelites or White Friars. A Tower still remains on the East side of the River, and some part of the cross Aisle leading to the North."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 675.

TIBOHINE, v. ARTAGH.

TIBRACH, v. TIPPERAGHNY.

TICKILLEN, in the Barony of Shelmaleire, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ardcolme. Tickillen is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Wexford. It is situate on the River Slaney; over which there is a Ferry here. See, Ardcolme.

TICKMACREVAN, v. TECKMACRAVEN.

TIDAVNET, v. TEDONAGH.

TIFFERNAN, v. TYFERNAN.

TIHALLEN, v. TEHALLON.

TILLARAGHT, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..4..8 Irish Money; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of St. Mary's, New Ross. Tillaraght is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. See, Ross, New.

TIMAHOE, in the Barony of Claine, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money, and united, but by what authority not known, to the Rectory of Ballymacwilliam: no Church:

no Glebe House: there are 8 acres of Glebe, in the Barony of Timahoe, in three divisions; of which, 2½ acres are near the site of the old church, 1½ acre about a quarter of a mile further, and 4 acres, at half a mile further distant from the church; there are also 14 acres of glebe land, in the parish of Ballymacwilliam, within half a mile of the site of the old church there: The Rev. Patrick Sands, the Rector (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident at Calbridge, in the Diocese of Dublin, of which he is Rector, and from whence he performs the duties of Timahoe: the duties of Ballymacwilliam are performed by The Rev. William Lambart, who is resident at Edenderry. Timahoe is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 8 m. S. W. from Kilcock. The parishes of Timahoe, and Ballymacwilliam, are distant from each other 15 miles by the Round, round the impassable Bog of Allen; and about 8 miles in a straight line, across the Bog: the contents of each parish are about 1200 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Union of Timahoe, and Ballymacwilliam, is extremely improper; neither of them is well adapted for a separate Benefice, but Ballymacwilliam, with great benefit to the country, might be united to Ballyburly, by an adjustment of His Majesty's rights with Mr. Wakely's patronage, these Rectories being nearly equal in value. In a new arrangement of the Union of Cloncurry, by the addition of Timahoe, two Benefices might be formed with great advantage to the Diocese, and without injury to the King's patronage.

TIMAHOE, or, TEACH MOCHOE, in the Barony of Cullinagh, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R.: Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the R. of Kilclonbrook. The Vicarage is valued in the King's Books at £4..13..4 Irish Money. Timahoe is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4¼ m. S. S. W. from Stradbally. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, 2d of July, and 18th of October. See, Stradbally.—"This Monastery was built by St. Mochoe, who died in the year 497. Here is a Round tower in good preservation; a few ruins of the building may also be seen."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 597.

TIMOGE, in the Barony of Stradbally, Queen's County, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Joseph Cassan, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident at Stradbally, and discharges the duties in person. Timoge is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 1½ m. S. b. W. from Stradbally.

TIMOLEAGUE, in the Barony of Barryroe, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, and Vicarage, each valued in the King's Books at £4. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 5 a. 2 r. 3 p.: The Rev. Mountifort Longfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides at Desert Serges, in the Diocese of Cork, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £50. per annum. Timoleague is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¾ m. S. from Bandonbridge. It is situate upon the River Arigideen, which discharges itself here into a Bay, on St. George's Channel. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, 5th of July, 21st of August, and 7th of December.—"This House, which was founded (by William Barry, Lord of Ibaun) for Friars of the Order of St. Francis, was given to the Friars of the strict observance in 1400. The Roman Catholics repaired the Monastery, A. D. 1604. The walls are yet entire, though unroofed: they inclose a large choir with an aisle formed by arcades on the South, which lead to a lateral wing; there is an handsome Gothic tower, about 70 feet high, between the choir and aisle, and on one side of the aisle, is a square Cloister arcaded, with a platform in the middle; this leads to several large rooms, the Chapel, the Chapter-House, the Refectory, and a spacious apartment for the Father Guardian, besides a Hall, Dormitory, &c. Here is a Monument of the O'Cullanes, and on the right a ruined one of the Lords de Courcey; Mac Carthy Reagh's is in the midst of the choir."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 77.

TIMOLIN, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Rectory being valued in the King's Books at £9..12..0 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, from time immemorial, to the Vicarages of Belan, Moone, and Rathcoole, and the Curacies of Bolton, Colerake, Collin, Commonstown, Hughestown, Newtown, and Simonstown: a Church, in good order, in the Parish of Timolin: a Glebe House, in the parish of Timolin, and a Glebe, of 12 acres, within half a mile of the church: The Rev. James Younge, A. B., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Timolin is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. from Ballytore. It is situate upon the River Griss. The Fairs are holden on the 30th of March, and 29th of June. The parishes in the Union of Timolin are all contiguous; their extent, from East to West, being about 7 miles, and, from North to South, about 1½ mile.—"A Monastery for Regular Canons appears to have been founded here in a very early age, as we find that Doulih Mac Sealvoy, who was Abbot of Timolyng and Lector of Gleandalogha, died in the year 927. We meet with no other account of this Abbey.—Robert, the son of Richard Lord of Noragh, about the beginning of the reign of King John, founded a Monastery here under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary, for Nuns of the Order of Aroacia, and placed therein his Grand-daughter Lecelina."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 343.

TIMOOLE, v. TYMOLE.

TIMOTHAN, within the Liberties of the City of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: one of the Prebends of St. Patrick's Cathedral, valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. James Agar, A. M., the Prebendary, in 1806, who has a Stall in the Cathedral but no emoluments of any kind. It is holden with the Curacy of St. Nicholas without the walls of Dublin.

TINEHALY, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. It is 41 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the first Wednesday in January, 7th of February, the second Wednesday, O. S., in March, 8th of May, the last Wednesday in June, 7th of August, and 7th of November. It has three Post-days in the week.

TINTERN, or, KINNEAGH, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Owen Duffe. Tintern is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. N. from Feathard. The Fairs are holden on the 24th of March, 12th of May, and 21st of September. It is situate on the Sea-coast. See, Owen Duffe.—"William Earl of Pembroke, being in great danger and peril at Sea, made a vow to found an Abbey in that place where he should first arrive in safety, and this was the Bay of Tintern. He religiously performed his vow, dedicated his abbey to the Virgin Mary, and settled a Convent of Cistertian Monks here, whom he brought from Tintern Abbey, in the County of Monmouth, and granted them large possessions near the River Bann. The Church was a large building, with a great tower in the centre. The chancel part was converted into a dwelling-house, with three floors, stacks of chimnies, &c., and is now the seat of Vesey Colclough, Esq."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 752.

TIPPER, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral, valued in the King's Books at £16..10..0 Irish Money, and annexed to the Vicarage of Rathmore. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Rathmore.

TIPPERAGHNY, or, TIBRACH, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.; the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and is one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fiddown. Tipperaghny is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¾ m. S. E. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Suir; and was in ancient times well inhabited, and in high repute. See, Fiddown. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Dominic, or Modomnoc, flourished here about the middle of the Sixth century: his Feast is celebrated on the 13th of February.

TIPPERARY, in the Barony of Clanwilliam, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling, and united by act of Council, in 1682, to the Rectories entire of Clonbulloge, Kilfeacle, Templenoe and Donagore, and the Parcel of Ballynemogh: a Church, in good repair, in Tipperary: a Glebe House, in Templenoe: three Glebes; one, of 0 a. 3 r. 15 p., in Tipperary; another, of 11 a. 3 r. 4 p., in Templenoe; and a third, of 28 a. 2 r. 5 p., in Clonbulloge: The Hon. and Rev.

James St. Leger, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being severely afflicted with the gout, resides, during the winter, in Bath: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Thomas Hill, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tipperary is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 86¾ m. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 5th of April, and July, 10th of October, and 10th of December. The parishes in the Union of Tipperary are contiguous; that of Tipperary containing 2470 acres. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Union is too extensive, but should not be dissolved at present, as a Glebe House has been lately built, and charged at the rate of two year's income of the whole Union.—"A Monastery was founded here, in the reign of King Henry the Third, for Eremites following the Rule of St. Augustine."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 675.

TIPPERKEVIN, within the Liberties of the City of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: one of the Prebends of St. Patrick's Cathedral, in two portions; one portion being valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8, and the other portion at £4., both Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. John Bradshaw, A. B., the Prebendary, in 1806, who has a stall in the Cathedral. It is holden with the Curacy of St. Nicholas within the Walls of Dublin.

TIPPERT, in the Barony of Half Fowre, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, St. Fechin of Fore founded the Monastery here; which is now a chapel.

TIRAGHT, ISLAND, one of the Blasquets.

TIRDACHROEBH, in the Barony of ———, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, this Monastery, which is now unknown was founded by St. Columb.

TIRDAGLASS, v. TERRYGLASS.

TIREBRINE, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a Prebend, comprised in half the Tythes of one parish: The Rev. Robert Hawkshaw, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has no cure of souls, and is resident in the Diocese of Ferns. Tirebrine is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam.

TIRENASCRAGH, v. TYRENASKERAGH.

TIR-OENAICH, v. DISERT ODRAIN.

TISASSON, v. TAXAXON.

TITESKIN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghada. Titeskin is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. S. b. W. from Cloyne. See, Aghada. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this parish is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

TOBARCORRY, in the Barony of Leney, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 7 m. S. W. from Ballymote. The Fairs are holden on the 22d of May, 27th of June, 4th of October, and 29th of November.

TOBARDONY, in the Barony of Kiltartan, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from Gort. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of July, and 20th of September.

TOBARFUDDER, in the Barony of Loughrea, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is 5¼ m. N. E. from Gort.

TOBARMORE, v. TUBBERMORE.

TOBARSCANNOVAN, in the Barony of Tiraghrill, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught. It is 7 m. S. S. W. from Sligo. A village.

TOBBERELLY, in the Barony of ———, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. According to Mr. Archdall, here was a Cell, or Chapel, of the Third Order of St. Francis.

TOBER, in the Barony of Rathconrath, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. N. E. from Ballymore. According to Mr. Archdall, there was formerly a Monastery for Dominican Friars here.

TOBERGLORY, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster.—"Sir John de Courcey founded an Abbey to the honour of St. Thomas the Martyr near this well, which adjoins the town of Downpatrick, between two roads, the one leading to Crems, and the other to the Grange of Saul. He gave it to the Regular Canons of the Church of the Virgin Mary at Carlisle, and endowed it with three carucates of land adjacent thereto, together with all the lands, meadows, pastures, mills, and other aisements thereunto belonging, a burgage within the town of Down, and all the tithes of his house, and house expenses and demesnes. King Edward the Second confirmed this grant."——Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 129.

TOEM, or, TOEMVERIG, in the Barony of Killnamanna, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, to which have been attached to the Archbishoprick of Cashel, from time immemorial, as part of His Grace's Mensal, the Rectories entire of Aghacrew, Castletown, Clonkeen, Fertiana, Kilbeacon, Kilmilcon, Mogorban with the Parcel of Camkell, and Temple Outragh: a Church, in good repair, in Toem: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 2 r. 36 p., in the parish of Toem; another, of 34 a. 3 r. 32 p., in the parish of Aghacrew; and a third, of 30 a. 1 r. 34 p., in the parish of Kilmilcon: The Archbishop of Cashel has cure of souls in the parishes of Aghacrew, Castletown, Kilmilcon, and Toem, as Parcel of the Archbishoprick; the duties of which are performed by The Rev. John Hunt, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Toem is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5½ m. N. from Tipperary. This parish contains 2333 acres of land.—"Here was a Priory of Regular Canons dedicated to St. Donan, although others give it to the Virgin Mary. St. Donan was formerly honoured here as Patron of the place, and was probably the founder. This Monastery was a Cell to Inchnemeo."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 677.

TOEMONIA, v. TUMNA.

TOEMVERIG, v. TOEM.

TOGHER, in the Barony of Ballinacor, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster. A village.

TOMB, partly in the Barony of Gorey, and partly in the Barony of Scarewalsh, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £28..19..7 Irish Money; and united by Act of Council, on the 2d of September 1720, to the Rectories of Kilcomb, and Rossmenogue: a Church, in repair, at Camolin, in the parish of Tomb: no Glebe House; a Glebe, of 20a. 1r. 8p., at Camolin, within less than half a mile of the church: and another Glebe, of 13a. 3r. 17p., at Rossmenogue, near the site of the old church: these Glebes are three miles asunder: The Rev. Roger Owen, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the parish of Kiltennel, in this Diocese, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are discharged by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. Lendrum, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tomb is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. W. from Gorey. It is situate on the River Bann. The parishes in the Union of Tomb are all contiguous; their contents being 6300 acres.

TOMBEOLA, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught. It is situate at the head of Roundstone Bay.—"A Monastery for Dominican Friars was founded here about the year 1427, by the O'Flaherty's, dynasts of Eir Conaught; in which elevated station they continued till the arrival of Oliver Cromwell. In the beginning of Queen Elizabeth's reign, this building was wholly demolished, and even the stones, those of the church walls not excepted, were made use of to build a Castle in the neighbourhood. The few ruinous remains are scarcely visible, and very imperfectly mark the traces of this ancient village."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p 297.

TOMDEELY, v. DROMDEELY.

TOMFINLOGH, in the Barony of Bunratty, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory constituting part of the Union of Traddery; the Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £0..10..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kilseily. Tomfinlogh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4¼ m. N. W. from Six Mile Bridge. See, Kilseily, and Traddery.

TOMGRANY, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, united, at a period long prior to any known Record, to one third of the Rectory of Kilballyhone, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Tomgrany: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 0 a. 1 r. 11 p., in Tomgrany, adjoining the church-yard: The Rev. William Read, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident within two miles of the church, and discharges the duties in person. Tomgrany is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. N. N. W. from Killaloe. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday of Trinity, and 10th of October. It is situate upon the River Shannon. The parishes in the Union of Tomgrany are not, in any instance, contiguous to each other; they lie in different parts of the Diocese, and are distant from each other about 40 miles. There is no cure of souls belonging to the Rectory of Kilballyhone.—" An Abbey was founded here early. It is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 55.

TOMHAGGARD, or, TAMGHAGHER, in the Barony of Bargie, Co. of Wexford, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £26..11..4 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, from time immemorial to the year 1806, to the Vicarages of Kilmore, and Kilturk: no Church, but one is intended to be built in the Vicarage of Kilturk: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 4¼ acres, at Tomhaggard: another, of 6 acres, at Kilmore: and a third, of 16¾ acres, at Kilturk; each of these Glebes being convenient to the sites of their respective Churches: Vacant (in 1806), but a Rector then about to be appointed: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Montgomery, occasional Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tomhaggard is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 9 m. S. from Wexford. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. The Fair is holden on the 26th of July. The parishes in the Union of Tomhaggard are all contiguous; their contents being 4050 acres.

TOMREGAN, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of Cavan, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V.: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House; about 380 acres of Glebe contiguous, and less than a mile from the church: The Rev. Richard Brooke, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tomregan is in the Diocese of Kilmore, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Ballyconnel. It is situate upon the River Woodford.

TOOME, v. TOEM.

TOOME, in the Barony of Toome, Co. of Antrim, and Province of Ulster. It is 97 m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has three Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, and 4th of December. It is situate on a branch, at the Northern extremity, of Lough Neagh, over which here is a Bridge into the County of Londonderry.

TOOMEVARA, or, TEMPLEDOWNEY, in the Barony of Upper Ormond, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, with the Vicarage of Ballymackey, being the Corps of the Chancellorship of Killaloe, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling; and with which are holden, Epis-copally united, on the 5th of January 1799, the Rectory of Ballymackey, and the Rectories and Vicarages of Aghnameadle, Ballygibbon, and Kilderrydadron: a Church, in good repair, in the parish of Ballymackey: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. Arthur Vesey, A. B., who has cure of souls, and is resident at Abbeyleix, which he holds by Faculty: the duties are performed by his Resident Curate, The Rev. James Hill Poe, A. B., at a Salary of £75. per annum. Toomevara is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 6 m. S. E. from Nenagh. The Fairs are holden on Whit-Monday, and 4th of November. The parishes in the Union of Toomevara are contiguous; their estimated extent from North to South being 5 miles, and from East to West 6 miles.

TORY, or, TORRE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" An island extremely fertile, situated about eight miles from the main land. There was an Abbey here, of which St. Ernan, the son of Colman, was Abbot about the year 650."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 105.

TOUGH, in the Barony of Owneybeg, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Abington. Tough is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 8 m. S. E. from Castle Connel. This parish contains 631 acres of land. See, Abington.

TOUGHCLUGGIN, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1..1..0 sterling; being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Cullen. Toughcluggin is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Tipperary. See, Cullen.

TOWMORE, or, TUYMORE, in the Barony of Gallen, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Strade. Towmore is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is adjacent to Foxford, on the East; and is situate on the River Moy. See, Strade.

TOWNAVILLY, in the Barony of Tyrhugh, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. N. E. from Donegal. It is situate near to Lough Eask.

TRABOLGAN, in the Barony of Imokilly, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., being a Particle in the Union of Youghall. Trabolgan is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 6½ m. S. W. from Cloyne. It is situate at the Eastern side, on the entrance of Cork Harbour. See, Youghall.

TRACTON, in the Barony of Kinalea and Kerricurrihy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a Rectory entire, Impropriate in The Right Hon. The Earl of Shannon: a Church: a Curate performs Divine Service every Sunday, alter-a considerable time as a garrison.—The Gray Friary was dedicated to St. Bonaventure, and in general was called, The Observantine Friary of Trim; it was originally founded by King John; though others say by the family of Plunket. This Friary is totally demolished, and the present Session-house is erected on part of the ancient foundation. Father Richard Plunket, who wrote an Irish Dictionary, now in the Public Library of Dublin, resided in this convent.—The Dominican Friary, situated near the gate leading to Athboy, was founded in honour of the Virgin Mary, A. D. 1263, by Geoffrey de Geneville, Lord of Meath.—The Priory of Crossbearers was dedicated to St. John the Baptist; one of the Bishops of Meath was said to be the founder, and his successors in that See were great benefactors to this Priory. We are told, that this was a truly magnificent building: and it is probable, that the Parliaments of Trim were holden in the great hall of this house: the walls are still in being.—Here was a Convent of Nuns.—There was an ancient Church here, called The Church of the Grecians; which may be some proof that the Grecians of old made a settlement in this kingdom.—We also find, in the parish church of St. Patrick in this town, a Perpetual Chantry of three Priests."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 575. et seq.

TRIMLESTOWN, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. W. N. W. from Trim. Here is the handsome Seat of Lord Trimlestown.

TRINITY ISLAND, v. LOUGH KEY.

TRISTERNAGH, in the Barony of Moygoish, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster. It is situate on the Banks of Lough Iron.—"This Priory of Canons Regular, sometimes called the Priory of Kilbixy, was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and owes its foundation to Geoffry de Constantine (one of the earliest English emigrants) in or soon after the days of King Henry the Second. This magnificent and beautiful edifice, in the form of a cross and of a considerable extent, was built of a blackish stone, and the steeple was remarkable, being an octagon erected on the top of a square tower, which, though mutilated, was, in the year 1780, 74 feet high, the columns were also octagon with plain capitals. This Abbey was totally destroyed in 1783."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 729.

TRISTLE DERMOT, v. CASTLE DERMOT.

TRISTLEKERIN, v. CASTLEKEIRN.

TROREY, in the Barony of Tyreskenedy, Co. of FERMANAGH, and Province of Ulster: a Perpetual Cure: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House: 60 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. William Weir, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Trorey is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4 m. N. from Enniskillen. It is situate on Lough Erne.

TRUBLY, v. TUBBERVILLE.

TRYVET, or, TREVOT, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £5..12..8 Irish Money, and united by Act of Council, on the 27th of May 1678, to the R. of Kilbrew: a Church, in Kilbrew, lately put into perfect repair: no Glebe House; one acre of Glebe, in Kilbrew, and one acre in Tryvet, distant from each other about two miles, and each of them close to their respective church, and ruin of a church: The Rev. John Staples, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and lives on his other Benefice, in the Diocese of Armagh: the duties are discharged by his Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tryvet is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2½ m. N. N. E. from Dunshaglin. The parishes in the Union of Tryvet are contiguous; that of Tryvet containing 2218 acres of land. —"Hugh de Lacie rebuilt this ancient town, where he planted a colony of his English followers; it afterwards became a place of considerable note, but has since fallen to decay, and is now an obscure village. Here was a considerable Monastery; we cannot learn by whom it was founded. The English, under Hugh de Lacie, erected a large Church here in honour of St. Patrick; it is now in ruins, but many fragments of beautiful tombs and monuments still remain."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 574.

TUAIM MUSGRAIGHE, in the Barony of Muskerry, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, the Bishop of St. Domangan was venerated here, and his Festival observed on the 29th of April. It is now unknown.

TUAM, in the Barony of Downamore, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: The Right Hon. and Most Rev. William Beresford, D. D., Lord Archbishop of Tuam, in 1810: a V., united by Act of Council, in 1788, to the Vicarages of Addergoole, Belclare, Kilbennan, Kilconla, and Liskeevy: no Parish Church; the Service being always performed in the Cathedral Church of St. Mary's, Tuam: a Glebe House, in good repair; a Glebe, of 16 acres, in the parish of Tuam, 10 acres in Kilbennan, 2 acres in Belclare, and 15 acres in Kilconla: The Rev. Robert Warren, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and has a Faculty. Tuam is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 93 m. W. b. N. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of July, and 15th of December. It has six Post-days in the week. Here is the Archiepiscopal Palace. According to Dr. Beaufort, this Bishoprick (valued in the King's Books at £50. sterling) was established early in the Sixth century, and is considerably the largest in the Kingdom, extending over a great part of the Counties of Galway, and Mayo, and including a part of Roscommon. It is upwards of 60 miles long, and 50 broad. With this See the Bishoprick of Ardagh is holden in Commendam. The Chapter consists of a Dean, a Provost, an Archdeacon, and 8 Prebendaries. The Deanery alone is in the patronage of the Crown; 79 parishes are in the Bishop's Gift; and 10 are united to the Wardenship of Galway. The Constitution of that large and ancient Collegiate Church is unique in this kingdom; the Warden and three Assisting Vicars being elected by the Mayor and Corporation; the Warden annually, and the Vicars for life. In the little City of Tuam there is a very neat but small Cathedral, which is also the parish church. The Bishop's Palace is a large antique fabric; from which no part of this extensive Diocese is 50 miles distant. The extent of the Union of Tuam is about 8 miles in length, and about 6 miles in breadth: Liskeevy is distant from the other parishes about 5 miles.—"We are told that an Abbey was founded here, so early as the year 487, under the Invocation of the Virgin Mary. St. Jarlath is said to have made it a Cathedral in the beginning of the Sixth century; and it is also said that a City was built here in honour of this exemplary Bishop. His remains were preserved at Tuam, in a Chapel, called Temple-na-scrin, i. e., The Church of the Shrine.—The Priory of St. John the Baptist was founded about the year 1140, by Tirdelvac O'Connor, king of Ireland. We cannot say to what Order this House did belong, but find that it was granted to Richard Earl of Clanrickard.—The Abbey of the Holy Trinity was founded by one of the family of Burgh, either in the reign of King John, or in the beginning of King Henry III, for Premonstre Canons."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 297.

TUBBER, in the Barony of Talbotstown, Co. of Wicklow, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunlavan. Tubber is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 8¼ m. S. S. W. from Blessington. See, Dunlavan.

TUBBERMORE, or, TOBARMORE, in the Barony of Loughinsholin, Co. of Londonderry, and Province of Ulster. It is 90½ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of January, 13th of February, 28th of March, 31st of May, 5th of July, and 20th of October. It has three Post-days in the week.

TUBBERVILLE, or, TRUBLY, in the Barony of Deece, Co. of Meath, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..7..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Trim. Tubberville is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. b. N. from Trim. It is situate on the River Boyne. See, Trim.

TUBRID, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Fiddown. Tubrid is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 9½ m. S. b. W. from Knocktopher. See, Fiddown.

TUBRID, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory being the Corps of the Deanery of Lismore, which is valued in the King's Books at £13. sterling: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 29 acres, in the parish of Tubrid; a Parcel of Land, in the parish of Lismore, belonging to the Deanery, and containing 469 a. 2 r. 2 p.; and a few Perches of Land, in the parish of Lismore, on which the ruins of a Deanery House stand: these Lands are not contiguous: Tubrid Glebe being very near the church, and 12 miles from Lismore Cathedral, and about 14 miles from the Deanery Land, which is near 2 miles from the Cathedral of Lismore: The Rev. John Scott, the Incumbent (in 1806): It is alleged, that the Dean of Lismore has not cure of souls; but the Charter of the Deanery, which is a Peculiar, as well as every thing relating to the Cathedral of Lismore, is lost; and no document whatsoever, concerning this establishment, is forthcoming. The Dean resides in the parish of Lismore, within half a mile of the Cathedral: the Preacher, who preaches the turns of the Dean and Chapter of Lismore, in the Cathedral of Lismore, has a Salary of Fifty guineas per annum: he resides in Lismore: The Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £5..3..0 sterling, was Episcopally united, in the year 1786, when the present Incumbent took possession, to the Vicarage of Ballybacon; and to these, the Vicarage of Tullaghorton was Episcopally united, on the 21st of June 1804: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Tubrid: a Glebe House, in the parish of Tubrid: three Glebes; one, of 27 a. 2 r. 36 p., in Tubrid, a few perches from the church; another, of 4 a. 1 r. 22 p., in Ballybacon, adjacent to the site of the oldchurch: and the third, of 0 a. 3 r. 20 p., in Tullaghorton, close to the site of the old church: these Glebes are not contiguous: the Glebe of Tubrid being distant from that of Ballybacon about three miles, and from that of Tullaghorton about two miles; and Ballybacon Glebe is distant about two miles from that of Tullaghorton: The Rev. Robert Draper, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in the City of Waterford, where he fills the office of Surrogate: the duties are performed by a Curate, who resides in the Glebe House at Tubrid, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tubrid is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. b. S. from Cahir. The parishes in the Union of Tubrid are contiguous; that of Tubrid containing 7215 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarage of Tubrid might stand very well alone.

TUBRIDBRETANI, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aghour. Tubridbretani is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 5 m. S. W. from Freshford. See, Aghour.

TUILEIM, in the Barony of ———, King's County, and Province of Leinster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was anciently a Monastery here, but of which very little is known.

TULACH, v. TULLOGHGOR.

TULACHFOBHAIR, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster.—"It was founded in the 7th century by St. Fechin, and endowed by the King of Leinster. It is said to have been near the town of Naas; but we can find no farther account of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 345.

TULACH MHIN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster.—"St. Molagga, who was living A. D. 664, founded an Abbey here, where his Festival is holden on the 20th of January. This place is now unknown." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 80.

TULLAGH, v. TULLOGH.

TULLAGH, v. TULLOW.

TULLAGH, in the Barony of Carbery, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., each valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 10 a. 1 r. 3 p.: The Rev. Edward Stopford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £60. per annum. Tullagh is in the Diocese of Ross, and Province of Cashel. It is 6¼ m. S. b. W. from Skibbereen. It is situate upon Baltimore Harbour. The parish of Creagh was formerly united with this parish.

TULLAGHAGNISH, v. TULLY-AGHNISH.

TULLAGHALLAN, in the Barony of Ferrard, Co. of LOUTH, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry, belonging to the Abbey of Mellifont: no Chapel. It is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. N. W. from Drogheda.

TULLAGHANOGUE, in the Barony of Navan, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy (a Lay Impropriation), being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Trim. Tullaghanogue is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. W. from Trim. See, Trim.

TULLAGHBIGLEY, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House: The Rev. Evans Jenkins, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tullaghbigley is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. The Rectory and Vicarage have been consolidated from time immemorial, and form but one parish. It is 7 m. S. W. from Dunfanaghy. It is situate upon the Sea coast.

TULLAGHBRACKY, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money: no Church: no Glebe House, but the Incumbent is under orders to build: two Glebes; one, of 7 acres, being close to the site of the old church, and the other of 38½ acres, being a mile and a half distant: The Rev. Thomas Franklin, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is about to reside: the duties are performed by the Vicar of Bruff, at a Salary of £5. per annum. Tullaghbracky is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 1¾ m. N. E. from Bruff.

TULLAGHMAIN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £1. Irish Money; and being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Cashel: the duties are performed by The Rev. Frederick Neligan, Curate of the adjoining parish (in 1806). Tullaghmain is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. W. from Fethard. This parish contains 1895 acres of land. See, Geale.

TULLAGHNANEVE, v. SAINTFIELD.

TULLAGHORTON, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: the Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend, is valued in the King's Books at £5. sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Land, or Cure of souls: The Rev. Richard Marly, the Prebendary (in 1806), and this being a complete Sine Cure, he does not reside: The Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £5..2..0 sterling, constitutes part of the Union of Tubrid. Tullaghorton is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 2¾ m. E. from Clogheen. This parish contains 2193 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Rectory and Vicarage of Tullaghorton ought to be perpetually united. See, Tubrid.

TULLAMORE, or, KILBRIDE, in the Barony of Ballicowen, KING'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry: a Chapel, built by the Charleville Family, and is used as the parish church: no Glebe House, but a situation for a Manse has been granted by Lord Charleville, and the forms of law have not yet been gone through: The Rev. Ponsonby Gouldsbury, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Tullamore is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 46 m. W. b. S. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 10th of May, and July, and 21st of October. It has six Post-days in the week. The River Tullamore divides the town into two, nearly equal, parts. It gives title of Baron to a branch of the Family of Moore. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

TULLANISKIN, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 237 English acres, lying together, about a mile and an half from the church: The Rev. Thomas A. Vesey, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tullaniskin is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 2¾ m. N. N. E. from Dungannon.

TULLILEASH, in the Barony of Duhallow, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. sterling: no Church: no Glebe

House, or Glebe: The Rev. Dr. William Green, the Incumbent (in 1810), who has cure of souls, and resides at Middleton, where he is Curate. Tullileash is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 11 m. W. S. W. from Charleville. It is situate near the River Allow. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of March, 29th of April, June, and 24th of October. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.—" Matthew Mac Griffin founded a Priory here for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustine: It was afterwards united to that of Kells, in the County of Kilkenny."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 80.

TULLOGH, in the Barony of Tullagh, Co. of CLARE, and Province of Munster: a Prebend, to which belongs, as the Corps thereof, the Rectorial Tythes of some denominations in the said parish, and elsewhere, being valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: and with which is holden the Vicarage of Tullogh, valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: the Half Rectory of Tullogh constituting part of the Union of Ogashin: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, and a Glebe, of 2 a. 2 r. 30 p.: The Rev. John Whitty, A. B., the Prebendary (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident. Tullogh is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 102 m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 13th of May, 4th of September, and 1st of October. It has three Post-days in the week. See, Ogashin.

TULLOGHGOR, in the Barony of Dunluce, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a R., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the R. of Ballymoney. Tulloghgor is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. This parish contains 1006 acres of land. See, Ballymoney.—" Tulach was founded by St. Patrick, who appointed St. Nehemias to be Bishop of it."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 14.

TULLOGHMELAN, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Treasurership of Lismore. Tulloghmelan is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 4 m. S. W. b. W. from Clonmell. It is situate near the River Suir. This parish contains about 1594 acres of land. See, Newcastle.

TULLOHANEBROGE, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Inchihologhan. Tullohanebroge is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. See, Inchihologhan.

TULLOHERIN, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster; a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry of Ossory. Tulloherin is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 3¼ m. S. S. W. from Gowran. Here is one of the ancient Round towers. See, Kilfane.

TULLOMAIN, in the Barony of Shellilogher, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Callan. Tullomain is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. from Callan. See, Callan.

TULLOROAN, in the Barony of Crannagh, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Callan. Tulloroan is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 7 m. N. W. from Kilkenny. See, Callan.

TULLOW, or, TULLAGH, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R.: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House; a Glebe, of 9 a. 1 r. 16 p., on which the house stands, near the church; and another Glebe, of 6 a. 1 r. 10 p., one mile distant from the former: The Rev Thomas Davis, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Tullow is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 38 m. S. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 21st of April, 10th of July, 29th of October, and 21st of November. It is situate on the River Slaney. It has six Post-days in the week.—"In the sixth year of the reign of King Edward the Second, Simon Lumbard and Hugh Tallon granted to the Eremites following the Rule of St. Augustine an house and three acres of land in the village of St. John, near Tullagh. On the 13th of December 1557, Queen Elizabeth granted this Monastery to Thomas Earl of Ormond."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 39.

TULLOWBEG, in the Barony of Ravilly, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Chapelry. It is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is ¼ m. W. b. N. from Tullow. It is situate on the River Slaney.

TULLOWCRINE, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Old Leighlin. Tullowcrine is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 5¼ m. S. W. from Carlow. See, Leighlin, Old.

TULLOWMAGRIMAH, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a Rectory, being the Corps of the Prebend thereof, which is valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, and being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballinacarrig. Tullowmagrimah is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. E. b. S. from Carlow. It is situate near the River Burren. See, Ballinacarrig.

TULLOWMOY, in the Barony of Balliadams, QUEEN'S COUNTY, and Province of Leinster: a R., united, ever since the year 1714, to the R. of Balliquillane. Tullowmoy is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. b. E. from Stradbally. See, Stradbally.

TULLY, v. TULLY-AGHNISH.

TULLY, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of DUBLIN, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy. It is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. S. E. b. S. from Dublin.

TULLY, partly in the Barony of Ophaly, and partly in the Barony of Kilcullen, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Preceptory or Commandery, holden with the Bishoprick of Kildare, as part of the Corps thereof: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe Land: The Lord Bishop of Kildare is Preceptor or Rector, having cure of souls in the parishes of Tully, and Coglanstown, and in other places appurtenant thereto: the duties are performed by his Licensed Curate, The Rev. John Williamson, who is resident in the contiguous parish of Kildare, at a Salary of £30. per annum. Tully is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 1 m. S. from Kildare. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, and 27th of July. This parish contains 2845 acres of land, by estimation. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Preceptory of Tully consists of Tully, Coglanstown, Doneny, and Davidstown: this Preceptory being the Corps of the Bishoprick of Kildare, but the Bishop had not, in 1806, been able to procure full information, whether it possessed other Denominations. And it is recommended, that the Bishop should be dispossessed of these tythes, as his enjoyment of them deprives the Incumbents of the respective parishes, in which they are situate, of the very means of residence. To effect this purpose, some proper compensation may be suggested. See, Feighcullen, Great Connel, and Pollardstown.

TULLY-AGHNISH, or, TULLAGHAGNISH, in the Barony of Kilmacrenan, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: a Church: no Glebe House; a large tract of Glebe, inconveniently situated for the residence of the Clergyman, being far removed from Rathmelton, where the church stands: The Rev. Michael Kearney, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Tully-Aghnish is in the Diocese of Raphoe, and Province of Armagh. It is adjacent to Rathmelton, on the North-West. According to the Diocesan Returns, it appears that, "the parish of Tully-Aghnish, in the Presentation of the College of Dublin, has been holden for time immemorial under this title and denomination, as a single parish by a single Clerk, having one Church only, and Parish Officers as for one Church: although there were in former times two distinct parishes, but still contiguous, and noted in the Taxation-Book of the Court of Exchequer under the titles of Rectory and Vicarage of Tully-Fern, and Rectory and Vicarage of Aghnish, with a separate Taxation to each (each being valued at £10. sterling). But when, by what authority, and in what manner they were united, does not appear. The Minister is constantly resident." —"St. Columb founded an Abbey at Tulachdubglaisse, which is now a parish church."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 105.

TULLYCORBET, in the Barony of Monaghan, Co. of MONAGHAN, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3. sterling: a Church, in good condition: a Glebe House; 40 acres of Glebe, near the church: The Rev. John Hussey Burgh, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Tullycorbet is in the Diocese of Clogher, and Province of Armagh. It is 4½ m. N. b. E. from Ballybay.

TULLY-FERN, v. TULLY-AGHNISH.

TULLYHOG, in the Barony of Dungannon, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. S. b. E. from Cookstown. A village.

TULLYLISH, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: a Church, in good repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 40 English acres, about one mile from the church: The Rev. Charles Hamilton, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties. Tullylish is in the Diocese of Dromore, and Province of Armagh. It is ¾ m. S. E. from Gilford. It is situate on the River Bann.

TULLYNAKILL in the Barony of Castlereagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V.: no Church: noGlebe, or Glebe House: the Income is only £60. per annum.: The Rev. John Gwynne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides on his Benefice, in the Diocese of Connor: the occasional duties are discharged by the Curate of the adjoining parish. Tullynakill is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. S. S. E. from Comber. It is situate upon Strangford Lough.

TULLYRUSK, in the Barony of Massareen, Co. of ANTRIM, and Province of Ulster: a V., anciently united to the Vicarages of Camlin, and Glenavy. Tullyrusk is in the Diocese of Connor, and Province of Armagh. It is 3 m. E. from Glenavy. See, Glenavy.

TULSK, in the Barony of Roscommon, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught. It is 75½ m. W. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, Friday before Whit-Sunday, 20th of August, and the first Monday O. S., in November.—" O'Conor Roe erected a Castle here, in the year 1406; and Mac Duil or O'Dowell, is said to have built a Monastery in the same town, for Dominican Friars, in the Fifteenth century. This Monastery, though in ruins, is still pretty entire."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 623.

TUMNA, or, TOEMONIA, in the Barony of Boyle, Co. of ROSCOMMON, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Archdeaconry of Elphin. Tumna is in the Diocese of Elphin, and Province of Tuam. It is 1½ m. W. from Carrick on the Shannon. See, Killuken.— " A Monastery for Dominican Friars was founded here by O'Conor; but by an Inquisition taken in the 28th of Queen Elizabeth, it was found to belong to the Friars of the Third Order of St. Francis, and was then seized of a Church, with a small Cemetery, a quarter of land of arable and pasture and the Appurtenances and Tythes adjacent to the Friary, valued at 10s. sterling annually. No vestige of a village remains here, nor is there any appearance of other erections, save only the walls of a very ancient castle, which did belong to O'Conor."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 623.

TUMORE, in the Barony of Corran, Co. of SLIGO, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..3..0 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Emlyfadd. Tumore is in the Diocese of Achonry, and Province of Tuam. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Boyle. See, Emlyfadd.

TUOSIST, in the Barony of Glanerought, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: an entire Rectory, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Kenmare. Tuosist is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 12 m. S. W. from Kenmare. It is situate upon the River Kenmare. See, Kenmare.

TURLOGH, in the Barony of Carragh, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Aglish. Turlogh is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is 4 m. N. E. from Castlebar. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of May, 13th of June, 24th of August, and 8th of December. Here is a Quarry of beautiful black marble; and also one of the ancient Round towers. It is the Seat of the family of Fitzgerald. See, Aglish.

TUSCAN PASS, or, LAMB'S PASS, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. N. from Newry. The Fairs are holden on Easter Monday, and 8th of November. It was formerly an incumbered Pass through bogs, woods, and morassy grounds.

TUSKAR, ISLAND, off the Barony of Forth, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster. It is situate about two leagues from the Main, in St. George's Channel.

TUYMORE, v. TOWMORE.

TWO MILE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster. It is 2 m. E. from Clonmell. A village, situate on the River Suir.

TYFERNAN, in the Barony of Corkery, Co. of WEST MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leny. Tyfernan is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 5¼ m. N. from Mullingar. This parish contains 968 acres of land. See, Leny.

TYMOLE, in the Barony of Skryne, Co. of MEATH, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2..14..4 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Julianstown. Tymole is in the Diocese of Meath, and Province of Armagh. It is 6 m. S. b. E. from Slane. This parish contains 376 acres of land. See, Julianstown.

TYNAGH, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £3..6..8 sterling, and Episcopally united, about the year 1735, to the R. and V. of Doneiry: a Church, in good repair, at Tynagh: no Glebe House: two Glebes, not contiguous; one, of 7 acres, near the church; the other, of 84 acres, one mile distant: The Rev. Philip Barry, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls in all parts: the duties are discharged by The Rev. Mr. Short, his Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tynagh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 6 m. N. W. from Portumna. The parishes in the Union of Tynagh are contiguous.

TYNAN, in the Barony of Armagh, Co. of ARMAGH, and Province of Ulster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £20. sterling: a Church, in good order: a Glebe House, and a Glebe of 157 English acres, not contiguous; 50 of them being near the church, the remainder four miles from it: The Rev. Thomas Quin, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls; the duties are discharged by a Resident Curate, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Tynan is in the Diocese of Armagh, and Province of Armagh. It is 68¾ m. N. b. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week.

TYRCONNELL, the ancient name of the County of DONEGAL, in the Province of Ulster. It formerly gave title of Viscount to the Family of Brownlow.

TYRELA, in the Barony of Lecale, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Deanery of Down: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe. The Parishioners of the Established Church attend Divine Service at the adjacent parishes of Bright, and Rathmullin. Tyrela is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 3½ m. S. S. E. from Clough. This parish contains 950 acres of land. It is situate upon Dundrum Bay. See, Downpatrick.

TYRENASKERAGH, in the Barony of Longford, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a V., valued in the King's Books at £0..6. 8 sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonfert. Tyrenaskeragh is in the Dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, and Province of Tuam. It is 2¾ m. N. N. E. from Portumna. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Clonfert.

TY-VOURNEY GERRAN, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster. It is 8½ m. S. W. from Dingle. It is otherwise called Mary Gerrane's House, and is the most Western point of Europe.

U.

ULLARD, in the Barony of Gowran, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R., being the Corps of a Prebend in the Cathedral of Leighlin, which is valued in the King's Books at £1..6..8 Irish Money; and Episcopally united, since the year 1714, to the Rectory of Graig: no Church, but one to be built at Graig, when a site is fixed upon: a Glebe House, newly erected, at Ullard: a Glebe, of 30 acres, almost contiguous to the site of the old church at Graig: The Rev. George Alcock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties in person. Ullard is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. N. b. E. from Graig. The parishes in the Union of Ullard are contiguous; their contents being 4589 acres. It is situate upon the River Barrow.

ULLID, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Poleroan. Ullid is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 6¼ m. N. N. W. from Waterford. See, Poleroan.

ULLOE, in the Barony of Coonagh, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a Vicarage, valued in the King's Books at £2..1..0 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House: two Glebes; one, of 10 a. 1 r. 24 p., and the other, of 25 a. 1 r. 6 p.: The Rev. Edward Lloyd, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is resident in Limerick, from whence he performs the duties of this and of another Benefice. Ulloe is in the Diocese of Emly, and Province of Cashel. It is 7½ m. N. W. from Tipperary. Here are the ruins of a Castle. This parish is supposed to contain about 3584 acres of land. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford comfort to a Resident Incumbent. See, Cullen.

UMMA, in the Barony of Ballinahinch, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught: a R., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballynakill. Umma is in the Diocese of Tuam, and Province of Tuam. It is situate upon the Sea-coast. See, Ballynakill.

UMOND, v. UMMA.

UPHAM, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Killenaule. It is 1½ m. S. b. E. from Killenaule. See, Killenaule.

UREGARE, or, OWRGARE, in the Barony of Coshma, Co. of LIMERICK, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £6..3..4 sterling: no Church: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. William Maunsell, A. M., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and being an old man, and unable to perform any duty, the Vicar of Bruff attends this parish, at a Salary of £3. per annum. This Benefice is only £20. per annum. Uregare is in the Diocese of Limerick, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. S. E. from Bruff.

URGLIN, in the Barony of Catherlogh, Co. of CARLOW, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 Irish Money, and Episcopally united, ever since the year 1713, to the R. of Grangeforth, and, in 1803, to the Impropriate Cure of Killerick: a Church, in repair, in the parish of Urglin: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Rev. Benjamin Hobart, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and partly from want of accommodation, and partly as Surrogate of the Diocese, he resides in Carlow, and discharges the duties in person. Urglin is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2¼ m. E. N. E. from Carlow. The parishes in the Union of Urglin are contiguous; the contents of Urglin, and Grangeforth, being 3040 acres.

URLARE, in the Barony of Costello, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught.—"One of the family of Naugle founded a Monastery here for Dominican Friars, and dedicated it to St. Thomas. This family afterwards took the name of Costello, and became Lords of the Barony; The followers of St. Dominick seated themselves here in the year 1430, without a licence from the Pope, but they obtained one from Eugene IV, who made a grant of the same, by a Bull bearing date the 18th of March, 1434. Urlare, or in Irish, Orlare, which signifies an Arca, is in a retired situation, and was therefore appointed for the general reception of Novices throughout the Province of Connaught. We are told, that, in ancient times, there was a Town here, but at present there is not a vestige of one to be seen, and the ruins of the Abbey alone preserve this place from total oblivion. —On the dissolution of Monasteries, this Friary was granted to Lord Dillon."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 510.

URLINGFORD, in the Barony of Gallmoy, Co. of KILKENNY, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe: The Rev. The Dean and Chapter of Ossory, the Rectors and Vicars: the duties are performed by a Curate, at a Salary of £10. per annum. Urlingford is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 9¾ m. S. W. from Durrow. The Fairs are holden on the 12th of May, 15th of August, and 12th of October.

URNEY, v. CAVAN.

URNEY, in the Barony of Strabane, Co. of TYRONE, and Province of Ulster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £13..6..8 sterling: a Church, in repair: a Glebe House, on a Glebe of 60 acres, near the church; and another Glebe, of 205 acres, one mile from the church: The Rev. Robert Fowler, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and occasionally discharges the duties, assisted by a Curate. Urney is in the Diocese of Derry, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. S. W. from Strabane. It is situate on the River Foyle.

USK, in the Barony of Narragh and Reban, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster; a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £0..12..0 Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dunlavan. Usk is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4½ m. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge. The Fairs are holden on the Thursday before the 12th of May, and the first Thursday and Friday in October. See, Dunlavan.

USKEANE, in the Barony of Lower Ormond, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a V., valued in the King's Books at £1. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballingarry. Uskeane is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 2 m. E. b. N. from Burresokeane. See, Ballingarry.

USKECHAOIN, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of DONEGAL, and Province of Ulster.—" An Abbey was founded here by St. Columb, which is now a Chapel in the Diocese of Derry, according to Colgan."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 105.

V.

VALENTIA, or, KILLMORE, ISLAND, off the Barony of Iveragh, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Dromod. Valentia is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 29 m. S. W. from Milltown. See, Dromod. The Island of Valentia is situate in the Atlantic Ocean, and is about five miles in length: it is a fertile tract, and is esteemed the granary of the Country. This Island forms one side of a fine Harbour, the sea running between it and the main, like a river, which is in most places about half a mile broad, and of a sufficient depth for vessels to sail through at any time of the tide. Oliver Cromwell had forts erected upon both ends of it, which have gone to ruin since his time. It now belongs to The Earl of Shelburne, by whom it was purchased of the family of Annesley, to which it gives title of Viscount, by creation, on the 11th of March 1621.

VALE OF ANGELS, v. BANGOR.

VASTINA, v. CASTLETOWN KINDELANE.

VENTRY, in the Barony of Corcaguinny, Co. of KERRY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V.: no Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe in three divisions, one of them being close to the old church, and making together 4 a. 3 r. 25 p.: The Rev. Samuel Colliss, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and is Curate to Killeiny and the adjoining parishes, in one of which he resides: The duties are performed by the Curate of Dingle, at a Salary of £12. per annum. Ventry is in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. W. from Dingle. It is situate on a Harbour, to which it gives name, on the Atlantic Ocean. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, this Benefice is too small to afford the means of comfort to a Resident Incumbent.

VILLAGRIFFIN, v. BALLYGRIFFIN.

VILLAMUNEEN, v. BALLYMOREEN.

VILLARAILE, v. RAYLESTOWN.

VILLIERSTOWN, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster; in the parish of Aglish: a Chapel of Ease, founded by The Earl of Grandison: The Rev. Harris Oldfield, the Incumbent (in 1806), has not cure of souls, and resides at Drumana, within half a mile of the Chapel, and performs the duties in person. Villierstown is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 7 m. N. W. b. W. from Dungarvan. It is situate near the River Blackwater.

VIRGINIA, in the Barony of Castleraghan, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 40½ m. N. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 9th of July, and 21st of November. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate on Lough Ramor.

VOW FERRY, in the Barony of Coleraine, Co. of LONDONDERRY, and Province of Ulster. It is 2½ m. N. from Kilrea. A village, where is a Ferry across the River Bann.

W.

WADDISTOWN, in the Barony of Middle Third, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. It is in the Diocese of Cashel, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. S. b. E. from Cashel.

WALLSTOWN, in the Barony of Fermoy, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., valued in the King's Books at £6. sterling, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Coole. Wallstown is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. E. b. S. from Doneraile. See, Coole.

WALTERSTOWN, in the Barony of Ophaly, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a R., valued in the King's Books at £3. Irish Money, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Lackagh. Walterstown is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. It is 3½ m. S. S. W. from Kildare. See, Lackagh.

WARING'S-POINT, v. WARREN'S-POINT.

WARINGSTOWN, in the Barony of Lower Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2¾ m. S. b. E. from Lurgan. The site of the parish church of Donoughcloney was changed hither, in 1681. The Linen manufacture is carried on very extensively here.

WARREN'S-POINT, or, WARING'S-POINT, in the Barony of Upper Iveagh, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster. It is 56 m. N. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. It is situate upon the Bay of Carlingford.

WATERFORD, within the County of the City of WATERFORD, and Province of Munster: a City, in which are the following parishes, viz,

ST. JOHN'S: The Church is demolished.

ST. MICHAEL'S: The Church is demolished.

ST. OLAVE'S: a Church, in repair: a small House, belonging to the Dean.

ST. PATRICK'S, a Prebend, valued in the King's Books at £8. Irish Money: a Church, in repair.

ST. PETER'S: The Church is demolished.

ST. STEPHEN'S: The Church is demolished.

TRINITY, with the Chapels of The Dean and St. James, within the Cathedral, each valued in the King's Books at £14. Irish Money: The Cathedral Church, in repair: a Deanery House.

The Parishes of Trinity, St. Michael's, and St. Olave's, are all Within the City of Waterford, and make about two-thirds of it: they are united to the entire Rectories of Kilburne, and Kilcaragh, and part of the Rectories of Kilmeaden, and Reisk, constituting the Corps of the Deanery of Waterford, which is valued in the King's Books at £20. Irish Money: and to which Corps, the entire Rectory of Killoteran was last Episcopally united, on the 22d of December 1804, when the present Dean became Incumbent; and it appears, that it has been united in the same manner, for time immemorial: two Glebes; one, of 376 a. 3 r. 10 p., belonging to the Deanery, at Ballycasheen, in the parish of Kilburne, with several Cabbins on the land: the other, of 17 acres, at Kilcaragh; these Glebes are distant from each other about two miles: The Rev. Usher Lee, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the Deanery House, and discharges the duties in person, assisted by his three Curates, who all reside within the Union, viz, The Curate of the Cathedral, at a Salary of £75.; of St. Olave's, at £50.; and of Killoteran, at £50. per annum. The Dean and Chapter of Waterford have the Tythes of Trinity parish in common. There are no Tythes from the other two City parishes. The parishes in this Union are all contiguous; the remotest of them not being four miles distant from the City of Waterford.—The parishes of St. Peter, St. Patrick, St. Stephen, and St. John, are all contiguous, and comprehend about one-third of the whole city of Waterford: they constitute the Corps of the Archdeaconry, which is valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money, and were probably united at the same time when the Deanery was established: a Glebe, of a few perches, behind the church of St. Patrick: The Rev. George Lewis Fleury, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the city, and performs the duties in person. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the value of these four Livings is under £200. per annum; and are conceived to be of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent.—There is also a French Church in the City of Waterford, endowed by Government with £50. per annum: of which The Rev. Peter Augustus Franquefort is Incumbent (in 1806): has not cure of souls: is resident, and performs the duties in person: It has neither Glebe House, or Glebe Land.—Waterford is in the Diocese of Waterford, and Province of Cashel. The Hon. and Right Rev. Power French le Poer, D. D. and LL. D., Lord Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, in 1802. It is 74½ m. S. S. W. from Dublin. It has six Post-days in the week. The Fairs are holden on the 4th of May, 24th of June, and 25th of October. This City sends one Member to Parliament; the Electors being, Freemen and Freeholders. It was originally built in the year 879, but destroyed, in 981: It was considerably enlarged by Earl Strongbow, in 1171; and still further, in the reign of King Henry the Seventh, who granted divers privileges to the citizens. King Richard the Second landed, and was crowned here, in 1399. In 1690, King James the Second embarked from hence for France, after the Battle of the Boyne. King William the Third resided here twice, and confirmed its Privileges. Here is a Charter School, for 60 Boys. The Members of the Corporation consist of a Mayor, Recorder, two Sheriffs, 18 Aldermen, and 19 Assistants, a Town Clerk, Coroner, Clerk of the Crown and Peace, Mareschal, Searcher, Public Notary, Water-Bailiff, Sword-Bearer, four Serjeants at Mace, and other Officers. The Privileges of their Charter are very extensive. The City of Waterford is well built, and contains about 35,000 souls. It stands on the South side of the River Suir, which is embanked by a very noble Quay, extending the whole length of the Town: Vessels of great burden can come up to this Quay, but the largest ships generally lie a few miles lower down: a very flourishing commerce with England, and other countries, is the happy consequence of such a situation. The principal articles of Export are beef, pork, butter, grain, and linen. Packet-boats are also established between this Port, and Milford Haven in South Wales, for the convenience of the South of Ireland. As there is no bridge over the Suir below Carrick, the only communication with the County of Kilkenny is by a Ferry, an inconvenience to which the great depth and breadth of the river has hitherto compelled the inhabitants to submit. This city is about twelve miles distant from the Sea: The harbour runs almost twelve miles up the country, nearly in a straight line, and is all the way deep and clear. Here are several Charity Schools, and Humane Foundations, well supported: Many of the public edifices are extremely elegant: The private dwellings are generally modern, and with the other improvements of the city, keep pace with the increase of its opulence. It gives title of Viscount to the family of Lumley, that of Earl to the family of Talbot, and that of Marquess to the Earl of Tyrone. The See of Waterford (which is valued in the King's Books at £72..8..1 Irish Money,) was united, according to Dr. Beaufort, in the year 1536, to the See of Lismore: The Bishoprick of Lismore had been founded in the beginning of the Seventh century; but that of Waterford was not established until the Eleventh, when the Ostmen or Danes settled on the Irish Coast. This very small Diocese is confined to the Eastern part of the County of Waterford, and does not extend above 10 miles in length, and 7 miles in breadth. But the Diocese of Lismore is 30 miles long, and about 29 miles broad, including the greatest part of the County of Waterford, and a considerable portion of that of Tipperary. The Union stretches in length 39 miles from East to West, and 29 miles in breadth. The Chapter of Waterford consists only of the Dean, Precentor (see, Kilbarrymeaden), Chancellor (see, Monemointer), and Treasurer (see, Lisnakill), for there are no Prebendaries, and the Archdeacon has not a vote. The Cathedral of Waterford is a very elegant church, erected within a few years. The Bishop's Palace, which stands close by it, is a handsome modern structure of no great size, and very much confined in situation.—" The Priory of St. Catherine is the first House of Religion which appears; it was founded by the Ostmen for Augustinian Canons of the Congregation of St. Victor, but we know not at what period.—The Hospital of St. Stephen, in St. Stephen's Street, was founded for Lepers, and endowed by the Power family. This Hospital must have been erected before the Benedictine Abbey, for John Earl of Morton, in his Charter to that Abbey, confirmed the Leper-House to the Poor of the City.—John Earl of Morton arrived in Waterford, A. D. 1185, when he founded the Priory of St. John the Evangelist in the suburbs of the City, for Monks of the Order of St. Benedict, and confirmed to them the lands of Ballyowedin. In the Charter he calls it his Alms-House, and makes it a Cell to the Abbey of St. Peter and St. Paul in the City of Bath, Somersetshire. Peter de Fonte was a munificent Benefactor to this House.—The Friars Preachers, or Dominicans, were introduced into this city, A. D. 1226. And upon application of the Citizens to King Henry III, on the 20th of February, he granted his Royal approbation, that their intended house should be built on that waste piece of ground, late the site of an ancient tower. The building was accordingly begun, and concluded. The steeple was a very strong building, and the Monastery (of St. Saviour), now the County Court-house, is called Black Friars.—A Friary was founded, in 1240, for Conventual Franciscans by the Lord Hugh Purcel, who was interred in the same year, on the right hand of the High Altar. The steeple is still entire, and, with the rest of the Abbey, is constantly kept in repair. Here are several ancient Tombs, on one is the figure of a man in armour, in high relief, with a shield on his left arm, on which are three Lions passant guardant in pale, but no inscription (this was the monument of the Founder). The Holy Ghost Hospital has been since erected on part of the ruins of the Friary."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 698. et seq.

WATERGRASS-HILL, in the Barony of Barrymore, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 5 m. S. b. W. from Rathcormuck.

WATER-PARK, in the Barony of ———, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It gives title of Baron to the family of Cavendish.

WATTLE BRIDGE, in the Barony of Coole, Co. of Fermanagh, and Province of Ulster. It is 9¾ m. N. from Cavan. It is situate on the River Fina. Here are the ruins of a Temple of the Druids.

WEEME, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster. According to Mr. Archdall, there was an Abbey here for Canons Regular following the Rule of St. Augustin, which was dedicated to St. John the Evangelist.

WELLS, in the Barony of Idrone, Co. of Carlow, and Province of Leinster: a R., with the Chapel of Ballynockan, being the Corps of the Deanery of Leighlin, which is valued in the King's Books at £5..6..8 Irish Money: no Church, but one intended to be built, and now waiting for a new site: no Glebe House: six Glebes; the first, containing 2 roods; the second, 2 a. 0 r. 10 p.; the third, 3 a. 2 r. 0 p.; the fourth, 0 a. 3 r. 1 p.; the fifth, 1 a. 2 r. 22 p.; these being nearly contiguous; the sixth Glebe contains 12 a. 0 r. 30 p., being two miles distant from the rest, another parish intervening: The Rev. George Maunsell, A. M., the Dean (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Curate, The Rev. Mr. Vigers, at a Salary of £10. Wells is in the Diocese of Leighlin, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. S. b. W. from Leighlin-Bridge. It is situate near the River Barrow. The Fairs are holden on Ascension-day, and 11th of December. The Deanery contains a part of the parish of Old Leighlin, and the entire parish of Wells.

WESTMORESTOWN, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Leixlip. Westmorestown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. See, Leixlip.

WESTPALSTOWN, in the Barony of Balruddery, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Clonmethon. Westpalstown is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 12 m. N. from Dublin. See, Clonmethon.

WESTPORT, in the Barony of Morisk, Co. of MAYO, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Aughaval. It is 123 m. W. N W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 1st of January, 25th of May, 6th of August, and 1st of December. It is situate on the Eastern extremity of Newport or Clew Bay. It has six Post-days in the week. It is rapidly increasing in the Linen trade, by settlers from the Northern parts of Ireland: encouraged by the very neat cottages, and gardens, and other liberal inducements, provided for them by the present Noble owner.

WEXFORD, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a Corporate Town, in which are the following parishes, viz.,

ST. IBERIUS, a Rectory Impropriate.

ST. MARY'S, a Rectory and Vicarage; the Rectory is valued in the King's Books at £26..13..4 Irish Money; and the Vicarage at £15..3..8.

ST. MICHAEL'S of Feagh, an Impropriate Cure, valued in the King's Books at £2. Irish Money.

ST. PATRICK'S, a Rectory, valued in the King's Books at £20. Irish Money.

ST. SELSKAR, an Impropriate Cure.

ST. TULLOGUE, an Impropriate Cure.

all united Episcopally (except St. Patrick's), ever since 1732, to the R. of Ballybrenan, and the Impropriate Cures of Carrigg, St. John's, and St. Peter's; and united by Act of Council (including St. Patrick's), in 1772, to the Rectories of Ardcandrish, Drinagh, Kildavan, Killalogue, Maudlintown, and Rathaspeck: a Church, in repair, in the parish of St. Iberius; and a Church, at Rathaspeck, also in repair: a Glebe House, in the Town of Wexford, and several very small, and unproductive Glebes therein, and in the suburbs: two Glebes (but no Glebe House), at Rathaspeck; the first, of about 5 acres, near the church; the second, of about 3 acres: these glebes are distant about half a mile from each other: The Rev. John Elgee, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident, and discharges the duties, assisted by his Resident Curate, The Rev. Ralph Boyd, at a Salary of £75. per annum. Wexford is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 67 m. S. b. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 17th of March, 1st of May, 29th of June, 2d of August, and 1st of November. This Town sends one Member to Parliament; Patronage, in the families of Neville and Le Hunte. It is governed by a Mayor, Mayor of the Staple, Recorder, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk; and gives title of Earl, as does Waterford also, to the family of Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury in Great Britain. It is situate upon the River Slaney, which empties itself into the Ocean here. The Haven is large, but it is a Bar Harbour, and no vessels can go to the town, that draw above 10 feet water; but must load and unload in a Creek, near the mouth of the Haven, on the South side, about three miles from Wexford, where there is a sufficiency of water, but no shelter from the South-west winds. The entrance of the Haven is defended by two Forts; that on the North side, being called Fort Margaret, and the other, on the South, Fort Roselair. Provisions of all kinds are very plentiful and cheap here; particularly the finest Wild Fowl, from the month of November to May. It was called by the Danes, who built it, Wessford, and also Carman, and was formerly a place of more strength and trade than at present. Its chief export is Corn, particularly Barley and Malt. Here is a Mineral Well. The parishes in the Union of Wexford are all contiguous, except Ballybrenan, which is disunited by the intervention of the parish of Killenick, for the space of two miles: their contents are 7193 acres: the net value of the Union being £470. It has six Post-days in the week: And is the Shire and the Assizes Town for the County. The first forces from England, which attempted the Conquest of Ireland, landed here. In the Barony of Forth, adjoining to Wexford, are said to be the remains of an ancient Colony, which was planted there by King Henry the Second. These people retain their native language, manners, and many singular customs to this day. They intermarry among themselves, and have intermixed little or none with the natives. They are remarkably industrious, cleanly to an extreme, and possessed of great simplicity of manners.—" A Priory of Regular Canons, called also The Priory of St. Peter and St. Paul of Selsker; the Danes are said to have been the founders, and the family of Roche, the Patrons of the place, were munificent Benefactors. The Prior sat in Parliament as a Baron. The church yet remains with a very large tower in the centre.—The Priory of the Knights Hospitallers, founded by William Mareschal Earl of Pembroke, and dedicated to St. John and St Brigid, was, antecedent to the Templars' abolition, the grand Commandery; but on the total suppression of those Knights, the consequence of this Priory gradually diminished, and the Preceptory of Kilmainham being granted to the Hospitallers, it immediately became the Grand Commandery of their Order. There still remains part of the old church of St. John without the town walls.—The Conventual Franciscans procured a settlement for themselves in this town in the reign of King Henry III, and were reformed A. D. 1486.—Here was also an Hospital for Lepers." —Archdall's Monast. Hibern. pp. 755. et seq.

WHALEY ABBEY, v. BALLYKINE.

WHERY, v. FIRBANE.

WHIDDY, ISLAND, anciently FUCIDA INSULA, off the Barony of Bear and Bantry, Co. of Cork, and Province of Munster. It is 1¾ m. W. from Bantry It is situate in Bantry Bay. This is a very pleasant Island, of a triangular form, and the soil is excellent. In it is a Deer-Park, where are both a fresh and salt water Lake; and it is said also to abound with Rabbits, and to possess some good Orchards.

WHITE CASTLE, in the Barony of Inishowen, Co. of Donegal, and Province of Ulster. It is 10½ m. N. E. from Londonderry. It is situate upon Lough Foyle.

WHITE CHURCH, or, TEMPLEGALL, within the County of the City of Cork, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., holden with the Prebend of Subulter. White Church is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 5 m. N. from Cork. See, Subulter.

WHITE CHURCH, in the Barony of Half Rathdown, Co. of Dublin, and Province of Leinster: a Curacy, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Tallagh. White Church is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. from Dublin. See, Tallagh.

WHITECHURCH, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of Kildare, and Province of Leinster: a V. It is in the Diocese of Kildare, and Province of Dublin. This parish contains 972 acres of land.

WHITECHURCH, or, CASTLANE, in the Barony of Iverk, Co. of Kilkenny, and Province of Leinster: a R. and V., the Vicarage being valued in the King's Books at £6. Irish Money: a Church, in good repair: no Glebe House, the Glebe being lost: but the Incumbent hopes to be able to find out the bounds: The Rev. Thomas Maunsell, the Rector and Vicar (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjoining parish, and discharges the duties in person. Whitechurch is in the Diocese of Ossory, and Province of Dublin. It is 2 m. N. E. from Carrick upon Suir. It is situate upon the River Lingan. This parish contains about 1170 acres of land, all contiguous.

WHITE CHURCH, in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, Co. of Tipperary, and Province of Munster: a R. and V. It is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 3 m. S. W. from Cahir.

WHITE CHURCH, or, ALBA CAPELLA, in the Barony of Decies without Drum, Co. of Waterford, and Province of Munster: a Rectory Impropriate, and Vicarage valued in the King's Books at £10. sterling: and Episcopally united, on the 3d of May 1786, when the present Incumbent took possession of the Union, to the Vicarages of Killgobenet, Kilronan, Lackowran, and Modeligo: a Church, in repair, in the parish of White Church: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 1 a. 3 r. 3 p., near the site of the old church of Kilronan; and, at least, 10 miles distant from White Church: The Rev. Thomas Sandiford, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the adjoining parish of Affane, and discharges all the duties in person, except those of Kilronan, which are performed by the Curate of the neighbouring parish, at a Salary of £6..16..6 per annum. White Church is in the Diocese of Lismore, and Province of Cashel. It is 5¼ m. N. W. from Dungarvan. Here are several remarkable Caverns. The Fair is holden on the 5th of August. It is situate near the River Phinisk. The parishes in the Union of White Church are all contiguous, except that of Kilronan. According to the Ecclesiastical Report, the Vicarages of White Church, Lackowran, and Colligan, ought to be perpetually united; and Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of White Church, near the church, and a Glebe House built thereon. The Duke of Devonshire is the Patron of the Vicarages of White Church, and Colligan. The Bishop is the Patron of the Vicarage of Lackowran.

WHITE CHURCH, in the Barony of Shelburne, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: a R., united by Act of Council, on the 9th of October 1723, to the R. of Kilmakea; and constituting the Corps of the Prebend in the Cathedral of Ferns, which is valued in the King's Books at £4. Irish Money: a Church, in repair, in the parish of White Church: a Glebe House building, on a Glebe of 12 a. 0 r. 38 p., in the parish of Kilmakea: there is a Glebe also, at White Church, of two acres, contiguous to the church: these two Glebes are two miles and an half distant from each other: The Rev. Thomas Handcock, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, is resident in the neighbourhood, and discharges the duties in person. White Church is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 4 m. S. S. W. from New Ross. The parishes in the Union of White Church are contiguous; their contents being 4828 acres.

WHITECHURCH of GLINN, in the Barony of Bantry, Co. of WEXFORD, and Province of Leinster: an Impropriate Cure, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Killurin. Whitechurch of Glinn is in the Diocese of Ferns, and Province of Dublin. It is 2½ m. N. from Taghmon. See, Killurin.

WICKLOW, in the Barony of Newcastle, Co. of WICKLOW, and Province of Leinster: a V., with the Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral annexed; and Episcopally united, time immemorial, to the R. and V. of Drumkey, and the V. of Kelpole, together with the Chapels of Glanely, Kilcommon, Killesky, Killoughter, and Rathnew: the Prebend of Wicklow is valued in the King's Books at £10. Irish Money, and the V. at £3..6..8: a Church, in good order, at Wicklow; and a Chapel, in good order, at Glanely: no Glebe House: a Glebe, of 32 a. 2 r. 22 p., at Drumkey, near the church; another, of 4 acres, one mile from the church; and a third, of 3 a. 3 r. 27 p., near Glanely: The Rev. Robert Baylis Dealtry, LL. D., the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and a Stall in the Cathedral: the duties are performed by two Resident Curates, viz., The Rev. Robert Porter, of Wicklow, at a Salary of £75. per annum, and also from the County, for attending the Gaol, £30.: The Rev. James Corcoran, of Glanely, at a Salary of £100. per annum. Wicklow is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 24 m. S. S. E. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on the 28th of March, Ascension-day, 12th of August, and 25th of November. It is situate on the Irish Sea. It has six Post-days in the week. It is the Shire Town, and where the Assizes are holden; and gives title of Viscount to the family of Howard. The Magistrates are a Portrieve, and Recorder.

WILLESTOWN, v. CARRICKPARSON.

WILLIAMSTOWN, v. BALLYMACWILLIAM.

WILLTOWN, in the Barony of Clonchee, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 2 m. S. from Bailieborough.

WITTER, in the Barony of Ardes, Co. of DOWN, and Province of Ulster: a V., united by Charter, by James I, in 1609, to the Rectories of Ardquin and Inch; no Church: no Glebe. Witter is in the Diocese of Down, and Province of Armagh. It is 2 m. S. E. from Strangford. This parish contains 1820 acres of land. It is situate at the entrance of Strangford Lough. See, Inch.

WOLSTAN'S, ST., in the Barony of Salt, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster. It is 2 m. S. W. from Leixlip.—"A Priory was founded here in the year 1202, for Canons of the Order of St. Victor, by Adam de Hereford, in honour of St. Wolstan, Bishop of Worcester, then newly canonized. Richard was the first Prior, to whom de Hereford granted the lands on the River Liffey, and the church of Donaghcumper. At the suppression of Religious Houses, it was granted to Allen of Norfolk, Master of the Rolls, in the year 1538, and afterwards Lord Chancellor: in whose family it continued to the year 1752, when, by a Decree of the Court of Exchequer, it was sold, and purchased by Dr. Robert Clayton, Bishop of Clogher, by whom it was bequeathed to his niece Anne, wife to Dr. Thomas Bernard, Bishop of Killaloe. The present House was built by one of the Allens, a man well known for his skill in architecture; he planned the noble House at Sigginstown, in this County, intended for the unfortunate Earl of Stafford: considerable alterations and additions have been made here by The Right Reverend owner, and St. Wolstan's is now an elegant edifice. The ancient Priory was of a considerable extent; but now there only remain two towers and two large gateways arched."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 339.

WOODFORD, in the Barony of Tullaghagh, Co. of CAVAN, and Province of Ulster. It is 4 m. E. N. E. from Ballynamore.

WOODFORD, in the Barony of Leitrim, Co. of GALWAY, and Province of Connaught; in the parish of Ballinakill. It is 5½ m. W. S. W. from Portumna. The Fairs are holden on the 12th and 13th of May, and 2d and 3d of October. See, Lickmolassy.

WOOL, or, MOLL GRANGE, v. BURNCHURCH.

TORONTO ATHENÆUM INSTITUTED 1842

Y.

YAGOE, in the Barony of Naas, Co. of KILDARE, and Province of Leinster: a Prebend, and Vicarage: the Prebend being valued in the King's Books at £10..16..8 Irish Money: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Hon. and Rev. Thomas St. Lawrence, the Prebendary (in 1806), who has a Stall in the Cathedral: the Vicarage, being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Ballymore Eustace. Yagoe is in the Dioceses of Dublin and Glandelagh, and Province of Dublin. It is 3 m. E. b. S. from Kilcullen-Bridge. See, Ballymore Eustace.

YOUGHAL, in the Barony of Arra, Co. of TIPPERARY, and Province of Munster: a R. and V., being one of the parishes which constitute the Union of Castletown. Youghal is in the Diocese of Killaloe, and Province of Cashel. It is 4½ m. N. W. from Nenagh. It is situate upon the River Shannon. See, Castletown.

YOUGHALL, within the Liberties of the same, Co. of CORK, and Province of Munster: The Wardenship of the Collegiate Church of Youghall is valued in the King's Books at 100 Marks, and united in Perpetuity to the See of Cloyne, by Act of Council, in 1639, together with the V. of Gurraue Kenefich, the R. of Killowillan, and the Particle of Trabolgan; and with which the Union of Aghada is holden in Commendam: The Collegiate Church, in repair: no Glebe House, or Glebe: The Right Rev. William Bennet, D. D., Lord Bishop of Cloyne, the Incumbent (in 1806), who has cure of souls, and resides in his See House, at the distance of 12 miles; the duties of the parish being performed by his two Curates, The Rev. John Swaine, and The Rev. Thomas Hoare, at a Salary of £100. per annum to each. Youghall is in the Diocese of Cloyne, and Province of Cashel. It is 115 m. S. W. from Dublin. The Fairs are holden on Ascension-day, and 18th of October. This Town sends one Member to Parliament: Patron, The Earl of Shannon. It is an ancient Corporation, and is governed by a Mayor, two Bailiffs, and a Town Clerk. It is situate upon the River Blackwater, near the entrance of a Bay to which it gives name, on St. George's Channel. It has six Post-days in the week. See, Aghada.—"A Monastery was founded here for Franciscans, on the South side of the Town, in the year 1224, by Maurice Fitzgerald. There are no traces of this Friary remaining.—The Dominican Friary, called The Friary of St. Mary of Thanks, was founded at the North end of the town in the year 1268, or 1271, by Thomas Lord Offaly, who was interred here in 1296, or 1298. Of this ancient building nothing now remains, save the West end of the Nave and a small part of the East window."—Archdall's Monast. Hibern. p. 80.

THE END.

PRINTED BY WILLIAM SAVAGE, BEDFORD BURY, LONDON.

DA 979 C38

Carlisle, Nicholas
A topographical dictionary of Ireland

For use in the Library ONLY

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE
CARDS OR SLIPS FROM THIS POCKET

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO LIBRARY

For use in the Library ONLY